Protect Tenants From Moving During Winter

The Examiner's item the other day about rights of property owners in obtaining possession of houses was not complete in its information, according to a W.P.T.B. statement, and thereby was misleading in some seeming effects.

It is true that the tenant of a house is protected by an Order-in-Council from the necessity of having to vacate it during the period from September 30 to March 31. That regulation prevents winter moving and its distress. The point of the news article on the tenancy question was that if owners do not give notice before Friday of their wish to terminate a tenant's lease, they will be unable to get possession until after March 31, 1945.

Those facts were pointed out on the information received from several realty men.

Can't Delay

For instance, notice given today, March 29, would be effective six months hence, on September 29; but the owner who would put off the notice-giving could not expect to get possession during the period from September 31 to March 31.

In addition to these facts which were set out, it may be said that a landlord can give notice any time he wishes to do so, but he cannot put a tenant out of a house during those six months of fall and winter from October 1 to May 1. Six months' notice must be given to the tenant.

For example, an owner gives notice on Christmas Day; six months later he should have possession. That would be June 25. Notice given on February 15, would be effective six months later. But, moving vans are barred during the six winter months. That is the fact which W.T.P.B. pointed out as having been overlooked.

Mr. Churchill's War Report

Sufficient time has now passed for Mr. Churchill's Sunday address to sink in, and for us to venture a few opinions which have not been formed within a few hours of hearing his voice. It was a fine address, certainly, though it will not rank with the great Prime Minister's best. Great addresses demand great occasions, and as Mr. Churchill pointed out, the past year has shown steady progress toward victory, but little that was spectacular. It was not an address in the grand manner; indeed, it had an air of intimacy which was more reminiscent of one of Mr. Roosevelt's fireside chats than of Mr. Churchill's broadcasts to the Empire, and the latter half of it was frankly political in content.

"Now, my friends—as your unfailing kindness encourages me to call you — I am a man who has no unsatisfied ambitions except to beat the enemy and to help you in any way I think right, and therefore I hope you will not suppose that in what I am going to say I am looking for votes or trying to glorify this party or that". In these words Mr. Churchill opened the second part of his speech, and from that point what he said was intended for consumption in the British Isles. But it was far from being without interest for us. For what was Mr. Churchill talking about? Was it not about the fanatical desire of reformers and planners of all kinds to force schemes upon the government, and to urge the government to commit itself to lines of action, and to abuse and discredit the government when it would not be bamboozled? And may we not observe this folly in Canada, or in Australia, or in the United States as well as in England? Referring to his address a year ago the Prime Minister said: "I dwelt on how wrong it would be to make promises which could not be fulfilled and for one set of politicians to try to outbid another in visionary scheming . . ." And yet this is precisely what the democratic governments of the world are being urged to do.

* * *

Democratic wartime governments can scarcely hope to retain their popularity. They are called upon to perform tasks which tax their individual members to the uttermost, and they are likewise expected to lift the nation to a high pitch of achievement. Of course they make mistakes, and there are always detractors to exaggerate these slips of judgment. And, owing to the nature of democracy, there is always an opposition which is in duty bound to insist that everything which is being done should be done some other way; an opposition is absolutely necessary, but in wartime an opposition has a remarkably easy task, for it has no responsibility to prosecute a war, and can pose as being patriotic when it is really being obstructive. And, as Mr. Churchill told us with some bitterness, there are always the planners, the clever ones who are so concerned with what is to happen after the war that they appear to forget that the war is still to be won.

* * *

Mr. Churchill's references to the coming invasion were intentionally vague and misleading. He spoke of "false alarms, feints and dress rehearsals". For so long have we heard about the invasion of Europe that for many it has come to mean little; and yet it might come tomorrow, for anything which we can possibly say to the contrary. One thing is clear, however; it is not being planned with any allowance for failure. When it comes—and how long the peoples of Europe have waited for it only they know—it must succeed. Mr. Churchill's imperturbality and taciturnity on the subject should give us new hope and new patience.

Behind The Japanese Lines

It is interesting to learn from New Delhi that Major-General Orde Charles Wingate is in Burma harassing the Japs once again. By this time the story of Wingate's Raiders, who penetrated the Jap lines in Burma in 1943 and disorganized the enemy's lines of supply, is well known. Because the raiding band worked in small groups, and received its supplies from airplanes, it was impossible for the Japs to know from which direction the next attack would come, and the effect on the enemy's morale was one of the chief justifications for Wingate's unconventional form of warfare.

Wingate is convinced that he can make better jungle fighters out of ordinary British troops than the Japs can make out of their best men with years of jungle experience. The Japs, Wingate insists, are clever and resourceful, but they are essentially second-rate fighters and planners and they are slow to adapt themselves to new threats and new conditions of war. Therefore he trains his men to supply situations and threats which the Japs have not thought of, and his operations have been strikingly successful in consequence.

Jungle fighting is said to be the hardest sort of fighting that a soldier can be called upon to undertake. It demands stamina, cunning and versatility of the highest order. Wingate trains his men so vigorously for operations that one veteran of his 1943 raid said "The operation was a piece of cake compared to the training". But Wingate has proved his case; he can make a better jungle-fighter out of a British soldier, who perhaps never saw a plant larger than an aspidistra before he went to Burma, than the Japs can make out of their most experienced troops. It is good to know that the redoubtable Wingate is on the warpath once again.

Who Speaks For France?

In 1940 France was defeated by the Germans under extremely humiliating circumstances; the full story of the fall of France is not known now and will not be known for some time, but it is clear that internal weakness of a discreditable kind had much to do with bringing that great nation low. Now it might appear to a disinterested observer—if so rare a person could be found—that France was in a position similar to that of Holland, Poland and other occupied countries, and would be glad to collaborate with those of the United Nations who are still fighting as free peoples in any action which would contribute to the eventual restoration of France to her former free condition.

But it is not so. Other occupied areas have governments in exile which speak for them. France has none. But the French Committee of Liberation in Algiers, which is led by General Charles de Gaulle, demands that it be recognized as the authentic government of France, and behaves very haughtily whenever its claim is questioned. When the continent is invaded the Algiers group wants to have complete command over French affairs. Speaking recently to the French Consultative Assembly in Algiers, de Gaulle said: "France, which gave liberty to the world, is still its champion and does not need to listen to what is said outside her frontiers regarding her own destiny. As for the provisional government of the Republic, it does not need any lesson from anyone except the French nation which it directs".

That is tall talk. Indeed, it is French tall talk, which has always been a little taller than French ability to make it good. The French people did not elect General de Gaulle and his friends to rule them or direct them, and certainly the Algiers committee directs French action in an extremely limited sense. As a champion of liberty France showed to poor advantage in 1940, and as for the claim that she gave liberty to the world, every nation, doubtless including the Hottentots, has made it at one time or another. The cold fact is that de Gaulle's committee has a very doubtful claim to be recognized as a French government, and is piqued because both Britain and the U.S. continue to regard its doings with a calmly speculative eye.

Every defeated nation suffers from an inflamed sense of national honour. General de Gaulle and his followers choose to regard Anglo-American coolness as an insult toward France, when in fact it is merely a reasonable dubiety about themselves. The first job, as Britain and America see it, is to put France on its legs again, and they may reasonably doubt if the best way to do that is to turn it over to a government which it did not elect.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Do you recall the days when income and outgo were not synonymous terms?

German communiques insist on referring to the retreat to Rumania as "withdrawal according to plan". Yes, Stalin's plan.

A Toronto columnist says that "it is rather cheap to earmark things we need for ourselves as memorials to the fallen in battle", referring, presumably, to memorial halls, memorial parks, and the like. His theory, apparently, is that a really suitable memorial is something expensive but useless.

Outbreaks of the Comic Spirit

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

BOOKS which are written chiefly to amuse and enliven the reader are very few these days. It is as though most of our writers, being ashamed of what they secretly look upon as a trivial calling, strove to be momentous in order to be in keeping with the times; the result has been an avalanche of dull and pretentious novels. Writers gifted with truly comic perception even in small degree have always been rare; now that many of the less gifted among them have sought to express themselves in the epic manner the few who remain shine brighter than ever. It has been a matter of the highest satisfaction to me to read during the past fortnight two works illuminated by the Comic Spirit: they are "Now I Lay Me Down To Sleep" by Ludwig Bemelmans (Macmillan) and "Growing Up" by Angela Thirkell (Musson). Because they have given me so much pleasure I recommend them without reserve; anything which I say about them in the remainder of this column should not be allowed to prevent the reader from rushing off to the bookshop to get them as soon as possible. Provided, of course, that the reader likes funny books; if he prefers revelations of Nazi perfidy a book to his taste is published twice daily.

◇ ◇ ◇

PERHAPS I should not have described these books as "funny"; the word may suggest the conscientious facetiousness of Wodehouse or the carefully plotted drollery of the late W. W. Jacobs; or it might be taken to suggest something gusty and button-bursting in the Rabelaisian manner. Neither book is anything like that. Bemelmans' first novel tells of an immensely wealthy South American General who, when war comes, transports himself and his peculiar retinue from the South of France to his home in South America, only to be destroyed there by an earthquake. This theme the author embroiders with his own richness of fancy, knowledge of the world, and observation. Some critics, who have felt themselves called upon to become stern moralists and lay preachers since Pearl Harbour, have seen in this book a bitter attack upon the folly and self-indulgence of the very rich; nothing could be further from the truth. Bemelmans thinks that very rich people are often silly, it is true, but he does not delude himself that those who scrape and scratch for a living are any wiser or better. He accepts the world and writes of it as he knows it; because he has a very generous share of the Comic Spirit in his nature he inevitably and naturally writes highly comic books.

◇ ◇ ◇

MRS. Thirkell's book might be described as "the mixture as before," and if you like the mixture it will suit you admirably. The great popularity of this lady's novels both in Britain and in the United States makes me ask myself a number of questions which would annoy the post-war planners. First, if England is to be completely changed, as we are assured it will be, why do so many people want to read books about an aspect of English life which would not survive a revolution? Second, if county society and Old Families are objects of mockery to the young Britons of today, why do they lap up these books which glorify those things? Third, if the U.S. is really democratic why does it absorb so many copies of fiercely undemocratic books? And so on, for all my quesetions are really the same question in slightly different forms. The answer clearly is that Mrs. Thirkell knows what she is doing better than the post-war planners. In "Growing Up" we have the familiar characters— the charming middle-aged invalid who is much more wonderful than anyone else in the book, her good-hearted but bone-headed husband whom she constantly scores off, the doting young mother, the devoted young wife, the lovers who never allow their passion to rise above 72 degrees Fahrenheit, and the servants and lower class persons who are invariably grotesque but faithful—and the pleasure of the book comes entirely from its skillful writing. I was a little disappointed that Mrs. Thirkell did not include one of her nasty Welshmen in this book; as a part Welshman myself I relish the powerful (if unreasonable) spite which she manages to crowd into these characterizations — feminine authorship at its most entertaining—and I hope that she may see fit to give us another anti-Celtic scratch in her next book.

LUDWIG BEMELMANS and Angela Thirkell seem much farther apart than in truth they are. They both write about people of wealth, influence and a reasonable amount of culture because they honestly believe that these people are more interesting than people who are mediocre in every respect. Wealth and poverty show a man as he really is; when he struggles for a genteel competence or a little less he is warped from his true character by a hundred considerations of expediency. Both are delighted by the eccentricities and contradictions which are to be found in those who consider themselves entirely normal and gifted with common sense. Both are conscious of the tricks that Fate plays with us all, and the feebleness of the grip which we have on our destinies. Looking at life as they do, they cannot help laughing, and as they laugh they make us laugh too. In these days they are invaluable, and if the world were properly governed they would each receive a generous yearly pension from their grateful countries.

Airman and His Horse

In the publication Answers, there is recorded the story told by an R.A.F. man who says that when the Royal Air Force was formed, the Stationery Office was told to prepare a special edition of King's Regulations by altering the word "soldier" to "airman" wherever "soldier" occurred in the book that was the basis of army discipline. This was done—and even now, the informant asserts, one paragraph of the R.A.F. version reads: "No airman may sleep more than 100 yards away from his horse."—Sarnia Canadian Observer.

On a Street Car at 3 a.m.

Stepping on a Vancouver street car one Sunday afternoon recently, a passenger was startled to hear the conductor ask him how he felt. He said he felt fine and why shouldn't he? The conductor then enquired if the passenger remembered boarding another car about three o'clock the previous morning. The man said he did and why shouldn't he?

"Do you recall offering your seat to a lady?" enquired the conductor.

"Certainly," snapped the now irritated fare. "What's so unusual about that?"

"Nothing," smiled the conductor, "except that you and the lady happened to be the only passengers on the car."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

WOMEN ARE NOT FREE TO CHOOSE

Sir,—We can forbear no longer. We must yield to the temptation of replying to the bait dangled in an editorial titled "It's a Woman's World."

"Is it not true that women choose their husbands at least as often as husbands choose their wives"? you ask.

In our society this is really not the case. The great majority of girls do wait until they are asked before taking steps toward marriage, and if she is jilted it is no folk-lore that word quickly spread among her male acquaintances. This certainly does not increase a girl's prestige. Yet if Dorothy Dix is a good criterion of popular opinion—and sociologists claim this is so—marriage is still the most popular and honourable of careers for women. Obviously, a husband is a necessary adjunct to the scheme. Not that young ladies think in such objective terms. They want at least a semblance of romance a la movies, so that they may think themselves in love and so entitled to marriage. Marriages arranged by parents are repudiated by a generation which believes itself emancipated, and marriage of convenience frowned upon as callous. So Love is King. Should a girl make the mistake of thinking to share a man by declaring her affection and demanding her rights she loses him forever, and the young stalwart congratulates himself while looking for a more adroit maiden who allows him to be the Pursuer.

However, a man has greater scope in his choice of a mate for various reasons. In the first place, under our unhappy system men are eligible for marriage for a much greater length of time than are women. An eligible young bachelor of thirty looks to the desirable young maids of twenty. The charming women of thirty, he thinks, are already married. I do not imply he is right. I merely suggest that the intelligent and interesting young women who have followed careers are not so breezily adaptable as their younger sisters, nor as poised and fascinating in the presence of men as the young matrons, since they lack the self-confidence which must almost inevitably come to any woman who has lived on intimate terms with her husband.

In the second place the "double standard" is still used. Since men can and do go to bed with girls without loss of reputation and without encumbering themselves with responsibilities, they are less likely to "fall in love" with every girl they take out a few times. Frequently young men put off marrying until they are financially secure, and then they look around and make a careful choice from the respectable virgins.

Girls who are not heiresses must make the most of their youth. In the majority of cases they really desire marriage for the acquired status rather than gratification of sexual desire. Only the very intelligent, or the morons, realize the delight and the need of the other, intimate, side of marriage. May I quote from a story by Michael Arlen?

"We dream of lovers equal to the gaieties and the ardours of love—and all we get is a man in search of a mother to protect him, a repentant fool, a jealous bully, or a pathetic child. I wish someone would tell me what flaw there is in men that makes them unworthy of straightforward gifts, of which love should be the first. But no, we cannot give them love and passion with both hands, frankly, we must corrupt our surrender with evasions and retreats, we must act or pretend or tease—else they will not cherish the gift".

So there is the speech of an intelligent woman who loved men. Yet was she allowed to look around, to experiment and to try to find her equal in love before committing herself by her marriage vows? Of course she was not!

In summing up I would say that because of the desirability of the state of matrimony, the pressure of time, confining convention and the philosophical acceptance by the girl that the first good provider who offers himself is worth several elusive Clark Gables, a man may marry pretty well whom he likes, and at least he has but to ask a sufficient number of girls in order to find a wife (provided, of courses, that like the Sensible and Undeluded Modern he is, he takes to heart the brilliantine, mouth-wash and soap advertisements).—Very truly yours,

CLAUDIA.

Is the Liberal Party Finished?

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

IN its editorial yesterday, on the result of the by-election in Haldimand-Norfolk, The Toronto Globe and Mail had this to say:

"It was a defeat for the Liberal Party, which has forsaken Liberal principles to vie with the Socialists for support, and is clearly on the way out in Ontario."

Surely that must be wistful thinking. Parties have their ups and downs. The Liberal party has had them and so has the Conservative party. A party may be down, but if it has principles—honest principles—which it advocates for the good of the country, it is never out.

History is usually a safe guide. The Conservative party was out of power in Ontario from 1871 to 1905—34 years. It was then returned to power with Hon. J. P. Whitney as Premier, and retained power until 1919. In that year, however, the Conservatives were overwhelmingly defeated, retaining only 25 seats out of 111. That was the great era of the U.F.O. and many, in their haste, said a new day had dawned and the Conservative party was "on the way out." But was it? By no means. Four years later it was returned to power with 76 seats out of 111. Eleven years later, however, the Conservatives suffered a bad defeat and secured only 17 seats out of 90, the representation of the Province having been cut down in the meantime. This, by the way, was one more seat than the Liberals hold in the present Legislature. For purposes of comparison, it is also interesting to note that in the Ontario Legislature the Liberals hold one-sixth of the total seats, and in the Dominion Parliament the Progressive Conservatives hold less than one-sixth of the total number of seats.

The Liberal party is not on the way out in Ontario, nor is it reduced to 16 seats because it forsook Liberal principles to vie with Socialists for support. It was thrown out of power because it had made the people mad. It had become arbitrary and among other sins it had committed was the inexcusable one of refusing the free citizens of Ontario the right of appeal to the courts in connection with certain departmental decisions affecting estates. Furthermore, the people were confused and disgusted by the constant abuse of the Dominion Prime Minister, and the desire of a part of the Liberal party of Canada to be greater than the whole. The Liberal party of Ontario suffered for its own sins, and that is why it was defeated.

The people of Ontario like change. In the last election, on August 4th, 1943, they divided their vote three ways as in 1919. The Progressive Conservatives got 440,467 votes; the C.C.F. 380,320, and the Liberals 376,814. A party which comes within 63,000 votes of the winners can hardly be said to be on the way out. Furthermore, the Liberals polled within 3,506 votes of the C.C.F. but nevertheless they got 20 fewer seats than the Socialist party.

The future of the Liberal party in Ontario, as of any party, depends upon itself. If it is mindful of the people's interests and supports and advocates liberal legislation, its old supporters will again rally to its cause and it will again return to power eventually. For no government lasts forever. It acquires "political barnacles" from the day it attains power, and eventually they weigh it down and sink it.

Two parties are necessary in the Province. If, as The Globe and Mail predict, the Liberal party is on the way out in Ontario, the alternative is Socialism. For despite the support given to a very popular candidate in Charles Martin in the Haldimand-Norfolk by-election, the C.C.F. doubled it vote, as compared with last August and today has almost as many seats as the Government.

A Bible Message

And I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God.... And my speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power: that your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God....

But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God. For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God.

Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God. (I Cor. 2: 1, 4, 5, 9-12.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Why low heels?" asked her friend in surprise.

"I want them to go with a short lieutenant."

Counsel looked sternly at the man in the dock. "Did you, or did you not, on the date in question, or at any time previously or subsequently, say, or even intimate to the defendant or anyone else, whether friend or mere acquaintance, or, in fact, a stranger, that the statement imputed to you whether just or unjust, and denied by the plaintiff, was a matter of no moment or otherwise? Answer me! Did you or did you not?"

The man in the dock clutched at his throat. "Did I, or did I not, what?" he gasped.

Who's a Plutocrat?

In the good old days, Labor agitators of a certain "school" used to have great fun deriding and denouncing the so-called "white collar workers." According to the agitators, anyone who wore a white collar was in danger of becoming a plutocrat, and was certainly barred from the proletariat.

Some folk still harbor such silly prejudices, but for the most part, Labour has grown up and learned how to act its age. It is even willing to concede that businessmen, industrialists and other executives actually do a considerable amount of work!

But if the trend goes on as at present, the public may soon witness the unexpected spectacle of "Capital" accusing "Labour" of being plutocratic! Nor is this as Alice-in-Wonderlandish as may appear at first glance. To illustrate: Labour, in the U.S., has no more potent Czar than Mr. James Caesar Petrillo, "big boss" of the A.F. of L. musicians. He it was who ordered and achieved a prolonged "strike" of instrumentalists and singers in the matter of making records for certain companies. (A War Labour Board recommendation, incidentally, now urges that this strike be ordered "off.") As to the "plutocrat" aspect, the development draws to the public's attention the statement that Mr. Petrillo, Labour leader, gets a salary of $46,000 a year, a neat little emolument many a poor Capitalist would be glad to receive. Similar cases might be mentioned, but this serves to illuminate the point. It looks as though the term "plutocrat" might be scheduled to follow that other old-timer, "class consciousness," into the discard. —Brantford Expositor.

Exposing a Menace

"Parents," says the Ottawa Junior Board of Trade, "owe it to their children to enable them to attain a complete and intelligent understanding to venereal diseases." And this coming week the Board is conducting a most energetic campaign to accomplish just that.

Some weeks ago The Journal drew attention to the very alarming figures on the prevalence of venereal diseases in Canada—including the Ottawa area—and urged strongly that the people should stir themselves against the prudery and secrecy that cloaks these diseases. The Ottawa Junior Board of Trade has accepted the challenge. The intention of the campaign is to expose the realities of the menace.

No one who knows anything about the horrors of the situation will question the propriety of holding a mass meeting at the Glebe Collegiate on Tuesday night to discuss venereal diseases. The Minister of Pensions and National Health and the Mayor of Ottawa are among the guest speakers and The Journal has nothing but the highest commendation for this and any other forthright effort to bring this dread business into light.—Ottawa Journal.

Soldier In India Grateful For Roseneath Gift Box

ROSENEATH, March 29—(ENS)—An airgraph letter was received on Saturday from Lieut. G. Wallis Field of the India Command. It will be of interest to his many friends and friends and patients of his father, Dr. G. H. Field, and of Mrs. Field, Roseneath.

The letter acknowledging a parcel received from the ladies of Alnwick township was received by Mrs. Elizabeth Braithwaite, one of the secretaries of the overseas parcel committee. The parcel in question was mailed October 20, 1943.

The letter, which was dated March 1, read:

"Will you please convey to all the ladies of Alnwick my sincere thanks for the parcel sent to me which arrived today in pretty fair condition even after its very long journey. In fact only the biscuits are spoiled. The chocolate is very good and is the first chocolate from Canada to reach me in an eatable condition.

"The box was filled with a most generous assortment of useful things and it may interest you to know what articles pleased me most when I unpacked the box. They were, firstly, the ointment and cough drops. Just a few weeks ago, I finished the last of a box of ointment which I had kept during nearly six years I had been away from Canada. Next, razor blades and shaving cream—most valuable out here. Then handkerchiefs, chocolate, gloves and cigarettes. If I were in England, of course cigarettes would be more important as they are so scarce there, but the supply out here is not too bad.

"Owing to orders I can tell you nothing about our work, nor can I even tell you where we are. But we do have a winter in this part of India which is just about over. In fact in another two months we shall have a temperature over 100, where it will stay for months on end, sometimes reaching 120 (in the shade of course), so I will not be sorry to see Canada again some day. In the meantime it is nice to be remembered by you. I have just eaten the first of the Christmas cake and it is excellent."

Without doubt the very heart of a Drug Store is its prescription department. The responsibility of compounding a doctor's prescription exactly as the doctor prescribes, is indeed a serious one and one that is recognized by all true pharmacists. It is, of course, most obvious that the highest degree of efficiency, in the operation of any dispensary, is most imperative to warrant the confidence of the members of the medical profession, and that you also in "time of sickness" may have the complete assurance that your prescription, both as to ingredients and compounding, will be most accurate and in turn naturally provide for you the greatest possible benefit. Your Tamblyn Drug Store deeply appreciates the confidence of its patrons—so clearly indicated by their ever increasing dispensing activities and indeed assures you that whatever "your doctor" may prescribe "for you", will be exactly what you will receive.

Wild Scramble Features Wrestling Bout

Big Karl Davis pinned Frank Sexton's shoulders to the mat for what looked to be the decisive fall in the main bout of the Tunney wrestling card at the Brock Street Arena Tuesday night, followed it up by felling Referee Ernie Powers and drop-kicking a goal with him from the 30-yard line and all he got out of these exploits was a loss.

It was a wild ending to a bout that had been packed full of tobasco.

Davis took the first fall after 18 minutes with a series of body slams and Sexton evened it up eight minutes later with an airplane swing.

Both battlers were going all out for the fall that meant a win and it was total war on all fronts until the incident that caused the grand blow-off.

Decision Reversed

The Texan had driven his opponent to the ropes and Sexton's foot was tangled in the lower strand. As Powers started to move in to break the gladiators Davis tossed the Ohio stylist to the mat and pinned his shoulders. Referee Powers counted Sexton out but almost simultaneously he noticed how the Columbus grappler was trussed up in the ropes and reversed his decision. He motioned for the wrestlers to go ahead with the bout.

Davis, who thought the win was in the bag, went berserk. He tore into the big referee with a barrage of lefts and rights to the jaw, knocked him to the canvas and planted a couple of kicks on the anatomy of the prostrate official. Sexton tried to rescue Powers and he and the furious Texan were exchanging punches when the dazed referee got to his feet and raised Sexton's arm to indicate that he had disqualified Davis and given the fall to his opponent. Davis was fit to be tied, but got no sympathy from the crowd who wildly cheered the decision.

"Where do they get their referees up here?" the angry Texan muttered as he stomped belligerently out of the ring.

It was a terrific struggle all the way. Davis, always tough, was more ornery than ever last night and Sexton, usually a clean performer, had no other choice than to fight it out according to the Texan's tune. The trouble started even before the bout got under way for Davis came into the ring with the knuckles of his right hand taped and although Sexton and the fans objected the battle opened with the Krippler still wearing the tape.

Not Red Tape Either

And right off the reel he began to use it. He clamped a series of headlocks on the Ohio mat star and then rubbed the tape across his eyes repeatedly until Sexton was staggering around half-blinded. However he fought back and honors were even in a series of hectic exchanges in which everything went. Finally however Davis settled the argument for the time being by softening Sexton up with drop-kicks and then finishing the job with three body slams, spreading his rival for the fall after the third one.

There was no letup when the second round opened. Davis came back to the attack and for a while it looked as if he were going to wind it up by taking the second fall in a hurry. He had Sexton in difficulties several times and the Ohio wrestler had to call on all his cleverness to escape. However, he got an opening himself soon after and cashed in. Picking the big Texan up he raised him high in the air and spun him around seven or eight times in an airplane swing before dropping him with a thud onto the canvas and pinning him for the fall. Referee Powers didn't waste much time on the count at that. There was plenty of action in the last round before the stormy and unexpected ending. Sexton nearly took the fall with one of the favorite Davis holds, a stepover toe hold but the Texan finally kicked his way out of that one. Then came the reversed decision, the attack on Referee Powers and the disqualification of the Texan.

A Classy Battle

Frank Judson, football coach and a mighty capable wrestler, staged a classy exhibition of strength and wrestling science in a semi-final battle with the popular Toar Morgan. Outside of a couple of elbow slams by Judson, curbed by a hefty punch by the former Marine, the two adhered closely to wrestling, and they put on a refreshing demonstration of clever holds and releases. Morgan, heavier than he has been in any of his previous bouts here and also looking faster, made some smart moves that drew cheers from the crowd. At that, however, Judson looked to have a shade the better of the argument and he appeared to be on his way to win, when Morgan suddenly brought the struggle to an unexpected finish when he broke through Judson's defence with a vicious flying tackle, followed it up by two more and after the third pounced on the footballer and nailed him for the fall after 16 minutes.

Powers Takes a Hand

Jan Gotch and the lively Hamilton mat artist, Jack Wentworth, fought thirty lively minutes to a draw and the Pitiless Pole was a trifle fortunate at that for the bell rang just in time to save him after Wentworth had almost knocked him back to Toronto with three deftly applied flying tackles that hit the Pole like a flying torpedo. Gotch used all the back-alley tactics he remembered—and his memory proved remarkably accurate—and Wentworth took a series of rides but the Hamiltonian stayed in there battling and handed out his share of punishment. The crowd got the biggest kick out of the bout however when big Ernie Powers, unable to make Gotch break a hold on the ropes, brought one up from the floor and handed the Pole a rabbit punch that almost shot his head out into the third row of ring-side seats.

Powers had a busy night refereeing all three bouts. Fred Scates introduced the battlers and also was official custodian of the stop-watch as well as property man, for he had to take care of the odd bath-robe.

DARTMOUTH WINS TOURNAMENT — Dartmouth defeated Ohio State, 60 to 53, to take first place in the finals of the N.C.A.A. Eastern basketball tournament in Madison Square Garden, New York. Here Harry Leggatt (17) Dartmouth right forward, and Paul Huston (3) of Ohio State both grab for the ball and only succeed in getting mixed up.

Mad Russian Worries Cubs

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP)—Lou Novikoff, the "Mad Russian," apparently is up to his old trick of giving Chicago Cubs a headache.

The slugging outfielder is among the absentees from the Bruins' spring camp at French Lick, Ind. It can be taken for granted that the James boys — Manager Wilson and General Manager Gallagher—do not like his tactics one bit.

Just as year ago when Lou stayed away until after the season started, rumors involving a Novikoff trade have started. Warren Giles, general manager of Cincinnati Reds, is reported trying to talk Wilson into a swap for the outfielder.

Meantime the Cubs learned that Pitcher Lon Warneke and Outfielder Charlie Gilbert had passed their pre-induction physical exams and that slugger Jimmy Foxx will report Saturday ready to start his comeback.

Chicago White Sox, also training at French Lick, were told by Johnny Humphries, one of their best pitchers, that he has been reclassified 1-A by his New Orleans draft board.

News from other big league camps:

Detroit Tigers — Catcher Paul Richards is scheduled to take pre-induction exam at Dallas today.

Philadelphia Phillies — Club has made last offer to holdout Coaker Triplett, General Manager Herb Pennock declared.

New York Yankees — Team purchased Second Baseman Mike Milosevich from Kansas City. Pitcher Bill Zuber reported.

Westclox girl bowlers after slipping a bit last week turned on their nearest opponents on Monday night and by taking two out of three games from the Outboard Marines strengthened their hold on first place in the Ladies City Five Pin League. The Big Bens are now in front of the heap by the substantial margin of seven points with Outboards second and Brintons still third although the carpet-makers are now 15 points off the pace, after staying close on the heels of the leaders during the early part of the race. The standing, including Monday night's games is as follows: Westclox 57, Outboard Marines 50 and Brintons 52 with Commandos in fourth place, three points behind Brintons. Westclox came up with only an average total in their battle with Outboards Monday night but at that they grabbed off two games and dropped the other one by the scant margin of two pins. A scoring display by Aggie Anderson who toppled the pins at a 733 rate was the big factor in the Westclox triumph for her total was one-quarter of the team's score. Individual scoring honors this week, however, were claimed by D. Pearson of Generals who had high three with the neat total of 742. Aggie Anderson had high single for the week with 261.

City school teachers not only know how to teach the young idea how to shoot but they apparently are able to do a little accurate shooting themselves, especially on the bowling alleys. Anyway the Aberdeens, made up of pedagogues, grabbed off first prize money in the playoffs of the Senior Y.M.C.A. Five Pin League Monday night. Total pinnage decided the winners and the Aberdeens with Fred H. Dearborn setting the pace with a 682 total, W. Brown close behind with 673 and H. H. Graham also in the 600 class put together a 3045 total and that was enough to take first prize. The Canada Packers' team who won the league championship had to be satisfied with second prize with 2956 and Commercials who had finished only a point behind the leaders on the regular schedule grabbed off third money with 2856. Artists were fourth, Tip Tops fifth, B'Nai Brith sixth and Quakers seventh.

Welland Shows The Way

Welland has blazed the way for Peterborough in successfully floating a new sports arena project. The finishing touch was put on the proposition last week when the Welland ratepayers strongly endorsed civic participation in financing the plan. Bill Gaynon has this to say about it in the Niagara Falls Review sport column: "Welland ratepayers gave a positive reply to the Arena bylaw, which was voted on last Thursday, the final tally being over three to one for a $50,000 outlay of the city's resources for the erection of a building that will cost more than triple that amount, the remainder of the required funds are being raised by public subscrpition. Therefore, the county capital takes its place beside other leading peninsula centres that have long featured winter sport, and hockey of a bigger nature will be promoted there next year. We understand that construction of the new building, which will also provide for basketball and other indoor games, will start immediately, and a centre that has been very sportminded in baseball and certain other summer games, is about to become a year-round active territory. Like St. Catharines, which has been such a success during its short ownership of an ice palace, Welland's new arena will be controlled by the parks department and civicly owned, and inhabitants of the courthouse city are due much praise for their sane stand during last week's balloting."

On Saturday night Ralph "Highpockets" McCabe boarded a south-bound train out of Toronto for Lancaster, Pa., accompanied by Manager Burleigh Grimes of the Toronto Maple Leafs ball club, writes Ken Colling in his Belleville sport column. McCabe dropped in to bid adieu on Saturday. Last season Ralph won three and lost one with the Leafs before going to the Albany Senators of the Eastern League where he won three and lost four. In the Cuban league last winter McCabe won 3 and lost 2 before a knee injury [illegible] him return home. Adolph Luque, former Cincinnati Reds' pitcher, was manager of the Cienfuegos club for which McCabe played in Cuba. Mike Gonzales, coach of the Cardinals, managed the Havana team in the loop. Incidentally Ralph weighs 195 pounds today, 20 pounds more than he tipped the beam when the 1943 ball season was over. He stands six foot six inches and says he's in great physical condition. He and Grimes were due to arrive in Lancaster yesterday. "I never felt better and this should be my big year with the Leafs. This man Grimes knows all of the angles about pitching and I'm lucky to be with the Leafs under such a good pitching coach," stated McCabe.

Canadiens And Chicago

A Canadien-Black Hawk series for the Stanley Cup seems almost certain. The Flying Frenchmen, winning their second game in a row on Toronto ice downed the Leafs 4 to 1 last night, set up a lead of three games to one in the best-of-seven series and with the next game scheduled for Montreal need only one more win to secure a berth in the finals. Toronto has probably seen its last N.H.L. hockey of the season. Chicago's lead over the second-place Detroit Red Wings, the defending champions, is exactly the same for the Hawks humiliated the Adams entry with a 7 to 1 shellacking last night. The only difference is that the Red Wings have the next game coming up on their own ice where the Hawks have been successful only once since 1940 and may prolong the series while the Maple Leafs are faced with the task of winning in Montreal to keep their chances alive. Canadiens should be in by Thursday night but the Black Hawks may have to wait until the sixth game to make sure of landing in the final round.

* * * * * *

Leafs put up a stubborn argument in Toronto last night before class finally told. They held the Flying Frenchmen scoreless in the first period and it was not until late in the middle stanza that the Canadiens broke in front with goals by Heffernan and Toe Blake. Hap Day's men fought back and Kennedy closed the gap by getting credit for a goal half way through the final session. Murphy Chamberlain turned that threat back with a neat goal and in the last minute of play when the Leafs had yanked Bibeault for another forward shot almost the length of the Gardens into the open net for another counter. At Chicago the ace line of Bentley, Smith and Mosienko was travelling a lot too fast for the Red Wings and the result was never in doubt after the first few minutes. The rivals split a pair of goals in the first half of the opening period but Billy Mosienko put the Hawks in the lead at the 11 minute mark and they never turned back after that. It was 3 to 1 at the end of the first session, and 6 to 1 at the close of the second. Chicago's first string line accounted for six of the seven goals, Bentley being the triggerman on three, two of them unassisted, Clint Smith bagging two and Mosienko one. Carl Liscombe tossed in the only Detroit marker. Worst feature of the game from a Chicago viewpoint was that Mosienko and the veteran Mush March were casualties and may miss the next game.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

That great old turf warrior, Man o'War, is 27 years of age today. Big Red is still a well-preserved piece of horseflesh down at Faraway Farm near Lexington, Kentucky. Harry B. Scott, manager of the farm, said yesterday he doesn't notice much difference in Man o'War from one year to the next.

The pride of Owner Samuel D. Riddle, Man o'War still attracts a sizeable number of visitors each year. In his two seasons of racing he set five American track marks, won 20 out of 21 races and garnered a total of $249,465.

As a sire, he has produced such performers as War Admiral and Clyde Van Dusen, winners of the Kentucky Derby; Crusader, War Relic and many others. But his last crop has been foaled. The big red stallion is in his second year of retirement from the stud.

At Bay Meadows racetrack yesterday Frank Chojnacki, widely-known jockey, rode his last race before going into the army next Monday. And he escaped injury in a spectacular accident. His mount, Sir Winsome, finished second and then got out of control, crashed through the railing and died. Chojnacki was spilled before the crash. J. K. Houssels of Las Vegas, Nev., had claimed Sir Winsome for $1,640. He had to pay also for hauling the carcass off the track.

Banquet Honors Winning Teams In Basketball

The presentation of the senior, runner-up to the senior, and the intermediate trophies to the winning teams of the Peterborough Ladies' Basketball League at a banquet Tuesday evening, marked the end of one of the most successful seasons in the history of the league. Mrs. J. H. Vernor made the presentation to the senior champions, the Transports; the runners-up, St. John's; and to the intermediate champions, the Normal School; with the captains of each team accepting the trophy on behalf of the other members.

Presentations were also made to the coaches of every team, with the captains doing the honors. Miss Beryl Dobbin, on behalf of the Transports, presented Hymie Smith with a gift in recognition of his efforts during the season. She also gave a gift to Herb Payne, who sponsored the winning team.

Miss Theresa Heslip, captain of the St. John's team, gave a token of appreciation to the coach, Bob Dwyer. Miss Helen Baird, captain of the Normal team, presented the coach, Mrs. Q. McKinney, with a gift on behalf of the Intermediate champions. Miss Dorothy Saunders, captain of the Y Cadets, gave the coach, Mrs. E. McIlhagga, a gift from the team. Since the coach of the C.G.E. team was unable to be present, Miss Mary McPherson, who was to have made the presentation, announced that Joe Stewart's gift would be sent to him, at his post with the Royal Canadian Navy.

Miss McPherson also presented Miss Caroline Littlefield, who conducted this portion of the program, with a gift on behalf of all the teams, and in her reply, Miss Littlefield payed special tribute to the girl referees. Mr. Howard Macdonald said that the gift for Mr. E. Nyman would also be sent to him.

Miss Mary McPherson was chairman for the evening, and called for few words from Mr. O. S. Shields, Mr. Howard Macdonald, Mr. Joe Cooper, and Mr. E. H. McKone.

In her opening remarks, the chairman said that the banquet was held primarily to honor the winning teams, but that it was also a get-together, to give a fitting close to another basketball season. She paid tribute to the faithful work of the coaches and referees and Mr. Macdonald, Mr. Cooper, Miss Littlefield, and Mr. Fred Craig.

A feature of the evening was a community singsong, led by Mr. Howard Macdonald, with Mrs. Mildred McBride at the piano. Miss Pauline O'Donnell accompanied by Mr. Q. McKinney, sang "Goin' Home".

The Normal School team was in charge of the decorations which were in a patriotic theme, and a committee of girls from the Y. W. residence, under the direction of Miss Betty Massey-Cooke, served.

TORONTO, March 29.—(CP). — Proposal to stage an "east-west" High school football championship next fall between Toronto and Winnipeg teams roused stormy protest in outside points which want a chance to take part in any cross-country play.

Harry (London Free Press) Eisen says that fans in western Ontario are "highly incensed and not a little indignant" over the whole thing. London, Windsor and Sarnia all have a number of good High school pigskin pusher, he say, and would like a look-see at an elimination series to decide the eastern champion. He suggests if this is not done, the game would be only an exhibition.

His point is well taken, but then promoters of the game weren't talking of a Dominion championship, but only an east-west game. And it can't be denied that Toronto is in the East and Winnipeg in the West!

Record Searchings:

Ever since Maurice Richard slammed five goals for Canadiens, ink-stained thumbs have been searching record books to locate other Stanley Cup scoring marks.

Winner by a wide margin was Frank McGee of Ottawa Silver Seven, who netted 14 against Dawson City early in the century. Then there was Joe Malone who scored seven in a game against Sydney Millionaires in 1913, and Harry Smith of Ottawa with six in a 1906 Cup game against Montreal Wanderers.

There marks were set while the scorers' teams were on scoring jamborees of their own. Nearest approach to Richard's unique one-man feat was made by Defenceman Art Duncan who netted four for Vancouver in a Stanley Cup semi-final against Regina in 1921. His defence mate scored the only other Vancouver goal. Dick Irvin played for Regina in that series.

Incidentally:

Freddie Edwards in the Fort William Times-Journal points out that both Gus Bodnar and Gaye Stewart, last year's Calder Cup winner, came from the lakehead city, which is thus the first centre to produce prize-wining rookies two years in a row.... Prince Albert, Sask., lays claiam to having the oldest curling stones in the west. They were taken west in an oxcart in 1887 and have been used every winter since.... Montreal sportsters say the Royal Montreal Curling Club is using stones dating back to 1850, and has some of 1803 vintage tucked away. The Quebec club has some of the 1837 period.... Age was no drawback to the Y.M.C.A. Crocks, Winnipeg intermediate basketball champions this year. Their average age was 32½ years, with a 22-year spread between top and bottom. Lauder Phillips, one of the survivors of the 1933 plane crash that decimated the famous old Winnipeg Toilers, played with the Crocks.

NEW YORK, March 29 — (AP). — Nearly 68 per cent of the 347 men who played in national football league games in 1941 are in the armed forces and tub-thumper George Strickler, who has been trying to list the service footballers who retired before that time complains because he has only been able to get about 150 names....The league's service roster now contains 421 names and 47 per cent of the men hold commissions......Until Sgt. Canadiens Need 1 More Game To Take Series

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 29 (CP)—The jubilant Montreal Canadiens today trained their sights on the Stanley Cup final, confident that one game in Montreal tomorrow night would wind up their best-of-seven semi-final series with Toronto Maple Leafs.

The National Hockey League champions took a 3-1 stranglehold on the series last night with a 4-1 conquest of Leafs before 13,270 fans. It was their third straight triumph at the expense of the Leafs whose only win so far in the series came in the opener in Montreal one week ago last night.

Heroes of the Montreal win were fiery Murph Chamberlain who played his first professional hockey with the Leafs and goalie Bill Durnan, the 29-year-old Toronto native whose stellar play in the Montreal goal this season won him the Vezina trophy as the year's outstanding goaltender.

Durnan Superb

Chamberlain, 29-year-old native of Shawville, Que., assisted in one Montreal goal and then scored the two final counters that made victory emphatic. One was a long shot with 12 seconds to go while the Toronto goal was unprotected, Paul Bibeault being on the bench while six players swarmed on Durnan in an effort to get the two tying goals.

The lanky Durnan was superb all the way. He was beaten only once, on a long shot by Leaf rookie Ted (Teeter) Kennedy, 18-year-old Port Colborne, Ont., youth, whose play for Toronto was outstanding.

The game was harder-fought than the score indicates. In the first period and again in much of the third the Toronto team maintained constant pressure. Winger George Boothman summed up their feelings in the dressing room after the game when he said "we're just being outlucked in this series."

First break in the close checking went to Canadiens in the second period. Jerry Heffernan scored the goal with assists going to Glen Harmon and chunky Mike McMahon. The puck was deflected by the body of one of the Toronto players standing in front of the nets but when it was over the Leafs were unable to settle just who it was. Veteran Hector (Toe) Blake added another goal before the period ended, whipping the puck past Bibeault on a play with Phil Watson and Chamberlain.

Leafs opened up with a furious drive in the third period but were unable to score until Heffernan went off for slashing. Then a power play clicked with Kennedy getting the goal and Boothman and Pratt getting assists.

But Chamberlain dashed the hopes of the Toronto fans with his first goal on a pass from Leo Lamoureux. Chamberlain's second goal probably gave him considerable satisfaction for on Saturday night he had missed the open net from close range in the final minute under similar circumstances, Bibeault also having been taken from the nets in that game.

NOT HORSE FEED

BELFAST —(CP)— Oranges are reaching the United Kingdom from the Middle East now but they are still a luxury. So John Gribbon, a carter, had to pay $15 fine for feeding oranges to his horse, an act which led to discovery the oranges had been stolen.

HAWKS WIN THIRD GAME OF STANLEY CUP PLAYOFFS — Hawks' defenceman Art Wiebe, No. 2, and Goalie Mike Karakas, No. 1, thwart the scoring attempt of Syd Howe of the Red Wings. Action was in the Chicago Blackhawks-Detroit Red Wings hockey game at Chicago stadium. The Hawks won the third game of the Stanley Cup playoffs by a 2 to 0 score.

Chicago Batters Detroit 7-1 For Third Win

CHICAGO, March 29 (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks, led by their first string line of Doug. Bentley, Clint (Snuffy) Smith and Bill Mosienko, last night overwhelmed Detroit Red Wings 7-1, to take a 3-1 edge in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final. The line accounted for six of the goals.

Bentley, 27-year-old Delisle, Sask., left winger, netted three goals and assisted in two more, while Smith, Assiniboia, Sask., centre star, scored twice and marked up two assists. Mosienko, young Winnipeg right lane player, suffered a badly bruised shoulder in last night's game but scored a goal and an assist before leaving the ice.

Cliff Purpur notched the remaining Chicago tally while Carl Liscomb provided the lone counter for Detroit.

It was a highly optimistic Chicago club that looked to Detroit for the fifth game of the series tomorrow night. However, the optimism was tempered somewhat because of Mosienko's injury which may force him from the Thursday night encounter. The Hawks may also be without the service of another right winger, Mush March, who suffered a battered knee last night.

Bentley Stars

The speed of the Bentley-Smith-Mosienko combination left the Red Wings well behind most of the time. Conny Dion had a busy session in the Detroit cage but the Hawks' fire-power proved too much for him.

Bentley started the scoring before the five-minute mark when he clicked on a play set up by Mosienko and Smith, but Liscombe's goal coming on assists from Murray Armstrong and Mud Bruneteau soon evened the score. After that the game was all in favor of the Black Hawks.

Mosienko lifted the Hawks to the fore when he converted a pass from Earl Seibert and George Allen then Smith evaded Dion to score on Bentley's pass leaving the score 3-1 when the first period closed. Going into the second period, Smith added his second goal with Bentley and Johnny Gottselig setting up the play. Bentley's second and third goals came unassisted and Purpur also scored without aid, beating Dion with only three seconds left before the final bell.

Referee Bill Chadwick kept the game in order and only eight penaltise were handed out, both teams drawing four each.

Quebec Aces Swamp Truro

HALIFAX, March 29 (CP) — A six-goal surge by Quebec Aces in the last period gave them an 8-3 victory last night over Truro Bearcats in the opener of the best-in-five Eastern Canadian Allan Cup semi-final series.

Underdogs in the pre-game calculations, Bearcats, held their own with the Quebec champions until the final period, holding a one-goal margin through practically all of the first session and fighting the Aces on fairly even terms through the second.

Lude Check, Eddie Bruneteau and Armand Gaudreault accounted for a pair of the winners goals apiece, while Bill Robinson and Nils Tremblay collected the other two.

Ab Conick, Ray Powell and Kink Macdonald were Truro's scorers.

Cobourg Airman On Overseas Team

AYR, Scotland, March 29.—(CP). —A veteran Royal Canadian Navy team swept to the coastal hockey championship of the Canadian Services in Scotland by beating a Royal Canadian Air Force aggregation 14-2 in the second of a two-game, total-goal series. The Navy took the first game, at Paisley, 4-0.

Nearly 4,000 district residents watched the lively action.

Power-house for the winners was Stoker H. M. Bell of Winnipeg, whose evasiveness and speed accounted for four goals and assists on four others. An Ontario airman, Cpl. J. Cullen, of Cobourg, assisted on one Air Force goal.

AnzioBeachhead Liability At Present Time

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 29—(AP)—With military authorities conceding the failure of the latest Cassino offensive, the Anzio beachhead is regarded as virtually a liability under present conditions.

Neverthek the situation in Italy was regarded today as looking more serious than it really is—because it is the only active land front held by the British and American forces in Europe. As other larger operations develop, it is expected, the Italian campaign will fall into its proper perspective and thus give a clear picture why its operations have been limited.

The ground situation in Italy is secure but extremely difficult from a military viewpoint.

At the Anzio beachhead south of Rome the Germans are fighting over internal lines of communication. In a single night they can move a division facing the beachhead 60 miles southeast to face the main 5th Army at Cassino, to beat off an attack there. Two nights later they can move it back, if necessary to meet any beachhead thrust.

Conversely the Allies must move troops from the beachhead to the Fifth Army or in reverse, by the slow sea route.

Clearing weather, however, may give the air forces a chance to batter a hole in the German defences just as they did in April and May last year in Tunisia.

By nature, the Allied overall battle plan for the coming campaign in western Europe, now in the full tide of preparation, committed Italy to limited operations.

Progress could be made in Italy by throwing in countless thousands of Allied troops and disregarding losses, but the British-American combined staff decided the gains would not be worth the cost.

Even the volcano Vesuvius took a hand in the picture—showering hot rocks on the surrounding area and forcing the abandonment of at least two key air fields because of damage to planes.

avoided if government undertook a prompt inquiry and a report to Commons."

The Daily Herald said the defeat was "a startling occurrence but it does not betoken a crisis," while the Daily Express declared:—

"There is no question here for a vote of confidence in the government. But the vote is a grave disappointment to the men who carry vast responsibilities. It is a wretched thing for the government to feel that an immense measure of reform can be endangered in this way."

C.C.F. Defeated 2nd Time In Legislature

TORONTO, March 29—(CP). —The budget debate ended, the Ontario Legislature to-day will deal with a comparatively light agenda of Government and private Bills, and may proceed with budget estimates.

A motion yesterday to go into Committee of Supply to consider the estimates brought the third formal division of the session when the C.C.F. official Opposition proposed an amendment regretting lack of Government action to guarantee "planned development of the natural resources of this province and social ownership of monopoly enterprise."

The Liberals, the two Labor-Progressive memebrs—A. A. MacLeod, Toronto Bellwoods, and J. B. Salsberg, Toronto St. Andrew—and Independent Liberal Mitchell Hepburn of Elgin, voted with the Government against the C.C.F. The vote was 50-27 against the amendment and the House went into committee by the same margin.

It was the second division called by the Opposition Leader, E. B. Jolliffe. Before it came the House heard Premier Drew, Mr. Jolliffe, Mr. Salsberg, and W. L. Miller (L.-Algoma-Manitoulin) closing the budget debate.

Premier Drew reassured the House of Ontario's intention to cooperate with the Dominion in any Dominion - Provincial conference, said he had suggested to Prime Minister Mackenzie King the establishment of a Dominion-Provincial Joint Planning Board. He had also suggested a preliminary Dominion-Provincial meeting to map procedure for the main parley.

Annexation Bill.

Bills involving the City of Brantford, the Township of York, and the Township of North Monaghan were given third reading.

Mr. Jolliffe, in his summation for the Opposition in the budget debate, said the Government's action in granting an additional $3,100,000 to municipalities for education did not remedy the educational system. The problems of providing better educational opportunities on a better basis of educational taxation were still to be faced.

He then moved his amendment, subsequently defeated.

Premier Drew said no promise concerning educational taxes had been broken. The Government had given an understanding and intended to carry it out.

Lose Plane Contract.

He assured the House that should the new Department of Planning and Development reach decision on Ontario's post-war program, he would not hesitate to call an immediate session of the Legislature to put the Department's recommendations into action.

Mr. Drew criticized a Federal announcement that DC-4 Douglas transport planes for post-war commercial use would be manufactured in the Canadian Vickers plant at Montreal which, he said, was "not now controlled by those who are citizens of Canada, or any British nation, or of the United States."

The Premier said Munitions Minister Howe had indicated that post-war commercial contracts for Trans-Canada Air Lines would be given to the Lancaster plant at Malton, near Toronto, Apparently this decision had been abandoned and 9,000 skilled workers at the Malton plant and other subsidiary industries would be affected, despite the fact the Malton plant could more quickly convert to peacetime production than the Vickers establishment.

"It is important to know that Mr. Symington (H. J. Symington, president of T.C.A.) was personally associated with the Royal Securities Corporation of Montreal, which was heavily interested in financing Canadian Vickers, Limited," Mr. Drew said.

Mr. Miller urged greater government attention to post-war planning, conservation of natural resources and rehabilitation of the farmer. In his own northern riding the tourist industry was important but game and fish resources would suffer with the big tourist influx after the war unless the government took steps to preserve them.

He spoke of C.C.F. successes in the northern riding of Ontario in the last election but said he was still a believer in private enterprise. It would be better to "bring private enterprise up-to-date than to throw it all overboard for something untried and unproven, like Socialism."

LONERGAN'S BABY OUT FOR AIRING—Taking advantage of the spring sunshine, Nurse Elizabeth Black takes her charge, Wayne William Lonergan, Jr., for an airing near Park Avenue. Conservatives Offer New Plan On Empire Air Transportation

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — An Empire system of air transportation operating within the framework of an international system for the control of world aviation is the Progressive Conservative alternative to the Government's policy on International aviation

The policy of the official Opposition party was given the Commons last night by John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) who discussed Munition Minister Howe's policy statement on aviation of last week.

With the broad lines of the government policy Mr. Diefenbaker was in agreement. He said he regretted, however, no mention was made by a closer tieup of aviation interests of the nations of the British Commonwealth and suggested such a tieup would not be hostile to the interests of other nations nor to the principle of International Control.

Among his specific suggestions were an Empire Air Board on which Great Britain, the Dominions and India would be represented to arrive at a common Empire air policy, and an Empire Corporation operating airlines which might make its headquarters in Canada because of this country's strategic position in regard to international air routes.

Canada, operating alone, could not hope to gain a fair share of International air traffic. Co-operating with the Empire and with the men, the skill and the experience accumulated in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, this country could assure employment in the aircraft industry for thousands of workers after the war.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he questioned the Government's proposal to follow the "chosen instrument" policy of maintaining Trans-Canada Air Lines as the agency for international routes in view of what he said was a British tendency to depart from the "chosen instrument" policy.

Wanted Reasons

In the domestic field he wanted to know the reasons for separating airway ownership from railway ownership, but agreed that T.C.A. should be maintained and reasonably extended and that private companies should be maintained and allowed to develop new routes.

He was critical of the government's proposal for a Canadian Air Transport Board on the grounds that it would not be independent. He said he favored regulation of air transport in Canada by an independent board, either the present Board of Transport Commissioners or a new board.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke when the House resumed discussion of air transport estimates after passing all of the Munitions Department estimates in the War Appropriation Bill, a total of $183,800,000.

Australia and New Zealand had declared for an Internationally-owned air system, he said, or failing that, an Empire system.

"Canada is the centre of the airways of the future," he continued. "Should we not become also the centre of an Empire scheme comprising the whole world?

"That is the challenge I give to members of this House and I say there is implied in that no threat to anyone. There is implied unified collaboration in the interests of the control of aviation after the war, in the interests of universal peace.

"The establishment of the scheme would allow Canada to maintain trans-Canada air lines. An empire corporation set up in this way could well adopt Canada as headquarters for the system."

Policy Too Rigid

The policy propounded by Mr. Howe was too rigid to meet the needs of a rapidly changing air problem, said Mr. Diefenbaker. International control was the only solution because if aviation was to be controlled on narrow national lines the seeds of a future war for freedom of aviation would be sown.

An international plan, however, could only be reached after full discussion. He said he wanted to know what discussion had taken place and whether Russia had agreed to enter such a system without Russia no international agreement could succeed.

"As far as this party is concerned," he said, "we believe that Canada should maintain control over the further developing of her vital position in national and international air transport.

"We believe that all international and domestic aviation should remain under the Transport Commissioners or a board with similar powers and not under the control of the executive.

"We believe that the existing T.C.A. lines should be maintained and reasonably expanded; that privately-owned commercial aviation should be allowed to expand and to open up new routes."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the C.C.F. policy differed from that of the British Labor Party in that the latter favoured an International Company operating air lines and the C. C. F. believed in international control.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader said his party regarded international ownership and operation as preferable, but did not believe the United States would go any further than international control.

Norwood Flier Gets High Award

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP).—FO. J. R. Hughes, R.C.A.F. pilot from Norwood, Ont., has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross in recognition of a long operational record and several "highly successful" attacks against enemy shipping.

The R.C.A.F. announced last night that Hughes, attached to an R.A.F. squadron overseas, participated in two attacks on enemy shipping earlier this month, in the second of which he led a flight and displayed "superb leadership."

The citation:

"This officer has participated in very many sorties, including several successful attacks on shipping. In March, 1944, he took part in a sortie during which a merchantman was attacked with good results.

The next day he led a flight in another attack on shipping. By his great skill and superb leadership, FO. Hughes played a good part in the success achieved. This officer has invariably displayed a high degree of courage and determination."

MONTREAL, March 29—(CP)—John Roy Carlson, author of "Under Cover," said here yesterday in an interview with local reporters the C.C.F. A SIGN OF SPRING

Another sure sign of spring is the fact that the 1944 dog tags have gone on sale at the police station. Provincial Constable L. A. McClure was the first customer and his canine will wear Tag No. 1.

CASES ADJOURNED

Charges of drunkenness against William McGuire, Charlotte street, and Edwin Quinlan, New Chamberlain street, were adjourned for a week when called in police court this morning. Quinlan was arrested by Constable Bruce Menzies of North Monaghan.

TEACHER ADDRESSES CLUB

F. B. Smitheram of the Peterborough Normal School will address a dinner meeting of the Y's Men's Club Thursday evening. A speaker in the "Effective Presiding" course of the So-Ed series of classes last fall, Mr. Smitheram will deal with this subject and its particular application to clubs.

ARMY EDITOR

One of the three grandsons of Harry Castle, 572 Romaine street, who are in the United States Army is Private Robert Scully of Windsor. He was the young soldier mentioned in the recent humorous news story from Italy about a place temporarirly called "Gusville," named after Lieut. Gus Heilman of Virginia, who was commander of the company which wrested the wrecked Italian town from the Huns. It seems the troops manage to print a semblance of newspaper with Private Scully as editor.

CAR STOLEN

An automobile belonging to Frank Maloney, 148 Park street, was reported to the police today as having been stolen from the market square Tuesday night. It had been parked there by Jack Maloney, son of the owner.

RATION BOOKS

The Ration Distributing Centre was busy right through Tuesday and handled 5,109 applicants, as compared with 3,683 on Monday, the opening day. The busiest hours were from 2 to 4 p.m. but many were still coming in as the closing time, 5:30 p.m. approached, apparently under the impression that the Centre was operating in the evening. The staff was working until 10 o'clock last night completing its record for the day. This morning business was again proceeding at a very brisk pace, and a full staff of 40 were hard at work from the time the doors opened to the public.

FATHER DIES

Lieut. Robert A. Kirkpatrick, R.C.O.C., 781 George street, who was recently invalided home after serving three years overesas, is the son of the Clarence W. Kirpatrick, prominent Hamilton citizen and managing secretary of its Automobile Club for the past eight years, who died Monday in the General Hospital at Hamilton after a long illness. Mr. Kirkpatrick was well-known in the city through having made many visits here in connection with Automobile Club affairs. His son, who sustained injuries during manoeuvres in England, was employed as an inspector at the C.G.E. before enlistment.

City Planning Programme Urged As Desirable For Peterborough

Stressing the necessity of city planning Tracy D. LeMay commissioner of Planning and Survey for the city of Toronto addressed a representative gathering of citizens in the Empress on Tuesday night at a dinner given by the City Council.

City planning is planning for the future, planning to have content and happy citizens, planning to provide against juvenile delinquency and planning to have a city well laid out, with no slum areas and able to handle all traffic problems that may come its way. Mr. LeMay was introduced by J. W. Pierce and thanked by Alderman R. M. Glover.

Many times in the past, the speaker declared, cities disturbed perhaps by the sense of discomfort have turned over in their sleep long enough to appoint a planning committee. After a few years of labor a plan has been produced but by that time the citizens had again lost interest and little or nothing was done.

'But now things are different", Mr. LeMay asserted, "we face an emergency in which it is not the city but the nation that is concerned. When this war is over, the millions of Canadians enrolled in the armed services and in industry devoted to the production of munitions of war will be demobilized and must find employment pending re-establishment in peace time occupations. Work must be made available and what more suitable medium for employment than the replanning and reconstructing our cities and their suburbs for better living conditions and civic security for all."

Government Funds

It seems inevitable that government funds must be available in the opinion of Mr. LeMay as the burden will be too great for municipalities. But it is also certain that the government when providing funds will demand an assurance that the projects to be financed fit into a well considered plan. A plan that will be a guarantee against waste of public money.

"To do their part municipalities must be ready to take advantage of the opportunities as they arise to get into action. The urgent need after the war will be to put men to work and available funds will naturally gravitate to those places plan and policies have been approved, detailed specifications and estimates drawn up and contracts prepared for signature. The municipality that waits until money is available and then delays action for a year while things are being got ready may be out of luck."

Planning according to the speaker is not only concerned with traffic and civic squares but to be worthy of a name it must concern itself with all that goes to produce good citizens to combatjuvenile delinquency. It must override political boundaries. It must have as its goal a Master Plan that deals first with long range policies and objectives and second with specific construction programs and schedules.

Not A Static Plan

The Master Plan is not static but it must be suseptible to necessary alteration to meet unforseen changes in conditions. In order to limit its scope however it must be predicated on certain basic assumptions that will assure as far as possible its practicability. The first one is the period during which the plan is intended to govern the future and here the speaker suggested thirty years. In the second place a city must plan for the needs of the people, must estimate the populations to be served at the end of the 30 years period. Population increase is controlled by natural increase, overseas immigration and domestic migration. The third assumption is the boundaries of the area that will be occupied by the people to come with adequate allowance for recreational, marketing and work districts.

"Planning may be separated into two divisions", Mr. LeMay said, correction of error usually at great cost and prevention of error probably at little or no cost. Both enter into the functions of the Master Plan which may be consider under conservation and zoning; public welfare and the elimination of undesirable living conditions; convenience or traffic and and finance."

Importance of zoning or regulation of the use of land was strongly urged by Mr. LeMay. "Lack of zoning in most cities can be said to be the basis of most of their troubles and it is the utmost importance that the brakes should be put on now by means of a zoning bylaw that will at least stabilize existing conditions and provide a firm foundation on which to design the city of years to come."

A lowering of Values

Unzoned cities today all present this picture. Multiple family dwellings, boarding houses, gas stations and other businesses constantly approaching and depreciating adjacent values and starting the whole district on a downward path.

"The potentialities for recreation and relaxation differ in all cities and you have that fine river the Otonabee that flows past your door. What is to be done about that so that the citizens of greater Peterborough 30 years hence may find there a respite from toil. Playfields for adults and teenage grounds, playlots for younger children all enter the picture of the modern plan. Not haphazard because someone let a vacant lot go for taxes but designed as the equipment of park districts that fit in but do not cross the pattern of major streets, railways and other physical barriers".

In closing Mr. LeMay declared, the time to plan is now, such an opportunity for real progress in construction has never occurred before and is not likely to occur again. It is also the bounden duty of every municipality to plan not only in its own interests but also in order that it may play its proper part in the great task of post-war re-establishment.

Goods Scarce

TORONTO, March 29.—(CP). — Roy Geddes, supply division chief of the Prices Board, told the wartime conference of the Canadian Retail Federation here yesterday that with uncertainty prevailing as to the duration of the war, large-scale production of consumer goods will not be resumed immediately in Canada. P. K. Heywood, of Toronto, was elected president of the Federation. Among directors chosen were W. L. Lofft, Brantford, Ont., and A. E. Willard, Galt. Ont.

Questions Right To Knock C.C.F.

OTTAWA, March 29 — (CP) — M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. Leader, said today it was "rather presumptuous" for John Ray Carlson, United States author, to come to Canada and "slander" the C.C.F.

Mr. Coldwell noted that Mr. Carlson was reported as saying at Montreal that a merger between the C. C. F. and Bloc Populaire was more than a possibility, and that the C.C.F. should be watched closely as he saw similarities between its policies and those of the National Socialist Party when it first gained a foothold in Germany.

"I think it is rather presumptuous for a foreigner to come into this country and slander a political party which has a common philosophy with the progressive labor parties throughout the Commonwealth, a fact of which he appears to be utterly ignorant," Mr. Coldwell said.

"The C.C.F. has nothing in common with Nazi or Fascist ideas.

"As far as his suggestion that we intend to co-operate with the Bloc Populaire is concerned, I have said a good many times that is impossible since our ideas generally are entirely different."

Rangers Fined For Failing To Attend Drill

"We are asking these men to live up to the contract they signed with His Majesty the King" said Major V. M. Eastwood of the Prince of Wales Rangers, Reserve, in police court this morning during the hearing of charges against a number of members of the Rangers of failing without lawful excuse to attend drills of the unit.

William George Goodman, who gave his age as 17 years, pleaded guilty to three out of four charges of missing drill. On the other occasion he had been ill.

"Did you notify your officer" asked Magistrate E. A. Gee.

"No, we had no telephone in the house," replied the accused.

'I tried to join the Navy and hope to join the active army in a couple of weeks" Goodman added "so I thought it was not much use to keep on drilling with the reserve."

Major Eastwood said that on his attestation papers Goodman had given the date of his birth as April, 1925.

On each of the three charges to which he pleaded guilty the accused was fined $5 and $1 costs, and the fourth charge was withdrawn.

Norman Bell, 19, employed by the York Trading Company said that he would plead guilty to three of four charges of failing to attend. He said that on the other date charged he had worked late but admitted that he had not notified the military authorities.

Major Eastwood said that he was not prepared to withdraw the fourth charge.

Bell finally pleaded guilty to all four charges and was fined $5 and $1 costs on each, a total of $24 or 20 days in jail.

'I am pleading not guilty to all the charges" said Gerald Anderson, employee of the Quaker Oats Company, who faced three counts of missing drills.

Anderson produced a letter from L. H. Ingram to the effect that the accused had been working at night and that apparently he and other Quaker Oats' employees thought that the fact that he was employed at night excused them from attendance at drill.

"I think I am of more use to the country working than I would be attending perhaps only one drill in three" said Anderson

Major Eastwood replied that the object of reserve training was to teach men how to handle arms so that they would be ready for an emergency. He said that other men engaged in war work arranged it so that they could attend the weekly drills of the Rangers.

He informed Magistrate Gee that he had not seen the letter from Mr. Ingram until Tuesday night.

"We have soldiers coming up from the Military Training Centre to work at night" said Anderson, "so I think I am of more service sticking to my job."

The charges against Anderson were adjourned for two weeks.

Similar charges against Norman George Field were also adjourned for the same period

"From the information we have received Field is in the Navy," reported Inspector James F. Reid.

"We'll investigate and if that is ocrrect we will withdraw the charge" Major Eastwood stated

WILLIAM H. CUTHBERTSON.

NORWOOD, March 29—(ENS).— Death struck twice within five weeks at the Cuthbertson home, when William H. Cuthbertson passed away at his home, Spring Street, in his 91st year. His wife predeceased him by five weeks.

Born in Kilmarnock, Scotland, he came to Canada in 1870, and has resided in Norwood for the past 74 years. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cuthbertson. Mr. Cuthbertson farmed for many years and after retiring built several cottages at Stoney Lake. An elder of the United Church for years, he was also a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Agnes Puffer of Stoney Lake, and a brother, Thomas Cuthbertson, of Kirkland Lake. Twice married, his first wife was Mary Moore, and his second was the former Jennie Eaton.

The body rested at the home of his nephew, Cecil Cuthbertson, until taken to the United Church for service at 2 p.m. Rev. Pugsley officiated.

Pall-bearers were six nephews: Cecil Cuthbertson, Ralph Cuthbertson, Earl Cuthbertson, Harry Puffer, Henry Puffer and Russel Puffer. Interment was in Norwood Cemetery.

RAYMOND SPENCER

The funeral of Raymond Spencer, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Garret Spencer, 610 Armour road, was held from the family residence Tuesday morning to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, where many sorrowing relatives and friends of the former Examiner carrier were gathered. Teachers and pupils of the Immaculate Conception School, which Raymond had attended until last fall, were present, and former schoolmates formed a guard of honor at the church. Mass was offered for the repose of his soul by Rev. J. Killen, and Rev. James Greenan said the prayers at the graveside in St. Peter's cemetery.

The youngest in his family, Raymond passed away on Friday after three weeks in the hospital fighting a throat infection. Besides his parents, he is survived by a sister, Zita, at home, and five brothers, Leading Coder Thomas, R.C.N.V.R., Halifax; Sgm. John, R.C.N.V.R., Halifax; Ordinary Seaman Joseph, R.C.N.V.R., Kingston; and Alphonse and Paul at home.

Present at the funeral from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Tiveron and son, Jack, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Spencer and family, Smith; Mr. and Mrs. William Spencer and family, Lakefield; and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cranley, Douro.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Vincent Healey, Jack Sullivan, Emmett Condon, Bill Leahy, Jack Tiveron and Edward Primeau. Honorary pall-bearers were Norman Cranley, Kevin Condon, George Sullivan, Christopher Mongraw, Leon Gosselin and Jack Driscoll.

J. Hunter Discusses Salvation Message

A capacity audience at the after-church service in the Regent Theatre on Sunday evening enjoyed an instructive message from J. H. Hunter, editor of The Evangelical Christian. The opening song service was under the leadership of Aylmer Moore, with Ashton Fife at the piano. The special soloist, Miss Mary Jeffery of Toronto delighted the audience with two violin solos. This was her second visit to Peterborough to help in these services.

Mr. Hunter in his message took as one of his texts, "What must I do to be saved?" and as the first illustration referred to the visit of the Angel of Death to the homes of the Egyptians when the Israelites were in bondage. He recalled how the homes where the blood of the lamb was sprinkled on the lintel were passed over, but those that were not lost the firstborn of the family by death. The parallel in the Gospel is that by the shedding of the blood the fear of death has been removed. Mr. Hunter referred to several characters in the Pilgrim's Progress, also giving several vivid word pictures of the land of Palestine and other sacred places.

Next Sunday C. Ernest Tatham, well-known radio evangelist, will be the speaker and Stan Hunt of Toronto will be soloist.

Objective Reached

TORONTO, March 29.— (CP).— An objective of $1,530,000 for educational, foreign and home missions work of the United Church of Canada was exceeded by $105,628 last year, it was reported yesterday at the annual meeting of the missionary and maintenance committee. Objective for 1944 is $1,650,000.

Third V.O.N. Broadcast Scheduled For 8:45 This Evening Over CHEX

Would you be in favour of abolishing the use of anaesthetics during surgical operations? Would you be in favor of abolishing the use of anaesthetics at childbirth? A century ago, when anaesthetics were just beginning to attract attention, there were many people—quite sensible people too, some of them—who argued that anything which allayed the pains of child-bearing was contrary to the will of God, who had ordained that children should be born in sorrow. The struggle for the relief of pain in child-bearing is the subject of "Kaleidoscope Number 3", the third program in the series which will be heard this evening over CHEX at 8.45.

It was a professor of obstetrics at the University of Edinburgh, Dr James Simpson, who first used chloroform to help his patients. The medical profession and the churches were dubious about his innovation when they were not downright hostile. But the end of Simpson's long fight for easier child-bearing came, in 1853, when Queen Victoria allowed her personal physician, Sir James Clark, to give her chloroform at the birth of her seventh child, Prince Leopold. Royal example bore down all resistance, and people who had formerly condemned the use of chloroform in obstetrical cases began to clamour for it. The knighthood which Simpson received for his excellent work did not harm his cause, either, among those who attach great importance to conspicuous recognition of merit.

When mothers had been relieved of pain in bearing their children, the next job was to teach them care for their children in a sensible way; everything which we know today about scientific child care is the outcome of the work of the past century.

This is the story which is told in a series of vignettes in 'Kaleidoscope Number 3'. Those who will be heard are Alene Holt, Mary Hale, Lucy J. McLellan, Margaret White, John Bradshaw, Robertson Davies and R. L. Hale. The technical effects will be supervised by Frank Schoales and the program will be produced by Brenda Davies a script specially written for use in Peterborough by Samuel Marchbanks.

Look To Canada To Feed Hungry Europe

BY ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 29 — (CP) — After the war Canada shouldn't lack outlets for her exportable agricultural products in liberated Europe and in Britain.

Vast quantities of food will be required for several years to meet the needs of millions of people in nations freed by the Allied armies and Canada is being counted upon to supply large supplies of food stuffs, according to British authorities here acquainted with the post-war planning for Europe.

In Britain, too, a good market is likely to continue for a considerable time for readjustment to the normal conditions in food supplies here is going to be a long-term job.

"Any producer nation such as Canada is sitting pretty so far as post-war markets are concerned," commented one British official.

Relief for Europe in the wake of the advancing armies will be the responsibility of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and food from nations such as Canada will be among the first necessities which U.N.R.R.A. will ship into freed countries.

There are food shortages among civilians all over occupied Europe now and after the invasion battles are over the situation will be even more desperate, until U.N.R.R.A. gets to work.

To feed their armies in the field and their own civilians at home, the Germans have gone over Europe like locusts and men and women in the countries they have occupied are living on next to nothing.

Italy herself was an ally of Germany and yet the food situation there was appalling. It must be even worse in France, Norway and the low countries, Central Europe and the Balkans, for it is in these countries that the Nazis have really plundered the larders.

Canadian produce will serve a humanitarian purpose through U.N.R.R.A. in Europe, but in the long run it may be good business as well to get Canadian products into Europe by way of the great international relief scheme.

Eventually the agriculture of Europe will be revived, but it will take a long time in war-ravaged lands and in this interval Canada should have excellent markets for exportable produce.

Z. Kincaid Penlengton Dies In California

VENTURA, Calif., March 29. — (AP).—Zeo Kincaid Penlington, 66, writer and widow of the late British journalist, John Penlington, who represented Lord Northcliffe in the Orient for many years, died in hospital here yesterday after a short illness. She was born in Peterborough, Ont., March 2, 1878, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. Kincaid.

Mrs. Penlington went to Japan in 1905 and founded the Japan Magazine, the first to be published there in English. After her marriage to Penlington she helped him establish the Far East, a weekly English magazine of comment and review. She wrote a reference book on the Japanese theatre and was considered an authority on that subject.

Even With Ontario

QUEBEC, March 29.—(CP).—Premier Godbout last night told the Legislative Assembly that the "creation of a Quebec Hydro would put this province on an even economic level with Ontario and the population considers the measure now discussed as essential for its economic liberation." The Assembly, holding its first night sitting of the present session, was discussing a government's bill which would set up a Quebec Hydro Commission and authorize the expropriation of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power, Cons. and the Beauharnois Power. Cost of the expropriation had earlier been set by Hon. Wilfrid Hamel, Minister of Lands and Forests, at "approximately $154,000,000."

Annexation Bill Passes House

The North Monaghan private bill whereby a portion of the township is being annexed by Peterborough was given its third reading in the Legislature on Tuesday and is now ready for royal assent.

The annexation will come into effect on January 1, 1945, but the bill has also made provision for the Board of Education and the Board of the North Monaghan School Area to enter into an agreement whereby the Peterborough board can operate the schools from September 1.

Firemen Battle Blazing Roof

Fire of undetermined origin, which may have got its start from chimney sparks, badly damaged the roof of the home of Mrs. W. J. Maudsley, 489 Park street north, early Tuesday afternoon, causing loss estimated by the Fire Department at $150.

Mrs. Maudsley, alone in the house at noon, was first apprised of the danger to the dwelling when a neighbor ran across the street and informed her the roof was ablaze. She was in the kitchen at the time. Firemen played water on the burning structure for nearly an hour before the fire was extinguished.

A second roof fire, with less extensive damage, occurred after noon today at the home of Edward Cooney, 112 McDonnel street, and was thought to have been set off in a similar manner, from chimney sparks. It was noticed first by a man walking down the street, who informed the family. Damage was limited to a small section of the peak of the roof and the fire was was out quickly.

A number of chimney fires also brought alarms to the Fire Department in the past 24 hours. There were calls from 297 Louis street, H. Saunders, at 1:39 p.m. Tuesday; at 359 Rogers street, J. Byrne, at 1:10 this morning; and at 261 Romaine street, H. Harold, at 8:43 a.m.

Newspaper Help

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP).— United States daily and Sunday newspaper war-effort advertising is running at an estimated rate of more than $65,000,000 annually, the American newspaper Publishers' Association Bureau of Advertising reported to-day.

The figures apply solely to advertising and indicate nothing "of the vast and uncountable total of news and editorial space devoted to support of war causes" said the A.N.P.A.

5 New Cases

CALGARY, March 29.—(CP). — Five new cases of typhoid fever have been reported to bring the total to 35 in Medicine Hat, Brooks, Calgary and Rockyford districts. Meanwhile, medical health authorities continued a check of suspected cheese held responsible for the epidemic.

CASUALTIES MOUNT

The R.C.A.F. issued today its 842nd casualty list of the war, containing 34 names and including four men missing on active service after air operations overseas and 20 men previously reported missing on active service overseas and now for official purposes presumed dead.

Stewart Hall Red Cross Boosts War Fund

The very words "Red Cross" spell goodness, symbol of a mercy that knows no limits save that encompassed by the means at the disposal of those who operate in its name, and from a worldly standpoint there are no barriers of creed or race to interpose in the good work that they set out to do.

Operating to relieve the sufferings of humanity both in peace and war, they naturally find their work is tremendously enlarged during the latter, a fact which has caused a large number of groups to be formed in its name, their coming into being as such no doubt arising from a genuine desire to be of service in the humanitarian cause they seek to serve.

In the nearby centre at Stewart Hall such a group has been working for a considerable time, this in addition to other groups who also work in community interest, and they have been all doing a splendid work, of which the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund has had ample evidence through the many splendid gifts they have made to relieve the sufferings of those stricken through air raids over Britain during the past three years.

Recently the Stewart Hall Red Cross catered to the needs of the Eastern Ontario Threshermen who were meeting in annual convention in this city, by providing the banquet, from which they did so well from the financial viewpoint that they felt they could spare some of the money thus made to give some assistance to those made homeless in recent air raid attacks, which have been on a larger scale than that prevailing for some time past.

By this means a contribution of $25.00 is listed in their name today through Mrs. Marion Patterson, their treasurer, giving them a share in the work which this fund is doing, which parallels the work of the Red Cross in a marked degree.

From Crawford's Grove

From the very early days of the fund, one lady at Crawford's Grove has laid aside the odd change from her husband's pay cheque, and periodically this has appeared in this column to take its place in the good work that the fund seeks to carry on.

Today another such contribution, amounting to $6.76, appears in the name of Mrs. H. McMahon, of that place, displaying an earnestness of intent that perhaps might be an inspiration to many others to help in a similar manner.

One week ago today, the fund cabled its latest donation of £500 at which time the bank account was depleted almost to the vanishing point, so it is an encouraging feature in the face of further enemy raids, that already the sum of $292.45 has accumulated towards the next gift, which will also be sent on its way when completed.

Agricultural Group To Make Visit Later

A tentative Good Friday date for a session in Peterborough of the Ontario Agricultural Commission of Inquiry was cancelled when it was considered that farmers generally might be indifferent to a meeting on that important Christian anniversary.

The Commission, of which A. Leitch is chairman, is meeting in Kingston on April 3, Renfrew on the 4th and Kemptville on the 5th. A date was not set for Peterborough, although the Friday of next week had been suggested, as the Commission returns from Eastern Ontario to Toronto.

A Peterborough reeve remarked to the Examiner that rural opinion would probably be inclined to the attitude that there were days enough in the year without invading Good Friday with a meeting to consider agricultural problems. He said it was likely a date would be announced for this district some time after Easter.

Child Neglect

OTTAWA, March 29.—(CP).—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McDermott were arrested yesterday and charged with neglecting to provide for their four-months-old baby, who died last Saturday night.

Police said the couple would be arraigned in court Friday. Three other children have been taken to the Children's Aid Society.

Spring Floods Miss Farmers

Spring has come without the turbulence of freshets and flooding which usually froths about the passing of winter. This is a comment of the Northumberland agricultural representative in the Ontario department's weekly report, and it is a general condition of this change of the seasons.

Sales are numerous in Lambton. "Cattle are selling at good prices. Any small calf, if red in color and a week old, sells for $25 to $30. Poor grade cows and aged sell for $80 to $90. A cow of any quality brings $100 to $145. A large number of farms than usual have been sold this spring."

Durham says: "Unless our farmers are assured of help for haying and harvest the acreage of grain will undoubtedly be cut considerably. This assurance, we believe, should be furnished immediately. The labor situation is, no doubt, worse this year than last."

Young pigs are selling readily in Peterborough, and their price in Hastings is $5 to $8 each. Orchard men are busy pruning, and in Northumberland, as elsewhere, farmers are tapping their maple trees.

Ship to States

Prince Edward exported eight cars of livestock, and other sales to U.S. Buyers are in prospect. Oxford sold three cars of pure bred cattle for delivery in Nevada, and Wentworth comments: "An increasing number of cattle are being sold to the United States. Two carloads went out this week."

Some Peterborough farmers should notice this observation from Bruce: "There were 32 applications for permanent pasture demonstrations in the county." Dufferin says cattle are coming out of winter in poor condition caused by grain shortage.

Lincoln hogs producers are finding present prices satisfactory, and the market has strengthened the price of weanling pigs.

L-Sgt. A. W. Pooley Wed Overseas

L.-SGT. ALFRED W. POOLEY

The wedding took place recently in a quiet ceremony in the Anglican Church in Leatherhead, England, of Miss Paula M. Chester, daughter of Mrs. Chester and the late W. Chester, to L.-Sgt. Alfred W. Pooley, son of Mrs. Pooley, 575 George Street, and the late Ambrose Pooley of this city.

The bride wore a dressmaker suit in powder blue with colored blouse. Her hat was navy blue, also her accessories and she carried a blue leather covered prayer book. She wore a corsage of pink carnations. After a honeymoon spent in London, the bride returned to her duties as nurse at Schiff Emergency Hospital, Cobham. The groom went overseas with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in August, 1940, and is now attached to the Canadian Legion War Services.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

The spring fashion interests run high and soft on the coats and suits. They have joined the general spring movement toward bodice drama, since the skirts are unchangingly neat and narrow. Both, too, are swinging to the soft and feminine lines, and play up to the new cardigan necklines, tuckings, pipings and unusual buttons.

Your coat may be one of the new dressy fitted styles that go so beautifully with the one-piece dress. It may be a belted model with either the belt set in, a tie or a half-belt, or it may be the eye-catching lush tuxedo with fur revers extending into a slim fall of fur. Your suit will probably be of that dressmaker type, the softie, with shorter jacket gently nipped in at the waist, the new draped shoulder and the collarless neckline.

There will be a lot of white-to-tawny tones of lynx-dyed fox shown on the new spring coats, because the lovely tones are perfectly neutral, and blend in so beautifully with the light-hued coats for spring.

The new softness of the tailored suit is big fashion news when the traditional man-tailored suit loses its stiffness. Do not misunderstand, it's not as soft as the dressmaker suit nor has it dressy detail; it's still clean cut and simple, but it fits easier and looks less severe. This type of suit is made in many different weaves, such as the herringbone wool tweed, the worsted wool flannel with chalk stripe, men's wear wool suitings with hairline stripe and donegal wool tweed. With these suits will be worn hats of the beret type, half hats, Dutch bonnets and the ever popular pill box turban. Then there is the big flat bonnet worn on the new neat little head. As there are many ladies and girls who simply cannot wear the small hat, this larger one will be just the type they should wear. This hat is trimmed with long streamers of veiling and dotted with felt butterflies in some contrasting shade to the hat.

If you are wearing a suit be sure and wear a scarf of the new Platina Fox. This is a new silver-grey in shade, not dyed, not blended, not artificially produced in any way but absolutely natural, and will add so much to the look of your suit or collarless coat. Flowers are much worn this spring. A small skull cap turban worn on the back of the head with a bunch of bright colored flowers on either side. Also with the new suit a band of ribbon worn around the neck, flowers made to form a jabot in front, a bouquet of fabric roses worn at the waistline; all these touches just to remind you that spring is just around the corner.

The new 1944 dinner dress will be short and sweet. They are shown in rayon crepe in beige, rose or blue, and many are trimmed with self-material braidwork, others are trimmed with lace. The new necklines are really the newest feature of these dresses and they make them have that very much dressed-up look, even if the rest of the dress is plain.

Then there is the one-piece dress made of flowered crepe. With this is worn a short jacket of plain wool material. These may be worn right now under your fur coat. More about Easter fashions next week.

Flower Hats With Veiling Top Style List

Spring millinery this year is definitely feminine and dainty, and the girl with a yen for frills and flowers can really dress up to her heart's content in the new spring styles. Many of the smart new creations cannot even be called dolls' hats, since they are merely hair ornaments, set with flowers and held on with a swoosh of veiling, exposing most of the hair.

The types of material available have increased in quantity, and straws, which were scarce last season, are making their bow again. Colors, to blend or contrast any spring ensemble, are on display, in every conceivable style, from the sailor hats and those showing Chinese influence, to tiny flower-covered beanies and top-rating half-hats.

One cute half-hat features a high frame of straw mesh, to which a huge bow made of Roman-striped material is fastened, covering the back of the head. Another is a little crown with a solid covering of apple blossoms, which can be set on the back of the head, and tied under the chin with a light blue veiling, or perched over one eye, with the veiling tied at the back and covering the face.

Half-hats in bright straws are appearing on the fashion scene, and feature colored ostrich feathers, rosettes of lace or ribbon, or bunches of flowers, over the ears. This is certainly the season for women who look their best in tiny, extreme hats, or in pert sailors, and, since there is a style to suit every type of face, there should certainly be a blossoming of new hats come Easter time.

Nursing Rates Increased By Association

A change in the rate schedule, to come into effect April 1, was announced by the private duty nursing section, at a meeting of the Registered Nurses' Association, Chapter C, District 6, held in St. Joseph's Hospital, Tuesday evening The new rate for private duty is $5 for eight hours, $6 for twelve hours, and $7 for eighteen hours. The previous rate was $4, $5 and $6 respectively.

The charge for nursing mental and intoxicated patients and contagious diseases has also been raised, and now stands at $6 for eight hour duty, $7 for twelve hour duty, and 50c for each additional hour. The previous rate was $5 and $6 respectively, with no charge for additional time.

A somewhat rare case, where there are two patients requiring nursing care, now carries a charge of $7.50 for eight-hour duty.

These changes in rate will bring private nursing in Peterborough on a par with practically all other cities in the province of Ontario.

The announcement was also made at this meeting that the net proceeds, amounting to over $70, from the recent tea sponsored by the Chapter, would be used to assist the nursing profession in the national emergency, by aiding with the recruiting of student nurses, and in the development of scholarship funds. Miss M. McAuliffe presided.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, March 30

A RATHER dubious and obscure state of affairs is indicated in this day's forecast. There are signs of duplicity, underhand and tricky activities to be met and vanquished by shrewd, alert and sagacious tactics. This treacherous condition may be felt in private, domestic or social affiliations, with suspicion and subterfuge. In business and new projects of importance, there is an explosive tendency which may produce dire results. Shun strife, enmity, and impulsive moves; keep emotional balance under firm control. Under high stimuli there may be some definite and constructive work.

A Birthday Forecast

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year calling for extremely cautious and sagacious conduct lest all sorts of illicit, intriguing and perplexing problems arise. All intrigues, stratagems and undercover tactics should be rigidly side-stepped, as danger, menace and regrets may affect personal life. Refrain from intemperate, rash and emotional outbursts, diverting heightened impulses to practical and energetic work, possibly in new projects or programs.

A child born on this day may have sound creative talents, with energy and practicality, but may be weaned from serious efforts into dangerous paths of pleasure or indulgence.

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

Our Boys Fighting For Good Morals Not Free Love; Employers Must End Wild Parties

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Office parties are becoming a real evil and should be discouraged. They are carried much too far and there are too many of them, and they are the cause of much hardship and unhappiness.

In the office where I work for instance, there were no less than six parties during December. They were held at swank hotels and supper clubs, places my wife and I never felt we could afford. There were dinners at $2.50 and $3.00 a plate and drinks which the men of the crowd were expected to pay for, sometimes amounting to $15 or $20 or more per person. There was not only drinking and dancing but plenty of necking going on, with the parties never breaking up before 3:30 or 4 a.m., and everyone who tried to be decent or to leave early was called a piker.

Most of the men work long hours many evenings overtime, and they would like a chance to spend some time with their families, or to step out somewhere with their wives, but when it was suggested, as it often has been by the men, that their wives might be included in some of these affairs, it has been voted down because it would make the party too large and anyway, "wives always spoiled the party."

Sure they spoil the fun for the man-crazy kid girls who usually instigate these affairs, but they don't spoil the party for the men. Most of the men would rather have their wives along. Most of them could not afford to take their own wives out to dinner at these expensive places, yet they are forced to go to parties and show somebody else a good time, because it is good business.

It cost men $87 for parties I had to go to during December and my wife and I had to cut down on all the plans we had made for a family Christmas because of it. My wife is a darn good sport about it and I think most wives are, but don't people marry because they enjoy going places together, having fun together? And they should have the privilege of doing that, instead of having to spend their money on office parties to which their wives are not invited. These office parties hinder, not aid, the war effort, and the truth should be known about them.

A HUSBAND WHO GOES TO SOME OF THEM

ANSWER: If the office part has become an orgy, instead of merely a get-together for an innocous evening of play of fellow workers, it is certainly high time that the truth was known, and that the employers put an end to them. For surely the men and women who have spent a night in feasting and drinking and petting are in no condition the next day to do good, or even safe, work.

Neither the ethics of matrimony nor the conventions of decent society sanction mixed parties which a man's wife is not permitted to attend and at which he is expected to make himself agreeable to some other man's wife, and that such affairs make a wife jealous and resentful of the money that is needed at home being spent on such carousals and that end in the breaking up of many homes is inevitable.

While we are keeping up morale of our soldiers at the front, we had better do a little more to preserve the morals of the people at home. Our boys are fighting for political freedom, not for free love.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a little girl nine years old. My problem is my 15-year-old brother who wants to play victrola records that I do not like, and who will not let me play the ones I like. Will you please tell me what I can do to please him and satisfy myself.

A LITTLE GIRL IN TROUBLE

ANSWER: Well, dear, the only thing you can do in justice to both your brother and yourself is to compromise. Talk the matter over with him and agree to split your differen ce fifty-fifty. You play a certain number of records you like then let him play the ones he enjoys.

If you will do that you will have learned one of the greatest lessons in life and that is how to get along in peace with other people.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl nearly 19, in love with a married man who has a fine wife and three children. He knows how I feel about him and he says I mean a lot to him and we have exchanged kisses. But his wife doesn't know anything about this. I live with them and work for them and I am treated as one of the family. I am thinking of leaving, but the wife needs my help badly, and the husband tells me to stay.

He says if I ever have a boy friend we are through. Could you tell me what I should do?

WORRIED GIRL

ANSWER: Haven't you enough sense to see that the man who is carrying on an affair with you behind his sick wife's back means you no good? Can't you see that a man who would take advantage of a young servant girl in his own house is just about the lowest card that there is in the world? Can't you realize that sooner or later your relationship will be found out and you will be thrown out in disgrace? Don't stay in that house another day. Don't exchange another kiss with the man. Flee for your life. Maids are at a premium now and you will have no trouble in getting a place with a decent family. And don't think you won't get over your love for this man. When you have time to think it over and see how he is keeping you from going with a nice chap who would marry you you will hate him.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

Dear Mary Moore: My meat-loving husband is very earnest about observing Lent and asked for some of those good-looking vegetables plates you see pictures of in magazines. This was a tall order for me, but one thing I found he did really like was Vegetable fritters—I found this in an old cook book and some of your readers might welcome it.

Vegetable Fritters
(From Mrs. Asa Minnish)

One and three-quarters cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, 3½ teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs, ½ cup milk, ½ cup cooked carrots, ¼ cup cooked peas (drained canned or cooked dried), ¼ cup lima beans, 1 tablespoons chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons melted fat. Mix and sift flour, salt, pepper and baking powder. Beat egg and add milk. Add to the flour mixutre and beat thoroughly. Add carrots, peas, lima beans, parsley and fat and mix well. Drop by tablespoonfuls into deep hot fat 375 deg. Fahr. and fry until a delicate brown. Drain on unglazed paper. Serve hot with cheese sauce.

Cheese Sauce

1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons each butter and flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ to 1 cup grated cheese. Melt butter, add flour, blend, add milk which has been heated with the cheese and salt, and stir until thick. Good on almost any vegetables—especially cauliflower, cabbage or Brussels.

Thanks again Mrs. Minnish — I remember you from years ago.

Fur Jackets Add Luxury Note

Because they constitute one of the soundest of wardrobe investments, fur jackets and scarfs rate high in the Easter-Spring fashion picture. Plus the all-important fact that they double the smartness of every costume, and are wearable practically the year 'round Wonderful point, too, these are even very modest budgets. However because they give such long-term wear, it is wise to buy the best you can afford for complete satisfaction.

Brown Furs Big

Brown furs steal the fashion spotlight for Spring too! Refreshingly smart with navy blue, they add a striking contrast to the New Spring pastels, and needless to say they are wonderfully flattering Beautiful baum marten, definitely in the luxury class, is a fashionable choice. Equally smart and most popular choice for the budget-minded who prefer brown furs, is sable-dyed kolinsky. In two, three or multiple skin arrangements they achieve the luxury look of sable, yet cost suprisingly little. Shining silver fox scarfs, forever fashionable and so flattering, are again in the Spring spotlight. These are underscored for sophisticated moderns as well as for the smart elder woman.

Fur Jackets Starred

If you're fur-jacket-minded for Easter, the local stores have a wonderful selection and at prices to please every purse. As you know a fur jacket adds day and night glamour to every wardrobe — looks as wonderful with your suits as it does with your prettiest short dinner dresses — its wearability spans the four seasons. Smooth shoulders, collarless necklines "easy" full sleeves and cleverly worked skins are the fashion highlights of new fur jackets. Sable dyed squirrel, blue dyed fox, sable dyed guanoco are popular choices. Glamourous silver fox, still the top favourite with so many women is again spotlighted. Well it should be too, because it is marvelously face-fattering, young yet sophisticated excitingly smart day and night — realy an all-season investment.

Wearability Stressed

In these days of long-range wardrobe planning, good furs rate careful consideration this Spring. Take for instance the wearability of fur scarfs. They look wonderful with your suits, they add the fashionable touch to your prints and lingerie blacks, and they work wonders with your untrimmed coat. And with the tremendous popularity of the untrimmed coat for Spring as well as Winter, their practicality is endless. The same smart wearability goes for fur jackets. Here again, they top every costume fashionably, they know no season.

Railways Give Priority To Invasion Work

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 29 — (CP) — Britain's railways — already busier than they ever were as preparations for the western invasion go forward —will give No. 1 priority to invasion demands when the troops make their landing.

Holiday travel plans of the civilian population and war workers who by their diligence have earned what holidays they get will have to go overboard. The Government is giving thought to the problem of workers' holidays arranged so as not to interfere with invasion requirements.

The railways may still be able to manage some holiday traffic after the invasion but discomforts for passengers will be even greater than before. The railways just won't have extra facilities.

May Close.

Some lines are expected to close to all but vital war traffic though such bans probably won't be permanent. Certain areas likewise are expected to be "frozen" as far as civilian traffic in concerned.

At present, British railways are running 2,000 special trains a week for troops and government supplies, nearly 7,000 trains a week for war workers and about 1,100 coal trains from the collieries.

The railways are carrying twice as much merchandise, excluding coal, as before the war and operating 1,000,000 more ton-miles an hour than in peace-time.

Those figures give an idea of the intensity of wartime railway traffic which will increase in a bound when the invasion takes place.

Discuss Salvage

GORE'S LANDING, March 29—(ENS)—The Girl Guides' meeting was held at the Rectory this week with eight Guides present. The girls discussed plans for bundling the papers and fat which were collected in the salvage the previous Saturday. The Guides received a cheque for $2.20 for the fat collected in the last salvage roundup. The next meeting will be held on Thursday evening at the home of Laura Eagleson.

Do What Your Doctor Does If Child Is Listless

Because the tongue is the upper end of the stomach and bowels, it is usually the first thing a doctor looks at when he examines a sick child. He knows that a coated tongue and bad breath is a danger signal —a warning of an upset condition below, which may lead to real illness.

Don't you take chances—look at your child's tongue and check the breath every day! And at the first sign of bad odor on the breath or a coated tongue, give Children's Own Tablets. Small, pleasant-tasting tablets made especially for youngsters from runabout age to 15 years, they are wonderfully effective in helping to clean out harmful wastes and sweeten sour, upset stomachs. No drastic weakening flush-out action like many old-fashioned laxatives have.

U.S. Army Wants Men Under 26

PROVIDENCE, R.I., March 29—(AP)—Maj.-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, National Director of Selective Service, said here today that he believes the United States will have to dip into young men now classified in 4-F to meet the needs of the armed forces.

He said that there are in the country about 1,500,000 men under 26 years of age who are classified in 4-F and deferred for physical, mental or moral reasons.

"I am going to insist that some of them be taken for service," he said, "and keep on insisting."

The armed forces have come to the conclusion they want men under 26," he said, and are willing to see a lessening in production in order to get them.

McNutt's View

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Describing the manpower situation as 'relatively good," Paul V. McNutt, head of the War Manpower Commission, told a House of Representatives military subcommittee today he saw no need for national service legislation of any type at this time.

He added, however, that there "may be real merit" in proposals to effect job controls over some 3,000,000 men now in 4-F but said the Army was opposed to inducting them. Just how he proposed to use the 4-F's and to divert them into essential industry, Mr. McNutt did not explain.

Red Cross Society Finishes Four Quilts

YOUNG'S POINT, March 29—(ENS).— The Young's Point Red Cross Society members met at the home of Mrs. Cecil Pelton on Thursday for an all-day quilting bee and a pot luck dinner was enjoyed at noon.

During the day two large quilts and two crib quilts were completed. The work convener reported that the week prior, two quilts had been completed at the home of Mrs. E. Johnston.

Plans are being made to have an Easter bingo party in St. Aidan's parish hall sponsored by the local society on Thursday, April 13, the proceeds to be used for their war work.

Plant 40,000 Trees

GUELPH, March 29 (CP). — The Wellington County Reforestation Committee has completed plans for the planting of 40,000 trees to provide four miles of windbreak along various township roads, it was announced yesterday. Spruce, Scotc pine, walnut and white as trees will predominate.

Issue Debentures To Build Arena

TORONTO, March 29—(CP)—A bill authorizing the city of Welland to issue debentures for $50,000 to aid in the building of an arena was one of four measures reported without amendment today by the private bills committee of the Ontario Legislature. The bills will now go to the House for second reading.

Other bills reported, including those of the city of London, authorizing the levying of a mill instead of a half-mill on the tax rate for park purposes, and a measure to incorporate the Capuchin Fathers of the Belgian, Province of Ontario, a religious order which has its headquarters at Blenheim.

Red Cross Society Makes $14 At Dinner

HASTINGS, March 29—(ENS)—A special meeting of the Red Cross of Fife's Community was held in the form of a pot luck dinner and quilting at the home of Mrs. Lou Elmhurst.

The ladies quilted 5 quilts for the Red Cross. Mrs. Thomas of Birdsalls donated a fancy apron. Mrs. Max Humphries holding the lucky ticket. Several other draws were made on potted house plants donated by Mrs. John Davidson. Little Paul Humphries was kept busy during the day with the selling of his turnips.

Around 39 sat down to the long table with its white cloth centred with cut flowers and enjoyed a delicious dinner. The ladies were well pleased when they realized $14.

The next meeting will be held at the same home on Wednesday afternoon, April 12.

Casualty Reports Rushed Ralston Claims

OTTAWA, March 29 — (CP) — Defence Minister Ralston said today in a statement that an "express Jeep service inaugurated in Italy some time ago helps to expedite the dispatch of Canadian casualty reports to field headquarters, from where they are relayed to London and Ottawa.

But under all the circumstances the Minister said, a casualty notice can hardly be expected to reach Canada in less than a week or 10 days. Land line communication is frequently "out," wireless channels are loaded with operational messages and casualty reports are going to both Canadian and British General Hospitals.

Col. Ralston said Canadian army administrative officers in Italy are constantly striving to speed up casualty reports, and that the casualties section at defence headquarters is equipped to handle a casualty list of any size and dispatch telegrams to next-of-kin in a matter of hours.

Canadian military headquarters overseas have pointed out that every time authorities here ask for particulars of a specific case the load on communications systems is increased.

"But we have told them that if necessary they must if possible increase parallel methods of communications so that we can get casualty particulars back to Canada faster and without interfering with operational traffic," the Minister said.

AIR FORCE GARDENERS

LONDON — (CP) — Produce worth $1,883,000 was supplied to R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. messes from allotments on spare ground at airfields in the United Kingdom in 1943. All the work on the gardens is done by R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and women's personnel in their spare time.

Theme Of Window Is Said Offending

WAKEFIELD, Mass., March 29—(AP)—A stained glass window portraying the Virgin Mary with a warship in her arms will be altered at the request of the chaplain of the naval operations base at Norfolk, Va., the designer of the window said last night.

Wilbur H. Burnham declared the revision would have to be made before the window is installed in the chapel at the Virginia Navy base.

"I regret very much that the change is being made but as you can imagine, this particular window has caused considerable controversy," he said.

He added, "however I have had no adverse criticisms from members of the Roman Catholic faith; in fact the window has received high praise."

Burnham has informed Rev. E. C. Conover, director of the Interdenomination Bureau of Architecture, that "because the theme of the window has offended certain church groups" he had been asked to eliminate the destroyer escort in the arms of Mary and place there instead a figure of the Christ child.

Triplet Girls Born At Ingersoll Hospital

INGERSOLL, Ont., March 29—(CP). — Triplet daughters were born yesterday in Alexandria Hospital here to Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Alderson of nearby Kintore. The mother and children were reported "doing fine" to-day.

Weights of the babies were given as follows: 5 lb. 6½ oz., 4 lb. 10 oz., 3 lb. 10 oz.

The Aldersons, who already have an eight-year-old boy and who had been wishing for a girl, found their wish fulfilled threefold. The triplets were the first in history of the hospital.

Col. McCormick Opposes Plan

MINNEAPOLIS, March 29—(AP)—Col. Robert McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, said in a newspaper interview here today he believes the United States should require all European countries to "liquidate their holdings" in the Western Hemisphere after the war.

Asserting it is proposed that the United States participate in a world government "in which we will have one of 44 votes, the British Empire six and Russia 16," Col. McCormick said:

"This super-government is to have power to levy taxes on us without our consent, to spend the proceeds among the dominant majority which will raise and equip armies and appoint their officers, and create a supreme judiciary, before which Americans may be hauled from this country for trial, deprived of all the rights we now enjoy under our constitution."

CLIPPED MOSQUITO COMES HOME — With a good-sized chunk of a wing shot away and one engine and the hydraulics badly damaged, this R.A.F. Mosquito bomber made its way safely back to England and landed at a fighter station on the south coast. The ship was flown on a mission over enemy territory by an Australian crew.

Canadians Win 10 of 15 Boxing Bouts

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, March 29 — (CP) — Roddy Macdonald's chances appeared about as bright as Piccadilly in the black-out when he entered the ring against a smooth-boxing, well-conditioned fellow from the British Army Physical Training Corps.

Roddy had been in a terrific slump. He just couldn't find the form he lost shortly after winning the middleweight championship of both the British and Canadian Armies last year.

But the form came back just quickly when the corporal from Edmonton beat the P.T. instructor to feature a tournament in which Canadians won 10 or 15 bouts from a British team representing Eastern Command.

Punching strongly in his "stand-up-straight" style, Roddy gave one of his best performances in taking a three-round decision from Sgt. Inst. Tom Sweeney. The display revived hopes of handlers and friends that Roddy would develop into a top-notch post-war professional.

Against the pick up Eastern Command, two of three 1944 Canadian Army titleholders won their bouts. Big Joe Main, a Calgary trooper, defeated Freddie Frith of R.E.M.E. in the heavyweight class, while little Jackie Billings, a gunner from St. Mary's, Ont., took a bantamweight victory over QMS. Stan Hartery, R.E.M.E. The Canadian crown-wearer who lost was Sgt. Jack Ennis of Windsor, Ont., a light-heavy.

The 1943 Canadian Army featherweight king, Tpr. Larry Slabodian of Montreal, trounced Fus. Johnny Hunter.

Other Canadian winners included Dvr. Jerris Jamen of Kingston, Ont., slugging lightheavy.

Remember When—

Just four years ago tonight Joe Louis knocked out Johnny Paychek of Des Moines, Iowa, in two rounds to successfully defend his world's heavyweight crown for the 10th time. Louis had little trouble in knocking out the back-pedalling Paychek.

French, Belgians Pray For Invasion

PORTLAND, Me., March 29 (AP) —The suffering and oppressed peoples of France and Belgium "live from day to day only in the hope of an invasion," Count Robert Van Der Stratenponthoz, Belgian Ambassador to the United States, said today.

The subjugated people of the two German-ruled countries, "even little boys of five," will rise to kill "Nazi tyrants" if the Allies invade the continent through their countries, the Count said in an interview.

Concurring in her husband's remarks was Countess Stratenponthoz, said "thousands upon thousands, from youngsters to old men and women, await instructions," he said.

Quarter Million Quilts Made By Red Cross

TORONTO, March 29 — (CP) — Mrs. Arthur W. Ellis, president of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society said today that before the war designers and dressmakers of Paris sent the fashions, "but after the war, the volunteer dressmakers of the Red Cross will be more widely known than the finest Parisian designers." She was speaking to the first conference of women's war work conveners of the Division. She said the words "gift of the Canadian Red Cross Society", would be the mark of distinction for the well-dressed European, pointing out that the coming of peace would bring no lessening of responsibility to such workers Mrs. J. C. Fraser of Toronto, crairman of the Ontario Women's War Work Committee, announced that from the war's beginning, women in Red Cross branches all over Ontario have made a total of 10,848,488 articles, including women's suits and topcoats, sweaters, dressing gowns, and a quarter of a million quilts.

Hepcats Shed Tears Benny Goodman Quits

HOLLYWOOD, March 29—(AP)——Hepcats were shedding tears and singing the "B.G. Blues" to-day. For Benny Goodman, pied piper of the swing era, has tucked his clarinet into its case and said so long to his band—for good, he says.

Harried by draft depletions of his outfit and contractual difficulties, Goodman finished his latest movie and left for New York and a vacation, abandoning the organization that was once kingpin in popular music. To jive hounds, barely existing on a ration of 4-F and elderly swing, this act was catastrophic.

The juke box mob still has hope, though. Once before Goodman dissolved his aggregation, then reorganized it after recovering from an illness. "B.G. will come back," they say grimly.

OTTAWA, March 29 — (CP). — Under the auspices of the Canadian Flying Clubs Association and the Gatineau Gliding Club a national meeting of gliding clubs and individuals interested in gliding will be held here on April 21, it was announced yesterday at the association's office.

Rubber Tracks

LONDON, March 23 (CP-Reuters) —Allied forces are using tanks with rubber tracks in the battle for the heights around Cassino on the Italian central front, Guenther Weber, German overseas agency correspondent, said yesterday. Weber said the tanks can move on precipitous mountain paths only eight feet wide.

Hospital Shelled

ALGIERS, March 29—(CP-Reuters) — German artillery pumped more than 30 shells into an American tent hospital on the Anzio beachhead just before dawn Sunday, killing five soldiers and wounding 11, it was announced yesterday. All were sheltered in a tent which received a direct hit. The casualties brought to 33 killed and 74 wounded the number of American hospital patients struck by German bombing or shelling since the landing on the beachhead was made.

A New Standard

TORONTO, March 28 — (CP) — Retail trading must become a profession with standards and code of ethics, instead of "a mad scramble for the consumers' dollars," George S. Hougham, secretary of the Canadian Retail Federation, declared last night when he addressed the Federation's wartime conference. More than 300 delegates from all parts of Canada were in attendance.

LONDON, March 29—(CP).—Reconnaissance following American and R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bomber attacks on the German city of Augsburg on the day and night of Feb. 25 clearly show the M.A.N. works, largest producers of submarine Diesel engines in Germany, virtually destroyed, it was announced last night.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

HE'S NOT A JOKE NOW

NOBODY IN any game ever traveled a longer road of improvement than Charles H. Goren, the Philadelphia contract bridge star who has just smashed all records by winning five of the national champion events in the season of 1943-1944. In the language of the running track, he came from "behind scratch" to "win going away."

When he first played bridge, he was the joke of the party. He had tried to refuse the invitation, but the girl insisted, explaining that bridge was practically the same as pinoche, which he had played in high school, except that when you can't follow suit you don't have to trump unless you want to.

Burned up by the laughter and ridicule of the others, who were experienced players, he decided he would "master that game if it was the last thing I ever did."

He was then a law student at McGill university in Montreal, Canada, while living in the home of an uncle, who had invited him there from his Philadelphia home. After getting his LL.B., he returned to his home city, studied American law so he could pass his bar examinations, and bought a bridge book. He boned and boned over it, laid out all the hands, and finally began sending in answers to a contest run by a Philadelphia newspaper.

Never having played since his first ridiculous experience, he won a prize of $10 from the newspaper. Publishing of his name attracted the attention of a veteran player, who invited him to enter in the first public duplicate ever held in Philadelphia. He brought along an old friend as partner and they won a prize. From then on he was a confirmed enthusiast, played whenever he could, and never relinquished his interest in bridge as a study.

Not only has he come along as a great competitor, but his legal training and natural analytical ability have enabled him to distinguish himself as an expounder of winning tactics for others. No better or more thorough book on advanced bridge has ever been written than his "Better Bridge for Better Players," and he has shown his ability to impart knowledge also as a teacher, lecturer, writer of shorter expositions and as a coach of partners and teammates.

His forty-third birthday was on the fourth of this month. His losing grapple with bridge in Canada was in 1923. Only six years later he won his first championship, that of the city of Philadelphia. Then he began to score fairly well in national events, doing better and better until he landed the top spot in the first ten for the season of 1938-1939. No teacher had better proof of his ability to impart knowledge, as he carried his prize pupil with him into second place—Mrs. Ralph C. Young, of Philadelphia, who was his partner in several events. The next season she landed top place in the ranking first time a woman had done it.

Having been the leader five years ago, it would seem there was nothing ahead of him competitively except to repeat. But he found a way to do it when he smashed all records by winning five events. The previous record was four national events in a season, by Oswald Jacoby, who had been the leader for four successive years until Mr. Goren crashed through, being the initial player to break the monopoly on the top held until then by New York experts.

How much do you know about the relative skill of men and women players in national championship competition? The records of the great women stars will be covered tomorrow.

Canada Starts To Build Huge Transport Aircraft

OTTAWA, March 29 — (CP) — Manufacture of the four-engine DC4 Douglas Transport Aircraft—termed by Munitions Minister Howe the 'plane most likely to succeed"—has been started in Montreal, Mr. Howe revealed yesterday while Munitions Department estimates were under review in the House of Commons.

The Minister threw new light on previously-announced plans for the aviation industry, disclosing these other principal facts:

1. Part of the work of developing jet propulsion aircraft engines has been transferred to Canada and cold-weather tests of jet propulsion are being made here while a Canadian team is working in British Jet Propulsion plants.

2. The work of designing a trans-Atlantic type of plane for Canadian production, using both Canadian and British plans, is well advanced.

3. In addition to the "Norsemen" now in production; and the Douglas DC4, Canada will probably need a small and medium type transport and designs for these are being studied.

Canada, said Mr. Howe, would be in a good position to start production of jet propulsion engines on even terms with any other country. Up to now, he said, no production of airplane engines had been attempted and there was a prospect of existing types becoming obsolescent.

Wait for Blossoms.

No more enthusiastic booster for Canadian girls can be found than Dennis Sherard, Hampshire, England, who married Mabel Hibbs, Montreal. They both arrived in Washington on the same day in Sept. 1941, from different directions. The Sherards have a three-months' old son, Michael, one of the youngest members of the large Canadian-British colony here. The Sherards like Washington . . . Are waiting eargerly for the cherry blossom to bloom with the pride of real Washingtons . . . After the war Sherards would "like to live in Canada. Be a rancher in the west because I like the outdoors." Then he paused and remarked: "But first I'd like to be sure that there are no bread lines and soup kitchens like there were in America before. So I think I'll go back to England, because home will be a good place to be after the war. Maybe we'll come to Canada later."

She Married.

Eileen Berry, Guelph, went to Washington in November, 1942. In October, 1943, she was back home, but only to be married to W.O. James Amid, Glasgow, Scotland. They work in the same British office in Washington; board together at night the bus that in 45 minutes takes them to their suburban apartment. Their future home will be Glasgow.

Mrs. Wendler Kepler, a native of England, lived in Montreal 10 years before coming to Washington. Admits frankly she likes the U.S. better than Canada or England. She married a U.S. navy ensign.

"Canadian girls are the finest workers we have." This is high praise coming from an American, Mrs. S. Kadow, British supply mission and army staff personnel director. Mrs. Kadow's joy at revealing that about 100 had married was tempted by the fact that some had resigned their jobs as a result. "We like Canadian girls . . . Send us more," she said.

Various types of jet propulsion engines are being tested under cold weather conditions in Canada, Mr. Howe said. For two years, Canada has been associated with the development of this engine.

Stays with Leaders

Canada had "a strong team" in the United Kingdom which had worked with engineers and scientists developing the new engine. They now were with plants making the engines.

Because Canada had not undertaken the manufacture of present types of engines, she could undertake the building of the new type with more prospects of success.

No nation would have any particular advantage in the building of jet propulsion engines, "so I think we should be warranted in undertaking engine-building with some prospect of success."

In the post-war period Canadian aircraft workers will be engaged in the construction of the Norsemen single-motor transport which, he said, already has proved the best of its type in existence and always had been made in Canada.

From studies of other transport types, two or three probably would be chosen and could be put into production quickly when the war was over. Canada is "well advanced" in the design of a trans-Atlantic type of aircraft for post-war production, using both Canadian and British designs.

Campaign Drive Raises $1,650

NORWOOD, March 29—(ENS)—The executive of the local branch of the Red Cross Society met recently at the home of the president, S. S. Breckon.

The treasurer, H. Godin, reported all outstanding accounts paid and a balance in the bank of $349.12. Bills presented for the purchase of wool and sewing materials from headquarters amounted to $53.76, and the treasurer was authorized to pay these. The president read a letter from headquarters telling the amount of jam and honey required to meet the needs of the year and asking for material or financial assistance. After some discussion it was decided to send a donation of $50 to the Jam and Honey Fund.

The highlight of the meeting was the report of the recent campaign for Norwood and surrounding district, their objective being $1,500. The report given by the campaign treasurer, Arthur Bitten, showed that over $1,650 had been subscribed, with donations still coming in. In addition to this president reported the receipt of a cheque for $1,500 from the county council.

It was announced 85 per cent of the campaign funds, amounting to approximately $2,635, will be sent to provincial headquarters at once, and practically half of this amount will be spent on prisoner of war food parcels.

New quotas of knitting and sewing have been received and are well under way. Work shipped since February meeting included the following: Airforce, 10 sleeveless V-neck sweaters; Army, 10 pair gloves and 10 ribbed helmets; Seamen, 15 pair regular socks; Hospital, 100 khaki handkerchiefs, 100 air force handkerchiefs, 30 pillow cases, 12 dressing gowns and 1 large blanket; Civilian, 34 large quilts and 21 crib quilts. The co-operating groups had handed in 28 large quilts and 13 crib quilts since the last meeting.

The following donations were gratefully received during the month: Mrs. J. F. Elliott $5 for P.O.W. food parcel fund; Girls' Get-together Club $2.50, for P.O.W. food parcel fund; Mrs. O. Siebert, 3 baby jackets; Willing Workers, 2 large quilts; Women's Institute, 1 large quilt and 1 small; Mrs. G. A. Brethen, 1 large quilt.

American Raiders Bag 48 Nazi Fighters

LONDON, March 30 (CP)—R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Halifax bombers—with the Canadian bomber group forming more than half the force of heavyweights—smashed at railway targets at Vaires, 15 miles east of Paris, last night, it was announced today.

Four-engined Lancasters again raided an engine works at Lyon in southern France during the night, the air ministry said. Simultaneously swift Mosquito bombers attacked Kiel and other objectives in western Germany.

One Canadian bomber was lost. All the other planes in the night's operations returned safely.

The entire German radio system went off the air this morning, usually a sign Allied bombers are over the Reich. However, at mid-morning, although most German radio stations were still off the air, the Berlin radio announced there were no enemy planes over Germany.

The R.A.F. night operation came after a day in which the United States 8th Air Force sent heavyweights against the Brunswick area of central Germany and to the Pas-de-Calais coast of France.

For the first time in daylight since March 23 German fighters gave serious battle as the bombers and their fighters escort roared over the Brunswick region, vital Nazi aircraft production centre.

A United States communique announced today the American fliers had shot down 48 Nazi planes, escorting fighters accounting for 39 of the enemy and the heavy bombers for the remaining nine. Other enemy planes were shot up on the ground by American fighters.

Nine U.S. bombers and nine fighters failed to return from all the day's operations. Over the Pas-de-Calais, the only opposition was moderate to heavy anti-aircraft fire.

The night blows followed by only a few hours an R.A.F. attack on a German convoy off the Frisian Islands in which Beaufighters, escorted by Mustangs, hit two vessels with torpedoes and damaged at least three others with cannon fire.

One Beaufighter was reported missing.

German Attack Fails At Cassino

NAPLES, March 30.—(AP).—Fifth Army forces repelled two small enemy attacks on the Anzio beachhead yesterday while Allied planes ranged far and wide over Italy, hitting targets in the Rome, Turin and Bolzano areas and sweeping across the Adriatic to bomb Sofia.

Field dispatches said German tanks in Cassino again tried the strength of Allied defenders in the Continental Hotel area, but 5th Army artillery dispersed them. A German patrol crossed the Rapido river south of the town but withdrew when Allied forces engaged it.

The communique itself made no reference to the Cassino front.

The attack on Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, was carried out last night by formations of both heavy and medium bombers, a communique said.

In addition to assaults on rail lines in Northern Italy by large formations of escorted bombers, air operations yesterday included medium bomber sweeps against Viterbo airdrome north of Rome and harbor and rail installations in Northwest Italy.

Twenty-two enemy aircraft were destroyed during the day's operations against an Allied loss of 11. The Mediterranean Allied air force flew approximately 1,800 sorties during the day.

Lonergan Case Smells Defence Claims

By JAMES H. PORTERFIELD
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—Demanding the death penalty for Wayne Lonergan, Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet charged today the young Canadian killed his wealthy wife "in cold-blooded murder" because he had been cut off from her money.

Grumet summed up for the state after Defence Attorney Edward V. Broderick had declared in his final argument that Lonegan had been double-crossed, tricked and cheated by members of the district attorney's office and police.

Court then was adjourned until tomorrow when General Sessions Judge James Garrett Wallace will send the case to the all-male jury.

Picturing the 26-year-old defendant as a "carefree country boy who found himself in the big league," Broderick declared Lonergan was plied with liquor for hours to get him to confess he battered and choked his wife, Patricia, to death last October 24.

"He was not only drunk when he was brought into the district attorney's office but he was kept drunk," the defence attorney shouted. "He got no sleep—no rest.

"Gentlemen, it's a terrible indictment when I say that when this is over four men should be in state prison—District Attorney Frank Hogan, Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet, Assistant District Attorney John Loehr, who perjured himself on the stand, and (Police) Capt. Daniel Mahoney."

Broderick, whose ringing summation lasted for about an hour and 40 minutes, charged also that the investigators double-crossed Lonergan on a promise to keep secret his abnormal sexual habits if he would confess.

"This country boy from the far reaches of Canada," the attorney

Nazi Troop Trains Attacked By Tito

LONDON, March 30.—(AP).—German troop trains carrying reinforcements to the Balkan front have been attacked by Yugoslav Partisans, according to a communique from Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz' headquarters broadcast by the new Yugoslav radio station.

"Columns of Ustasni troops guarding the passage of German troops for Vinkovci (80 miles northwest of Belgrade) on the main Zagreb-Belgrade railway have been routed," the communique said. "A large bridge south of Virotitica, 10 miles from the Hungarian border and 70 miles east of Zagreb, also was destroyed."

Fierce Fighting Rages On Imphal Road

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, India, March 30—(AP)—Capture by British troops of the western tunnel on the Maungdaw - Buthedaung road, further clearing the way for the drive southward against Akyab, was announced from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters today.

Heavy and continuous fighting in the past 24 hours blazed along the India-Burma border where the Japanese are driving toward Imphal, particularly in the Somra hills northeast of Imphal, but there was little change in the situation.

The communique from headquarters of the East Asia supreme commander said the occupation of the tunnel was completed after British forces had driven through dense jungle defences and taken positions on top of the tunnel. Then tanks drove up to the mouth of the underground fortress and fired into it point-blank. Infantry patrols, penetrating the long-defended fortification, found it deserted.

Bitter fighting had raged for weeks over the two tunnels piercing the Mayu range between Maungdaw and Buthedaung. Originally built for a rail line through the mountains, the tunnels were converted by the Japanese into strongholds surrounded by mases of entrenchments, bunkers and foxholes in dense woods.

Hold One Tunnel

The western tunnel was about 200 feet long. The British said they captured a medium- size gun and much equipment and stores in the fortress.

The Japanese still hold the eastern tunnel which is about 70 feet long. They must be dislodged from it also before the British can push their lines on down the coast.

In the offensive against Imphal, the Japanese had gained a position on a hill near the Tamu-Palel road about 35 miles southeast of Imphal and it was being attacked. In the offensive thus far the Japanese have lost 2,500 killed, the communique declared.

Glider-borne air commandos, in another slashing attack on Japanese communications in Northern Burma, have damaged the enemy's headquarters at Mohnyin, 80 miles southwest of Myitkyina, said the communique.

Mohnyin is on the railway to Mandalay, chief connecting line with Myitkyina, chief enemy base north of the Burma Road.

At the same time, Chinese forces pushing inside the Mogaung Valley and established a road block about a mile north of Laban, encircling two makeshift battalions of the mauled Japanese 18th Division.

While other Chinese to the north of Shaduzup in the same valley blasted the Japanese out of a honeycomb of entrenchments with bayonet and grenade in fierce close-range combat, this force was only about 28 miles from Kaiming and within striking distance of the Mandalay railroad.

Cpl. K. Miller, Peterborough Serves In Hygiene Section

By DOUGLAS AMARON—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS IN ITALY, March 30—(CP).—"Say, is she a peach!" These words in bold black letters on a white background catch the eye as you drive along the coast road from San Vito to Ortona. One hundred yards farther you read "No foolin', she's a dilly," and after still another 100 yards you come to "Boy, look at those legs."

The climax comes at the fourth sign which depicts two soldiers down on the floor in dice-shooting position examining a leggy little creature and the words, "Boy, she's really a louse," tell the story.

Setting up catching road signs warning of typhus is part of the job of the Canadian field hygiene section, a highly efficient unit of fewer than 30 men. The health of a Canadian division rests largely in their hands for they are the preventive which obviates the cure.

JERUSALEM, March 30.—(AP).—The situation in Palestine on the eve of the expiry date of the provisions of the British White Paper regulating Jewish and Arab matters since 1939 found both sides considerably although illegally armed today. The picture was darkened by recent sporadic outbreaks of violence and the outlook still was admittedly tense.

Authorities continued hopeful, however, that major clashes could be averted. A dusk curfew has been imposed and stringent laws carrying the death penalty for extreme terroristic activities have been re-invoked following last week's bomb-throwing incidents which cost the lives of nine policemen, of whom six were British.

Gateway City Falls To Russian Army

Cernauti, Capital Of Bucovina Is Valuable Prize

By TOM YARMOUTH
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 30.—(AP).—The evacuation of Czernowitz (Cernauti), gateway to the Balkans, was announced to-day by the German High Command in a broadcast from Berlin.

At the same time the communique admitted that "German troops disengaged themselves" from the Lower Ukrainian Bug, on the eastern approaches to Odessa, but as usual claimed this was done without enemy interference.

Last night's Russian communique said Russian forces had stormed across the Prut river and were engaging the defenders of Czernowitz, the Bucovinian capital, in hand-to-hand fighting. This stronghold and strategic rail juncture controls supply lines into Southern Rumania and Bessarabia.

Other Russian forces were driving through the Carpathian foothills toward the northern frontier of Czechoslovakia, following the capture of Kolomea, Prut river town on the main Berlin-Lwow-Bucharest railway 45 miles northeast of Czernowitz.

Indicating another Russian threat to Lwow in pre-war Poland, the Berlin broadcast said heavy fighting was under way with advance Red army formations in the area of Stanislau, about 70 miles south of Lwow and only 40 miles from the pre-war border of Czechoslovakia on the Lwow-Bucharest rail line.

Another Berlin broadcast said the Russians were throwing 15 rifle divisions and three tank corps, upward of 175,000 men, into the battle for the White Russian pathways to the Baltics in new smashes at the 100-mile German arc between Vitebsk and Obausy. It said the new offensive had been unable to gain ground, however.

Russian forces had broken into this third largest city of pre-war Rumania from the north and west after forcing the Prut River.

The city, which lies 17 miles north of present-day Rumania, is astride the rail line extending northwest to Lwow, in pre-war Poland, and south to Iasi (Jassy), Galatz on the Danube, and the oil centre of Ploesti.

Evacuation of Czernowitz was announced earlier by the German high command in a Berlin broadcast.

Advance units of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st Ukrainian Army were reported less than 30 miles from the famous pass of the Tartars leading across the Carpathians into Carpatho-Ukraine, taken over from Czechoslovakia by Hungary in Hitler's reshufflement of European boundaries.

Meanwhile Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 2nd Ukrainian Army stormed the fortified city of Balta, in the Southern Ukraine 115 miles northwest of the great German-held Black Sea port of Odessa, toward which other Russian forces were driving on a 215-mile semi-circular

Stimson Admits Allies Stalled In Cassino Fight

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP).—War Secretary Henry Stimson, discussing the situation at Cassino, said today "the simple fact is that the Germans stopped us."

He told a press conference that the Allied attack on the Italian fortress town "has subsided for the time being without achieving the results for which we had hoped."

The Germans, Mr. Stimson said, showed again "that they are obstinate and effective soldiers who do not quit when they are ordered to hold a key post at all cost."

"Their occupation of the steep hills where their guns covered the town gave the Nazis a continual advantage," Mr. Stimson said. "The bomb and shell destruction which our planes and guns wrought in Cassino did not prevent a garrison defence by those who survived our explosives and by other enemy troops who filtered in to join them.

"The rubble was good cover and the tunnels or caves in the adjoining hills gave shelter and ease of movement. The rains immediately after the plane and gun barrage made a morass of the open ground around the town and limited the use of our tanks, while slowing the advance of troops climbing the hills under fire."

Mr. Stimson followed up his blunt acknowledgment that the Germans stopped the Allies at Cassino with this statement:

"That would be a severe setback only if we did not profit from our lessons. We have learned a great many things since the war and we have put our learning into practice. There is no reason to believe that our ability to profit from experience has ended now."

The Secretary also reminded the Light Skirmishes On Italian Front

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN ITALY, March 30.—(CP Cable).—The Canadian corps front remained quiet yesterday after a day and night of brisk skirmishes south and east of Tollo, about three miles west of Ortona on the Adriatic, during which casualties were suffered by both sides.

Members of a Maritimes regiment who staged an attack late Tuesday—only one platoon was engaged—one cluster of German-held houses silenced several machine-gun posts before withdrawing to their original positions. Some casualties were suffered but the Germans also had losses.

Tally 425-23 Favors Government

Premier's Challenge Angers Many; Amendment Deleted

LONDON, March 30 — (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill today won a resounding 425-23 vote of confidence from the House of Commons—the eighth he has received in 4 years as Wartime Trade Minister.

The vote was demanded by the Prime Minister after his government's first defeat—by a one vote margin—when its opposition to an educational bill amendment was rejected 117-116 Tuesday.

Mr. Churchill demanded the confidence vote so his cabinet "would know where we stand with this house."

The Prime Minister had said if the House rejected the educational bill in original form it would be his duty to advise the Crown that his government lacked the Commons' confidence and he would be forced to advise dissolution of parliament.

Want No Election

House votes earlier in the sitting on two routine matters of procedure in which the government was given substantial majorities indicated many members who had voted in favour of the amendment in opposition to the government's wishes did not want to risk the possibility of a general election.

This consequently indicated their intention of voting with the government when the education bill was presented again with the amendment to grant equal pay to men and women teachers deleted.

This was the amendment inserted in the bill when the House voted against the government Tuesday.

Mrs. Cazalet Keir, Conservative, who offered the equal-pay amendment in the first place, told the House:

"The Prime Minister has left no other possible choice open to us than to support him. In this vote of confidence I am going to vote against a clause embodying my own amendment not because my views are changed at all on equal pay—but because more vital matters have been superimposed upon it. In this great Democracy of ours convention for once seems to have overruled common sense."

Many in the House, government supporters among them, were plainly provoked at their position.

Russians Deny Badoglio Status

MOSCOW, March 30 —(AP)—A front page editorial in the government newspaper Izvestia explained today that the exchange of envoys with the Italian regime of Marshal Pietro Badoglio did not mean full recognition of his government and in effect called on Britain and the United States for a change in the government in Italy.

"The Italian question is one of the important problem confronting the Allies and it should be settled as soon as possible to help hasten victory over Germany," the editorial said.

Izvestia expressed irritation with British and American newspapers which, it said, had interpreted the exchange of envoys as meaning Soviet support for undemocratic elements in Italy. It added the Soviet is willing to have immediate changes in the Badoglio government without waiting for the occupation of Rome.

Churchill's Move Surprises Opponents

Challenges Critics To Ensure Complete Support Of Party, Even Domestic Issues

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Prime Minister Churchill's surprise move in challenging his House of Commons to give him a blanket vote of confidence for his war and post-war policies, after he had been defeated on a purely domestic issue, is typical of this square-jawed individualist—whole hog or nothing!

Mr. Churchill apparently caught his opponents off guard, for certainly many of those who voted against the government (on a motion to give women teachers the same pay as men) weren't registering lack of confidence in his general policies. Indeed they made it clear they wished to dissociate the domestic matter from the broader issues, but he called for a show-down.

Mr. Churchill's reason for this move undoubtedly was that there has been a growing volume of adverse criticism levelled at his government. He devoted part of his speech last Sunday to rebukink critics for rocking the political boat in war time. Part of the criticism has concerned domestic affairs. However, it appears to me to have been due largely to lack of public information regarding international policies affecting Britain in particular and the United Nations in general.

You will see what I mean if you will stop and check on the amount of concrete, official information you yourself have regarding the political decisions, or lack of decisions, at any of the big Allied conferences. It's mighty meagre. Well now, the Allied publics are asking just what the relations are among the big three—Britain, the United States and Russia—and how those relations are affecting the military and political trend.

The nearer we get to the end of the European war, the greater the problems become. And what more natural than that, since upon their solution depends the political complexion of the world and the maintenance of peace?

Seeks French Canadian Aid

Would Eradicate All Internal Strife

TORONTO, March 30.—(CP).—A plea to French Canadians and Canadians of Anglo-Saxon extraction to "dedicate a portion of our energy to the eradication" of whatever may "delay Canada's oneness of soul," was made to-day by Jacques Dumoulin, Liberal member of the Quebec Legislature for Quebec-Montmorency.

"What with the merits my people may have, what with your great qualities, your practical soundness, virile outlook, generosity of mind and that inimitable English trait you possibly don't even suspect, a compelling inclination to lend assistance, to extend kindness and the most winning amibility, nothing seems beyond attainment if we make proper use of these precious materials," he said in an address to the Empire Club of Toronto.

He described two former premiers of Ontario—the Rt. Hon. G. Howard Ferguson and Mitchell F. Hepburn — as true nation-builders "in their endeavors for the just recognition of minority rights."

Try To Save Balkan Jews

Punishment Of Nazi Officials Certain

LONDON, March 30 (CP)—Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today that Britain and the United States are discussing further action toward saving Jews in the Balkans from German terror and promised punishment for Hitler's satellites guilty of an extermination policy.

"Happily," he said, "there are individuals and even official authorities among the satellites who have resisted the evil of the German example and have shown toleration and mercy...the British Government is concerned to make it clear that those who followed the right path also will not be forgotten on the day of final reckoning."

Mr. Eden said Britain was trying to rescue all menaced by German terror. He said it had always been possible for persecuted Jews to enter Palestine within the quota and that the difficulty had been for them to leave their countries.

He answered in the negative a query by John David Mack, Labor, who asked, "are you not aware about 1,400 unfortunate people who succeeded in reaching Palestine were turned out?"

Started As Cub On Examiner Senator W. A. Buchanan Now Heads Canadian Press

Minister's Son, Born Near Fraserville Attended School At Norwood Now Owner Of Lethbridge Herald

TORONTO, March 30—(CP).—A publisher who started at the bottom as a cub reporter on a small town newspaper is the new president of The Canadian Press. He is Senator W. A. Buchanan, president and managing director of the Lethbridge Herald, who began his career as a boy of 16 on the Peterborough Examiner. He has been close to the smell of printer's ink ever since.

Senator Buchanan was elected president of the CP at the annual meeting of the Canadian Co-operative News-Gathering Association yesterday when member newspaper representaives concluded their annual meeting.

Arthur R. Ford, editor-in-chief of the London, Ont., Free Press and retiring after two years as CP president, said in his annual address that CP's post-war job will be to cover the nations as it has covered politicians in Canada — "fairly and without bias." The Canadian Press management, looking to the future, was preparing for coverage of the "political and economic turmoil which is bound to follow peace in Europe."

No Cut In News.

J. A. McNeil, general manager, said in his report that "the general news service has been kept well up to the requirements of member newspapers while recognizing the limitations imposed upon them by staff shortages, space restrictions, and other handicaps on publication."

The Vancouver News-Herald, a morning paper, was admitted to membership in the Canadian Press bringing the total number of daily newspapers in the co-operative to 90. The News-Herald is represented by C. B. Delbridge, publisher.

Senator Buchanan, new head of the organization that stretches from coast to coast, was born the son of a minister at Fraserville, Ont., July 2, 1876. After attending schools at Trenton, Brighton and Norwood he spent four years on the Examiner before moving to the Peterborough Review.

Worked for Telegram

Later he worked for four years on the Toronto Telegram, first as city editor then as news editor, and was closely associated with its publisher, the late John Ross Robertson.

At 27 he moved to St. Thomas to become managing editor of the Journal and went west two years later to buy the Herald, then a weekly, and convert it into a daily in 1907.

Senator Buchanan's political career began two years later when he was elected to the Alberta Legislature and for a time was a minister in the Liberal government. In 1911 he was elected member of parliament for Medicine Hat and represented that constituency at Ottawa until 1921. He was appointed to the Senate in 1925.

Senator Buchanan was one of the founders of the western Associated Press, a fore-runner of the Canadian Press; a director of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association; and, in 1930, a delegate to the Imperial Press conference.

He served as a director of the CP 1929-35 and since 1941. He was elecelected first vice-president in 1942.

Chas. Davidson Ex-Mayor Dies At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30 — (ENS).—A man widely known throughout the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham which he served as Warden in 1928, Charles Davidson, who has long been held as one of this town's leading citizens, died this morning at 2 o'clock. A former mayor, reeve, councillor, and water and light commissioner he spent his entire life in service to the community.

The funeral service will be held under Masonic auspices at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at St. John's United church. Rev. G. N. Maxwell is officiating and interment will be in Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

In addition to being one of the charter members of the local Rotary Club he was also a Mason and an Oddfellow. Though a life-long Conservative he broke with the party briefly in 1934 to offer himself as candidate for the Reconstruction Party in this riding.

For more than a quarter of a century he served this community as Fire Chief, a position he thoroughly enjoyed and frequently he was seen at the wheel of the fire truck racing to the scene of trouble even as he served as Mayor. His interest in sporting activities was even more widely known, for he has served on the executive of Campbellford's lacrosse, hockey and softball clubs for nearly twenty-five years and as owner of the town's only ice arena

Cobalt Becomes Ghost Town Member States

TORONTO, March 30— (CP) — The Ontario Legislature, well into its last major item of business—the consideration of budget estimates—will sit today and tonight as it speeds toward prorogation, expected April 6 at the latest.

The House passed a total of $2,-131,000 in estimates for the treasury and Mines departments, the Auditor's Office, Legislation and miscellaneous purposes yesterday as well as dealing with a number of bills.

Including among measures put through committee stage was the Government's amendment bill banning slot machines in Ontario. The measure now defines "slot machines" more closely and provides an appeal section.

During discussion of Mining estimates J. B. Salsburg (Lab-Prog. —Toronto St. Andrew) asked the Government what was being done about the situation at Cobalt, Ont., which he described as a "ghost town." C. H. Taylor (CCF—Temiskaming) also referred to Cobalt and said a survey should be made to see if purchases of African Cobalt could not profitably pay a little more for Canadian production.

He reminded the Government it had $150,000 "sunk in the Cobalt plant."

Provincial Treasurer Frost said all possible was being done. He had met most of the Cobalt producers and at present representatives of the operators and mines department were making a survey as to what markets could be found for the huge piles of the strategic metal at Cobalt.

However, he said, Cobalt imported from Africa was superior in that it did not contain the percentage of arsenic found in the Canadian product. This arsenic content made it impossible to refine Canadian Cobalt except at four widely-separate refineries on the North American continent.

Mr. Frost was questioned by Mrs. R. M. Luckock (CCF-Toronto Bracondale) and C. A. Strange (CCF—Brantford) regarding control of films for children. C. C. F. leader Jolliffe brought up the question of more educational war pictures, mentioning an American series "why we fight."

Premier Drew said he was in sympathy with the belief more such pictures should be shown. Mr. Frost told the C. C. F. leader he would inquire about the series mentioned.

The Provincial Treasurer also said he would be glad to receive recommendations from members regarding close control of children's films by the Ontario Film Censorship Board, even to the placing of a child psychologist on the Board if necessary.

Premier Drew told the Legislature he did not intend "to submit to blackmail by individuals, corporations, or others" as he tabled a report on Royal Commission's findings into charges of neglect and improper supervision in the Provincial treasury department.

The report was the outcome of a study made by the commission into charges by Ernest Lawrie and Mrs. Marie Thompson, suspended employees of the treasury depart-offers.

The Premier's report said the charges against the officials were found "totally without foundation in any particular" by the commission, headed by Grant Potter of the Ontario Civil Service Association.

The commission recommended that Lawrie be released from the Civil Service and that Mrs. Thompson be retained in some department of the government outside the Parliament buildings provided she agree to comply with provisions of the Public Service Act because she had done good work in the Treasury Department for a number of years.

Mr. Frost said the government does not intend to be caught napping by an unexpected ending of the war and a subsequent flow of tourists into Ontario and that a $30,-000 increase in the printing vote for the publicity and tourist bureau to $60,000 was to take care of this possibility.

Finland Sends Peace Emissary

STOCKHOLM, March 30 — (AP) — Finland's veteran peace emissary, Juho K. Paaskivi, was reported off on a new mission today for another try at arranging a Finnish-Russian armistice.

Reliable reports filtering through the tight Finnish censorship said Paasikivi, may already have made contact with Russian representatives, possibly in Moscow. All efforts to locate him either at his home in Finland or in Stockholm in the past few days have failed.

It was in Stockholm that Paasikivi, who negotiated the peace that ended the Finnish-Soviet war in 1940, first met Russian diplomats Feb. 16 to hear Moscow's six points for getting out of this war. Premie Edwin Linkomies' government informed Moscow two weeks ago it could not accept the terms, but it is known that peace adocates have remained active in Helsinki.

Protests Using Judges On Commissions

BY FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 30 — (CP) — Protests against the employment of judges on royal commissions and other non-judical work, heard previously during the present session reached a high level in the House of Commons yesterday.

On a bill to enlarge the exchequer court of Canada from two to three judges John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) said to Justice Minister St. Laurent:

"I suggest to the minister that he give consideration to the suggestion that judges be used only in the judiciary and in no way on commissions, particularly where political considerations are involved."

Just before this T. L. Church (PC — Toronto — Broadview) a lawyer in private life as is Mr. Diefenbaker, obtained first reading for a bill to amend the Judges Act which would make the employment of judges on non-judicial work illegal. It was not the first time Mr. Church introduced a bill to the same effect but in other sessions it had not been passed.

Pass 900 Millions

The House co-operated with the government in enabling it to square away its financial matters in preparation for the Easter recess by approving the evpenditure of some $900,000,000 on account of next year's estimates.

The fiscal year 1943-44 ends Friday. the day the House adjourns for two weeks. The financial appropriations for the, new fiscal year, 1944-45—$702,000,000 for non-war purposes, and $3,-650,000,000 for war purposes—have not yet been approved.

To enable the government to meet its operating expenses in April and May the House approved the outlay of a total of close to $900,000.-000 on account of the two main financial bills, more than $46,000.-000 for non-war account and $850,-000,000 for war account.

It passed the annual routine borrowing power bills authorizing the government to raise $1,000,-000,000 by way of loan to meet current expenses and repayment of Jewish organizations now are mapping plans to combat and isolate outlaw elements. Some authorities are hopeful of averting any full-scale flareup in the near future.

The 1939 White Paper, the terms of which expire tomorrow, provided that 75,000 Jewish immigrants might be admitted to Palestine up to March 31, 1944, with immigration prohibited thereafter except with the consent of the Palestine majority. This meant the consent of the Arabs, who now outnumber the Jews by two to one.

Jewish immigration into the country has been slowed to a trickle by the war, and the latest announcement in the British House of Commons on the subject said only slightly more than 47,000 had arrived in the country since 1939. The announcement said another 28,000 would be admitted to fill the original quota as conditions permitted.

In recent weeks outbreaks of violence have been more frequent. Palestine authorities claim these are due almost if not entirely to Jewish extremist groups, and that the Arabs have been ostentatiously refraining from terrorist activity in the hope of improving their ca...

Allied troops have driven Japanese forces from another vantage point on the Tiddim Road, along which the Japanese have been moving north toward the Indian communications centre of Imphal, and have inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy, the communique said.

North-east of Imphal, Allied aircraft joined with artillery units in blasting a Japanese column which was caught in the open while driving down toward that city and sent it reeling back with heavy losses, the communique added.

It was estimated 2,500 Japanese troops have been killed on the Central Burma front since the present offensive began.

said, "was cheated by the city slickers of the District attorney's staff."

Suspect Italian

Declaring that the state had failed to prove that Lonergan was the killer, Broderick suggested two other ways in which the heiress might have met her death:

"First, at the hands of a burglar, and second, at the hands of Mario Gabellini, who escorted her to night clubs just before the slaying.

"Isn't it significant," the defence attorney demand, "that the district attorney does not rule out the possibility of burglary or that Mrs. Lonergan's death was due to a burglar? Isn't it important to know how much money she carried that night? Isn't it important to know how much jewelry she had as she staggered into that room?

"They (the prosecutors) haven't ruled out the possibility that Gabellini grabbed her around the neck and choked her."

Broderick asserted that Gabellini, whom he described as "sophisticated and slippery," was in competition with Lonergan for the attention of the heiress and that Lonergan, "fascinated by the glamour and glitter" of the life he was living. found himself "in a tragic situation."

One by one, the defence attorney attacked the testimony of prosecution witnesses, charging the State deliberately kept certain police officials off the stand because it was afraid to subject them to cross-examination.

Didn't Tell Truth

"This case has smelled from its origination," Broderick declared, "and I could detect the strench getting stronger when the medical examiner was on the stand. The doctor didn't tell the truth."

The examiner, Dr. Milton Helpern, testified Mrs. Lonergan's death was caused by a fractured skull, lacerations on the head, and strangulation. He said the fracture could have been caused by such an instrument as the brass candle sticks with which the State contended Lonergan beat his wife.

Broderick said that while Mrs. Lonergan bled so much that even the bedclothes were soaked, there was not a drop of blood on the candle-sticks.

"I say to you," he added, 'those candlesticks were placed in that room and under the bed after Mrs. Lonergan stopped bleeding."

Broderick charged there was "something strange" about the testimony of a nurse who was employed in an apartment above the Lonergans and who said she heard screams but didn't investigate or advise the police.

"There was some unholy reason," Broderick said, why the State did not call a maid employe by the Lonergans and certain other servants. The only employee called was a governess, who said she heard no sounds the morning of the slaying.

"It would be more in keeping with the traditions of Parliament," said Sir John Wardlaw- Milne, Conservative, "if the Government had introduced a measure in which the whole House could have shown their unbounded support for the government in the war effort on a vote of confidence, and not put the House in the position it is today, in which members have to eat their own words and vote against the very measure they supported so recently."

Many women teachers looked anxiously from the gallery. Under present wage scales, men teachers receive about 10 to 20 per cent. more than women. The Government said it did not oppose equal pay, but believed action should be taken on the basis of findings by a committee now working out a new scale.

The House seats only 450 of its 615 members and scores stood for the debate, among them Cabinet Ministers.

Cheers greeted Richard A. Butler, Minister of Education, when he declared the equal pay amendment was unacceptable to the Government in the form presented.

Mr. Churchill spoke only once and briefly. That was to say that because of a limitation on debate he did not feel justified in offering any arguments on the main issue, but that he wished to "assure the House my not taking part in the debate is not due to any want of respect or a desire to shirk my duty."

At another point James Maxton, Independent Labor Party, waved at the Conservative benches, unusually crowded by the party summons for a vote of confidence, and remarked that the "Government will be very annoyed if there is no vote, after all the backwoodsmen turning out."

Mr. Churchill snapped, "They are not backwoodsmen. They are doing public work, many in the services."

"The Prime Minister is much too sensitive," Maxton replied, adding that the term was not one of reproach but one long used in the House to describe members from provincial constituencies who seldom attend the sessions.

The vote was the strongest support lent the Prime Minister since the first three virtually unanimous votes of confidence given early in his leadership through the grim days of warfront reverses.

The House, packed with an urgently-summoned turnout of government supporters, cheered until the chamber rang as the vote was announced—proof of its continued support of the government's overall program on the eve of a great new phase of Allied attack.

Mr. Churchill left a few minutes later, smiling to acknowledge the cheers which followed him as he walked out of the House.

He had won hands down as expected—won on a vote which he demanded to reverse his government's one ballot defeat Tuesday.

He stubbornly refused to regard it as sideshow domestic issue and said he must have the support of the House all down the line—on domestic or war issues—or the government would resign.

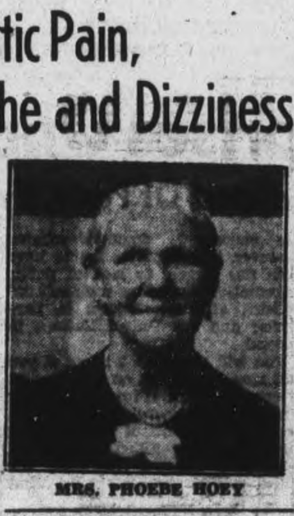
Relieved Rheumatic Pain, Headache and Dizziness

This Well-Known Lady Tells of Good Results Obtained By Taking Syntona Herbal Compound. "Digestion Also Improved; Feel Better In Every Way," She Says.

"I was suffering from rheumatic pain in my hip and limbs so badly that I had to be in bed three weeks," said Mrs. Phoebe Hoey, 171 Jackson Street West, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report telling of her experience with Syntona Herbal Compound.

"I could hardly bear any weight on my leg and the pain was so severe it kept me from sleeping. It even extended down my limbs and across my abdomen. There just wasn't anything that seemed to give me relief. I also suffered a lot with dull headache and awful dizzy feelings. Although my appetite was poor, the little food I did eat soured and fermented in my stomach.

"I read so often about Syntona helping other people that I finally decided I should try it. Now, after taking it only a short time, I am here to report that it has given me the best results of anything I ever tried. The rheumatic condition is so much better that I am able to be up around and get down town with scarcely any trouble. I haven't been bothered with headache or dizziness lately, either. Then, too, my appetite is better. My food digests without all that sourness and I am feeling much better in every way. I can highly recommend Syntona to other people suffering as I did."



MRS. PHOEBE HOEY

Syntona is made from the pure herbal extracts of 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. It acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels....aids in the elimination of excess acids and poisonous waste matter from the system, and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.))

If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they made you feel.

Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.

To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do for you? ... This purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?

Little Interest Shown In Aviation Plans

COBOURG, March 30 (ENS) — Only a handful turned out for the meeting held in the town hall on Tuesday night in connection with post-war aviation. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss landing fields in this area in order to be up to date when post-war aviation gets underway. Mayor J. D. Burnet pointed out that letters had been sent out to the local service clubs, Legion, military units and others, inviting them to attend, but apparently the matter did not arouse much interest.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Burnet, Councillor Delany, Reeve J. Moncrief of Port Hope; W. H. McGuire, Harry Lucas, A. McIntosh, Lester Caughey, Hubert Cocey, Arnold Hall, Dave Carr and Mrs. W. Long of Toronto.

Those who didn't show up missed a good address by C. R. Patterson, head of the Aeronautical Institute of Canada. Mr. Patterson suggested that the towns of Cobourg and Port Hope to start off with a landing strip of rather an elementary nature, comparable to the "dirt road" and as conditions warranted it, to develop it into something more substantial.

Mr. Patterson said that there were several localities along the highway between Cobourg and Port Hope which would provide ideal places for landing strips and air fields. He said that a strip laid down in the general direction of the prevailing winds, 500 feet wide, would handle 85 per cent of the planes which would ever come to Cobourg. A start could be made on a $10,000 to $25,000 field.

Up to date landing fields would attract business, both industrial and tourist, to the town, the meeting was told.

Gathering Hears Aviation Needs

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30. — (ENS)—The role of the smaller communities in the post war aviation picture was stressed by C. R. Patterson, president of the Aeronautics Institute of Canada in an address delivered before a representative gathering from various parts of this county at Warkworth Wednesday afternoon.

"Many of these boys who will be rehabilitated know nothing but aviation so the question of what we are to do with 200,000 in the air force and another 120,000 now working in airplane factories arises. This was an industry which employed but 3,000 men before the war. If we should not look at the business from a social or humanitarian viewpoint but from the financial angle, we might ask "is the $15,000 to $30,000 invested in the boys to prove a sheer waste."

"Modest landing strips comprising from 15 to 65 acres are sufficient for small communities and represent one of the most important developments to be taken in post war aviation. They will provide feeder lines for the larger systems and open the way for the aero-car of the future. This Canadian problem means effort, but will result in a high standard of employment.

Only 32 of 580 communities in Canada have any scheduled air service and of the balance some four hundred might be anxious to have an airport for which the average cost would run to approximately $50,000. For $20,000,000 approximately 400 communities could be put on the air map of Canada, and such a program would provide thousands of returned airmen with work providing feeders for the national air lines. Many of the small communities will be able to finance a post war air strip at less than $15,000 the speaker estimated.

Answering the question of probable cost of family planes, Mr. Patterson said there were two place planes costing $1,250 which cost from one to one and a quarter cents a mile to operate. The tourist business of 1939 brought in 300 million dollars to Canada, he declared.

The speaker said 2,000 feet of sodded land, well filled, from 300 to 500 feet wide and without the hazards of high tension wires or other obstacles, with a slope of less than two per cent preferably facing into the prevailing wind (northwest in this district) would be suitable. The cost of such a project would probably be less than $2,000.

Canadians Want Honest News Speaker Says

TORONTO, March 30 — Men who are used to liberty fight best if they know the truth, and newspapers of the British Empire have brought the truth to their people in this war, Col. J. J. Astor, M.P., publisher of the London Times and chairman of the Empire Press Union Council, told 250 Canadian publishers and editors last night at a dinner marking the 35th anniversary of the union's Canadian section.

If the post-war world is to be a better world, Col. Astor also declared, the Empire countries will have an essential part to play. And then again the Empire will need its free, informed and honest press, he declared, the members of the Empire Press should pledge their loyalty and devoted service.

"This was bound to be a war of peoples, in which popular morale would be a vital, probably decisive factor," said Col. Astor. "It may suit Germans to be kept in a world of ignorance — now I hope with an increasing sense of impending disaster. But I shall be surprised if Goebbels and his myrmidons ever celebrate the 35th anniversary of their feast of lies."

The continual efforts of the union Col. Astor told the gathering, had been directed toward keeping the newspapers of the Empire in touch with one another and had been a positive contribution to Commonwealth solidarity.

The union had worked to ensure that war news should reach the various parts of the Empire fully, accurately and swiftly. It had successfully resisted unnecessary censorship, brought about introduction of an Empire penny press rate for cabled news which it was hoped could be retained after the war, and now was working on further improvement of communications.

Senator W. Rupert Davies, publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard and chairman of the Canadian section of the E.P.U., was chairman of the dinners, which honored three charter members of the section: J. E. Atkinson of the Toronto Star, P. D. Ross of the Ottawa Journal, and M. E. Nichols of the Vancouver Province. Scrolls commemorating the work of the veteran newspapermen for the E.P.U. and expressing appreciation of their contribution to the Canadian press were presented.

Wesley McCurdy, publisher of the Winnipeg Tribune, made the presentation of the scroll to Mr. Nichols; Henri Gagnon of Le Soleil made that to Mr. Ross; Arthur Ford, editor of the London Free Press, that to Mr. Atkinson. Horace T. Hunter, president of the Periodical Association of Canada and of the MacLean Publishing Co., introduced Col. Astor, and E. Roy Sales of the Renfrew Mercury, representing the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association, expressed the thanks of the gathering.

Among the honored guests or their representaives were: Sir Patrick Duff, Deputy High Commissioner for the United Kingdom; Sir William Glasgow, Australian High Commissioner; R. M. Firth, Acting New Zealand High Commissioner; David de Wall Meyer, Union of South Africa representative; C. Rex Stollmeyer, British West Indies Trade Commissioner; and M. R. Ahuja, Indian Trade Commissioner.

Senator Buchanan tendered a vote of thanks to the committee of which H. L. Garner, Peterborough, was a member.

Three Groups Left $18,000 Will Reveals

LINDSAY, March 30 (ENS)—Over $6,000 each has been left to the Ross Memorial Hospital, the British War Victims' Fund and the Missionary Society of the United Church by Hugh Alexander Ray, a Lindsay citizen who died October 13, 1942. Mr. Ray left an estate of over $50,000 and following legacies to various members of his family, the residue will be divided equally to the above organizations.

The probate of the will came as a general surprise and is probably the first time that a large amount has been left to war service organization. Mr. Ray farmed most of his life in Mariposa township coming to Lindsay about 25 years ago. He is survived by only two close relatives, a sister, Mrs. Ida Doble of Sunderland and a brother George T. Ray of Lindsay.

Germans Recapture Island Of Rab

LONDON, March 30 — (CP) — German troops have recaptured the Island of Rab off the Croatian coast about 30 miles south of Fiume, a communique broadcast from the headquarters of Marshal Tito (Josnp Broz) acknowledged last night.

The bulletin gave no details of the fighting for Rab but declared the Nazis were marshalling large forces in the vicinity of Jaclanica —which is situated directly opposite the island on the Croatian shore—for an offensive against Yugoslav Partisan troops.

Drive Reaches $9,002

COBOURG, March 30—(ENS)—Latest figures in connection with the Red Cross canvass show a total of $9,002.39. Of this amount, $6,695.84 was raised in Cobourg and the balance in Hamilton township. Objective was $10,000 but the total this year was greater than the amount raised in 1943.

Co-operative Buys New Site For Business

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30 — (ENS).—The Campbellford District Co-operative, which for the past year has been entertaining the possibility of expanding their operations, have now purchased the O'Sullivan block on Bridge Street.

Up to the present time the Co-op lines have been handled through Andrew Milne, manager of the English Line Egg Circle at their offices on Front Street. When they take over their new premises a considerably larger stock will be carried by the Co-op. The sale marks the closing out of George O'Sullivan's grocery store which he has operated here for the past thirty-three years. Mr. O'Sullivan, who has enjoyed the confidence and patronage of a considerable number of citizens in the district, is planning to retire.

Cobourg Men Sponsor Song Written In Italy

COBOURG, March 30—(ENS)—The song written by Tom McMahon, Cobourg boy with the L.A.A. in Italy, which was sent over here by the padre of the regiment, will be promoted by local citizens. Mayor Jack Burnet received the song from the regiment O.C. and the padre, who said it had gone over well in military concerts over there and suggesetd it be copyrighted. Judge J. C. M. German will look after the legal aspects of copyrighting the song and W. H. McGuire, president of the Kiwanis Club, will look after the production of the song and its presentation to the public.

Farewell To Stephen Leacock

By the death of Stephen Leacock Canada loses her most widely-known man of letters. Leacock's humorous works were read in every English-speaking country; he was known as a lecturer in every part of this continent and in Great Britain. He possessed two remarkable reputations; in the world of scholarship he held a commanding position as an economic theorist, and to the world at large he was known as a humourist who followed, not unworthily, in the footsteps of Mark Twain.

The general public knows nothing of Leacock's work as an economist, and has heard little of his serious non-economic work, such as his biographies of Baldwin and La Fontaine in the Makers of Canada series. But it is thoroughly familiar with Literary Lapses, Winsome Winnie and Arcadian Adventures With The Idle Rich. One of the best of Leacock's books was one which had a distinctively Canadian setting — Sunshine Sketches of A Little Town; Orillia believes itself to be the original of that little town, and it may be so, but there can be few people in Eastern Canada who could not identify Mariposa as the scene of their own early days; Dean Drone, Judge Pepperleigh, Peter Pupkin, and Jeff Thorpe are native Canadian characters, flesh of our flesh and bone of our bone. Louis Hemon, in Maria Chapdelaine, preserved rural French Canada forever; with a very different style and an embracing humour Stephen Leacock preserved small-town Ontario in the Sunshine Sketches. Whatever is most human and attractive in Canadian life is latent in the tale of how Peter Pupkin captured the bank-robber, and in the strange manner in which Dean Drone's church was relieved of its burden of debt, and in the account of the voyage of the Mariposa Belle. But it would be possible to go on in this strain for many paragraphs.

It is a great pity that it was not possible for Stephen Leacock to write more distinctively Canadian books than he did. But the rewards of an author who decides to serve Canada first are pitiful, and the atmosphere of a country in which writers' royalties are classed as 'unearned income' is uncongenial to literary effort. No one can blame him for directing so much of his work toward the United States. Recognition of his brilliance in this country came after he had earned his reputation elsewhere.

As one of the most notable humourists of his day, Leacock's opinions on humour are of the greatest interest. Anyone who wants to know them should read one of his less popular works called Humour: Its Theory And Technique; it is a fine exposition of his theories, though it is only fair to add that a perusal of it will not turn the reader into a wit of the Leacock variety. And it seems likely that his article on Humour in the Encyclopaedia Britannica will be unsurpassed for many decades.

An Institute of Local Government

Queen's University has established an Institute of Local Government in connection with its Department of Political and Economic Science; K. Grant Crawford, the city clerk of London, Ont., will be the head of the Institute. Its purpose is to deal with those problems which come under the care of municipal councils, county councils, school boards, co-operative societies and similar elected bodies. In the words of Principal Wallace of Queen's "it will be the clearing-house for information on all questions dealing with government at grass roots".

This is good news. The venture at Queen's is the first of its kind in Canada, and it will be able to serve most usefully. Local government is apt to be slighted by people who know little about it, but both its authority and its complication are very great. Again we quote Dr. Wallace: "The strength of the democratic process will always reside in the local authority, close to the people, and in the efficiency with which it functions. A disproportionate emphasis has been given to central authority and the tendency has been, and is, for central authority to assume an undue amount of power. This is a negation of the democratic principle".

It is true that our provincial governments have tended to usurp the authority of local governments, but they have done so only because so many local governments have been incompetent; there are municipalities, counties and townships where the men elected to office have not known what to do or how to do it, and through their ignorance and incompetence local government has fallen into disrepute. If the Institute can be of help, direct or indirect, to these lost communities, it will have done one very good piece of work. Undoubtedly it will be extremely valuable to communities which already are in good working order, and which have special problems which they want to solve in the best possible way.

There is plenty of work for the Institute to do, and we hope to see it prosper.

Literary Anniversaries

Every year brings its literary anniversaries; 1944 has an interesting group of centenaries. One hundred years ago, for instance, Ralph Waldo Emerson produced his second volume of Essays, and Charles Dickens, who had written A Christmas Carol in 1843, brought out The Chimes, a work which never achieved the popularity of its predecessor but which is dear to many Dickensians.

A hundred years ago William Makepiece Thackeray wrote The Luck of Barry Lyndon and published it in installments; we are so accustomed these days to think of Thackeray as a satirist that we have almost forgotten his ability to write a first-rate story. Barry Lyndon was a cad; his type is familiar in life and in fiction; and he had the fascination which cads often possess. Any admirer of Thackeray who has not read the book will find it excellent entertainment.

One of the great books of travel written in English, Eothen, was published a century ago by Thackeray's friend, Alexander William Kinglake, the barrister who later wrote an exhaustive history of the Crimean War. Eothen is a witty record of a student's travels in the East, and like many travel books it makes wonderful reading for those who seek temporary escape from a crowded and busy life.

Perhaps the greatest of the literary anniversaries of 1944 is that of the publication of Poems, by Elizabeth Barrett; soon after it was out the poetess wrote to a friend in the greatest excitement, "I had a letter from Browning the poet last night which threw me into ecstasies — Browning, the author of Paracelsus, the king of the mystics". It was thus that a great romance began; Browning carried off the invalid of Wimpole Street the following year, and they lived in the greatest happiness until she died in 1861. Her husband's monument to her was The Ring and The Book, one of the most astounding poems in English literature, containing much that was best and most characteristic in Browning's work.

Mr. Churchill And Germany's Guts

On Sunday Mr. Churchill told us: "The guts of the German army have been largely torn out by Russian valour and generalship". A few contemporaries have commented approvingly on Mr. Churchill's use of the word 'guts'; we approve, too; no other word would have expressed his meaning so simply or so forcibly. 'Guts', whether used to mean the essential entrails, or courage, is a word which we could not do without in English.

There are people who feel a squeamish distaste when the word 'guts' is used. Like many good words it has to be used with discretion. There are in our language a dozen or so words—mostly referring to organs or functions of the body—for which there are no satisfactory substitutes, and a speaker's taste in private conversation or in public speech is shown by nothing more clearly than his knowledge of when to use them and when to avoid them; there are times when no other words will do. 'Guts' is one of the mildest of these words. Words are not in themselves good or bad, polite or rude, pleasing or disgusting; they take their character from the way in which they are used and from the character of the person who uses them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The reason some families do not own an elephant, says the Brandon Sun, is that no one has ever offered them one at a dollar down.

Having been married to him for three months, Rudy Vallee's wife is divorcing him; she declares, however, that she will always love him. That, of course, makes the suit as clear as mud.

A seaman's institute reports receiving such books for its reading-room as Dressmaking Made Easy and How To Care For The Baby. What a lot of people there are who look upon an appeal for books as an invitation to empty their attics!

Cedar Hill, March --th, 1944.

DEAR John,—Spring has quite definitely arrived on Cedar Hill. The calling of clumsily soaring crows, raucous and truculent, challenges my right to free passage about our small domain. Unseen robins, from somewhere in the dense brush of the lilacs about the gate, chirp cheerful greetings. Around the base of Cedar Hill the waters of the stream, earthily brown between its soiled borders of rotting ice, hurry purposefully along toward the old mill.

Our friend and neighbour, the dour Scot MacTavish is busy in his sugar bush. And, by the way, his daughter Jean, of whose captivating charm and youthful joie de vivre I stand in awe, is a frequent visitor of ours. She apparently seeks news of you, my boy; though why she cannot satisfy herself with the contents of the enormous screeds I happen to know you send her, is more than I can tell. You might include—if space permits—in your next letter to the lass, my appreciation of her dextrous filching of the small framed photo from my mantel. And if she so desires I have another which does more justice to you.

Yes, spring is here indeed. And having duly recognized its much appreciated advent we turn again to the task of acquainting ourselves more fully with the Canadian scene.

LAST week I attempted a disquisition—to use a word made suddenly popular by our English friend—on Capital and Labour. I described them as so closely linked together that a cleavage is impossible. To my reasoning they are in reality sprung from common stock. Each individual citizen of our country is in effect representative of both Capital and Labour. The mechanic who by day is employed and paid a wage by him who operates a business is Labour only in the hours he spends at his employment. He ceases to be Labour when his day's work is done. The wages of his labour becomes his capital and it is his individual responsibility to protect the investment of this Capital, born of the wages of Labour. As a capitalist he operates the business of his home, pays the expenses of its maintenance and insures, as best he can, his future both as a member of the gild of Labour and his position as a member of the firm of Capital.

That his capital be sufficient to maintain as fine a home as possible he makes representation to the Capital which rewards its servitors with a wage proportionate to the service rendered. Through experience it has been found that Labour as a single unit is but a weakling, but as a Union of the whole immensely powerful. Therefore, a labourer is but wise to join this Union with his fellows that in the strength of united, representative appeal, he may find insurance that his wage from Capital be truly proportionate to the service rendered. Man's nature being what it is, the strength of Union representing Labour be it so overpowering in weight of numbers as to smother Capital with demands beyond an ability to pay, Capital will die—and in the dying wrest from Labour the power of living. And considering these two quantities, Capital and Labour, in reverse to the above, the same is true. So as stated in my letter of last week the two must meet in mutual understanding of each other, that they may live.

WE have in Canada at the moment several forms of Unionism. Industrial unions, whose policy it is to embrace within its membership all the workers in a particular industry, are becoming popular in their conception that all employees, of whatever craft, in such particular industry, are represented best by a single committee of the whole. Industrial unions have proven more aggressive, perhaps because they have not lived so long, than the craft unions whose theory is that employees should be organized in groups representative of their particular craft. Instead of one union covering the whole, they favour the separation into individual unions of such trades as moulders, machinists, carpenters, teamsters, and ad infinitum. The advantage seems to lie here with the industrial idea of Labour organization. They have, it might be said, a truer sense of what is effective unity.

IN many instances, in many centres of production in Canada, there have been formed in single manufacturing or producing plants of various industries, Workers' Councils which, as the name implies, are organizations of industrial employees. The activities of a Workers' Council are confined to the actual local field of operation and the council itself is fostered and encouraged, in many instances, by the management of the particular unit of industry immediately concerned. There is much to be said in favour of the idea. A much closer co-operation can be effected between Capital and Labour when the issues are present in concrete form and not mere abstract theories perhaps not even applicable to the area. A committee representative of the membership of a local Workers' Council in direct conference with the management of a local plant, each having authority to decide the issue on behalf of those they represent, creates a situation very likely to result in a real understanding of the picture.

It is a sad commentary on relations of Capitla and Labour in the Province of Quebec when it is realized that their standard of living is much lower than the average for the rest of the Dominion. However, the problems of the French-Canadian he claims as peculiarly his own and he resents the implication that he is not proceeding at as fast a pace as possible in remedying his condition. A mite touchy are our compatriots.

Time and space, my son, prevent a more detailed sketch than I have outlined here, and I leave to you the task of filling in such gaps as evidently need attention. Should you complete the picture from the rough sketch I have drawn I should be very pleased to give it time and study.

My best regards, my son.

Wasted Paper

Undoubtedly there is a shortage of paper, but it does not seem to affect the long mimeographed reports of political speeches, being sent all over the Dominion. A TRIPOD NEEDS THREE LEGS —By Rube Goldberg

Mr. Walpole's Gothic Castle

Strawberry Hill, April 27, 1753.

IN TOWN there are so many idle people besides oneself, that one has not a minute's time: here I have whole evenings, after the labours of the day are ceased. Labours they are, I assure you; I have carpenters to direct, plasterers to hurry, paper-men to scold, and glaziers to help: this last is my greatest pleasure: I have amassed such quantities of painted glass, that every window in my castle will be illuminated with it: the adjusting and disposing it is vast amusment....

The enclosed enchanted little landscape then, is Strawberry Hill....The opposite shore is a most delicious meadow, bounded by Richmond Hill, which loses itself in the noble woods of the park to the end of the prospect on the right, where is another turn of the river, and the suburbs of Kiingston as luckily placed as Twickenham is on the left: and a natural terrace on the brow of my hill, with meadows of my own down to the river, commands both extremities. Is not this a tolerable prospect? You must figure that all this is perpetually enlivened by a navigation of boats and barges, and by a road below my terrace, with coaches, post-chaises, waggons, and horsemen constantly in motion and the fields speckled with cows, horses, and sheep. Now we shall walk into the house. The bow-window below leads into a little parlour hung with a stone-colour Gothic paper and Jackson's Venetian prints, which I could never endure while they pretended, infamous as they are, to be after Titian, etc., but when I gave them this air of barbarous bas-reliefs, they succeeded to a miracle: ....From hence, under two gloomy arches, you come to the hall and staircase, which it is impossible to describe to you, as it is the most particular and chief beauty of the castle....The bow-window room one pair of stairs is not yet finished; but in the tower beyond it is the charming closet where I am now writing to you. It is hung with green paper and water-colour pictures; has two windows; the one in the drawing looks to the garden, the other to the beautiful prospect; and the top of each glutted with the richest painted glass of the arms of England, crimson roses, and twenty other pieces of green, purple, and historic bits. I must tell you, by the way, that a castle when finished, will have, two-and-thirty windows enriched with painted glass. ....Out of the closet is the room where we always live, hung with a blue and white paper in stripes, adorned with festoons, and a thousand plump chairs, couches, and luxurious settees covered with linen of the same pattern and with a bow-window commanding the prospect, and gloomed with limes that shade half each window, already darkened with painted glass in chiaroscuro, set in deep blue glass. Under this room is a cool little hall, where we generally dine, hung with paper to imitate Dutch tiles....

The only two good chambers I shall have are not yet build: they will be an eating-room and a library, each twenty by thirty, and the latter fifteen feet high. For the rest of the house, I could send it to you in this letter as easily as the drawing, only that I should have nowhere to live till the return of the post. The Chinese summer-house, which you may distinguish in the distant landscape, belongs to my Lord Radnor. We pique ourselves upon nothing but simplicity, and have no carvings, gildings, paintings, inlayings or tawdry business.—From "Horace Walpole's England, as his Letters Picture it," edited by Alfred Bishop Mason.

Abysmal Ignorance About Animals

(JAMES P. DUNN, in the LONDON FREE PRESS)

A NEIGHBOUR dropping in the other evening and complaining over the iniquity of a neighbour of his farther south on the block muttered into his beard "It shouldn't happen to a dawg," whereupon it occurred to us that we humans undertake to understand animals much more than we do. Why should we seize upon our canine friends as an infallible measure of the rightness of wrongness of human conduct? When our neighbour had finished his potation and returned to his own abode a host of epigrams based on that higher branch of living—the animal world—came to jolt our complacent sense of superiority.

"Brave as a lion," we say, yet if we believe Frank Buck, lion-tamers and explorers in the Dark Continent, lions are as timid as a maid with a mouse. If they have a chance they will scamper off into the jungle and let bygones be bygones. It is only when cornered, or wounded, or defending their young that they are dangerous. Their best weapon is their frightening appearance and their lusty roar. But just light a match near their whiskers and off they go and you can't stop them.

Then that hoary antique about the cat having nine lives. How do we know? Simply because for aeons of time we have been trying to snuff them out, with rifles, bricks, sacks, stones and other lethal weapons. The truth is that a cat has one almighty good life and takes good care of it. If we did as much we might last longer than we do although there is no obvious necessity for that.

"Snake in the grass." Every backyard fence has echoed to that hackneyed slander. Now it may be wrong for you or me to act like a snake in the grass, but what's wrong with the snake being in the grass? That's his privilege. That's his playground. If we choose to step on him while he is out for an airing and he tries to bite us in the instep why blame him? We do as much every day for our neighbours—if they deserve it.

From the animal kingdom to the realm of the ichthyologists. Often, on a Saturday eve we remark to the world, or even to ourselves something about being as thirsty as a fish. Are fish ever thirsty? Do they drink? Not as far as we have been able to discover. Why should they? Water all around just seeping in between the seams. Why drink?

Now and then some industrious champion of industry chides some less arden soul in these words: "Lazy as a pet coon." Now a coon is not lazy so far as coons go. It is a coon's nature to rest at times and build up his strength. He can move fast enough if needs must but at other times he is free to relax and curl up in the fork of a tree. It is not petting that makes him lazy; it is Nature. The trouble with the authority who accuses other people of possessing a coon's habits is that he doesn't understand nature or the part that rest plays in health.

Of course there are two sides to the question. There is the Biblical "Go to the ant thou sluggard," a direct invitation not merely to labour scientifically on an organized basis. Entomologists know the ant well. They know he has class distinctions, master and slave. The ant keeps trained aphids which he takes out to pasture on rose bushes. Then he "milks" them. The ant is the indefatigable enemy of rest; he has nothing in common with the coon. History shows that while the ant is held up as a moral example the coon has more fun—and more leisure.

Independent as a hog on ice. That's a grand joke. Whoever saw a hog on ice? Hogs are not built for skates anyway and if they seem independent they are actually helpless. And that senescent one about waving a red flag at a bull. Wave anything at a bull; just go into the bull's stall or play tag with him in the paddock. You don't need red. Nor does the bull. Any colour will do. That red stuff is just the overhang of grand opera and Carmen. It goes artistically with the red, red rose of love.

Richer or Poorer?

Dr. Inge tells us that as a great industrial nation we are finished. We shall end the war an impoverished people, he says. The doctor won name as the "gloomy Dean," and he is evidently determined to maintain his reputation. We must, therefore, expect pessimism from him. At any rate, we get it. But he is not alone in holding these opinions. There are others with more authority who have also expressed a similar lack of confidence in our post-war future. There is no real basis whatever for this point of view—and never will be, provided we do not throw away our chances, as we did after the last war. If we commit the same mistakes in the future as we did in the past, we shall have only ourselves to blame. Then, as now, we stood at the pinnacle of fortune. We shall end this war with plant and methods modernised from end to end, with the finest aircraft industry in the world, and with the highest productive power in our history. Our prestige will be at the crest. The name of Britain will be a passport to the good will and the favours of all nations. — London Daily Mail.

Letters To The Editor

SPEAKS FOR HUNTERS

Sir,—I am very much against a Provincial Park in the proposed area in Peterborough county.

I understand the Government must own all the property and have all the timber rights in order to police it. To do this they must buy out at least 250 farmers and settlers, who have cleared the land, built their homes, raised families, paid their taxes, and made a living for two or three decades. If these people were paid an average of $1,000 each to vacate their homes, it is going to cost the Government at least $250,000.00 to start this project. And may I ask, "What is going to become of these people who will be turned out of their homes?" These people enjoy their mode of living as much or more than we do in the cities. Why should they be subjected to radical changes merely to convenience some so-called "nature lovers".

I think I am conservative in saying that at least 2,000 people living in Peterborough county enjoy a holiday hunting in this area each year. This park would definitely eliminate the best hunting area in Peterborough county. At $25.00 per man, 2,000 hunters spend annually $50,000.00, of which the Government takes considerable in taxes.

Now if this area were prohibited, these hunters would have to travel a great deal farther to enjoy a heritage that is now at their back door. Existing camps in this area would have to be re-established elsewhere. Too often the hunters are accused of depleting the wild life. I have hunted in this area for the last 35 years and I know many men like myself who can vouch that there are far more deer now than there were then. This may be partly because of the existing game reserve east of the Apsley Road. Would it not be better for the Government to spend more money on this reserve and build roads so that tourists and local populace could view wild life in its natural state?

In summing up, I feel that too many people in Peterborough county would be unjustly affected, should this Provincial Park be established. Thank you.—Sincerely yours,

RUSSELL TUCKER.

School Trustees Thresh Out Criticisms Of Public Schools

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30—(ENS)—Campbellford School trustees discussed with mixed feeling the contents of a letter appearing in the press in which conditions at the Public Schools here were criticized.

The letter, written by a "Campbellford Ratepayer" was the chief topic of discussion at the Board's March meeting, and though nothing tangible in the way of action was forthcoming or even promised for the near future, several agreed it was time the board did something to improve conditions at the school.

Trustee H. A. McArthur opened the question by demanding that the Board make some answer to the letter.

Mr. Bonnycastle said "There was nothing in the letter we haven't discussed many times. I think it is time we did something, but we can't go ahead until we get the money from council. The question of improving the school grounds was taken up a year ago, and we had the levels taken at that time, but were unable to get labor to do the job." He went on to say that the Provincial Government had proposed a one mill grant for education purposes, and suggested, when this money came through, it might be used for improvement at the school.

"Bodies like this (Board of Education) must expect criticism, and if such criticism is honest, and constructive, we should welcome it", said Dr. Richardson. "We might go over the articles (contained in the letter) one by one and probably we could enlighten the writer a little. We can not let it pass, as the public will demand to know the answer."

Taking up item No. 1, "Apart from two fire escapes, there is no fire fighting equipment of any kind installed in the school, not even water above the basement". To this, Dr. Richardson explained plans to run water up to the third floor had been considered a year or more ago, but it was found impractical, because the pipes would freeze in winter, as there was no heat in the halls. In his opinion no water could be run up to the third floor for fire fighting purposes, until the heating system was changed. Under the existing conditions it would cost a considerable amount more to keep the school warm during winter weekends. As to the lack of fire extinguishers, Dr. Robertson said the Board had already authorized the property chairman to purchase these.

Poor Lighting

Item 4, "Artificial room lighting is practically non-existent. In some rooms there are two small electric light bulbs hanging from a 14-foot ceiling by a 3-foot cord". Trustee R. J. Locke agreed there was plenty of room for improvement in the lighting conditions. And though he recognized the need for modernization, Mr. Locke was of the opinion it would be wise to wait a while longer.

"From time to time the (Public School) inspector has recommended changes in lights, blackboards and seating arrangements, and we have always followed his advice", put in Trustee Richardson. Mr. Locke said that he had long felt there was a good deal of public criticism of the school, but at the same time he believed much of this had come from citizens who hadn't visited the school in years. "What I would like to see is the Board put a notice in the press inviting the people to go up and look at the school."

Obsolete Heating

"Do you think that the ones who are doing the talking would go? I don't. They just want to criticize the Board", said Dr. Richardson, who then turned to Item 2: "The heating system is obsolete and antiquated. Hot dry air is forced into the rooms with temperatures varying from 70 to 85 and more. Dirty soot is forced into the rooms, which the children must breathe. The only ventilation is by means of an open door or window, which under existing circumstances is impossible to control, resulting in a high percentage of children contracting head colds. Because of a lack of air conditioning, bad odors are frequent."

He explained the Board passed a motion four years ago to have the whole heating system changed but council had felt the work was not necessary at that time "We can't go ahead till we are sure of the money and its up to the Board to ask the council to appeal to the people to approve of the expenditure." He went on to say that if, after the war, council still refused to ratify the plans for a new heating system, the board would have to ask them to appeal to the ratepayers. "We can only spend up to $500 a year on improvements," he reminded.

Trustee Locke turned to the basement at which criticism had been directed since is provided nothing more than a room "perhaps 12 feet square as the only recreation room for 150 boys to play in." Mr. Locke said, "I'd like to see the basement brightened up by painting, but the upper floors are all in pretty good shape." E. C. McKeel was of the opinion the Campbellford School did not stand alone in its need of repair, "I think the same criticisms would attain to the schools in 70 per cent of the municipalities throughout the country.

It was true that "these things have been allowed to accumulate but the reason for this in the opinion of Mr. McKeel (a former reeve and finance chairman on the town council), was that the amount of money the town could spend from year to year was "but a fraction of the levy". Fifty per cent of the annual levy was marked for debenture and interest payments. Recalling his own experience as a member of council in the early thirties, he said "We did well at times to collect 70 per cent of the taxes, and when you have to meet one hundred per cent of your expenses, the only alternative is to increase the tax rate."

Referring to the suggestion that the matter be taken up with the Department of Education, Mr. McKeel declared that in comparison to the small sum provincial grants amounted to, the department had "a lot to say about what should be done. It's a long way around asking some other body to dictate a policy that the local council will have to provide the money for."

To the charge that no medical health officer or public nurse was available to examine the pupils "because of the expense", Trustee Richardson said, "A few years ago we did have a school nurse, but we got such poor cooperation, that they didn't believe it was worth while." He felt that unless there was a clinic where the work recommended by the nurse could be done, the school nurse was of little value. "Lack of cooperation on the part of parents and not expense, was the reason the school nurse was discontinued." He went on to say that it was part of the teacher's work to be on the alert to check hearing and eye troubles.

Can't Buy Extinguishers

Property Chairman Locke reported on the matter of fire extinguishers which the Board had authorized him to procure. He said he had made enquiries "but no one seemed to have any, apart from the big ones which are too expensive." He felt that some of the smaller type of hand extinguishers would be available sometime in the future.

As to replacement fire hose for the High School, Mr. Locke had been unable to locate a supplier for this either. He had taken the matter up with the water and light department and they could furnish no information and in fact had intimated to him they could not even get a supply of additional fire hose for the town.

High School Principal E. H. Greig told the board May 10 had been set as date for the annual Cadet Inspection and asked authorization to use funds from the Strathcona Trust for the purchase of six medals, which following the customary practise, would be awarded to Corps officers. Mr. Ronald Hazell addressed members asked on behalf of the Home and School Association, for permission to use the High School gymnasium in connection with their next monthly meeting, for the purpose of serving refreshments. Authorization was given on motion of Trustees Locke and McArthur.

Doping Revealed At Britain's Greyhound Races

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 30 (CP)—Widespread drugging of racing dogs on greyhound tracks throughout Enland so that conspirators might share in huge betting profits was revealed at the Old Bailey when a British Army deserter was sentenced to 21 months imprisonment. At the same time Scotland Yard revealed it is searching for the head of the organization—a shadowy figure known as "London Joe."

"In this country we pride ourselves on our sport being as clean as we can make it," said Sir Gerald Dobson, Recorder of London, in imposing a sentence on William Spicer, 39, of the Pioneer Corps. "You have been doing your best to muddy it and make it as dirty as possible.

"A very large part of the public take their recreation by going to these meetings, and if you are going to get a dog doped that means that this form of sport is corrupt.."

Convicted with Spicer was Charles Wells, 37, suburban London fireman on whom sentence was postponed until the next assizes. Charges against the two were of conspiring to defraud people who might wager on greyhounds at Hackney Wick and Hendon Stadiums in London by administering drugs to dogs entered in the races.

Evidence at the trial revealed that for a period of nearly 18 months a special secret squad of detectives was on the trail of the "dog flappers," underworld term for persons who administer drugs to racing dogs. It is known that at least once a gang of four "flappers" received nearly $10,000 for an initial outlay of less than $225.

"Fixing" Is Simple

After "fixing" a race, gang members purchased "forecast" tickets at totalisator wickets, similar to betting wickets on Canadian horse-racing tracks. "Forecast" tickets, in which the bettor attempts to name the first and second finishers, return greater odds to the successful bettor than any other way of wagering.

The syndicate is known to have purchased on one race as many 500 forecast tickets, which cost two shillings each and often return odds of anywhere from 20-1 to 100-1. Sometimes excessive betting of the conspirators defeated their own ends in that the large amount of money wagered lowered the odds considerably.

Operations were not confined to London, which houses the largest tracks. A detective-inspector testified that Spicer and Wells had been associated with "London Joe" as far away as Leicester and Coventry. It is known that doping attempts also have been made at many other provincial tracks, including one or more in Kent.

Bad Weather Slows Training

NEW YORK, March 30 — (AP). —While major league managers are moaning, "Who said ball teams never will train in the South again?" President Ford Frick of the National League can find a little sunshine in the clouds.

Stopping off in a snowstorm at Muncie, Ind., to visit Pittsburg Pirates, Frick pointed out that all clubs were suffering equally from bad weather.

"The players are deriving certain physical benefits by holding indoor exercises and hoping for a streak of sunshine," he commented. "I realise, however, it's impossible to judge by what the athletes do in the gym just how they will stack up in actual baseball conditions."

Pirate Manager Frankie Frisch might have been inclined to ask what are those "certain physical benefits" as he cancelled to-day's scheduled exhibition with the Freeman Field team and prepared to head for Louisville, Ky., for a day of practice before week-end exhibitions against Chicago White Sox.

News from other big league camps:

Boston Red Sox — With seven absentees, Joe Cronin was concerned about two, Oscar Judd from Canada and Tom McBride from Little Rock, Ark. Others believed delayed by travel difficulties from West Coast.

Chicago Cubs — At Long Beach, Calif., Outfielder Lou Novikoff announced he will leave next week to start training with the Cubs.

Detroit Tigers — Ralph Stewart 6-foot 11-inch batting practice pitcher, was optioned to Memphis of Southern Association.

Philadelphia Athletics — Connie Mack is wondering what has become of Bobo Newsom, who hasn't been heard from since training camp opened.

Detroit Tigers — Paul Richards, 1943 first string catcher, has been rejected by Army because of old knee injury and will report with Pinky Higgins on Sunday.

SPORTS-Day by Day

The Peterborough City Softball League executive will likely name two delegates to represent the league at the annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association to be held in Guelph on Good Friday, a week from tomorrow. Representation at the annual meeting is considered as unusually important this year not only to support the candidature of Dave Leether who is one of the candidates for office, but because a long list of amendments to the constitution and the playing rules is to be considered at the annual conclave. There will be morning and afternoon sessions with the annual luncheon to be held in the Wellington dining-room and a tour of the Ontario Reformatory grounds included in the program. While for delegates who arrive on Thursday evening there will be an entertainment program arranged by the Guelph Softball Association. One interesting amendment is proposed by Hamilton. It would authorize the playing of night games under floodlights where both teams are agreeable to playing under such conditions. There should be no objection to that proposal. Obviously it would not be fair to compel a team that objected to playing under the lights to do so but where both outfits are willing there doesn't seem any reason why night games should not be staged.

Stratford Kroehlers who won the championship of the intermediate section of the Provincial Women's Softball Union last season were tendered a long awaited complimentary banquet last night at which they were presented with jackets with the club colors and crest and also with pen and pencil sets. The delay was caused by difficulty in obtaining the jackets desired. Incidentally Chick Appel of the Stratford Beacon-Herald whose daughter Betty was a star of the champions repeats the statement that the local Westclox team were the toughest opposition the Kroehlers met all season. He says in his sport column: "Given no break by the governing body, Stratford Kroehlers were ordered to play home and home games with four different opponents, and in case of a third game were called upon to play it on the home field of their opponents. As an indication of their superiority, it need only be recalled that the champs made sure there would be no third game in each case but one, and that was the outcome of a questionable job of officiating. This was a game in Stratford when St. Catharines Merry Macs won by one run, but were convincingly trounced in the next two games on the same day at St. Kitts. In the other series, Stratford Kroehlers downed Guelph Coronettes, Peterborough Westclox and Preston Rivulettes, ruling titleholders, two straight. 'Of the four clubs, Peterborough proved the toughest and gave the Stratford girls two real battles before admitting defeat."

Ex-Champ Referee

Peterborough wrestling fans will likely have a chance next Tuesday night to see a five times world champion in action—but as referee, not as a wrestler. It happens like this. Big Karl Davis has been pestering Promoter Frank Tunney for another crack at Frank Sexton, claiming that he was robbed here Tuesday by Referee Ernie Powers. Tunney was quite willing but the referee problem was a tough one. Davis has been battling with Bert Maxwell and Powers ever since he arrived on the northern circuit and Tunney is well aware of the fact that neither of those officials would suit Davis and further that neither of them would be likely to make a good job of keeping the wild Texan under control. However, the Toronto impressario is resourceful. Remembering that Ed Strangler Lewis, former world champion was wrestling in Toronto next week he has asked the Strangler to act as referee for another battle between Sexton and Davis here next Tuesday and the ex-champion has agreed to take over the job, much to the delight of Mister Tunney. "Davis had better not try pushing big Ed around," he exclaimed "or he'll find himself smothered with a headlock that will give him some different ideas.." With Sexton and Davis continuing their feud and the Strangler as third man in the ring Tuesday's main bout should set a new high in thrills.

The boys in the hills of Cassino apparently have a different view of the war than Ottawa headquarters officials, according to a letter received from a former Kingston hockey player, who is fighting in Italy with a group of well-known Kingston athletes, writes Scribe Bill Walshe in the Kingston Whig-Standard. The letter, written March 6, which reached this department in two weeks time, said the troops were sorry to "hear of Ottawa's decision to prevent open competition for the Allan Cup." A soldier is not permitted to criticize military decisions from headquarters, so rather than cause him any embarrassment we will not publish his name. The letter hints at a positive boom in hockey in Europe after the war, in fact the letter writer has an offer to take a position as hockey coach in Scotland. The letter reported that most of the Kingston boys in Italy are in fine fettle except for Jack Belwa, who will never play hockey again. Belwa was badly injured in Italy and is on his way home to Canada to recuperate. There were only two complaints in the letter, despite the hell the boys are suffering in the fierce fighting. One complaint was the weather and the other was the cancellation of army hockey in Canada. The letter explained that it was hailing, raining and snowing all at the same time, with mud up to the knees.

Panning The Referees

It is a strange twist that the umpiring in the world series in baseball is always accepted as a matter of course while in the Stanley Cup playoffs there is usually a series of squawks about the work of referees. Bill Chadwick has been roundly panned and Doug. Vaughan of the Windsor Star says he is not the only one. Comments Vaughan: "Chadwick isn't the only official whose work in the current Stanley Cup series has been criticized. Frank (King) Clancy came in for plenty of abuse from both sides, as well as members of the press, for the manner in which he handled the second game of the series between the Hawks and Red Wings in Detroit last Thursday. Bill Tobin, president of the Chicago club, twice came down to the penalty box to wave a derisive finger under Clancy's nose after he had called a penalty on a Hawk player. Between the second and third periods Tobin said that he tried to get into the referee's dressing room to ask for a rule interpretation and been refused admission. He then sent the Chicago captain, Clint Smith, to get an answer to the same questoin and Smith, too, had the door slammed in his face. In the Detroit dressing room after the game, Manager Jack Adams, said: "We won tonight easily, and convincingly, but I still think Clancy handled a very bad game. There just doesn't seem to be any sense in the way he handles a game. One minute he is calling everything in the book and the next minute he lets the players get away with murder."

Educational institutions seem to be a special target for the Oshawa Generals. The Motor City team knocked St. Mike's for a loop in the O.H.A. junior finals and now are engaged in a similar operation on Ottawa University in the Eastern Canadian semi-finals. Touted as one of the best Ottawa junior teams in years the college boys from Canada's capital were handed a 10 to 2 shellacking by the Generals in Toronto last night. Generals were even more superior than the score would indicate and their passing plays had the Ottawa kids in a dither all night. Only a sterling display in the net by Auger kept the Oshawa score down to ten. Generals drew all five penalties handed out but even that disadvantage did not seem to bother them. Meanwhile at Ottawa the Sudbury Frood team went two up in the senior series with the troublesome Hull Volants, turning them back 5 to 2 and now the Open Pits require only one more victory to take the best-of-five series.

BINGHAMPTON, N.Y., March 30 (AP)—Sun Beau, world's greatest money-winning thoroughbred from 1931 to 1940, with winnings of $376,744 under the silks of the late Willis Sharpe Kilmer of Binghampton, died suddenly today. He was standing at stud at the Meadow in Doswell, Va.

The 19-year-old bay horse, by Sun Briar-Beautiful Lady, retired in 1931 and was passed in winnings by Sea Biscuit in 1940.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Col. Guy Gauvreau has been aide to Gen. Montgomery in Britain and has been sent to Camberley Staff College—and his father in Montreal lays it all to the fact that Guy was road secretary for Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League in 1936.

Mr. Gauvreau told the story in Montreal yesterday, adding that when Col. Guy gets through the Staff course he's in line for promotion to Brigadier at the age of 29.

Poppa Gauvreau said that Gen. Montgomery was scanning a number of applications from aspirants to the job as his aide when he spotted Col. Gauvreau's, which listed "baseball road secretary" as a former occupation. The General asked Guy what this entailed. "Arrange transportation, book hotels, sign up players, agree on salaries fork out advance money, score the ball games, write pieces for the papers," said Guy.

"You're my man," replied the General.

Jack Crawford, star defenceman of the Boston Bruins, was rejected for military service at Boston yesterday.

The gate was only $11,933 when Feddie Archer of Newark decisioned Fritzie Zivic, of Pittsburg, at Elizabeth, N.J., last night—but it was a record for that city. Archer's upset victory was well earned. He took six rounds against two for Zivic and two even.

Detroit Tigers Have 34 In Armed Forces

By WATSON SPOELSTRA
Associated Press Sport Writer

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 30 —(AP)—Detroit Tigers won the 1940 American League pennant with "nine old men," and if they finish on top this season it again will have to be with something better than green hands.

There is some speculation whether Detroit, only major league club never to have finished last, will not have a battle on its hands to keep out of the cellar.

You don't have to look far for an answer. The club has 34 players in the armed forces.

"We aren't making any claims in a season where you don't know how you stand from one day to the next," says Manager Steve O'Neill, who is starting his second season with the Tigers. "But right now it looks like we are as well off as anybody."

Have 15 In Pool

At all positions but the infield, the Tigers are reasonably well fixed from a pool of 15 draft-exempt players. Rudy York, Don Heffner, Eddie Mayo and Pinky Higgins, who are O'Neill's choices as the starting infield in the league opener April 18 against St. Louis Browns, are all 1-A in selective service or up for reclassification.

Detroit has a promising 4-F pitching staff in Paul Trout, Hal Newhouser, Frank Overmire and Rufus Gentry. Bob Swift, acquired from Philadelphia Athletics for first string catching duties, likewise is 4-F.

Jimmy Outlaw, another 4-F, is taking over Dick Wakefield's left field job, and the veteran Roger Cramer, who will be 38 years old in July, is back in centrefield. Don Ross and Joe Wood are fighting it out in right field.

Other pitchers are Johnny Gorsica, 40-year-old Elon (Chief) Hogsett, 17-year-old Emery Hresko, Joe Orrell, ex-Texas Leaguers Joe Hare and Zeb Eaton, and Walter (Boom Boom) Beck.

Paul Richards, who caught 100 games last season, is expected back as Swift's aide.

I ALWAYS GET CLEAN, QUICK SHAVES WITH BLUE GILLETTE BLADES

CLEM McCARTHY
—Ace Reporter on Gillette's "Cavalcade of Sports" says:
"A TRIP through the Gillette factory showed me why I always get clean, quick shaves with Blue Gillette Blades. I saw steel hardened in automatically-controlled electric furnaces ... saw the blades sharpened in grinding machines weighing several tons—yet so precise that they are adjustable to 1/10,000 of an inch. So my advice to any man who wants to enjoy shaving is to use Blue Gillette Blades."

Oshawa Juniors Wallop Ottawa 10 to 3

TORONTO, March 30—(CP)—The big, rugged Oshawa Junior Generals were well on their way to the Eastern Canada junior hockey finals today, after soundly whipping Ottawa University 10-3 at Maple Leaf Gardens last night. The game was the first of a best-of-three series for the right to meet Montreal Royals. Second game of the series will be played at Oshawa Friday night.

Generals completely outclassed their rivals from the Canadian capital, as they ran up six goals in the opening period and held a decided edge throughout the game. The current edition of the Motor City six is the seventh to win the Ontario Hockey Association junior title. In 1939 and 1940 the Generals won the Memorial Cup and last year were beaten in the finals by Winnipeg Rangers, the western champions.

Oshawa won last night without using any of the four military replacements that Coach Charlie Conacher had announced prior to the game. Bill Ezinicki, Ken Smith and Floyd Curry shared the scoring honors. Ezinicki, a slim right wing from Winnipeg playing his third season with the Generals, scored three goals. Smith scored once and had three assists while Curry had two goals and two assists.

Oshawa rapped in two quick goals early in the first frame. Ray Cuillerier came back with a fluke shot that rolled in off Oshawa goalie Harvey Bennett's pads, but in succession Bob Dawes, Ken Smith, Barker and Curry counted for the Generals.

In the second frame, scoring honors were evenly divided, with Oshawa scoring twice in the first 12 minutes. At 11:38, with Ezinicki and Dawes serving penalties for Ochawa, Cuillerier went in to score on a combination. Bob Pepin scored the last Ottawa University goal four minutes later.

The third period was listless with Ezinicki counting his third marker of the night and Smith making it 10-3 with less than half a minute to go.

After the war you may be coming back along a country road and find a movie theatre where there was none a few hours before.

Prefabricated theatres are in preparation now. Built along the lines of mobile army theatres, they can be erected in no time at all. Such theatres will substitute for bombed-out places of entertainment in Europe and China and will bring movies to the rural districts there as well as in Canada and the United States.

They will be perfectly safe, as the materials were developed by war plans as fireproof under military and civilian use.

Its quite possible that folks with a large backyard will have their own movie houses.

The British Columbia star, Alexis Smith, has started work on "The Doughgirls," her tenth role in two years. She is excellent with Fredric March in that grand picture, "The Adventures of Mark Twain". . . Some people had more faith in the movies than Edison, their inventor. It's almost fifty years of steady success since Edison, asked by his lawyer for $150 with which to patent his invention in Europe, replied "It isn't worth it."

Hawks Expected To Rub Out Detroit Team

DETROIT, March 30 — (AP).—Chicago Black Hawks and the defending cup champions, Detroit Red Wings, shift to Detroit tonight for the fifth game of their Stanley Cup hockey play-offs, but the change of scenery probably comes too late to revive the Wings—trailing three games to one in the best-of-seven-games series.

Beaten down twice straight in Chicago — the latest defeat a 7-1 shellacking on Tuesday — Detroit must win three in a row to prevent the Hawks from coasting into the Cup final against the Montreal-Toronto winner.

The Red Wings, sadly weak on defence thus far in the play-offs will be strengthened by the return to-night of defenceman Bill Quackenbush, who missed both games at Chicago because of a knee injury.

On the other hand the Hawks may be forced to get along without wingmen Bill Mosienko and Harold (Mush) March. Mosienko came out of the Tuesday game with a bruised shoulder and March with an ailing knee.

Absence of Mosienko would break up Chicago's No. 1 forward line for the first time in the series and force the Hawks to lean more heavily on the offensive stickwork of Doug Bentley and Clint Smith who between them have accounted for seven of their team's dozen goals and five of the 15 assists in the first four games.

Leafs Underdogs In Semi-finals

MONTREAL, March 30—(CP)—It will be a last-ditch stand tonight for Toronto Maple Leafs, on the brink of elimination in their Stanley Cup semi-final series with Montreal Canadiens.

Canadiens, leading 3-1 in the series, and back on home ice after two wins in Toronto, are in the driver's seat to close out the proceedings tonight in readiness for taking on the winners of the Chicago Black Hawks-Detroit Red Wings in the finals.

The Leafs arrived this morning in fighting mood and full of determination to pull out a win that would give them a chance to tie up the series in Toronto Saturday night. They have won once already here, a 3-1 victory in the opening game. They are the underdogs in the betting for tonight, but they were underdogs in that first game too.

The game is expected to produce some more of the brilliant goal-keeping that has featured the series throughout, with Bill Durnan, the Canadiens' Vezina trophy winner, and Paul Bibeault, the man he succeded in the Canuck's nets, hooking up in another duel.

(By The Canadian Press)

Rookie Regis (Pep) Kelly sniped both goals in Toronto's 2-1 overtime win over Boston Bruins nine years ago tonight, giving the Leafs the National Hockey League title. With the Bruins leading 1-0 and less than three minutes to go Kelly evened the count. His second tally came shortly after the overtime session started.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 30 — (CP).—Basketball in Canada has never lived up to its promise and the court game has lagged far behind the counterpart in the United States both in player interest and crowd appeal. Galleries of 10,000 or more are not uncommon to the south. Contributing causes are the stiff competition from hockey, lack of proper playing facilities, and the mistaken idea of most fans that it's a sissies' game.

But great possibilities for the game after the war are envisioned by Capt. Voris Peden of the U.S. Army, who has been coaching the Altomahs girls' team in Winnipeg. All that is necessary, he contends, is proper coaching and the right accommodation to raise the Canadian game to outstanding heights.

His Altomahs did all right by themselves this winter, sweeping all opposition in Manitoba. Now an attempt is being made to match them with a Vancouver senior girls' team in a Western play-off, with a national series in the offing if financial arrangements can be ironed out.

Detroit Tigers of the American Baseball League have strings on a husky Ukrainian, by name Kasepchuk, who pitched last year with both the Junior Ontario A champions, Ottawa Cartage, and the Senior A contender, Windsor Ford Local 200. Kasepchuk, 21, has speed and cockiness and endurance (he pitched part of a junior playoff then carried the mail in a senior game the same day last summer) His medical discharge papers from the Army look best of all to the baseball scouts.

More player selections:

Continuing the favorite spring pastime of hockey best picking, Bucko McDonald nominates Ray Getliffe as the "hockey player's hockey player"....Tommy Gorman, Dick Irvin, and Captain Toe Blake of Canadiens, and Elmer Ferguson of the Montreal Herald plump for Maurice Richard, with Gorman comparing him with Howie Morenz .....Ebbie Goodfellow picks Doug Bentley of Chicago as the best left-winger he ever saw.....Just wait awhile, there'll be others.

Odds and ends:

The occasional Saturday night baseball game is planned for Bellingham in the Vancouver Senior League....Girls' baseball may be revived in Edmonton this summer ....Rumor says Oshawa Generals' goalie Harvey Bennett is headed for Boston Bruins next winter.

Buffalo Defeats Capitals 4-2

By The Associated Press

Final round of the American Hockey League playoffs last night was reached by Buffalo Bisons, who whipped Indianapolis Capitals 4-2 for the fourth time in five games of their best-of-seven semi-final series. A crowd of 9,814 saw the game at Buffalo.

Bisons, always in the lead, built up a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Larry Thibeault and Roger Leger, and added another in the second by Max Kaminsky. Hymie Buller then counted twice for the Caps. His first came from the blue line and his second with the Bisons playing short-handed. Walter Atanas' breakaway in the third provided an insurance counter.

A free-for-all broke out in the second period, for which Moose Sherritt and Rusty Waldriff drew majors. Leger joined them shortly and Buller made his second goal at this juncture.

The Bisons played under protest because of the presence in the Caps' lineup of Bill Thomson, who had played with Detroit in the Stanley Cup series Tuesday night. Manager Eddie Shore alleged this constituted a violation of league rules, and Maurice Podoloff, president of the American League, announced he would fine the Cap management.

Podoloff also stated that, in the event Cleveland eliminates Hershey tonight, the final series for the Calder Cup and the league championship will get under way in Cleveland Saturday. Remaining dates would be: Buffalo, Sunday; Cleveland, Wednesday; Buffalo, Thursday; Cleveland, Saturday and Buffalo, Sunday. In the event of a seventh game it would be played the following Wednesday in Cleveland.

Sudbury Frood Miners Vanquish Hull Volants In Allan Cup Playoffs

OTTAWA, March 30— (CP).—Sudbury Frood Miners held a two-game edge to-day in the best-of-five series of the Eastern semi-final Allan Cup playoffs following a 5-2 victory last night over Hull Volants.

The Miners, making the most of the breaks and helped by the luck which rode on the stick of slim Bill Lahti, chalked up the victory in the third game of the series, scheduled to be resumed in Toronto Saturday. Miners won the second game here 5-4 after the first ended in a 4-4 tie.

Lahti fired three of his team's goals, one of them unassisted and the other on breaks which could have gone to either team. Other Sudbury goals were scored by Alfred Webster and Oscar Clouthier. Stu Smith and Archie Creighton collected the Hull tallies.

The game's first goal was scored by Lahti at the 13 minute mark of the first period when he drove a shot that careened off a player's leg into the Hull net.

Smith got that goal back for Hull half way through the second period, but the Miners pushed ahead again seconds before the bell ended the session. Webster flipped home the goal after picking up a relay from Rolly McLenahan.

Clouthier's goal came 10 seconds after the start of the third period, and it was followed by Lahti's second goal. Lahti was near the Hull goal mouth when his team mate, Alex Singbush, drilled a shot from the homesters' blue line.

The puck bounced off Lahti's skate into the net and he was credited with the goal. The shifty winger's third goal came at the nine-minute mark, when he slipped in uncovered to beat goalie Alex Wood unassisted.

The Volants made a desperate attempt to get back in the running, but their best efforts produced only a single goal, fired by Creighton after a passing attack with Dunc Cheyne and Joffre Seguin.

he maintained a keener interest in this sport in which he for several years sponsored teams in the Trent Valley League.

Came As Youth.

Mr. Davidson came to Campbellford from the village of Manotick, near Ottawa, 56 years ago. He was a youth of 17 at that time and his love of sports coupled with enthusiasm and a dynamic personality marked him for leadership and after a few years as baker and confectioner he turned to the then infant automobile business.

The late Mr. Davidson began as a salesman for McLaughlin-Buick thirty-one years ago, and opened a garage in the building formerly occupied by the Dickson Foundry in 1918. But even the pressing problems of his own fast-growing business did not prevent him from taking an increasingly active part in community affairs. Many of the town's sewers and sidewalks were laid during his term as Mayor and he will long be remembered as the genial host to the thousands who visited the town during its Old Home Week of 1929.

Though he had been suffering from a heart ailment which confined him to his home during much of the past year, Mr. Davidson continued to serve the community as a member of the Water and Light Commission and when he was again nominated for the position last December he was re-elected by acclamation.

There survive besides his widow, the former Susan George; three daughters: Misses Irene and Nell, both on the Toronto public school teaching staff, and Mrs. D. M. Maybee of town, and one son, Howard, of Campbellford. Mr. Davidson was a member of St. John's United Church, and for many years a member of the board of stewards.

More than 2,000 Germans died in the futile attempt to hold Balta, the Moscow war bulletin said, and the prisoners captured wore the uniform of Hitler's famous SS Elite Guards. Another 2,000 were killed as Konev's troops broke through Nazi defences south of Yarmolintsi at the north end of the Kamenets-Podolsk pocket.

Konev's main army remained poised on the eastern bank of the Prut River for the fourth day, apparently waiting to give Rumania a final chance to invite Russia into her territory as an lly. Supporther territory as an ally. Supporting this belief was a Moscow dispatch quoting the newspaper Izvestia as urging Rumania, as well as Bulgaria, to resist the Germans and join the "democratic countries" before it is too late.

existing obligations. It also gave first reading to a bill to authorize the issue of government-guaranteed securities of the Canadian National Railways up to a maximum of $200,000,000.

The bill to amend the exchequer court act providing for an additional Judge also passed third reading. Justice Minister St. Laurent said he could not recall any instance in which a judge of the exchequer court had been asked to serve on a royal commission.

He said the experience in the last few years showed that the work of the court was such that two judges could not handle it to the satisfaction of the litigants before the court.

Replying to a suggestion from Mr. Church that fees charged by the exchequer court be increased, Mr. St. Laurent said many cases were brought by subjects against the crown and he would not like to increase the fees in these cases. There were other cases which might be different, and he would bring Mr. Church's suggestion to the attention of the law officers.

The sitting brought forth a renewed joint warning from Defence Minister Ralston and Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, that the war is not nearly over and Canadians should concentrate on the war effort.

CREEK BEHAVES.

Jackson Park Creek is behaving in an orderly manner and causing little trouble to the City Engineering Department, although twice, on Friday and Sunday, it required dynamite 'shooting" of small ice jams. Its level is away below the turbulent height usually expected at this time of year, because, despite the many warm days, there is little snow out in the countryside to be melted. So far no cellars have been reported flooded.

REGIMENTAL DINNER.

The lost article has not yet been returned to the Fire Station, and it is requested that the person who has it bring it back as soon as possible. An alarm for a chimney fire at 203 Dublin Street, home of K. Innes, occurred Wednesday while firemen were busy extinguishing the McDonnel roof blaze, but it was taken care of without damage.

There was a flurry of activity in the opening hours of the morning, then business slackened off and applicants appeared at a very modest rate the rest of the day. Japanese Wife Mission Study

Mrs. A Wilson, Wescott street, was hostess to the "Jean Wagar" Mission Circle for their Easter meeting, which was well attended by members and visitors.

With the president Lilyan Huggins presiding, the program opened with devotions, when Margaret Smart read the scripture lesson and Dorothy Martin offered prayer.

Reports were received from the secretary Alma Hunter and the Treasurer Constance Wagar showing that splendid progress had been made during the first quarter in finances and interest.

Mrs. D. Sedgwick, Supply Secretary read the list of requirements from our Circle for this year and it was decided to hold a shower of gifts at the next meeting.

Zeta Wood the secretary, reported for Community Friendship, that cards were sent to several absentees.

The beautiful Easter responsive service, on the theme "Christ for all the world" was led by Lottie Leggett, assisted by Eleanor Fife. The Easter offering was received and dedicated by Helen Moncrief.

Just now, it is safe to say that few people would be studying Japan, outside Missionary organizations, said Jean Hammond as she introduced the month's study "The Story of Kagawa's Wife" which began with a poem composed by Kagawa. While Kagawa is fairly well known to Canadians, little is heard of his wife who has shared in all his labors in the slum districts of Tokyo, as well as being a keen student of higher education. No doubt many such loyal Christians, are suffering as a result of the war while they still work and hope for peace. The life that counts was the subject of the inspirational message brought by the guest speaker, Mrs. R. G. Kitchen, a former member of this Circle.

Taking for her text the words of Jesus "Be ye therefore perfect". She pointed out that it was a good thing to have an occasional check-up to see whether our lives are truly consecrated. Mrs. Kitchen listed 'gossip', as one of the worst evils in our social church life. To be Christian in our homes is also an essential of the good life, as is prayer and the reading of good books. She urged the girls to care for their bodies, as the temples of God and to avoid smoking and drinking. In closing, the speaker told the girls not to emphasize the getting of material things, for, "What we give out is all we can take with us at life's end."

"The Christ of the Cross" was sweetly sung by Jennie Cuff, accompanied at the piano by Margaret Smart.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction after which a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served by 'he committee in charge: Helen Moncrief, Jessie Martin and Elma Brown. A vote of thanks was tendered to the hostess, Mrs. Wilson, by Lottie Leggett. The April meeting will be held at the home of Helen Moncrief, Morrow street.

To Call Chaplin In Court Case

LOS ANGELES, March 30—(AP) —Charlie Chaplin's own story of his love affairs with Joan Berry formed the defence's climatic testimony today in the film comedian's trial on charges he transported the 24-year-old red-haired film aspirant to New York and back for immoral purposes.

Defence Counsel Jerry Giesler, announcing only a few lesser witnesses remained to be summoned, indicated he expects to call the 54-year-old British-born actor, and perhaps conclude the defence's case, before nightfall.

After Judge J. F. T. O'Connor yesterday overruled a defence motion for a directed verdict of acquittal, Giesler called eight witnesses in rapid succession. Later, he told reporters "as you can see, we're getting along pretty fast."

He said Miss Berry came to his apartment about two o'clock on the morning of Dec. 31, 1942, and remained until 8 a.m.

On her arrival, Ruesch asserted, Miss Berry "was not sober," her clothing was disordered and dirty, there was blood about her face, her knees were abrased and her stockings torn.

U.S. Attorney Charles H. Carr, on cross-examination, sought to have Ruesch admit this might have been about Dec. 13, 1942, instead of the later date. The witness held to his earlier statement, however, and Carr did not establish what significance he attached to the Dec. 13 date.

Legal Committee Drops Appeal Action

The legal committee of the council Wednesday afternoon decided not to proceed with an appeal from the decision of Magistrate Gee dismissing the city's action against the Richard Hall Store under the early closing bylaw for drygoods and ladies wear businesses.

Members of the committee were of the opinion, from the accounts of that case that the city did not have 'a leg to stand on." Alderman Sands presided.

Strano Is Fined On Two Charges

A series of charges arising out of the sale by B. R. Strano, Simcoe street, of ten bags of potatoes to six local retailers around the beginning of July, 1943, was finally disposed of in police court this morning, when Magistrate O. A. Langley K.C. found Strano guilty on one charge of selling the potatoes at a price higher than the ceiling, the accused pleaded guilty to a second charge and the prosecution withdrew the remaining charges against Strano and similar charges against his wife.

On each of the two charges Strano was fined $10 and $4.75 costs.

The potato cases have been before the courts for months. The first charge heard was dismissed by Magistrate E. A. Gee. The prosecution through Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C. entered an appeal and Judge Smoke reversed the decision of the magistrate found Strano guilty and imposed a fine of $25.

Defence counsel W. J. Arthur Fair applied to the Ontario Appeal Court for leave to appeal against the judgment of the county judge but the higher body refused to gant leave to appeal.

In the meanwhile a number of similar charges against Strano and his wife had been held up but were finally proceeded with last week with evidence was heard in a charge of selling potatoes to the Haboco store, McDonnel street, at a price higher than the ceiling.

Magistrate Langley reserved judgment. This morning he declared that he felt that he was bound by the judgment of the county court judge, especially in view of the fact that the Appeal Court had refused to grant leave to appeal, and that therefore there would be a conviction.

"I feel that I am bound by the law as set forth by the county judge but not to follow his penalty" said His Worship. "He was dealing with one case but in view of the number of charges and the fact that there was a second order issued about the same time in regard to potatoes and the accused may have misunderstood the regulations I think that a fine of $10 would be sufficient".

"I am not asking for a greater fine than in the other case" said Mr. Gordon.

The court was proceeding to deal with a charge against Strano of selling potatoes to Mendal Braund at a price higher than the ceiling when Mr. Gordon announced that if there were a pleead of guilty on that count he would withdraw the other charges against Strano and also those against his wife.

Mr. Fair said that in view of the court's finding on the charge that had been completed he was compelled to accept the offer and accordingly a plea of guilty was entered and Strano was fined $10 and $4.75 costs. The other charges were then withdrawn.

Sacred Heart School Gives Fund $20

From the very earliest of times in the history of the world, man has ever striven towards a better civilization, at times making quite some progress, which then seemed to rest on its oars until some dire tragedy brings about a movement for something better than has previously prevailed.

That such a period is once again occurring from the great sacrifices now being made in the struggle against a tyranny that would enslave the world is quite apparent, considerable plans being brought forward, most of which are of a legislative nature, and therefore have what in some instances might be classed as possessing a coercive flavor.

The hope of a better civilization lies to a great extent in the teaching of the young folk of today, who in the years to come can carry these precepts taught in their youth into effect for the future benefit of mankind, for a civilization will be no better than its people are from an individual standpoint.

During the course of this war, children have come to learn that there is a blessedness in doing good for other people, and to the credit of themselves and their teachers, it may in general be said that they have risen to the occasion in a manner which holds much hope for the future, for unconsciously the little sacrifices they have made in time, effort, or spending money, is teaching them the joy and truth there is in the Christian teaching that "It is more blessed to give than to receive," besides giving them the urge to help people upon whom the stress of misfortune has fallen.

Repeat Their Good Acts

Every school within the confines of this city has on occasion given help to the sufferers from air raids over Britain, this alone being something which all should feel a considerable pride in, but it does not rest with that, this being apparent from the fact that time and again they come back with further aid of a similar nature. The latest of which happens to be the Sacred Heart School in the south-end of the city, presided over by Rev. Sister St. Basil as principal, who today are represented in the receipts for the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund with a nice donation of $20.00, continuing a good work they have done on previous occasions for the same purpose.

Children who learn the real significance of what Easter means to them and all others professing the Christian Faith, might also perhaps envision just what good their work and gifts can do in bringing new life to the many people who have lost their homes through destruction rained on them from the skies, and should others gain inspiration to do similar noble acts for a like purpose, then their gift will take on a much added significance and value.

Court-Martial Nearing Finish

BUCKINGHAM, Que., March 30. —(CP).—Trial of Pte. Nelson Skinner of Granby, Que., a member of the Veterans' Guard of Canada charged with misconduct while escorting eight German prisoners of war in nearby Thurso, Que., is expected to conclude today following addresses by prosecuting and defending officers to an open court martial which has been hearing the charges.

The taking of evidence in Skinner's case was concluded late yesterday. Brief addresses will be made today by Capt. L. C. Carroll, prosecutor, and Lieut. H. E. Feigelson, representing Skinner.

Pte. Skinner previously pleaded guilty to charges of allowing prisoners of war to fraternize in public with civilians and carrying out his duties improperly.

Garbage System Changes Over At Week-end

Householders have been advised by mail that their garbage collection service begins operation Saturday April 1 on the new basis of direct municipal operation.

The contract system terminates Friday, an daccording to some reports it is not winding up in a blaze of glory.

"Not one day too soon," was the comment of a citizen who said he had received a post card informing him of the days of collection in his area.

With the approval of the council its property committee some months ago set to work to plan the details of collection which becomes effective on Saturday. Equipment required by the department has been purchased, and the work comes under the direction of Garfield Torrance, who was transferred from the management of the Board of Works yard. Part of his duty will be to see that the citizens receive the service for which they are paying", and any complaints should be telephoned to him. The committee of which Alderman Swanston is chairman is hoping that the departure from the contract system will produce efficiency in results that will fulfill the expectations of the council.

Start at 8 o'clock

Said Alderman Swanston this afternoon: "Speaking for the council and the community as a whole citizens are asked to remember that collections begin at 8 a.m. instead of 7 o'clock, and that the work of collection can be greatly assisted by householders having their garbage out on time. That is essential, and it is just common sense. If the public will faithfully do its part, they will be helping the men and Mr. Torrance, and also helping themselves, and we can start feeling pretty confident that the venture is going to be a real success."

The first collection Saturday is in Ashburnham, and the first "pick up" is going to be watched with general interest.

Ambrose of Hamilton said today at the 24th annual meeting of the Ontario division. He said the financial statement was better than any time since the outbreak of war.

Mrs. John C. Fraser of Toronto said women's war work committees made a total of 5,676,061 articles, including hospital supplies, comforts for armed services, and civilian clothing. Total since the war began was 10,848,488 such articles.

A report by Mrs. Wallace Campbell of Windsor read by H. H. Leather of Hamilton said 28 outpost hospitals have been successfully maintained. A new hospital building was erected at Emo and a nurses residence was built at Dryden.

Greatest expansion was shown in the Blood Donor Service, chairman Russel T. Kelley of Hamilton reported. This service now provides permanent clinics in nearly all cities for blood donations, and towns and villages are served by seven mobile clinics. Donations increased from around 4,800 in 1943 to 12,000 this year.

Major James Baxter of Toronto publicity committee chairman, said the Red Cross owes much to the co-operation of the publishers of Ontario newspapers.

Officers elected included: Immediate past president, Mrs. Wallace R. Campbell; President, Mrs. Arthur W. Ellis, Toronto; President-elect, C. Bruce Hill, St. Catharines; Vice-presidents: C. P. Dalton, Kingston; W. J. Egan, Ottawa; Norman Evans, Hamilton; L. A. Henderson, Toronto, Mrs. Clara McEachren, Toronto.

Divers Battle Icy Water To Patch Boat

A NEWFOUNDLAND PORT, March 30—(CP)—For two days, working in water so cold that inlet valves of their breathing apparatus were in danger of freezing, a team of 10 Royal Canadian Navy divers strove to effect underwater repairs to a damaged Corvette, and were successful in getting the ship out to sea in time to overtake its convoy.

The team, in charge of Warrant Boatswain Lawrence (Lon) Chaney of Vernon, B.C., and Victoria, had the satisfaction of completing the job 30 minutes ahead of the promised time, and has been commended by Commodore C. R. H. Taylor, flag officer, Newfoundland, for its efforts.

Chaney was called for a "rush job" on Thursday night and advised that the Corvette could not said until an important piece of gear had been repaired. He said he hoped to complete the job by the following Saturday afternoon.

The next day the diving crew chopped holes in the "slob ice" and went down to tackle the job. At intervals they were forced to chip ice off their gear.

Peacetime regulations are that divers must not work in water of less than 37 degrees' temperature. Chaney's crew worked in 27-degree water, the ruling having gone by the boards in wartime.

"If we adhered to the old rules," Chaney explained, "we couldn't get much work done in this port."

The crew, commended for "excellent service during most adverse climatic and working conditions," included Petty Officer John Brown, Ingersoll, Ont., and Able Seaman Hunter, Windsor, Ont.

Fuzzy Wuzzies Celebrate Defeat Of Japs

FINSCHHAFEN, NEW GUINEA, March 30 — (AP) — Fuzzy Wuzzy history has been made with the greatest sing-song held by New Guinea's black natives in centuries.

Thousands of ochre-painted, feather-bedecked black men from villages throughout the Papuan territory and the Huon peninsula gathered last Sunday to celebrate their release from Japanese thralldom.

They danced themselves into a frenzy and then topped off the big day with a roast pork feast augmented with Australian bully beef and flour. The Australian food was there because the hungry Japanese had swept the jungle practically free of wild hogs. Only seven fat ones could be found to feed nearly 3,000 natives on hand for the celebration.

Angua (Australian-New Guinea unit) staged the celebration.

An Australian officer with many years' experience in the territory, opened the event by telling the natives in Pidgin English: "Japan may he never come no more."

Boys from Rabaul and the Sepik River of New Britain wrinkled their painted faces and shook their feathery headdresses when they told they too would soon be able to return home.

After the speech the natives slowly began to writhe and twist to the beat of jungle drums. They chanted native songs and soon the jungle arena was a swirling mass of human color.

At the height of the furious dancing an American negro soldier yelled: "Boy, them boys is real hepcats."

After the feast natives trudged to their mountain villages, each carrying back the words: "Japan may he finish."

Forum Chooses Discussion Topic

LIFFORD LINE, March 30 — (ENS). — The Yelverton Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Robinson and family on Monday evening with a good attendance, in spite of bad roads.

This was the final meeting of the season. The entire group joined in a questionnaire conducted by the leader, Victor Malcolm. Following the radio broadcast Farm Forum Guides were distributed and used for reference in answering the questions. Each member present suggested a subject from a list of five for discussion next year and this was voted on for submission to the Provincial Farm Forum secretary. The subject receiving the largest number of votes was "Discussion on plans for an eight-hour day for the farmer's wife."

Another question discussed was, "Do you like the radio theme song, 'Men of the Soil'?" A large percentage did not favor the present theme song and suggested "Country Garden," or some similar selection. As the provincial secretary is Ralph S. Staples, a former Cavan boy, and known to many of this group, it was suggested that the regular five-minute news radio summary given by him each week be extended to a longer period, if possible. Some thought a longer newscast might necessitate cutting down too drastically on some other part of the broadcast.

A question and answer talk was carried on regarding the "Publications" used at the weekly meetings. Suggestions were made regarding the study pamphlets which all agreed were helpful, with members stating which type of pamphlet they liked best and why they chose it. The final question was, "What action projects have been sponsored by the Farm Forum group?" and the answer was the Hydro project. Last week several car loads of men from this section motored to Uxbridge as signers for application for the extension of Hydro to this part of the county.

Progressive euchre was enjoyed until midnight, when the score cards were lifted and the results announced by Miss Edna Robinson, the recreation leader.

NAZI CLAIMS DOWN

Archers To Get Hunting Site

TORONTO, March 30 — (CP) — Plans are under way to set aside an area in Ontario for the exclusive use of persons hunting with bow and arrow, James Taylor, Deputy Minister of the Department of Game and Fisheries, told the Game and Fisheries Committee of the Legislature to-day.

He said the number of archery hunters was on the increase in the province. In stalking game, the archery hunters wear inconspicuous clothing which might prove dangerous in regular hunting areas where firearms are used. Hence the Government had decided to set aside a special area for the bow and arrow hunters.

The committee took no action on a suggestion that the three-day fishing licences issued tourists for a $2 fee be increased in price. Mr. Taylor said many people felt that if a tourist could travel hundreds of miles to fish, he could afford to pay more than $2.

Churchill Sure Of Majority If Vote Comes

LONDON, March 30—(CP)—A resounding majority now is in prospect for Prime Minister Churchill when the House of Commons accedes to his demand for a vote of confidence at its next sitting.

The potential vote against his government dwindled sharply last night when the Conservative reform committee, declaring the Prime Minister had put it on the spot by yesterday's call for a show-down, announced it would reverse the vote on an education bill amendment providing equal pay for men and women teachers.

The committee said it could not vote against the government on a confidence motion "on the eve of the second front."

The committee wanted it made clear, however, that the reversal of the vote will not constitute a reversal of its advocacy of the amendment, passed by a one-vote margin Tuesday night despite government opposition.

The government, taking no chances that some 350 government supporters who were absent during the original voting again would remain away, issued a "three-line whip" order last night summoning all party members to the confidence-vote session. When such an urgent summons is issued all members must appear unless they are ill or have a similar unquestionable excuse.

The bulk of London newspapers assailed the Prime Minister's action, the Daily Mail calling it "in effect the creation of a rubber stamp parliament" and publishing a cartoon depicting Mr. Churchill as a raging bull snorting triumphantly in the ring with picadors scrambling over the varrier.

The cartoon was captioned "The First Round" and the paper's political correspondent commented: "You know what usually happens to a bull before the fight is ended.

Has 30 Children

HOUSTON, Tex., March 30 (AP).—Applying for a group insurance policy at the Brown Shipbuilding Company here, Ira Knapp, thrice-married, disclosed he was the father of 30 children, 19 of whom are alive. There were 18 boys and 12 girls, he said, and he has six sons in the army. An ordained minister turned war-worker, Knapp is in his fifties.

Special Books Must Be Needed

OTTAWA, March 30—In a move directed at the traffic in loose gasoline cupons and other coupon rackets, Oil Controller G. R. Cottrelle last night laid down regulations governing the coming gasoline year which compels motorists to write their vehicle license number in ink on the coupons.

The order, according to spokesmen of the department, is complete in every way except for the provision of pen-and-ink sets at every licensed pump in the Dominion.

Munitions Minister Howe, in a supplementary statement, warned, as he warned previously when he announced the gallonage quotas: "The shortage is still acute. The little we have must be equitably distributed. Allowances in the preferred categories must be kept at a bare minimum, and every effort must be made to ensure that only those who are entitled to gasoline shall obtain it."

Parents Sue CAS InBrantfordCourt

BRANTFORD, March 30 (CP)—A suit for $50,000 on behalf of 15-year-old Vera Johnson against Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tapscott, the Brant County Children's Aid Society and two of its officials was dismissed in court yesterday. The suit, brought through the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, alleged false arrest, conspiracy to arrest, attempt to deprive the girl of her liberty and attempt to alienate the affections of the girl from her family.

Spencer Pitt of Toronto, counsel for the Johnsons, said the girl, one of a negro family of 13 children, had been asked by Mrs. Tapscott last September to leave her home. He added that Vera spent three days at the Tapscott home and at the Children's Shelter.

Six Perish In Fire At Kirkland Lake

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., March 30—(CP)—Six persons—five children and a woman of 71—died last night in a fire which swept the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butler in Kirkland Lake. Four others escaped from the burning home and three of them are in hospital.

Dead are: Mrs. Ella Anderson, 71, aunt of Mrs. Butler; four Butler children, Herbert, 15, Alan, 11, Billy 9, Glen 6; and a ward of the Butler family Gerry Greer, 11. All six were sleeping in the upper story of the house. Mr. and Mrs. Butler and two daughters, Betty, 10, and Evelyn, 4, escaped through their downstairs bedroom window. Butler is receiving treatment for shock. Betty was uninjured.

The fire, believed to have been caused by an overheated stove, started at 11:35 o'clock last night and is believed to have swept the lower part of the small two-storey house and then flashed up into the attic, trapping Mrs. Anderson and the five children sleeping there. Herbert's body was found on the floor beside his bed and the bodies of the other five victims were found in their beds.

When the parents were awakened by the fire, they found the stairway cut off by flames. The father attempts unsuccessfully to reach the stairs but was able only to get his wife and the two girls out the downstairs window and then get out himself.

Firemen who arrived a few seconds later found the fram house completely ablaze. Thirty minutes later they recovered the bodies. They said the first sweep up of super-heated air up the narrow stairway took the lives of the six.

The father and Herbert had come into the house just 20 minutes before the fire started and went straight to bed.

An inquest will be held.

Mother Is Charged Neglecting Children

TIMMMINS, March 30 — (CP) — Mrs. Eva Curry of Timmins was remanded one week by Magistrate S. Atkinson when she appeared in police court yesterday on a charge of neglecting her children. The charge was laid by A. G. Carson, Children's Aid Society superintendent.

Mary Wainwright Weds Clarence Davern

St. Paul's Presbyterian church was decorated with ferns, snapdragons, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, for the wedding of Mary Louise Wainwright, Reg. N., and Clarence A. Davern, Phm.B., with Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. George Wainwright, of London, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davern, Maitland avenue. Martin B. Chenhall was at the organ, and Miss Orma Lacheur sang "Where'er You Walk."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was frocked in street-length pale blue crepe, with a cascade skirt, and trimmed with brilliants. Her tiny red feather hat was completed by a blue veil, and she wore a corsage of red roses. Miss Helen Latimer was bridesmaid, in an orchid ensemble, a violet hat and veil, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

John Davern, brother of the groom, was best man, and Everett Cameron of Stroud, and Jack Brown were ushers.

At the reception, held at Hooper's Palm Rooms, Mrs. Wesley Brown, aunt of the bride, received in a gown of printed silk jersey, with navy accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. W. A. Davern, mother of the groom, received in a frock of rust crepe, with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

For a trip to points east, the bride donned a two-piece brown wool crepe ensemble, brown hat and accessories, a muskrat coat, and an orchid corsage. On their return, the young couple will live on King street.

USEFUL INDULGENCE—A lightweight, light gray wool is made into a one-piece princess style dress, its scalloped bodice closing freshened with white pique ruffling. The profile cloche is white straw. No one is indulging in the impractical these days when it comes to fashion . . . if she is, at any rate, she is muffing the excellent wartime job of our style designers. It is possible as well as practical to replenish the wardrobe sanely, choosing pearls of little price and saving the leftover from the peace-time budget for War Bonds. Kitty Carlisle, singing star of the stage and the movies, has long been famous as a best-dressed woman . . . and in the old days she spent her income grandly keeping up the tradition. Here, however, she is shown in a ready-made basic frock which keeps up her chic reputation at what she once would have considered a pin-money outlay. It's fine for both Kitty and her pre-war sables.

Jolly Beggars Hold Ladies' Night

Despite the weather, the Jolly Beggars' Club had an enjoyable time Wednesday evening, when its members held their first ladies' night, in the Moose Hall. A spirit of gaiety and good fellowship prevailed throughout the evening, with the Scottish theme of the Club foremost in the numbers of the vocal program presented as the main feature.

The entertainment opened with a singsong, led by Alex Clarke, with John Smith at the piano, the numbers being "Ye Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doon," and "Lead Kindly Light." Mrs. A. W. Spencley sang "Homing." "Annie Laurie," "Auld Scotch Sangs,' and "My Ain Wee House," with the whole group joining in the chorus of the latter. Alex Kirkcaldy sang "Jock O'Hazeldean" and "Loch Lomond." Three readings were given by Alex Miller, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," "A Man's a Man for A' That," and the spine-chilling "The Cremation of Sam McGee."

The executive of the Club joined to sing "The Bonnie Woods of Craigie Lee," and Jack Smith sang "The Battle of Stirling Bridge," and "Mother of Mine." Jimmy Paisley sang "Mary of Argyle"; Mrs. A. H. Radford sang "Comin' Thro' the Rye," "Have I Stayed Away too Long," "Valley of Laughter," and "Heart of the Sunset," playing her own accompaniment. Mrs. Radford and Mr. Smith provided the accompaniment for the program. The chairman and president of the club, Robert Hendry, sang "When I Meet McKay," with the audience joining in the chorus. He and Mr. Smith sang "Wee Hoose 'Mang the Heather,' and "It's a Fine Thing to Sing,' and everyone present again joined in on the chorus with a will.

The Jolly Beggars' Club was formed about a year ago, after a list of men of Scottish descent who had been in Peterborough for over 15 years, was compiled. This group formed the nucleus of the Club, with direct Scottish descent being the only qualification needed to become a member.

They took their name from one of Robert Burns' poems, and set the keeping of Scottish traditions as their aim. The Club has already celebrated Burns' night, and St. Andrews' night, but the ladies' night was a new feature. Refreshments were served at the end of the program.

Soldiers Hear Talk On Italy

A special guest, Major W. B. Welbourn, addressed the soldiers at the Uptown Recreation Centre Tuesday evening, and told of his experiences as an auxiliary worker behind the front lines in Italy. Major Welbourn, of the Salvation Army, has just been invalided home from Italy, after serving in the Sicilian and Italian campaigns. In a short talk, he told of messages he had brought back from Italy, and also gave the boys an outline of what to do when they went into action.

A musical program was also presented, with the Peterborough Women's Service Corps in charge of the evening. Mr. J. Hobson played several accordion solos, and also accompaniment for the community singing, led by Mrs. C. Norman. Mr. H. Howay, and his dog, Pal, put on a program of tricks which was greatly enjoyed by the large number of soldiers present. Miss Olive Rome sang, accompanied by Miss Marguerite Rome, and Mr. Ted Collis sang. Mrs. Norman conducted several contests.

Mrs. Norman introduced Col. W. Wray, of Toronto, who spoke a few words and then introduced Major Welbourn. Refreshments were served by members of the Corps.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

In these days of rationing sugar, we turn to other means of sweetening our baking. I am today going to give you a few hints on the uses of honey. It may be used in home cooking as a substitute for sugar or molasses with delightful results provided certain general rules are carefully followed. The following rules are based on experimental work that has been done with honey in cooked foods and by following a few simple rules, any recipe may be adapted to the use of honey.

1. Always measure honey in liquid form. If it becomes granulated heat over warm water until it liquid.

2. For every cup of honey used reduce the liquid called for in the recipe by one-fifth.

3. One cup of honey is as great in sweetening power as one cup of sugar.

4. Use ¼ to ½ teaspoon of soda to each cup of honey.

5. Increase the amount of salt by ⅛ to ¼ teaspoon.

6. When substituting honey for sugar in cake reduce the liquid of the recipe by one fifth and use half honey and half sugar, except in fruit cake when all honey may be used.

7. In milk puddings, pie fillings, etc., add the honey with the thickening agent, such as cornstarch, flour, etc. Following are a few recipes using honey.

Steamed Date Pudding

Three tablespoons butter, ¼ cup honey, ¼ cup brown sugar. ½ cup milk, 1 egg, 1 3/4 cups flour, ½ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon allspice, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ pound dates. Cream butter, sugar, honey and egg thoroughly. Add dates. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk. Pour into well buttered mould and steam two hours.

Honey Graham Bread

One cake yeast, 1 cup milk scalded and cooled, 4 tablespoons honey, 1 cup lukewarm water, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 4 cups graham flour, 1 cup sifted bread flour, 1 teaspoon salt. Dissolve yeast in luke warm liquid, add honey, shortening, and milk. Then add flour and salt gradually until dough is formed that can be handled. Knead thoroughly, being sure to keep dough soft. Cover and set aside in a warm place to rise about 1½ hours. When double in bulk, turn out on a board and mould into loaves. Place in well-greased bread pan, cover and let rise about ½ hour. Bake 1 hour.

Honey Angel Cake

One-half cup fruit sugar, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 6 egg whites, ½ cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon flavoring, ¼ cup honey. Sift sugar five times. Sift flour five times. Combine and add ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar. Sift 5 times again. Partially beat egg whites, remaining cream of tartar, and salt and finish beating. Add honey slowly to egg whites, fold in dry ingredients carefully. Lastly add flavoring. Pour into an ungreased angel cake pan and start in a very slow oven, then increase the heat.

Honey Cream Filling

One-half cup honey, 1¼ cups milk, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoon milk. Combine honey and milk and bring to a boil. Combine other ingredients and beat until smooth, add to first mixture and cook over hot water for 10 minutes.

JUST FOR WOMEN

By CONNIE NICHOLSON
(Society Editor of The Examiner)

VICTORY SHADES.

Fashion stylists, keeping abreast of the times, have now branched out with war names for new shades appearing on the scene. Examples of this up-to-date method of naming shades are coral sea red, attu gray, admiralty blue, and beachhead beige. Most of these shades appear in wool jersey or crepe, since wool shows tinting to best advantage.

Other war name colors are Munda, a soft gold shade, perfect for the black-haired woman; and Guadalcanal, a soft green, which would show up admirably against blonde hair. Beachhead beige is recommended to accent the beauty of the redhead.

While pastels are still claiming wide popularity, white is fast becoming the "it" shade, since it is smart in wools and wool crepes during spring, and in tub materials for late spring and summer. White accessories are also becoming popular, with white gloves and hats being shown for spring wear.

SOFT COMPLEXIONS.

Harsh March and April winds wreck havoc with tender complexions, and cause rough, dry spots and blemishes. One excellent way to protect tender skin and keep it soft is to use a foundation cream, since it conceals blemishes, protects the skin, gives a youthful glow, and acts as a constant lubricant.

For girls with dry skins, a rich oily cream is recommended. In addition, girls with dry skin conditions would not use soap and water, but cleanse with cream, and tone with a mild skin lotion. A softening cream at night, or when taking a bath, will give new life and softens, and a cream foundation, used before applying powder, will make that flaky look disappear.

However, a little practice in applying the foundation cream is necessary. It should be blended in, by stroking and patting it on with the fingertips. A little goes a long way, and, if the cream is warmed before applying, it stretches even further.

Preparing A Dinner Party When Time Is Essential

By MARY MOORE

We who live in 1944 are victims of the speed-up system. I find myself wondering how I can invite some nice new people I've discovered to dinner without turning myself, my routine, my house inside out for a whole day or two.

Isn't there a dinner I can plan—meat, vegetables and dessert—to prepare quickly, push in the oven, and by magic have it all come out baked and browned to perfection without another thought from me? Something my guests will exclaim and sigh over and remember all their days?

I'd like to have a silent suction apparatus in my ceilings that unobtrusively sucks up the dust and air conditions my rooms in one operation.

I even believe in some kind of magic that gently poises my children so that when I say something that surprises them to my guests they don't upset their milk or say "Mother we did not!"

Am I just a blissful but dithering old idiot?

This very day the telephone has rung so often there are deadlines I'm going to be pushed hard to meet by mid-week, but I've guests coming one evening for dinner—I'll be out of town one whole day, and I'm going out to dinner another night. And that meal the night those guests are coming has to be nice.

You all know what I mean; good food makes a party go; so I'm going to borrow unchanged, from a cook in a Niagara Falls hotel and make a

That will be dessert off my mind—for it is a sure treat.

Because of my Saturday custom of making up some pastry I've enough for a pie left. This pie is very good—take the word of a gal whose business it is to know.

Make your best pie paste, not stinting on the shortening, and line a large pie plate with it having the pastry come well above the edge of the plate to prevent pie spilling over.

Make the filling: One and one-half cups canned pumpkin (good old unrationed pumpkin), ¾ cup cooking figs chopped to about ¼-inch pieces, ½ to to 2-3 cup brown sugar (the figs sweeten the pie some), 1 teaspoon cinnamon (¼ teaspoon cloves if you like), ½ teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk and ½ cup cream or 1½ cups milk. Mix ingredients in order given and pour into prepared crust. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. standing pie low in oven with heat coming from below for 10 minutes, then reducing heat, this quickly bakes bottom crust and prevents sogginess. Time about 40 minutes in oven in all—heat should be reduced part way through.

With dessert off your mind things always go better.

The Main Course

A good butcher knows what a Chicago butt of beef is—it's the most tender cut of the back of the rump, and make excellent roasts at low cost, or if you prefer a rolled rib roast from good quality beef it will go with the rest of the menu too.

While the oven temperature is rising to 500 deg. Fahr. mix one teaspoon mild paprika with 1 tablespoon salt and rub this mixture into the cut surfaces and fat of the roast, rub it in with your finger tips. Place in roasting pan on trivet and when oven is very hot sear it for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 deg. Fahr.—a 5-lb. roast requires about 1½ to 1¾ hours to be medium well done.

Vegetables

Scrub large potatoes very well and cut in halves length-wise and soak in cold water ½ hour—this soaking water has to be used for soup or I don't recommend the method—the soaking makes the pan baked potatoes fluffy. Put prepared potatoes in pan with jackets on, one hour before roast is done, sprinkle them with a little salt and paprika.

In your best casserole put one can drained green beans, cut or whole, and 1 can niblet corn with ½ cup cream or top milk and salt and black pepper. Cover and let bake about 40 minutes. Serve from casserole of course.

Salad

On a wonder shredder shred, 1 unpeeled apple, 1 medium carrot, about 1 cup green cabbage and add to it about ¼ cup small sprigs parsley. Marinate it with either French Dressing or my special Hot water Mayonnaise (I can't make myself switch to any other because this one is so fast). I want to remind you to add the dressing immediately—it conserves the vitamins.

Making the gravy and heating the plates isn't hard—somebody else can set the table and carve the roast. I think your guests will like it.

For Friday, March 31

A DIFFICULT day in which much depends upon self control, a mode of conduct which will contribute to a safe physical condition, with the energies, emotions and impulses well regulated. Running counter to the wishes and directions of elders, superiors or employers many exact great penalties. While there may be a surprising turn of events in the constructive platform, yet there are tricky circumstances to be met with tact, finesse, patience and amiability Baleful indulgencies or sensitivities might react upon health and peace.

Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of progress and surprising advancement — practical lucrative and gratifying — if they will take themselves in hand, with tact, patience, perseverance and the proper approach to superiors employers or elders. Friction may result in unhappy reactions in both the physical and material sense. Sensitive, emotional flights or explosions may be detrimental to certain prospects of a fresh, unique or novel aspect.

A child born on this day will have talent in unusual directions but it may be nervous, high-strung and emotional, to a degree that will react on its health and its happy contacts with elders and superiors.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I want to make a swap. I have a recipe from a cousin of mine who is a "Penna Deutscher"—from Pennsylvania Dutch stock four generations and her cooking is something to write about. I'm sending you her recipe for the Dutch Potato Pancakes and Old-fashioned String Beans and Bacon. In return I want your recipe for Yorkshire Pudding that you mention so often.

Grumbera Pfannkuchen

Dutch or German Potato Pancakes.

Three cups raw grated white potatoes, 2 eggs, 1½ tablespoons flour (bread or cracker crumbs may be substituted), ¼ teaspoon baking powder, 1¾ teaspoons salt. Select large potatoes, peel and let soak overnight in cold water. Pour off water, grate potatoes and drain. Have the eggs beaten light and fluffy and add the salt, pepper flour and baking powder to them. A little onion is usually added by most cooks. Use a teaspoon and drop batter on a hot well-greased frying pan in small flat cakes. Brown well on both sides.

Old-fashioned String Beans and Bacon.

One can string beans and liquid, or an equal amount of fresh beans, 2 medium potatoes cut in ½-inch dice, ¼ lb. bacon cut in ½-inch dice, and well browned, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup water, pepper, 1 small onion left whole. Put all ingredients into kettle and boil until the potatoes are soft—about 15 minutes. That's all besides eating them, but it's enough.

—Linna Davis..

ANSWER: That's more than fair. I've tasted that mix of German Pancakes, but never the beans and potato and bacon one.

Here's a proper recipe for Yorkshire Pudding from an expert who is an old hand at making them for her English descended father, brother and sisters — namely me.

Yorkshire Pudding

Two cups milk, 1 cup flour, 4 eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon baking powder, and add milk gradually to form a smooth paste; then add egg well beaten. Strain if flour lumps are present. Pour into sizzling hot roasting pan containing at least ½ cup fat from roasting beef (or pork) and put in oven of 450 deg. Fahr. — reducing heat as baking progresses. Gravy is a must with Yorkshire—so have at least a pint ready made from the drippings you poured out of pan when Yorkshire was put in. The roast may be left in one corner of pan if it is not done, while Yorkshire Pudding is baking.

QUESTION: On a menu in a hotel dining room where I was attending a convention last month there was mentioned "Coffee Caramel Parfait". I hadn't the nerve to enquire how it was made but resolved to write to you when I got home. Have you such a recipe. It was heavenly. I always read your column. Ida Havens.

ANSWER: This is my version of it and it is mighty good.

Coffee Caramel Parfait

One cup milk, 2 tablespoons ground coffee, ½ cup carmelized sugar, yolks 3 eggs, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Scalt milk with coffee and add carmalized sugar and yolks of eggs, slightly beaten, and mixed with sugar and salt. Cook until mixture thickens, stirring, then strain and cool. Add cream and vanilla and freeze—stirring twice in freezing tray if frozen in electric refrigerator.

Marinate it with either French Dressing or my special Hot water Mayonnaise (I can't make myself switch to any other because this one is so fast). I want to remind you to add the dressing immediately—it conserves the vitamins.

Making the gravy and heating the plates isn't hard—somebody else can set the table and carve the roast. I think your guests will like it.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, March 31

A DIFFICULT day in which much depends upon self control, a mode of conduct which will contribute to a safe physical condition, with the energies, emotions and impulses well regulated. Running counter to the wishes and directions of elders, superiors or employers many exact great penalties. While there may be a surprising turn of events in the constructive platform, yet there are tricky circumstances to be met with tact, finesse, patience and amiability Baleful indulgencies or sensitivities might react upon health and peace.

Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of progress and surprising advancement — practical lucrative and gratifying — if they will take themselves in hand, with tact, patience, perseverance and the proper approach to superiors employers or elders. Friction may result in unhappy reactions in both the physical and material sense. Sensitive, emotional flights or explosions may be detrimental to certain prospects of a fresh, unique or novel aspect.

A child born on this day will have talent in unusual directions but it may be nervous, high-strung and emotional, to a degree that will react on its health and its happy contacts with elders and superiors.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I want to make a swap. I have a recipe from a cousin of mine who is a "Penna Deutscher"—from Pennsylvania Dutch stock four generations and her cooking is something to write about. I'm sending you her recipe for the Dutch Potato Pancakes and Old-fashioned String Beans and Bacon. In return I want your recipe for Yorkshire Pudding that you mention so often.

Grumbera Pfannkuchen

Dutch or German Potato Pancakes.

Three cups raw grated white potatoes, 2 eggs, 1½ tablespoons flour (bread or cracker crumbs may be substituted), ¼ teaspoon baking powder, 1¾ teaspoons salt. Select large potatoes, peel and let soak overnight in cold water. Pour off water, grate potatoes and drain. Have the eggs beaten light and fluffy and add the salt, pepper flour and baking powder to them. A little onion is usually added by most cooks. Use a teaspoon and drop batter on a hot well-greased frying pan in small flat cakes. Brown well on both sides.

Old-fashioned String Beans and Bacon.

One can string beans and liquid, or an equal amount of fresh beans, 2 medium potatoes cut in ½-inch dice, ¼ lb. bacon cut in ½-inch dice, and well browned, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup water, pepper, 1 small onion left whole. Put all ingredients into kettle and boil until the potatoes are soft—about 15 minutes That's all besides eating them, but it's enough.

—Linna Davis.

ANSWER: That's more than fair. I've tasted that mix of German Pancakes, but never the beans and potato and bacon one.

Here's a proper recipe for Yorkshire Pudding from an expert who is an old hand at making them for her English descended father, brother and sisters — namely me.

Yorkshire Pudding

Two cups milk, 1 cup flour, 4 eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon baking powder, and add milk gradually to form a smooth paste; then add egg well beaten. Strain if flour lumps are present. Pour into sizzling hot roasting pan containing at least ⅛ cup fat from roasting beef (or pork) and put in oven of 450 deg. Fahr. — reducing heat as baking progresses. Gravy is a must with Yorkshire—so have at least a pint ready made from the drippings you poured out of pan when Yorkshire was put in. The roast may be left in one corner of pan if it is not done, while Yorkshire Pudding is baking.

QUESTION: On a menu in a hotel dining room where I was attending a convention last month there was mentioned "Coffee Caramel Parfait". I hadn't the nerve to enquire how it was made but resolved to write to you when I got home. Have you such a recipe. It was heavenly. I always read your column. Ida Havens.

ANSWER: This is my version of it and it is mighty good.

Coffee Caramel Parfait

One cup milk, 2 tablespoons ground coffee, ½ cup carmelized sugar, yolks 3 eggs, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Scalt milk with coffee and add carmalized sugar and yolks of eggs, slightly beaten, and mixed with sugar and salt. Cook until mixture thickens, stirring, then strain and cool. Add cream and vanilla and freeze—stirring twice in freezing tray if frozen in electric refrigerator.

TO REPLACE PENELOPE

Transportation Group Hears Lloyd McClure

Provincial Highway Officer Lloyd McClure was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Transportation Group of the I.A.P.A. at the Paragon Hall on Tuesday. T. McCabe, chairman of the group, was in charge, and B. Scarlett opened the meeting with the showing of two sound pictures entitled "Everybody's Business" and "Why Not Live?" Mr. McClure was introduced by Mr. McCabe and gave a very interesting talk on highway traffic rules, and regulations and accidents and their causes. During the discussion which followed, Mr. McClure answered questions asked by members of the group.

The points under discussion included bicycles on the highway, parking, reporting an accident, distance between transports travelling on the highway, signals given by transport drivers, and what they mean, and many other interesting points.

There will be another meeting in April and the executive committee is arranging another interesting program.

Driver Is Charged Following Accident

Following an accident at McDonnel and Aylmer streets Wednesday night, John Joseph Allen, 721 Bethune street, was arrested on a charge of drunken driving and pleaded not guilty on that charge in police court this morning. He was defended by John A. Bradshaw, who said that the defence was not ready to proceed. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., also stated that the prosecution was equally unready, and the case was accordingly adjourned until next Thursday.

Allen was taken into custody after a collision at an intersection in which two cars were damaged considerably. John Yelland, R.R. 3, Peterborough, was driving east on McDonnel street and Allen was the alleged driver of another automobile travelling north on Aylmer street. The two vehicles came into contact at the intersection. No one was hurt but both cars showed a lot of damage after the impact.

Police Called To Protect Dollar Tosser

WINDSOR, March 30 — (CP)— Harry F. McLean, the multimillionaire construction king with the Midas touch, is under police guard in his hotel room here tonight while more than a score of residents of the city wait with bated breath to see if cheques, valued at close to $50,000, he handed out today are valid or not.

This was the widest day in the hectic career of the money-spreading, "Mr. X", and certainly one of the most hectic in the history of this border city.

Downtown Windsor resembled a Yukon town of the gold-rush days this afternoon as hundreds jammed the halls of the Prince Edward Hotel and assembled out in front of a mad rush to get to McLean in the hope of receiving a gift.

McLean started the stampede himself before noon, when he started throwing $1 bills and quarters from his hotel window to the street below. He passed out approximately $4,000 in this manner.

With his cash all gone, the philanthropist started writing cheques, and as the news spread the crowd increased. Policemen, hotel employees, newsmen and any one who managed to reach McLean were rewarded with cheques ranging from $1,000 to $5,000.

On Toronto Branch

The cheques were issued on blank forms which the lavish-handed millionaire called for and signed after they had been made out on the Toronto branch of the Bank of Toronto.

It was estimated that about $5,000 in cash was handed out by McLean and another $45,000 in cheques.

McLean started throwing the money out his hotel window about 11 a.m. and crowds were still milling in front of the hotel at 6 p.m.

It was not until the police guard was placed at his room door that people stopped trying to see him.

The guard was still there tonight and it was reported Mr. McLean was in the hands of his own nurse waiting arrival of his housekeeper from Merrickville.

It was also reported McLean will leave here in the morning, although his exact destination is not known. Most reliable report is that McLean came here last night from Grand Rapids, Mich., where he has been in the hospital. He is reported to have left suddenly and that he will return there tomorrow.

So many persons received cheques from the former "Mr. X" in the afternoon it was impossible to get an accurate list of those who benefitted.

The majority of them rushed to their own bank immediately. The cheques were taken from them and they were advised they would have to wait until they had been submitted to the Toronto bank for payment.

It is known that at least two persons and one organization received $5,000 cheques. A Negro hotel elevator girl got one of them and the Windsor police burial fund another.

HUSBAND NEEDS MANY TALENTS

Wife Would Rely, on His Judgement Yet Lead Him Around by the Nose

A man asks: "What should be the position of the husband in the home?" He should be friend, counsellor and guide, He should be neither a steam-roller nor a dormat. He should be the light of the house not its blackout.

And if you think it is easy to do this, you have never been a married man. For women are kittle-cattle to deal with and every wife wants her husband to be reinforced concrete to others, but mush in her hands. She wants to rely on his judgment, yet lead him around by the nose. She wants him to work hard and make plenty of money, but not be too tired to take her out stepping of an evening.

REASON FOR FAILURES

For a man to qualify for the role of Ideal Husband requires a diversity of talents that range all the way from his being a Churchill to a Bob Hope, so it is no wonder that so many others just throw up their hands and quit and suffer themselves to become that most abject of creatures, the henpecked husband, or else turn into domestic Hitlers.

Yet, in spite of its difficulties any man can establish himself as the head of his household if he will approach the subject realistically, instead of traditionally. Let him forget how Grandpa treated Grandma. The days of the tyrannical husband, who ordered his wife about as if she were a slave, are over. But definitely, The modern wife has to be handled as diplomatically as if she were a delegate sitting down at a Peace Table instead of a mere woman sitting down to the breakfast table.

The only way in which a man can get any co-operation from his wife is by making a friend of her; by establishing a real companionship with her; by not talking to her about the things in which he is interested but by taking an interest in all of her hopes and plans and trying to further them, if they are worth-while. Romance is bound to die in the disillusioning light that beats on the hearthstone. Thrills and palpitations peter out. But the husband and wife who enjoy each other's society and who never talk out, have an imperishable joy in their lives. The sweetest term in all the lexicon of love is "friend husband" or "friend wife."

WOMEN WOULD LOOK UP TO HUSBANDS

Every man would like to have his wife regard him as an oracle, and undoubtedly the happiest marriage are those in which the wife begins every sentence with "John says" as if that setted the matter. Every woman would like to look up to her husband if she could, but it is an impossibility if she finds him mean and narrow-minded, with silly, prejudiced opinions, who is a despot at home because he is nothing abroad. Every woman puts her husband on a pinnacle when she marries him, but he has to keep himself from falling off of it by his own work.

Inasmuch as the success of every marriage depends upon the husband and wife walking hand in hand, instead of pulling apart, there must be a leader. This should be the man, because he has had more-experience with life than his bride has, but many a husband fails to guide his wife along the way he wants her to go because he puts her back up by arbitrarily forcing his opinions upon her, instead of taking the trouble to sell her his points of view, with a liberal package of soft soap thrown in for a bonus.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"SHE PLAYS LIKE A MAN"

FOR YEARS the highest compliment one of the ranking tournament experts could pay to a woman player was, "She plays bridge like a man." You hardly hear that at all from them any more. The day of man's monopoly of high rank in tournament bridge has passed, as one after another of the feminine contingent has shown ability to contest on equal terms with the best of them, and win plenty often.

In the season of 1943-1944 of national championship play, four women have done well enough to gain places in the list of the first ten, largest number yet. They are: Mrs. Alexander M. Sobel, wife of the tournament director of the American Contract Bridge league; Mrs. Edith J. Seligman, another New Yorker; Mrs. Olive Peterson, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Wilkinson Wagar, of Atlanta, Ga. They landed seventh, eighth and tenth, respectively.

First woman to be ranked as No. 1 for a season was Mrs. Ralph C. Young, of Philadelphia, who led all the rest for 1939-1940. The second was Mrs. Sobel, last season. This season she gained three victories, in the open match point teams of four, the women's fours and the mixed fours, plus second place in the masters' teams. That record made her top woman for the season.

A most distinguished performance was that of Mrs. Seligman. Not only did she win a third consecutive victory in the women's pairs, with Mrs. Mae Rosen as partner, but she also broke a precedent when she and Mrs. Ruth Chase Goldberg, of Philadelphia, won the open pairs, which previously had always been won by two men or a mixed pair, but never by two members of the fair sex playing together.

Mrs. Peterson also did a surprising thing when she showed her ability to play effectively with a male partner by winning both the mixed pair and mixed team championships. Each time she was teamed with Charles H. Goren, the No. 1 player of the season, their mates in the team contest being Mrs. Sobel and Sidney Silodor of Philadelphia.

This fine showing of the feminine contingent was further punctuated by the strong play of Mrs. J. E. Folline, of Richmond, Va., who finished third in the individual masters' championship, in which 36 of the nation's leading stars take turns with each other as partners.

Without exception, the woman stars gave splendid help to the charity and wartime services performed by bridge through its governing body, the American Contract Bridge league Besides supporting the only hospital ward in the world devoted to cancer in children, helping tremendously in the sale of war bonds and such other causes as the infantile paralysis campaign, the league has launched a special activity known as "War Orphans' Scholarships." Under this, with a distinguished board of Army, Navy and other government officials, the bridge players have taken the lead in seeing that the children of martyred heroes shall not suffer for lack of educational opportunities.

Already a sizable number of the necessary $500 donations for scholarships have been obtained, and plans have been worked out for doing the job adequately—certainly a worth while work. Counting the great sums raised by bridge players for ambulances even before we were in the war, the records show that bridge probably tops any other three games or sports in total amount of service rendered in such activities to date. In addition—unlike some games which still offer valuable prizes, some of them cash—bridge tournaments now present to their winners "Victory Certificates," the money which previously went into prizes being donated to one good cause or another.

Are you familiar with the general tactics, in bidding and play, used by the top-ranking contestants in the national championships? They will be analyzed tomorrow.

Federal Government To Deal With Banking Act After Easter Recess

OTTAWA, March 30 — (CP) — The revised Bank Act and other financial legislation will be introduced in Parliament immediately after the Easter recess, Douglas Abbott, Parliamentary Assistant to Finance Minister Ilsley, announced to-day at the House Banking Committee.

The committee was considering the Bill to create an industrial development bank, and heard Graham Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada, estimate the institution's loss ratio would be about one per cent of total assets per annum, slightly higher than that in ordinary banking business. The profit, available for reserve and dividends, he placed also at one per cent per annum or four per cent on the proposed $25,000,000 of capital stock which will be held by the Bank of Canada.

In addition to the regular decennial revision of the Bank Act under which the chartered banks operate the Government has indicated it proposes measures to assist in the financing of post-war housing and to provide additional credit facilities for farmers.

Several members have objected to considering the industrial development bank proposal until all government financial proposals were before them. Mr. Abbott indicated that further consideration could take place in the light of a knowledge of the whole plan.

A loss ratio of one per cent on total assets of $100,000,000 and a profit of one per cent for reserve and dividends are to be expected in the operation of the proposed bank, said Mr. Towers.

This loss ratio, saiad Mr. Towers, is somewhat higher than expected over a period of years in commercial banking which he placed at just under three-quarters of one per cent.

"A bank which never makes a loss is no good for man or beast," said Mr. Towers. "It is operating so conservatively it is not performing its function."

The proposed industrial bank would not take loans which were refunded by all other lenders because of a high risk of loss. It would make loans which, because they were for a period of years and for small amounts, were not suitable to other lenders.

Losses Low.

If the whole of the $100,000,000 capital was used, said Mr. Towers, the bank would probably have loans of $95,000,000 at five per cent, which would mean earnings on its capital of 4¾ er cent.

Interest on bonds and debentures $75,000,000)) would average 2¾ per cent which would be a cost of 1¾ per cent on total assets.

General operating expenses would run to one per cent of total assets after allowing for loss ratio of one per cent there would be one per cent of total assets for a reserve and dividends (or four per cent on $25,000,000 capital stock to be owned by the Bank of Canada).

Mr. Towers said the maximum level for losses he could anticipate was 1½ per cent of total assets per annum. If a depression of the same sort as occurred in 1930 developed losses might be greater, but Mr. Towers said he did not think it wise to plan on that basis.

Chaplin Lawyer Asks Acquittal

LOS ANGELES, March 30 (AP)—Defence efforts to have the Charlie Chaplin Mann Act case thrown out of Federal Court on a motion for directed acquittal met stubborn resistance today from the prosecution.

A motion for the directed verdict was made by the actor's lawyer, Jerry Giesler, late yesterday after Chaplin's butler, lean and solemn Edward Chaney, testifying for the prosecution, had said that Chaplin had admitted within his hearing that he had engaged in intimacies both in New York and in Beverly Hills with Joan Berry.

"For the purposes of our argument," he told the court, "you must assume that the act took place."

But, he added, the relationship between Miss Berry, 24, and Chaplin, 30 years older, could have been pursued "undisturbed, indefinitely and anywhere," and did not necessitate a trip to New York or anywhere else.

He asserted the acts laid to Chaplin did not fall within the purview of the Mann Act, which forbids the transportation of a woman in interstate commerce for immoral purposes.

Juvenile Crime Up 69 Per Cent

TORONTO, March 30 — (CP) — The annual report of the commissioner of the Ontario Provincial Police, tabled yesterday in the Provincial Legislature, said that in the year ended Dec. 31, 1943, "there was an increase of 69 per cent in the number of juvenile offenders between the ages of 10 and 16 years who appeared before the courts, there being 697 as against 353 in 1942."

"Much has been said and volumes written regarding the present seriousness of this problem," the report said, "but until parents are made to realize the first responsibility in training their children is theirs and not the state, the church or the school, there s little hope of improvement."

Call Husbands If Separated

OTTAWA, March 30—(CP)—Arthur MacNamara, Director of National Selective Service, in a statement issued to-day said recent revision of call-up regulations does not mean that married men will be made subject to call simply because their wives are employed.

Mr. MacNamara said the revised regulations authorize registrars to call for military training any married man who is not maintaining his wife or children, or is not making a reasonable contribution to their support. Since all married men born in the year 1913 or later are already designated for military service, the new provision applies only to certain married men born in any of the years 1906 to 1912, inclusive.

The Selective Service director said it was not the intention to call up a married man simply because his wife is in employment, even where she maintains herself or contributes to the maintenance of their household.

Determination to call a man will be made on the basis of husband and wife being separated, when the husband does not provide support, although, Mr. MacNamara added, even where husbands of working wives must live away from home, the husbands will not be called up where husband and wife are not separated.

Conservative And Labor Parties Differ On Britain's War Policies

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 30 — (CP) — Behind the speeches Oliver Lyttelton and Herbert Morrison made within a few days of each other recently probably can be found the answer to the question of whether Britain's Conservative and Labor Parties could continue a post-war Coalition.

The views of Lyttelton, Conservative Minister of Production, and Morrison, Labor Minister of Home Security, injuxtavosition on a prime post-war subject— organization of British industry — would seem to rule out the possibility.

Said Lyttelton: "The field for state management is comparatively narrow....I, personally, believe that if you wish to see us able to earn our living in a highly-competitive world, the great majority of business must be left to private individuals and that their enterprise must be judged upon what, I fear, will strike you as a very unidealistic standard— namely, whether it makes a profit or not."

Said Morrison: "Over the whole field of large-scale industry and organized business we are moving away from the old point of view and the old incentive....For some time to come we shall in Britain be working out a form of partnership between the state and large-scale industry."

There were points on which the two ministers were in agreement. Both recognized that there must be state intervention in industry, both hailed full employment as the goal of economic statesmanship.

But in the formation of the policies leading to these points there lie the thorny fences against which it is conceded here, Conservative-Labor co-operation would shatter without the overall urgency of the war.

Army Chaplain Visits Corvette

BAILIEBORO, March 30—(ENS)—Capt. Morgan Rowland, although an army chaplain, is at present the only Protestant chaplain at a base for the Army, Navy and Air Force. He finds the work very interesting and an equally necessary part of the world struggle. His work consists of holding services in the barracks, on board ships or corvettes in port and at detention camps. And he found that personal visits to those sick in the hospital were of more benefit than a service in the hospital ward which was tried for a time. He stated that the main job was to keep morale high among the boys and that the padre finds himself a go-between from the boys to their officers and compassionate advisor in personal and family difficulties back home. Mr. Rowland said that ready canteen privileges create a major amount of difficulties which the padres are called to do something about after the boys get out of hand.

Capt. Rowland had the opportunity of going out of port aboard a corvette for target practice and he saw how the different depth charges were fired, even pulled a lever for a charge. Also he saw how a submarine detector works, a big factor in reducing the U-boat menace.

NUREMBERG RAID COSTLY TO ALLIES

Russians Advance 32 Miles Capture Ochakov 40 Miles From Odessa Port

Konev's Army Has Waited Five Days On Banks Of Prut River Where Reds Hold 80 Miles On Border

LONDON, March 31—(AP).—Red Army forces rolling westward along the shores of the Black Sea have captured Ochakov, 40 miles east of the former great Russian naval base of Odessa, Premier Stalin announced today in a special order of the day. Ochakov's capture represents a gain of 32 miles from fallen Nikolaev by G. Rodion Y Malinovsky's third Ukrainian Army which forced the Bug River estuary south of Nikolaev only yesterday.

Surging across the northern Prut river through captured Czernowitz, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st Ukrainian Army is moving up into the Carpathian mountains toward Hungary and Rumania, dispatches from the front declared today.

"Troops of the third Ukrainian front developing their offensive captured the fortress and town of Ochakov, an important strongpoint in the German defences covering the entrance to the Dnieper-Bug estuary," said Stalin's announcement broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet Monitor.

Khukov's vanguards rolled through Delatyn, 15 miles north of the Hungarian border where the pass of the Tartars leads through the Carpathians into former Czecho-Slovakian territory given to Hungary when Hitler dismembered the Czecho-Slovak state. After routing the German defenders of Czernowitz, Zhukov's troops pushed on south through Stororzhints, 15 miles north of the present Rumanian border, a Russian communique said.

Meanwhile, the 2nd Ukrainian army, commanded by Marshal Ivan S. Konev, remained poised on the east bank of the Prut where it forms the frontier of Rumania.

Waited Five Days

For five days Konev has held his forces on the Bessarabian side of the Prut, mopping up isolated groups of German and Rumanian troops and has extended the Russian domination of the east bank to a distance of 80 miles. The border town of Lipcani, 40 miles east of Czernowitz, was captured during the day, dispatches said.

Most sanguinary fighting of the day, as reported by the Russian war bulletin, was the annihilation of Axis troops trapped in the forests near Mynkovtsy, 28 miles northeast of Kanenets Podolsk. Here 2,000 enemies were killed and many prisoners taken, the communique said, while capture of Kitaigorod all but wiped out the Kamanets Podolsk pocket through which Germans retreating from the Proskurov sector have been trying to escape.

Farther east Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 3rd Ukrainian army intensified its pressure on Odessa, last German-held port on the Ukraine

Tiddim Captured By Japanese In Burma Hills

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, March 31—(AP)—British forces have surrendered Tiddim, their forward base in the Chin Hills of Burma, 100 miles south of Imphal, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, British commander in India, told the Indian legislature today.

The disclosure was made almost simultaneously with the announcement in a communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters that Japanese jungle parties spread over a front of nearly 200 miles were persistently probing deeper into eastern India's defences and had penetrated into the main communications of the vital Manipur Plain.

A communique from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters said one raiding party broke through to the main road running north from Imphal, capital of Manipur state, to Kohima, 60 miles to the north, and although this party was forced away after it had damaged a bridge and carried out some ambushes still other Japanese were able to lay down mortar fire on the highway.

Another Japanese infiltration party was reported to the north of Kohima, striking at the communications of that centre on the road to the Brahmaputra valley and the main Allied supply system.

Japanese pressure, meanwhile, remained heavy on the Riddim road, south of Imphal, near Palel,

Lonergan Trial May End Today

NEW YORK, March 31—(AP)—The first-degree murder case against Wayne Lonergan, charged with the bludgeon slaying of his heiress wife Patricia, was given to a General Sessions Court jury at 12:45 p.m. today.

Judge James Garrett Wallace told the 12 middle aged business men they could return any of five verdicts, including murder in the first degree as charged. He also told the jurors that the State had produced no evidence that "the defendant made up his mind to kill" his wife before going to her apartment on Oct. 24.

Other possible verdicts, he said, were murder in the second degree or acquittal.

On the question of Lonergan's confession, key to the State's case Judge Wallace informed the jurors they could accept it only if they were convinced beyond reasonable doubt that it was voluntary.

Kangaroo Bewildered, Gives Birth To Twins Pouch Holds Only One, Susie Disowns 2nd

PHILADELPHIA, March 31—(AP)—Michael O'Shea, keeper of the kangaroos, burst into Curator Roger Conant's office at the Philadelphia Zoo yesterday shouting "twins for Susie"—and thereby made a liar out of science. For Susie is a kangaroo, and Susie had had twins, and science, according to Conant, has always maintained that kangaroos don't do such things.

"A zoological impossibility," Conant said only two years ago, "because nature made room in a kangaroo's pouch for only one infant."

Susie herself found that out. The twins were discovered, Conant said, when the mother, apparently feeling cramped, kicked one of the youngsters out onto the floor.

While the other stayed snug in Susie's driver's seat, O'Shea homemade a pounch for the orphan, using an old silk stocking. Conant bedded the babe down near a radiator, gave him a shot of black leopard milk (because it was the only baby food handy) and hoped for the best.

The twins' pappy was the late "Pete" a well-known boxer, who often sparred with Tommy Loughran, the former light heavyweight champion.

Officer Fights Crocodile In Stagnant Jungle Pool

By STAFF-SERGEANT WARD WALKER
United States Marine Corps Combat Correspondent

CAPE GLOUCESTER, New Britain, March 31.—In the murky depths of a jungle pool, an army scientist waged a barehanded fight for his life against a vicious 10-foot crocodile—and won.

With both arms badly torn and suffering from the shock of the horrifying experience, the scientist, Captain Philip Darlington, 39, of Cambridge, Mass., managed to make his way through the jungle to a field hospital.

As entomologist of a United States Army research unit working with the Marines, Darlington was hunting for insect specimens when he came to a stagnant jungle pool. He cautiously worked his way out to the middle of a log submerged about two feet under the surface. As he reached for a test tube of the thick green water, he saw the giant crocodile rise from the depths.

Darlington started edging toward the jungle wall. He lost his footing on the slimy log just as the reptile rushed him.

As he rose to the top of the water, the crocodile was upon him, mouth gaping wide and huge fangs clearly visible.

He tried to grasp the beast's jaws, got one grip, lost it. The turgid water boiled as they wrestled.

The reptile's jaws closed on Darlington's arms. It spun over and over, tossing the six-foot-two-inch, 190-pound captain as though he were a child. Then it carried him to the bottom.

Those few seconds seemed hours, Darlington said.

"I kicked," he said, "and it was like trying to kick in a sea of molasses. My legs seemed heavy as lead and it was hard to force my muscles to respond."

He must have landed on the reptile's soft belly, for it opened its jaws. Gasping, the captain fought his way to the surface, and despite his torn arms, swam to the jungle edge.

Tokyo Gives Up Oil, Coal Leases

BY EDDIE GILMORE

MOSCOW, March 31—(AP)—The Japanese government received today a staggering blow from the west and when the Soviet government announced it had signed a protocol under which Tokyo agreed to surrender her oil and coal leases on northern Sakhalin Island in the Pacific.

The Russians contracted to furnish Japan with 50,000 tons of oil a year for five years beginning after the war.

The Soviet union also will pay Japan 5,000,000 rubles (about $950,000) under the terms of the protocol signed yesterday. Japan promised to hand over to Russia all property, including equipment material and food, which belongs to Japanese concessionaires in northern Sakhalin.

They obtained the pills shortly before noon, and one died during the afternoon and the other at midnight.

96 Bombers Missing On Long Hop

Nazis Say Fighters Responsible For Heavy Losses

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 31—(AP)—A great armada of R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers numbering probably more than 1,000 smashed at the southern German transport centre and Nazi Congress city of Nuremberg and other points in the Reich last night at a cost of 96 planes—the heaviest toll ever taken of an Allied air fleet in a single operation.

The R.C.A.F.—which made a big contribution to the blistering attack—lost 13 bombers.

The record loss was announced just as the entire German network with the exception of Vienna in Austria shut down this morning shortly after the warning that "enemy planes are approaching."

The first German warnings said the daylight raiders were over Hessen-Nassau province in Prussia in which Frankfurt is situated.

The announced loss last night, which contrasted to German claims of having inflicted the greatest defeat of the war on the R.A.F. with the shooting down of 132 four-engined bombers, was incurred in the 17th heavy bomber operation in March by the R.A.F.'s sky fleets.

The brief Air Ministry communique made no reference to the bomb load but it used the term "in very great strength," suggesting that probably 2,000 long tons of bombs were dropped, despite the distance involved.

The big attack force, probably one of the largest ever sent out; the daylight raiders streaking over the Reich, and a huge fleet—largest group of heavy bombers ever to strike a target from the Mediterranean—which raided Sofia in Bulgaria yesterday wound up the biggest month yet in the European air war.

The Air Ministry also announced

Allies Abandon Positions Nazis Take Over

By LYNN HEINZERLING
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, March 31.—(AP).—German troops have moved into two positions on Monastery Hill evacuated several days ago by Indian and New Zealand troops and small enemy groups have attacked inside Cassino, it was announced to-day, but air operations again overshadowed ground activities.

On the Anzio beachhead, 85 casualties resulted when German planes bombed an Allied hospital area, Headquarters said.

Fifth Army forces clinging to positions inside battered Cassino repulsed the new German thrusts and inflicted severe losses on the attackers, it was announced. Nazi tanks again appeared near the fortified Continental Hotel but Allied artillery immediately brought them under heavy fire.

Artillery alone was active in the snow-bound mountains north of Cassino.

Ground activity elsewhere along the Italian battle lines simmered down to patrol skirmishes, a communique said, but in the air Allied planes attacked targets at widely-scattered points.

In addition to the assaults on rail communication targets in Sofia by R.A.F. and American bombers, other heavy bombers hit the German airdrome at Imotski in Yugoslavia.

Fifteen enemy aircraft were shot from the air and two destroyed on the ground in all operations yesterday. Twelve Allied planes were lost from approximately 1,500 sorties. The Germans sent about 36 planes over the battle areas.

Simultaneously with the heavy bomber operations, mediums swept up the west coast of Italy and attacked shipping and dock installations at Leghorn. Fighter-bombers hit German supply bases, motor transport and rail targets near the Anzio beachhead and other attacked shipping in the Adriatic.

Above Cassino the two positions reoccupied by the Germans were

Eden May Resign Cabinet Post

LONDON, March 31.—(CP).—Anthony Eden was reported on the verge to-day of stepping down as Foreign Secretary and the London News-Chroncile commented that "as things now stand he is almost certain to be the next Conservative Prime Minister."

There has been talk for a week or more that Eden might resign his present office with such a higher post in view as the ultimate objective. It was said he may give his full time to the role of government leader of the House of Commons, a position which he now fills in addition to being foreign secretary.

("It is felt that by devoting himself exclusively to House affaiars," said John McVane, NBC reporter in a broadcast from London last night, "Mr. Eden will receive that training in domestic affairs which a future Prime Minister should have." McVane said he had learned definitely from "trustworthy information" that Eden would resign his portfolio.)

Lord Cranborne, Dominion secretary and long-time advocate of Eden's foreign policy, was mentioned as the most likely among possible successors as foreign secretary.

"To be foreign secretary at this moment in the world's history and in the existing political circumstances is not the surest road to success," the News-Chronicle said in commenting on the Eden report.

"In such a role at such a time the strongest minister would find his capacities and courage taxed to the uttermost. If, in addiion, he had to accept the responsibility for defending and implementing policies that were not his own, but were taken—so to speak—over his head, he might well judge his prospectus to be unrosy."

Eden, now only 46, long has been more or less of a protege of Prime Minister Churchill. Ten years or more ago Mr. Churchill described Eden as "the only fresh figure of first magnitude arising out of the generation which was ravaged by the First Great War."

U.S. Navy Attacks Palau Isle Near The Philippines Jap Ships Escape To Sea

Nipponese Sailors Show No Fight As Armada Approaches Huge Fleet Bypassed Truk Island

By LEIF ERICKSON—Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, T.H., March 31—(AP).—Operating within 600 statute miles of the Philippines, American warships opened the war's first attack Wednesday on the powerful Japanese central Pacific naval base of Palau, and Nipponese naval units there, forewarned by planes of the armada's approach, deserted the area in flight.

"Our attacks continue," announced Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the United States Pacific fleet.

It seemed likely that this deepest penetration on the road back to the Philippines was made by aircraft carrier task forces at least equal in size to those which dealt such heavy plane and naval losses to Japan at Truk Feb. 16-17. Palau is 1,175 miles west of Truk.

A Navy communique yesterday said: "Strong Pacific fleet forces," at dawn Wednesday, March 29, "initiated attacks on Japanese-held Palau Island."

Japanese warships at Palau, at the west end of the Carolines, were observed fleeing the area, indicating the attacking armada was of impressive size.

Admiral Nimitz said Japanese search planes from New Guinea helped spot the task force's approach, which may be taken to mean the Navy swung south of the Carolines to get at Palau. That would put the task forces in waters adjacent to the southwest Pacific command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The scores of small islands making up Palau have been transformed into "Japan's Singapore" since they, the rest of the Carolines and all of the Marshalls were taken over by Japan from her present Axis partner, Germany, in 1914.

There was strong suggestion that the air arms of MacArthur and Nimitz acted in co-ordination to shatter possible enemy plane interference along the route to Palau.

Japanese strongholds in the Carolines were hit for the first time Tuesday and Wednesday by Allied bombers operating from bases recently won from the enemy in the Bismarck Sea.

A special communique from Southwest Pacific hadquarters said heavy bombers blasted Truk Wednesday leaving 49 Japanese planes wrecked on the ground and smoke rising from shop and hangar areas on Eten island in the Atoll. Several intercepting planes were shot down.

United States Navy planes the same day hit the Japanese seaplane base and airdrome at Woleai Iisand, 460 nautical miles west of Truk.

Both these strikes, along with a mighty air smash at the Japanese

Germany Obtains Her Strength Through Fear

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 31.—(CP Cable).—There has been considerable speculation in the British press about what is going on inside Germany and why military reverses in the east, bombing and home front difficulties do not produce a crack-up.

It is thought possible the German population hopes its leadership may be able to bring about a peace-offering better prospects than unconditional surrender which at present is the only way out.

Paul Holt, writing in Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, said that now Germany is getting her strength through fear. Allied leaders know the Germans realize their final retreat has started but that the process must be left to itself until the German realize too, that there is no alibi for defeat this time, Holt added.

Enough To Eat.

Meanwhile, David Walker, Lisbon correspondent for the Daily Mirror, said that despite the loss of food sources and although their diet is meagre, the Germans will have just enough to eat to keep them going for some time, particularly now that the winter is over.

Torpedoes Sink Nazi Troopship

LONDON, March 31.—(CP).—A 14,000-ton German troopship was torpedoed in R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. attacks on a convoy off Norway, it was announced to-day.

The announcement said the troopship, the former liner Monte Rosa of the Hamburg-South American Line, was hit twice by torpedoes from R.A.F. Beaufighters, who were unable to observe the results because of the intense flak. Canadian Beaufighters were among the force making the first attack.

Two of the escorting ships were also believed damaged and an Me-110 was shot down to the loss of two British planes, the announcement said.

Berlin claimed seven out of 16 attacking British planes were shot down by the convoy's guns and escorting planes. It termed the attack unsuccessful.

"It was the strongest escort we have met on that part of the coast," said FO. Arthur Richard Fair, Montreal. "I took on one Messerschmitt and saw him go down in flames."

Ask Union Reporters Cover CCF Meetings

VANCOUVER, March 31.—(CP).—The Vancouver Sun in a newspage story said Vancouver Labor Council (C.C.L.) has adopted a resolution that "a rule releasing news to union reporters only" be observed by the council, and added that the Provincial C.C.F. executive has requested Vancouver's daily newspapers that only union reporters cover C.C.F. matters.

The Council resolution, says the Sun, read: "Whereas there exists a unit of the Vancouver Guild in each of the three Vancouver daily papers, be it resolved that this council observe a rule releasing news to union reporters only and, further, that the delegates to this Council urge their locals to abide by this decision."

Burma Battle Assumes Definite Pattern

Northern Drive By Allies Paving Way For Water-Borne Attack From Sea

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The strange medley of fighting in the jungles of Burma is taking on a very definite pattern in which we can recognize planned and co-ordinated spade-work for the ultimate amphibious invasion of that country when we hit the final stretch of trail for Tokyo.

It is Southeastern Asia's counterpart of the Allied preparatory work in the Pacific. We have a fine example of the latter in today's news of the trio of attacks on important Japanese bases—the bombardment of the Island of Palau, only 550 miles from the Philippines, by an American fleet; the first aerial attack on the great enemy base of Truk from southeast Pacific bases, and the bombing of Hollandia, an enemy stronghold on New Guinea.

What is the lure which draws Lt.-Gen. Joseph Stilwell personally into the steaming Burmese hell? or Britain's mystery soldier, Maj.-Gen. Orde Wingate—jungle specialist extraordinary who led his famous wingate raiders in their sensational invasion of Burma a year ago?

Well, these key men aren't in Burma because of any special new threat from the enemy. This assemblage of the chiefs of the jungle fighting clan means Burma is being prepared or the day when a water-borne invasion will sweep into it from the Bay of Bengal.

Planned In Quebec

These new Allied operations (or at least part of them) had their birth as I understand it, at the Allied conference in Quebec last August. Wingate's amazing and useful adventure with his column of raiders among the Japanese of Burma had attracted Prime Minister Churchill's attention and the jungle-fighter was invited to Quebec.

There it was decide Wingate should head another expedition—the one now in operation behind the Japanese lines. Gen. George Marshall, U. S. Chief of Staff, is said to have promised Wingate American air suport (which he is getting) and also sent to India the men now serving as marauders under Brig.-Gen. Frank Merrill.

Incidentally, Charles J. Rolo, British author of "Wingate's Raiders", tells me that both Wingate's present expedition and Merrill's men were given a post-graduate course in central India's fiercest jungle for months in preparation for the present job.

Fierce and bloody fighting is in progress in Northern Burma.

The Allied offensive is aimed at driving the enemy out of the Northern tip of Burma so that land communications with China can be re-established.

Vichy Starts Big Roundup

Patriots In Mountains Continue Fight

MADRID, March 31 (AP)—Allied sympathizers are being arrested in France today to die in reprisal for every Vichy collaborationist executed by the De Gaullist government at Algiers, reports direct from Paris said.

These reports said the roundup was approved yesterday at a Paris cabinet meeting called by Pierre Laval but believed to have been largely fostered by the pro-German, Marcel Deat, the Minister of State who represents radical Paris elements.

Even the friends and relatives of "the men of Algiers' will be arrested during the roundup, it was reported.

Dispatches from Paris said, meanwhile, that Vichy's extermination war against French patriots continued with the announced arrest of "several hundred terrorists" in the Alps of Southeastern France, but Spanish correspondents at Paris said that Vichy's efforts had come too late.

One Paris correspondent estimated patriot forces actively resisting the Germans in France at 100,000 "invisible men" actively aided by the greater part of the population. He said that 20,000 attacks were made on the personal property of German collaborationists during 1943 and that more than 2,000 engagements had been recorded thus far in 1944.

Roosevelt's Stock Goes Up

Disunity In Republican Ranks Helps

WASHINGTON, March 31—(CP).—Democratic hopes for a fourth-term victory when next November's votes in the United States presidential election are counted surged skyward today on the wings of a number of apparently favorable developments.

These included—

1. Return of the Democratic candidate in a by-election to fill a House of Representatives vacancy in Oklahoma's second district.

2. Disunity of Republican ranks.

3. Reassuring reports on the health of President Roosevelt whose candidacy for a fourth term in the White House is viewed by observers a foregone conclusion.

But the split between the Right and Left wing leaders of New York's American Labor Party, organized in 1936 to support Mr. Roosevelt in his home state, was a development of another kind and one that may operate against the fourth termers.

Tuesday's by-election in the second Congressional district of Oklahoma returned a Democratic candidate and Democrats declare this to be a clear indication they will win in November, despite the fact a Republican has won only once in that district.

Film Board Cooperating With Russia

Member Charges Propaganda Not Called For

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 31 (CP)—Movies, beef cattle, European refugees and an ice-bound car ferry provided members of the Commons with talking points yesterday during a sitting devoted to cleaning up financial tag-ends of the fiscal year which ends today.

Today the members meet for a short sitting before dispersing for a two-weeks' Easter adjournment and will spend the time on civil aviation estimates.

Yesterday's sitting resulted in passage of further supplementary estimates totalling $2,764,162 to take care of unexpected non-war expenditures in the year 1943-44.

The items, before the House all day, affected nearly every department and gave members a chance to air a variety of subjects. In the end the special supply bill passed through all three readings and comes before the Senate today.

The subject of motion pictures came up when Rodney Adamson (PC-York West) complained the National Film Board was acting as an agency for Russian propaganda for Canada and not for any other country, particularly when a philosophy of Socialism contrary to the Canadian way of life was presented.

War Services Minister LaFleche, promised to see the two films of which Mr. Adamson complained and have others see them in order to form an opinion. He agreed the Film Board should stress a Canadian philosophy in its propaganda, but thought if Canadians were strong in their views they need not be afraid of learning something of other countries.

A congestion in the market for beef cattle was drawn to the attention of the government by several members. Resources Minister Crerar explained the operation of floor under cattle prices.

Mark Senn (PC-Haldimand) said floor prices were not of much value when farmers could not sell their animals. Their stables were full of cattle, but the freezers were also full of beef and the cattle could not be sold. The farmers stood to take a loss.

W. R. Aylesworth (PC-Frontenac-Addington) said beef troubles dated back to the action of the government in shutting off cattle exports to the United States. Unless something could be done to ship beef overseas the United States market should be opened again.

On an item of $5,789 for Canadian contribution to expenses of the inter-governmental committee on refugees, Mr. Crerar said 256 refugees were on their way to Canada from Spain and Portugal. They would be given temporary asylum in Canada.

"I think personally we have done very badly by refugees," said M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader.

Mr. Hansell said the persons in greatest need were those without money. He said he wanted to know what was being done to assist destitute refugees to come to Canada.

Shipping Limited

Mr. King said in time of war there were distinct limitations on what could be done. The first limitation was shipping. Many people could be moved if shipping was not all required for war transport.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) asked if any representations had been made to the British government about the shutting off of Jewish immigration to Palestine.

Mr. King said the question would probably be discussed at the conference of Prime Ministers. It was of more direct concern to the British government than to any other. Pending discussion at the conference he said he preferred to make no statement. He had given the same answer to Jewish delegations which had waited upon him.

Answering a question from Hon. R. B. Hanson (PC — York-Sunbury), Mr. King said reports that a Chinese woman who was an American citizen had been asked to leave a train by an immigration officer were not correct. If there was any fault in the incident it did not rest with any official of the government.

Mr. King said that any action by a government official delaying an American citizen passing through Canada on an American train would not be countenanced by the government.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House leader criticized the work of the war expenditures committee on a $1,600 item for the committee's expenses.

"This is a good example of a waste of money," he said.

When T. L. Church (PC — Toronto Broadview) moved that the item be reduced to $1, his motion was defeated on a standing vote, 73 to 12.

Answering a question from Geoge White (PC — Hastings — Peterborough), Mr. King said he knew of no arrangement whereby Italian prisoners could remain in Canada after the war. He said he would be much surprised if there was any such arrangement.

Mr. Coldwell said inter-governmental relations had deteriorated in the last few months. Smaller nations should give more attention to international affairs and not leave all the large questions to the great powers.

ia's oil would not be immediately fatal to Germany.

The News Chronicle writer said that while Germany probably obtained some 3,000,000 tons from the Rumania fields annually she still will be able to get nearly 10,000,000 ttons from natural and synthetic sources at home and elsewhere in Europe.

German war production is believed to be definitely on the decline because of the army's needs for manpower, bombing of raw material, shortage, sabotage and exhaustion of workers.

On the home front, where 6,000,000 people have been deprived of homes by air raids, Germany is said to have exhausted reserves of clothing. Clothing cards have been suspended even for bombed-out people who one got preferential treatment.

"For the present," said David Scott, Daily Telegraph Diplomatic Correspondent, "indications seem to be that Germany, though conscious of her doom, will hold together but already the snowman has begun to melt and will if the Allies can apply the heat correctly.

"If you believe he made that statement because of duress it will be your duty to disregard it and give no weight to it whatever," the Judge said in his hour and 10 minute charge.

The defence contended that the confession was wrong from the 26-year-old defendant after he was plied with liquor for hours and questioned without sleep or food.

Judge Wallace said there was no evidence that Lonergan was drunk at the time he made the statement. As a matter of fact, he said, all the evidence was to the contrary.

The jurist also declared there was no evidence to substantiate a defence contention that Mrs. Lonergan might have been killed by a burglar.

There was a strong possibility Lonergan would learn his fate before nightfall.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Sometimes it is a problem to know what to serve for supper, and more especially these days, when the ladies have so much to do outside their own homes. Red Cross work, war group meetings, church meetings, and many other calls are made on them, so we are going to try and help in a small way by giving some recipes that are tasty, yet quickly and easily made. Try these pinwheel biscuits and be the talk of the neighborhood.

Pinwheels

2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 to 5 tablespoons lard, 2/3 cup milk.

Measure flour and sift with baking powder and salt. Cut in lard finely. Gradually add enough milk to make a dough which though soft is not sticky. Turn out on slightly floured board and knead with fingertips for 10 seconds. Roll to rectangle ¼ inch thick. Spread with desired filling roll up like jelly roll, dampening edges to seal well, and cut in slices one inch thick. Bake with cut slices down. Bake in muffin tins to retain shape.

Filling: Spread dough with 3 tbsps. butter, blended with ½ cup brown sugar and nutmeats. Roll and slice and bake at 425 dergrees.

Small Cakes (Coconaut Puffs)

To the whites of 3 eggs beaten stiffly, add slowly 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch. Place in double boiler and boil for 10 minutes stirring constantly. Add ½ cup finely grated cocoanut. Drop on buttered tins and bake until brown.

Charlotte Russe

Make a nice boiled custard by stirring one teaspoonful of cornstarch (that has been wet with cold milk) into 1½ cups of boiling milk. Allow this to cook a few minutes, then stir in the yolks of 2 eggs, that have been well beaten with 2 tablespoons of sugar. Remove from the fire and flavour with vanilla. Cut any stale cake in pieces put in bottom of pudding dish and dot with Jelly. Pour custard over top and put the stiffly beaten whites of eggs over top of all. Brown in oven.

Quick Coffee Cake

1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 whole eggs, ½ cup milk, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream butter and sugar. Add one egg at a time and beat after adding each egg for about one minute. Add dry ingredients. Sprinkle over top with sugar cinnamon, chopped nut meats. Preheat oven and bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes.

Special Water Cake

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, creaming all the while until fluffy. Beat in eggs one at a time, add flavouring. Sift flour and baking powder several times and add to the above mixture. Bake in two pans, round or square. Preheat oven and bake at 375 degrees for 20 or 25 minutes. Use any kind of icing you desire.

Just a word, cakes made with water are finer texture than those made with milk.

The fighting near Papel apparently represented an advance of several miles, for the Japanese last were reported halfway between Papel and Tamu on the Burma border, 48 miles from the Manipur capital.

The communique said, however, that Japanese had been forced to scatter into the hills northeast of Imphal following a heavy Allied bombing and strafing.

While air-borne Commandos again carried out a daring strike, raiding the airfield of Aniskan and destroying an aircraft, R.A.F. American aviators carried out a record series of operations for this theatre, making 850 sorties and losing but one plane.

In Northern Burma the campaign of American and Chinese forces under Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell in the Fort Hertz Valley on the Sumprabum-Myitkyina route progressed to the south bank of the Daru River, approximatly 50 miles north of Myitkyina, a main Japanese base.

Americans and Chinese under Brig.-Gen. Frank Merrill holding a roadblock at Laban in the Mogaung Valley, 41 air line miles from the Myitkyina railway, killed more than 300 Japanese attacking both to the north and south from their pocket south of Shaduzup.

On the Arakan front where the British forces are fighting to clear the way for an advance on Akyab the Japanese were reported putting up strong resistance on the high ground overlooking the eastern tunnel where they are dug in on the Buthedaung-Maungdaw road. Capture of the western tunnel was announced yesterday.

Finance Committee Supports Allowance For Chief S. Newhall

The Police Commission's recommendation of a retiring allowance of $1,300 a year for six years to Chief Constable Newhall was approved by the finance committee of the Council Thursday night with the support of seven of its members.

Alderman Bradburn objected to the amount, saying that it was the maximum grant the Council could make, and Alderman Swanston and Curtis contended that the Commission should have been unanimously in favour of its approval, for which its chairman, Judge Smoke declined to vote.

When the Commission's resolution was read last night, Mayor Hamilton moved, seconded by Alderman Glover, that a bylaw be prepared for the meeting of the council next Monday night authorizing payment of the retiring allowance to Chief Newhall.

This motion was followed by an amendment by Alderman Sands, seconded by Alderman Curtis, to return the recommendation to the Commission for its unanimous support.

Eventually, Alderman Sands withdrew the amendment, with the consent of Alderman Curtis.

Appreciate Service

The committee generally expressed appreciation of the service of Chief Newhall and agreed on the principle of a retiring allowance, but a factor in the decision of approval of the gratuity was an aldermanic rally behind Mayor Hamilton on the strength of tentative warrant given to His Worship some weeks ago when the Commission's action was anticipated.

Mayor Hamilton recalled that comparatively recently he had consulted the finance committee about the possibility of Chief Newhall resigning and about their attitude toward providing an allowance for him in that event. Alderman Bradburn was not present at that meeting, and his attitude last night was based on the fact that he had not given assent, and was therefore not bound by any undertaking. He also explained that he was in sympathy with the proposal to recognize the long service of Chief Constable Newhall as an official of the city.

Does Good Job

"We all feel that the Chief has done a good job, and I am in favor of him getting an allowance as a reward for his thirty-eight years as a police constable and Chief Officer." Alderman Sullivan stated.

"The members of the Council promised their support if anything developed, or I wouldn't have done it," Mayor Hamilton said.

"I am sorry that I was not here when this matter came up," Alderman Bradburn remarked. "I feel that it is setting a precedent. We have a number of civic servants who are as much entitled to a retiring grant as is the Chief. I am agreeable to some remuneration, but not to the full extent as provided by the Municipal Act."

The Act provides for three years at full salary, with the option of spreading it over six years at half the amount.

Unknown Work

Alderman Glover recalled from his former experience as head of the Examiner that Chief Newhall had helped many persons, especially young people, with good advice and consideration of their future, and in most instances the result was a retracing of wrong steps and a new beginning without any publicity that would have a harmful effect. Alderman Glover said that in this respect Chief Newhall had done a great deal of good beyond the knowledge of the public. He said that Peterborough had an efficient police force for many years that the Chief was recognized as a most competent officer, and that his salary had not been large.

Mayor Hamilton said he hoped the members of the council would not "go back on" the consent which they had given to him on the occasion when he consulted them about the prospect of the Chief's resignation and the associated question of a retiring allowance.

"It certainly has not been a pleasant position for me," His Worship said, "when you have to think of the good of the city and of the service that has been given by Chief Newhall."

Alderman Swanston, Sands, Curtis and Ovens were virtually of one mind in commenting that the published statement by Judge Smoke, that he had not voted for the allowance to Chief Newhall, seemed to leave something unexplained.

Want An Answer

"I think the Council is entitled to know why Judge Smoke was opposed to any retiring grant to the Chief," Alderman Dutton said.

Mayor Hamilton said he wished to be as fair as possible to Judge Smoke.

"The Judge said distinctly that he would not oppose an allowance," His Worship added.

"He agreed to the Mayor consulting the Council," Alderman Ovens said.

Alderman Dutton asked whether it would be advisable to enquire of Judge Smoke why he did not vote with Mayor Hamilton and police Magistrate Gee in favour of the grant.

"I think you are taking it out on the Mayor because of the Judge's stand," Alderman Sullivan commented.

Mayor Hamilton said he would not advise questioning Judge Smoke who, he said, had followed his own course, was appointed to the Commission by the Government, and would probably be glad to be rid of a duty that was sometimes unpleasant. "In fact he told me he would."

Arouses Questions

"But," said Alderman Sands, "the Judge's action has aroused a question in the mind of the people, and we are here as representatives of the people."

"People are certainly wondering what is is about," Alderman Swanston affirmed.

Alderman Dutton: "We made a definite promise to the Mayor, and I don't intend to let him down. I feel that Mayor Hamilton would not have done it (as a member of the Police Commission) if we had not promised to support him. I don't think there is anything back of the Judge's attitude except a man's personal feelings."

Alderman Swanston: — What about the eight or ten others who may have to retire in the next few years, all the way down to the men on the board of works?"

Alderman Bradburn: 'We will be setting an example the Council will pretty nearly have to follow."

Alderman Sands: "I don't think the Judge has done the right thing and I feel like being as stubborn as he is."

Alderman Mark: "I'm not keen about knowing his opinion anyway."

Gives Opening

Alderman Sullivan suggested that the council should not overlook the fact that the retirement of Chief Newhall "is a chance to start on a new basis. It is an opportunity to make a new set up. People generally feel that when a man has spent thirty-eight years in a position he has about served his usefulness."

Alderman Curtis told Mayor Hamilton that "I certainly agree with the Commission's appointment with their new man for Chief, Sergeant John Thompson."

Some one raised the question of the amount of the allowance which had been originally considered by the finance committee. Alderman Cotton said: "The suggestion was for $1,200 a year."

Sentiment of several of the members who were inclined to hold out and turn back the recommendation back into "Judge Smoke's lap" gradually moderated especially with the emphasis upon the approval which the members had given to Mayor Hamilton in the first place. Finally, Alderman Sand withdrew his amendment, and Alderman Cotton called for the vote.

Japan owns the southern half of Sakhalin Island and Russia owns the north half. The oil and coal leases originally ran until 1970.

Only last night, the Russians announced renewal of an agreement granting Japan fishing privileges in far eastern waters for five more years. The fisheries pact renewal is based in the 1941 neutrality treaty under which Russia and Japan have remained at peace.

The Russians will supply Japan with oil from the Ohinsky fields after the war. The Soviets promised the Japanese free export of oil and coal from storerooms in the concessioned territory in northern Sakhalin. The actual transfer of the stored oil and coal is to start within five days.

The agreement was signed by Solomon Lozovsky, Russian Vice Commissar for foreign affairs, and by Nautake Sato, Japanese Ambassador. It became effective immediately. Pravda said the agreement was reached after "last month's discussions."

(The view in London was that Japan's surrender of the Sakhalin concessions so far desire to remain at peace with Russia. The Island's coal and oil presumably have contributed heavily to Japanese war economy and London interpreted the premature surrender as a sacrifice to avert any dispute with Russia.)

Russian newspapers interpreted the deal as a Soviet diplomatic victory.

Moore had driven south on Reid street and was attempting to make a left turn to go east on McDonnel street when the steering-gear failed to work and the car did not complete the turn. After striking a tree on the south side of McDonnel street some distance east of the corner it plowed into the rear end of a parked car owned by Arthur O'Halloran, 391 McDonnel street.

The raditor grill and right front fender on Moore's car were damaged while the rear of the parked automobile was considerably damaged.

Cpl. Halstead Phones From New Orleans

GORE'S LANDING, March 31—(ENS)—A long distance telephone call from New Orleans on Sunday morning was received by Mrs. William Blakely of this village from her daughter, Cpl. J. Helen Halstead.

Mrs. Blakely said her daughter's voice came through as clearly as a call from Toronto. Cpl. Helen Halstead has been in the Signal Corps of the U.S. Army for the past year. She likes the work very much but finds the hot, humid climate of New Orleans quite trying at this time of the year.

Super-Fighter Almost Ready

LONDON, March 31 (Friday) (CP)—The R.A.F. soon will have a new "super-fighter" with "more sensational performance than any now in use," it was stated today in a cryptic announcement circulated in the London press.

The quasi-official announcement, not credited to any specific Government agency, said the plane had been designed by a leading British fighter aircraft constructor and "will be ready to join in the great sky battle over Northwestern Europe this spring."

It said an enormously powerful, highly supercharged engine in this "bomber-killer" fitted it for fine performance at great heights.

Asked for details, the Press Officer of the Ministry of Aircraft Production said that neither his office nor the Air Ministry was yet ready to release an official announcement, but admitted the story as appearing in London morning newspaper had been sanctioned.

Enlisting in June, 1942, he did not go overseas until July, 1943. Before joining the Air Force, he had worked at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, and at the time of his enlistment was in the wire department of the C.G.E.

2 Marmora Men Back In Canada

MARMORA, March 31—(ENS)—Two Marmora soldiers returned to their homes here from England over the week-end, to later go on home duties in Canada.

Pte. Ross McColl, an original member of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, which left for England on December 17, 1939, is back to Canada through bronchial trouble and with the vision of his left eye impaired. He was in France before the evacuation took place, and since then has been in Sicily as well as in England.

He speaks favorably of the country and the people whom he met over these large areas, and would have been content to have remained until the cessation of hostilities. Waiting at the Depot until his embarkation date, he met with Pte. Howard Neal of the Canadian Provost Corps, who had been in England since last November, and whose return to Canada was ordered on similar grounds, that of bronchial trouble.

Both men are on a furlough and will later report for duty again. They renewed many acquaintances on Sunday.

BRIGHTON, March 31.—(ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carroll of Brighton township were placed on suspended sentence for one year by Magistrate W. Gee when found guilty of neglecting their 4½-year-old child. Evidence was given to show that on March 11, the parents went out on a visit and left the child alone. In their absence fire broke out around midnight and a neighbour, Kenneth Tett, entered the house and rescued the child, who was on the upper floor. The house burned down.

German Attack Fails On Allied Convoy

ALGIERS, March 31 — (AP) — Beaufighter pilots beat off a strong German attempt to attack an Allied convoy off the North African coast, destroying two Dornier-217's and damaging a Junkers-88, it was announced today.

The raiders were repelled before they reached the vicinity of the convoy. No coastal air force planes were lost or damaged. The attack was smashed by the same Beaufighter squadron that took a heavy toll of Nazis in two previous convoy raids in recent weeks.

Senate Favors More Spending For Education

OTTAWA, March 31 (CP).—Dominion Government assistance to the provinces to enable increased expenditures on education was urged yesterday from both sides of the Senate Chamber.

Senator John Haig (PC—Manitoba), who introduced the subject, suggested that the Upper House investigate the whole subject of education and provide a national program. In his plea for Federal assistance to the provinces he won support from Senator P. R. DuTremblay (L—Quebec) and Senator J. A. Calder (PC—Saskatchewan).

Education became a topic of Senate discussion when second reading was given a bill to amend the technical education act to enable Manitoba to take advantage of its provisions.

Senator Haig said teachers were one of the most underpaid groups in Canada. The Dominion gave financial aid to the provinces to improve the quality of livestock and to provide adequate transportation. It was even more important that proper education be provided.

Any fear on the part of the provinces of Dominion interference with provincial autonomy in education could be overcome and the introduction of higher standards of education would do much to strengthen national unity.

Senator Calder, speaking from experience as a school inspector in Western Canada and as a former Saskatchewan Minister of Education, said he considered one of the fundamental weaknesses of the Canadian educational system was that teachers of small rural schools were not adequately equipped for their work and were underpaid.

Would Boost Subsidies.

Senator DuTremblay spoke in support of a motion of Senator Eli Beauregard (L—Quebec) calling for study by the Senate of legislation to safeguard the economic life of the provinces in the post-war period.

Senator DuTremblay said education should be one of the subjects of discussion at the forthcoming Dominion-Provincial conference. By increasing subsidies to the provinces the Dominion could give assistance for education without any interference in provincial jurisdiction.

Attention should be given to avoiding duplication in the levy of income tax and succession duties by the Dominion and provinces.

Removal of wartime restrictions as soon as possible was urged by the Senator.

"Our social system is based on free enterprise," he said. "Our future prosperity and happiness depend largely, if not entirely, on private enterprise. We must not fool ourselves—artificial methods will not endure."

Senator Arthur Marcotte (PC — Saskatchewan) said full recognition should be given to the part of private enterprise in Canada's war effort. As examples he cited the Canadian Pacific Railway and the automobile industry. Even greater than the contribution of such large firms, however, was the work of small privately-owned plants scattered across Canada.

Lands Small Firms

The government would have followed a wiser course, he suggested if more contracts had been let to private companies and fewer Crown companies organized.

Senator A. D. McRae (PC—British Columbia) supported Senator Beauregard's motion, but said before it was passed some assurance should be given by the government that money would be provided to conduct an investigation.

Reconstruction committees in both the Senate and Commons were doing valuable work, but Senator McRae said he saw no indication in their reports of "any great effort to provide jobs for the unemployed after the war."

At today's session the Senate passed interim supply bills providing $850,000,000 or war appropriations and $46,331,233 for civilian purposes. The grants are one-sixth of the total estimates for the fiscal year. A bill providing authority for the borrowing of $1,000,000,000 to meet maturing obligations also was passed.

Girls' Class Has April Joke Party

HAVELOCK, March 31 (ENS)—An unusual April party was sponsored by the Girls' Class of Knox Presbyterian Church in the basement of the church, when the girls were asked to come "dressed up" as children. They appeared carrying their dolls and toys, and dressed in short print dresses, complete with hair bows and pigtails. The story of the origin of All Fool's Day was read, children's games were played and a treasure hunt resulted with each member finding a small favor for herself. A photograph gallery, displaying the earliest picture of each member present required with the contestants to identify the pictures. Mrs. Fred Bennett won the prize. A game "olde curiosity shoppe" proved amusing.

Jokes were enjoyed throughout the lunch period, with serviettes fastened to the table covering, which was made of funny papers, and chairs tied to table-legs. Lunch was served in reverse, with nuts and cake served first and sandwich and tea last, with the milk poured from catsup bottles and the sugar in milk pitchers and salt shakers. The event was convened by Misses Violet Scott and Ethel Chase, and the room bore mixed decorations of Hallowe'en, Patriotic, Christmas and Valentine assortment.

The business part of the meeting was presided over by the President Miss Essie McQuigge. An Easter offering will be donated towards the church funds and 25 new Hymn Books purchased. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Dora Ketchen, and an Easter message will be given.

Canning Pea and Corn Growers Organize

Meetings are being held in all pea and corn growing areas in the Province to explain the advantages of organizing a Pea, Corn, and String Bean Growers' Association.

Growers of other commodities, such as tomatoes, have been organized for the past few years to the distinct advantage of every grower.

At a meeting held in Bowmanville on Saturday, Charles Quinn, Colborne, a practical grower, was in attendance to explain the proposed organization. A committee consisting of James T. Brown, Newcastle; Mac Irwin, Port Hope; and Charles Osborne, Bowmanville, was appointed to take charge of future promotion work towards organizing.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture is keenly interested in the project and to this end has made available the services of G. F. Perkin for the organization period. Mr. Perkin will forward an explanatory letter and other information to all growers in Ontario. All growers should support this their organization which will no doubt be of much more important service following the war. Don't fail to respond to the letter you receive.

Girls Encouraged To Take Up Gardening

COBOURG, March 31 (ENS) — Three competitions for girls in connection with growing gardens are planned by R. C. Banbury, Northumberland County agricultural representative. The clubs at Wicklow Vernonville and other communities surrounding Grafton have had a successful contest in the past two years and supplemented by some new members are expected to carry on in 1944. The Wooler community is being assisted by a store in Trenton which is offering to pay the $1 cost of seeds and some generous prizes for a club of 15 girls, recommended by Mrs. Elgin McMaster Mrs. S. VanHorne and Wesley Down.

The third club is being offered to those who are able to attend the Warkworth Fair and it is expected that the agricultural society will assist with prize money Mr. Banbury stated. To date little has been suggested from the community and it is hoped that interested girls will write the Dept. of Agriculture at Brighton that this club may be encouraged. The seeds for each garden cost $1 and instruction is given on the planning and productive practices and the prizes awarded on the garden score, exhibit of vegetables, canning etc.

Poultry Prices Show Strength

TORONTO, March 31. — The fresh dressed poultry market is quiet, with receipts of chicken practically nil, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports. Arrivals of fowl show an increase over last week's supply and any surplus is being placed in storage.

Demand continues fairly good locally and out-of-town, mostly for heavy chicken, and this demand is filled from storage holdings Several small shipments went forward to the Maritimes and Northern Ontario points. Dealers anticipate a better movement during the coming holiday season. The department report states the recent sales for export to Great Britain and the United States will reduce storage stocks and place the market in a somewhat better position. There is a slight change in quotations and weight variation to producers and country shippers, some dealers advancing quotations ½ cent pound.

Negro Spiritual Music Explained

CAMPBELLFORD, March 31, (ENS) — The story of negro spiritual music and how it originated was contained in an interesting address by Mrs. J. R. Bick who was guest speaker at the weekly meeting of Tabernacle Young People on Wednesday evening. President Clarence Grills presided for the meeting and introduced the speaker whose remarks traced the first negro folk music back to the time of the Civil War in the United States. Their songs were divided into two categories being either sacred or secular with the spiritual type being most famous. Though James Bland, a negro became widely known for his compositions "In the Evening By the Moonlight" "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" etc. Stephen Foster became recognized as the greatest composer of negro music. The negro spiritual first came into prominence during the days of slavery and the speaker expressed the belief that by his natural gifts the negro himself had helped to a great extent in creating the America of to-day.

Other numbers of the program included a piano solo by Phyllis Grills and a reading by Shirley Dunk. During the business it was announced that Passion Week services would replace the regular meeting and it was expected a special speaker would be present.

A Master Plan For Peterborough?

A great many citizens who would naturally be interested in such matters heard a talk last Tuesday night by Tracy LeMay, the Commissioner of Planning and Survey for the City of Toronto. Mr. LeMay spoke about town-planning in general, but most of what he said could profitably be applied to this city. The Examiner, which has expressed itself from time to time on matters relative to town-planning such as the establishment of playgrounds in the city, and the design and function of the new City Hall, commends the views of Mr. LeMay to its readers as matter for serious reflection.

* * *

Experienced town planners begin their work with a set of beliefs which are foreign, and frequently distasteful, to the average citizen. They believe, for instance, that the average modern city is inconvenient, unhealthy and ugly; if it continues to grow as it has grown in the past it will merely become more inconvenient, unhealthy and ugly as the years go by, and property values within its limits will always be in a state of flux, because all parts of the city will be subject to sudden and unpredictable blights and declines.

* * *

Mr. LeMay did not base any of his criticisms of modern Canadian cities on the appearance and plan of Peterborough, for he does not know this city well. But he read this, from a criticism of Toronto which was made by its Planning Board: "The main streets are mean in appearance and untidy, the whole downtown area is aesthetically unattractive, there are no open spaces other than untidy parking lots, and there are few if any suitable sites for the display of an important building, or for the grouping of public and semi-public institutions". But could we not apply this criticism to ourselves, as it might be applied to almost any city of comparable size in this Province? Our cities grew the way they did because they grew quickly, and it was necessary to put up buildings in order to house necessary institutions, without much regard for appearance or real convenience. Streets were laid out very often to conform with traditional tracks, and their convenience for traffic has not been reconsidered since horse-and-buggy days. If the expansion which we expect will take place in Canada after the war comes to these unplanned cities, what will happen to them? In Mr. LeMay's words, we must apply informed foresight to our city's problems of development.

* * *

Why should we not have a Thirty Year Plan for Peterborough? That is to say, why should we not have a Plan which would consider the development of our city from the aspects of

(1) Conservation and zoning.
(2) Public Welfare and living conditions.
(3) Convenience of traffic and transportation.
(4) Administration and finance.

The formation of such a plan would take time and discussion, but we suggest that this city has more men who are trained in engineering of various sorts than most cities of its size, and we do not think that these men would be unwilling to put their expert knowledge at the service of the city in which they live.

* * *

City planning does not mean city revolution. It moves along two broad paths—the correction of the errors of the past and avoidance of errors in the future. The errors of the past sometimes help to correct themselves. A city is not static; it grows and it decays, and every year old buildings are torn down and new ones are set up to replace them. Guidance through zoning and conservation regulations can do much in the course of a decade to alter the face of a city for the better and to make its growth orderly and coherent, rather than fungoid and toxic.

* * *

A city plan is not a fascist device, robbing the citizen of his right to do as he likes with his own. But it is a cooperative device, which helps to keep residential sections from becoming run-down and semi-industrial, which helps to keep bad traffic and transportation tangles from causing accidents, and which helps to preserve a fitting dignity and beauty everywhere in a city. Factories and boarding-houses are both excellent things, but neither one is benefitted when they are allowed to exist side by side, as they are in some cities. When a church and a filling-station are opposite one another, neither can be said to benefit from the proximity. When a river runs through a city it can be either a thing of beauty or a nuisance; it is the duty of a planning committee to see that it is the former.

* * *

The time to make a Thirty-Year Plan is now, this year. After the war there will be such a release of energy for construction work of all kinds as this country has never seen. The executive and planning talent, and the labour and the materials, will all be in great demand. The city which has a plan ready, and can state its wants with clarity and reason will obviously have a better chance of getting its share of the materials, labour and directive talent which is available than the city which is in a muddle, and cannot agree on what it wants, or which wants piecemeal construction. There is reason to believe that the Province will be deeply interested in matters of post-war reconstruction of this kind, and certainly it will not give help to communities which have no plans ready for action.

* * *

To give concrete examples of what we mean, Peterborough has at least two projects on hand for the earliest post-war work. One is a new City Hall, and the other is a new Post Office and Customs House. Is it not likely that the Dominion would be glad to accept suggestions from the city as to where its new building was to be? Is it not desirable that the two buildings should bear some relation to each other, and thus form the nucleus of a true civic centre? The natural beauty surrounding Peterborough is unsurpassed anywhere in Ontario; why should we not take some pains to complement it with man-made beauty within our city? The opportunity is at hand, and the cost will be no greater if the new buildings are disposed with a view to creating an impressive core for the city of Peterborough. What could be a better start for a Thirty Year Plan? Such an opportunity will not come again in our lifetime.

* * *

The principle aim of city planning is to make the city a good place to live in. That means that the city should be healthy, convenient and beautiful. Health means plenty of open space, a minimum of slums and depressed areas, and playgrounds. Convenience implies a system of streets well-suited to the needs of the city, a controlled growth so that the city expands logically and not in "ribbon expansion", and the certainty that the residential sections will not be driven farther and farther toward the outskirts. Beauty means that natural advantages such as rivers, trees, lakes and so forth are used intelligently, that public buildings, semi-public buildings and private buildings bear a suitable relation to one another so that civic pride is given every chance to display itself, and that zoning keeps the property of the many from being depreciated by the tastelessness or the indifference of the few. City planning is based on a keen awareness of civic dignity and responsibility.

* * *

Shall we have a Thirty Year Plan? If so, now is the time to begin. After the war will be too late.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Wasn't there some talk about a potato shortage this spring?

"More Women Than Men Likely To Vote In Next Election" says a headline. Because of the shortage of cigars?

"Baby Born To Sailor's Wife On Pullman Train" says a headline. If the sailor was a commissioned man we presume that it happened in an upper berth.

The trial of Charles Chaplin on charges brought by Joan Barry has been described as "dramatic". It reminds us of one of Charlie's comedies, called The Gold Rush.

An Indiana man is suing his wife for divorce because she made him do the family wash. Presumably he thought that if he had to wash dirty linen he might as well do it in public.

It is interesting to notice that U.S. papers these days take pains to refer to Charles Chaplin as "the British-born comedian", though it is not so long since he was commonly referred to as "the great American comedian". The celebrated member of the Washington Congressional Club appears to have blotted his copy-book.

If A Lawyer Wrote A Psalm

By G. STUART
In the Ottawa Journal

I HAVE just struggled through a maze, a winding, tortuous trail of words liberally sprinkled with "and-or" and "whereas," garnished with clincher clauses such as "or other words relative thereto or of like import," and with a "mutatis mutandis" and an "inter alia" tossed in occasionally as an added hazard. In other words, I have just laboured through a legal document.

By contrast, my mind turned to the simplicity, the beauty and the unqualified and unfettered clarity of the 23rd Psalm.

"The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.

"He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.

"He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me.

"Thou preparest a table for me in the presence o mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

I fell to wondering what the drafter of a modern legal document would have done to it and it was not difficult to imagine him rubbing his hands and crying "A contract. We must have a contract."

◇ ◇ ◇

NOR was it difficut to imagine the document taking form something like this:

"This indenture made between the Lord, hereinafter called the Creator, of the first part, and King David, hereinafter called David, of the second part.

Whereas the party of the first part, for the consideration hereinafter designated, has agreed with the party of the second part, to do, furnish and perform the works, materials, matters and things required to be done, furnished and performed, in the manner hereinafter described, in connection with the following work or works, namely:

A life dedicated to worshipping the Creator and honouring His name and spreading His word throughout the land.

And so on for another 98 clauses.

AN eminent lawyer informs me that the phraseology of present day legal documents harks back to the time when solicitors were paid on a word rate basis for the documents which they drew up. Human nature being what it is, this provides a plausible reason for the growth of the confusion of words that is known as legal phraseology. It provides no slightest vestige of reason for continuing it.

Can nothing be done about this? Art there no lawyers who can content themselves with a simple statement such as "he goes to Montreal" rather than creating a hideous conglomeration such as this: "He goes, walks, runs, hops, crawls, swims or is transported by motor vehicle, aircraft, railway train, boat, magic carpet or other vehicle or conveyance whatsoever, or is enabled to transfer his person or be transferred by any means whatsoever to Montreal"?

I hope there are. It would be a boon to suffering mankind unequalled since Sir James Simpson introduced chloroform as an anaesthetic.

Social Service Spree

Canada is embarked on a social service spree which is bound to cost a lot of money but there are plenty of optimistic dreamers who seem to have been stimulated by the war to a degree that they can mentally overcome all economic handicaps by wishful thinking. They are quite oblivious to the fac that when the war ends, the country is bound to suffer a slump in national revenue, and that it is going to take quite a time to adjust peacetime business to a condition where it can absorb the slack occasioned by the loss of a customer, the war, which bought everything the populace could produce, at figures far beyond the prices that are obtainable in civilian commerce. If the situation proves to be otherwise, then we can conclude that the age of miracles is still with us.—Sarnia Canadian Observer.

Wider Grounds For Divorce ?

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

DURING consideration of divorce bills in the Senate on Thursday, Senator John Haig of Winnipeg and Senator W. D. Euler of Kitchener made frank and outspoken contributions to the discussion. Both believed that divorce hearings should be removed from Parliament; both believed that Canadian divorce laws should be revised, broadening the grounds upon which divorce could be granted.

The entire problem of divorce is a prickly one, controversial to a degree, but, like many other things, it is always with us. Divorce is permissible under the laws of the Dominion, and provision must therefore be made for its granting, notwithstanding the fact that there are those who steadfastly oppose it. With this in mind, it is well to consider expressions of opinion upon the subject which may be termed authoritative, in the sense that they are well-informed. Senator Haig is a prominent lawyer, and is well known for the painstaking care with which he prepares opinions later to be made public. Senator Euler's reputation is comparable.

There will be general approval, we think of the suggestion that divorce hearings should be removed from Parliament. It is clear to most people that duly constituted courts are the only proper place for such hearings. With very few exceptions, members of Parliament are foremost in professing themselves unqualified to sit in judgment upon these cases. The cases should therefore be placed within a competent jurisdiction—the courts. There is another, and perhaps more important, angle. The present legislation discriminates against the Protestants of Prince Edward Island and Quebec, who are forced to shoulder the heavy expense of going to Ottawa for relief, in the absence of divorce courts in their own provinces. It hardly seems fair that the accident of residence in these two provinces should force their citizens to a less competent and more expensive tribunal than those enjoyed by citizens of other provinces.

The advocacy of broadened grounds for divorce is likely to be the basis for heated discussion, for and against. It is, in the opinion of this newspaper, far too delicate a subject upon which to venture a snap opinion. There are many things to be considered. For one thing, as Senator Euler pointed out, when two people, who are thoroughly convinced they can never get along together, are forced to remain man and wife, far more immorality may result than would be brought about by broadening grounds for divorce.

The retort obvious, of course, is that abuses exist under the present law, and that these abuses would increase as grounds for divorce were broadened. It cannot be denied that abuses exist, nor can it be successfully argued that they would not increase if reasons for divorce were increased. The vital question to be answered would seem to be whether, under revised divorce laws, people in sufficient numbers would be enabled to live happier and more useful lives to justify whatever increase in divorce abuses might result. Since the establishment of provincial divorce courts in seven provinces, there has been an increase in divorce in those provinces, but it has been argued by some authorities that there has been a corresponding decrease in social problems springing from unhappy and irreconcilable married couples.

Revision of the divorce laws in itself presents a problem of no mean proportions. It would require intensive study by a group of highly competent persons. We are of the opinion that when the war is over some such study might be inaugurated. Canadians in general, we feel sure, would very much dislike to see an inequality in divorce laws which would result in any one province becoming a "divorce mill." Whatever decision is taken, they will hope for reasonable national uniformity.

The great majority of people, fortunately, are not troubled personally by the question of divorce. Consideration must be given, however, to the less fortunate minority. We must at all times be ready to entertain proposals offering relief for these people. And when the proposals come from such disinterested and public-spirited men as Senators Haig and Euler, they should be accorded thoughtful scrutiny by the citizens of Canada.

Mr. Ford's Prophecy

Henry Ford's prediction in a copyrighted interview for the Atlantic Constitution, that the war will be over in two months is a right tasty morsel to roll under the tongue, and it will attract a lot of attention coming as it does from a man whose name is a household word the world around. Mr. Ford leaves us a bit up in the air, however, because he withholds the reasoning back of his prophecy. Cobwebs On The Door

Mark Twain always knew all the answers. Once when he was the editor of a newspaper, he received a letter from one of his subscribers who found a spider in his paper. This reader was worried about the incident and wrote to Mark Twain to ask whether it was a sign of good luck or bad. Here is his answer, as published in Printed Word, house magazine of the Von Hoffman Press, St. Louis:

"Dear Subscriber: Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over the paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door, and live a life of undisturbed peace ever afterwards."—Composing Room Who's Who.

No Short Cuts In War

Recently the "softening-up" idea itself seems to have given away to a concentration upon one single, specific factor in the military equation—German fighter strength. The aim is to shoot it out of the air in the big day battles while blasting its assembly and parts plants by both day and night; once this single element has been removed or neutralized, then both air and ground power can be deployed more effectively and at less cost. The aim has not yet been achieved. Perhaps it will be soon, or perhaps new ideas will have to be developed—the layman cannot guess. He can only remember that all war is terrible, painful and costly; that great ends call for great sacrifices and that one cannot count too much on any one weapon, one strategy, or one hope. The air is among our most potent means to victory, but it is not a short cut. For in war there are none.—New York Herald Tribune.

A Bible Message

Thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel; As yet they shall use this speech in the land of Judah and in the cities thereof, when I shall bring again their captivity; The Lord bless thee, O habitation of justice, and mountain of holiness.... In those days they shall say no more. The fathers have eaten a sour grape, and the children's teeth are set on edge. (Jer. 31: 23, 29.)

And as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth. And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind. Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents: but that the works of God should be made manifest in him. I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work. As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.

When he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and he anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay, and said unto him, Go, wash in the pool of Siloam, (which is by interpretation, Sent.) He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing. (John 9: 1-7.)

BREAKERS AHEAD!

Sir,—Plenty of money in circulation makes good prices and good times for all of us, but this apparent prosperity is apt to put silly extravagant notions into our heads. A farmer, we will say, puts a mortgage on his farm that approached its full value. He can have a rollicking heigh rolling time while the money lasts, but when the cash is gone and he can obtain no more credit he will be compelled to abandon his extravagant notions, his joy rides, his beer, his picture shows, his fine clothes, and start wearing patched pants and eating humble pie. It appears to me this country will be in just such a situation as that farmer. If there is plenty of money in circulation where does it come from but from those billion dollar loans. In other words the country is being mortgaged to the bond-holders. While the money lasts the people and the government become intoxicated with all sorts of fantastic ideas, some of them approaching idiocy. I have nothing to say against those loans for when, as it were, we see the smoke of battle in the distance and hear the roar of the enemy's artillery we have no other alternative, but to load the overburdened taxpayers with more taxes for the benefit of a certain clique. Clique under the guise of health is a different matter entirely.

Even if this social security twaddle did justify all its brilliant advocates claim for it we are not in a position to secure it any more than a man who was already heavily mortgaged would be in a position to purchase an expensive car. We are already bled white with a war tax, of which we do not complain, believing that that tax must be progressivelly increased as the years of the war roll on, for even if Germany were subdued we would still have Japan to contend with and without the aid of Russia. Although the average Canadian is a law-abiding citizen he can if he is continually hounded by tax collectors be driven into a state of frenzy and that is the time the real trouble will start in this country.

Unconsidered Trifles

The teacher wanted to impress on his class that there was nothing a man could not do if he put his mind to it. Johnny Jones begged to differ.

Counties Plan To Protect Returned Men

LINDSAY, March 31—(ENS)—In an effort to organize Victoria and Haliburton Counties for the return of its soldier populace, a Rehabiliation Committee was formed at a special meeting called in Lindsay and attended by Reeves and well-known citizens of Victoria and Haliburton counties. Donald McQuarrie was elected president of the new committee and Lindsay councillor Ada Greaves, secretary. The executive will comprise the reeves of every township.

In addressing the meeting D. McQuarrie stated that at the present time about one-third of the farms in Victoria County were not inhabited with many of them being used for grazing only. He stated that this condition had developed since the advent of war due to low farm prices, high cost of labor and the inducement of large wages in industrial concerns. "Once a farm house is closed that means the loss of a family and the probable loss of a school," Mr. McQuarrie said. It has been resulted in the closing of churches and the banishing of community life from many districts."

He stressed Agriculture as Canada's most important industry and stated that special inducement must be made to returned soldiers to influence them to settle on the land and establish rural communities.

Industry, Tourist trade and reforestration were other plans that the Rehabilitation committee will study and develop. "If you take away one important industry from many of our villages you will leave a "ghost town", Mr. McQuarrie warned. "In Lindsay we depend on the Dominion Arsenal. We cannot expect this plant to continue in war work but we can make an effort to see that it continues as a manufacturing concern.

See To Reforestration

Reforestration had been sadly neglected by the majority of townships and counties, the speaker remarked. "Are we to leave a legacy to our children of stumps and scrubby bushlands when we can as easily leave thousands of acres of first class timber?" he asked.

Every farmer would plant otherwise worthless land in suitable timber he would be doing his part for future generations. The proper program of reforestration for Victoria and Haliburton counties would employ hundreds of men, Mr. McQuarrie said.

In commenting upon the tourist trade, the speaker remarked that the naural resources of the counties could be developed to establish a tourist mecca that would be on par with any vacation centre on the continent.

In concluding Chairman D. McQuarrie remarked that while the Government had an extensive rehabilitation program that it could only prove successful with the aid of similar schemes conducted by each county aided by their townships and municipalities.

Prosperity Chapter Holds Inspection

HAVELOCK, March 31 — (ENS) —About 60 members and guests attended the official inspection of Prosperity Chapter No. 63, Order of the Eastern Star, on Friday night, by District Deputy Grand Matron Kathleen Cowling of Napanee. She was ably assisted by the Worthy Grand Matron, Violet L. Day, of Timmins.

All work of the Order was exemplified and the officers were highly complimented on their efficiency. Visiting members attending from other Chapters were from Peterborough, Madoc, Tweed, Farnham, Que. Toronto and Rochester, N.Y. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Isobel Hill and her committee. Tea was poured by P.M. Jennie O'Hara and P.M. Beavie Hoffman from silver tea services on a lace covered table complete with a bowl of yellow daffodils and yellow candles in crystal holders.

Donegal War Workers Complete 25 Quilts

NORWOOD, March 31—(ENS)—Donegal War Workers met at the home of Mrs. Gideon Brown and quilted four large quilts. An appliqued dahlia pattern quilt top was donated by Mrs. Edward Patterson and the lining by Mrs. Reg. Buck. Tops were also given by Mrs. Max Brown and Mrs. Andrew McGee. A top and two linings for baby quilts were donated by Mrs. George Humphreys and large quilt linings by Mrs. Sam Buck, Mrs. H. Wildman and Mrs. Wilfred Buck.

Since January 1, the group has completed twenty large quilts, five baby quilts and a baby blanket. Boxes were recently sent overseas to Elmer Stevenson and Ron Salsbury. At the close of the quilting Mrs. Brown served lunch to the workers.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any IDA or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid, and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

St. Thomas' Anglicans At Millbrook Show Progress

MILLBROOK, March 31—(ENS)—The annual vestry meeting of St. Thomas Anglican church was held on Monday evening in the parish hall and presided over by the rector Rev. A. E. Chevis, whose lengthy illness had made it necessary to postpone the gathering from its usual time in January.

L. H. Winslow, peoples' warden, presented the financial report, showing that all obligations, including the Synod allotments and assessments, had been paid in full. The total receipts for 1943 amounted to $1,681.67, included in this being a balance carried forward from December 1942 of $197.54. Total expenditures $1,486.68; balance, December 31, 1943, $194.99.

R. I. Fallis was reappointed rector's warden, and L. H. Winslow re-elected peoples' warden; E. H. Barnes was re-elected vestry clerk and Messrs. R. I. Fallis and L. H. Winslow were lected delegates to the Synod. All the sidesmen were re-elected, with the addition of Robert Stone, Lavergne Fallis, and Sgt.-Major Ed. Hawke. The Advisory Board, which consists of the Head of the church organizations, has in addition the following elected members: J. H. Bridge, T. A. Campbell, L. Fallis, P. Hamilton, Wilbert Wood and Dr. H. A. Turner. T. A. Campbell was re-elected to the cemetery board, and T. H. Collins and E. H. Barnes were re-elected auditors. A committee re Active Service members of the church was elected as follows: Ada Attwooll, convener; Mrs. A. E. Chevis, Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cooke. Misses Muriel Smith and Anna Fair

The reports were uniformly good, showing satisfactory financial standing and active service, throughout the year, that of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary, given by the secretary, Miss Rose Macnamara, telling of regular meetings from September until May, the annual bale shipped in April, pledges all paid, various relief funds given donations, calendars sold and a baking sale held to add to the funds, quilts also made and sold, and a total raised of $175.55 with a balance on hand of $32.55, at the end of December 1943.

The Women's Guild, of which Mrs. Douglas Sheppard is president reported money raised from birthday bags, hostess tea, subscriptions, bazaar and afternoon tea, membership fees, etc. the total for 1943 being $183.07; expenditures, included in which was a donation of $180.00 to the church funds, amounted to $182.25; with a balance carried forward to $1.42.

The choir report, E. H. Barnes, treasurer, and Miss M. L. Collins organist, showed receipts of $9.18, with a balance forward of $5.97, and the A.Y.P.A. of which Beatrice Fallis is president and Rosemary Stinson secretary, reported regular meetings every two weeks, with devotional and educational program, and a total raised of $7.46; this organization had not been functioning throughout the entire year but got well under way last fall and is carrying on successfully. For the Sunday School the financial report showed receipts of $95.25; expenditures $62.17; balance carried forward $33.08.

Clarke is treasurer, had total receipts of $676.79; the expenditures were $564.39, and the balance carried forward was $112.40; the investments of the board include bonds amounting to $5,700.00 and new Dominion of Canada bonds were bought during 1943 to the value of $400. St. Paul's cemetery, 4th Line, Cavan, is the one for which St. Thomas' church is responsible, and the committee includes the rector, the wardens, and T. A. Campbell. The secretary-treasurer of the church is Miss Muriel Smith. The rector dismissed the meeting with the blessing.

Farmers Given Assurance Of Increased Help

Farmers in Ontario can plan their 1944 crop production with reasonable assurance that there will be farm help available for them during the crucial haying and harvesting season, according to Alex Maclaren, Director of the Ontario Farm Service Force.

Activities of the field placement officers of the Farm Service Force have been started at an earlier date than in former years, and there are definite indications that more volunteer farm workers than ever before will be available when the busy farm season rolls around. Based on the slogan "We can't win if we don't eat" the campaign to enroll farm workers this year will be the most intensive yet undertaken, because of the grave necessity for increasing production of foodstocks to meet the higher objectives that have been fixed for 1944. This additional food will be urgently required to supply the needs of the armed forces of the United Nations and the requirements of civilians at home and abroad.

Every possible avenue of farm help is being thoroughly explored and canvassed. The farm duty leaves which were inaugurated last fall by the armed services will be in operation this year during the whole farming season and greater help is expected from that source. The compassionate leave plan, by which members of farmers' families now in the armed forces can be released for periods up to six months will also be in effect, and should bring an increased amount of experienced help back to the farms. Both of these sources should be productive of large numbers of farm workers.

The Ontario Farm Service Force will concentrate its attention on enlisting tens of thousands of high school students—for farm work, and the Department of Education is ready to release students for the purpose after April 28th, providing they have 50% standing on their year's work. It is expected that as many as 50 Farm Service Camps for boys and girls will be set up around the Province, to serve the needs of special areas.

The Farm Commando service and the Farm Holiday Brigade will be organized on a larger scale than ever, and are expected to produce many thousands of volunteers for work on farms during the busy season.

Farmers can therefore plan their crops in anticipation of having help available when required, but they can co-operate by making their help needs made known as soon as possible. Requests for help for the busy season can be made now to the Ontario Farm Service Force, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, or to the County Agricultural Representative, while requests for year-round experienced help should be filed at once with the nearest office of the National Selective Service.

Curator Helps Locating Forces

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 31 — (AP) — Servicemen's parents, with the aid of R. Martin Perkins Buffalo zoo curator, are finding missing pieces of their jig-saw-puzzles military censors sometimes make of their sons' letters.

Perkins uses his knowledge of the habitats of animals and birds to deduce the whereabouts of men overseas for inquiring parents.

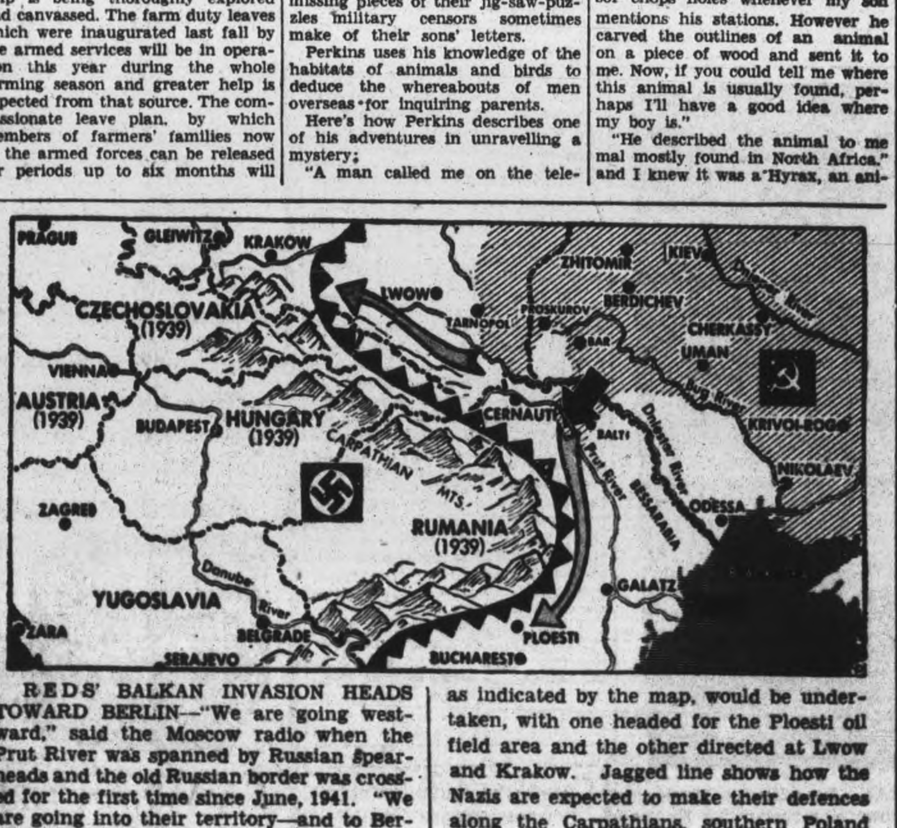
"A man called me on the telephone recently, and said, 'My son is somewhere overseas. I don't know where he is because the censor chops holes whenever my son mentions his stations. However he carved the outlines of an animal on a piece of wood and sent it to me. Now, if you could tell me where this animal is usually found, perhaps I'll have a good idea where my boy is."

"He described the animal to me and I knew it was a Hyrax, an animal mostly found in North Africa."



REDS' BALKAN INVASION HEADS TOWARD BERLIN—"We are going westward," said the Moscow radio when the Prut River was spanned by Russian spearheads and the old Russian border was crossed for the first time since June, 1941. "We are going into their territory—and to Berlin!" While the Red troops were backing up the words, news reports indicated that for the first time in history a two-way sweep around the Carpathian Mountains, as indicated by the map, would be undertaken, with one headed for the Ploesti oil field area and the other directed at Lwow and Krakow. Jagged line shows how the Nazis are expected to make their defences along the Carpathians, southern Poland and Slovakia. The drive to Rumania has carried the Reds 460 miles in less than a year. Now Nikolaev, important Black Sea port, has fallen to the Russians.

Ground Crews Get No Rest At Bomber Bases

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 31 — (CP) — When there is a lull in bomber command attacks against European targets, it doesn't mean air and ground crews of its British, Canadian and Australian squadrons are taking it easy. The raid that doesn't come off is just as nerve-racking as the one that does because not all the stress and strain of flying is in the air.

Raids are planned for almost every night and they are "on" until carried through, cancelled before take off time, or, as was the case at least once, after the bombers were in the air.

Weather may be bad over base or over the target. When Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris, Bomber command chief, said the R.A.F. had beaten the weather, he meant weather previously considered bad for bombing, not bad flying weather.

So, raid or no raid, the preparation for possible raids with all its meticulous detail goes on exactly as before.

For instance, during a recent five-day visit to the Canadian bomber group, I saw squadrons preparing for five raids, but only one was carried out.

Often a target is announced in the morning and the work begins. It is known the weather is doubtful but it is recognized there may be just a chance of pulling it off.

Sometimes, when there is a possibility of fitting in with better weather, the times of takeoff and the routes are changed. Even the bomb-load may be altered.

Occasionally there are periods when dubious weather conditions compel everyone to "stand to" for three or four days.

TOPEKA, Kas., March 31 (AP).—For days Postmaster Glenn Logan dinned into Topekans that United States postage rates would go up last Saturday midnight. Weather Hampers Trapping On Trent

TRENT RIVER, March 31 — (ENS).—Trent River War Workers held a progressive euchre at their rooms in the village on Tuesday evening. Seven tables of cards were played and prizes were given for the highest scores. Mrs. Ross Pollock, Mrs. G. Alley and Fred Hay were the winners. Lunch was served at the close by the ladies.

Cold weather has hampered trapping on the Trent and catches are very small so far. Trapping opened on March 10th but some trappers have not started as yet as the ice in the marshes has not moved out appreciably.

Most district farmers with sugar bushes have tapped their trees but no syrup has appeared on the market as yet.

John Fauquier Gets New Title

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 31 (CP Cable)—There is a new name now for Johnny Fauquier of Ottawa and Toronto, one of Canada's bomber aces. It is "King of the Pathfinders."

This is something special here in the home of the R.A.F., which developed the pathfinding technique for lighting up the targets for night bombers, and was the title used by the Press Association in announcing the award of a bar to Fauquier's D.S.O.

Now acting group captain, Fauquier frequently has been to distant and well-defended enemy targets, including several trips to Berlin.

His Canadian squadron, formerly on anti-U-boat duty, now locates targets for the bombers that follow on raids.

Fauquier acts as "master of ceremonies" on these occasions. He flies high above the target watching over the flare-hopping Pathfinders.

ANY tobacco expert will tell you that Burley tobacco is a cool-burning, cool-smoking tobacco. Nature made it that way. In Buckingham, a proportion of Burley is scientifically blended with Virginia and Turkish tobaccos in such a way that the entire blend of tobaccos is cool-burning, cool-smoking.

That is why a blended Buckingham is cool-burning, cool-smoking, and more pleasant to the taste. That is why a Buckingham is definitely milder.

Smoke a Buckingham and enjoy a mild cigarette—a cigarette that is "Throat Easy". You will find it the most satisfying cigarette you ever smoked.

Jay's Bowlers Whip Up Highest Score

Jay's drove all but one nail in their latest City League bowling championship when they established a season's record high team score at Duffus Alleys last night. They defeated the Old Timers three straight games and now need to win only another point to make their title official.

To say that they gave the pinboys a warm session would be putting it mildly when they chalked up a smashing 3860 team total. Hard hitting Tommy Miller set the pace with 859 and all hands rolled well above the 700 mark. They reeled off a 1356 team single and produced an ideal all round good performance by turning in nothing less than 200 individual singles and none over 300.

The Cleanrites and K. of C. remained in a second place dead-lock while Jack Wade's Outlaws landed fair and square into a fourth place tie with Fractional Motors as they downed the latter gang all three games. Chief Gimblett's 3550 team score stopped the Big Five cold, while Ramblers, Sunocos and Freeman's all gained ground, Freeman's sweeping the card from the C.G.E. Machine Shop.

Although Miller of Jay's hit 859 he was not top man for the night. That honor went to Gene Reynolds of Gimblett's when he nailed both high three and high single with 865 and 351. Bob Dyer of the Ramblers was another 3-star performer as he rolled back into his hitting stride with a fine 850 score.

Good singles included Reynold's 351, Harold Dormer 326, Hec Thompson 321, George Robertson 317, Bob Dyer 317, Mel Anthony 304 and Jack Wade 300.

By FRED D. CRAIG

Being old-fashioned enough to look upon hockey as a sport rather than as a racket this column is forced to admit that the present setup in amateur hockey in this country is a travesty. When sport writers of the calibre of the veteran Jim Fitzgerald of the Telegram and Andy Lytle of the Star came out and flatly charge that the policy of the C.A.H.A. is to pack teams to build up gates the distance that hockey has travelled downward since the days when John Ross Robertson and other pioneers tried to make clubs stick to the straight and narrow path of amateurism can be judged. The arrangements by which junior branch winners are allowed to add four replacements to their lineups for the playoffs would seem to be the last straw. Oshawa for example has to battle St. Michael's in a tough series to take the title and then immediately adds four of the beaten Irish to its squad. If these reinforcements are used it will mean of course that four members of the Generals who have helped to bring the Oshawa team this far along the championship trail will be shouldered out by the newcomers. That in itself is bad for hockey but worse of course is the fact that by authorizing wholesale replacements the C.A.H.A. is turning the Memorial Cup playoffs into a battle between all-star teams, instead of between individual clubs. So long as big gates are built up the hockey authorities apparently are satisfied.

* * * * * *

The situation is serious enough to challenge the attention of all friends of real sport. Hockey is one of the best games in the world—some of us think it is the best—and it is a tragedy to see it in the hands of alleged sportsmen who apparently see nothing but the money side of the sport. Rules are scrapped or altered to allow everything to go in the case of teams who are in a position to pack the bigger arenas at playoff times. The clubs who are box office attractions can get away with murder. The complacent powers-that-be, simply shrug their shoulders with a so-what attitude toward anybody who raises a voice in protest. Even down to the minor divisions this wholesale disregard of the principles of real sport seems to be spreading. There have been cases this winter where juvenile teams after fighting their way into the playoffs with lineups of home-brews have found themselves confronted with junior A players who were allowed to drop back to the juvenile series when their clubs were eliminated. The whole system of handling hockey at the present time smells to high heaven.

He Will Be Missed

The late Charlie Davidson of Campbellford played so many parts in the community life of his home town that he will be missed in many circles but nowhere more than in the world of sport. For many years he supplied the driving power for Campbellford lacrosse, baseball and hockey teams and his enthusiastic leadership was responsible for giving his bailiewick a prominence in sport that was out of proportion to the size of the community. He gave Campbellford the hockey arena that bears his name and in a dozen other ways helped to give the youth of his town healthful recreation and the citizens generally a world of entertainment. Charlie Davidson probably got the most kick out of his sporting career back in the old days when the Trent Valley League was in its prime and when the championship race became more a matter of wits rather than prowess on the ice as the teams imported all kinds of stars for important games. There were many strange faces seen around the Trent Valley territory in those days, although the names would have been very familiar if they had been published. Charlie Davidson was one of those dynamic citizens who was born to give leadership and Campbellford owes much to this grand old sportsman who has passed on.

It's the Montreal Canadiens and the Chicago Black Hawks for the Stanley Cup. The entrance of the former into the final round was generally expected but many fans fancied Detroit in the other bracket. However the Hawks took the round 4 games to 1 and actually won two out of three battles on Detroit ice where they had not had a victory previously since 1940. Last night's score was 5 to 2 for the Hawks and they were easily the better team in the series. As for the Canadien-Leaf round it is clear to every one now that the initial victory of the Leafs was just a freak; one of those inexplicable affairs in which one team outshoots the other three to one and yet loses. The Flying Frenchmen, and they are all of that and more, could just as easily have won that opening game by seven or eight goals on the play and it was a cinch that there would not be any more fixtures of that kind. They retaliated by taking the Leafs four games in a row, held them to exactly three goals in the four engagements and wound the series up last night by handing the Toronto gang one of the most humiliating defeats in Stanley Cup history. That 11 to 0 debacle indicated that only Bibeault looked to be in his right class; the rest of the team folded completely and played like a team from the barbers' union. As a matter of fact the Leafs have never had the appearance of a N.H.L. outfit all season and they did well to finish third.

Hard To Hold

Bill Walshe of the Kingston Whig-Standard doesn't think much of the chances of the average club of holding any good juniors it develops in view of the demands of the pros and the scouting efforts of such outstanding junior outfits as the Oshawa Generals. Says the Kingston scribe: "Kingston's hopes of holding a strong junior team or star players seem rather poor. Even if the service forces do not take the good juniors, professional and amateur offers are too tempting for any boy to refuse. Coach Hap Day of the Toronto Leafs was specially interested in Joe Watts and George MacGregor, main members of the Kingston Vics while scouts of Junior A teams checked all the players. Junior A clubs have a regular system of scouting talent, like professionals, and plans for importing are being made now at the minor and junior B playdowns. Oshawa's success in junior hockey is evidence of the remarkable scouting system that has operated in the Motor City for years. Only one Oshawa resident is on the team this term with the other boys gathered from all parts of Canada. When junior hockey attracts crowds of 12,000 it pays to have a winning team."

"Old Fire Horse Johnny Murphy, who has been saving ball games for Joe McCarthy's championship Yankee crew for the past eight seasons, will not be around when the New Yorkers start away on another American League pennant race in mid-April," says Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Review. "The man who probably stands above any bigtime rescue worker in the sport's history, has decided to call it a day and it may be a long time before the champs or any other club finds his equal as a relief hurler. Never known in the starting role, Murphy had a way of saving games for faltering mates and that tricky curve that he employed so frequently in the clutch moments, was mighty puzzling to opposing hitters. Johnny was always warmed up and whenever called upon to take over, the husky tosser displayed puzzling assortments. Murph was as much a main cog in McCarthy's numerous flag winning aggregations as such regulars as Joe DiMaggio, Bill Dickey, Red Ruffing or Lefty Gomez, and Marse Joe will have many chances to recognize this fact when he has to select other relief artists next race."

Player Brings His Own Bat

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP).—He brought along his own bat from home this year—did Roberto (Bobby) Estalella, Philadelphia Athletics outfielder who hit a rousing .259 last season.

And don't laugh at that .259, for it was tops for the team's regulars. And Roberto wants to remain tops—that's why he brought along the war club with which he bludgeoned his way this winter to a .336 average in the Cuban League.

At that, the weapon must be easier to wield than it is to pronounce, for it is made of majagua wood, which comes from the tropical pariti tiliaceum tree.

We'd like to be there the day the A's play Washington, and Estalella swings his pariti tiliaceum limb at some puzzling pitch from Alejandro Carrasquel.

The Brooklyn-Phillies Red Cross game, scheduled for to-day at Ebbets Field, has been set ahead to April 13, and the Dodgers will try to get in their twice-postponed game with West Point this afternoon.

A quick look at the training camps:

American League.

Chicago — Hal Trosky, who quit two years ago after averaging .313 and hitting 216 homers in nine years for Cleveland, makes debut under Jimmy Dykes Saturday as White Sox meet Pittsburg at Louisville.

National League.

Philadelphia— Outfielder Coaker Triplett, convalescing from flu, now has heavy chest cold and missed practicce. Pitcher Dale Matthewson, in hospital with bronchitis, undergoes tonsillectomy next week.

St. Louis—Big Mort Cooper has sore arm, but hopes warmer weather will erase kinks. Team worked outside in 41-degree temperature.

LONDON, March 31—(CP)—An order calling in all diaries kept by Allied soldiers in the European theatre of operations was issued last night by the censor's office in a pre-western front tightening of the rules. The diaries will be stored by the chief base censor for the duration of the war.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, March 31 —(AP)— Major league managers have good reason to moan about their player losses this spring, but how would they like to lose Phil Rizzutto, Benny McCoy, Vince Smith, Don Padgett, Dom DiMaggio, Tom Earley and Charley Wagner off one club between seasons? .... That's what happened to Bos'n Gary Bodie, coach of the Norfolk Naval Training Station baseballers.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Canadian Army boxing championships in Canada have been under way for some time now, practically unnoticed by the general public, and the Defence Department at Ottawa last night revealed that the eliminations have narrowed down to district finals in most sections.

The schedule should be completed in the east and west by the end of April, with the winners meeting for Canadian titles in Ottawa on May 4.

The final round in the east opens at Petawawa Camp, Ont., April 28, running for two days. The final western round has been set for Winnipeg in the week ending April 29.

Coach Bob Guertin of the Hull Volants thinks his hockey team might defeat Sudbury Frood Open Pit Miners in the Eastern Canadian senior semi-final. But he didn't make any flat predictions when he arrived at Toronto with the team last night. Sudbury has already won two games with one tied in the best-of-five series. The tie game was in overtime and overtime was also necessary in the second game, won by Sudbury 5-4. The next game is Saturday at Toronto.

The possibility of the United States drafting 4-F ball players for essential work led Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, to suggest at Bear Mountain, N.Y., last night that major league clubs pool their players to keep baseball alive. But there's a catch. Rickey said: "I would be willing to put all but say 30 of our available men into a pool for distribution among all other major league clubs for the duration."

Hewitt Arranges Junior Finals

TORONTO, March 31.—(CP).—W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association, announced to-day that if Oshawa Generals defeat University of Ottawa in Oshawa to-night the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final series will open in Toronto next Monday between Generals and Montreal Royals.

Generals won the first game of their best-of-three series with the Ottawa team 11-3 in Toronto Wednesday night and are expected to wind up the series to-night.

The Memorial Cup final between the junior champions of Eastern and Western Canada will open in Toronto April 15. Mr. Hewitt announced.

Complete dates for the best-of-five Oshawa-Montreal series —depending on an Oshawa victory tonight—are: April 3 and 5, in Toronto; April 7 or 8 and April 10, in Montreal; April 12, in Toronto.

Should Hull Volants prolong their best-of-five Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final series with Frood Open Pit in their game here tomorrow night, the next game will be played here Tuesday, April 4. Frood won two of the three games played in Ottawa and one was tied and can settle the series with a victory to-morrow night. Winner of this series will play the winner of the best-of-five series between Quebec Aces and Truro Bearcats in which Aces hold a 2-0 lead.

Whirlaway Won 32 First Spots

TORONTO, March 31. — Whirlaway, winner of the 1941 Kentucky Derby, went on from there to become the record money-earning horse of all time.

He ran in 60 races, from 1940, when he was a two-year-old, until he was sent to the stud in mid-1943, and won 32. He had 15 seconds and nine thirds, and was out of the money only four times—an amazing record when it is recalled that he was racing against stake horses almost always throughout his brilliant career.

He lost about a dozen races because he ran wide at the home turn, losing many lengths. If it had not been for that sad fault he would have won over 40 of his 60 starts, and chalked up $750,000 or so, for himself. As it was, he added $561,161 to the coffers of his owner Warren Wright, which is more money than ever was gained by any racer in history.

Of the 32 races Whirlaway won, 24 were in stakes events. The record is 34 stakes race victories by Exterminator, who went to the post 100 times. Second honors go to Kingston, winner of 33 stakes races in 138 starts. Seabiscuit, who is third, won 27 stakes races— three more than Whirlaway—but he ran in 89 races, while Whirlaway was a contestant in only 60.

Exterminator was a gelding. His only worth as as a racer. He was kept at it until he was nine. Whirlaway was a colt — and is now a stallion. His owner can make far more money breeding him than he could by racing him. But had Whirlaway been a gelding, been raced until his great speed was gone, his total of money won woul have reached far higher totals than his present record.

Wins 256th Fight

HIGHLAND PARK, N.J., March 31 (CP)—Jerry Coursol, 138, Valley Stream, N.Y., registered his 256th consecutive victory in a boxing card here last night, knocking out Johnny Poergoda, 135, New York, in 44 seconds of the second of a scheduled six-round bout.

Coursol will leave for Canada Saturday at the expiration of his visa to visit the United States.

New Substance Waterproofs Ball Grounds

ST. LOUIS, March 31 —(AP)— "Game postponed, wet grounds," may disappear from baseball language if a chemically-treated resin combination developed by a powder company performs as well on the baseball diamond as it has for the armed forces.

It makes soil waterproof. Theodore Marvin, of the Hercules Powder Company, thinks it will do the same thing for basepaths, pitchers' mounds and batters' boxes.

"Of course we can't tell for certain how the substance will work in ball parks because we've been busy developing it for the army, but we'll soon know," Marvin said in an interview.

"The Wilmington, Del., park of the Inter-State League is being treated this week. Judging from the rain the Phillies encountered in spring training there, our product should get a rigid test."

This resin combination is a dry powder which is mixed into previously pulverized soil. The soil is then rolled, resulting in a waterproof surface retaining the same characteristics as the original soil.

"This compound probably can be adapted successfully to all types of outdoor athletic playgrounds," Marvin suggested, "but it would hardly be suitable for race tracks. What would the mudders do?"

Chicago Coach Didn't Think Team Would Win

By VERN DeGEER

MONTREAL, March 31—Now that it's Montreal Canadiens against Chicago Black Hawks in the 1943-44 Stanley Cup series, another strange chapter will be written in the book on the world's fastest sport.

Several weeks back Canadiens appeared in Chicago for a schedule game with the Hawks. Afternoon of the game Coach Dick Irvin paid a friendly visit to Black Hawk headquarters, old familiar stamping ground, for he was one of the "Originals" imported rom the west by the late Pete Muldoon in 1925-26.

Thompson Gloomy Too

Dick, long rated the gloomiest of the "Gloomy Gus" coaches of hockey found Coach Paul Thompson of the Hawks alone in his private office. He was surrounded by a mass of papers. He was the picture of distress.

"What's the trouble, Paul?' Irvin greeted his sad-eyed colleague in coaching crime.

"We can't make it, Dick," Thompson shook his head, "we can't make it."

"Can't make what?" Irvin asked, quickly recognizing a "Gloomy Gus" brother.

"Can't make the playoffs," said Thompson. "Look at these figures. I've been doping out the remaining games of all clubs. Im leaving Canadiens and Detroit out. They're safely in. Our battle is with Boston and Leafs. And no matter how I figure it out, the Hawks can't beat either of them."

Irvin studied Thompson's vital statistics, which included possible wins at home and away for Chicago, Toronto and Boston.

"I notice," said Irvin, "you're not figuring on Canadiens to do better than break even in five games they have with Toronto and Boston."

"Why should I?" demanded Thompson. "In fact I'll wager you the best hat in Chicago you won't help us."

"Tell you what I'll do," said Irvin. "We have three more games with Leafs, two with Boston. It's a hat that we pick up ten points, knocking off all five games."

Shortly before the end of the regular schedule Canadiens were back in Chicago again. Irvin was back at Hawks' headquarters.

Thompson was no longer a "Gloomy Gus." His Hawks were in the thick of the playoff chase, although hard-pressed by Boston. Canadiens had picked up eight points, beating Leafs three times, Boston once . . . and still had a game to go against the Bruins. (Bruins incidentally bobbed up with a surprise win over Canadiens in this one).

"You've got a new hat, Dick," Thompson greeted the Montrealers' skipper. "If it hadn't been for Canadiens we wouldn't have been within striking distance of the playoffs. Now I'm convinced we'll make it, thanks to our own improved play and the assist from Canadiens."

Irvin Grins!!

Irvin grinned broadly as he told us the story in the lobby of Leaf headquarters Thursday morning.

"I remember telling Paul I figured the playoff transportation setup would be ideal. I pointed out it would be Canadiens against Leafs for short railway hauls, and Chicago against Detroit. And to complete the picture I told Paul it looked as if Hawks and Canadiens would be fighting it out for the cup."

Dick must be dealing in magic mirrors.

Canadiens' Victory Sets Scoring Record

MONTREAL, March 31 (CP) — The 11-0 score which last night enabled Montreal Canadiens to capture their Stanley Cup semi-final series with Toronto Maple Leafs was unofficially labelled a new modern record for Stanley Cup playoffs.

The 11-point margin had never been even remotely reached in any Stanley Cup playoff scoring. Closest appeared to be a 9-4 score during the 1936 Stanley Cup playoff series between Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 31 — (CP).—The situation on the junior hockey fronts has many fans a little dizzy trying to keep up with it all. The Trail Smoke Eaters incident was the most serious because the player involved was a trifle too aged for the league, but the perfectly legal transfer of players from club to club has many sport followers growling in different parts of the country.

Oshawa Generals downed St. Michael's and then by the rules were allowed to take four of their players as replacements as they went along the playoff trail. Similar transers have been going on all along the line, and deep, dark mutterings of "professionalism replacing true aamteur sport" are heard from different sport writers.

To make it all more confusing, the juniors and juveniles have been getting tangled up in Kitchener, St. Catharines, and other centres, where boys play for a time with one class of team and then switch back to another. It's got so now the fan doesn't know just who he will see on the ice when he goes to a game.

Of course, the French have a phrase putting the onus on the war, and perhaps when things get back to normal again, everything will be changed. But thinking it over, that mightn't be such a good idea, because the present system certainly makes for better hockey, and that is what John Fan wants. Hang the ethics and let the stars fall where they may, could be his slogan.

Recollection:

Anyone who putters around with old hockey record books will have noted that an old-time secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association is in the news. He is Senator W. A. Buchanan, newly-elected president of The Canadian Press. He was O.H.A. secretary before the present incumbent, W. A. Hewitt, took over in 1903.

Incidentally:

Ernie Brown, former assistant golf pro at Jericho and Jasper in the Western playgrounds, wants to promote a High School Golf League, something new in divot doings. Ernie, now a simon-pure at Quilchena, B.C., suggests teams of eight players, with points given for singles as well as four-ball golf ....When Port Arthur bested St. James Canadians it marked the first time since 1934 a Lakehead team ousted the Manitoba champion in Memorial Cup play...Steve Saprunoff, spare goalie with Trail Smoke Eaters seniors a few years ago, is a prisoner of war in Germany, Saprunoff, an R.C.A.F warrant officer was first reported missing about two weeks ago.

Hawks, Montreal In Finals For Stanley Cup

DETROIT, March 31 — (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks last night wrote finis to any hope Detroit Red Wings held of entering the Stanley Cup final when they walloped the Wings 5-2 in the fifth game of their best-of-seven series. Chicago took the series 4-1 and will enter the final against Montreal Canadiens who eliminated Toronto Maple Leafs last night.

Doug Bentley again held the stellar role, netting three of the five tallies while Johnny Gottselig and George Allen contributed one goal each. Detroit's tallies came off the sticks of Bill Quackenbush and Joe Carveth.

A crowd of 12,791 saw Quackenbush lift the Red Wings into a 1-0 lead early in the first period when he converted Mud Bruneteau's pass. Detroit held the lead till near the end of the frame when Bentley drew his first goal with Allen and Earl Seibert drawing assists.

The game was deadlocked all through the second stanza but early in the last period Gottselig teamed up with Clint Smith and Art Wiebe to send the Black Hawks ahead. Bentley added his second goal with Virgil Johnson assisting before Carveth took Murray Armstrong's pass to beat Mike Karakas for the second Detroit counter.

Bentley's third goal came on a pass from Smith, and Allen was assisted by Cliff Purpur and Cully Dahlstrom.

The victory was the second for Chicago on Detroit ice during the play-off series. Hawks won the first game of the semi-final at Detroit with the Red Wings winning the second. Chicago took both games played on home ice and completed the series last night.

Before the current playoff series, the Hawks had been without a Detroit victory in four years but they broke the jinx in the first game.

The Hawks played last night's game without the servives of two right wingers. Both Bill Mosienko and Mush March suffered injuries in Tuesday night's encounter at Chicago. Mosienko suffered a shoulder injury and March a battered knee.

Both probably will be back in the playing ranks for the first game of the series with Montreal which opens in the Canadian city next Tuesday.

Hershey Ties Series Defeating Cleveland

By The Canadian Press

The American Hockey League semi-finals between Hershey Bears and Cleveland will be decided at Cleveland Saturday night following Hershey's 5-3 victory last night which tied up the series at three games each.

For a time last night it looked as if the Barons might clinch the series when Pete Horeck tallied in the initial frame and Earl Bartholome added another at the beginning of the second. Then the Bears launched a four-goal rally, rapping home tallies by Prentice, Pozzo, Harms and Lauzon to take a commanding lead.

Pozzo made the issue final by firing a goal at the start of the third period, though Barons' desperate offensive efforts netted them another tally late in the third by Lou Trudel.

Canadiens Blank Toronto To Take Series

By HAROLD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, March 31 —(CP)—Montreal Canadiens went more than slightly berserk in the third period last night, and rattled home seven goals that gave them an 11-0 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs and a green light into the Stanley Cup finals.

A crowd of 13,215, largest hockey crowd in the 20-year-year history of the Forum, saw a game that was far from one-sided throughout the first two periods, despite the four goals Canadiens pushed past Paul Bibeault, but which degenerated into a scoring parade in the third.

The crack-up of the Toronto defence, a feature of the first four games of the best-of-seven series, was sudden and complete near the halfway mark in the period. Canadiens rapped home five goals in three minutes and 36 seconds as they rode in on Bibeault almost at will.

Ray Getliffe, Maurice Richard, Murphy Chamberlain and Toe Blake led the Canadien snipers with two goals each, while Phil Watson, Butch Bouchard and Buddy O'Connor bagged the others. At the other end of the rink, Bill Durnan was outstanding on the few occasions he was under pressure, to chalk up the first playoff shutout of his N.H.L. career.

With Chicago Black Hawks winding up their series against Detroit Red Wings at the same time, the first game of the finals was set for Montreal next Tuesday night, with the second and third games in Chicago Thursday and Sunday. After that the best-of-seven series will be played to a finish in Montreal.

Getliffe and Watson sent Canadiens off along victory trail in the first period, and Richard and Chamberlain raised the count to 4-0 in the second. It was still a hockey game when Bouchard made it 5-0 early in the third.

Then the Toronto defence cracked wide open. Blake scored one at 7.56 and added another at 8.37. Richard bagegd another at 9.17. Getliffe followed with one at 10.33 and O'Connor put the finishing touches on the rout at 11.34. After that, Chamberlain's counter at 15.41 was strictly anti-climax.

Offer $711,881 For Theatre

TORONTO, March 31.— Theatre Properties (Hamilton) Ltd. has offered $711,881 in its own bonds and shares for the assets of Hamilton United Theatres Ltd., and J. J. Fitzgibbons, president of Famous Players Canadian Corp., has addressed a letter to the shareholders of Hamilton United with a straight offer of $831,931. Mr. Fitzgibbons explains in the letter that Famous Players did not know the property was for sale until March 23, when it received notice of meeting to consider the first offer. Thereupon Famous Players offered the Hamilton United directors $822,854 and a further sum equal to dividends accrued from the beginning of the year of the 7 per cent preference shares.

The meeting of Hamilton United Theatres shareholders on April 3 to consider the two offers will be of wide interest. It is not only because the Famous Players offer is $120,050 more than the offer to be considered at the meeting, but because it is a sure sign that the rivalry for the moving picture business of Canada, indicated by the withdrawal of the big Canadian chain of the late N. L. Nathanson in 1941, has only been in abeyance because of the war. It is likely to flame out in postwar years again when licenses to build and purchase properties can once again be obtained with ease.

At the time of the split-up it was announced that the Odeon Theatres, headed by Paul Nathanson, would establish a chain of theatres in Canada. It had already a good start, and it is believed that the chain has now about 94 theatres, with nearly 66,000 seats. That compares with a total of 1,275 moving picture theatres in Canada accounting for 706,173 seats. Famous Players has 327 theatres with 306,995 seats, includng the largest theatres in the most populous centres. Odeon Theatres is, therefore, in second place and the third place is held by the F. F. Spencer circuit in the Maritimes. It consists of 20 theatres with 12,684 seats and it has been well operated under the same management for many years.

Members Argue Labor Bill Far Into Night

TORONTO, March 31 (CP)—The Ontario legislature meets at 2 p.m. EDT instead of the usual three o'clock in a drive to complete as much business as possible before the week end, after a night sitting which ran past midnight and at which second reading was given the government bill making the federal labor code applicable to virtually all provincial industry.

The night sitting, too, saw a division upholding one of Speaker W. J. Stewart's rulings 46-30—the first time since 1935 such a vote has been taken.

The debate on the labor bill occupied the House much of the afternoon and almost all the night sitting. It came in for some opposition criticism.

Arthur Williams, C.C.F. member for Ontario, said the House was being urged to keep on experimenting with labor legislation. He said the opposition had asked Labor Minister Daley to bring forth the provincial labor bill but the minister had not produced it although he had said he had it.

"I'm quite certain that if he had that legislation he would be brandishing it from one end of the country to the other," Mr. Williams said.

When Attorney-General Blackwell asked for a withdrawal on grounds Mr. Williams' statement implied untruthfulness, Speaker Stewart concurred. Finally the member for Ontario said: "I don't know what I'm withdrawing but whatever it was I do so but with strong objection."

The Speaker ruled there must be no reservation. E. O. Jolliffe, C.C.F. leader, challenged the ruling and there was a formal division.

All 12 Liberals present and Mitchell Hepburn (Ind.-Lib.-Elgin) sided with the Government while A. A. MacLeod of Toronto Bellwoods and J. B. Salsberg of Toronto St. Andrew, the two Labor-Progressives, voted with the C.C.F.

The last such vote in the Ontario House was in 1936 when Mr. Hepburn, then Liberal premier, was successful in an appeal from a ruling by Speaker Norman Hipel.

Other speakers besides Mr. Williams during the day-long debate on the labor bill were C. H. Millard (C.C.F.-York West), Mr. Blackell, Labor Minister Daley, R. H. Carlin (C.C.F.-Sudbury), Mr. Salsberg, F. C. Robinson (C.C.F.-Port Arthur), Mr. Jolliffe and Liberal Leader Nixon.

Mr. Daley announced the Government's intention to include under the labor code the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission which a present is excluded along with farmers, domestic servants, policemen and employees of municipal bodies.

Cancer Foundation

Premier Drew proposed the setting up of a representative Legislatie Committee to study the question of election voting in Ontario particularly in regard to the service vote.

Health Minister Vivian announced appointment of a seven-member Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation to conduct a program of diagnosis, treatment and research into a disease which Dr. Vivian termed a "problem of the first magnitude." The foundation will comprise Lt.-Col. A. L. Bishop, Toronto, chairman; Arthur R. Ford, London; Dr. George S. Young and Robert Brown, Toronto; Malcolm Cochrane, Port Arthur; Dr. R. K. Stratford, Sarnia; and Kenneth Emerson Deacon, Unionville. Others will be added later.

The House gave second reading to a measure making broad changesh in the Public Health Act, providing closer control of public health with a "preventative service on the municipal measures."

In the Truk attack 90 Japanese fighters attempted interception, harassing the bombers on their homeward flight. The communique said five to 20 of the interceptors were shot down, while the attackers lost but one plane, with others damaged.

In the blow at Hollandia, west of Wewak, bombers smashed 108 enemy planes on the ground, the communique said.

The attackers dropped 15,600 fragmentation bombs on the heavy concentration of Japanese planes, and the last wave over the base Wednesday fought off 40 enemy interceptors, shooting down at least 10. Allied losses were described as "negligible."

Quads Healthy Father In 1A Category

NEW YORK, March 31—(AP)— The one-day-old Zarief quadruplets ate, slept and wiggled in their incubator-cribs today as their father, a 33-year-old violinist, viewed with conflicting emotions his 1-A draft status.

Mrs. Isidore Miller, maternal grandmother of the three girls and one boy born Wednesday to the Harry Zariefs in Sloan Hospital for Women, said her son-in-law had been called for military service, but two months ago was deferred by the draft board when he said he expected to become the father of quadruplets.

When Zarief produced a letter from his wife's physician he was deferred until after the confinement.

Sloane Hospital authorities, in bulletins issued throughout the day, said mother and children were in good condition. Eleanor Zarief, 27-year-old former dancer, spent the morning reading newspaper accounts of the birth of the quadruplets.

The infants, all weighing about five pounds at birth, had their first formula feeding at 9 a.m. today. They slept well last night, the hospital said, and were given occasional fluid feedings of sugar and water.

Mrs. Miller said there would be a family conference before the children were named, but that the boy probably would be named after Dr. Benjamin L. Watson, who delivered them.

Ninth Raid

The attack on Nuremberg — the scene of Adolf Hitler's pre-war Nazi party rallies and the peacetime centre of the toy industry—was the ninth of the war on that city.

Previous blows had devastated 108 acres of Nuremberg's built-up area. The heaviest previous bomb load for that target was 1,680 tons on Aug. 27, 1943 when the city was last hit in force.

The city is one of the most important railway and industrial centres of Southern Germany. It is the site of such warplants as the M.A.N. Diesel engine works, the Faun Motor Works, the Siemens-Schukert Electrical Works and other plants turning out tanks, armored vehicles, aircraft components, searchlights and other frontline equipment.

It is the junction of railway lines leading from the Ruhr to Southeast Germany and from Berlin to Munich and Italy. It had a peace-time population of 450,000.

The industrial area is chiefly in the southern outskirts which extend to suburban Furth, where a big Messerschmitt factory is located.

The record loss suffered by the R.A.F.—which the Germans attributed to their fighters rather than to their ground defences—demonstrated that Goering's air force still has a potent wallop on the occasions when it cares to take the risk.

It served as a reminder of the statement of Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair this week that the German fighter force is massed in western Europe and has many vicious battles in its system yet.

While the loss was considerably above anything the R.A.F. previously had suffered—the previous top loss was 79 in the raid on Leipzig on Feb. 19—and also beyond the record United States bomber loss of 68 in the daylight raid on Berlin March 6, it failed to compare numerically with the 185 planes which the Germans lost in the biggest day over Britain on Sept. 15, 1940.

Norwood Lady Dies At Age 99

NORWOOD, March 31—(ENS).—Member of one of the pioneer families of Peterborough county, Mrs. William Morrow, formerly of Norwood, passed away on Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Atchison, 253 Burnham Street, Peterborough. She was in her 99th year.

Born Ann J. Hill, she was one of a family of four of the late Thomas Hill, who lived in Dummer township many years ago. She was married to William Morrow, who for many years served as caretaker at the abandoned Stoney Lake copper mines after they were closed due to flooded conditions over a half-century ago. Following the death of her husband 38 years ago, Mrs. Morrow moved west and for a long time made her home at Moose Jaw.

She leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, Mrs. W. G. Atchison (Flora), Peterborough, and Mrs. David Johnston (Ella); and a son, James. Mrs. Thomas McMaster, a niece, lives in Norwood.

Y's Men Hear Procedure Talk

The development of parliamentary procedure was described as a tribute to the good sense of the English people in an address on Thursday night before the Y's Men's Club by F. B. Smitheram, teacher of Social Studies at the Normal School.

"From the beginnings of its growth out of the Anglo-Saxon moots to the stage to-day where speech in the British Parliament and other Parliaments and bodies modelled on it is freer than anywhere else in the world, parliamentary procedure expresses the adaptability of the English people," Mr. Smitheram said.

In an address in which he dealt with the principal types of meetings, discussed the various stages of handling motions and explained the functions of the chair, Mr. Smitheram indicated that "parliamentary procedure, which makes for the orderly conduct of business, is briefly a matter of common courtesy and commonsense."

He also told his audience that informal tests taken some time ago in London revealed that the best-attended meetings were invariably those which had a reputation for starting on time.

The speaker of the evening was introduced by Quirt McKinney, and the vote of thanks, moved by Cecil Osborne, was passed on to Mr. Smitheram by the clubs president, George Moore.

Soldier Hospitalized For Second Injury

Moved to England, because he was suffering from wounds received in Italy, Pte. Joseph McIntosh is again in an English hospital, with leg, side and jaw injuries. Although there is no definite information available, it is believed he may have been hurt during one of the raids.

Pte. McIntosh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McIntosh, Ford Avenue, and he is the only Canadian in his ward at the hospital. This boy writes home that he has found the nurses and doctors very kind and he feels he has always known his ward comrades.

Injured in the early stages of the battle for Ortona, Pte. McIntosh had an 8-ton carrier run over his hand, crushing it and breaking two fingers. When it healed he went back into action, but injured it a second time, and was moved to England. He is with the R.C.O.C.

Good Neighbors Approach $900 For Fund

Groups or individuals having a real desire to be of some service in the things that count for the good of other people, have no idea of the potential that lies within their own grasp until they get right down to the job. This has proven to be the case with the work carried on for some time by the Good Neighbor Group, which had its inception from the desire of two neighbors, Mrs. P. Kitchen and Mrs. W. Townsley living beside each other on Ware Street to do something to assist the sufferers who had been stricken through air raids over Britain.

Commencing in a small way in the first instance by holding euchre parties in their homes, these two ladies soon gathered around them a loyal group of women who had similar aspirations, and gave to their leadership a goodly support which now has come to be recognized as one of the major efforts of its kind on behalf of the objects that the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund seeks to serve.

It is about two years since they first began this work, and by constant effort up to Christmas of last year they had managed to roll up a splendid total of $834.05 raised for the fund, which is a tribute to the ability they have displayed in this labor of love for others in distress, even though it happens to be on behalf of people three thousand miles away.

Raise Another $25

In recent times, this group has once more resumed its good work with the holding of euchre parties at the homes of Mrs. W. Townsley Mrs. J. Reynolds on George and and Mrs. P. Kitchen on Ware street. Between them have raised another $25 for the fund, giving them a total of $859.05 raised to this date, a wonderful achievement for this type of effort which takes a premier position in its own field of endeavour.

It now seems quite within the range of possibility that this group will, in the not too distant future take its place among the select circle of those who have raised $1,000 or more to help the bomb victims in Britain back to some semblance of their former ways of life. They have now gone over 85 per cent of the journey towards that objective.

Bradshaw, 678 Bethune street and Bradshaw's machine was pushed forward into contact with another parked automobile owned by A. J. Arnott, Crawford's Grove.

The front of Blair's truck was damaged to the extent of $73 while both the back and front of Bradshaw's car and the rear-end of the Arnott vehicle suffered considerably as a result of the impact.

U.E. Union Discusses Broader Interests

Activities of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers in a broad field beyond their shop interests were cited by C. S. Jackson, district president of the Union, in a talk to local members Wednesday night.

Improvement in labor regulations and the deferred payment plan for income tax arrears were the subject of two appeals by the "U.E." which had come to satisfactory issue.

"This Union" Mr. Jackson said "had also sponsored the petition to the Federal government when seventy-five delegates some weeks ago went to Ottawa to protest against stringent labor laws being passed."

Accomplishment of such projects was possible, Mr. Jackson stated, only by labor's unified efforts not only in seeking better wages and working conditions and bringing about understanding in management-labor relations, but also in the production of war materials and questions of general good effect in the community. Employees should try to inform themselves on all public questions and at the same time strengthen their organization in Peterborough. Mr. Jackson made a special plea to workers to speed up the organizational drive.

350 Children Of Public Schools Acclaimed At Music Festival

A massed choir of more than 200 voices under the direction of Miss Musa Cox, AT.C.M., supervisor of music in the public schools, highlighted the Music Festival at the Collegiate Thursday night, when 350 students from all the public schools in the city took part in a well executed program.

Evidence of the careful training given for months in advance of the concert was seen in the way the choral groups handled their phrasing, breathing, diction and interpretation. Even with the youngest of the performers, the words of their songs were clearly audible throughout the hall. Their task was made more difficult because they have been training in much smaller rooms.

The final number given by the massed choirs, "For God and King and Right," swept the show to a triumphant conclusion. A patriotic song, it was developed dramatically, rising to a swelling climax, emphasizing the solemn thoughts and responsibilities of citizens. Interpretation and diction were handled excellently

Lively Number

Under Miss Cox' capable conducting, these students from Grades 6, 7 and 8, showed their versatility in the lilting Australian importation "Waltzing Matilda" The sprightly air has become very popular with the youthful choristers, and they put their hearts into their presentation. Shading and expression were good.

Two songs featuring descants, presented them with a more difficult task, but they rose to the occasion. A sea shanty, "Shenandoah," with its rhythmic cadences and its soft, sometimes melancholy, strains, delighted the audience, and the descant was well balanced with the other parts. The second descant selection was "Christ The Lord Is Risen Today." The contrasts in shading in the verses made it an effective number. Other songs included "Jerusalem," "Land of Hope and Glory," and "Begone Dull Care," adding variety to a sparkling program.

Forget Audience

The smaller pupils stole the show, quite unconsciously, with their folk dances and pantomime. Children from Queen Alexandra and Queen Mary Schools, under the direction of Miss Isabel Connolly and Margaret Harris, carried out the pantomime, "The Pied Piper." The story began with the children dancing happily, watched benevolently by the civic dignitaries. Then came the rats, who got a big kick out of their part of the show. Costumed appropriately, they swarmed across the stage terrorizing all. Then the Pied Piper appears, drives them away, and settles the situation happily.

Tricky Steps

Pupils of Grades 3 and 4 at King Edward School, directed by Miss E. Sellon, presented "Kanafaska," a Czechoslovak dance. In their bright peasant costumes, they formed a pretty picture following through the intricate steps of the Slavic dance. A Danish folk dance, provided the comedy for the evening. This was performed by Grades 3 and 4 King George School, directed by Mrs. J. Payne. Their utter naturalness captivated the audience.

Grades 1 and 2 at Central School directed by Miss Estella Bennett, Ethelwyn Dix and Margaret Whittaker, illustrated Singing Games, such as are used in class. A large section of the class acted as the chorus singing "See Saw, Marjory Daw," "Crooked Man" and "Ride a Cock Horse" while a smaller group at the front of the stage performed the actions.

Two well contrasted numbers, "Blow The Man Down" and "A Hammock Song," were sung by the Central Senior Choir, trained by Miss Marion Beals and conducted by Miss Cox. The rhythm in the first was well defined and the harmonizing provided enjoyment. The delicate strains of the second number were handled with finesse. The catchy tune appealed to the group and they entered into the spirit of the song, even to the end, drifting into lazy, sleepy tones.

On Their Toes

Two difficult numbers were handled well by Queen Mary pupils. A Welsh song, "David of the White Rock," called for particular effort. A minor air, it also included a descant, which while strange, made an effective change from their second number, "Killarney." They were trained by O. M. Steer and directed by Miss Cox.

Miss Margaret Eastwood trained and conducted the King George senior choir. A song, "Spring Bells" was a tuneful melody which appealed to them and they imparted the necessary light touch to the music. They also presented "The Kerry Dance," paying careful attention to shading.

A group of 35 pupils made up the Intermediate Choir from Prince of Wales. Trained by Miss Alberta Hunter and directed by Miss Cox, they gave a splendid performance. Their portrayal of the humorous song, "The Owl and the Pussycat," was the best of their selections. They were freer, and their enunciation and expression made it a good tale. In different vein were "April Rain" and "Fairy Counterpane," calling for a light touch, which their clear sweet voices provided.

The Queen Alexandra Senior Choir gave an enjoyable interpretation of the light tripping measures of "Now Is the Month of Maying." Their clear diction was an outstanding feature. "Jeanie With The Light Brown Hair," also made a pleasing number. They were trained and conducted under the capable leadership of Mrs. Charles Pilon.

The only male conductor was Arnold Noftall of Prince of Wales School. Under his direction the Senior Choir presented the rousing "Viking Song," a Scandinavian chant, with its swift moving, decisive phrases. The choir developed this workers theme smoothly and showed a different technique in the handling of "My Love's An Arbutus." Unaccompanied, all sections of the choir, toned down and dovetailed their volume, making a charming impression.

Written as a satire on Handel "Jack and Jill," indicated hours of work as King Edward senior choir, trained and conducted smoothly by Miss Margaret Dickson, showed mastery of a difficult song. Their vivid shading and expression, eased the way to tricky phrases and fast moving notes. They exhibited the ability to hold themselves back, when necessary, in the singing of "Cherry Ripe."

The accompanist for the evening was Gwen Craw, and her sensitive understanding touch, was of distinct benefit to both choirs and conductors. At all times playing clearly, she made her instrument, secondary to the voices of the choruses. Miss Harris, Miss Sellon and Miss Whitaker, played for the folk dances.

Much of the success of the dances can be attributed to the work of the Household Economics classes. Under the guiding hand of Miss Dorothy Shannon, the pupils made all the bright, intriguing costumes, without which, the dances would have been tame. There were 115 of the younger pupils taking part in these dances, singing games and pantomimes. The program is being repeated this evening.

Millbrook Flier Said Missing

H. R. ARMSTRONG
Millbrook, Ont.

MILLBROOK, March 31—(ENS)—WO1 Herbert Roderick Armstrong, R.C.A.F., who has been serving overseas for some time, has been reported missing after air operations. He is the son of Mrs. H. R. Armstrong and the late Mr Armstrong.

Even while he worked at Coombe's store, he kept up an unrivalled interest in R.C.A.F. activities and about two years ago he enlisted in the service. Two brothers, Major Gordon and A. T. Armstrong of Peterborough are in the Army and Air Force respectively.

Japs Renew Pact

MOSCOW, March 31—(AP)—The Soviet Union renewed its fisheries pact with Japan yesterday, granting Japanese companies the right to fish in Russian far eastern waters. The 1943 pact expired Dec. 31 and a renewal has been under negotiation since that time.

Unusual Charge

OTTAWA, March 31—(CP)—Asking that operations of the National Film Board be carefully investigated, Rodney Adamson (PC-York West) said last night in the Commons that the Board was acting as an agency for Soviet propaganda.

Monaghan Will Lose Its Deputy Reeve

Eight of the ten elected municipal officers of North Monaghan will part company with the told township when the suburban annexations take effect on January 1 next.

Reeve Melville Johnston will be the only survivor of the present council as Councillors Grady, Roberts and Cassan join Deputy-Reeve A. W. Archibald within the expanded city borders.

Fred Stenson will lose the association in school trusteeship of Walter Bannon, Jack Sinclair, Gerald Cuffe and Bert May.

The township will lose its status which gave warrant to the election of a deputy-reeve, and the County Council's company will be reduced by one, from eighteen to seventeen, as the chair presently occupied by Alex. Archibald will be vacated. Only two deputy-reeves will remain, those from Otonabee and Smith.

To Carry On

It is altogether likely that Reeve Johnston will be asked by his rural ratepayers to carry on through 1945, and to take under his wing some of the neighbors and teach them municipal administration. The suburban group has been such a dominant and majority part of the Council for so long that the schooling of country dwellers in managing the township's affairs has been greatly neglected.

Mr. Stenson will be left with the problem of directing a new school board through the problems of providing new accomodation, building or buildings, for the remnant fringe of the suburbs.

An official of the township remarked to The Examiner this morning that although the residents near the city border had been for quite a long time the major influence in the affairs of the municipality, it was now a pleasant fact that as the parting of the ways approaches the two groups continue as they have always been, on the best of terms.

No Complaints

"I don't think the farmers have any complaint about administration of the township and generally the way we have got along," said this commentator. "There has been little or no friction. Sometimes we might have thought we should have at least an extra man in the Council, but I can't say that I ever heard it mentioned. The fact is, that the suburban people have tried to be fair with the rest of us. That is the way it seems to me, and we have been fairly well united in spite of the differences between their needs and ours.

"Even in this annexation I think our people realize that the Council showed a fine spirit of unanimity and a desire to do their duty according to their pledge. Four of the five members of the Council are residents of the suburbs. They are coming into the city, but you never heard of any of them putting forth any personal interests, whether positive or negative, during all the course of negotiations with the city. Personally, I think our Council has come through this municipal crisis and change with a great deal of credit to themselves, and I think that is the general impression."

Children Underfed

OTTAWA, March 31 — (CP). — A recent investigation placed the number of undernourished children in Canada at 500,000, Paul Martin, Parliamentary Assistant to Labor Minister Mitchell, said last night in an address before a Y.M.C.A. meeting. Mr. Martin did not indicate who had made the investigation or when it had been completed.

On Vital Jobs

WASHINGTON, March 31—(AP)—Government agencies will recommend occupation draft deferment of men under 26 only in industries whose production or service is "so critical that the output is insufficient to support immediate war objectives," the new committee of manpower claimants announced last night.

FO. GEORGE A. WADDELL

FO. G. Waddell Reported Missing Overseas

BETHANY, March 31 — (ENS) —Word has been received by Mr and Mrs. G. W. Waddell, Wilson Street, that their son, Flying Officer George Alfred Waddell, is reported missing after air operations overseas.

Prior to enlisting with the R.C.A.F. in 1941, FO. Waddell was employed at Sudbury with the International Nickel Company. He went overseas in February, 1942, after training at Victoriaville, Picton, Edmonton, and Calgary.

Since his arrival overseas, he has covered a lot of territory and had some narrow escapes. On his way to Scotland, he narrowly missed being torpedoed when a destroyer took a torpedo meant for his troop ship. From Great Britain he went to North Africa where he was stationed for several months and more than a year ago he was transferred to the India Command.

FO. Waddell won his commission as pilot officer while he was in Africa, stationed at a field with 200 airmen It was awarded for efficiency, leadership qualities and meritorious service.

Farmers Given Time Extension

OTTAWA, March 31 (CP)—Selective Service officers have been granted authority to grant extension of temporary work permits to farmers in areas where the agricultural season is backward, Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service, said today.

Permits issued to farmers to take other work during the winter season expire April 1. Extensions will not be granted where they are needed on the farms but they may be allowed to continue in off-farm work in areas where the season is not sufficiently advanced for them to resume farm work.

Woman Sustains Three Broken Ribs

Mrs. Barbara Spiker, 41, of 175 River Road, sustained three broken ribs when she walked into the side of an automobile on Water street. Thursday night and was knocked down.

Mrs. Spiker was walking across the street in front of the Hollywood cafe from the north side to the south side when she collided with the side of a car driven east on Charlotte street by Stanley S. Darling, 451 Water street and fell to the pavement.

Darling helped the woman up and drove her to the home of her sister on Sherbrooke street. Mrs. Spiker did not think that she had been injured but when Dr. Herb. Young was called he found that three ribs on her right side were fractured.

Darling reported the accident at the police station and said that he was not driving fast.

Ration Books Distributed Total 37,000

Some 37,000 of the No. 4 ration books were distributed in the first four days of this week in the Peterborough district area, through the main distributing centre on Simcoe street, through a dozen of the larger industries and though subsidiary centres located in the townships of Douro, Ennismore, North Monaghan and Otonabee. This figure compares favorably with the results of the previous distribution which took place in August of last year.

A total of 17,173 books, only slightly under the figure of 17,433 for the August period, was given out at the Simcoe street Centre, E. A. Outram, secretary for the local Ration Board, said this morning, the final day accounting for 4,142 of that total. The larger factories took care of most of the rest of the books issued in the city itself, and an indication of the extent of their services to the cause is contained in the announcement that over 12,000 people received their books through the C.G.E. and Genelco alone.

Did Excellent Job

Mr. Outram expressed the appreciation of the local Ration Board to the workers in industries who contributed so well to the success of the week's work, and to the patriotic and public-spirited women under the leadership of Mrs. W. E. Fanning, whose tireless efforts resulted in such an "excellent job".

Gordon Houlden, ration officer for the central Ontario district spoke of the fine reputation Peterborough had attained in the eyes of Ontario rationing officials for its handling of the task of ration book distributing. He said that the Superintendent of Rationing for Ontario, James R. Martin, had come to the city and inspected the set-up and arrangements under which the local Ration Board functioned, and departed impressed with the fine manner in which the work was handled and the distribution advertised and brought to the attention of the public.

Mr. Houlden himself was emphatic in declaring that the city was indeed fortunate in having the public-spirited services of the women of the W.V.S. and the other organizations in carrying out the distribution and that "they have performed a remarkable job." In complimenting the Ration Board he singled out Mayor Hamilton, chairman of the board, and Mr. Outram, its secretary, for the fine manner in which they had brought the distributions to a happy and successful conclusion.

Works Board Makes Oil Company Pay More

Board of Works increased Thursday night from $5 to $50 a year its charge to Shell Oil Company for a right of way through the city yard on Townsend street to the company's gasoline tanks adjacent to the C.P.R.

The motion by Alderman Glover and Alderman Mark directed City Clerk Outram to inform the company that the gates to the Board of Works yard were not being kept shut as required in the easement agreement.

"Our yard is being left wide open at times," City Engineer Parsons said. Trucks go in for gasoline, especially during the summer months after the Board's working day is ended, and drivers neglect to shut them, according to the information last night.

Mr. Parsons said he was not placing the blame entirely on Shell Oil drivers, because the way through the yard was also used by Cities Service.

Home Made Hot Cross Buns Will Please the Family

Surprise and please your family this Easter by serving them home made hot cross buns on Good Friday morning. Although hot cross buns are traditionally an Easter specialty, they are good for return engagements at any breakfast table.

The buns may be made a day or two ahead of time and reheated to piping crispness. When you do this it is best to make them with a frosting cross just before serving.

Hot Cross Buns
First Recipe

- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons butter or shortening
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 yeast cake
- ¼ cup lukewarm water
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1½ cups flour
- ¾ teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- ½ cup seedless raisins
- 1 to 2 cups flour
- 1 egg, beaten

Scald the milk and add butter or shortening, then the two tablespoons of sugar and salt. Crumble the yeast cake into lukewarm water with the one tablespoon sugar and combine thoroughly. When milk is lukewarm add the dissolved yeast and 1½ cups of flour; beat it well. Cover and let rise until light and full of bubbles.

Add the cinnamon and egg, mix thoroughly and add the raisins and 1 to 2 cups flour, or enough to make a dough not too soft to knead. Let rise until double in bulk, turn on floured board, shape as large biscuits, place in a greased pan 1 inch apart, let rise, brush over with beaten egg and bake for 20 minutes in a 375-deg. F. oven. Make a cross of confectioners' icing on top of each bun.

Confectioners' Frosting

To 1 tablespoon hot water add sifted confectioners' sugar until thick. Add flavor to taste.

Hot Cross Buns
Second Recipe

2 cakes compressed yeast softened in

- ¼ cup lukewarm water
- 1 cup milk, scalded
- ¼ cup shortening
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 5 cups flour, sifted
- 2 eggs, beaten

Add shortening, sugar and salt to the scalded milk and cool the mixture to lukewarm. Add enough of the sifted flour to the cooled milk mixture to make a batter, and beat it well. Add softened yeast and beaten eggs, and again beat the batter until large bubbles rise to the surface

Add enough more of the flour, a half-cup at a time, so that as you stir the dough with a spoon it will clear the sides of the mixing bowl, yet will hold to the bottom. Turn the dough out on to a floured board ad allow it to stand for about 15 minutes. Then knead it lightly, using a small amount of flour in addition to that already added, if necessary. A good yeast dough is slightly sticky and must be handled lightly and quickly. Continue to knead until when pressure is applied and withdrawn the dough will spring back into place.

Grease a mixing bowl well and place the dough in it. Brush the top with melted fat, place the bowl in a warm place free of drafts, and allow the dough to rise until it is double in bulk.

When the dough is light shape it into small buns and place them on a greased baking sheet. With a sharp knife or scissors cut a cross in the top of each bun and brush with melted fat. Allow them to rise until they are double in bulk—about one-half hour.

Bake the buns in a 375-deg. F. oven for about 20 or 25 minutes, or until they are done. While they are still warm frost with confectioners' frosting, following the cross cut in the top. This recipe makes about three dozen buns.

Cinnamon and fruit may be added to the above recipe.

SHOULDER ROAST

When pennies count, fresh pork shoulder is a wise buy for a roast, If the butcher removes the shoulder bone and the space is filled with stuffing and then sewed up, the roast is easy to carve. A 5 or 6 pound shoulder is a good sized roast. Make a bread stuffing with savory seasoning liked chopped celery and parsley. Lay the shoulder fat side down, pile in some of the stuffing, begin to sew the edges of the shoulder together to form a pocket, and gradually work in the rest of the stuffing. This compact "cushion" roast requires about 45 minutes to the pound in a moderate oven.

Fascinators Help Protect Hair On Windy Days

Just the thing to protect the hair on windy spring days is the old-fashioned fascinator, which has enjoyed a revival lately. One of the reasons for its popularity is that it can be slipped down under the collar of a coat while in a store or on the bus, and easily brought up into place again outside.

The newest style being featured in fascinators is one made of chenille. Although not too heavy, this style is warm and cosy, and very smart in a variety of shades, such as rose, blue, green, and black. The warm head-shawl is still in demand, but is fast being replaced by the fascinator for spring wear.

The latest forecast for late spring and summer wear shows that colored hair nets are carrying out the fascinator idea. These nets, in a variety of colors, can be worn with or without a hat, making it equally appropriate for the Easter parade with a new chapeau, and at the beach, or at parties, worn by itself.

The nets are not expensive, and are made in both fine mesh and sturdier weaves. One great advantage is that they suit all types of hair styles, and look equally smart with short or long bobs, chignon or upswept styles. They are easily washed, and therefore are fresh at all times, and can be trimmed with ribbons, jewelled clips, or artificial or real flowers, to give a dressy effect for evening wear.

Army Auxiliary To Operate Letter Service

Members of the Peterborough Active Army Auxiliary will have a letter box into which the members will put the names and addresses of soldiers, particularly those with no close relatives. These will be drawn by the members who will write to the boys. This was decided at the regular meeting of the auxiliary, held Thursday, with Mrs. J. A. Dewart presiding.

The visiting committee reported 14 visits to families of recent casualties. Mrs. B. D. Hall told of four cases where soldiers' families needed assistance, and the auxiliary decided to help them. Mrs. T. F. Brain told of airgraphs and cigarettes sent during the past month to 26 Peterborough soldiers who were either wounded or prisoners of war. The total cost was $24.48. This service is to be continued as an auxiliary project.

Mrs. Dewart congratulated the members on the success of the recent St. Patrick's tea, sponsored by the auxiliary. She also extended the auxiliary's thanks to Mrs. L. Tompkins, who donated the cake for the draw, and Mrs. King, who donated the pillow-slips.

The program was in charge of Mrs. R. Merrett's group. Mrs. D. A. MacTavish gave several readings. Two were poems of Dr. William Henry Drummond; the third was an amusing monologue of a woman soliloquizing before her mirror, while the fourth was A. P. Herbert's "It's My Day Out." Mrs. L. Groombridge sang "Bless This House" and "Just a'Wearin' For You." Refreshments were served by the social committee.

Mrs. John Wood Addresses WCTU

Miss E. Might, W.C.T.U. president, presided for the Easter meeting held Thursday in the green room at the Y.W.C.A. and led the opening business session.

The Local Council was reported by Mrs. G. Cole and reports were received from secretary and treasurer.

An Easter devotional service was led by Mrs. A. H. Campbell, who spoke on the "ifs" of the Bible, reading passages of scripture to illustrate her subject, and prayer was offered by Mrs. E. Wand.

Mrs. John Wood, of the Salvation Army was guest speaker and spoke from St. John's Gospel 12:24.

In introducing her subject, "The Miracle of Spring and Easter" Mrs. Wood referred briefly to the origin of the Salvation Army which was in response to the need for help among bar-rooms in London, England. Every member of the Salvation Army is pledged to total abstinence.

Continuing, she pointed out that, while the lily bulb appears dead and brown, when planted will bloom at the proper time, and seeds, if not planted, are useless. This Easter time recalls the death of Christ and how fruitful has been His death for all humanity. It also is shown as bearing the fruit of sympathy when bereavement enters a home, Mrs. Wood declared.

In closing the speaker quoted an Easter poem and urged her audience "not to lay up earthly possessions but treasures in heaven."

"State medical care of alcohol addicts" was the subject of the clip sheet discussion led by Miss Might, assisted by several ladies.

"Open the Gates of the Temple" was the lovely message in song by Mrs. G. H. Cutmore accompanied by Mrs. E. W. Glover.

SPRING TERM FASHIONS—Made in jumper style, with ruffled suspender straps and gathered skirts, these short-sleeved frocks shown here in two sister sizes are made of spun rayon and wool tartan, warm but light. Big sister and little sister, with another term of school ahead, need new frocks which have some warmth for Spring, a light effect to carry on to Summer. A good suggestion for fabric is spun rayon, and you see it above in a twill weave with added wool content. The plaid is bright, on a white background.

JUST FOR WOMEN

SPRING FORMALS.

A favorite style in youthful evening frocks is a dark sweater-like top and a bright, billowy skirt. Sleek rayon jersey in black or navy blue make a pretty bodice for an evening frock of white net. However, any suitable combination of colors or materials can be used. Jackets, worn over formal gowns, give a smart and new appearance to an ensemble.

Evening headwear has not changed much, and tiny clusters of feathers, or flowers are still popular, as well as simple, colorful ribbons.

A great many housewives are doing their own sewing and mending these days, and are finding themselves pressed for time on many occasions. Here are a few time-saving tips which will, perhaps, be of value to some women.

To simplify using shields in garments, place half of a snap fastener at each of the four corners of the shield, and the other half on the seams of the garments, to fit the snaps on the shield. Thus a great deal of time, generally lost in removing and replacing shields, is saved.

To mend a woollen sweater which, although it still has a great deal of wear, has a large hole or rip, try basting a piece of material on the wrong side. Then darn through the patch and the sweater. In this way, the darn is stronger, and the garment has kept its shape.

When sewing chair material on the sewing machine, slip a piece of thin paper under the material to keep it from puckering. It's also a good idea to wash a scrap of the material with a dress, or have a piece cleaned when the garment is cleaned, to be fore-armed in patching operations.

CLEANING HINTS.

Special care should be taken of electrical appliances these days, since a great many of them will not be on the market again until after the war. Waffle irons should be cleaned carefully with a wire brush after using. It should then be wiped with a damp cloth, and dried thoroughly with a soft cloth.

The bag of the family vacuum cleaner should be turned inside out every two or three weeks, and the inside given a thorough brushing with a stiff brush, taking care, however, not to puncture the bag. The bag should never be washed. For vacuum cleaners with paper bags, it is best to change the bags often.

To remove stains from piano keys, rub them with oxalic acid. An occasional rub with a soft cloth, dipped in alcohol, will keep the keys white.

Four Soloists Make Up Bary Ensemble

When Gertrude Bary, pianist, decided to found the Bary Ensemble, it was her ambition to create interest in the forming of chamber music groups. This Ensemble, which is performing at the Collegiate Saturday night in the final performance of the Concert series, has increased in popularity since its inception.

Each of the artists is a soloist in her own right. Miss Bary has toured Europe and the United States giving recitals and appearing as soloist with prominent orchestras. Lorna Wren, who uses a sterling silver flute, was first flutist with Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra for a number of years. She has played with the Orchestra Classique and the New York Oratorio Society.

The remaining two artists have become well known in their fields too. The violinist, Mara Sebriansky, made her debut in Town Hall as winner of the Naumburg Foundation Award. Her violin is a Carlo Tononi labelled 1703. Virginia Peterson, cellist, has appeared with many eminent ensembles among which was the Manhatten Trio. She has been soloist a number of times with the New York City Symphony Orchestra.

Miss Bary wanted to have something different in her ensemble and she believed their combination offers each an opportunity to produce her own qualities and at the same time merge with the others in perfect tonal unity. Highly trained musicians, they make their own arrangements.

It has been announced that the membership campaign for the Concert Association for 1944-45, will take place the last week in April, instead of in the fall. A large increase in membership is anticipated, and it is suggested that members renew their subscriptions as soon as possible.

The Experts Say . . . . .

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, March 31 — (CP) — You can't win the war when you're sick in bed, nor can you do any one of the many pleasant things people with vim enjoy. Take a tip from the factory assembly line, Dr. L. B. Pett of Nutrition Services says, for Canadian factory canteens know that to keep their workers well they must serve them plenty of protective and attractive food.

Here's what industrial canteens serve for lunch: meat, fish or an alternate like beans; fruit or vegetable, preferably both; milk in some form — as beverage, soup or pudding. It is not only the women with wrenches and their brothers on the assembly line who need these foods in their lunches. Everyone should have them.

LIVER LOAF: The remark, "Oh I don't like liver—I never eat it," is a common one and it is a pity because liver is good to eat when it is well cooked and attractively seasoned. It is also a rich source of iron, one of the best food elements for combating "war nerves," and also of thiamin, part of the B complex of vitamins, which helps maintain normal weight.

A recipe from the Agriculture Department home economists suggests a liver loaf to tempt finicky appetites:

Cover sliced liver with boiling water and let stand for a few minutes. Wipe dry, remove any fibrous parts and put through the meat chopper. To each cup of chopped liver add 1 cup of bread crumbs, 1 egg, ¼ cup grated raw carrot, 1 tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon celery salt, ½ teaspoon pepper. Mix well and pack in greased loaf tin. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for one hour

This loaf can be served with a well-seasoned sauce or gravy, and is delicious sliced cold for use in the lunch box.

LENT WILL soon be ending but before Easter there are many meals at which fish or sea food make a welcome main dish—baked scallops and lobster salad are delicious at either lunch or supper when prepared according to these Fisheries Department recipes:

BAKED SCALLOPS: Place one pound of uncooked scallops in a greased baking dish and pour over them the following sauce: 3 tablespoons melted butter, 3 tablespoons flour blended in with the butter; add ½ teasoon salt, 2 cups warm milk added and all cooked till smooth and thick, stir constantly.

Sprinkle dry, sifted bread crumbs over the tops of the mixture and dot with butter. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees Fahrenheit, for 10 minutes, or until the scallops are a milky white. This serves six.

MOULDED LOBSTER SALAD: 1 tablespoon gelatin, 1 cup chopped celery, 2 cups flaked lobster, cooked or canned, 3 tablespoons cold water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, 3/4 cup mayonnaise, ¼ cup Chili sauce or similar relish, 1 tablespoon horse-radish.

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for five minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add the mayonnaise and fold in the other ingredients. Mould in utensils which have been dipped in cold water. Chill in refrigerator and unmould on lettuce. This serves six.

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

FINANCES VITAL IN MARRIAGE

Boy Should Tell Future Wife Exact Condition, Prospects So She May Not Be Disappointed

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: Should a man tell his real financial condition before marriage to a girl he desires to make his wife?

PERPLEXED JOHN

ANSWER: Of course, he should. There can be no question about that. Every woman has a right to know before marriage exactly how much money a man makes and what his prospects are for the future.

Then she can take him or leave him, but at any rate she will know just what she will have to live upon, and that will save both of them many stormy scenes and quarrels

Many Men Deceive Girls

For, strange as it may seem, many men deceive girls on this point and lead them to think that they are far better off than they are. The girl marries thinking she is going into a life of ease, and that she will be able to have the luxuries she craves. Then, when she finds out the truth, as she is bound to do almost immediately, and realizes that they have not even enough to live decently in the humblest way, she naturally feels that her husband has played a dastardly trick on her.

A wife's well-being is bound up in her husband's. If he is poor, the hardest part of poverty falls on her, for she must do the contriving to feed and clothe a family, and hers is the keenest anxiety for the future, for she must depend upon her husband's efforts instead of her own. If this is to be her lot in life, it is certainly only honorable of a man to warn her in time and not commit her to it blindly.

No woman who loves a man will fear to face poverty at his side, but nothing will kill her love sooner than for him to inveigle her into a life of hardship under false pretenses.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a woman of 30 and have five children, the youngest 2 years old. I do not love my husband and I am very unhappy, although he is kind to me and is a good provider and I have a nice home. Do you think that I would be doing an injustice to my children if I left them for a while and got a job? I am in love with a man who loves me. Would you advise me to get a divorce and marry him?

UNHAPPY

Mother Cannot Break Ties With Children

ANSWER: My dear lady, when a woman has five small children she is bound by five cords she cannot break. Nothing short of the death of the whole five can sever her bonds. Suppose you just try to face your life squarely and see it as it is, instead of as you would like it to be. Let's begin with the man you say you are in love with. You want to leave your husband and go to him. Suppose you get a divorce.

Do you believe that he would marry you, that he would take upon himself the burden of your five children? Ask him, and he will settle that question for you in a minute. It costs a lot even to maintain a wife in these days, and no man is going to slave and deny himself all of his little luxuries and pleasures in order to support a brood of some other man's children.

And do you think you would be happy if you abandoned your children? Would any man's love make up to you for them? Would there be a minute of the day or night when their little wistful faces would not rise up to haunt you, when you would not hear their forlorn little voices calling out for Mother? I tell you, woman, if you have a heart in your bosom, you can't do it.

And as for leaving your children and going out to work, that's out of the question, too. You can't do that because they need you every hour of every day. There is nobody who can understudy for a mother. Motherhood is your job stick to it.

Find your happiness in your children, but whether you are happy, or miserable, do your duty by your children. That is what counts in a mother's life.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widower 60 years of age and make my home with my married daughter. She is all that a loving child can be, but I yearn for the companionship that only a wife can give. My object in writing you is to ask if you think me too old to venture again upon the sea of matrimony. I am well-preserved and in a position to support a wife in comfort.

A LONELY WIDOWER

ANSWER: Certainly you are not too old to marry. A well-preserved man of 60 is in the prime of life and there is no earthly reason why you shouldn't marry, provided you choose a woman of suitable age.

Pick out a nice, sensible widow or an old maid who isn't bossy and fussy, who is anywhere around the fifty mark, and be happy in your own home. As men and women grow older they need companionship more than they ever did before, and it is a good thing for them and for their five children to have them marry and set up their own separate establishments.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, April 1.

The lunar transits for this day accent personal, domestic and sentimental affairs, which will claim major attention, although there is fair fortune in connection with business credit, and finance generally, despite trivial anxieties. Take particular pains to sidestep misconstruction, treachery or fraud with correspondence, legal writings and speech Travel with caution; refrain from nervous strain.

A Birthday Forecast.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly happy and progressive year, with good luck, expanding finances and general stabilization of affairs, although there may be certain petty cares and anxieties. These may be due to carelessness with papers, writings or speech, subject to miscontruction, distortion or fraud. Suppress nervous strain and find enjoyment in domestic, social or sentimental relations.

A child born on this day, although nervous and emotionally high-strung, may enjoy a fairly lucky and pleasant career.

Two Airmen Given Gifts

Mr. and Mrs. R. Howden, Emily township gave a farewell party recently for their son, LAC Ernest R. Howden, R.C.A.F., and Tpr. Robert A. Skuce. Gordon Jackson read an address, and Stanley McCall presented LAC Howden with an Air Force writing kit and a sum of money as a gift from the community.

Ronald Moncrief read the address, and Clayton Howden made the presentation of an identification bracelet with crest to Tpr. Skuce, on behalf of his many friends. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

NOT FILM-MINDED

LONDON — (CP) — Saying, "I am not film-minded," Dr. William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, told a London audience he had seen eight picture in 23 years, including "Gone with the Wind" during which the "alert" and "all clear" were flashed on the screen seven times.

SPRING EVENING CHARM—The skirt and blouse look appears again and again not only in daytime clothes but in fashions devoted to dining and dancing evenings. This New York style for bright Spring evenings is built around a peasant or gypsy blouse made with long sleeves and deep rounded neck-line. It is of chartreuse crepe embroidered with cyclamen wool posies with gold paillettes and sequins for petal centres and dotting the blouse. The skirt is of cyclamen sheer woollen.—By Alice Alden.

IN MEMORIAM.

PATTERSON. — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Archie Wellington Patterson, who passed away three years ago, March 30, 1941.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come over us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.

—Mother, Father, and sisters Hazel, Elsie and Marguerite.

DUNLOP.— In ever loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Margaret Dunlop, who passed away two years ago to-day, March 31, 1942.

A precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon His love had given;
And though the body slumbers here
The soul is safe in heaven.

—Always remembered by Husband, Son and Daughter.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. Eunice Castle and Family wish to thank Major Wood of the Salvation Army, attending doctor, and the many neighbors and friends for gifts of flowers, loan of cars and for any other kindness shown to them during the illness and passing of Mr. Thomas Castle.

Miss Irene Conroy desires to express her appreciation to attending doctor, sisters and nurses, priests, and to all kind friends and relatives for flowers, fruit, cards, letters and inquiries during her illness in St. Joseph's Hospital.

[6]0,000 People Favor Communist Plan

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 31 — (CP) — The barbs of political criticism hit them from the right and hit them from the left, their path is the path of the suspected and even despised, but there is one thing you have to say for Britain's Communist party. They keep punching.

Mother Russia broke up the Comintern and orphaned them. The more moderate left snubs their every approach with a haughty disdain. They profited little from the pro-Russian sentiment which swept the country in the wake of the triumphant Red Armies. But they still kept punching.

Their position today is that of a part of 60,000 in a nation of 46,000,000; with one member in a House of Commons with 615 seats; with its intentions for the present and its ambitions for the future marred by its record in the past.

Its activities are curbed now by its pledge to the political truce which governs the country's main political parties for the duration of the war. Its current No. 1 design, union of the left for the political wars of the coming peace, has met rebuff after rebuff from the Labor Party. Socialist-minded, trade union-dominated representative of the bulk of the people who don't think the right should rule Brittania.

All Radicals.

Labor wants nothing to do with Communists, these strident champions of the proletariat, these radicals who belabored the war effort when Britain was weak and clamored for unity when Russia was attacked.

The Labor party has enough difficulties, enough dissension now without adding a new internal plague. Labor has told the Communists so with a vigor that is outspoken as it is monotonous. But still the Reds keep punching.

Their latest disappointment was the refusal of the Labor party to discuss their suggestion for joint discussions regarding general election preparations and other matters. That is their latest, but it is far from their last.

The Communists say their membership has never stood higher, estimate the victories of Russian arms have raised the total by 20,000 from [4]0,000. But there is little tendency in Britain to associate the Communists of Britain with the good things which have suddenly shown through the mists of Communist Russia.

The party has never had more than one member in Parliament. To-day he is William Gallacher, representative of a Scottish constituency, a hard-hitting and hard-hit spokesman for the Extreme Left.

General secretary of the party is Harry Pollitt, the able, persistent quarterback who keeps bellowing at the Communists from month to discouraging month:

"Keep punching. Somebody's bound to crack."

Cheesemaker Plans To Leave Rylstone

CAMPBELLFORD, March 31—(ENS) — The Rylstone Community honored Mr. and Mrs. W. P. (Bill) Moore at a social evening this week. The affair was arranged as a farewell tribute to the family which has been resident of the Rylestone district for the past twelve years and where Mr. Moore won wide acclaim as a cheesemaker. Following his appointment as dairy instructor for the Peterborough District he decided to move to Campbellford which was a more central location.

Mr. Murray Meiklejohn was chairman for the program which included musical selections by Bruce Barnum and impromptu remarks from several Rylestone patrons including Wilfred Spencer and Sanford Meiklejohn. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a silver tea service to Mr. and Mrs. Moore and an evening bag to their daughter, Bernice. The address which accompanied the presentation was read by Thomas Fry and in it regret was expressed at loosing such a valuable member of the community. Particular emphasis was placed on the splendid job Mr. Moore had done as cheesemaker.

GREAT EXPANSION

The great wartime expansion of the Canadian Army has taken place around the pre-war nucleus of 4,500 permanent force men. Its present strength numbers 465,000.

False Alarm

LOS ANGELES, March 31 (AP).—The testimony isn't the only thrill at the Chaplin trial. Someone saw a county jail prisoner climb out on the ledge of the 10th floor of the hall of justice, directly across the street from the Federal Court Building. There was a cry of "jail break." Another prisoner appeared. The cry grew louder. Then the prisoners hauled out a couple of buckets and began washing the windows.

Missions Story Told On Screen

BONARLAW, March 31—(ENS). —The lantern slides "Northern British Columbia Coast Missions" were shown in St. Mark's Parish Hall on Tuesday evening of this week by Rev. A. B. Caldwell and W. J. Cottrell gave the reading and explanations. The pictures were in technicolor, and educational. There was a good attendance.

Guests of Mrs. Harry Haslett on Thursday last were Mrs. Roy Fuzzell of Edmonton, Alta., Miss Rose Haslett of Springbrook, Mrs. Chas Vance of Stirling, and Mrs. Clarence McGee of Peterborough. Mrs. Fuzzell and Miss Haslett were also dinner guests at Mrs. Haslett's home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown, Keith, Marjorie, and Audrey of Harold, and Miss Freida McLaren of Bonarlaw were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Barlow on Monday evening of this week.

Gordon Blair, C.P.R. section man, has accepted a similar position with the C.P.R. at Kingston. Mrs. Blair and the children will remain at Bonarlaw for some weeks. Mr. Blair's place on the railway will be taken by Raymond Rice of Colborne.

Triquet Given Civic Reception

By GUY BEAUDRY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC, March 31—(CP)—Maj. Paul Triquet, holder of the Victoria Cross for "conspicuous gallantry, example and leadership" during the Casa Berardi action in Italy last December, arrived early this afternoon in French Canada's ancient capital to be tendered a civic reception at City Hall.

He was greeted on his arrival at Union Station by military and civic officials in the city. He left as a sergeant-major of the famed Royal 22nd Regiment, garrisoned here as a permanent force unit before the war. It was men of this same unit that he led to the attack at Casa Berardi on the Italian Adriatic front during five hellish days.

Long before the train pulled in the station from Montreal where he landed yesterday from Britain, throngs of Quebecers—many of them with a son, a father, a brother, a husband with the Royal "Van Doos" in Italy—crowded the concourse.

Among those at the railway depot were Sir Eugene Fiset, lieutenant-governor of the Province of Quebec, Premier Adelard Godbout, Opposition Leader Maurice Duplessis, Brig. Edmond Blais and Sir Richard Turner, Quebec's only other living Victoria Cross holder.

The station was gaily decorated with flags and bunting and a life-sized picture of the returning hero, hung on the main wall of the depot, faced him as he entered the building from the train platform.

Japanese Are Warned Air Raids To Come

NEW YORK, March 31—(AP)—The Japanese people have been warned by Gen. Kensuke Fujiye that Allied air raids on Tokyo are inevitable and that the "state of affairs" there is "truly urgent," the Tokyo radio said today in a broadcast reported by U.S. government Monitors.

The broadcast said that Fujiye on assuming the post of head of the Eastern Defence Command, had issued a statement calling upon "all those in the capital," whether they are with the government or are civilians," to "be greatly united" in defending Tokyo to their best efforts.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

COMMON SENSE FAVORED

IF YOU sat down for the first time opposite any of the world's ranking contract bridge stars, and began play without having had any conversation about bidding methods, you should not have any misunderstandings. That is, if you have a pretty good idea of what constitutes common sense and credit your partner with using it in deciding what to bid.

In other words, every bid he or she made would mean exactly what it seemed to mean. An opening suit bid of one at any of the four positions around the table would show about the same total amount of strength. There would be this one main difference—a bid in dealer or second hand position would practically guarantee ability to rebid, in either the same declaration or another, if you respond to the bid with another suit, but not necessarily with 1-No Trump or a single raise of the suit. That rebid ability would not apply in the same way to bids in third or fourth position, after the partner had passed, especially at third hand, when a hand with weak top card strength might be opened with pretty fair distribution.

Opening bids of 1-No Trump during the last season or so have been, with most of the high ranking players, on holdings of more moderate strength than when it was the vogue to wait for very strong ones or else open with a suit.

By all of the stars, a bid of one more than necessary to respond to an opening proclaims such total strength held by the side that it should not drop the bidding below game except for a luscious chance to double some opposing bid profitably.

Opening bids of two in a suit are used by almost all of the stars to show a hand so strong that the side must wind up in a game, even if the partner has a "bust," and he must keep it open as often as necessary until the pair is in a game, except, of course, when a fine doubling opportunity is offered by an opponent.

A small number of the stars are using an artificial 2-Club bid to show game strength, with 2-Diamonds as denial of ability for a strength showing response and any other response as showing a hand of merit. These players use an opening two bid of any other suit to indicate quite a suit without very much high card strength.

Practically all of the stars use an opener of three in a suit to indicate a long string with a hand of almost no defensive ability, just as a call of four would show the same thing with a suit about one card longer.

Original No Trump bids of more than one show in general the full strength of the hand, allowing the partner to fit his assets and decide how far to go. All opening No Trumps, however, show pretty well-balanced hands with stoppers probably in all suits.

There will always be some few who use the Vanderbilt 1-Club convention to show all hands from pretty strong to very strong, with 1-Diamond denying strength in response and anything else showing close to opening bid strength. Their other opening bids are used in various ways, but these players are very much in the minority.

As to slam conventions, most of the stars use none at all, preferring what they call common sense, plus perhaps occasional use of the cue-bid of a suit to indicate control through an ace or blank and inviting partner to do likewise. Whether using this, or the Blackwood convention or the Culbertson four-five No Trump, or any other of the artificial conventions, the experts are very sparing about employing such devices. They think of them as a means of keeping the side out of unmakable slams, rather than as a means of getting into slams.

Do you know any of the famous hands played by Charles H. Gorsen, season leader in national competition, which disclose the skill of the master? One of these will be shown tomorrow.

Harwood Forum Ends Season

HARWOOD, March 31—(ENS)—The closing meeting and banquet of the Harwood-Gore's Landing Farm Radio Forum was held this week in the Sunday school room of Bethesda United church. Major R. E. Drope presided.

The supper began at 7.30 p.m. and community singing with Mrs. Ruby Meggs, pianist, took place. Miss Shirley Drope sang 'The Hills of Old Northumberland.' The toast to the ladies was proposed by John Lean and Mrs. Cecil Thackeray replied. Mrs. Meggs played a piano solo. The radio broadcast followed and the Farm Forum questionnaire. Mrs. Stuart Harriet and Miss Evelyn Brisbin sang 'Beautiful Ohio' and Miss Margaret Hall sang 'Danny Boy.' A silver collection was taken and Rev. M. C. Fisher spoke briefly.

Charles Chidley, secretary of the Forum, gave a summary of the Forum for the year. John Moore was the star for attendance for the men and Mrs. C. Thackeray and Mrs. R. E. Drope for the ladies. The forum began with seven members at the first meeting and forty at the last meeting. Mr. Chidley also reported about the proposed egg grading station.

The guest speaker was Ralph C. Banbury, agricultural representative, who spoke on agriculture. Mr. Banbury gave a humorous address. Thomas Bates moved the vote of thanks to the speaker, and Mr. Drope thanked all those who had made the forum a success.

15 Farm Clubs

LONDON, Ont., March 31—(CP) — Quickened interest in agriculture on the part of 'teen-age youth is indicated by the expected organization of 15 Junior Farm Clubs in Middlesex County this year. The Lambeth Junior Grain Club started the ball rolling with a meeting Tuesday night at which an executive was elected and tentative plans discussed for 1944.

Shaw Favors Basic English

LONDON, March 31 — (CP) — George Bernard Shaw declared today he was willing to bequeath his entire fortune to establish a new 42-letter English alphabet which would represent all speech sounds in the language.

In a letter to the Times endorsing basic English, Shaw said he had used the alphabet—which he devised himself—for years to save time in his own writing.

"If only the British government was as intelligent as I am," he jibed.

"We have no English alphabet," Shaw wrote. "English speech has 42 sounds which must be spellable before the language can be written or read intelligently. To do this with 26 letters we have to resort to permutations and combinations.

Pointing out the time-saving advantage of his proposed system, Shaw said only a fraction of a second is lost if a man spells 'though' with six letters instead of two, but that fraction should be multiplied by the total time lost throughout the English-speaking world.

"The fact that Russian, with its 35-letter alphabet, can spell my name with two letters instead of four may conceivably make it impossible for us to compete economically in the world with Russia."

Feed Available As Cattle Scare

CHICAGO, March 31—(AP)—A tremendous saving of feed grains will develop later this year as a result of a reduction in the number of cattle in the United States, Mark Pickell, publisher of the "Grain and Livestock Herald," said today.

Pickell's prediction came at a time when the movement of feed grains from country points has dwindled far below demand, causing manufacturers to bid ceiling prices for corn, oats and barley at major markets. The Commodity Credit Corporation will make increased supplies of government-owned wheat available to livestock feeders next month.

Impassable roads and a shortage of farm manpower are at least partly responsible for the small movement of grains to terminals, in the opinion of grain men.

Pickell said that when the records for March are compiled they will show the largest sales of beef steers for slaughter at Chicago on record. Slaughter is running at the rate of about 145 per cent. of the 1930-39 average, he asserted.

A Huge Total

WASHINGTON, March 31 —(AP).—The United States Army air forces destroyed 9,463 enemy planes in the air and 1,579 on the ground in 1943 War Secretary Henry Stimson reported today, while losing 2,809 in aerial combat and 76 on the ground.

This edge of nearly four to one, said the secretary, represented a careful tabulation of results from all theatres.

[Allies] Take Mount Marrone 13 Miles From Cassino Straightens Bulge In Line

Fleet Units And Planes Continue To Harass Hun Armies Along Entire Anzio Bridgehead

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press Correspondent

NAPLES, April 1—(AP).—Allied troops have made a sudden thrust in the ruggedly-mountainous and long-static central sector of the Italian front, advancing one mile and occupying Mount Marrone, a mile-high peak about 13 miles northeast of Cassino, headquarters announced today. The height was seized by troops of unidentified nationality who smashed forward under powerful artillery support.

Mount Marrone—"Chestnut Mountain"—lies seven miles south of Alfadena and dominates a large part of the Varecchit Valley. The advance tends to straighten out the line between the salients which the Allies drove in reaching Cassino and Alfadena during the slow progress of the past months.

Although details of the fighting are not yet fully available, it was disclosed that the attack was supported by assaults on San Michele and Pizzone, about two miles northeast of the mountain. In the last reported fighting in that area more than two months ago French troops were employed.

In Cassino, meanwhile, Allied heavy guns again shelled the Monastery overlooking the devastated town and observers saw the walls collapsing around the German positions. Two German raiding parties—one about 40 strong—were beaten back from the vicinity of the Cassino railway station.

Two American destroyers hammered the German positions near Carroceto on the Anzio beachhead and British infantry on the beachhead repelled a small but sharp attack on their left flank.

Artillery exchanges and patrol clashes marked the 8th Army front. Small enemy parties were dispersed.

Allied air forces in Italy were forced by the weather to reduce their activities to about 650 sorties, but the systematic campaign to smash German communications continued with fighter-bomber attacks against bridges along the east coast of Italy.

Two Allied planes were lost.

Fighter-bombers attacked bridges at Roseto and Peraso and fighters swept over the battlefield on patrol.

The bulletin said it was now known that an additional four German planes were destroyed March 30.

Enemy shipping along the Dalmatian coast came under attack and one barge was reported destroyed and other vessels damaged.

Fighter-bombers which bombed German headquarters in a group of buildings at Filetto, northwest of Orsogna were congratulated by the Army on the "very good results" achieved. There were two direct hits on the largest building and other bombs fell in the target area, observers said.

Lonergan Guilty Of Murder Second Degree

BY JAMES H. PORTFIELD
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 1 — (AP) — A glittering road which Wayne Lonergan travelled from modest circumstances into a world of wealth and luxurious living came to an abrupt end today — with prison walls it terminus.

The glitter ended last Oct. 24 when his attractive, estranged wife, Patricia, 23-year-old heiress to a $7,000,000 brewery fortune, was bludgeoned and strangled in her apartment.

The terminus burst into view last night when, after a two-week trial, a jury of 12 middle-aged business men convicted the 26-year-old Toronto-born aircraftsman of second degree murder.

Judge James Garrett Wallace fixed April 27 for imposing a 20-year-to-life sentence which the verdict demands.

The tall defendant stood calmly as the jurors announced their decision after deliberating nine hours and 40 minutes.

Jury Polled

Defence Counsel Edward V. Broderick, who had pleaded that Lonergan was just "a simple carefree country boy," demanded that the jurors be polled.

Calling each by name, Court Clerk Arnold Sayre inquired: "Is that your verdict?"

Each replied that it was. Loner-

Finland Considers New Peace Proposal Cabinet Secret Session May Bring Change

STOCKHOLM, April (AP)—Reports reaching here through the strictest censorship yet imposed in Helsinki indicated today the Finnish cabinet was considering a new communication from Moscow that may open the way for an armistice between the two countries.

There were indications the reported cabinet session may decide Finland's withdrawal from the war.

Juho K. Paasikivi, Finland's peace ambassador, has re-established contact with the Russians, it was learned Wednesday, following Finland's rejection of Moscow's original armistice terms. Today's cabinet deliberations, it was presumed, are a result of the latest contacts.

After several days of silence on the Finnish situation every Stockholm newspaper came out with carefully phrased stories from Helsinki indicating that important developments seemed imminent.

The Stockholm's Tidningen correspondent said the situation resembled the period in 1940 when the Finns discussed peace terms in Moscow.

Bjorn Bjornson, NBC broadcaster from Stockholm, said the Finnish parliament will meet Monday when "a significant announcement" will be made.

Long-Range Livestock Plan Increases Cattle In Canada

OTTAWA, April 1—(CP).—The lowing chorus of millions of cattle today made clear that a long-range livestock program had been a success—almost an embarrassing success for the moment.

In 1942 the Dominion had 3,680,500 milk cows and 5,264,000 other cattle. The demand for milk products was beginning to soar and there were complaints of beef shortages in several cities.

On Dec. 31, 1943, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported 3,953,000 milk cows and 5,553,200 other cattle. The total showed a gain of 7.6 per cent. over Dec. 1, 1942. Because the cattle marketings were more than the domestic market could absorb, beef surpluses have been shipped to the United Kingdom to the extent that shipping space has been available. Some 11,000,000 pounds have gone forward.

Officials said the success of the cattle program bid fair to rival that of hog production which resulted in shipments of the United Kingdom rising from 330,000,000 pounds in 1939-40 contract year to 600,000,000 pounds in the calendar year 1942 and 675,000,000 in 1943.

The achievement in embargoed cattle production was made possible by a bumper feed crop in 1942. Officials said that for the first time Canada was able to plan her livestock program over a two-year period, and Agriculture Minister Gardiner suggested that farmers feed their stock to greater weights. With good feed supplies, they were able to retain them on their farms for a longer period than had previously been possible.

The results of this long-range program became evident in 1943, when the average dressed weights of cattle slaughtered in inspected plants during the year were 8.6 pounds greater than in 1942.

Maintain Gains.

Authorities said 1944 marketings thus far indicate the gain in weight had been maintained, although the numbers of cattle being sold have increased. Sales at public stock yards and shipments direct to packing plants in the first 12 weeks of 1944 totalled 276,896 head against 206,964 in the same period of 1943.

Late last year, packing plant facilities were congested due to a record-breaking movement of hogs to market at a time when well-finished cattle were becoming ready for sale.

The United States outlet for 193,000 head of Canadian beef cattle was suspended by agreement in 1942 when an embargo on such exports was imposed in 1942 due to the demands for domestic consumption. The United Kingdom was prepared to take surpluses of beef but shipping facilities in the early part of

Woman Lashes Congressman On War Charge

TORONTO, April 1 — (CP) — Vivian Kellems, Wesport, Conn., war contractor who yesterday was described in congress by representative John Coffee (Dem., Wash.) as the sweetheart of a Nazi agent in Argentina, in a statement today challenged Coffee "to make those same statements outside (the House) where I can hale you into court, force you to prove them, or put you in prison where you belong."

In Toronto to discuss engineering details with her Canadian agents, sharp-tongued, sharp-witted Miss Kellems made clear she would not answer Coffee's charges in detail.

(Coffee read to the House love letters he said she exchanged with Count Frederick Karl Zedlitz in Buenos Aires, told his colleagues she possessed war equipment "of inestimable value to the enemy," and demanded the justice department put an end to this incredible conspiracy.")

200,000 Men Trapped Near Odessa

Only Escape Route Is By Boat Through Black Sea

LONDON, April 1 —(AP)— The Berlin radio said today that Red Army spearheads have reached the northern approaches of Jablonica Pass, leading through the Carpathian mountains into Czecho-Slovakia. The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

The pass is approximately 15 miles south of Delatyn, captured by Russian troops on Thursday. Moscow's Saturday communique failed to mention any advances beyond that point. The pass of the Tartars is a few miles east.

The Berlin radio said the Czecho-Slovakian border pass was reached by Soviet troops pushing beyond the Borodenka-Kolomea sector west of Czernowitz. Reviewing the progress of the Russian drive on the Balkans, the broadcast said:

"The Soviets actually have gained considerable ground but nowhere have they succeeded in smashing the fighting power of German units and destroying them."

Berlin called the drive on Odessa from the north by Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 2nd Ukrainian Army a "strong Soviet offensive wedge," and described another Soviet force as aiming as Iasi, across the Prut river, and still another as operating on a broad front near Brody and Kovel in pre-war Poland.

A Vichy broadcast, also recorded by The Associated Press, said the Russians have made considerable gains—and that the pressure on Iasi was "serious." Moscow has not announced a crossing over the Prut River into Rumania.

The Red Army has begun a final push toward Odessa, crashing through crumbling German defence lines protecting the last enemy-held Black Sea port in Southern Russia, front dispatches said.

Madang Base Encircled In New Guinea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, April 1—(AP)—Australian and United States troops are closing the pincers of their movement on Bogadjim in the present campaign to take the Japanese coastal base at Madang, New Guinea.

Positions mentioned in the Allied communique today put Australian troops 10 miles south of Bogadjim, while American patrols were 13 miles east of the town. Bogadjim is 20 miles south of Madang, which has been heavily pounded by Allied aircraft but still holds supply dumps and artillery defences.

The communique also told of other raids on the Japanese naval base at Truk and air base at Woleai, both in the Caroline Islands, by United States Navy heavy bombers flying from south and southwest Pacific airfields.

The attack on Truk Atoll last Wednesday was centred on Dublon Island. It preceded by a few hours the heavy assault by other South Pacific bombers in yesterday's communique, did heavy damage to installations and smashed 49 planes on the ground.

The airdrome on Woleai Island was attacked Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

Admit 5 Raids

(A Tokyo broadcast of a Domei news dispatch was heard in New York, in which the Japanese said that five raids on Truk this week had caused only "negligible" damage.)

Planes from American bases in the central Pacific also raided Truk Wednesday and Thursday, Truk time, it was announced at Pearl Harbor.

Jury Takes Chaplin Case Tuesday

BY JAMES LINDSLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES, April 1 — (AP) — All the evidence is in, the rival lawyers are squared away for final arguments, and next Tuesday a jury of seven women and five men will try to decide where Charlie Chaplin, famous Mime of the film board, has violated the Mann Act.

For five hours Monday, Defence and Government counsel will argue opposing views of the relationship between the 54-year-old actor and Joan Berry, 30 years his junior. Federal Judge J. F. T. O'Connor will give his instructions Tuesday, after which the jury will retire.

Testimony was concluded late yesterday. Judge O' Connor then denied defence cousel Jerry Giesler's second request for a directed acquittal verdict, and, after a conference with counsel announced that closing arguments would be limited to 2½ hours each for prosecution and defence.

The prosecution's contention is this:

That Chaplin, in October of 1942, caused Joan Berry, his attractive former protegee and drama pupil, to be transported to New York city for immoral purposes.

That later in the same month he caused her to be transported back to Hollywood with the same objective.

Chaplin is accused in an indictment of two counts of Mann Act violation. If convicted he is subject to a maximum penalty of five years in prison and $5,000 fine on each.

If the jury disagrees it will be up to the government as to whether he shall be re-tried.

Jap Patrol Within 12 Miles Of Imphal Base Air Blows Slowing Invaders

Japanese Claim 4th Indian Army Virtually Isolated With Capture Of Mashan Road Junction

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH—Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, April 1—(AP).—Strong Japanese forces drove further westward in India toward the British base of Imphal on the plains of Manipur State, an Allied communique acknowledged today. Dispatches from the front said enemy patrols had stabbed to within a dozen miles of Imphal. The Japanese advance was reported from the Ukhrul area, 32 miles northeast of Imphal, while British Indian troops were engaged in fierce combat with another strong Japanese column in the hills east of Kohima, 60 miles north of Imphal.

Japanese losses were heavy, the communique said, especially in the battle near Ukhrul.

Southeast of Imphal, Japanese troops ambushed a small British detachment on the Palel-Tamu Road Thursday night, but Allied artillery went into action yesterday to blast a road block the enemy had thrown across the road midway between the two towns.

The Japanese-controlled Singapore radio asserted last night that the Japanese had captured the Mashan Road junction between Imphal and Kohima, "virtually isolating" the British Indian 4th Army. The broadcast declared the defending forces "face imminent destruction." There was no immediate Allied confirmation of the capture of the road junction.

No Jap Planes.

With not a single Japanese plane rising to challenge Allied air supremacy since last Tuesday, the Allies were dealing death and destruction from the air on a scale unprecedented in this theatre.

Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, Allied commander in India, told the Indian Legislative Assembly that the weight and frequency of air attacks were giving "ample evidence of the delay and loss they are causing the enemy."

In addition to strategic bombing and airborne supply of their own troops, the air forces were seeking and destroying batches of Japanese as they moved from jungle cover in Manipur State. The absence of Japanese aerial opposition was attributed to the double knockout dealt by the sweep in early March on Japanese air fields, when 63 enemy aircraft were destroyed, and the Monday and Tuesday score of at least 30 shot down.

Gen. Auckinleck said the Japanese were fighting for a quick decision before the Monsoon, attempting to establish themselves in the Imphal-Hokima area and "strike out at rail and river communications leading from Calcutta along the Brahmaputra into Northeastern Assam."

Vanguards of the Chinese forces in Northern Burma continued their drive south from Shaduzup in the Mogaung Valley, where they are gradually encricling a force of 1,000 Japanese near Laban.

A native Burmese unit which has been pushing other Japanese forces southward along the Sumprabum-Myitkyina road below the Dru river, have advanced to a point south of Kadrangyang, 50 miles north of Myitkynia, headquarters said.

South of Maungdaw Allied troops have advanced to positions south of the western tunnel in the Mayu mountain range.

Swiss Report 30 U.S. Planes Bomb Station

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 1.—(AP).—American heavy bombers began a new month of operations with an attack on Southwestern Germany to-day, United States Headquarters announced.

The daylight operation followed up a night assault by R.A.F. Mosquito bombers against unspecified objectives in Western Germany.

Simultaneously with the American announcement, a Swiss government communique said American bombers had loosed incendiaries on the railway city of Schaffhausen, near the German border, settig numerous fires.

Trains Idle.

In what apparently was a mistake bombing of neutral territory, the broadcast Swiss communique said about 30 American planes had loosed the fire bombs. A later statement from the director of Swiss railways said all rail lines leading into Schaffhausen had been "suspended temporarily."

The Air Ministry announced one fighter was lost from daylight offensive patrols yesterday.

Coastal watchers said a "considerable force" of Allied planes began streaking out across the channel early to-day shortly after the Mosquitoes returned from their night raids.

The German radio system went off the air after announcing the planes had pentrated into the middle Rhine area.

Allied planes remained grounded in daylight yesterday following the tremendous pounding of Nuremburg by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. planes Thursday night.

Moscow Wields Club Over Japanese

Japs Apparently Not Anxious To Start Trouble With Russia

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Two points stand out as highly significant in connection with Moscow's move in [forc]ing Japan to surrender her petroleum and coal leases on northern Sakhalin Islands: (1) Moscow finally has used the big stick on Tokyo with a strong arm, and made the Nipponese like it; (2) on the face of it the Allies at war with Japan gain vastly through her loss of irreplaceable necessities.

The inference would seem to be that Japan is anxious not to start an argument with Russia. Why? Well, London interprets it as a possible sign of weakness on Tokyo's part. That's a natural conclusion and one which was substantiation in Japanese Premier Tojo's numerous warnings to his people recently that Nippon's position is grave.

True, Moscow grants Japan the privilege of taking away what oil and coal she has above ground [i]n the leased territory, and agrees to furnish her with 50,000 tons of oil a year for five years, after the war ends. Still that's not a great boon. The amount of oil in store isn't known, but it isn't likely to be large, since Japan depended almost entirely on it for aviation gasoline and Sakhalin didn't provide enough for her needs.

In short, Japan has suffered a nasty blow, since her principal remaining source of petroleum is Indonesia, a long haul from Japan border. And modern war can't be waged without oil.

Salute to Britain's Maj.-Gen. Orde Wingate who has been killed in action with his famous jungle fighters in Burma; He was one of the war's romantic figures—a fearless and adventurous soldier who loved the thrill of primitive combat. He was more than that, for he was an inspiring leader and the creator of jungle tactics which now are being put into use. His death is a great loss to the Allied cause.

Washington View

WASHINGTON, April 1 — (CP) — Russia's decision to eliminate Japanese coal and oil rights in northern Sakhalin and to impose new limits on Japanese fishing in Siberian waters indicates that the Soviet union now feels its position has strengthened considerably in relation to Japan.

That was the opinion of diplomatic experts here who pointed out today that negotiations dealing with these subjects have been going on for years and that they always have been considered a barometer of the two countries' readiness for self-assertion.

The experts were inclined to discount the importance of north Sakhalin's oil and coal to the Japanese, asserting that a lack of shipping and Russian obstructionist tactics have prevented the Japanese from getting full benefits from their concessions.

One estimate was that about 350,000 barrels of oil were obtained from Russian Sakhalin in 1942.

Bulk Of Bills Held Over In Parliament

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, April 1—(CP)—Parliament today stands adjourned for 17 days with the bulk of the heavy legislative program outlined in the speech from the throne two months ago untouched.

Most of the bills projected for the session relate to post-war matters and, as stated in the throne speech, immediate war matters received first attention.

As the main war measure, the war appropriations bill to authorize the expenditure of $8,650,000,000 is not yet passed and the government has not put it forward.

Such items as family allowances, housing, floor prices for farm products, creation of new departments of government, export credits and revision of the Bank Act remain to be considered.

The one major bill, apart from urgent financial legislation, to pass the House of Commons on second reading was the Industrial Development Bank Bill which at adjournment, was under study by the banking committee.

Just before the proceedings ceased yesterday Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, acting for the Governor General, took the throne speech in the Senate Chamber and gave Royal assent to the Bills which had passed the two houses.

They provided interim votes of funds to carry on government and war effort for the first two months of the new fiscal year starting today, and supplementary votes to cover certain expenditures in the last fiscal year.

Further debate on civil aviation estimates in the war appropriation bill brought out new views on the government's policy for domestic and international aviation and a clash between Munitions Minister Howe and Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, over Premier George Drew of Ontario.

As to the facts, Mr. Howe said the Vickers plant was selected because the program on which the plant was engaged would come to an end this year. The Malton plant was not selected because it was engaged on producing Lancaster bombers and was just reaching peak output on this plane, which had the highest priority of any now produced in Canada.

Denies Charges

To a suggestion of Premier Drew that the decision was influenced by H. J. Symington, president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, Mr. Howe said Mr. Symington was not consulted on the decision, and that Royal Securities Corporation, of which Mr. Symington is an officer has no interest in Canadian Vickers.

On the stock ownership of Canadian Vickers, which operates the government-owned Montreal plant in which the plane will be made, Mr. Howe said 13,614 out of 19,000 preferred shares and 36,680 out of 52,000 common shares are owned by residents of Canada.

Losanac Limited, a Canadian investment company, held 24.67 of the preferred and "1.96 per cent of the common stock. Losanac Limited, earlier referred to by M. J. Leader, as having connections with a Swiss firm, said Mr. Howe, was owned by Solvay and Company, a Belgian banking firm administered by Baron Boel, an adviser to the Belgian government in London.

He said that contrary to previous charges, Losanac "has not now and never has had any connection with any holding company in Basle, Switzerland" and, he added, "there is not now and never has been any German interest of any kind in the company."

He said the Belgian Solvay banking firm decided to invest Belgian funds in Canada, and for this purpose a Canadian company—Losanac Limited—was incorporated with Canadians as officers. He said that also contrary to charges which had been made, Losanac did not hold "large interests" in International Nickel or Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines Limited, but the firm did have substantial holdings but not control of the Dominion Steel and Coal Company and the Asbestos Corporation.

He said the Belgian Ambassador had drawn his attention to questions asked in the House by Mr. Coldwell.

"He was most concerned with the implications attached thereto, as they were likely to cast aspersions on the Belgian interest concerned," said Mr. Howe.

He said the Ambassador had expressed the hope that a correct version might be given and assured Mr. Howe that Baron Boel "has rendered and is rendering distinguished services to his government."

He said the facts he had given were available also to Premier Drew "but with his customary omniscence in all matters affecting the conduct of the war he had thought it desirable to make his charges without ascertaining the facts."

Mr. Graydon took exception to Mr. Howe's charge that Mr. Drew made irresponsible statements and to his interpretation of the Premier's remarks. He said Mr. Drew had never suggested the Lancaster bomber program at Malton be shifted to make way for the Douglas.

MR. JAMES SPINK, F.R.G.S., guest speaker at Gospel Hall, McDonnel Street, Good Friday, April 7. He will also speak every night, April 9 to 13. See ad. on church page.

Reduce Rations On Native Wine

TORONTO, April 1—(CP).—Hope that an increase in Ontario beer rationing allowances may be possible by midsummer was expressed yesterday in a statement issued by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario.

The board announced decreased purchase quotas for native and imported wines effective today and until further notice.

The domestic beer ration remains at 24 pints a month, imported beer at 12 quarts a month and liquor at 26 ounces a month.

The native wine allowance is reduced from two bottles to one bottle a week, and the imported wine allowance from four bottles to two a month. Maximum single purchase of native wine is fixed at two bottles.

An immediate increase in the supply of draft beer to hotels was announced.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, April 1 — (CP). — Little activity was shown on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, traders generally holding off until Lakehead navigation opens.

Business in export wheat, cash wheat and in the rye futures market was light. Export trade was confined to sale of 200,000 bushels of Canadian oats to United States mills on an all-rail basis from the Western elevators.

No Happiness in the Home When Mother Is Sick

The tired, worn out mother cannot make a happy home if she is sick and worried by the never ending household duties.

She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, downhearted and discouraged, can't rest at night, and gets up in the morning feeling as tired as when she went to bed.

Women suffering in this way may find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills a remedy with which to help recuperate their health, build up the run down system, and assist them back to health—happiness again.

Placing Cable Described To Engineers

Over 23,000 miles of poles—enough to build eight pole lines from coast to coast — are required to provide Bell Telephone service in Ontario and Quebec, M. J. Aykroyd of Toronto, told a meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada, Peterborough branch, held here Thursday evening.

Mr. Aykroyd, who is President of the Association of Profesional Engineers of Ontario and Outside Plant Engineer of the Bell Company, pointed out that thousands of dollars are invested in pole lines and in the company's 5,400 miles of underground conduit, 233,000 miles of open wire, and 3,800,000 miles of wire in cable. "We are always trying to limit increase in this investment so we may continue to give satisfactory service at reasonable rates and make a fair return on our money. We take advantage of new developments to help us accomplish this purpose," he said.

12 Channel Carrier System

"From the inception of the telephone industry it has been the practice to construct telephone lines by means of poles and open wire attached to them. During the past few years we in the business have seen changes in the means and methods of giving service. The open wire lines have had phantom circuits placed upon them, then later single and three-channel carrier systems, and more recently 12-channel carrier systems. All are superimposed on the existing voice frequency circuit.

"This type of plant is subjected to all the vagaries of nature. Often we have severe physical damage from sleet and wind with resulting service interruption and heavy financial loss. The emergency restoration of our plant is costly as the work is carried on under abnormal conditions. With increasing demands for service, cable has been used as the connecting link between distant places. This has come to be known as storm-proof plant."

"With the aid of colored motion pictures, Mr. Aykroyd described the engineering details and methods of burying long distance telephone lines directly into the ground.

"The ploughing operation varies, depending on soil conditions, nature and frequency of obstacles," he explained. "In clay soil, for example, with few obstacles, tractor, rooter plow, cable laying plow and tractor trailers can all be connected in the one train. The front plow roots through the earth with a three-and-three-quarter inch share loosening and breaking up the ground to a depth of from 30 to 50 inches, thus insuring uninterrupted passage of the following plow which deposits the cable in the ground. The 100-ton-train, with its more than 400 horse-power, moves at a brisk walk under such conditions. Pauses are needed only to change reels or remove major obstructions. This is the procedure that was followed across prairie country in placing the transcontinental cable in the United States.

"In Southern Ontario the farming subdivisions, sideroads, streams, wooded sections and other frequent obstacles made a modified operation desirable. One crew with tractors and rooting equipment works about three to six miles ahead of the cable placing train. The job for this equipment is to open up the earth to a depth of 30 inches or more along the route of the buried cable, to remove boulders, tree roots and other obstacles, to grade steep banks at side roads or other places. The fences have to be so arranged as to facilitate the passage of the train."

Huns Move Troops

ISTANBUL, April 1 — (AP). — Reports from the Balkans today indicated the Germans were moving troops out of southern Greece for use in more actively menaced areas—perhaps on the Rumanian front to the north. The reports said the Germans might turn over to the Bulgarian forces the job of policing Greece.

5 Cheese Plants Opening Monday

CAMPBELLFORD, April 1. — (ENS) —At least five cheese factories, in the Campbellford district, are slated to begin their season's operations on Monday, a larger number than usual to begin the first week of April according to District Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray.

However the change reflects the increased demand for cheese by the Dairy Branch of the Department of Agriculture, and has nothing to do with the mild winter. It merely means that factory patrons who during the winter months shipped to the creamery are switching back earlier. James L. Irwin of the Federal grading staff, Belleville, toured the district last week in an effort to check up on the number of plants that would be re-opening and were ready to manufacture cheese for the season.

One reason why officials are optimistic about production is that the 1944 price has been made more attractive with the 20 cents per hundred bonus on milk. This extra money, which at first glance appears picayune, will bring the average patron in this area from $1 to $2 per day more than he got last year from his cows

Liberals Want Title Changed

BY JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

OTTAWA, April 1 — (CP) — There's a bit of fluttering in the parliamentary dovecotes these days over the new department of reconstruction which parliament will be asked to approve before the session ends.

The story goes some Liberals think the name should be "department of new development." They claim the purpose of the department should not only be reconstruction after the war to retore Canada to something like pre-war conditions, but it should go further in seeking a better Canada. They note that the throne speech said the Department would 'promote and co-ordinate plans for national development and post-war employment," which looks further afield than the mmediate post-war period.

Also, the word "reconstruction" isn't very popular among Liberals generally. There was a time when Hon. H. H. Stevens' Reconstruction Party caused both Liberals and Conservatives considerable anxiety, although when the votes were counted in the 1935 General election they found most of their fears were unfounded.

Mr. Gardiner said in the Commons this month that the only beef which had been down to the floor price was cow meat, and some of this had been sent to the United Kingdom. Higher grades, which it would be desirable to ship to the British market, had not been available at the prices paid.

Mr. Gardiner said, however, an effort was being made to work out a plan under which high-quality beef could be sent to the United Kingdom under a contract which would assure that shipping would be available.

"Although there have been some complaints about the difficulty of marketing the heavy beef supplies available, there is every confidence that it will be needed either at home or among the United Nations," said one authority.

Social Credit Group Plans Campaign

BY JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 1 — (CP) — Political action by Social Crediters in the federal field, backed by an organization active throughout Canada, will be planned at a national convention here April 5 and 6.

Rev. F. G. Hansell, New Democracy member of parliament for MacLeod, Alta., chairman of an organizing committee appointed last fall said it was expected about 150 delegates would attend.

They will decide on the form of a political organization and elect a national leader.

Mr. Hansell said the convention would be the first purely social Credit national convention. In 1941 a national convention of Social Creditors and money reform supporters was held at Winnipeg. Resulting in the organization of the democratic monetary reform organization with the late premier William Aberhart of Alberta as leader.

The convention next week will seek a national organization pledged to Social Credit principals supported by persons who may not support Social Credit said Mr. Hansell.

Delegates in many cases will be nominated by Social Credit groups in federal constituencies.

The 10 persons signing the delegate's nomination papers must approve a declaration stating:—

1. That a National Social Credit organization pledged to bring about a "properly working political and economic democracy in Canada should be established immediately, so that effective action can be taken to place Social Credit candidates in the field representing every Federal constituency in Canada

2. That the only practical solution of economic problems, both National and Provincial, is the "application of scientific principles of Social Credit to national affairs."

Stifles Freedom

3. "That centralization of power weakens democracy, lessens provincial autonomy, leads to totalitarianism and disunity, gives rise to dictatorship and stifles the free expression of the will of the people."

4. That Communism, Fascism and National Socialism are opposed to democracy, freedom and individual liberty. Therefore, Social Crediters are opposed to them.

5. That "we are absolutely opposed to the continued monopolistic control of the monetary system by private corporations—both national and international."

6. That "true democracy, with a properly managed monetary system, can and will secure for our people the common results they want.

7. That Canada should have a government pledged to assume effective control over issuance of all currency and credit in accordance with the will of the people.

8. That in a "genuine democracy" full scope must be provided for personal initiative and individual enterprise, but not at the expense of the freedom and property rights of others.

The delegate pledges himself to work for the promotion of the reforms set forth in the declaration.

Ontario House Bogs Downs On Labor Bill

TORONTO, April 1 — (CP) — The Ontario Legislature will meet at 1 p.m. E.D.T. Monday — two hours earlier than usual — in a drive toward pre-Easter prorogation and it is anticipated it will then resume consideration of the bill to apply the new Dominion Labor code to virtually all industry in the province.

The debate was summarily interrupted by Premier Drew Friday afternoon when the Committee of the Whole bogged down on the measure with only four of the 15 sections cleared away.

The Labor Bill has been opposed by the C.C.F. principal critic yesterday was Arthur Williams (CCF-Ontario), who the night before precipitated a division on appeal from a ruling of speaker W. J. Stewart.

Mr. Williams persisted in questioning the government regarding a section of the bill authorizing of pointment on an Ontario Labor Relations Board to administer the Labor Code in the Province. Premier Drew ordered that the committee rise and report progress.

Before the labor measure was brought into committee an act to set up Country Agricultural Committee and extensive amendments

Saul Becomes New Man On Way To Damascus

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 2 is Acts 9:1-19; 22:6-16; 26:12-20, the Golden Text being II Corinthians 5:17, "If any man is in Christ, he is a new creature.")

SAUL OF TARSUS was a Jew, born as the title intimates, at Tarsus, a well-populated commercial city thronged with merchants, sailors and students from all parts of the then known world.

He was educated as a Jew in Tarsus, but spoke Greek fluently, and was a Roman citizen. While still a young boy he was sent to Jerusalem to receive instruction under Gamaliel as a doctor of law, and he became very familiar with the Jewish scripture. In fact, if he was not a member of the Sanhedrin, he was very close to the members thereof.

Paul or Saul, as he is called in the first part of his life, was present when Stephen, the first Christian martyr, was stoned to death, although there is no record that he helped kill him. He was very active in persecuting the members of this new religion which, he felt, was opposed to the Jewish church to which he was loyal, so "breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord," Saul went to the high priest and asked that he be given letters to the synagogues at Damascus, and said that if he found any of the Christians there or on the way, "whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem."

Saul Goes to Damascus

With his company Saul journeyed to Damascus, but suddenly, about noon of a certain day, suddenly there shone a great light, and Jesus appeared to him and said, "Saul, Saul, why persecuteth thou Me?" Saul said, "Who are Thou, Lord?" and Jesus answered, "I am Jesus whom thou persecutest: it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks," or the "goad."

When oxen were being broken in for plowing the fields, they were often rebellious, and flung their heels back in protest against the beam or shaft of the plowshare. To stop this a cruel device was applied. The beam was faced with small, sharp iron spikes which wounded the oxen when they kicked. Christ told this headstrong, haughty man that he was like one of those stupid oxen who, in refusing to do as they were told, hurt only themselves.

Saul, trembling and astonished, asked, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me do?" And the Lord said, "Arise and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do."

The men with Saul heard the voice, but saw no vision, and were speechless. Saul rose, but his eyes were blinded by the great light, so that his companions had to lead him into the city, and for three days he remained blind and neither ate nor drank.

Ananias Has Vision

In Damascus was a certain Christian named Ananias, and Jesus appeared to him and told him to go to the street called Straight, where he would find Saul. He was to put his hands on Saul and restore his sight. Ananias had heard of Saul as a man who had been cruelly persecuting the Christians, and so he told the Lord, but He said, "Go thy way: for he is a chosen vessel unto Me, to bear My name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel: For I will shew him how great things he must suffer for My name's sake."

Ananias went as he was told, and finding Saul, called him brother, and told him he had heard of his experience, and he laid his hands on him, and Saul received his sight. He arose, we are told, and was baptized.

The high priest and all members of the old Jewish church, of course, thought Saul was a traitor and they tried to take his life. In the temple at Jerusalem, for instance, he would have been killed by the people only the Roman soldiers saved him. They gave him permission to talk to the mob from a safe place, and he related the story of his conversion, but they still cried for his death. After this Saul was never a free man. Two years later he was tried by Felix at Caesarea, and after another two years he was interviewed by Herod Agrippa II, great grandson of Herod the Great. Saul told of his wonderful experience, making the most marvellous speech, concluding, "Whereupon, King Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision." At the conclusion, King Agrippa said, "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian."

Christ's Death On Cross Mark Of Failure to Many

REV. E. R. JAMES

The chief priests, mocking Jesus, said: He trusted in God, let Him deliver Him now, if He will have Him. St. Matt. 27:43

"The chief priests mocking Jesus". It is hard to realise that religious men would mock another hanging in agony on the cross. Yet it has happened repeatedly in the day of religious persecution. The heads of the Jewish Church are present in their ecclesiastic raiment. The Centurion officer very probably salutes them respectfully and permits them to draw nearer to the Cross than the ordinary mob. They give vent to their hatred with the bitter taunt taken from the famous twenty second Psalm: "He trusted in God".

"HE TRUSTED IN GOD" is the key to the whole story. Friend and foe recognized that He was a man Who had put His whole trust and confidence in God. Yet to all outward appearance God did not answer Him. His life work of three years seemed to be a complete failure. An Apostle betrayed Him; another denied Him; the rest fled and left Him alone in the hands of His enemies. He came to proclaim the coming of the Kingdom of God and in bitter mockery they crowned Him with the crown of thorns and nailed the title on His Cross: "THE KING OF THE JEWS".

"HE TRUSTED IN GOD". As a lad of 12 in the Temple courts He exclaimed: "I must be about My Father's business". To do that work more perfectly He returned to Nazareth for the 18 silent years, learning the trade of a carpenter and builder and meditating upon the Holy Scriptures, which He read in the local synagogue. In the fulness of time there came the urge to go to Jordan and be baptised by John. There He received the fuller revelation of Himself that He is indeed the Son of God in a mysterious, wonderful sense of the word.

"HE TRUSTED IN GOD". In a vitally true sense He looked upon God as His Father. As you read the Gospel of St. John you will see how fully He teaches that He has come down from Heaven to do the will of Him that sent Him. "I always do those things which please the Father" is His marvellous claim. Moreover He claims complete unity with the Father because His will is in complete submission to the will of the Father. "I and the Father are one".

To plain everyday people the Lord taught the same truth by parables. Every woman who heard the parable of the lost coin understood the idea of ownership—fatherhood; every shepherd knew that he would go after the lost sheep straying in the wilderness; above all in the parable of the prodigal son the same truth is intensified; that of a loving Father who has lost a son and runs to meet the returning prodigal. The lost coin, the lost sheep, the lost son belong to the Father.

Perhaps in these terrible days it may come home to some of us that the Father's heart is full of sorrow and grief over His wayward and straying children. But they are free to stray. He cannot and would not force them to stay at home or compel them to be at peace with one another. This is the wonderful truth of the revelation of God the Father through Jesus Christ Our Lord.

The Master's faith in God the Father was put to the acid test. The darkness descended upon Him. Yet his faith never failed. With His last breath He trusted in God. With a loud Voice He cried: "Father, into Thy Hands I commend My Spirit" and He gave up the ghost.

On the third Day God raised Him from the God. This was His reward. Because He is the perfect, sinless One Death could not hold him. After His resurrection His earliest words were: "I ascend unto My Father and your Father, to My God and your God". This is His reward because He trusted in God. God did deliver Him.

For these terrible days a saintly soul has written the following:

Be still, my soul; thy God doth undertake
To guide future as He has the past.
Thy hope, thy confidence let nothing shake;
All now mysterious shall be bright at last.
Be still, my soul; the waves and winds still know
His Voice Who ruled them while He dwelt below.

They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength.

Saul Becomes a New Man

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 9:1-19; 22:6-16; 26:12-20

Saul, later Paul, persecuted the Christians, and he went to the high priest and asked him for letters that he might go to Damascus to bring Christians bound to Jerusalem, both men and women.

On the way Jesus appeared to Paul and asked him why he persecuted Him? He told him to go to the city and there it would be told him what to do, but he was blind and had to be led.

Jesus appeared to a Damascan whose name was Ananias and told him to go to the street called Straight, where he would find Saul. Ananias told Jesus Saul persecuted the Christians.

Ananias did as the Lord told him, though reluctantly. Finding Saul, he put his hands on him and Saul received his sight, and he arose and was baptized. GOLDEN TEXT—II Cor. 5:17.

New President Of Canadian Press

Peterborough people will wish us to convey their congratulations to the Honourable W. A. Buchanan, who earlier this week was elected to the office of President of the Canadian Press. Senator Buchanan is now the president and general manager of the Lethbridge Herald, one of the best of Canada's western papers, and one of the most important single factors in promoting the development of Southern Alberta. His recent election crowns a distinguished journalistic career which began in this city.

* * *

It was in the mid-nineties that Billie Buchanan, as he was then called, came to Peterborough to learn the newspaper business from the ground up. His father was at that time the Methodist minister in Norwood. We are very proud of the fact that the future President of Canadian Press served for a time in the composing-room of the Examiner, and like many ambitious young printers of that day, he did odd jobs of reporting at night. His knowledge of the mechanical side of newspaper production has stood him in stead, and he knew very well at that time that it would do so, for he early determined to own a newspaper of his own.

* * *

The Examiner phase of Billie Buchanan's career ended when he went to the Review to work as a reporter under the late Frank Dobbin. He was widely known, very popular, and soon became secretary of the Peterborough Hockey Club. His remuneration on the Review was $8 a week, and after some time he received an offer from the Toronto Telegram to join its staff as news editor at $10 a week; he debated long before he accepted, but at last he did so. When he left Peterborough his friends said farewell to him at a banquet held in Ed Welsh's restaurant, which was across Hunter Street from the Oriental Hotel; he was given a large amount of praise and advice, and a gold watch. A former citizen who was present at the affair recalls that among those present were Bob Fyfe, one of the proprietors of the old Ormond and Walsh Drug Store, his partner, Dick Davidson, Alf Terrill, the city editor of the Examiner, Lionel King, H. R. H. Kenner, F. D. Kerr, R. M. Glover and Fred Dixon.

* * *

In this blaze of glory Mr. Buchanan left Peterborough, served the Telegram for some years, became secretary of the O.H.A. and at last bought the St. Thomas Journal. Later he went west, bought the Lethbridge Herald, turned it into a daily, and became a genuine westerner. He served his province in the Rutherford government, and in 1911 when Sir Wilfrid Laurier's government was defeated on the reciprocity issue, he was elected to the Dominion Parliament as a Liberal. In 1925 he was appointed to the Senate and has been one of its most active committee members since that time.

* * *

Senator Buchanan has been prominent in the affairs of the Canadian Press, and for the past two years he has been its First Vice President. His election to the office of President was, therefore, easily predictable, and his colleagues knew that the direction of the large news-gathering agency would be safe in his hands. It is pleasing to know that after so many years Senator Buchanan still has the most affectionate memories of Peterborough, and has kept alive many close friendships with citizens of this city. They will join us in wishing him every success in his new dignity.

Our Wanton Contemporaries

Recently a New York dress designer displayed, at a show of Spring styles, a daring print dress with "I Love You" stamped all over it by way of pattern.

This incident has stirred old memories in the minds of some of our once-rowdy contemporaries. The editor of the Chatham News recalls the day when it was ... dashing thing to wear a celluloid ... button bearing the legend "O You ..." Dr. Cha... T.D.F., who now writes a solemn ... cloistral atmosphere of ... was obviously even ... a spark, or a dog, or whatever it was called, in his young days; he can recall hatbands for straw hats which said "I Love My Wife But Oh You Kid!", which was obviously the very last word in wantonness, and that condition of spirit which Shakespeare so chastely characterizes as "ropery".

We have also heard of "Conversation Lozenges", abandoned sweetmeats which had such daring sallies printed on them as "May We Spoon", "Whose Baby Doll Is 'Oo?" and "Take Some Salt, You're Too Fresh!" The exchange of these in society helped backward souls—not roystering blades like T.D.F. — to give an impression of extreme wolfishness.

But this sort of thing still goes on, and the dress with "I Love You" printed on it is not the only manifestation. Not long ago we were in Toronto — the Ontario Babylon — and in a drug-store there we saw sets of cards for sale, which looked like visiting-cards, but which were printed with such messages and observations as "May I See You Home?", "Don't Be Annoyed At This Intrusion; After All It Shows That I Have Picked You Out Of The Crowd", and "Where Have You Been All My Life?". Presumably the purchaser of such cards would lurk about in the shadows of Toronto's streets until he saw a girl who took his fancy, or who looked simple, and would then hurry to her side, raise his hat, and hand her his message.

Maybe it works, though we find it hard to believe. T.D.F. with his captivating hatband must have been a more attractive figure than a young man with a pocketful of provocative pasteboards.

What Money Will Do

"It is pretty to see what money will do", wrote Samuel Pepys in his Diary on March 21, 1667; if he had been in Windsor, Ont., on March 29, 1944, he might have altered his opinion. There scores of people grovelled and jostled in the muddy street to pick up the quarters and dollar bills which Mr. Harry F. McLean tossed from his hotel window. People scrambling for money do not make a pretty spectacle.

It is not for other Ontario cities to become self-righteous in this matter; if Mr. McLean had thrown his money out of any hotel window in Canada he would have found people without dignity who would crawl in the dirt for his bounty. Perhaps Mr. McLean is a great cynic, who uses this method of assuring himself that men are contemptible; perhaps he is a realist, who joys to see that men will resign their dignity for five minutes in order to pick up a few dollars which will rejoice them for a day; or perhaps he is a humanitarian who takes this unusual method of distributing his benefations.

The Windsor Star takes a very severe view of Mr. McLean's action. "He is, frankly, a disturber of the peace, whose sole achievement is to brutalize and degrade a lot of foolish people who lose all self-respect in their greed for a little gold", says that paper. We disagree; people do not become brutalized and degraded in an instant; they must have been that way long before Harry McLean threw the contents of his purse out of the window. There are many brutalized and degraded people walking about the streets, disguised as respectable and unexceptionable citizens; it is only when a shower of gold descends that they show the world what they really are. There were plenty of Windsor citizens, we are sure, who calmly refused to join the mud-larks in giving Harry McLean a thrill.

We have no quarrel with Mr. McLean, and we rather admire his unconventional methods of distributing his wealth. But we wish that in future he would not chuck it out of hotel windows. It is rather cruel to show us how many of our countrymen are ready to soil their hands for an easy dollar.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A medical columnist says that hating to get up in the morning is a sign of age. In that case, we were born senile.

A writer in Harper's begins an article thus: "In Scandinavia the drinking of toasts is a ritual often accompanied by speech-making". What does he mean, 'in Scandinavia'. Right here in Canada at a public dinner we can invoke more oratory to accompany a gulp of cold water than any other country on earth.

The real reason why the U.S. has suddenly dropped on the polygamists of Utah, of course, is that fathers are now being drafted, and the dependents' allowance of a polygamist is likely to run into money. One of them, for instance, had 6 wives and 33 children. At $50 per wife that would be $300, and with $30 a month for the first child of each, and $20 a month for the other 27 the total allowance for a month would be $1,020. At that rate, a Mormon private would cost the country more in a year than a four-star general.

Diary Of An Owl Fancier

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Having occasion to do some motoring in the very early hours of the morning I picked up an R.C.A.F. man to give him a lift. He began almost before he was in the car to tell me his life and times, including several things about his work which he should have kept to himself. Perhaps it was a tribute to the honesty and incorruptibility of my appearance that he revealed himself so fully; if so I should like to point out that enemy agents are probably very honest in appearance also....It occurred to me later that perhaps people who pick up servicemen expect to be told a good deal as a reward for the lift. This fellow gave me his full family tree, as well as brief biographies of several of his close friends. He seemed to be a nice chap, but passionately communicative....Had breakfast in bed this morning, an unaccustomed luxury. I should like to have breakfast in bed every morning, and read my mail there; then I should be able to get up with my day planned and its mood established. For some people there is positive danger in early rising. I understand that Mr. Churchill never gets up until it is absolutely unavoidable.

◇ ◇ ◇

MONDAY: More motoring today, and had a picnic lunch of sandwiches and apples in the car. There is nothing like sitting motionless in a car for several hours to give one an appetite. While downing the sandwiches and a bottle of ginger ale I had a good look at a desolate Canadian winter landscape. Though some people find them depressing our grey skies, dirty snow, skeletonic telegraph poles and ramshackle farm buildings are congenial to my spirit. I do not think that I should be happy in a tropical realm, where vegetation was lush, and brilliant birds flew screaming from palm to palm. Canadian desolation, or the dank, dripping winters of Great Britain suit me admirably....Drove home, greatly exhilirated, and found that dogs had upset a garbage can in front of my house. Three cheers for the intelligent dog, man's best friend!

TUESDAY: Passing a second-hand store today I noticed a fine stuffed owl in the window. In my childhood stuffed owls were common ornaments, and no editor's office was considered complete without one. But the vogue for stuffed birds as ornaments seems to have passed....Reputedly this was the first day of Spring and it made a brave show of living up to its name. I have been fooled about Spring two or three times already, but perhaps this is the real thing.

◇ ◇ ◇

WEDNESDAY: This morning my mind was strangely haunted by that stuffed owl. How pleasant it would be, I thought, if some admirer were to buy that owl and give it to me as a token of esteem. This idea grew, and after waiting all morning for an admirer to pick up my thought-waves and translate them to action, I went to the shop and bought the owl myself. After all, no one admires and appreciates my work more than I do myself; why should I not give myself an owl in token of self-regard?.... It is a noble owl, and it looks splendid in my workroom. I shall call it Minerva, and it shall be my tutelary genius. If any reader should notice an infusion of new wisdom in this column, that will be Minerva at work.

◇ ◇ ◇

THURSDAY: There is a fuss in Toronto about Edwin Guillet's book "This Man Hanged Himself," an account of the Newell case. Apparently a few people feel that Newell was not properly treated in court, and want the book suppressed on that account; the Toronto Public Library seems inclined to humour them. That is the trouble with public institutions of all kinds; they are too much at the mercy of people who may be very poor judges of the matter in question, but who insist on their right as taxpayers to throw their weight about. In a country where everything was publicly owned the least cultivated and tolerant section of the populace would have a high old time interfering with matters about which they knew nothing.... Heard today of an author living in Ottawa who wrote a little book on economics which was published in the U.S. It sold well and his royalties amounted to $3,000. By the time he had been taxed on the money both here and in the States he was $200 out of pocket. And why? Because in this country author's royalties are taxed as 'unearned income'. Could anything be more ridiculous?

FRIDAY: That exclusive magazine "Fortune" cannot bear to have me off its subscription list. The circulation manager continues to send me intimate little notes urging me to send him a cheque. But I am resolute....Have been reading about Brigadier Orde Charles Wingate, who led that wonderful group of guerillas into Burma and gave the Japs the fright of their lives. He is passionately religious, it seems, but not narrow or exclusive in his beliefs and usages. Christian prayer and Yoga are both tricks in his bag. "The mind of the white man," he says, "is dulled by the narrow troughs in which we live." How profoundly true that is! Reading of him reminded me of Sir Richard Burton, that great adventurer who hated the narrow troughs of conventional Western life, and found broader horizons and happiness in the East. It was a curious fact about Burton that anyone who did him an injury suffered bad luck as a result of it. Though no adventurer, I have noticed that this is also true of myself.

◇ ◇ ◇

SATURDAY: This afternoon the opera broadcast was Cav. and Pag., the bacon and eggs of opera. I loathe them both. Men who scream and stab their wives' lovers seem to me to be contemptible and rather funny; there are a hundred ways of dealing with a rival which are more satisfactory than that. One is to invite him to live in your house and share the bills; that is guaranteed to dampen his ardour within a fortnight. Meanwhile you can make subtle fun of him to your wife, who begins to feel like a fool. It is all simple, and great fun for the husband.

What The English Believe

(FROM THE TRANSATLANTIC DAILY MAIL)

LONDON.—As the war races toward its climax, the Englishman is probably confronted with more big news, problems, ideas, rumours, hopes, and fears than his mind has ever had to grapple with in the past.

Here are his thoughts about a few of them:

He wants a Second Front to be opened in Western Europe in 1944, (a) because it's only fair to give the Russians more help by land, and (b) because he's anxious to get the war in Europe over as soon as possible.

The Englishman is willing to pay dearly for a decisive land victory in the West, but he hopes that the Anglo-American air blows will have lessened the cost, for he knows that England may not remain great if another generation is lost. (Great Britain's and Ireland's casualties in the last war were 2,600,000 out of a population of 45,000,000.)

He is immensely impressed by the power, daring, and skill of the U.S. Air Corps in Britain. All England is now saying: "They're doing a grand job".

The Englishman's heart is gladdened by the westward surge of the Red Army, but because the news from Russia has been good for so many months each new victory is no longer greeted with resounding cheers.

It's now taken for granted that the Germans are as good as finished in the East.

The Englishman has deep sympathy for what the Poles have suffered under the Germans, but he believes that the Polish Government is acting unwisely in its present dispute with the Russians, that it should have accepted Moscow's proposal to use the Curzon Line as a basis for determining the Russo-Polish boundary.

Likewise he thinks that Finland should accept the Russian armistice terms, which he considers moderate.

He finds the Turkish talk about the alliance with Great Britain rather tiresome in the fifth year of the war.

He has accepted the fact that Russia will be the dominant power in Eastern Europe after the war, but he thinks this will constitute a threat to Britain only if she makes it one.

The Englishman sees no reason why the Soviet Union and Britain can't both be "interested" in Europe without clashing.

He does not think that the Empire and Commonwealth of Nations are on the skids, but he realizes that there will be vast changes and modifications in the post-war set-up which will probably result in economic losses to Britain.

Partly to offset these losses and partly because of her geographic position, the Englishman thinks that Britain should be closely associated with the countries of Western Europe—perhaps as a member of some kind of Federation.

The Englishman hopes for close post-war collaboration with the United States, but he fears that the U.S. might revert to isolationism.

He would like to see large imports reach Britain, but fears that high U.S. tariffs might make it impossible for Britain to pay for the goods.

If he had a vote in the forthcoming election he would probably cast it for Roosevelt, (a) because he considers him a great war leader, (b) because he knows him better than any other American, and (c) because he thinks that Roosevelt has had most to do with getting the U.S. to help Britain in her hour of need.

But the Englishman realizes that the Presidential election is not his affair, so he carefully avoids any public discussion about it.

Until the Germans are blasted back from the Channel, the Englishman can't become very enthusiastic about the war in the Pacific.

But when the war in Europe is over he will be ready to fight the Jap as long as there is any fight left in the Jap.

On the Home Front, while the Englishman is 100 per cent. for Churchill as a war leader, he has some doubts as to whether he would give the country all it expects in peace-time—in the way of new houses, full employment, and other forms of social security.

The Englishman also wants a general election as soon as the war in Europe is over because he does not believe that the House of Commons now accurately reflects his views.

The Englishman does not find the return of the Luftwaffe to London particularly exhilarating. He thought he had seen the last of the Luftwaffe in 1941.

In those days, by standing up to the bombs, he thought he was contributing directly to the ultimate defeat of the Nazis.

Now he knows the war will be won whether he "takes it" or not. All the same, is taking it.

Meat Rationing In Australia

(By K. F. NOBLE, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Sydney)

THE rationing of meat in Australia has resulted from the heavier demands of the domestic consumer, coupled with the increasing requirements of Australian and Allied services and the over-riding commitments of the Government to the Ministry of Food in the United Kingdom. Effective January 17, meat was added to other rationed goods—clothing, textiles, tea, sugar and butter.

The Commonwealth Food Controller estimated that total consumption during 1944, without rationing, would be 1,350,000 tons, while production could not be increased beyond 1,150,000 tons. There will be, therefore, an estimated shortage of about 200,000 tons to be made up by curtailment of domestic consumption.

In general the ration scheme adopted in Australia is along the lines of the one in force in Canada. Meat is divided into five groups, classifications A to D being subject to rationing. The meat equivalent of the coupons varies for each classification according to the popularity of the cuts and their bone content.

Adults are allowed four non-cumulative coupons per fortnightly period. One coupon will buy three-quarters of a pound of meat in A group, which comprises popular cuts with little or no bone, such as steak; alternatively one coupon will buy one pound of meat in B group (including loin chops, leg of lamb or mutton, rib of beef) or one and one-half pound of C group meat (including chuck steak and shoulder of lamb), or two pounds of D group meat (including gravy beef), boned brisket, and shoulder and forequarter of mutton).

Children under the age of nine years at June 13, 1943, are entitled to a half ration, while supplementary rations are provided for occupational groups and persons under medical care. No allowance has been made for domestic pets.

The residual group, which is coupon-free, comprises a large number of items generally classified as "edible offal," including sausage meat, tripe, liver, tongues, brains, kidneys, hearts, sweetbreads, ox tails, ox heels, ox cheek, cow heels, calves' heads, calves' feet, sheep heads, sheep's trotters, pigs' heads, pigs' feet, pigs' hocks.

No meat coupons are required to purchase the following: poultry, rabbits, bacon, ham, canned meat, cooked meat, and all small goods, including frankfurts, potted meats, ham loaf, and similar items.

To overcome the problem which arises when a purchase calls for the surrender of a portion of a coupon, "coupon change dockets" may be issued at the discretion of the retailer, but radio and press publicity suggests that the practice will not be common.

Under National Security Regulations, retail prices for meat have been subject to maximum ceilings, but specific maximum retail prices are now being established for regional areas.

A Bible Message

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.

And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper. (Ps. 1: 1-3.)

Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God....

Now ye Philippians know also, that in the beginning of the gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church communicated with me as concerning giving and receiving, but ye only. .... Not because I desire a gift: but I desire fruit that may abound to your account....

But my God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus. (Phil. 4: 6, 15, 17, 19.)

Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. Sell that ye have, and give alms; provide yourselves bags which wax not old, a treasure in the heavens that faileth not, where no thief approacheth, neither moth corrupteth. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. (Luke 12: 32-34.)

Tale of a Cat

A Toronto paper carried, one day last week, a delightful story about a ladies' bridge party, salmon sandwiches, a dead cat and a doctor's bill amounting to $30. The locale was given as North Toronto and the report went like this: A young lady, entertaining her girl friends, went to the kitchen to get out the refreshments. There she found the cat sampling a couple of the salmon sandwiches. She threw out the cat and the nibbled sandwiches and served the rest. Later the hostess, having occasion to go to the back door, was horrified to find the family feline stiff and stark, every one of its nine lives gone. In trepidation she told the guests what had happened. All felt ill. Emetics were administered, a physician was called and rendered first aid—also his bill for $30. But the punch-line came when a neighbour knocked at the door later that night to express his sorrow over the fact that, as he was driving his car out of the garage, it had run over the cat.

It's a good story still, but the first time we heard it was all of fifteen years ago; the scene was Listowel not Toronto; instead of being a cat it was a dog, and in place of salmon they had mushrooms, salmon being a plebian dish in those good old days.

Now it may be, of course, that a phenomenally identical repeat performance did take place in North Toronto last week. It may be. But one would judge the law of averages and the preponderance of probability to be strongly against it happening even twice in fifteen years. Without airtight evidence to the contrary, one may be forgiven for supposing that some Toronto reporter has had his leg pulled.

Wrong Again, Goebbels

One of Dr. Goebbels' loudest and most frequent screams directed toward Albion had for its subject matter the perfidy of Russia. As the alliance of the United Nations took ... and began to look like keeping it, the la... of the Nazi propagandist lay in prying the Allies apart. Never did he work harder than in trying to plant the seeds of suspicion between Britain, Russia and the United States.

His favorite gambit was the separate peace. America would never send an army to Europe, he said, and as soon as the Pacific war was over the Americans would cease all military operations. As soon as the European war was over Britain would be in no condition to lend a hand in the Pacific, even if she wanted to. And as for the Russians, here he reached his topmost note. As soon as the Russians reached their old borders they would conclude a separate peace with Germany.

Today the Russians stand at the River Prut. They have driven the Nazis 800 miles before them since Stalingrad was liberated, an advance that was "the greatest cause of Hitler's undoing," according to Mr. Churchill. There is no sign that they have any intention of concluding a separate peace or indeed that they intend to cease fighting at all. They are determined, and by this time even Goebbels must have discovered it for himself, to conclude the only peace that a German can understand.—Montreal Gazette.

Easter Dinner Can Be Special Event Without Lavish Array

Without any lavish display or extravagant use of food, the Easter dinner can still be made a special event with a carefully planned, colorful menu served at a table set with the best china, linen and silver. But more than anything else, sharing what you have with guests — homesick boys and girls from the services— will make an occasion of the simplest Easter meal.

The Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture suggests a menu as follows:

Rhubarb Cup or Fresh Fruit Cocktail
Roast Lamb with Mint Sauce or
Baked Ham with Apple Rings
Potatoes au Gratin
Parsley Parsnips
Mixed Salad Bowl
Spanish Cream
Rolls Coffee

The roast of lamb may be a leg, rack, crown or rolled shoulder, depending only on your preference and pocket book, for all cuts are equally juicy and tender. A rolled shoulder or forequarter makes for easy carving and lends itself to a savory stuffing. But whatever the cut, rub with salt and pepper, place fat side up in an uncovered roaster and cook at moderate temperature 325-350 degrees Fahr., allowing 30 to 35 minutes to the pound. Place a rack under a boned roast and turn it several times during cooking.

If ham is the choice, the method of cooking will vary with the type. When the ham is one that has been specially processed for tenderness it may be baked without previous par-boiling. Use an uncovered roaster and place a rack in the bottom of the pan. A moderately slow oven, 325 degrees F., should be used and the cooking time calculated at 20 minutes to the pound, though the time will vary a little with the thickness and shape of the ham and the proportion of bone and fat. When baked, remove the skin, score diagonally and drain off excess fat. Cover ham with one of the glazes suggested below and return to the oven to brown.

Hams not specially processed for tenderness are best par-boiled, then finished in the oven. Place ham in kettle of warm water, bring slowly to simmering point and cook just below boiling point until tender, allowing about 25 minutes per pound. Lift from water, remove skin, score diagonally, cover with glaze and brown in the oven.

Suggested Glazes

Maple syrup, honey, corn syrup or fruit juice.

A mixture of 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1½ tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons sugar and 1 cup water or stock. Pour over ham and baste several times during browning period.

A mixture of ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup dry bread crumbs and 1 teaspoon dry mustard.

A mixture of ½ cup brown or white sugar and 2 tablespoons flour

Honey sprinkled with cinnamon:

A mixture of ½ cup white sugar and the grated rind of an orange.

Cloves may be used with any of the above glazes

Apple rings to accompany the ham are easily made. Core but do not peel rosy apples, cut in slices ½ to 3-4 inch thick. Cook until tender in a pan containing a sugar syrup (syrup from canned fruit may be used), basting frequently The syrup may be colored and should be flavoured with spices or lemon.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP

Today we are going to give several recipes for meat dishes that are quite out of the usual way of serving meat. Some of these can also be used when we wish to use up small left-overs of meat, and take away that left-over look and taste.

Meat Balls

¾ lb. lean beef, ½ lb. lean veal, ¼ lb. bacon, cupful milk, 1 or 2 eggs, ¾ cupful dried bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon white pepper, 2½ teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 4 tablespoons butter.

Wash the meat. Cut into dice, together with the bacon, and put through food chopped three times. Beat the eggs, add the milk and bread crumbs, and let stand until the crumbs are soft. Saute the onion brown in a little of the butter, stir into the crumb mixture, then work this into the meat, together with the seasonings. Form the mixture into small balls. Brown well in the fat, and add a cupful of boiling water. Cover the pan and let the balls cook through. This will take about 15 minutes. Thicken the gravy with a little flour and serve. You can use left-over cold roast beef if you so desire.

Meat Loaf

2 lbs. beef, ground, ¾ cup suet 2 small onions, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 3 teaspoons salt, 4 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 eggs, 4 tablespoons horseradish, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 4 tablespoons minced green pepper, ¾ cupful tomato ketchup.

Mix well all ingredients except ketchup. Pack in greased bread pan. Cover the top of the loaf with tomato ketchup and bake at 400 degrees for 45 minutes. This loaf may be made of left-over meat and is delicious hot or cold.

Spring Lamb Stew en Casserole

2 lbs. lamb, ¾ cupful diced carrots, 1½ cupfuls diced potatoes, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, onions. Cut the meat in cubes, after freeing it from fat as much as possible. Roll it in as much flour as it will take up and put a layer in the bottom of the casserole. Sprinkle with the vegetables (except the peas) mixed together and a little of the salt and pepper, and continue in this way until all is used. Cover with boiling water, put on the lid and bake in a 350 degree F. oven for one hour and three-quarters. Cover with peas and cook about 20 minutes longer.

Ham Roll-ups

½ cup cooked carrots, 1 cup cubed cooked potatoes, ½ cup canned peas, ½ cup diced celery, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped pickle, salad dressing, salt and pepper, 12 thin slices boiled ham, shredded lettuce.

Combine carrots, potatoes, peas, celery, onion and pickle. Moisten with salad dressing, season with salt and pepper. Put spoonful of salad mixture on each slice of ham, roll up. Fasten with picks, chill. Arrange lettuce on individual salad plates, place three ham roll-ups on each.

Beef Omelet

Four pounds round steak, uncooked, chopped fine, six eggs, beaten together, five crackers rolled fine, a little butter, salt, pepper and sage, if you wish. Make two loaves, roll in crackers. Bake about an hour, slice when cold.

W.P.T.B. Employee Addresses Consumer Branch

Mr. H. C. Lowery and Mr. G. Holden were guests at the regular meeting of the Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, held Friday afternoon in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. Mr. Holden is in Peterborough to replace Mr. W. E. Foley, who, through illness, has taken a leave of absence.

In speaking to the ladies, Mr. Lowery asked them to broaden the scope of their work, and not be content to merely watch food prices. He explained that there was a vast field to be discovered. Reading the results of a recent survey on the costs of certain permanent waves at local hairdressers, Mr. Lowery reminded that price control, based on the basic period, also applied to that line of business. The survey showed that prices being asked were on an average, far in advance of the highest rate allowed, according to the basic period scale.

He also asked that women begin to check clothing labels. According to a new ruling, passed March 1, every article must bear a label or tag, bearing, in addition to size and maker's mark, a number, issued to the manufacturer from the W.P.T.B. In this way, the quality can be checked, and the materials traced right back to the mill and the original buyers and sellers.

Referring to the coming maple syrup season, Mr. Lowery showed a syrup grader, which he said would be available to all who wished to check the quality of maple syrup they were buying or selling.

Mr. G. Holden answered several questions. One was in connection with the fluctuation in canning sugar allowed for each person last year. He explained, that since the distribution had been left to the local Boards, every one had a different idea of the amount to be given. This year, he continued, all canning sugar allowances will be the same.

He also explained about the scarcity of canned salmon, and why rationing of that commodity was not instituted. Mr. Holden explained that the cost of setting up such an arrangements would far exceed its usefulness, since such a small quantity was available. He added, that news of the salmon being placed on the market had been released too soon, and that a great demand had been created before adequate machinery had been set up to take care of it.

Mrs C. W. Laing, president of the committee, presided, and read a summary of a report of the comparative use of the "d" coupon. The most notable finding of the report was that 34 per cent of the "d" coupons were being used for sugar.

Y. W. C. A. Club Doings

The theme for this week has been "Making Christ the Character behind the Blue Triangle—Acting Religiously". Christian service is a way to share in God's creative purpose.

Y.W.C.A. The new Intermediate Business Girls' Club met on Tuesday in the Club Supper Room. The first part of the evening was spent in playing games and then a discussion of things to do brought the decision to work on the Health Commission from the Canadian Youth Commission. The subject is being divided into three phases: Public Health to be presented by Eleanor Taylor and her committee at a supper meeting on April 25th; Community Health, May 9th; Family Health to be presented by Dorothy Boyle and her committee on May 23rd. The next meeting is scheduled for April 11th but the club has accepted the invitation of the '38 Club to meet with them on Wednesday, April 12th, and share their musicale. On April 25th a supper meeting will be held at 6 o'clock and plans are being made to attend the Agnes Logan Green recital together. Any business girls who have been on their own a few years and interested in getting together with others in the same category are cordially invited to this Tuesday club.

The '38 Club held a very interesting and well attended meeting in the Club Room on Wednesday. A number of special guests were welcomed. Leona McMillan introduced Mr. L. J. Pettit to the group who spoke on "Government" describing the organization of the Dominion Government and what part citizens play in a democratic government. A general discussion was led by Mr. Pettit. This will be followed up with a panel discussion on Party Politics on April 26th in which members of the club will take part. The next meeting on April 12th will be a Springtime Musicale with guest soloists, recordings, and program annotators.

The Gym-Swim Club on Thursday held a hilarious "Hard Times Party". The programme was in charge of Doreen Wells assisted by Marguerite Royea, Doris Royea, Marjorie Lorne, Viola Davidson, Ina Robinson and Opal Robinson. A treasure hunt for such coveted articles of food as turnips and lettuce sent the "beggars" into dark alleys and black coal bins. The trial for the judging of and sentencing of those wearing anything but hard times rags sent victims shuddering to the penance. Supper of water and soda biscuits proved the straitened financial situation of our friends but somehow the benevolent "Mr. McLean" appeared with ice cream and cookies. Next week's meeting will take the form of an open forum discussion on Minority Groups led by Grace Schiarizza on the Japanese; Doreen Lord on China; Doreen Wells presenting the French Canadian picture; and Isobel Shearer speaking of the Jews.

Last week the Friday Supper Club held their last regular meeting until after the holidays. Jean Ferguson, president, presided. Letters received were read by the secretary, Betty Blewett. Nancy Moore gave the treasurer's report showing that $75 had been presented to the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund of the Y.W. and $25 to the Collegiate War Services Fund. Shirley Prophitt, delegate to the Youth Commission reported on events thus far. The club have decided to discuss and present a brief on Recreation for Youth. Agnes Weddell is in charge of plans for a Paper Chase, supper and dance, to be held at the "Y" from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, April 12th, as a holiday party. The next regular meeting will be held on April 21st.

Kinettes Give Party For Kinsmen Club

Sadness took a holiday Friday evening when the Kinettes transferred, for one evening only, from their hard-working "Milk-for-Britain" activities to entertaining their husbands, the Kinsmen, on their one social event of the year.

A floor show was presented, with Mrs. Maurice Holt acting as mistress of ceremonies. The opening chorus by all the Kinettes was followed by a one-act drama, entitled, "The Winning of Cleopatra," or "There's Corn in Egypt Yet," by a group, the hero and heroine being portrayed by Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wharry. The famous Leap Year number, "Walter, Walter, Lead Me to the Altar," was portrayed and sung by Mrs. T. Williams. The fantasy on the Romeo and Juliet scene was done by Mr. Wilfrid Langan and Mrs. John Nornabell.

Following a community sing conducted by Mrs. Alex Sollitt and the Victory Polka by all Kinettes, three old maids stalked out on the platform in regalia of ancient vintage and went on to relate how "they wanted a man." Their number was encored by the Kinsmen favorite, "The Three Old Maiads," said spinsters being Mrs. Cal Sheehy, Mrs. Adam Sands and Mrs. Maurice Holt.

A strip tease (?) and ballet number of 1950 was followed by a "Strawberry Blonde" solo portrayal which turned out to be an "April fool's joke" on all present. The strawberry blonde was Kinette Mrs. James Elliott.

The program closed with the chorus "For Me and My Gal."

The pianist for the evening was Mrs. William J. Gordon and the committee in charge of the evening was Mrs. Adam Sands, Mrs. Vern Selkirk, Mrs. Wilfred Langan, Mrs. John Nornabell, Mrs. C. Graham, Mrs. Harold Worton and all Kinettes.

Dafoe Couple Wed 50 Years

HAVELOCK, April 1 (ENS) — Congratulations are being offered this week to one of Belmont townships most respected couples, Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Dafoe who are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary. The wedding ceremony took place in 1894 at Norwood and was performed by Rev. J. Buchanan. After their wedding, they settled in Belmont and for the last 48 years have lived on the farm where they now reside.

Mr. Dafoe was born in Lennox and Addington County, near Tamworth, and used to drive to Madoc, and it was then that he and the late Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe became such pals. Mrs. Dafoe, before her marriage was Eliza Melville, and was born in Belmont township, her father having taught school for many years at Rush Point. When Mr. and Mrs. Dafoe first took up housekeeping they walked to a store at Old Havelock or to Norwood, and what is now the village of Havelock was a dense woods.

Recall Early Days

Both enjoy talking of the good old days of long ago, and are still very active, going about their farm chores. Mrs. Dafoe was 74 last November and Mr. Dafoe 78 in May.

A wedding reception was held at the home of their youngest son, Arnold, who resides about a mile from them, and all of their six children were present. They are: Gran, township Clerk of Belmont, Melville and Arnold of Belmont, Mrs. Murray Fraser of Belmont, Mrs. Hector Bannon of Havelock and Mrs. Arthur King of Belmont. One daughter Tressia died 23 years ago. Also present were 16 of their 20 grand children and 2 of their great grand children. This venerable couple were the recipients of congratulations and gifts, from their host of friends.

Low Heat Best for Boiling Or Using Eggs in Cooking

How much heat is used in cooking and how the ingredients go together are the questions that often decide whether an omelet, an angel food or any other egg dish is a success or a failure, according to home economists who have recently made special studies of egg cookery.

The most important rule for cooking eggs alone or in mixture —whether the cooking is done in water, frying pan or oven—is: Use low to moderate heat. Eggs cooked with too much heat become tough and leathery.

In custards and other egg and milk combinations, curdling is often a problem. The home economists say this may be prevented, first, by proper mixing, and, second, by cooking at moderate heat until the mixture is firm—but no longer. When hot milk is added to egg, the sugar should be mixed with the egg, not with the milk. Then the milk should be added to the egg a little at a time.

In making souffle, omelet or angel food, the mixing is again important. To combine beaten whites with other mixtures, fold in the white with a light under-and-over motion instead of stirring it in. Fold the heavy mixture into the beaten whites never the whites into the heavier mixture. Mix only long enough to combine the ingredients. Overmixing breaks some of the air bubbles and means a loss of lightness.

Meringue for the top of pies and puddings calls for special mixing if it is to be tender and light yet firm with no "waterness." To make meringue beat the wihtes with a little salt until the foam forms soft moist peaks but is not dry. Then add the sugar a tablespoon at a time using 2 tablespoons for egg white. Beat until sugar is thoroughly dissolved and the meringue so that liquid will not be drawn out of the meringue making it look "watery." To help keep meringue from shrinking as it bakes, spread it over the edge of the crust to give it something to cling to during cooking. Bake meringue in a moderate oven (325 to 350 deg. Fah.) for 15 to 20 minutes.

Rector Addresses All Saints' Group

Rev. W. A. Filer, rector of All Saints' Anglican Church, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Church Women's Year of All Saints', held Thursday afternoon. His address was based on the 23rd Paslm, and he illustrated his talk with natural color slides of Palestine.

Mrs. J. Adams, president, conducted the business session and Mrs. R. N. Jones, reporting for the Navy League, said that 38 articles had been knit during the month. Eight pairs of immersion socks, for the Red Cross, has been knit by the Boy Scout mothers. Reporting for the visiting committee, Mrs. S. Williams told of 47 calls made, and 20 cards sent to sick and shut-in members. The offering amounted to $190.25.

Miss C. Cairns read the Bible lesson. Mrs. J. Morley was guest soloist, accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Logan. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sarah Williams and her group.

Rehabilitation Subject Of Talk

Mrs. J. Cridland, president of the Peterborough Women's Progressive Conservative Association, gave an instructive address on a vital subject, "Rehabilitation," at the regular meeting of the St. Paul's Ladies' Aid, held Friday afternoon in the Guild Room.

Mrs. A. A. McIntyre, president, conducted the business period, and dedicated the cent-a-day offering. It was voted that the Diamond Jubilee of the Ladies' Aid be observed June 2. Mrs. A. Spenceley, accompanied by Mrs. W. D. Taylor, sang "Alone." Prior to her departure for Detroit, where she will take up residence, Mrs. Orville Moore was presented with a leather-bound copy of the Presbyterian Book of Praise, as a remembrance.

The West-end Group, led by Mrs. D. Miller, took charge of the devotional period. Mrs. E. R. Dubray read the Easter scripture message, and Miss L. Hall led in prayer. Mrs. T. F. McArthur thanked the speaker and soloist, and Mrs. J. Craig offered the closing prayer. Refreshments were served after the meeting had adjourned.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 1 — (AP). — About a yar ago the women bowlers of the United States presented to the Army a A20-bomber plane purchased with their nickels and dimes......The Women's International Bowling Congress has just received a report on the plane's "enviable combat record"...In two months engaged in 16 combat missions, striking aaginst troop cncntrations, destroying enemy ammunition dumps and engaging in a ground support mission co-ordinated with the landing at Saidor....It dropped 17,800 pounds of bombs and fired 1,298 rounds of 20-mm ammunition....Next Saturday the bowling gals will present an ambulance plane to the Army Air Forces and they're collecting more nickels and dimes for another.

Keeping the tradition:

Lt.-Col. King Gill, reputedly the man responsible for the tradition that keeps Texas A. and M. Cadets on their feet throughout every football game, now is flight-surgeon at Major Field, Greenville, Tex, and presumably is responsible for keeping the Air Force Cadets on their toes....The story is that Gill was a very lowly sub when the Aggies played centre at Dallas, January 2, 1922, and was in the stands with the other Cadets....When A. and M players, one after another, were forced out by injuries, Coach D. X. Bible sent for Gill and told him to sit up....He didn't get into the game, but the summons was enough to create the tradition that every Cadet should be on his feet, ready to go in there and play if called.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Red Dutton, managing director of the National Hockey League, confirmed in Montreal last night that the 11-0 defeat pasted on Toronto Maple Leafs by the Montreal Canadiens was a record in modern Stanley Cup play.

The search of the record-books that followed the elimination of the Toronto team did bring up a bigger score, however. That was in 1905, when Ottawa's famous Silver Seven led by Frank McGee walloped some challengers from Dawson City, Yukon, by 23-2. McGee himself got 14 goals that night.

It was an official challenge game but the circumstances were highly unusual. The Dawson boys were a pick-up team which travelled more than 1,000 miles by boat and dogsled before they reached the railway to get a train for Ottawa.

Vic Heyliger, the hockey coach at the University of Illinois, predicts a boom in intercollegiate hockey in the United States after the war. He said at Champaign, Ill., yesterday that hockey has all the requisites for a popular intercollegiate sport and should take its place alongside college football and basketball.

Sidney (Beau Jack) Walker of Augusta, Ga., former holder of the New York version of the lightweight championship, outpointed Juan Zurita of Mexico City, holder of the N.B.A. lightweight crown, in a close 10-rounder last night in Madison Square Garden, Beau Jack weighed 136, Zuria 133¼. A crowd of 17,593 contributed to a gross gate of $87,802.

A classy women's cage quintette from London, Ont., moved into the Ontario Ladies' Intermediate basketball finals when they trounced the Toronto Alerts 47-23 at Toronto last night.

New swimming records were established last night at the U. S. National A.A.U. indoor swimming meet at Ann Arbor, Mich. Adolph Keifer won the 300-yard individual medley in 3:23.9, beating his own American record. There is no world record for the distance. Bill Smith in the 220-yard free-style set on American mark of 2:09.3, slightly slower than his own world record.

The University of New Brunswick intermediate basketball team captured the Maritime championship at Fredericton last night by beating New Waterford, N.S., Strands 53-21 for a score of 83-43 on the round. The winners meet Ottawa University in a Dominion semi-final.

CITY CARPETBALL

A meeting of the league was held on Monday last at the Sons of England Hall for the disposition of prizes and arrangements for the President's Cup.

Fred C. Wiggins is to approach the All Saints' Club with view of all first round being played in that hall on one evening. It was thought that all funds should be turned over to the British War Victims' and only trophies awarded to the first and second place teams and to the high average outside those winners.

All schedule games must be played before Friday, April 14th or points forfeited. The schedule for next week should be those teams now holding top rung positions in the league standings to determine winners of the Bleasdell and Hope trophies.

There is one score card we have not yet received of game played last week between All Saints and Brintons. Results of this week show the Old Soldiers trimming the Antiques 13-12 and 11-8. The Antiques were strong enough to split points with Brintons, 11-17 and 10-7.

East City Wardens spoiled King Billies chance to hold the tie for third when they took three out of four points—score 14-14 and 12-15. Brintons out shot the Outlaws by 19-8 and 14-5 whilst the Fighting Parsons subdued the Mad Masons 13-9 and 8-8.

The present sandings are:

SPORTS—Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

There's great news for Peterborough hockey fans today. The first sod will be turned in the near future for the city's modern ice arena, sports centre and auditorium. The committee appointed last fall, working quietly has secured pledges totalling $75,000; the city council is ready to pass and submit a bylaw to the ratepayers authorizing the issue of debentures for $50,000 and the support of the voters is taken for granted. Dominion construction authorities have given the project the green light and the way is cleared for a speedy start. It is expected that the arena will be ready for use by November. It will have an ice surface of 200 by 95 feet and seating accommodation for 4,000 with an uninterrupted view from every seat. In addition facilities for box lacrosse, basketball and other sports will be provided. The arena will have a good floor so that it will be available for dances, roller-skating, public meetings and other events in the off season. Plenty of dressing-rooms and other accommodation has been taken care of and the big structure will be up to the minute in every respect....Note to the reader: At this stage remember that today is April 1, so forget all the foregoing paragraph. But we can dream, can't we?

The other day this column referred to the success of two Peterborough members of the R.C.A.F. in Toronto have been having in boxing this winter. But Grant Howard and Rip Van Allen are not the only representatives of this city to distinguish themselves in the ring shows of the R.C.A.F. Another is Gordon Beatty, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Beatty, 601 Homewood avenue. At the monthly sports championship meet at Manning Pool, Toronto, the other night Beatty won the heavyweight boxing championship. Fighting as a representative of No. 1 squadron he came home in front of Summers of No. 3 squadron second and Marshall of No. 2 squadron third. Gordon will be remembered by football fans as a hard-plunging lineman with Coach H. L. Bamforth's championship P.C.V.S. squad of several years back. He took boxing instructions at the local Y.M.C.A. before enlisting with the R.C.A.F. and they have evidently stood him in good stead in the Air Force competitions. Before he joined the R.C.A.F. in September, 1943, he was an apprentice in the C.G.E. machine shop.

A Champion Referee

Next Tuesday night's wrestling show at the Brock St. Rink will be remarkable for the fact that the referee in the main bout is likely to attract more attention than the rival grapplers. He will be none other than the famous Strangler Lewis, who held the world's championship on five different occasions and threw all the best men in the game with his deadly headlock. For many years Lewis rode out in front of the wrestling parade, made and lost a couple of fortunes and always was a performer rich in color. He is still on the active list, not as young as he used to be but still tremendously powerful and a menace to unwary wrestlers who happen to find themselves engulfed in the Lewis special hold. There is nothing about the wrestling art that the Strangler does not know and with him in command of the main bout Karl Krippler Davis' warfare with referees is likely to come to a sudden end. The Texan undoubtedly is tough but if he tries to shove Lewis around as he has been doing to Maxwell and Powers he'll find that he has made a serious mistake. The Strangler is not likely to call upon the rule book but he will deal with the Krippler in his own favorite style and the result is not likely to be pleasant for the roughhouse hombre from down Texas way.

* * * * * *

With Lewis as third man in the ring that Frank Sexton-Davis feud should be an epic struggle. Right now the Texan ranks as about the worst of the bad men. He gave the popular Vic Holbrook the works in Toronto Thursday night, hit the Californian with everything but the timer's gong and slammed him around so often that Velocity Vic was still bounching when he hit the dressing-room. However Sexton has shown in his bouts here that while he prefers real wrestling and has a repertoire of clever holds he is quite capable of taking care of himself in the heavy going and of meeting Davis on his own ground. If he is forced to adopt jungle methods to match the style of his opponent the Columbus powerhouse has the strength and the courage to carry him through that kind of battling. With Lewis boss of the job Sexton can devote himself to the task of controlling the powerful Texan and it should be a tussle crammed full of action. Promoter Tunney is providing a supporting bill worthy of the class of the main attraction and the result will be one of the best cards of the season.

New Cage Rules

"Canada is represented at the basketball convention at New York by Don Paul, who is a frequent visitor to Kingston," writes Bill Walshe in the Kingston Whig-Standard. "The most important business of the New York session for Canadians concerned is changes in the playing rules. Requested by the college coaches to make some move to curb excessively tall players, who have been used in recent seasons to bat shots away from the baskets, the committee complied by forbidding defensive players from touching the ball on its downward flight on a shot for the goal. The penalty is the award of a field goal, the only exception being when the ball obviously is falling short of the basket. Three other rules changes were: 1. Raising from four to five the number of personal fouls a player may commit before disqualified from the game. 2. Permitting players to re-enter the game an unlimited number of times instead of being restricted to re-entries after once leaving the court. 3. Granting the officials authority to suspend play immediately in the case of an injury to a player. Under present rules officials cannot stop play for an injury unless the injured player's team is in possession of the ball or until the play in progress at the time of the injury has been completed."

Chick Appel of the Stratford Beacon-Herald takes up the cudgels for sport writers in the following pungent remarks in his column: "Maybe now that the Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens' indebtedness has been cleared off and the shareholders are receiving tidy dividends on their investment, it no longer is considered necessary to extend the customary courtesies to the press, who played no small role in the success of the huge sports amphitheatre. Time was when the Maple Gardens showed their appreciation of what the press was doing and could do for them, by forwarding unsolicited press passes for the entire year to sports writers around the country. Then they realized that the newspapers of the country were according them free space of such volume that had they been obliged to dig down for same at prevailing space rates it would have bankrupted any organization. At best, had this publicity been paid for at regular rates Maple Leaf Gardens would not be clear of debt now, nor would the shareholders be reaping such rich returns."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Tom Zaharias will battle Toar Morgan in the semi-final of the Tunney show here Tuesday and Bunny Dunlop, back from an invasion of the United States will clash with Jack Wentworth in the opener....Oshawa Generals just had to go through the motions to take the Eastern Canadian junior semi-finals from the Ottawa University....The Ontario champs took last night's game 11 to 1 and will now meet the Montreal Royals....The ridiculous manner in which hockey players are allowed to jump around under the present build-up-the-gates policy of the C.A.H.A. is shown by the fact that Stu Smith who started the season with Kirkland Lake and played afterward with Montreal Royals and Quebec Aces is now with the Hull Volants....They can change that slogan to read "Play senior hockey and see the world."....Clint Smith has been awarded the Byng Trophy....The Chicago star won it before as a member of the Rangers....Toe Blake and Maurice Richard are leading the Stanley Cup playoff scoring records with 10 points each and Doug Bentley is right on their heels with nine points.

Chicago Hopes Pitcher Lee Makes Grade

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, April 1—(AP)—Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, may have one of his pitching worries erased from his mind today.

Southpaw Thornton Lee is scheduled to take the mound against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Louisville, Ky., in the first of a two-game series. If the portsider shows that an operation last fall has cured the source of his arm trouble the Sox hopes of winning the American League pennant will take a big jump.

Back in 1941 Lee won 22 games and lost 11 with an earned run average of 2.37 before his arm trouble developed.

Other major league news:

Brooklyn Dodgers—Mickey Owen, first string catcher, reported.

St. Louis Cardinal—Whitey Kurowski, third baseman, pulled ancient hidden ball trick on Ken O'Dea in intrasquad game. O'Dea had tripled, then was caught off third to dismay of Manager Billy Southworth who was coaching at the hot corner.

Washington Senators—Milo Candini, Dutch Leonard and Early Wynn were picked for mound duty against Martin bombers today.

Chicago Cubs-Bruins hope to play their first exhibition game today against Detroit. Eddie Hanzyewski scheduled to start on mound with Hank Wyse and Johnny Burrows also slated for three-inning turns.

New York Giants' veteran southpaw Carl Hubbell helped pitch in batting practice.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, April 2

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a airly pleasant and prosperous one, in spite of a few annoying or disturbing situations—probably due to emotional urges, personal indulgencies or an immoderate or rash nature. The romantic, social or domestic scene dominates in the activities, but there may be desirable revamping of plans and purposes. There might be a revision of announcements or social functions.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured a pleasant and prosperous year, with minor annoying or disturbing conditions to be turned into lucrative, constructive channels. This is to be accomplished by means of a rigid supervision of the conduct, emotions and indulgences, lest they prevent excellent prospects from becoming gratifying accomplishments. There may be a change of plans, with travel, rearrangements of social functions.

A child born on this day will possess excellent cultural qualities, with talents and high aspirations, despite tendencies to personal indulgence. It will enjoy a successful and happy career.

For Monday, April 3

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a most promising one, with noble, generous and expansive vibrations to stimulate business and personal affairs. There may be many activities centred around the pursuit of pleasure, with elders, superiors and employers ready to proffer the friendly hand. It is a time for forging ahead to advanced goals of ambition.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of outstanding success, happiness and prosperity. The emphasis may be on social, domestic or romantic engagements, with prosperity and personal gratification in sight. Expanding rays stimulate finance, ambitions and aspirations, with friends and those in influental places, assisting. Health and happiness are progressing.

A child born on this day may be possessed of many capabilities, ambitions and aspirations, which assure high spots of attainment and pleasure. It may occupy a high place in society or the professions.

EVERYBODY FEARS "THEY SAY"

Heroic Men, Women Cringe Before Idle Gossip of Neighbors, Even Admitted Nitwits.

THE thing of which most people are more afraid than they are of anything else on earth is THEY SAY. Men and women who have faced death and disease and all manner of terrors with dauntless courage and without turning a hair's breath from the course they have set out to follow, will cringe and cower and be turned from their purpose by the idle gossip of their neighbors.

And the curious thing is that they have no respect for the bugaboo of which they stand in awe and which dominates them. They do not think that the Smiths and the Browns and the Jones and the Perkins, who make up THEY SAY, have any superior intelligence, or judgment, or manners, or morals that entitle them to set the pattern for their fellow creatures' conduct.

Scorn Nitwits' Views

On the contrary, they regard them individually as a lot of nitwits whose opinion they wouldn't take on buying a hat or a necktie and why, when these half-baked views are bunched together, they become the controlling factor in the lives of myriads of people, is a riddle that nobody can solve. Least of all do its victims know why they grovel before THEY SAY.

We are so accustomed to human sacrifices being offered up on the altar of THEY SAY that we do not even notice how often they occur, but a great proportion of the misery of the world, the failures, the frustrations, the divorces and even the poverty is due to men and women not having the backbone to do what they want to do and what Nature intended them to do for fear of what people would say.

Think of the bitter unsuccessful lawyers and doctors you know who would have been happy and prosperous carpenters and mechanics if they had been permitted to follow their bents. But their parents wouldn't hear of them learning a trade because of what people would say. Think of the inept stenographers and interior decorators and salesladies who never earn more than starvation wages or hold down a job, but who would be blissfully content and able to command top notch prices in anybody's kitchen, but who dare not go into domestic service for fear of what THEY SAY.

Parasites Could Be Independent

And, worst of all, think of the myriads of people who are parasites, hanging on to their families and friends and chiseling a living out of them, when they might be independent and self-respecting if they would only roll up their sleeves and go to work at digging ditches or taking boarders. But they would rather starve or beg than face the music of THEY SAY.

And not least among the tragedies for which THEY SAY is responsible is the havoc it works in the love life of women. For one thing, it is at the bottom of the horror women have of being old maids. Not every woman wants to marry. There are plenty of girls who are allergic to pots and pans and babies, who have good jobs and would much prefer single blessedness, but they are made to feel that if they don't corral a husband THEY'LL SAY it was because they couldn't get one.

And how many women marry men they don't love and don't want and with whom they live scrappily ever afterwards, only because they were afraid of what THEY SAY, not even the divorce court knows.

And the ironic part of it is that when anybody is brave enough to defy THEY SAY, THEY SAY applauds them for it.

Drownings in the flood waters remained at nine.

Oshawa Finishes Ottawa 11-1 In Semi-finals

OSHAWA, April 1 — (CP). — Oshawa Generals to-day prepared for the Eastern Canada junior hockey final with Montreal Royals after eliminating University of Ottawa last night in a best-of-three semi-final. Generals defeated the Collegians 11-1 last night which coupled with an earlier victory gave them the series 2-0.

Doug Chenier's four goals and an equal number of assists by Bobby Love, gave the Generals sufficient power to defeat the Ottawans. In addition Bill Ezinicki netted three tallies and Batten, Taggar, Petsura, and Porter added singles. Landriault scored the sole counter for the Ottawa club.

The Generals posted two goals in the opening frame and by the end of the second session were ahead 6-0. Entering the third period, they had lifted the score to 7-0, before Landriault got in with the Ottawa tally. Oshawa continued to press the attack and boosted their count with four more goals.

Harvey Bennett, the Oshawa goaler, had a comparatively light session with the Generals carrying the attack most of the time into the Ottawa zone. Auger showed fine spirit in the Ottawa cage, but a weak defence left him helpless before many of the Oshawa rushes.

(By The Canadian Press)

Just 25 years ago today the Stanley Cup series between Montreal Canadiens and Seattle was called off owing to an influenza epidemic in the Canadiens' camp. With the deciding game to be played at Seattle five "Flying Frenchmen" were taken ill and rushed to hospital. The great defenceman, Joe Hall, died within a few days as a result of the disease.

HE'S A $66,000 BEAUTY—High-priced horseflesh, and we mean high-priced! Pericles, owned by William Helis, Greek millionaire, was purchased by Helis last year for $66,000, third highest price ever paid for a yearling. Pericles, shown at Belmont Park, New York, with Jockey Nick Jemas, will make his first start this year. He is a son of Blenheim II, who was the daddy of Whirlaway.

Clinton Smith Awarded Byng Trophy

By HAROLD FREEMAN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, April 1—(CP). — A potent play-making stick and an ability to stay out of the penalty box have brought 31-year-old Clint Smith the Byng Trophy for the second time in his 11 years of professional hockey.

The National Hockey League announced last night that Smith had won the award as the player best combining sportsmanship and playing ability this season, and thus the cup that was won by Max Bentley a year ago stays in Chicago for another season.

It was a close race this year, with the Assiniboia, Sask., star just nosing out another veteran, Boston's Herbie Cain, who established a new league point-total of 82 this season to smash the 14-year mark of 73 established by Cooney Weiland of Boston.

Smith also established a record on the season's play. Pivoting the dynamite Bentley-Smith-Mosienko line for the Hawks, he piled up 49 assists to pass the 45-mark established by Bill Cowley of Boston three years ago. He served only two minor penaleies in 50 scheduled games.

Syd Howe, who scored 32 goals and bagged 28 assists for Detroit Red Wings, finished in third spot in the voting, his 69 points barely edging out Lorne Carr of Toronto, who collected 67.

Balloting for the trophy is conducted annually by the N.H.L., with each N.H.L. team nominating two sports writers from its city to participate.

Edwards Bereaved

NEW YORK, April 1—(CP).—Mrs. Julia M. Edwards, 77-year-old mother of Dr. Phil Edwards, Olympic track star of former years, died Thursday night at her home in Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y.

News of the death was revealed yesterday by Edwards, now a captain in the Canadian Army Medical Corps, who flew here from his station in Ontario in time to see his mother just before she died.

Jones a Colonel

LONDON, April 1—(CP).—Robert T. (Bobby) Jones, the Atlanta, Ga., lawyer and former golf champion, has been promoted from major to lieutenant-colonel.

PHILLIES START SPRING TRAINING — Stalwarts of the Philadelphia Phillies stretch and bend in calesthenics drill indoors at their Wilmington, Del., spring training camp. Making with the bends are, Ben Culp, front; Andrew Semenick, centre, and Bob Finley, back. All three are catchers. Manager, and pitcher, Fred Fitzsimmons, looks on (rear).

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 1 — (CP) — Tennis players on the West Coast are all pepped up this spring for what is hoped will be the biggest season since the outbreak of war. Manufacturers are allowed to turn out 50 per cent more balls this year than last and the racquet-wielders plan to make the best of it, with activities due to start in a few weeks.

Other parts of Canada with a less-balmy climate won't be getting out their retreaded tennis shoes for a while yet, but the release of more balls is going to stimulate the game a lot. Groundkeepers probably are heaving sighs of relief that there will be more scuffing feet on the court and less weeds for them to fight.

Adams squelched:

Peppery Jack Adams, the Detroit manager, is a hard man to quiet, but Joe Cooper of Chicago Black Hawks did the trick in the Stanley Cup semi-final between the two teams, according to a story going the rounds. Jack had been badgering Cooper unmercifully until Coop while clearing the puck landed it over the boards and on Jack's noggin. Adams, however, is inclined to think it was an accident, contending that Cooper "can't put the puck where he wants to anyway."

Series sketches:

After the first Canadiens-Leafs game, Newsy Lalonde opined that Canadiens were pressing too hard and making mistakes through their over-eagerness. They must have heeded Newsy's advice, because after that they let Toronto make the mistakes against Durnan while the Montrealers let breaks and goals pay off....Commenting on Murph Chamberlain's rink-length goal in the fourth game, Al (Montreal Herald) Parsley opined he should have been noble about it all and let Bill Durnan sling the puck down the ice and into the opposite net.

Incidentally:

One of the famed old Edmonton Grads girls' basketball team, Rena Fraser, is playing with the Kitchener C.W.A.C. team now. Rena, a sergeant-major, is captain of the quintette.....Ross Wilson, first baseman on St. Catharines senior baseball teams the past five years, has enlisted in the Navy as a stoker...Quebec Aces ran into the housing shortage when they visited Halifax for their Eastern senior hockey semi-final with Truro Bearcats. Aces had to bunk in the Pullman cars since the hotels were all full....Canadian lawn bowlers raised more than $32,000 last year for various war charities, all by contributions among themselves... Bill Durnan, chosen unanimously by N.H.L. managers for their all-star team, is the only first-year man ever chosen by the braintrust for their dream team of the year.

Toronto Has More Pitchers

TORONTO, April 1—Tom Ananicz, the long-geared southpaw moundsman of last year's Toronto Leafs, joined Burleigh Grimes and his spring training baseballers at Lancaster, Pa., yesterday afternoon.

"Right now," Burleigh reported via the telephone from Lancaster, "it looks like a pitcher's market for us here. Prospects point to more quantity than last season, and I hope the quality approaches the 1943 standard."

Grimes pointed out the Leafs had only Strincevich, Dick Conger and Luke Hamlin as outstanding mound prospects during spring training a year ago. "Now," he said, "I can see at least five or six likely looking pitchers."

Although Lancaster had been visited by flurries of snow and intermittent showers, Grimes said training was not being interrupted.

"Time's too short," said Burleigh, "to allow ourselves to head for cover because of a little rain or snow. And we haven't missed a training beat."

Grimes and Red Kress guided the Toronto baseball colony through a two-hour hitting drill Friday, the second day of horsehide clouting.

Harry Davis and Jim Gruzdis are expected over the week-end. By that time the squad should be up to 24 or 25.

Ralph (Highpockets) McCabe, the tall pitcher from Belleville, is still on the limp. McCabe underwent a knee operation early this winter.

Germans Enlist Women To Speed Work

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LISBON, April 1 — (AP) — Little girls and grandmothers are being harnessed to Germany's war production tasks as the Nazis seek to overcome new manpower problems created by the destruction of thousands of factories by Allied planes.

A special appeal, German newspapers disclose, is being made to women of more than 45 in a campaign to get women volunteers to replace hundreds of thousands of male workers diverted from war production to emergency reconstruction, repair and relocation tasks.

Articles in the Nazi press hopefully point to the "great reservoir" of part time workers among elderly women, and also disclose that girls too young for regular jobs can effectively be used part time in some branches of industry.

These girls, says the paper, "average 12 years of age, but there are also nine and 10-year-olds among them.' The story declared that the children "sing while they work." Grandmothers on the payroll range in age up to 72.

In addition, women volunteers expect to work in munitions plants and other factories "wherever possible near their homes," the paper said, and millions of others are being urged to accept home work assignments Work previously done in large scale garment industry now is being scattered among hundreds of thousands of homes.

These drastic efforts to get women to fill the laps in the labor ranks take on particularly significance when one reads appeals to bombed out workers to return to their jobs. Apparently many thousands of workers, leaving the industrial areas after factories have been damaged and their homes destroyed, are failing to return or report where they are.

Omemee Y.P.U. Hears About Art

OMEMEE, April 1 — (ENS) — An effective program, centred around Leonardo da Vinci's "The Supper," was presented to the young people of Trinity United church, Omemee. on Tuesday evening, by Miss Eunice Thexton, culture convener.

The president, Keith Bradley, was in the chair, and it was decided to hold no meeting during the week after Easter.

The convener opened the worship period with a poem, 'Bread of the World.' The Biblical story of the Last Supper was read by Miss Ruby Cornell, a poem entitled "The Pitcher-Carrier" was read by Mrs. W. D. Weir, and an appropriate story was told by Miss Christina Connell.

Miss Thexton discussed the history of the painting of "The Last Supper," tracing the many scenes where various artists have placed their conception of the subject, from the ancient catacombs, the Byzantium manuscripts, the sculpturing of the Middle Ages, to the masterpiece by Leonardo da Vinci. A copy of his painting was shown on the lantern screen and the convener described it in detail, drawing attention to the expression in each of the thirteen faces.

Navy Officer Goes Dagwood One Better Cooks Two Decker With Electric Iron

Recipe: The Royal Canadian Navy, which always admires a display of ingenuity, has a place in its admiration for Sub.-Lt. Bob Taylor of Montreal. When he joined the Corvette H.M.C.S. Timmins some months ago he was shocked to find his ship didn't own a toaster. And he liked toast.

Now, on a quiet day, you'll see him with a fine combination of bread, cheese, bacon and a shot of chili sauce. On this tasty combination he planks down the ship's electric iron and presses for three minutes, avoiding pleats, tucks and hems.

It is, they say, wonderful.

British Shoot Down American Transport

WASHINGTON, April 1 — (AP) —British fighter planes from an aircraft carrier shot down a United States Army transport plane and its crew of six by error in the Atlantic this week, the War Department and the British Admiralty annonuced jointly to-day.

The fighters were protecting an Allied convoy, said the announcement, and apparently mistook the four-engine C-54 transport plane for a German Focke-Wulf 200 bomber when identification was not established as the transport plane approached the convoy.

There were no passengers on the plane, which was loaded with cargo. It was flown by a civilian contract crew, all six of whom were lost.

Norwood News

Miss Mary Roxborough, formerly of Norwood, was named as one of the young ladies modelling a suit in the parade at a Toronto radio broadcast.

Mrs. Earl Johnson is spending a few days in Ottawa with her husband.

Mrs. Val. Roberts received word Friday of the serious illness of her sister, the former Violet White, once of Norwood, now residing in Guelph.

Mr. Archie Oitment returned Friday from Kemptville where he has spent the past three months attending dairy school.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hamblin, Miss Ruby Preston and Mrs. Dr. Atkinson were in Toronto recently.

Miss Jean Thoms, R.N., who has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Rothwell, has returned to her position in Halifax.

Miss Jeannie Barrie of Scotland, Ontario, sister of W. G. Barrie, Norwood, fractured her pelvis when she slipped on a rug. She is in Brantford General Hospital and will be there for a bout six weeks. Miss Barrie has been teaching in Scotland.

Manvers Red Cross Packs And Ships Bale

BETHANY, April 1 — (ENS) — The Red Cross of Manvers Township packed a bale a few days ago containing the following articles, which were sent to Headquarters: For the Navy—34 ribbed helmets, 12 turtleneck sweaters, 6 pairs of service grey socks, 1 pair seaman's socks, 24 pairs service socks, 1 pair stockings, 1 scarf, 1 pair mitts.

Mr. Begley, the bus driver, told provincial police that the steering gear went out of control after the bus hit a deep hole on the highway. The bus ran into a deep ditch and turned over. Mrs. Himbury, who suffered concussion and head lacerations, was the only person injured, although all passengers were badly shaken up.

Ross Munro Gets Africa Star

LONDON, April 1—(CP Cable)—Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent who went to Spitzbergen, Dieppe, Sicily and Italy with Canadian troops and spent a spell in North Africa with Britain's 1st Army in 1943, has been granted the Africa Star.

This award to service personnel serving in Africa between Italy's entry into the war in 1940 and the end of the North African campaign was made available to war correspondents along with the 1939-1943 Star for service anywhere in that period but both Stars could not be obtained.

Munro's award makes him the second CP war correspondent wearing a decoration in this war. A week ago Louis V. Hunter was given permission to wear the 1939-1943 Star on the basis of service with Canadian troops in Italy.

Munro alternately was eligible for the 1939-1943 Star on several counts —his trip to Spitzbergen or the Dieppe landing or service with the Canadians in Italy and Sicily. But he preferred, as do most servicemen, the Africa Star so that was applied for.

Cheese Output Limited By New Order

OTTAWA, April 1 — (CP) — The Agriculture Department announced to-day that under a Dairy Products Board order the manufacture of process cheese will be limited, effective April 1.

No process cheese manufacturer may make any greater quantity of process cheese during any one quarter of 1944 than he made during the corresponding quarter of last year. Neither may he use in the manufacture of process cheese a greater amount of cheddar cheese than he used during a corresponding quarter in 1943.

Process cheese consumption has been increasing at a time when the cheddar cheese is in major demand both at home and to meet overseas needs. It was understood the order was designed to ensure the largest possible supplies of cheddar would be available.

Officials said that when larger cheese factories in Canada's most important dairy areas resume operations to-morrow, they probably will have larger supplies of milk available than a year ago.

Several cheese factories in both Eastern and Western Ontario recently have been handling larger quantities of milk than could normally be expected at this season, they said.

"Many cheese factories have kept open all winter not to manufacture cheese, but to collect milk for the fluid milk markets," officials said.

"Most of them will retain their receipts of milk for cheese manufacture beginning April 1."

They said they were pleased at the response of dairy farmers to the appeal for greater milk production, and added there will be ready markets for even the greatest anticipated production.

Diversion of milk to the purposes for which it is most needed such as cheese, butter, concentrated and fluid milk has been controlled since September, 1943, by the Agricultural Food Board.

"During the winter the Board has permitted fluid milk distributors to buy milk normally used in the manufacture of cheese, but most of these permits expire today," said the Board.

"Consequently, such milk will now be used in the manufacture of cheese, at prices more than double those of before the war, thanks to an assured overseas market for the cheese and to Government subsidies.'

Thompson Leaves Over Million

CHICAGO, April 1 — (AP) — Agents from the offices of state treasurer and attorney general and Attorney James W. Breen went to the vault of a Loop bank yesterday to open two of the five safety deposit boxes owned by the late William Hale (Big Bill) Thompson, thrice mayor of Chicago.

In probate court a few days ago Breen, who was Thompson's attorney, had stated the former mayor had left about $148,000. He said a will had been made, Thompson's widow being named principal beneficiary, but no will was immediately found.

When the safety boxes were opened, bills of many denominations—large and small—popped forth like a jack-in-the-box and fell to the floor.

There were bills of $1,000 denominations, of $500,, and of $100.

Breen and the agents counted the contents of the two boxes and Breen announced there was $1,466,250 in currency and stocks and securities estimated to be worth $20,000. Included in the currency were gold certificates amounting to $36,000.

No will was found but Breen suggested it might be in one of three other safety boxes which will be opened next week.

Thompson died March 19.

Canada Should Go After Postwar Exports

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, April 1 — (CP) — The relief and reconstruction of Europe will offer many opportunities for Canadian manufacturing concerns, industrial firms and business organizations after the war.

First through the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and later through re-established commercial channels a large market may be developed on the Continent for these exports.

A number of large orders have already been placed by UNRRA in Canada for farm implements for European countries, it was learned here, and this will be extended to other materials and manufactured goods as the United Nations plan takes shape.

It is believed here by authorities on the subject that many Canadian war plants would be able to switch gradually to post-war production of goods which would have a ready market in Europe.

One of the principal exports for Europe is going to be farm implements. Farm machinery throughout European countries is badly run down and there have been few arplacements since the start of the war. Rolling stock will be required for railroads in great quantities to replace all the cars and engines destroyed in the confict and equipment for mines and machinery for factories will be needed.

Europe will be extremely short of metals and copper, silver and lead will be urgently required. Too, perhaps, Canadian steel.

These marketing outlets, however, are not going to fall into the palms of Canadian manufacturers and industrialists. Other countries such as the United States and even Britain, with war plants which must be turned to peacetime purposes or close down, will be seeking to sell their goods also.

Through UNRRA, a measure of controlled marketing will be achieved in the first stages but there may be stern competition in efforts to obtain contracts from that organization.

The Canadian troops themselves will be the Dominion's big advertising medium in Europe as the war goes on. With the army will go the Canadian Civil Affairs Organization, which will look after immediate relief and civil order in the army area to prevent civil difficulties interfering with army plans.

This organization, which includes a number of former Canadian businessmen, will go a long way in making Canada's name known well again in liberated countries of Europe for civil affairs officers will be dealing directly with the civil population.

Auchinleck Says Imphal Remains Secure

NEW DEHLI, April 1 — (CP) — Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, Allied commander-in-chief in India, assured the Indian Legislature today that "our commanders do not intend Imphal to fall into the enemy's hands."

Japanese forces, thrusting forward from the Burmese border, have been reported approaching Imphal—an important communications centre—from three directions.

Gen. Auchinleck had acknowledged the possibility of temporary interruption of communications but declared:—

"I am convinced the security of Assam (India border province) has never been in danger, let alone the security of India."

The first commander-in-chief in 16 years to appear before the Assembly, Auchinleck explained he was giving information supplied by Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied commander in Southeast Asia, and reminded his hearers that a previous Japanese offensive against India from Arakan had been beaten back with very heavy losses for the enemy.

Gen. Auchinleck, referring to the surrender of Tiddim, said the real objective was for British troops to attack the Japanese and not merely to hold points on the map.

The Japanese had penetrated to the Manipur Road behind the British at Tiddim, he pointed out, so they turned and began fighting northward. At the same time the British forces from Imphal struck southward and these two forces now have united, he said.

"I would like to make it clear," he added, "that Imphal is still in our hands, that it has not been captured by the Japanese and that it is strongly defended. It always is possible that small parties of the enemy may penetrate into the Imphal plain because this is made easy by the nature of the country. Such a penetration however is not likely to be of major importance.

"The opinion expressed in an American paper that the fall of Imphal would be of little impostance is erroneous. Our commanders have no intention that Imphal should fall into the enemy's hands."

POLICE DEPT. CHANGES

Acting Chief Constable John Thompson took over the helm at the police station this morning. Interestingly enough the change comes as Detective Sergt. W. E. Discharged from the army he resumes police work on Monday.

Word from St. Joseph's Hospital is that Bolton's condition is satisfactory.

Inspection Changes Judge's Viewpoint

A rental reduction from $60 to $42.50 percolated indirectly from Judge Smoke's court to main street. It seems that a certain realtor expansively fixed at $60 a month lease of a house on the west side of Stewart street overlooking the C.N.R. to Lindsay.

Some months later, so the story goes, an official clipped the monthly take to $42.50. The realtor appealed to Judge Smoke who allowed an increase to $50. And then, so it was said, Judge Smoke drove up Stewart street to exam[illegible] and appraise the locality for himself, including trac[illegible], trains, a spread of city ashes nearby and so on. Eventually, and by some means, the case returned to Judge Smoke's jurisdiction, and in the light of objective information His Honor is said to have restored the rent to $42.50.

Savings Clubs Now Total $273 For Fund

Over quite a period of years, many and various types of Savings Clubs have served a useful purpose in some form or other, their object being to encourage thrift which had some definite purpose in mind on behalf of those who participated.

By this means people were encouraged to save a portion of their earnings on a regular basis, their eventual reward being the ability to purchase something they particularly desired, the securing of which would never have been as easy to manage in any other way.

For over a year now, a number of savings clubs have been in operation in this city, all of them brought into being with a desire to give assistance to the war effort through the purchase of war savings stamps and certificates. The Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund profited also, giving the clubs a dual aspect, both of them for a worthy cause.

Savings Total $1,092

Known under the name of "The Stamp Out Hitler Clubs" they have been doing a quiet work, fired by zeal on the part of Robert Everitt for both the fund and the sale of war savings stamps. Until now they have in all totalled a savings of $1,092, all of it going into the purchase of war savings certificates in addition to which, they have by this means raised a total of $273 for the fund. This makes a combined total of $1,365, which is a credit to their efforts.

The donation of $17 in their name today sees the Kiwanis participating almost for half that amount, the winners being Messrs. H. Rehill, H. Bartlett, D. Fitzgerald, J. Dinsdale, G. Miller, J. Comstock, Dr. McKee and Reed, while a new club at the Canadian Bank of Commerce had Miss Betty Stewart as its winner.

Then the old reliable club at the Canada Packers, spurred on by the zeal of Nurse Yelland had three winners in the persons of W Steenburg, W. Pilling and J. Edwards, the latter of whom was in the hospital, and his fellow club members chipped in to keep his name in the club, while another new Club, the V. and Y. Cribbage Club, of which Mr. Everitt is the president, held a draw also, giving the prize to their vice-president, Driver Alex Smith.

Three steady supporters, the Selkirk's Men's Shop, the Empress Hotel and Ackerman's, with V. Crowley, Ken Graham and Doris Starr as their respective winners another new club at the Canadian another new club at the anadian Legion with Bart Allen as winner is [illegible] represented.

I[illegible] L. H. Gray of Millbrook participated in a draw for a bouquet of flowers at a Rexall Club meeting in Toronto, the proceeds of which were for a similar fund in that city, and being lucky enough to win them, immediately held another draw for the same prize for the purpose of assisting this local and district fund, with the result that a gift of $7.50 is credited through him today.

The sequel to this was that he was for the second time declared the winner, and promptly turned over the prize to another member whose wife was sick at that time. Mr. Gray has represented the fund in Millbrook for some time, and persons living in that district may forward help to the fund through him.

Burglars Steal $4,065 In Bonds

Booty to the extent of $4,065 in Victory Bonds and War Savings certificates, two new tires, five or six tubes and three used tires was secured by burglars who broke into the McIntosh Tire Shop, 204 George street sometime during the night and rifled the safe.

The loot included $3,000 in registered bonds, $500 in non-registered bonds and $250 in War Savings certificates, the property of Wm. R. McIntosh, proprietor of the place and three $50 non-registered bonds and $165 in War Savings certificates, owned by the proprietor's daughter.

The break-in was discovered at 3.30 o'clock this morning by Constable Ernest Beatty who found a window at the back broken. The safe had been left unlocked and the burglars had carried out the cash drawer and rifled it. The drawer was found by police on a wood-pile a considerable distance to the rear of the tire shop. Police on the night shift stayed on duty until nearly 10 o'clock this morning running down possible clues.

There was another burglarly during the night. The furniture store of Ben. Swartz, George street, was broken into, the burglars sawing off an iron bar across the back door by means of a hack saw.

However the booty here was small consisting of around $1.50 in change and a gasoline ration book.

Constable Allan Edmison discovered the burglarly at 4.40 o'clock this morning.

Chemong Pines Rumored To Be Felled

Prospective sale of the heavily wooded property at Bridgenorth, owned by the Kelly estate, was reported here this week as it was learned that settlement of the estate affairs was proposing to liquidate the big stand of timber, dominated by splendid pines that have been growing for generations.

One rumor coming to the Examiner was to the effect that F. W. Read, Bobcaygeon lumber man, was interested in the property, and that several other bids were being mentioned, one of them from Oshawa.

The news had reached a special committee of the county council this week, but they represented only part of the membership; it was beyond their scope and authority, and although some confirming enquiry was made during the day, the attitude of the members was that they could not do anything about it until the June sessions.

The Kelly pines which are said to spread over 185 acres have been a coniferous highlight of the Smith landscape at Chemong Lake for probably more than three-quarters of a century. Elder citizens of this community say that they seem always to have remembered the dark trees around the village and down the communication road as if they were immemorial.

Presumably, if the timber is sold, the transaction will be followed by operations which will substitute fields of stumps for the tall and fragrant pines. Obviously the property has steadily increased in value as stands of timber have become fewer in this district. The Kelly woods is said to be one of the last, although there are some pines here and there within a few miles of the city.

Fire Destroys Bethany Barn

BETHANY, April 1—(ENS).—Fire of unknown origin that swept the barn on the farm of Morgan Bigelow Friday night around 9 o'clock resulted in its complete destruction and the loss of some stock, as Mrs. Bigelow and two farm hands on the place at the time battled to save the major portion of their animals and prevented the fire from spreading to an adjacent stable.

Her husband in the hospital in Peterborough, Mrs. Bigelow was about to retire last night when she noticed flames escaping from the large barn on the farm property. Aided by two farm helpers she succeeded in bringing out all the stock except for four or five pigs and around 75 hens. Neighbors who were notified of the calamity eventually arrived to assist the three fire-fighters, and their combined efforts staved off the possibility of the blaze extending to the nearby stable. All the horses and harness were saved.

Mr. Bigelow, suffering from blood poisoning from a wound in his hand, is in a Peterborough hospital under treatment.

Small Groups Refill Tanks On Final Day

The city's gasoline filling stations, serving a gasoline-hungry civilian public on the last day of the ration-book year, dispensed on a average Friday twice the amount of motor fuel they customarily sell in the course of a day's business.

Motorists, uniformly mindful of the expiration of whatever coupons remained in their preciou[illegible] ration books, pulled into the service stations of their choice and cashed their final coupons at a more or less orderly rate throughout the day. In almost every case they were easily able to finish up the book without burdening their gas tanks unduly.

The report of service station operators was plainly to the effect that the volume of business was way above the ordinary level. At one place, where it was said upwards of 400 cars had driven in during the day, nearly 1,000 gallons had been siphoned out from the pumps as against a day-to-day average that was estimated between 500 and 600 gallons. The experience of other stations was similar.

Operators emphasized, however, that though they had been busy Friday, there was hardly what one could call an overwhelming rush of business. At periods perhaps two or three cars might be waiting their turn to procure the final supplies that were their just due, but generally speaking the situation did not become more pressing than that. They were reports of instances—especially in the flow of homeward bound traffic after 5 o'clock — where as many as a dozen cars would be standing in line at a single station, but these were isolated occurrences. The final hour, from six to seven, was quiet.

Chief Newhall Is Honored By Police Force

Chief Constable Sam. Newhall wrote finis to a police career of nearly half a century, 38 years of which have been spent with the local police force, on Friday night when he said farewell to the members of the department at a meeting in the police court. It was his last official connection with the local force. Acting Chief Constable John Thompson took over the command of the department today and Former Chief Newhall after two months leave of absence with full pay will retire on June 1 on a retirement allowance of $1,300 a year for six years.

At last night's meeting, which was attended by practically all the members of the police department and by Provincial Constable L. A. McClure, County Constable Bruce Menzies and Chief Constable Gordon Hardy, of Port Hope, formerly a constable here, the retiring chief constable was presented with a handsome leather travelling bag. The presentation was made by Acting Chief Thompson while Police Matron Mrs. D. M. Maguire read the following address.

"We the members of the police force of the city of Peterborough over which you have presided as chief constable for the past 25 years wish to bring greetings to you on the occasion of your retirement.

No one can be charged with the direction of a body of men for 25 years without leaving the imprint of his personality on them and your influence will be felt long after your retirement.

"We desire to wish you all happiness and good luck in the years to come and as a mark of our esteem we ask you to accept this token of our regard."

Until End of War

"I had hoped to remain on the job, come what might, until the end of the war" said Chief Newhall in acknowledging the gift, "but circumstances have made that impossible. I have the satisfaction of feeling that my retirement may have set a precedent that will benefit you when the time comes for you to give up police work."

"You men, every one of you, can go and look the world in the eye" said the Chief Constable to the assembled officers, "No one can point the finger of suspicion at you."

In regard to his successor Chief Newhall said that he had every confidence in the world in Acting Chief Constable Thompson. "He has been absolutely straight and fearless" he said. "Like his father before him he commands the respect of everyone who knows him. You can count on a square deal from him. He will be fair and honest in everything that he does."

There was no reproach, he said, on older men in the department that they had not been selected for the post. The only obstacle was their years, Chief Newhall stated. He paid a high tribute to Detective Sergt. Meagher, with whom he had been very closely connected for 36 years and to Inspector James F. Reid who had always been a faithful and reliable officer.

Detective Sergt. Meagher, Inspector Reid, Provincial Constable McClure, Chief Gordon Hardy and other officers present spoke briefly to pay tribute to the chief's services and to wish him years of happiness on retirement.

The singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and three cheers and a tiger for Chief Newhall brought the affair to a close.

Customs Figures Show Increase Of $650,362

With the close of the fiscal year Friday, the customs and excise returns for the port of Peterborough showed a gain of $650,362.60 over the total for the preceeding year, W. M. Lang, local representative of the federal finance department, informed the Examiner today.

The total for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1942, was $3,482,316.99, and the higher mount for the year ending Friday was $4,132,679.59.

NOTHING TO WEAR!—She hadn't thing to wear for Easter, says thirteen-month-old Beth Murray, of Detroit, Mich., so she borrowed from mother's wardrobe. Of course the fit of the shoes is somewhat generous, but the necklace and hat seem to meet with the full approval of little Miss Murray.

VegetableNeeds Supplied By South States

Enterprise in the wholesale supply industry is faring far abroad these days to bring new crop products to northern tables which would otherwise be restricted to old crop potatoes and turnips and stoutly fibred cabbage.

Spinach from Texas fields is said to be of top quality. Lettuce is coming from California and Arizona. Texas farmers are also contributing beets, carrots and cabbage; and cauliflowers are from California.

Several varieties of celery bear Florida tags; tomatoes make a longer trip from Mexico, and are fairly plentiful.

Rhubarb Appears

And George Clarke of National Grocers reports that Ontario rhubarb, the hothouse product, first of the domestic signs of Spring, is available in a fairly generous quantity.

California navel oranges are at their luscious best. The 1943 Canadian harvest crop is gradually diminishing, and apparently the home supply of potatoes is adequate. Stock from British Columbia and Maine was moved into Ontario within recent weeks with an effect of attracting into local markets some of the native stock that was hiding under the barn, or at least seemed to be disinterested.

So far Argentine onions, of which there had been rather great expectations of late, to push the black market out of business have not arrived. From all such accounts, with the evidence in the store fronts, the northern tables are rather plentifully supplied with new vegetables much more faorably for instance, than corresponding tables in Lwow or Cassino.

J. M. Quinlan Lost On Convoy Duty

Flight Sergeant John M. Quinlan of the R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Quinlan, Prince Albert, Sask., has been killed on active service overseas. He received his wings at Hagersville, February 5, 1943, spent several months at Summerside, P.E.I., on further navigational and reconnaisance training, and went overseas early in June.

In letters to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Theobald, Albert street, who were notified of his death recently, Flt. Sgt. Quinlan had completed his training in the larger bomber planes and spent some time in Wales. He was then assigned to Mediterranean duty last fall.

He was the only Canadian in a British crew of seven, all of whom were lost. They had completed safe escort of a convoy and were returning to their base, which had been at Algiers most of the winter. From an enquiry by G. K. Fraser, M.P., it seems that the plane encountered fatal weather, over France, but more explicit information was lacking.

The following is a quotation from the Prince Albert Herald's news story when his death was announced: "A graduate of the University of Saskatchewan in arts and law, he received an honor award as a result of his student activity efforts, was senior letter man in football and hockey. He was president of the law college during the 1940 university term, and passed his examinations for the Saskatchewan bar prior to his enlistment in July 1942. He qualified for the rank of lieutenant in the Canadian Officers Training Corps, but decided to serve in the air force. Prior to his university course he was employed in the Bank of Nova Scotia under his father. Born in Prince Albert, he received his education in Melfort, Kinistino, and Winnipeg." T. H. Theobald of this city is an uncle.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

April 1, 1940—Diplomatic circles indicated that Britain was preparing to strike as "hard as possible" against sea routes by which Germany imported Swedish iron ore. German artillery fire pounded French lines in the Saar river area.

April 2, 1940—British Air Ministry announced that German warplanes raided Scapa Flow but were driven off without doing any damage. Switzerland called up thousands of troops.

Gone from us and leaving memories
Death can never take away—
Memories that will always linger
While upon the earth we stay.
—Remembered by William and Ruby Floyd and Children.

HESMOND.—In memory of a dear father and husband, who died 5 years ago, April 1st, 1939.

We think of you often, and will to intend,

Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to our memory you ever will be.

BENNETT.— In loving memory of Mrs. W. C. Bennett, who passed away April 1, 1943.

In sorrow we waited day by day,
And watched her suffering there;
Slowly but surely passing away
From the pain she scarce could bear,
And then God called from his throne above,
Her suffering and pain is past;
We know she has gone to realms of love,
And in Heaven has peace at last.
—Sadly missed by the Family.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

GOREN AT HIS BEST

TO RANK at the top in any competition, great ability in certain phases of the game is not enough. The star must be great in all departments of his game. In other words, he must be without a weakness. There are some exceptions to that, of course, but it holds true pretty generally in all individual contests, such as golf, tennis, billiards, boxing, wrestling, chess, fencing and many other activities.

Nowhere is this exemplified more forcefully than in bridge. To gain top rank, a player must be skillful in his bidding, accurate and thorough in his card reading, resourceful on defensive play, and ingenious in playing a contract. Here is a case of Charles H. Goren, Philadelphia star, who ranks No. 1 for the 1943-1944 season of national championship play, making an apparently impossible contract:

North: ♠Q 10 4 ♥7 4 2 ♦J 7 3 2 ♣K Q 8

West: ♠J 8 7 6 2 ♥J ♦8 ♣A 10 9 7 3 2

East: ♠9 5 ♥10 5 3 ♦Q 10 9 4 ♣J 6 5 4

South: ♠A K 2 ♥A K Q 9 8 ♦A K 6 5 ♣None

Playing at a contract of 6-Hearts, South seems destined to lose two tricks in diamonds after West leads the heart J. Study of the problem, however, disclosed a possible way to make the contract.

After winning the first trick, he dropped the remaining trumps in two more leads, a spade and a club being discarded by West. On the two diamond tops, West discarded another club. He was now clearly marked as having held 11 cards originally in the black suits. If these happened to include the spade J and the club A, the contract could be made.

Consequently the spade A was cashed and the 2 led. After West played low, the 10 was finessed and won. Now came the Club K, on which the spade K was discarded. Whether West won this or played low, he could not set the contract. If he put on a small card, the spade Q would then furnish discard for one losing diamond, making the contract safe. Actually, he won the club K with the A and then had to lead back to the two established black queens, on which both losing diamonds were discarded.

Mr. Goren's effort to repeat as the leader in national championship play for the next season will get under way on April 14, when he is scheduled to compete in the individual masters' title event in New York. That three-day contest always marks the beginning of a season, and is followed by the Vanderbilt Cup contest for the fours supremacy, which is scheduled to open April 17.

FOUR WEEK-END LESSON

Do you understand the principle of trying to steal early in the play a trick which the opponents will not let you get away with if you try it later? Can you give an example of such a play?

Jungle Leader Wingate Killed In Burma

LONDON, April 1 (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Orde Charles Wingate, the adventurous and spectacular leader of Allied jungle fighters in Burma, was killed recently in a plane crash, it was announced here Friday.

A brief announcement from the War Office said Wingate was killed in Burma March 24 and gave no details of how death overtook the 41-year-old soldier who early last year captured the world's imagination by leading a "ghost army" on a four-months' expedition deep inside Japanese lines in Burma.

Himself a relative of the late Col. T. E. Lawrence, the famed "Lawrence of Arabia," and a nephew of Sir Reginald Wingate, who was associated with Lawrence, Orde Wingate was called "The New Lawrence," "The Man of Legends," "A Cromwellian Captain" as a result of his exploit.

A Profitable Exploit

His force covered more than 1,000 miles through the deepest Burma jungle, fought countless skirmishes with enemy patrols and finally returned to India, after suffering great hardship, with vital information for the Allied Command.

Bobbing up here, there and everywhere to the consternation of the Japanese, Wingate's raiders destroyed 190 miles of railway at 70 different places along the Irrawaddy from Mandalay to Myitkyina, and finally came out of the bush after eating their own mules and subsisting for weeks on supplies dropped by plane.

A strict believer in the unorthodox, Wingate hammered at the theory that Allied troops—British storekeepers as well as colonials—could be quickly conditioned to fight in the jungle better than the Japanese.

Influenced Allied Strategy

His recommendations were reported to have played a part in the decisions on strategy reached at the Cairo conference of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Gen. Chiang Kai-shek last December, and the decision at the earlier Quebec conference of the British and American leaders to organize an air commando force in India.

This latter force of British and Indians were suddenly set down near Myitkyina, 150 miles behind the Japanese lines, by glider, March 8.

In a despatch from New Delhi dated March 26—two days after his death—he was quoted as saying the "first stage of the airborne operation was completely successful. Everything we set out to do has been done."

The despatches at that time were not permitted to disclose that he was dead.

A holder of the Distinguished Service Order and two bars, Wingate first won recognition as a brilliant leader of guerrilla fighters in 1936 when he built British and Palestinian Jews into an unorthodox band that beat marauding Arabs at their own type of night fighting and broke up a threat to the Haifa-Mosul pipeline.

Later, in Ethiopia, he led 3,000 Sudanese and Ethiopian warriors against the Italians and captured or destroyed 40,000 of them.

His romance was as unorthodox as his warfare. His wife-to-be was 16 and he was 30 when they met aboard a ship bringing him back from Libyan explorations. She said last year that "I marched up to him and said: 'You're the man I'm going to marry.' We both felt the same way about it."

She returned to school but left it two years later to marry him.

An associated defence lawyer who waited with him in a detention room during the jury's deliberation said Lonergan never became nervous or worried.

Lonergan's voice was heard in the courtroom for the first time when he answered a clerk's questions for the filling out of a pedigree. He did not testify.

The State has asked for a first degree murder conviction, making death sentence mandatory, but Assistant Distr't Attorney Jacob Grumet said the verdict returned was "fair and intelligent."

Broderick declined to comment. Associate Defence Counsel Joseph Broderick, however, said of Lonergan:—

"Well, he's a soldier of fortune; he believed if his number's up, it's up."

Charging the jurors Judge Wallace told them no evidence had been submitted to support the defence contention that Lonergan had been duped into making a confession.

The jurist also ruled out a prosecution argument that Lonergan already had made up his mind to kill the heiress when he went to her apartment while on weekend furlough from his R.C.A.F. base at Toronto.

Thus Lonergan departs from the world of wealth into which he wandered two years ago after making a living at such jobs as constable, guard and factory worker.

nev's army was driving deep into Odessa-Tiraspol sector after capturing more than 260 towns and hamlets yesterday.

Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 3rd Ukrainian Army simultaneously was reported to have stormed the fortress town of Ochakov, 40 miles east of Odessa in a rapid advance on the great port from the east. Russian marines aided in the operation, the communique said.

Rapidly shifting the main weight of its drive, the Red Army now appeared to be exerting the most intense pressure on the southeastern end of the front in an all-out effort to clear the last remaining Germans from South Russia, dispatches said.

Thousands of exhausted Germans—some estimates placed the number at 200,000 or more—were being herded toward Odessa across the rapidly narrowing Nazi-held sector north of the Black Sea coast, the dispatches added. These remnants of Marshal Fritz von Mannstein's once-powerful invasion army faced possible entrapment, as other Russian forces attacking southward in pre-war Rumania cut their major escape line to the west of seized Sipothyany on the Odessa-Kishinev-Iasi railway.

Entire trainloads of enemy equipment were captured intact as the Nazis fled "in panic" toward Odessa, the Soviet war bulletin reported.

Interesting Missionary Party Coming Bethany Tabernacle

Beginning Sunday evening the citizens of Peterborough will have an opportunity to see and hear a group of missionaries from East Thailand, Netherlands East Indies, Belgian Congo, and French West Africa. This missionary party should prove to be perhaps the most interesting one of its kind ever to come to this city. Some of the group have recently come from countries over-run by the Japanese, some were for a time imprisoned by the Japanese, while others were under bombardment by Japanese planes. and will tell of harrowing experiences, while escaping out of the clutches of the barbarous enemy in the Far East.

One of the party, Mrs. Ethel Bell, will tell how her ship was torpedoed in the South Atlantic, and with eighteen other survivors, huddled together on a small raft, she endured twenty days, until rescue came.

These missionaries will also be showing colored pictures of their work on the various fields which should be most interesting.

Services will begin Sunday evening continuing each night except Saturday at 8 o'clock, closing Easter Sunday, and the general public are warmly welcomed at all meetings held.

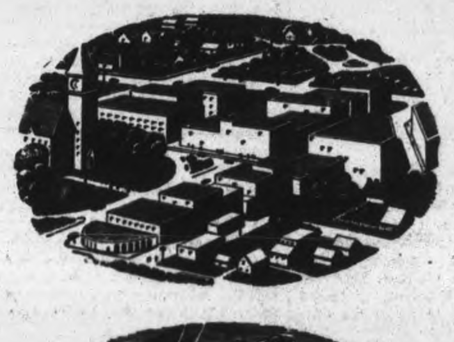
Plan Today . . . for the Canada of Tomorrow!

Side by side with working to win the war we must plan to win the peace. While there must be not the slightest relaxation of our fighting effort until the white flag of surrender is run up in Berlin and Tokyo—yet, if postwar readjustment and re-employment are to be effected promptly and effectively, we must all plan today for the Canada of tomorrow. Some such planning is already afoot. Some after-Victory blueprinting is being undertaken by governments, municipalities and industries. But planning is your job, too. You have a home to plan for . . . or a business . . . or a farm. Remember, by planning today we prepare ready-made markets for tomorrow—markets which will absorb our nation's fullest productivity and so create full and gainful employment for all in the important years that will follow Victory.

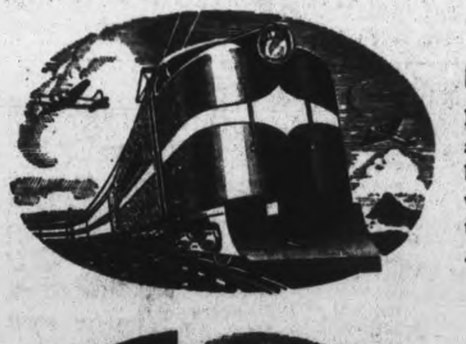


Let us plan Worthier Communities

Let us press for improvement in our cities, towns and villages. New housing is needed . . . new schools and enlarged universities . . . new hospitals and libraries. New recreational facilities are required, new parks, arenas, swimming pools, dramatic centres and galleries. New civic centres are needed. For safety and convenience new traffic thoroughfares and improved street lighting are required. Plans to end the nuisance of smoke and soot are needed.

Let us plan to Improve Our Homes

Let us plan their re-fitting, re-furbishing, and re-furnishing. Let us plan better homes, healthier, lighter and lovelier homes. Let us plan to equip them to save labour and save time . . . to provide new comfort and new convenience.



Let us plan Swifter, Safer Transportation

Highways, railways, airways—let us plan for the modernization and betterment of them all. Let us plan new roads, broad and straight . . . with wide traffic lanes well lit and well graded. Let us plan improved street car, bus and trolley coach services. Let us plan railroad electrification . . . new bridges . . . new cloverleafs . . . new airports.

Let us plan to Improve Our Business

Whether we run a farm, a factory, an office or a store, let us plan its modernization. Let us plan its re-equipment and re-organization. Let us plan to install new machines . . . new lighting. Let us plan to bring our businesses up to date . . . to expand and improve them for better service, increased output and the manufacture of better products.

Let us plan Extended Rural Electrification

Let us plan to modernize our farms—with electricity. Let us build new rural power lines, until the benefits of "electrical living"—with its conveniences, economies and comforts—reach an ever-increasing number of hamlets and farms! Let us plan, in country and town, for fuller living, greater opportunity, and peacetime employment for everyone!

Jap Patrols Sever Imphal Roads

Enemy Aiming New Push At Assam Railroad

BY CHARLES A. GRUMICH
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, April 3 — (AP) — Japanese patrols, filtering through the jungles of eastern India onto the Manipur plain, have cut the roads around Imphal, Manipur capital, in an offensive obviously aimed at Dimapur on the Assam-Burma railway lifeline to Allied forces in north Burma.

The question whether air-borne supplies might be dropped to the Imphal garrison was answered here by the statement that that would not be necessary as the crisis would be overcome before such action would be needed.

Dimapur is 44 miles across the Naga hills—home of the Naga head hunters — from Kohima, 60 miles north of Imphal.

Fierce fighting in the wild hill country east of Kohima in India and repulse of a determined Japanese drive to reach the Tiddim Road south of Imphal were announced by Allied Headquarters in the showdown battle for Allied communication centres and bases along the Burma border.

Enemy artillery continued to shell the Tamu-Palel Road southeast of Imphal.

Further south on the Arakan front only minor patrol activity was reported. Near Buthedaung Allied detachments were said to have inflicted casualties on enemy units attempting to infiltrate British positions.

(A Tokyo broadcast Sunday night asserted the British 25th Division had been forced to withdraw from around Maungdaw and Buthedaung on the Arakan front, but this report lacked Allied confirmation.)

Glider-borne British and Indian commandos have cut all north and south communciations arteries to Myitkyina, main Japanese base in northern Burma have smashed enemy efforts to crash their airstrip far behind Japanese lines, front dispatches reported.

Japan's Defeat Now In Sight

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., April 3—(AP).—Field Marshal Sir John Dill, senior British officer on the combined Allied Chiefs of Staff in Washington, said here to-day "the Japanese already see plainly the writing on the wall" and "the end for them is clearly in view."

Flanked by highest ranking British and American officers who had come here to see him receive the degree of Doctor of Laws from the College of William and Mary, Sir John promised the war against Japan would be pressed forward after Germany's defeat."

"As we fight hand in hand to destroy our German enemy," he said in an address at the convocation, "so shall we fight on together to destroy the Japanese, however long and difficult the road may be."

The honorary degree awarded Sir John was tendered by the college "in recognition of his services in the cause of Anglo-American understanding."

Allies Smashed Attack By Flame-Throwers

NAPLES, April 3—(CP)—Allied troops have smashed an attack by German flame-throwers on the left flank of the beachhead south of Rome, headquarters announced today, while Italian troops fighting with the Allies occupied a third peak in the centre of the main 5th Army front.

Flame-throwers spearheaded the attack of about 150 German infantrymen against the beachhead which began an hour before dusk Friday after a heavy mortar barrage. It was launched in the same vicinity as the raid of the previous day in which the Germans forced a slight withdrawal by the Allies from a position about 1½ miles southwest of Carroceto, 21 miles south of Rome.

Although the mortar fire continued throughout the night, the infantry attackers were either dead or routed by midnight.

On the same night the Germans opened a concentrated artillery bombardment of a sector some distance away held by a battalion of American infantry, laying 900 shells of various sizes around the positions.

German tanks moved forward at a point about four miles west of Cisterna, on the eastern edge of the beachhead, but were driven back by artillery fire.

NIAGARA FALLS, April 3.—(CP).—C. Mrs. Frances Brown of Durham was sentenced to four months in prison. Ernest Edward Hartland Homer, were each bound over for two years.

The defendants had pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiring to contravene the 1735 Witchcraft Act, and of pretending under the act to exercise conjuration. They also pleaded not guilty to charges of causing money to be paid for false pretences and creating a public mischief.

Tirpitz Blasted In Raid By Navy Planes

By E. D. BALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 3—(AP).—British naval planes have scored several bomb hits on the Germans' most powerful battleship, the 35,000-ton Tirpitz, the Admiralty announced today.

The Tirpitz was skulking in Norway's Alten fjord, the same spot where she was torpedoed by the Royal Navy's midget submarines last Setpember.

The Admiralty's announcement of multiple hits indicated a heavy attack on the biggest surviving unit of Hitler's all but vanquished battlefleet. The attack presumably was carried out by carrier-based planes of the fleet air arm.

Last previous reports on the Tirpitz said the Germans had been able to make only temporary repairs to the torpedo damage inflicted by the British midget submarines which stole into her hideaway last fall. The torpedo-carrying midgets, three of which were lost, were credited with causing underwater damage to the Tirpitz.

The brief Admiralty communique did not give the date or other details of the plane attack.

The Tirpitz was the one great capital ship remaining in the German navy after the sinking of the 26,000-ton Scharnhorst last December.

While listed officially at 35,000 tons, the battleship is believed to be much heavier, perhaps 45,000. Jane's fighting ships says the actual figure may be about 41,000 tons. She is 791 feet long, has a normal complement of 1,500 men and carries eight 15-inch guns, 12 5.9-inch guns, and 16 4.1-inch guns.

Only recently an informant with good underground connections reported the Germans had tried to send their biggest repair ship to Alten Fjord to help get the Tirpitz seaworthy for an attempted dash home,

Soviet Units Sweep Into Rumania

First Red Advance On Axis Soil Since War Started

LONDON, April 3 —(AP)— Red Army troops, having smashed across the Prut River in their first invasion of Axis soil, were reported driving across Eastern Rumania toward the Danube river delta and the Carpathian mountains today as Moscow announced that other Russian forces had struck to within 19 miles of the great Black Sea port of Odessa.

The Russian communique failed to identify the exact location of the several announced crossings of the Prut, but Berlin said the main Soviet drive into Rumania was in the Iasi sector, less than 200 miles northeast of Bucharest and the valuable Ploesti oil fields. Berlin added "All the Rumanian army has joined the battle with the Russians." Martial law already has been proclaimed in Bucharest, Moscow dispatches reported.

Iasi, apparent immediate objective of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 2nd Ukrainian Army, is 10 miles west of the Prut, and is a key Rumanian railway centre where lines branch south to Bucharest and northeast to captured Czernowitz, 115 miles away. Gertsa, 20 miles southeast of Czernowitz on the north Rumanian border, was taken by troops of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st Ukrainian Army yesterday, Moscow said, and it was believed likely Soviet spearheads had also crossed into Rumania at this point.

Reports said the new Russian stroke has thrown much of the Rumanian populace into a panic.

A broadcast Rumanian High Command communique recorded here by the Associated Press, acknowledged the Red army's drive into Rumania proper, but said that "north of Iasi at almost every point the enemy was pushed back over the Jijia river."

Drive 5 Miles.

The Jijia, north of Iasi, runs parallel to the Prut five miles to the west, and the Rumanian bulletin gave the first indication that Konev's troops had advanced that far

War Plants Deep In Hungary Smashed From Italian Bases

LONDON, April 3 — (AP) — A great formation of American heavy bombers attacked Budapest today, carrying out the first U. S. attack on the Hungarian capital. The bombers flew from bases in Italy, and the Berlin radio told of violent battles between American and German planes over Hungary.

The Budapest railway centre and an important aircraft factory just south of the capital were the targets of the 15th Airforce, a Naples announcement said.

Budapest, one of Europe's most beautiful cities, lies on both sides of the Danube. British and American planes had not bombed it previously, but the Russian air force attacked it in September, 1942, and again a week ago. Today's attack may indicate the beginning of a co-ordinated air attack by the Allies.

As a result of the bombing of Germany's industrial centres, the Reich has been reported moving factories into Hungary and also to be relying on the production of established Hungarian factories. Budapest is a key point on railroad networks linking Germany with the Balkans.

A Huge Armada.

Details of the attack were not immediately announced, but it was known to be a very big one.

It followed Sunday's heavy bomber raid on Steyr, Austria, in which more than 500 Italy-based bombers were escorted by fighters. Budapest is 450 miles northeast of the Allied airbase at Foggia, Italy.

Other formations of heavy bombers today bombed several Yugoslavian railroad yards.

First fragmentary reports from the enemy claimed 14 United States planes were downed over the Hungarian capital, only recently occupied by the Germans.

Earlier the Frankfurt and Calais radios were silent and the Nazis said "single enemy planes were flying over central and northeast Germany."

Bombs were dropped on some sections of Budapest, causing damage, the German broadcast added.

This would be the first assault from Western Europe on Budapest, although the capital has been struck before by Russian bombers. The Soviets first attacked Budapest Sept. 4, 1942.

Presumably the bombers came from Italy, delivering a second potent punch after Sunday's assaults by U.S. heavy bombers at aircraft and ball bearing works at Steyr in Austria.

The Allied air offensive rolled on over the week-end with Italy-based American heavy bombers smashing at aircraft and ball-bearing works at Steyr in old Austria Sunday on the heels of night attacks by Britain-based R.A.F. Mosquitoes against Hanover, Krefeld and Acchem.

German longwave stations and the radios at Calais and Frankfurt left the air abruptly this morning and later a German broadcast said "single enemy planes" were over northwest and central Germany at 10 a.m. (4 a.m. E.D.T.)

The Mosquito stabs from Britain Saturday night were in the category of "reminder" assaults on German industrial centres, which recently have shown new signs of activity.

The Swiss government, meanwhile, made diplomatic representations over the accidental bombing of Schaffhausen—Swiss northern frontier town which is bounded on

Decisive Finnish Meeting Probably Tuesday To Deal With Modified Red Peace Plan

STOCKHOLM, April 3 —(AP)— The Finnish parliament was expected to meet in extraordinary session today to hear the government's report on new Russian peace proposals which Juho Paasikivi was said to have obtained in a two-day mission to Moscow.

Paasikivi was understood to have returned by air from Moscow Saturday night after having transmitted to his government some Russian modifications of the original armistice terms.

The new terms, it was said, would leave the Finns the naval base of Hangoe as well as Viipuri, vital timber centre and Finland's second city.

Nothing could be learned, however, about modifications, if any, of Moscow's demand for internment of the approximately seven German divisions in Finland.

Advices from Helsinki predicted that today's meeting would last only long enough for the government to file a report, after which party groups would meet separately to review the situation.

It was expected that a decisive meeting of parliament probably would be held tomorrow, at which the issue of continuing or ending the war would come to a vote. Normally the Finnish parliament would adjourn Wednesday for the Easter holidays and it seemed likely a decision would be reached before then.

Coal Strikes Affect Power War Output May Be Cut

By ERNEST AGNEW—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 3—(AP).—British war factories, engaged in turning out equipment for the impending European invasion, faced a possible sharp drop in production today as the Government ordered a general cut in power supplies because of coal shortages arising from strikes.

With fuel stocks dwindling rapidly as the result of miners' strikes estimated to have cost Britain 2,000,000 tons of coal in the last month, the Fuel Ministry directed that electric supplies be curtailed 10 per cent. and gas 25 per cent.

All Affected.

Every factory in the country—including 10,000 rushing war material—was affected by the order.

At the same time the Government announced that public transportation in northwest England would be reduced 20 per cent. in a further effort to save power.

The War Cabinet, meanwhile, was giving urgent consideration to the situation, which the Fuel Ministry described as grave and which was characterized in some quarters as

100 Hun Planes Downed Sunday

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Correspondent

NAPLES, April 3—(AP)—More than 100 enemy planes—the largest number ever bagged on a single raid from this theatre—were shot down yesterday by a big formation of United States heavy bombers and their escorts which roared over the Alps and smashed the German aircraft parts factory and ball-bearing works at Steyr, in old Austria, it was announced today.

Light forces of the French Navy "entirely destroyed" an enemy convoy and its escort in the Adriatic, said today's Allied headquarters communique. It said there was a sharp encounter but the French ships withdrew without damage or casualties.

No details were given as to the time or place of the attack, but presumably it was a continuation of the Allied plan to sever German communications with their forces in the Balkans.

300 Planes Up.

An estimated 300 enemy planes were encountered on the Steyr raid. Some used rockets and aerial bombs. Anti-aircraft fire over the town was the most intense ever met by bombers from this theatre, and this plus the fighter attacks indicated the importance the Germans attached to the industrial establishments there

Thirty-three Allied planes were lost in yesterday's operations, most of them presumably falling on the Steyr mission.

Despite the opposition, however, the powerful fleet of more than 500 heavy bombers and many scores of escorting fighters reached the target and hit the vital war plants with a record load of bombs.

The raid was said to be extremely successful. Photographs showed three of the five main factory buildings were shatterd and that many direct hits were scored on others.

Partisans Stage Gains In Serbia

LONDON, Aril 3.—(AP).—Large forces of Yugoslav Partisan troops are driving rapidly into the interior of Serbia, Marshal Tito (Josip Broz) reported to-day, as other Partisan forces fought Axis troops to a standstill in Montenegro, Slovenia and Moslavina.

Tito's communique said heavy casualties were being inflicted on enemy units in some of the fiercest fighting of recent weeks, and claimed that strategic enemy rail communications were under increasing pressure in all parts of the country, particularly lines running from Slovenia across the Italian border to Trieste and other German-held Italian cities.

The Germans were using tanks and cavalary against the Partisans on several parts of the front, the war bulletin said. A pitched battle in the Prijeolje sector south of Sarajevo was being waged, it added.

Termed 'Ingrown and Petty'

Trans-Canada Pilots Have Built Up Record

WINNIPEG, April 3 — (CP) — R. E. Hadfield of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association, said in a statement last night that remarks regarding Trans-Canada Air Lines pilots made by Howard Green (PC—Vancouver south) in the House of Commons Friday were "uncalled for and to use his own words 'ingrown and petty.'"

Mr. Green was quoted as saying during debate on Canada's Civil Aviation Policy that "the minister (Hon. C. D. Howe) might check to see if old age is not holding back the energy of the boys who fly in his own Trans-Canada Air Lines."

"The Canadian Air Line Pilots Association takes issue with the statement made by Mr. Green," Mr. Hadfield's letter said.

"The record of safety and efficiency of Trans-Canada's pilots speaks for itself, and we are quite willing to let those of the public we have had the privilege of flying, be our judges.

"If the honorable member for Vancouver south would take time to do a little checking himself, he will find that the average age of Trans-Canada Air Lines' pilots is 29, and if he feels the 'old age' is holding back the energy of these pilots, I would like to invite him to watch T.C.A. pilots during their regular monthly practice periods in the air. The rigorous standards which these pilots have to maintain are the envy of the Air Lines the world over."

The big news of the day is that Red troops are actually on Rumanian soil, not only because of its military importance but because it provides strong evidence to refute the German-inspired report that when the Russians had evicted the enemy from their territory they would halt on the borders and let the rest of the Allies fight it out with the Axis.

The Soviet Government has made a shrewd move in announcing that it has no intention of annexing any Rumanian territory but is impelled merely by military necessity. This is calculated to inspire the Rumanians to lay down their arms, and it can't help but have a salutary effect on a population which for weeks has been panicky over the approach of Red troops.

The same thing can be said of Bulgaria. Both these countries long have been held in the war only through fear inspired by the presence of German troops on their soil. They are likely to slip from under Hitler's domination as soon as he is forced to relax his military grip on their throats.

The Russians appear to be driving to block the Carpathian passes on the right wing of their advance, and to be making their main thrust towards Iasi (Jassy), an important railways junction on the route towards the Danubian Delta and the Ploesti oil fields. If the Germans and Rumanians intend to make a fight of it, their resistance will be shown almost immediately.

One of the great dramas of the war is unfolding in the Odessa area of the Southern Ukraine. The onrushing Reds are almost within sight of that important Black Sea port. Meantime the Axis forces are reported to be carrying out demolitions in Odessa. This means the Nazis are preparing for evacuation. However, it doesn't necessarily signify they won't defend the city stubbornly. An undetermined number of Axis troops—perhaps as many as 200,000—are in danger of being cut off in the Odessa zone, and they won't submit easily.

Papers Rip Foreign Policy

Eden May Resign And Complicate Things

LONDON, April 3 — (AP). — Reports that Prime Minister Churchill has decided to appoint Sir Alexander Cadogan Foreign Secretary to succeed Anthony Eden drew sharp criticism from the Daily Herald today and coincided with fresh press attacks upon the conduct of Britain's foreign policy.

Sir Alexander, Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs; Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Privy Seal, and Lord Cranborne, Dominions Secretary, recently have been mentioned with equal prominence as candidates for Eden's post. Eden, if and when he leaves the Foreign Secretaryship, is expected to devote himself to domestic affairs in the House of Commons.

The Daily Mail and the News Chronicle joined in criticism of the Foreign Office with the Daily Herald, which declared the country's foreign policy "has lately been so vague as to appear at times non-existent."

Regarding Sir Alexander's possible appointment to the Foreign Secretaryship, the Daily Herald said:

"It would be a deplorable appointment. We say this in no reflection on Sir Alexander personally, but because he is a civil servant, a professional diplomat subject to all the limitations of a strictly specialized career. To appoint a man whose opinions are unknown would merely increase the public disquiet about the trend of our foreign policy."

American Units Advance Nearer Madang

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, April 3.—(AP).—Allied forces increased the pace of their campaign against Madang on New Guinea to-day and American troops seemed nearly finished with their five-month drive to wipe out all opposition to their hold on Bougainville in the Solomons.

Allied Headquarters announced U.S. troops captured two strategic hills outside the Empress Augusta Bay beachhead which the Americans have been slowly enlarging since the invasion Nov. 1.

In New Guinea Americans strengthened their drive on Bogadjim, 20 miles south of strategic coastal Madang. Australians in the Finesterre hills southwest of the Americans met and repulsed Japanese counter-attacks, the Allied communique said. (The April 1 communique placed the Australians 10 miles south of Bogadjim.)

The American advance to-day brought them within 12 miles of Bogadjim.

Allies Endorse Russian Advance

LONDON, April 3—(CP).—Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyachleslav Molotov's statement announcing the advance of the Russian armies into Rumania and disclaiming Soviet territorial ambitions was made "after consultation and agreement with the British Government," it was disclosed in London today.

Molotov told a press conference in Moscow that the invasion was dictated by military necessity and not with the aim of seizing "any part of Rumanian territory."

The Foreign Commissar's statement was authoritatively described as "of the greatest importance" by a Foreign Office commentator who added, "I rather think it also had the approval of the American government."

"Coming at the present time, and made with all the authority given to it at a time when the Russian forces were on the advance, it ought to have a considerable effect," the spokesman said.

sive river transport serving Myitkyina to the south; with highways also blocked, all north-south communication routes have been severed, the dispatches said.

American fighter planes destroyed 12 Japanese aircraft yesterday in operations over the front. Last night medium bombers shattered enemy installations at Ywataung and Akyab on the Arakan coast. Tactical Air Force divebombers and fighters on Saturday hammered Japanese positions and communications in the Arakan, Kaladan and Mayu areas, destroying more than 70 river boats, and damaging as many more.

Air commando planes which attacked an ammunition dump near Indaw west of the Irrawaddy river in central Burma, reported that objective practically wiped out, with "fires and numerous explosions all over the target area."

COLOMBO, April 3.—(CP Cable.)—R.C.A.F. units stationed in Ceylon have it on the authority of Air Chief Marshal Sir Richard Perise that "in the not too far disant future you will have a great deal to do" because the enemy has been increasing his activtiies in the India ocean and the Bay of Bengal.

Chinese Attack Kazakhs Near Red Border

MOSCOW, April 3 — (CP) — The official Soviet News Agency Tass declared yesterday that Chinese troops from Sinkiang had violated the border of the Mongolian Peoples Republic and that Chinese planes bombed town and villages and strafed Kazakhs fleeing from Sinkiany.

The dispatch said government leaders of the Mongolian Peoples Republic were convinced that if other violations occurred the Soviet government would be asked to render all necessary aid needed to correct the situation.

Datelined at Ulan Bator, capital of the Mongolian Republic, the dispatch quoted "well informed sources" as saying that Sinkiang authorities began a forced evacuation of a great number of Kazakhs from the Altai mountain district to the southern districts of Sinkiang at the end of last year.

Many of the families did not want to move, however, and fled into the Mongolian Republic to hide, the dispatch said, adding that Chinese troops then began chasing them and that Chinese planes violated the border, bombing towns and villages and shooting at the people.

Sinkiang, China's northwestern province parallels the Soviet Union border from the high Pamirs of India on the south to the Altai mountains on the Mongolian frontier to the north.

Coal Strikes

the worst labor crisis which has faced Britain since the general strike of 1926.

Although several Yorkshire miners' local unions voted yesterday to return to the pits to-day, fewer than 5,000 of the 90,000 men idle in that area reported for work this morning. The dispute there centred around a two-shillings weekly charge, assessed against the miners for household coal which they previously had received free, before their wabes were boosted by an average of about 17 shillings ($3.85) per week.

An Old Custom

The miners contend they have always been given the coal for the household use and should continue to have it without charge.

Union leaders, who have denounced the strike and pleaded with the men to return to work, reported to-day that another 250,000 miners in South Wales, Scotland, Northumberland, and Lancashire— Britain's most important pits—were in a restless mood over the Government's four-year wage stabilization plan on which the men are voting this week.

The plan gives the miners a guaranteed minimum of £5 (about $22.50) a week for underground workers and £4 10s for surface workers, plus an additional piece rate. Many of the miners maintain the agreement does not deal fairly with all the workers.

Meanwhile, hundreds of Tyneside, Clydeside, and Middlesboro shipbuilding and engineering apprentices returned to work. Indications were that their strike was breaking up slowly under the Government threat to draft strikers into the armed forces.

costal sector in the southern extremity of the beachhead and engaged the Germans in a series of clashes.

The German attack against the beachhead, like the one which preceeded it, was by no means a duplication of the four earlier offensives to smash the Allies back into the seas. There is every indication the Germans have given up hope of that and now are merely engaging in harassing attacks, perhaps designed to disrupt any plans the Allies may have for pushing inland from the present beachhead.

Defensive Plans

The Germans are busy erecting barbed wire fences and other defences along the perimeter, indicating a defensive attitude.

Precision fire by 5th Army artillery, including mammoth 240-millimetre guns, has destroyed at least 13 bridges behind the main front, observers reported. Shelling of these bridges continued as the Germans attempted to repair them. Allied military bridges across the Rapido and Garigliano Rivers are covered with a smoke-screen throughout the daylight hours to hide them from enemy artillery fire.

One Dead, 2 Hurt In Hotel Fracas

VANCOUVER, April 3.—(CP).—Police to-day centred an investigation around a small downtown hotel where early Sunday Wellington Wallace, 37, was fatally shot; another man suffered gashed hands and a third was injured seriously in a fall.

At about the same time as the shooting, not many blocks away, Albert McCorrish, 23, and Constable S. H. Sloan of city police, were wounded during a chase which followed the kidnapping of a drug store employee and a subsequent effort to force him to open a safe in the store containing drugs. Sloan was accidentally shot in the leg when his revolver discharged as he climbed a fence during the pursuit.

Events at the Graycourt hotel, on Hastings near Main street, were as follows:

1. Wallace was found on a second storey landing, with two bullet wounds in the abdomen from which he died five hours later.

2. Joe Martin was found in a hotel room with hand wounds which, police said he told them, were suffered in an attempt to prevent a hold-up in his room.

Hung On Wires.

3. Two hours later passersby saw Albert Rae, 36, dangling from high tension wires behind the hotel outside a second-floor window. Before he could be helped he fell 40 feet to the pavement, suffering serious injuries.

Martin, held with three others for questioning, was juoted by police as saying Wallace was one of three men who entered his room as he sat with three companions. Two of the men were armed with revolvers, Martin said, and one of them also carried a knife. It was in a scuffle with the latter he claimed to have gashed his hands.

The shooting of McCorrish followed kidnapping of E. J. Leahy as he stepped from the street car on his way home after working in the Cunningham drug store at Fifth Avenue and Commercial Drive, where he is assistant manager. Two men held him prisoner for two hours, then took him to the store and ordered him to open it.

Arrival of police put the men to flight before Leahy coold comply. McCorrish's condition was serious after he was felled by a shot from Sloan's revolvers.

Plane Output

mark in terms of airframe weight for the first time," said Wilson, who also is chairman of the Aircraft Production Board.

Although he made it clear the March rate was not contemplated as a regular output rate, last month's production was at a rate of 109,416 planes a year.

Virtually all companies turning out combat planes not only met their schedules, Wilson said, "but in notable instances have exceeded them."

In the four-engined, long-range bombers alone, schedules were exceeded by about 5 per cent, while entire schedule for all aircraft was topped by approximately one and one-half per cent.

Wilson asserted that probable losses of engineers and designers under 26 to the armed forces may make it difficult to meet future schedules in view of constant engineering changes necessitated by combat requirements.

The total estimated airframe weight in March was 103,400,000 pounds, compared with 81,400,000 pounds in February. The 9,116 planes produced exceeded by 358 the number of February deliveries.

The big Liberator bomber plant at Willow Run, Mich., is performing "excellently," Wilson said.

40-Mill Rate Is Set For Cobourg

COBOURG, April 3—Tax rate of 40 mills for public school supporters and 40.46 for separate school supporters, was struck at a special meeting of the town council held on Friday evening. This rate is one mill less than last year. This will produce $123,855.43 of the total estimated expenditures of $182,917.01. The rate is apportioned as follows: Local improvement—1.58 mills—$4,886.03; collegiate institute—7.60 mills—$23,502.44; separate school — 11.36 mills—$3,808.92; public schools —10.90 mills — $29,966.40; county rates—6.79 mills—$20,997.57; direct relief—.50 mill — $1,546.73; parks board—1.00 mill—$3,092.43; general rates—11.63 mills—$35,964.91.

Commenting on the rate, Councillor Alan Field, chairman of the Finance Committee, declared that this year two pavement debentures were off, amounting to $10,000 frontage and $14,000 general rate for a total of $24,000. Some of the ratepayers were under the impression that there might be a drop in 1944 of from 3¼ to 4 mills, but this was impossible on account of a number of reasons. For the past two years the town council had deliberately prepared its estimates as close to the line as possible, creating a small deficit, but with the knowledge that this year there would be an ample cushion to fall back on. In the year before last the deficit was $1,100 and last year it was $4,309 which meant that one and one third mill had to be made up this year, Councillor Field explained.

Increases

Increases in expenditure, he continued, included the deficit, $1,000 more for garbage collection, $1,000 more in the county rate, increase of $1,500 in the Parks Board requisition and the $1,200 now being paid for councillors' and mayor's salaries. This amounted to a total increase of $9,000 in the expenditures. In connection with the receipts, the last payment of $1,674 by Edwards and Edwards was made last year and would not be forthcoming this year. The final transfer to the capital account of $1,182 had been made (oil company lots); the harbour tolls would be $1,500 less this year and the miscellaneous receipts would be down $1,200. This made a total drop in receipts of around $5,500. The increase in expenditures and the decrease in receipts amounted to about $14,500.

"This more than offsets the decrease in the pavement debenture rate," Councillor Field declared.

Schools Costs Increased

The rate this year included the one mill educational subsidy, he continued, but the public school requisition had increased $2,000 this year which amounted to about two-thirds of the extra mill. Councillor Field expressed confidence that if the committees kept estimates to the amount figured upon, the year would finish with some kind of surplus and next year, unless some unforeseen expenditure arose, the rate would be further decreased.

Mayor Jack Burnet complimented the chairman and the finance committee for the "excellent and concise report." The committee had gone into the estimates with great attention to detail and with careful thought, the mayor said.

The schedule of estimates for 1944 is as follows:

Uncontrollable expenditures—local improvement, $10,365.05; collegiate institute, $23,531.11 of which $18,480.00 was the requisition; public schools, $30,170.29 of which $28,725.92 was requisition; separate schools, $3,900.00; public utilities commission, $24,383.50; county rate, $21,000.00; deficit of 1943, $4,309.00; total, $117,658.95.

Controllable expenditures—public buildings and printing committee, $5,025.00; protection to persons and property committee, $18,119.00; market committee, $1,300.00; health and sanitation committee, $5,630.00; parks commission (requisition), $3,092.43; industrial committee, $250.00; finance committee, $6,850.00; relief committee, $3,000; sundry items, $8,000; grants, $2,475.00; total — $65,258.06.

Uncontrollable—$117,658.95; controllable—$65,258.06; total taxable assessment — $3,092,426.00; public school assessment — $2,749,211 00; separate school assessment, $343,215.00; collegiate institute assessment—$3,092,426.00.

Receipts—rentals, $6,455.00; public utilities commission, $24,383.50; local improvement frontage—$5,461.57; sundry items (street cleaning and calcium, interest and penalties on taxes, license, harbour tolls, weighing coal, poll and dog taxes)—$10,100.00; miscellaneous income—$1,730.80; L.C.B. $900.00; county road grant, $2,345.85; relief: government grant, $1,500.00; Province of Ontario, subsidy, one mill, $3,092.43; Province of Ontario subsidy for education, one mill, $3,092.43. Total receipts—$59,061.58 from above sources; receipts from taxes, $123,855.43; grand total of receipts—$182,917.01.

Campbellford Issues 4,900 Ration Books

CAMPBELLFORD, April 3. — (ENS).—The distribution of ration book No. 4 was completed here on Saturday evening at 9.30 when a check-up indicated close to 4,900 books had been handed out by the volunteer workers at the Armouries and Catholic Women's League rooms. Mayor F. F. Long, who is chairman of the local ration board, spent most of the four days assisting with the distribution at the C.W.L. rooms and he spoke in praise of the efficient work done by more than forty volunteer workers and expressed thanks to all of them for their co-operation.

Cobourg Council Praises Drew

COBOURG, April 3 (ENS) — Mayor Jack Burnet and the town council were assured in a letter from Premier George Drew that Cobourg's industrial prospectus would be sent to Ontario House in England with the recommendation that it be given the widest possible circulation. At Friday night's council meeting Mayor Burnet produced the letter sent to him by Premier Drew in which Mr. Drew observed that he had received the industrial booklet of Cobourg, from the local member, William Goodfellow and that it would be sent on to Ontario House.

"It is certainly a very nice letter from Premier Drew and certainly very prompt," commented the Mayor.

To Hold Tag Day

Permission was granted the Women's Hospital Auxiliary to hold a tag day on August 19. A letter from Miss Annie Hooey complained of the flooding of the sidewalk due to its low condition, in front of her residence; referred to Streets Committee with power to act. A letter from Mrs. Myrtle McClelland, expressed her thanks for the cheque sent forward by the council, representing the balance of the honorarium from the collegiate board during the period of his fatal illness. Permission was granted the producers of "Shamrock Varieties" to present the play on April 13 under Kiwanis auspices, proceeds for rehabilitation of Cobourg boys after the war is over. A letter from the Department of Public Works asking for an estimate for installing a hydrant at the Haas residence (addition to Girls' Training School) was referred to the Public Utilities Commission.

To Have Public Holiday

The usual by-law partially exempting certain farm lands within the corporation from taxation was passed, as well as the by-law setting the tax rate for 1944. A resolution, moved by Councillor Field

Chas. Davidson Is Laid To Rest

CAMPBELLFORD, April 3 (ENS) —The largest and most impressive funeral Campbellford citizens had seen in more than a decade was given the late Charles Davidson here on Saturday afternoon. The former mayor of this town and warden of the united counties had by his example of service and leadership won countless friends and there were few among them who did not feel with his passing that they had suffered some personal loss.

Though it was true he had served this town well in the various municipal offices, and that he had been a member of several fraternal organizations and service clubs, it was not for these things that many will remember his name, but for the simple acts of kindness, his genuine Christian spirit, his friendliness and

This is the reason for the terrific campaign against the CCF..... but the people of Canada refuse to be fooled. Membership and support continue to grow despite the attacks by big business.
CANADIANS ARE ON THE MARCH! THE CCF IS PROUD TO CARRY THEIR BANNER!

The CCF is YOUR movement. It does not get and DOES NOT WANT the support of the big corporations. It needs YOUR support NOW. Write and send your contribution to your CCF Provincial Headquarters—

HOW FAR WILL IT RUN... AFTER IT SHOULDN'T RUN AT ALL?

by RALPH ALLEN
Well-known War Correspondent of the Toronto Globe and Mail

Somewhere in Italy—A new truck is like a new wife. You don't really begin to get acquainted until you've seen it with its hair in curlers, a shiny nose and a bad case of sniffles.

That's why nobody knows quite as much about General Motors army vehicles as the men of REME. REME stands for Royal Electrical Mechanical Engineers, and they've seen our Canadian vehicles in every possible condition. Their main job is to keep the wheels rolling behind and with the rolling British Armies. The soldiers of REME go as far forward as roads will take them, to provide—under battle conditions—the same crack care for our fighting machines that we peacetime motorists always got for our Chevvy coupes at the neighborhood garage.

They run into some hard cases. The chassis hasn't been invented that will win an argument with an 88 millimetre shell or a Teller mine. And in the ordinary routine of carrying and supplying a fast-moving army, things happen to the engines of military vehicles that shouldn't happen to a sergeant-major.

In the early stages of an amphibious operation like North Africa, Sicily or Italy, for instance, an unexpected shipping loss or a few blown bridges can mean that one truck may have to do the work of two for days or even weeks on end. In such periods of urgency and strain, a front-line vehicle can no more expect the luxury of daily maintenance than a front line soldier can expect a daily bath.

Mechanics see these overburdened trucks at their worst—which means, paradoxically, at their best. They agree the real test of a military vehicle isn't how far and how well it will run under ideal service conditions, but how far and well it will run after it ought to have refused to run at all. They agree that Canadian trucks have passed this test wherever they have met it.

One of these Canadian mechanics put it to me this way not long ago as he crawled out from under a three-ton General Motors lorry, somewhere in Italy: "A fighting truck needs the same things a fighting man needs," he said, "guts and class. Our trucks have got both, and this is the place to find it out."

GENERAL MOTORS SERVICE follows the Flag all over the world

• General Motors' interest in its varied war products goes far beyond the delivery of countless units to our armed forces. To illustrate: GM technicians from Canada are "on active service" helping to improve the fine record of General Motors mechanized equipment in Italy where they landed with Montgomery's Eighth after the conquest of North Africa; in India where they await the coming Battle of Burma; in England, strategic springboard for the invasion of Western Europe, and in Australia, main attack base for the Jap-held isles of the Pacific. Other GM experts are attached to each Canadian military district, to assist in the instruction of army personnel, and to "keep tab" on GM products under practical combat conditions; the Company's Army Service Training School has already trained nearly 1200 army and air force mechanics.

A Job For The Empire Press

Last Wednesday night the Canadian section of the Empire Press Union celebrated the 35th anniversary of its foundation at a dinner in Toronto. The Empire Press Union is a great organization which is not widely known; literally every paper of importance within the British Commonwealth belongs to it, and through the agency of the Union opinions and information are exchanged which are of direct benefit to Empire solidarity. For 35 years the Canadian section of the E.P.U. has done admirable work, and it took time on Wednesday night to honour its original members, and to discuss its work in the future.

The principal speaker at the dinner was Colonel the Honourable J. J. Astor, the proprietor and publisher of the London Times, who is also the president of the E.P.U. Council. Colonel Astor spoke briefly, but very much to the point. Great responsibilities, he said, rest upon the press of the free countries now and these responsibilities will be heavier in the years to come. The British Commonwealth will play perhaps its greatest role in world history during the next twenty years, and it will need a free, informed and honest press to aid it. In Germany and Italy we have seen what a corrupt press can do to debauch and devitalize public opinion; facts suppressed, news distorted, editorial opinion made subservient to government policy—these were among the strongest weapons which Hitler and Mussolini used in their attacks on liberty. Liberty has no stronger bulwark than honest news and free expression of opinion.

The Canadian section of the E.P.U. begins its 36th year as a strong and determined organization. We think that it has the full support of newspaper readers in this country.

A Measure Of Relief

It will be good news to most people that unpaid balances of income tax no longer will be considered due on April 30; an extra four months' grace has been granted, and the payment may be postponed until August 30, without payment of interest.

Many people have found that their unpaid balance was dismayingly great. For this the misleading term "pay-as-you-go taxation" must be blamed; it would be more accurate to call it "pay-almost-all-as-you-go taxation", for that is what it is. The average worker, we suspect, has felt that when his pay envelope was beheaded every week his obligation was discharged; the discovery that he still had quite a bit to pay came as a nasty shock to him.

April 30 was not a good date for a final income tax payment. It comes right in the middle of the Sixth War Loan, and a citizen who has paid his income tax and was approached on May 1 with a high-powered appeal to buy bonds might suddenly and understandably develop a persecution complex; certainly the tax payment would not create great goodwill toward the Loan. The Canadian people are deeply patriotic and they know that wars cost money, but they also know that it is useless to try to milk a dry cow.

The extension of time for paying income tax should help to keep down arrears in that branch of government finance, and it should also create a better atmosphere for the Sixth Loan. The Minister of National Revenue was well advised to act as he has done.

A Snappish Little Note

We received a curious little note through the post on Wednesday, which is signed by W. P. Mulock, the Postmaster-General, but which does not sound as though it had been written by Mr. Mulock, who is a courteous gentleman. The note begins, in large type: "The Magazine You Have Just Finished Reading Belongs To The Fighting Forces", and underneath, in small type, it continues, "This is an urgent appeal by the Department of National War Services".

This sounds as though the writer of the note were not quite sure of his ground. He begins with a curt statement, which happens to be patently untrue; any magazines which we have bought and read belong to us until we choose to dispose of them. But this anonymous writer goes on to say that his note is an "appeal". Well, if it is an "appeal" why does he not write in an appealing fashion, instead of in a rude and hectoring fashion? Quite clearly this note means to ask us to pass on our magazines to the men and women in the armed services so that they may have something to read, and we shall certainly do so. But why is the note phrased in this brusque, Prussian style? The only 'please' which is to be found anywhere on it is that which asks us to take our magazines to the Post Office; probably Mr. Mulock wrote that bit.

Make no mistake, we are not making a fuss about nothing. The Department of National War Services ought to know that a courteous request is more likely to have good results than a snappish little note which begins with a stupid untruth. This war is being fought for many causes, and the cause of courtesy between governors and governed is one of them. If the Dept. of N.W.S. does not know how to write a polite note it had better buy a Complete Letter-Writer and find out.

An Excellent Festival

Peterborough Public Schools Music Festival which was held last Thursday and Friday was an extremely good effort and thoroughly deserved the popular support which it was given. Understandably any entertainment which includes large numbers of small children will be well attended, but we are sure that the audiences at both nights of the Festival were surprised and pleased by the excellence of the singing and dancing.

To anyone who had not attended a school music festival for ten years or more the quality of the music which was sung was a pleasant surprise. Not very long ago it was usual to teach school-children songs which were second-rate, and sometimes worse than that. But the Peterborough choirs nowadays have excellent musical fare. Parry's Jerusalem, Morley's Now Is The Month Of Maying, sea chanties, the better folk-songs—My Love's An Arbutus, for instance — and traditional songs of the best type like Cherry Ripe and Begone Dull Care are substantial works which the children will remember all their lives, which repay the hard work which goes in training the choirs, and lays the foundations for a cultivated musical taste in later life.

Pantomimes and action songs by little children are always excellent entertainment; what a pity that so few children are able to retain the ease of manner, charm and command of an audience which they show in their early years, into adult life! The older children grow, the less effective they seem to be in this phase of personality; perhaps it is a criticism of our educational system that most young people leave school completely lacking in ability to appear before the public in an attractive and forceful way.

It was a pity that so few boys appeared with the various school choirs. Of course boys have difficulty with their voices for several years, and cannot always sing during that period, but we hope that they are not getting the idea that singing and music are essentially girls' occupations.

The credit for this excellent Festival must be given to the teachers who worked hard and long to prepare it. Their reward lies in the satisfaction and pleasure which they gave to the Festival audiences, and in the taste for music which they have implanted in their pupils.

NOTE AND COMMENT

You may be proud when somebody imitates you. No one ever troubles to counterfeit a penny.

A witness in the Chaplin trial tells how Charlie paid to have Joan Berry's teeth straightened. And then she bit him! Ah, woman, woman!

The movies progress slowly. The industry will be 50 years old next month, but it was more than half that age before it began to talk.

How much longer can Mr. De Valera stand pat, a columnist asks. Or, contrariwise, says the Ottawa Citizen, how much longer can Pat stand Mr. De Valera?

A man in Portland, Maine, has gone to law because he paid $125 for a horse which, he discovers, will only move backward. This animal, we suspect, is well-known at the race-tracks.

An official of the Pennsylvania motor league says that automobiles on country roads have developed a better breed of roosters and hens by weeding out the mentally unfit fowls that jaywalk. Perhaps we should suspend some of our traffic laws, and let the motorists settle down to weeding out mentally unfit pedestrians.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

As farmers get on the land in the spring in this province, it is usually a good plan to do only surface cultivation, and that only deep enough to provide a comfortable seed bed. A good firm soil under seed will promote growth best, and deep cultivation disturbs its packed condition too much. If land has been left in a lumpy condition last fall the frost will likely have levelled it. If lumps still remain, the application of a packer or roller will level it and allow the disc to cultivate it at an even depth. In land to be seeded the disc, or diamond harrow, will break the surface and let enough air in to help growth.

In the case of wheat or grass fields a good harrowing is very necessary as early as you can get on it. The covering of snow or ice lays a sort of dead hand of winter on the land and it needs surface stirring in the spring. A spring harrowing is more apt to be underdone than overdone. This is particularly true of grass and clover fields. Their surface needs to be stirred up, air admitted to the roots and new growth stimulated in this way. Soil bacteria do not work well under the seal of winter on the soil. A light application of nitrogen in some form is a good early stimulant in the spring, and will often save a fall wheat crop that is struggling for its very existence before the sun warms the soil enough to give it a good start.

I always feel like harping on first-aid to crops that live over winter, administered in the early spring. The crops become more or less dormant during winter and can be helped by attention at the critical time when they are awakening from their sleep, to be coaxed again into growth by sun and rain.

If you ask a British farmer why he harrows his growing grain when it is up four or five inches, he will say it is to make it tiller. It rains so often in his country that conserving moisture doesn't appear important, but he will tell you that harrowing a crop will cut out a good many of the weeds, loosen the top soil and cause the growing grain plants to tiller, or stool, more freely and so increase the crop stems, and also of grain, thus giving a better yield. The spike-toothed harrow is an implement used too sparingly on many farms, particularly in spring when shallow cultivation is best, and harrow teeth are good soil packers.

To my amazement, a paper in Ontario delivers itself of this editorial comment:—

"What ancient law, international agreement or war emergency legislation is there to prevent the Honourable Mr. Gardiner, or some other Minister who knows cattle, from buying a sufficient number on Canadian markets to relieve the congestion and selling them in the United States? This would not constitute a betrayal of the Mother Country nor would it injure Donald Gordon and his price ceiling. These are pasty times for beef cattle-raisers. Markets are sticky because freezers and cold-storage space are full of meat, but cattlemen have got cattle to sell and there are some heavy costs tied up on them. It is quite unlikely that the suspension of meat rationing will cause the surplus to disappear quickly because under rationing no one was going very hungry. Neither is there any promise that ships will soon be available in sufficient number to move a large volume over to Britain, where 46 million people, plus the troops, could absorb it."

The abattoirs in Chicago, Kansas City, St. Paul and other American centres, for slaughtering cattle are jammed with beef animals, and to relieve the congestion how would it be for the U.S. Government to buy up a few thousand head of steers, absorb the loss and ship them to Toronto and Montreal for sale here? It would be neither desirable nor profitable for Canada to try any smart game on the U.S. cattle markets at the present time. The Canadian Government must, and I am sure it is willing to, play the game with its ally to the south of us in this war. What we ship across the line both ways must, in times like these, be by agreement. It is quite true that cattle-men have some difficulties to meet on both sides of the 49th parallel just now. Many members of these men's families have greater difficulties to meet on the soil of Italy just now and are not complaining, and I am confident the men at home will not protest too much about their misfortunes in this war to the death. When beef can be shipped to the war zone it will be sent, but there are some things that still get preference—these are the machines and the ammunition to destroy the would-be conquerors in Germany.

In peace-time, Canada has but two beef markets in the whole world for our surplus—Britain and the United States—and we have been practically shut out of both at times. Trade can only be promoted and markets retained by agreement between the countries concerned, and at a time like this we must be reasonable, and it is well to remember we can only get cattle into the United States through their Custom Houses.

The soybean is attracting some unfavorable comment as a crop in parts of the United States and this has spread across into Ontario. This legume is being described by Illinois farmer advisers as a soil robber and a substantial cause of erosion, and these condemnations are made with all the enthusiastic declaration of one who has made a new discovery.

Soybeans, grown for seed, is a row crop the plants are not very bushy, and if planted on sloping land, or on a hillside, and the soil is of a friable nature, it offers a very favorable opportunity for erosion to take place. It is the nature of the soil and the lay of the land that causes erosion, and any similar crop on such a field would bring about the same result. If a field on any farm offers opportunities for erosion, it should be cropped with plants or grasses with deep binding roots to hold the soil, and should be drained properly to carry off the rainfall in such a way as to reduce to a minimum the damage it might do in washing top soil to the bottom of the field.

Soybeans were introduced into the United States about 140 years ago and have proved to be a useful hay and pasture crop in many districts. The soybean will grow well wherever corn will mature, and some varieties of later development will grow further north. The best seed, at the beginning, came from Manchuria, as it is an Asiatic crop. Soybeans have only been grown to much extent in Ontario for about 25 years, or a little less. Like any other new crop these "beans" were boosted a good deal, and perhaps that part was overdone, but not more than the present condemnation is. The soybean produces one of the best and most palatable of edible oils. The claim was that the oil would be a good-paying crop and the residue would make excellent cattle food—strong in protein—and on top of this, the plant being a legume woul denrich the soil with nitrogen. This was asking rather much of the humble bean. Any crop, yielding grain as rich in oil and protein as soybeans, must use a good deal of plant food in the process and the farmer must figure on keeping the fertility of his land up to the mark. Soybeans will, like other legumes, take some nitrogen from the air and in that form of plant food will give more than it takes. It is by no means as substantial a restorer of nitrogen as alfalfa or sweet clover, but the bean crop has a considerable value.

The extra demand for edible oils, caused by the war conditions, has greatly stimulated the production of soybeans in the United States, and to some extent in Canada. A large increase in any special crop usually results in many acres of land being planted to it by farmers not thoroughly informed upon either the necessary cultivation or the selection of the proper soil, with consequent disappointments in the results. This should not mean total condemnation of the crop. Light soil of a sandy nature, in good fertility, and lying so as to prevent serious run-off of water, will grow a profitable crop of soybeans. When used for hay or pasture, soybeans can be sown broadcast and under favorable conditions will yield some two tons of feed per acre.

When you next visit a Chinese restaurant and ask for Chop Suey, remember that the choice flavor of this delectable Chinese dish can be attributed mostly to the liberal use of soybean sauce in the mixture. This soy sauce is fermented and gives a piquancy to the taste of this mixture of meal, celery and other ingredients, among which the most important is soybean sprouts made from the Mung variety of soybeans.

A BALL AND CHAIN CAN BECOME A WEAPON —By Thomas

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

NO ACTION BY RESPONSIBLE GROUPS

Sir,—Views of a former resident of a Western Ontario city who has recently established a home in Peterborough.

From the fact that an interview was granted by the Minister of Lands and Forests to a Peterborough delegation and further information supplied the local member Mr. Scott which was published in the Examiner regarding the establishment of a Provincial Park, it would appear that the Government of Ontario at least have an open mind on the question. Obviously a Park is not going to be forced on Peterborough County if we do not want it. There are too many places where the citizens would jump at the chance.

From what I can learn the establishment of this Park would not cost the citizens of this county and city a dollar, and would not interfere with property rights, farms, cottages, etc. That it would be an immensely valuable asset to the city and county seems obvious. The fact that it would be nearer Toronto than Algonquin Park and also within easy reach of the International Bridge at Ivy Lea would seem to assure a large number of visitors.

I note in a recent issue of the Globe and Mail that an Ontario Tourist conference has been called by Premier Drew to be held in Toronto April 14-15. Leaders of all groups in the Legislature have been invited and ministers in charge of Lands and Forests, Highways and Game and Fisheries will attend, while the meeting will be under the chairmanship of the Provincial Treasurer. Douglas R. Oliver, Chief of the Travel and Publicity Bureau is to be present to meet the conference delegates. Dominion Government representatives will address the conference. A further notice indicates that the government has doubled the amount previously voted for Tourist printing and publicity. The attitude of those who oppose this proposed Provincial Park seems strangely out of harmony with events.

I have followed the arguments pro and con as published in the Examiner and have been surprised to note the apparent lack of interest, at least lack of action, by any public body such as our City Council—The Retail Merchants' Association, Chamber of Commerce and etc., while leaving the work of placing its value before the public to individuals, largely by one citizen.

I am sure there are thousands of citizens in this city who would welcome the opportunity of visiting such a park but would be unable to spend the time and money in a trip to Algonquin or any other such place—what is holding up action on this question?

Twice A Week In Senlis

The market place in most French towns is a rather dreary affair, usually an open-air edifice of ornamental iron, covered with a tin roof and resounding with the hoarse shouts of local vegetable barons. Numberless early morning sightseers have been attracted to Les Halles in Paris, of course, but they were looking for atmosphere and onion soup rather than architectural splendor. The sad events of 1940 have only only intensified the maxim that most French markets are unlovely. But I can think of one notable exception to the rule, the market in our little town of Senlis, in the Oise....

The rich Gothic facade of St. Pierre....looked down upon a small cobblestone square which, on market days, become packed with the umbrellas and stands of ambulatory dry-goods merchants. Here sturdy peasant women from neighbouring farms would buy strong black cloth with the proceeds of the sale of their haricots verts. And here would be stationed the inevitable unshaven accordion player, squeezing out silly, tinkling tunes while his wife tried hard to sell sheet music to a gaping circles of children and rustics from the outlying villages....

Market day came twice a week in Senlis, and twice a week the Beck family plunged into this animated picture with joy and abandon. We came laden with market baskets and expanding filets, those wonderful nets, gathered together by a handle, which can carry an almost limitless amount of produce, depending only upon the strength of the shopper's arms. Our technique was to buy potatoes first (these filled the bottom of the net), then green vegetables, then fruit, and finally a few heads of lettuce which could be crammed in at the top. The idea of a paper bag for each vegetable would have been utterly inconceivable. You simply piled your purchases into a given space, keeping the eggs, berries and cheese on top, and sorted them out when you returned to your kitchen table.

Because of the weight-lifting problem, vegetable and fruit buying usually became my province, with the manly aid of little Phinney. The shrewder business of selecting meat, fish, poultry and butter fell to Madame, in earnest consultation with Clementine. The venerable French custom of manoeuvering for special privilege applies equally well to the acquisition of a chateau, a seat in the Chamber of Deputies or a mere cauliflower. I found a favorite vegetable woman and stuck to her, with the result that she would reserve her choicest produce under the table for the Beck family (and an appreciable pourboire).—From "Clementine in the Kitchen," by Phineas Beck.

Education's "Sacred Cow"

According to J. P. S. Nethercott, director of vocational guidance for London schools, the school timetable is the "sacred cow of the temple" of the educational system now in vogue. Speaking before the London District Urban School Trustees' Association conference convention in London Mr. Nethercott declared that 12 subjects in the Grade IX curriculum were too many and led to teaching subjects rather than students. He said: "When there are 300 to 400 students a day for a teacher to teach, he naturally teaches subjects rather than students. He can't know the boys and girls; there isn't time." The present system, he said, was "too monastic; too isolated from social and economic life. We are still pushing boys and girls up the ladder, getting them to look up all the time....We talk about there being room at the top—we forgot that there must be room and board at the top."

Nearly all teachers will agree that there are too many subjects at present on the curriculum in Grade IX, and in some other grades. Most will agree also they have to teach too many students ad are forced to concentrate on subjects rather than on pupils. We are reminded of the advice of Sir William Osler who had had a wide experience and a long life, that it is more important to treat the patient than the disease. Diseases run a methodical course but patients differ. It is the same with education. The courses are the same. The students are different. No two students will benefit in precisely the same way in life from any one course.

Premier George Drew has announced widespread changes in Ontario's educational system to be introduced as soon as may be feasible, presumably with the fall terms. Reform is long overdue, for the sake of the teachers as well as the students. No reform holds so much of promise for the future of this province, in dollars and cents, in satisfaction and in healthy and progressive living.—London Free Press.

The Army's Backbone

The professional soldier has the most thankless calling in the world. In peace he is looked upon as a consumer of public taxes. In war he is apt to be buried three deep by the inrush of amateur soldiers, each intent upon knowledge that takes a lifetime to acquire. You will find him in the honours list upon occasion, but ten to one it will have been the condescension of some amateur soldier that placed him there. And yet were it not for the stiffening of professional soldiers each nation would go as a tyro into war.—Victoria Colonist.

A Bible Message

We then, as workers together with him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain. (For he saith, I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.)....

Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?

And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them: and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing: and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty. (II Cor. 6: 1, 2, 14-18.)

The Mountain I Like

Plynlimon is the kind of mountain I like. It is neither too high nor too steep, and there are few precipices....

It was mid-winter when I first tried to reach the source of the Wye, on Plynlimon. In the morning, when I left Llangurig, the sun had risen in a clear sky, and was throwing its radiance over the snow-covered hills. To the west the sky was green as olives and the ice-fringed river, reflecting that colour, showed all the lights of an aquamarine. Higher in the hills the water in the tributaries flowed through crystal gorges. It was as if some giant crucibles of molten glass had been spilled along either bank. In the sheltered pools, where the water was deep and calm, delicate fernlike plates of ice stretched out to meet each other over mid-stream, but on windier stretches the frozen surface was rippled and polished, and dark as the water flowing beneath. Where there had been a waterfall there were now caverns of ice, festooned with stalactites, the rock faces on either side shining like chandeliers with frozen spray.

Although there wasn't a cloud to be seen small snow-flakes began to fall, each one dazzling bright in the sunlight, and the higher I climbed the larger these flakes became. But they soon lost their brilliance. By midday the horizons were blotted out, and the tussocks of grass at my feet were crested with fresh snow. The ice-flecked stream had become the colour of pewter. The snow fell thicker and thicker, and a cold wind swept down the valley....

Plynlimon is not a single peak but a marriage of many, two of its highest points being three miles apart. These and the surrounding country are some of the oldest hills in the world, older by far than the Alps, the Andes, or the Himalayas, yet it is possible almost anywhere on their surfaces to pick up slabs of shaly rock which show not only the tide ripples of a time when they were submerged beneath the sea, but also the clearly marked tracks of worms who moved and had their being in those seas some five hundred million years ago.—From "Coming Down the Wye," by Robert Gibbings.

New Generation To Starve Germans Plan

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 3 — (CP) —American intelligence officers are reported to be studying seized teachings of German war lords prepared for officers in the Nazi forces instructing them how to lay plans for the next attempt at German world domination. These teachings, marked by satanic realism, accept the hopelessness of complete victory now but order the murder or starvation of people in occupied countries, particularly the youth, so that those of fighting age 25 years hence will be weak and ineffective.

A startling release on this story may be forthcoming soon.

There's A Difference

The argument that the press conference system in Washington adequately takes the place of the question hour in the British House of Commons and the quizzing Opposition leaders give the Mackenzie King government at each daily sitting of the House in Ottawa, was raised in Congress here by Representative Clarence Cannon.

The Missouri Democrat was opposing a move to have Administration heads of the United States Government make themselves available periodically for questioning on the floors of Congress.

President Roosevelt's bi-weekly press conferences, and those held by his cabinet colleagues, serve to bring out all the information that might be obtained through adoption of the British system of parliamentary question periods, he said.

"The average American reported has no peer as an interlocutor and can be depended upon to extract information where many a ponderous parliamentary potentate would fail ingloriously," Cannon declared.

But he was not absolutely correct. Without questioning the ability of Washington correspondents to get all the facts from the President, it is certain they do not do it, and for a good reason.

The correspondents, no matter how able and discerning, and no matter how critical their employers may be of Mr. Roosevelt, have too much consideration for the President and too much decency to press him or insist when he does not wish to discuss a particular question. And they try to take up as little as possible of his time—10 or 15 minutes for each conference unless he holds them for reasons of his own.

No, the quizzing at White House conferences is not at all like that which takes place when Gordon Graydon, M. J. Coldwell and John Blackmore get to work on the orders of the day in Ottawa.

Gas Coupon Count Brings $150 Fine

OTTAWA, April 3 — (CP) — Hector Beaupre, 33, was fined $150, and costs, or two months in jail, when convicted by Magistrate Glenn Strike yesterday of purchasing gasoline without surrendering coupons and having in his possession a ration book not issued to him.

Joseph Pierre Matte, 42, also of Ottawa, was remanded until today for sentence on charges of buying gasoline without surrendering coupons and having in his possession a ration book not issued to him. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

Nazi Prisoner Nabbed In Detroit

WINDSOR, April 3 (CP)—Herbert Kunz, 32-year-old German merchant seaman who escaped last Thursday from a prisoner-of-war camp near Toronto, has been recaptured in Detroit, Royal Canadian Mounted Police here announced last night.

Kunz apparently made his way to Windsor, police said, where he stole a rowboat and after crossing the Detroit River in it, was picked up by the United States Coast Guard at Belle Isle.

The Nazi seaman was scheduled to be brought here today and turned over to the R.C.M.P.

Officials said that earlier Sunday Canadian customs officers on the Ambassador Bridge here failed to identify Kunz when he attempted to walk across to Detroit. He was turned away when he failed to produce the proper papers for crossing the border.

LEND-LEASE GOWNS

LONDON — (CP) — Some girls in the services here are appearing these nights in gowns that cost up to $500. But it isn't as good as it sounds. It's a lend lease idea as between the theatre and the camp entertainments whereby service-women appearing in camp productions are allowed to wear gowns from the theatre's wardrobes.

Youth Delights in Walking
CLOSE TO THE EDGE OF THINGS

Canada's young men and women face up to the risks of life and ask no safeguard against failure. Youth simply does not intend to fall.

What they do expect is the right to organize their own lives in their own way; the freedom to grasp opportunity and make the most of it on their own initiative; the privilege of voluntary co-operation with others. These are the things that open the treasures of life to them.

It's adventurous living—but they would not have it otherwise. Youth asks for opportunity. Not with bravado or with bluster, but with courageous confidence, they set out on life's journey.

During its 89 years of public service, this Bank has been privileged to lend the helping hand of friendly counsel and timely support to untold thousands of such young Canadians. This kind of voluntary team-play is essential to keep opportunity free, encourage self-reliance and urge on to new achievement every enterprising man and woman. This is what has built and can continue to build a better Canada for all.

Won't Sell Bibeault

MONTREAL, April 3 — (CP). — Tommy Gorman, general manager of the Canadian Arena Company, revealed yesterday that Canadiens of the National Hockey League had turned down a cash offer of $15,000 from Toronto Maple Leafs for outright purchase of Goalie Paul Bibeault.

Bibeault is Canadiens' property but has been on loan to the Leafs since he was discharged from the army in mid-season.

Western Teams Tie First Game

PORT ARTHUR, April 3 (CP) — A gruelling best-of-seven Western Canada Senior Hockey final series was in prospect today as Port Arthur Shipbuilders and New Westminster Lodestars on even terms prepared for the second game tonight.

The Thunder Bay and British Columbia champions fought to a 5-5 overtime tie Saturday night in 70 minutes of first cautious and then a speedy rough and tumble performance.

Both teams appeared over-anxious to take the opening game. It was embarrassing for Don Eaton, veteran Port Arthur winger, who laid a pass on Jimmy Wilson's stick and later deflected the disc into his own net to account for two Lodestar goals.

Then in overtime New Westminster scored only to have officials rule that Connie King had kicked the rubber in. The counter was disallowed.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Although the weather conditions do not suggest it the opening of another softball season is no more than just around the corner. The City League has already named its delegates to attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association in Guelph this week and with the annual conclave of the Provincial Women's Softball Union coming up in a couple of weeks the executive of the local Ladies' Softball League will be called together shortly. It might not be too soon for the parks committee of the city council to begin planning for any improvements that may be necessary this season. With the girls as usual using the diamond in the Riverside Bowl and the men will undoubtedly carry on as they have the last two seasons in the old baseball cushion inside. If that park is to be used some repairs to the grandstand and interior fences would seem to be necessary. Nothing was done last season and if the same policy is followed for a year or two more the place will be a complete wreck. It might not be a bad idea for the committee to look over the situation early so that any improvements decided upon can be carried out before the time comes for opening the season. That used to be one of the best ball orchards in the country and it seems a pity to allow it to deteriorate until it will eventually look like a bombed out area.

* * * * * *

Our old friend George Soup Campbell, Oshawa sports scribe has been the target for a number of attacks from Western Ontario sport writers who claim the publicity man for the Generals is prejudiced, unfair and guilty of half a dozen other weaknesses. In fact Chick Appel of the Stratford Beacon-Herald makes the charge that Campbell is so biased that when he was furnished with a fair report of a junior game in Stratford that he had been unable to attend, he revamped the story to suit himself. The Western Ontario brethren, by the very heat of their attacks are leaving themselves open to a counter-charge that they are not unprejudiced themselves. So far as this column is concerned we are inclined to the belief that the chief crime that Campbell has been guilty of is of being lucky enough to have the job of publicizing a championship outfit. It is not always true that all the world loves a winner. By the time a junior team wins the championship seven times in a row a large percentage of fandom would dearly love to see them knocked off. In other words our friend Soup is suffering because his favorite hockey team is good enough to be heading the parade. Down in this end of the province where we have long known him the Oshawa scribe has been accused of being a good Oshawa fan just as Ken Colling and Claude Tice are noted as ardent Belleville rooters and Bill Walshe as the journalist friend of Kingston teams, but otherwise we have taken him for granted.

* * * * * *

Walshe Calls It A Joke

Bill Walshe is the latest sport writer to fire broadside at what the Kingston scribe calls the "junior hockey joke." We string along with Bre'er Walshe in every word of the following: "All's fair in love and war, they say, and that is probably the C.A.H.A. excuse for wrecking the rules of junior amateur hockey. Love of money with the war as a loop-hole for extra profits has turned the once strict amateur organization into a positive professional proposition, changed junior hockey into a little pro group, controlled by big rink interests and destroyed the original objective of the C.A.H.A. to promote the sport for sports sake. Municipalities, like Kingston, Owen Sound, Orillia, Port Hope, Peterborough or Newmarket, former O.H.A. junior champions, that are off the big rink circuit, cannot bid for the Canadian championship, due to changes in the residence rules, the new military replacement rules and the wide open traffic in players. Smaller clubs cannot afford to compete in the expensive market."

* * * * * *

"The military replacement rule is past the joke stage," continues the Walshe article. "Originally intended to fill gaps on teams caused by players moved by the service forces the rule is now an open excuse to pack clubs. The most foolish rule of all is the C.A.H.A. plan to strengthen teams before entering the Canadian senior and junior playdowns. Oshawa's power packed O.H.A. junior champions were permitted to add four players from their group for Canadian play and immediately selected four members of the St. Michael's College team that was eliminated in the O.H.A. final. There was a terrific rumpus raised not so long ago when university teams beaten in the O.H.A. schedules re-entered for the Allan Cup and Memorial Cup via the Intercollegiate Union. That is nothing compared to today's hockey set-up which permits certain players to perform with as many as four and five teams in a season. The Memorial Cup finals this year will actually be a meeting of all-star teams from the East and West."

It's Really A Business

"In 13 full seasons of professional hockey play at Maple Leaf Gardens since the place was opened in the fall of 1931, cash customerage has totalled 4,099,831," says Bobby Hewitson in the Telegram. "That's for 314 league games and 51 playoffs, or 365 in all. In other words exactly one full year in days has been made up in hockey action over those 13 seasons. In the 314 games in the league the paid attendance has been 3,385,065 and for the 51 playoffs 714,766. In the regular 150-game schedule of the N.H.L. official figures from the league show that the fans around the circuit paid in $2,066,991.72 in cash at the gates to see the teams perform with the campaign just closed. That was the highest in league history by considerable."

"Chicago was tops with $414,172. Rangers—though tailenders—stood second with $384,797, moving up ahead of Toronto which was second a year ago, but third this with gate receipts of $368,-305," continues the parade of statistics. "Boston stood fourth with $329,436, Detroit fifth with $326,746, while the leading Canadiens—possibly Stanley Cup winners—pulled up last in the money department with $248,430, which however was a lot more than they pulled in last season. On the road Canadiens proved the best drawing card with $419,882, with Leafs holding down second spot with $376,420, thus proving the Canadian teams as the main drawing strength. Boston was third, Detroit fourth, Chicago fifth and Rangers last. In the customer department Chicago also headed the list with no less than 330,572 fans paid. Toronto was second with 279,261, Rangers next with 260,439, Canadiens fourth with 237,659, Detroit fifth with 233,842 and Boston sixth with 212,-838. Total league attendance was 1,554,611."

Bring Big Timer To Handle Battle

A Big-Time wrestling match and and a Big-Time Referee go on at the Brock Arena mat on Tuesday night. The bout is the re-match between Karl Krippler Davis and Pacific Coast champion Frank Sexton. The referee is Ed. Strangler Lewis. The special official resulted from the mad madness that seemed to possess Karl Davis last week here when he subjected Referee Ernie Powers to a going over after being denied the third fall of the bout. Powers had at first awarded the fall and match to Davis, but after counting Sexton down, he had become aware of the fact that Frank's leg had been entangled in the ropes at the time of the fall. When the official attempted to explain why he had voided the fall, big Davis felled him like a log.

The net result was Davis' immediate disqualification, and the loss of the match, but while he was at it the Krippler proved that he is one tough guy. In his demand for another bout Davis agreed to the arrangement whereby Strangler Lewis will be brought in specially to handle the main bout. But even powerful Ed. Lewis may find his hands full handling this quarrel. Sexton is thoroughly roused over the whole affair, as for Davis, the torrential Texan is determined to let loose with his best, or rather worst shots this time. Davis is so big and tough that even the presence of Strangler Lewis as official may not curb him, but if he attempts to ride roughshod over the Strangler, the fans are sure to see a regular "Donnybrook." On Thursday night in Maple Leaf Gardens the ruthless Texan lived up to his nick-name by crippling Vic Holbrook's already sore knee and beating the daylights out of the popular Californian. Holbrook may be out of the game for some time as a result of Davis' attacks. Against such a threat however, Sexton stacks up his peerless science and condition and with Lewis keeping a merciless eye on any illegalities, Tuesday's bout shapes up as a mighty brawl indeed. Tom Zaharias meets Toar Morgan and Bunny Dunlop wrestles Jack Wentworth.

Trail, Pt. Arthur Meet In West

WINNIPEG, April 3—(CP)—Trail Smoke Eaters, first British Columbia junior hockey team to enter Western Canada finals, and Port Arthur Flyers, Thunder Bay champions, today sharpened their offensive plays for the opening of the best-of-five series here tomorrow night.

Trail reached the western finals by eliminating Edmonton Canadians and Regina Commandos while Port Arthur downed St. James Canadians Manitoba champions.

Smoke Eaters, forced to win three straight games of a revised semi-final series, whitewashed Commandos 5-0 at Moose Jaw Saturday night. Their victories of the original series were disallowed for using Paul Mahara, 23, an over-age player.

Trail chalked up 7-2 and 6-4 victories over the Saskatchewan titlists who started the revised affair with their two victories of the previous series.

Officials Set Basketball List

TORONTO, April 3 —(CP)— The default of the University of New Brunswick of Ottawa in the Intermediate playdowns of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association brought a revision last night in the draw for remaining games. It was announced from the office of Secretary A. L. Irwin, Toronto, the Eastern Canadian finals will be played at Toronto between York Belting and Ottawa College, the series to be best-of-three games. Dates were not announced, pending the securing of gymnasium accommodation, but the series is expected to open this week.

York belting won the Ontario Intermediate at St. Catharines Saturday night.

In the senior series, Hayes Steel team of Merritton, Ont., has been ordered to play Montreal Oilers in Montreal April 8 in the first of the Eastern Canadian final games. Oilers eliminated Ottawa Sailors at Ottawa Saturday while Hayes defeated Windsor Varsity at St. Catharines.

Canadiens Team At Top Strength

MONTREAL, April 3—(CP)—At full strength for the opening of the first Stanley Cup finals here in 13 years, Montreal Canadiens awaited the arrival today of Chicago Black Hawks for the start of the National Hockey League post-season playoffs Tuesday night.

The last year the Canadiens were in the finals was 1931 and in that series they also encountered Chicago.

The Montrealers came through their semi-final series with Toronto Leafs in good shape. Possibility was seen that Coach Dick Irvin would change his system for the finals and use three defencemen and three full forward lines.

Canadiens were full of confidence about the outcome of the series, although they figured the Hawks would make a battle of it all the way. They had the word of Red Dutton, managing director of the National Hockey League who saw some of the Chicago-Detroit games, that the Hawks were hot and would be hard to beat.

THE COUNT STEPS OUT AGAIN — After a long layoff, Count Fleet, three-year-old, champion of 1943, gets in first light workout at Belmont Park, N.Y. The Count suffered a foreleg injury last year and X-rays have left a doubt whether he will be able to race this season.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—This is supposed to be hush-hush stuff; nobody will confirm it officially and nobody wants his name used....If it turns out all wrong, you can blame it on the way G.I. rumors travel, but it comes in confidence from widely divergent "good sources."....The story is merely that the United States Army Air Forces are planning to have big-time football next fall.... Apparently the plan is to have one big team for each air force in the United States.

Contradictory:

The new "home" owners of the Sacramento Pacific Coast League ball club gave a $25 War Bond as a prize for naming the park "Double-Day Field"—what a name for a place where they'll be playing virtually nothing but night games.

Cautious Clouter:

An "Old Timer" of the boxing game tells this yarn about the fight between Battling Nelson and Dick Hyland back in the days when fight movies were something new....Nelson had arranged to have the scrap filmed for his own benefit and, being thrifty, told the photographer to shoot only the first few rounds and then await his signal to resume grinding....Hyland gave the Battler a good going over for a while and after a particularly strenous round the fans shouted to Hyland "get him in the next round."....As the bell sounded, Nelson, his eyes like pin-points, waved a signal to the camera man and tore into Hyland....The rest is in the record books—"KO 23."

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Just 11 years ago to-night all previous overtime records were shattered when Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs clashed at Toronto to decide the National Hockey title. Ken Doraty gave Leafs the crown when he scored the only goal of the game after 164 minutes, 46 seconds of play. This time was beaten at Montreal, March 24, 1936, when Maroons and Detroit battled 176 minutes, 30 seconds, before the Red Wings won 1-0.

London Takes Title

TORONTO (CP)—After eliminating Toronto Alerts and Brantford Waterous, London won the Ontario women's intermediate "B" basketball championship Saturday night with a 40-28 victory over Merritton Housers. Toronto Oakwoods captured the intermediate "A" title by defeating Niagara Falls 43-24 while Brantford Collegiate upset Toronto Carltonettes 12-11 to win the junior title.

Buffalo Meets Barons Tuesday

By The Canadian Press

Buffalo will meet Cleveland Barons in the American Hockey League finals starting at Cleveland Tuesday. The Cleveland team won its way into the final series by defeating Hershey Bears 4-1 Saturday in the seventh and deciding game of the semi-finals.

Barons took and held an early lead, despite the absence of their regular goalie, Paul Gauthier, out with injuries since March 5.

Two of the Cleveland markers went to left winger Lou Trudel, while Mike Shabaga and Pete Horeck collected the others. The lone Hershey goal was by Baston Gauthier in the second period. Though only five penalties were handed out, it was a rough game throughout, Bill Moe, Hershey defenceman, being knocked out in the second period after colliding with Pete Bessone, rugged Barons defenceman.

Granite Club Closes

KITCHENER —(CP)—One of the leading badminton organizations in Ontario, the Granite Club of Kitchener suspended operations for the duration at its annual meeting. The clubhouse is to be rented to a local company for the storage of tires.

Gremlins Victors

VICTORIA (CP)—For the second successive year, Patricia Bay Gremlins won the senior "A" basketball championship of British Columbia Saturday night, the 1944 race being decided when they defeated Vancouver Combines 55-51.

Ottawa Wins

MONTREAL (CP)—University of Ottawa captured their two-game intermediate basketball playoff series with University of Montreal here Saturday night when they won their second game 36-30.

Frood Miners Eliminate Hull Volants

TORONTO, April 3—(CP)—Sudbury Open Pit today looked for a new victim in their trek toward the Allan Cup final after eliminating Hull Volants Saturday night in the fourth game of a best-of-five Eastern Canada Senior hockey semi-final. Sudbury defeated Hull 7-0 Saturday and carried the series in three straight games, the first encounter being deadlocked.

The next step for Open Pit is the Eastern Canada final against Quebec Aces who eliminated Truro Bearcats Saturday at Halifax. The winner of this best-of-five series will meet the winner of a similar series now being played between New Westminster Lodestars and Port Arthur Shipbuilders.

Oscar Clouthier was the star in the Sudbury-Hull game, scoring four of the seven goals. Maurice Vaillancourt netted twice and George Blake added the other tally.

Although shut-out, the Volants made several determined efforts to score, but Maurice Gerth proved too alert and held off repeated attacks by the Hull players. The Volants were lacking in passing plays and defensive work, leaving most of the load on Alec Wood who couldn't cope with the powerful shots fired by Clouthier and Villancourt. Blake's goal was a fluke, a pass across the goal-mouth striking Defenceman Diotte's skate and rolling into the cage.

TORONTO, April 3—(CP)—Repercussions have been heard from that Billy Reay referee-baiting incident, and indications are that hockey bodies may adopt a tougher attitude toward offending players in future. The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association has served notice it will press strongly for imposition of stiff punishment. The matter will be taken up at the C.A.H.A. annual meeting in Montreal next month, and suspension of pugnacious players for at least one year has been suggested as the proper sentence.

Reay, playing coach of Quebec Aces, was suspended for the balance of the series with Montreal Royals after he hung one on the official. Aces polished off Royals in short order, though, so Reay actually drew only a one-game stay in disgrace. That mild knuckle-rapping has drawn a lot of criticism, and forced the hand of the Quebec body which probably will adopt the measure itself if the national body doesn't.

Most fans will agree that some action, though perhaps not quite so drastic, is necessary. They like to abuse the refs themselves, but the fight they enjoy most is one between opposing players.

Hex at Work:

New Westminster Lodestars are firmly convinced that this superstition business really is something. After soundly trouncing Flin Flon Bombers in the first two games of their western semi-final, Lodestars made all arrangements for travelling east for a set-to with Port Arthur. Tickets and berths for the trip were all arranged. Then Bombers pulled a fast one, winning the next game and forcing Lodestars to postpone their journey until another game was played. Lodestars are reported eyeing black cats, ladders and such askance, but definitely.

Incidentally:

War or no war, the Ottawa Rowing club plans to operate this year as usual and hold its annual regatta come drought or high water. In passing, Leo Venne missed his first meeting of the club in 20 years when he had to act as penalty timekeeper for the Oshawa-Ottawa junior game.. Bill (Kingston Whig-Standard) Walsh had a letter from a soldier in Italy the other day. Despite his own discomforts and dangers, the soldier's big squawk was that service hockey had been canceled in Canada.. Dick Symns, undefeated Manitoba junior heavyweight king and former Canadian titleholder, has joined the Navy as an instructor.. A baseball school for youngsters is being organized in Guelph. When San Francisco claimed Charley Low as the only Chinsee racehorse stable owner in America, Harry (Calgary Albertan) Scott pointed out Louis Gow of Calgary has been in the business since 1942 and has a string of five nags.

Jimmy Dykes Howls Again

FRENCH LICK, Ind., April 3—(AP)—Jimmy Dykes, vociferous Chicago White Sox manager, wailed loudly today that his team had been evicted from the Chicago Cubs' spring training field here and had been forced to cancel a scheduled game with a soldier team from Camp Breckinridge.

Non-partisan observers, recalling last year's squabble over Dykes' affinity for the Cubs playing premises, opined that the old feud might be brewing again.

The latest rupture in Sox-Cubs relations came last night when the Sox skipper blew into town from Louisville, Ky., where his boys had dropped a 3-2 exhibition game to Pittsburgh Pirates.

Stormed Dykes:

"I have just been forced to cancel the game scheduled with the soldier boys from Breckinridge. Wilson (Cub Manager Jimmy Wilson) served notice we couldn't have the only usable field. I don't believe it was Wilson's idea, but he's the one who ordered us to stay away . . we couldn't possible play on West Baden field."

The Sox began using the Cub premises last Spring when flood water failed to recede on the south siders' West Baden diamond.

Believes Cubans Tops As Ball Players

WASHINGTON, April 3—(AP)—Baseball, says Clark Griffith, should go South, way South, to look for talent in the wartime manpower emergency.

The 74-year-old owner of the Washington Senators, who thinks he has a 1944 pennant winner, should know. He's got about a dozen Cubans, several Puerto Ricans, three Venezuelans and a pair of Mexicans on a squad that many experts have picked as tops in the American League.

And Griffith, who's been round the major leagues as player, manager and club president since the 1890's, thinks the South and Central American element is here to stay.

"Do you know that many of our best ball players to-day are coming from Cuba?" he asked.

"For fielding, players don't come any better anywhere than from Cuba and South America. If we can show them a few pointers about hitting, they'll be tough to beat."

Griffith likes Central American baseball prospects so much that he keeps Scout Joe Cambria there the year around beating the bushes for recruits.

"AnLd some day," he says, "I hope to open a baseball school in Havana to train youngsters."

After bowing to Merritton Hayes 66-48 at St. Catharines Saturday night in the second game of the Senior Ontario Basketball titular series, Windsor Varsity announced withdrawal from further competition for O.A.B.A. honors because of "manpower shortage" and the Steelmen were awarded the championship. Windsor had won the first game 65-41 at Windsor. Hayes Steel is now scheduled to meet Montreal Oilers in Montreal next Saturday night in the first clash for the Ontario-Quebec laurels and the right to proceed in quest of the Canadian championship.

In the Intermediate "A" court tournament at St. Catharines Saturday, York Belting of Toronto copped the Ontario crown in defeating Hamilton Circles 47-24 in the final test after eliminating Welland in the semi-finals. Hamilton previously ousted Windsor Grads. The Ontario junior tournament at Toronto Saturday saw Ste. Herome's College, Kitchener, come through with a 37-35 upset for Toronto Y.M.H.A. Kitchener reached the final with an easy 49-14 win over Napanee in the preliminary round.

Louis (Big Bobo) Newsom advised Connie Mack Saturday by telephone he had found his way to Florida for a one-man training trip but would be ready to pitch the opening game for the Philadelphia Athletics against Washington.

Counting Bill Smith's three victories, Great Lakes Naval Training station rolled up 54 points to capture the 1944 National A.A.U. indoor swimming championships Saturday night at Ann Arbor, Mich., University of Michigan finishing second with 20 points.

The Transcontinental Professional Football League came into tentative being as a postwar organization at a meeting in Pittsburgh yesterday when memberships were awarded eight clubs throughout the United States. The plan is to use air transportation.

Yankees Show Power At Bat

NEW YORK, April 3—(AP)—Don't count New York Yankees out of the running for the American League pennant—not yet, anyway.

When the world champions lost such star players as Charley Keller, Spud Chandler, Bill Dickey, Marius Russo, Joe Gordon, and Frankie Crosetti to the armed services and essential industry a lot of wishful thinkers thought the crippled Yanks couldn't possibly win their fourth straight pennant and eighth in nine years.

But consider exhibition games of the week-end when the Yanks beat Brooklyn Dodgers and Phillies at Atlantic City, N.J.

For one thing the Yanks are still poling that long ball, a homer, double or triple that can bust up a game at any minute. The Dodgers and the Phils both ouhit the champs, but final scores read: Yanks 5, Phils 4; and Yanks 4, Dodgers 3 in 11 innings.

News from other major league camps:

Cincinnati Reds—Pitching prospect uncovered in Lefty Carter who held Indians to one run and seven hits in five innings yesterday.

St. Louis Browns—Manager Luke Sewell, disregarding cold weather, scheduled another game with Toledo today. Mudhens walloped the Browns yesterday, 12-4.

Chicago Cubs—Rookies Tony York and Roy Easterwood each got three hits against Tigers yesterday while Paul Derringer hurled scoreless three innings.

Chicago White Sox—Johnny Humphries and D. Lopat each twirled a scoreless three innings against Pirates Sunday.

Students Asked To Register For Farm Work

Under the urgent necessity of greater food production as an essential to victory in the war, the Ontario Farm Service Force is issuing a strong appeal to high school students, boys and girls, to olunteer for farm work this summer. These volunteer workers are needed to take the places of thousands of young farmers, who as members of the army, navy and air force, are producing victories instead of crops.

The need for more food to prevent shortages is more urgent than at any previous period of the war, because of the greater needs of the invasion armies and the starving people of Europe. Ontario farmers can produce the necessary food, but they cannot do it unless tens of thousands of high school students volunteer to spend their holidays as part of the student army of the land.

To fill up the farm camps operated by the Ontario Farm Service Force in conjunction with the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., over 4,000 boys and 4,000 girls will be needed. In addition many thousand more will be required for work on individual selected farms, where good homes, the best of food and attractive rates of pay will be provided.

The Department of Education has issued an order permitting students to leave school after April 28th to work on farms. These students must have a 50 per cent standing on the year's work, must have a farm job to go either on their own farm or any other Ontario farm, and must undertake to work at least a minimum of 13 weeks.

Last year boys and girls in the Farm Service camps earned over half a million dollars, despite the bad season, and this year more students than ever will be required. Most of those who were in the camps last year are expected to go there again this year and they are urged to bring along with them as many of their friends as possible, so that they will have congenial friends in their camp life. The camps will again be under supervision of trained Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. workers who will not only look after the comfort and feeding of the campers, but will organize enjoyable and healthful spare time recreational and entertainment activities.

Applications for farm work from students, either for the camps or for individual farms, are now being received, and all boys and girls wishing to volunteer for this necessary patriotic service are urged to apply at once to the Ontario Farm Service Force, Parliament Buildings Toronto.

TRANSPORT for a NATION AT WAR

SINCE THE CALL TO ARMS

WITHIN AN HOUR of the opening of hostilities the Canadian National began what has proved to be the largest and one of the most exacting war jobs in Canada. This job has continued day and night without stop for four and a half years.

●

FROM SEPTEMBER 10, 1939 to March 10, 1944 the Canadian National carried more than 100 million passengers and 300 million tons of freight. Since the beginning of the war the Canadian National Dining Car Department has served 13,631,387 meals.

●

THE RAILWAY not only hauled away the completed munitions of war, but brought in the raw materials to make them. Without this two-way service, Canada's magnificent job of production could not have been carried out. The Canadian National itself builds mine-sweepers, 12,000-ton freighters, naval guns and gun mountings, aircraft components, and parts for other gun factories.

●

OF THE 100 MILLION PASSENGERS carried, a high percentage consisted of members of the armed forces proceeding to camps for training and to shipboard for embarkation.

●

STEAMSHIPS OF THE COMPANY, though reduced in numbers by sinkings through enemy action, have served gallantly in the war as auxiliary armed cruisers, hospital ships and transports.

●

CANADIAN NATIONAL Express and Telegraph facilities have worked to capacity to meet war demands.

The Canadian National's nine all-year hotels, situated in cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific, have provided service of an essential nature to those engaged in the war effort. All the Company's resort hotels are closed for the duration.

22% OF THE PERSONNEL in Company's service in 1939 have joined the armed forces. In Victory Loan campaigns Canadian National men and women have purchased bonds to the amount of $26,924,600.

●

TRANS-CANADA AIR LINES, subsidiary of the Canadian National Railways, has carried 435,000 passengers during the war, 9,417,000 pounds of air mail letters, and 1,476,000 pounds of wartime air express. Trans-Canada Air Lines is also flying the Atlantic regularly with mail to and from the armed forces.

Highlights of 1943 Operations

Tons of freight carried	86,426,781
Passengers carried	34,500,731
Gross Revenues	$440,615,955
Net Operating Revenue	$116,140,285
Cash Surplus	$35,639,412
Total Payroll	$195,555,000
Average number of Employees	101,126
Total System Route Mileage	23,562

The Canadian National has been privileged to join with all the citizens of our country, including those who are serving in the armed forces, in the prosecution of the war. It believes that Canadians will be interested in this outline of some of the System's war activities.

Extracts from Annual Report of the Directors of the Canadian National System:

OUR OBJECTIVE IN 1943, as in other war years, was to place the full strength of our man-power and facilities behind the war effort of the United Nations. To this end all energies have been directed. The requirements of the armed forces, of industry and agriculture, for transport and other services, have been met in all of the nine Provinces of the Dominion and in the important sections of the United States in which we operate.

RECORD TRAFFIC

These demands were greater than ever before, the traffic moved in 1943 being 17.3% greater than in 1942, the previous peak war year, and 44.7% greater than in 1928, the peak peace year.

Freight traffic in 1943 was more than double that of 1939, and passenger traffic four times that of 1939.

Despite this, the very large movements of war materials and personnel reached their destinations in accordance with schedule arrangements. There was no lowering of the recognized standards of safety.

MANUFACTURE OF MUNITIONS

The Company also extended its activities as a manufacturer of munitions, ships and naval appliances.

EARNING POWER

The 1943 operations demonstrated the great earning power of the System, the railway proving again that it can handle an immense volume of business economically as well as expeditiously.

After providing from revenue for all operating expenses (including deferred maintenance, depreciation, amortization of defence projects and reserve for inventories) and also a reserve for pension contracts, taxes, interest on funded debt and Government loans, the surplus paid in cash to the Government was $35,639,412.

OPERATING EFFICIENCY

The operating ratio for the year was 73.64% (an all-time record) as compared with 76.93% in 1942 and 81.99% in the peak peace year of 1928.

It is interesting to note that the vastly increased war traffic in 1943 was handled with 16.6% fewer locomotives, 15.4% fewer freight cars and 5.1% more passenger cars than was the traffic of 1917, the fourth year of the last World War.

SPECIAL SERVICES PROVIDED

The Company was honoured in being selected to provide extensive train and other services for Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Madam Chiang Kai-shek during their visits to Canada in 1943.

POST-WAR

Changing conditions will call for new methods of railway operation and new types of service, and there must needs be a continuing search for improvement in all aspects of the railway industry. In view of this, the Company has in hand a programme of research. This programme, in addition to considering ways and means of improving service and efficiency of operation, also encompasses the problems of post-war reconstruction and rehabilitation.

THE OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES in all departments of the System have worked hard and loyally to cope with increased responsibilities arising out of the war, and the directors record their appreciation and thanks. The traditional harmonious relations between management and employees were maintained throughout the year. Appreciation also is expressed to shippers and the travelling public alike for their cooperation in and sympathetic understanding of difficult operating conditions caused by the war.

On a charge laid by Chief W. Aikens of Havelock Harry Newton of that village entered a written plea of guilty to a drunk count in police court this morning and a fine of $10 and $2.50 was registered against him by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

NO MAPLE SYRUP

Saturday market was a disappointment to citizens looking for the first run of maple syrup. Producers were either absent or empty handed, and apparently the flow of sap to the evaporators is lighter than usual Some of the farmers may not have help enough to light the fires under the boiling vats. Potatoes were $2 a bag, butter 40c a pound, eggs 30 to 35 cents a dozen and chickens 35 to 38 cents a pound.

ASHBURNHAM HELPED

Householders in Ashburnham responded to the city's appeal for cooperation with the garbage collection staff, and the first day's experience Saturday was a satisfactory promise of efficiency as soon as the new system has settled down into its routine. Here and there throughout the city there have been remnant lots of ashes to be picked up, and the city's operation of this community service will require most of this week to become established.

THREE ALARMS.

Three alarms, two for chimney fires and one for overheated pipes, comprise the report of the Fire Department for the week-end. The chimney fires were at 255 Lake street, J. P. Grady, at 2.25 p.m. Saturday, and at 307 Townsend, Mrs. M. A. Gordon, at 10.30 a.m. Sunday. Firemen went to 217 Stewart, home of P. E. Maudsley, to take care of the overheated pipes at 2.50 p.m. Sunday. In none of these was any damage ncurred.

THE CHEAPER WAY

In spite of the fact that the system has been in operation for some months the police department reports that many motorists apparently do not understand that when they receive a ticket for illegal parking they can report to the city clerk's office within 48 hours and escape with a $1 fine. If they fail to do so they are summonsed for the magistrate's court and the penalty then is a $2 fine and $1 costs. If the clerk's office is not open drivers may bring the tickets to the police station and pay $1 there within the 48-hour limit and thus save $2.

The Golden Text was: "Truly in vain is salvation hoped for from the hills, and from the multitude of mountains; truly in the Lord our God is the salvation of Israel." Selections from the Bible included the following from Jeremiah 2:13: "For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water." Co-relative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following "Divine Science deals its chief blow at the supposed material foundations of life and intelligence. It dooms idolatry. A belief in other gods, other creators, and other creations must go down before Christian Science."

Personal Gifts Give Help For War Victims

This week is known by all people professing the Christian Faith as Holy Week, in commemoration of those few sacred days which immediately preceded, and culminated in the greatest personal sacrifice for others on the Cross at Calvary, for the Redemption of all mankind.

Thus personal sacrifice for others became elevated to its highest possible plane and will ever remain as such, for in this one outstanding example for the benefit of all mankind, a love passing human knowledge for all humanity in general was demonstrated, which has ever since illuminated the whole world, and will continue to do so until time and place are no more.

In the light of present day events, some comparison may be made to conditions that now prevail, for then as now, many peoples were living under a yoke of bondage to a much more powerful nation, and to-day many thousands of the flower of the world's manhood have already given life itself, while still greater numbers stand prepared to do so, to redeem a world from a state of chaos such as never before existed in the whole of its history.

In this land of peace and abundant plenty, untouched by any of the ravages of war such as has afflicted those in the zone of hostilities, the greatest opportunity for personal sacrifice to a great many people, lies perhaps in their giving of their means to alleviate the sufferings of others not so fortunately situated, and this in some instances has been done in a splendid manner by individuals through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, which operates for the special purpose.

Two Personal Gifts Of $10.

Coming at the commemorative season of the greatest sacrifice the world has ever known, two personal gifts grace the list of receipts on behalf of the fund to-day, serving to remind all and sundry of the opportunity for just a little personal sacrifice on behalf of others which could well act as a beacon to help illumine the lives of those who have suffered in the air raid attacks on the enemy over the front line in Britain.

A gift from G. W. Smith, headmaster of the Preparatory School at Lakefield, recalls the fact that this school has helped the fund on former occasions, besides having a proud history of past achievements in the cause of the Empire through the training it has given to the youth of this land in bygone days, while another friend of the fund in the person of Mrs. A. J. Hall will also be noted as once more appearing in the lists to add to the assistance already given for the same purpose.

The penny box at the Utilities office on Simcoe Street has always been a steady helper for the Fund, being collected every second month for that purpose. A very pleasing feature of the collection made on Saturday morning by the secretary of the fund is well worth recording, for one lady who was paying her bill at the wicket, quietly slipped the change over to add to the amount that was being counted at that time, helping to boost it above another dollar mark to make the final total stand at $4.20.

Previously acknowledged	$75,136.21
G. W. Smith, Headmaster at Preparatory School, Lakefield	10.00
Mrs. A. J. Hall	10.00
Penny Box at Utilities Office on Simcoe street	4.20
Total to-date	$75,160.41

Truck Driver Is Fined $10 And Costs

Jay Collins, Belleville truck-driver, entered a written plea of guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning to a charge of careless driving and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Chief W. Aikens fo Havelock who laid the charge against Collins told the court that there had been an accident and damage to the extent of $30 had been caused.

In entering a plea of guilty Collins said that he did not think he was guilty because the road was slippery and he added that he was of the opinion that the officer should withdraw the charge.

Chief Aikens said that he was not prepared to do that.

Water Street Ashes Picked Up By City

The city's garbage collection department got away on the right foot so far as the citizens on Water street, north of McDonnel street are concerned.

It seems that on Friday, the last day under the old system, ashes were not collected on a number of Water street blocks. The city's pickup service in that area was not billed to start until Tuesday, the first regular collection day. It looked therefore, as if the householders were faced with the alternative of lugging their ash containers to the basement or allowing them to decorate the street over the week-end.

However Garfield Torrance, in charge of the city's garbage collection department came to the rescue by despatching a special truck to the Water street area Saturday morning and the abandoned ashes were all picked up and hauled away, to the satisfaction of a lot of householders.

Supper Club Through Meeting Till Fall

An enjoyable evening was had by more than forty couples who attended the last meeting for this year of the Friday Night Supper Club. After supper Harold Rodgers led the sing-song with Stan Gilmore at the piano. The chairman, Norm Allen, thanked the executive of the club for the splendid work which they had done in the past season and Bob Maybee played a piano solo.

John Bradshaw, guest speaker, was introduced by Harold Roberts, and spoke on the subject "Defence in the Court Room." He illustrated the difficulties with which the "defence" meets during a trial, and outlined the position of a lawyer in respect to the accused and the judge. On behalf of the members of the club Don Forde thanked the speaker.

Humorous quiz was conducted by George Bouck immediately after the address. The meeting was closed by the repeating of the creed.

The social evening was then continued by dancing at the Brock where some of the members who were unable to attend the supper were met by those forty or more couples coming from the Y.M.C.A. The supper club will reopen October 6.

Still Have Oil

LONDON, April 3.— (CP).—The Red army's advances imperil about forty per cent of Germany's petroleum supply — about 6,000,000 tons annually — in Ploesti, Poland and Estonia, but even if the Germans lose it, the Petroleum Press Bureau said last night, "it would be unwise to look for paralysis of the German war effort."

Youngest RCAF Wing Commander Addresses Victory Loan Workers

Victory Loan executives and committees from the units in the Trent Division met at the Kawartha Club on Saturday for a discussion on the coming Sixth Victory Loan. Representatives were present from the Prince Edward County, Hastings, Northumberland, Durham, Victoria, Haliburton and Peterborough units.

In the morning the chairman's section, General Sales, Payroll Savings, Public Relations and Administration sections all met togethre under the chairmanship of C. L. McCutcheon, divisional organizer. The guests were welcomed by Gordon Matthews, chairman of the County of Peterborough unit. Addresse were heard from T. D'Arcy Leonard, provincial chairman of the National War Finance Committee, Wing Commander Lloyd Chadburn, D.S.O. and Bar, D.F C., J J Mellor of Orono, and the unit chairmen The film, "War Department Reports" was also shown.

Youngest Winco in R.C.A.F.

There's as much heroics about Wing Commander Lloyd Vernon Chadburn, D.S.O. and Bar, D.F. C., as one could find in a retired drapery clerk

Yet the Aurora airman, youngest Winco in the R.C.A.F. at 24, is poison in capital letters to Mr. Goering's boys and bears one of the most outstanding records as a leader of fighting pilots in all the services operating from the United Kingdom.

From April to November his wing had the best record and in the last month outscored all the others. In the eight months they shot down 44 without the loss of a single pilot by reason of enemy action. On November 3, they knocked down nine for a month's score of 10.

His wing became a legend among United States day-bomber pilots as they took fast sweeps over the low countries and France. The medium Marauder bombers, it is a matter of record, took a bad mauling at first, when they counted on their own gun power to fight off Nazi fighters.

"Here comes the Angel" became the password of the Americans when Chadburn's wing took up the covering positions.

And they weren't fooling. Because in 60 sorties with the bombers, only one Marauder was knocked down by a Focke-Wulf. And the German fighter that got the one kill itself went down.

Well Named.

The Americans named him well. The wing commander—most people call him "Chad" although his rank is the equivalent of a lieutenant-colonel—is rangy and his head is covered with a shock of light colored hair. When he is preoccupied on a problem he has a habit of wrinkling his forehead. He smiles easily and talks fighter tactics with the detachment of an ordinary individual discussing a last week's game of checkers.

Lately he has been taken away from his Spitfire and its place at the head of the flock of fighters to serve as wing commander of fighting operations at group headquarters of the R.C.A.F. It's a chestnut but wing commander of fighting operations at group headquarters is a far cry from ferrying automobiles from an Oshawa motor plant at Toronto, as he did before the war. Or studying commerce at the Northern Vocational School, or working as a clerk in the Bank of Toronto, or for that matter, working for a Toronto tea company.

Wing Commander Chadburn said "There is no doubt we are getting stranger — they are getting weaker. All you have to do for a comparison of conditions when I first went over and now is to read the newspapers. Three years ago, one day more Nazis were shot down than ours destroyed. The next day our losses might be heavier. Last summer we have been definitely on the top side. At the first of the summer we were meeting and fighting the Nazis over the Channel and North Sea. Later we were meeting them behind the coast. Now we are not meeting them until we get 50 or 60 miles, in.

"There is no doubt they have lost a lot of initiative," said Wing Commander Chadburn, and in the same breath he emphasized that our aircrew material, flowing in from the Commonwealth Air Training Plan is just as high, just as sound as during the early days of its operation.

While he recognizes the merits of all the other different types of fighters, the long-range planes—he still thinks the Spitfire is the best all-round fighter. If the test came and you were in a Spitfire, "you would still be alive when it was over."

With 12 planes to his personal credit, he doesn't figure he is a top-notch fighter pilot. His own personal tactics, he admits, are elementary. He says he is no kingpin like Buerling. He knows and he's tried it out He makes an angle shot that should blow his target into glory, and nothing happens.

A buffet luncheon was served at noon and in the afternoon the group broke up into their various sections—General Sales met under the chairmanship of W. P. Scott, provincial chairman; Payroll Savings under J. F. M. Stewart, provincial chairman; Public Relations under J. P. Walwyn, provincial vice-chairman; Administration under J. W. Parker, provincial secretary, and Administration under Mr. Leonard.

Extension Of Vocational Training Plans Are Being Considered

OTTAWA, April 3—(CP).—Extension of vocational training plans to meet rehabilitation needs is under active consideration by the Labor Department training branch, Labor Minister Mitchell announced today.

In his announcement the Minister said the war emergency training program has been given the official title of Canadian vocational training.

Physical training, which has been an important part of the program since the Youth Training Act was passed in 1937, will be taken over by the Pensions and Health Department, Mr. Mitchell announced.

The vocational training for war workers, members of the armed forces and discharged servicemen which is already in operation will be continued without change. Assistant to University students, classes for agriculture workers and long-term apprentice training is also to be continued.

During its seven years of operation, the training programs of the Department have given assistance to almost 585,000 persons. Total expenses to the Dominion have been approximately $25,000,000, and an additional $4,000,000 have been spent by provinces to meet costs of local administration, machinery, and equipment on a 50-50 basis with the Federal Government.

Of the total 325,000 persons have been enrolled under the war emergency training scheme. Approximately 105,000 have taken full-time pre-employment industrial classes, 42,500 were trained as foremen, 2,800 rehabilitation cases were handled, and nearly 60,000 were given various other types of industrial trades training.

Also included in the total has been the trades training of 39,370 Army, 7,249 Navy, and 62,927 Air Force personnel.

"A large part of the program has been carried out in schools and shops offered at no cost by municipal and provincial governments," Mr. Mitchell said. "Without this co-operation—which has been deeply appreciated by the Dominion Government—it would have been impossible to get the war emergency training program under way in such short time. We expect that similar arrangements will be carr'ed out in the post-war period, to meet what problems then exist."

CANADA NEEDS NURSES

The Nicholls Hospital wishes to announce that the next class of student nurses will begin Monday, July 31st, 1944. It would be appreciated if anyone contemplating entering this School would communicate at once with the Superintendent of Nursing.

If there are more applicants than can be accommodated in one group another class will be organized beginning early in September. Because of recent regulations students admitted after July 31st must have a Secondary School Graduation Diploma. Anyone in doubt as to their academic qualifications should submit their educational certificates for evaluation.

GIVEN PROMOTION — Flt.-Lieut. Ian McIntosh, of Lindsay, who recently won the D.F.C. for "high skill, fortitude and devotion to duty" during the course of a lengthy operational career against targets in Germany, has been promoted. He was recently appointed bombing leader of the Bison Squadron of the R.C.A.F. bomber group. Flt.-Lieut. McIntosh is the son of Rev. F. H. McIntosh and Mrs. McIntosh of Lindsay.

Dairy Industry Requires Ocean Of Milk

The period of cheese production in Peterborough county last year extended from April to November, according to the summary published by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

In eastern Ontario from Lennox-Addington to the Ottawa River, the only county not operating during the winter months was Renfrew, and its total output is comparatively small the year round.

In Central Ontario the blank counties, twelve months in the year, are Durham, York, Muskoka, Haliburton and Parry Sound. Total production in Central Ontario, from York to Prince Edward and Hastings, was 17,739,362, of which Peterborough contributed 1,276,879 pounds, with the monthly peak in 265,343 pounds in June.

Doubles Amount

Total number of pounds of milk required for creamery butter and factory cheese in Canada last year was 9,129,433,656 as compared with 5,682,410,612 pounds in 1930 or almost twice as much.

And the bulk of that sea of milk went into the manufacture of creamery butter. Canada used 7,-311,175,411 pounds of milk for butter last year, and 1,818,258,445 pounds of milk for factory cheese.

None of the rural factories in Peterborough is equipped for winter work, but W. A. Davidson of Co-Op Services said this morning that further east in the province some of the factories are built for year-round use. Probably one of a cluster within a ten-mile area may be operated all the year round, obtaining winter milk from some of the patrons of the neighboring factories.

H. G. Wells Ill

LONDON, April 3—(CP)—H. G. Wells is confined to his home by illness and is being attended by Lord Horder, the King's physician, it was learned last night. The prominent author, who is 77, had a sharp attack of influenza six weeks ago and failed to shake off its effects.

Local Industry Pinched By Labor Scarcity

Canada Packers reported this morning a carry over of 170 hogs from Friday until Tuesday, indicating a result of a labor shortage which G. S. Matthews said "seems to be tighter than ever."

"We have been operating to capacity," Mr. Matthews said, "but packing plants throughout Canada are short of help."

From another source it was learned that local industries that are auxiliaries of agriculture are likely to lose almost one hundred men as soon as winter clears out, and they are needed on farms. Quite a number have already left local factory work, where they have been engaged throughout the winter, and have returned to their own land in some instances, or to places of employment as hired men for the season from seeding to harvest.

Last Friday was to have been the "dead line" for all factory workers from the country who were employed in the city on Selective Service permits. Adverse weather suggested to authorities that these men could not immediately take up farm work in present conditions, and that it would be preferable to leave them in factories, where they are seriously needed, until Spring arrives. They are remaining in the city until they are notified by Selective Service that they are to go back to the land. This extension may mean continuation in the factories until about the middle of the month.

Local industries that are likely to be affected by the season switch of these workers, whose number is estimated at around 90 to 100, are Quaker Oats, Canada Packers, De Laval, Dewart Brothers, Co-Operative Services, Richardson grain activity at Lakefield and several small plants.

There may be some relief as lumbering operations slow down, and bush men become available for other work. In the meantime farmers are enquiring for help, and the prospective supply of labor is becoming acutely less than the demand.

Churchill Talk Given At Y.P.U.

"This man" she said, "is the connecting link between Britain and the United States. His father was Lord Randolph Churchill, and his mother an American woman. He is held in high esteem on both sides of the Atlantic, and is statesman, author, artist, bricklayer and soldier."

Continuing in her short survey of Mr. Churchill's career, Miss Ratz said, "He fought in the South African war, and escaped from prison. He wrote a four volume history of the last Great War, and, it was through his prompt action that the British Navy was at battle stations when the war broke out."

"Like most men of strong character," the speaker went on, "he has many enemies, and has been defeated several times in elections in England. He is, however, recognized by the people of Canada as the "man of the hour," and it is hoped that he will carry on for many years."

Carrying out the patriotic theme of the meeting, Miss Pearl Trethewey sang "Land of Hope and Glory," and "Lords of the Air," accompanied by Walter Morrow. Bary Ensemble Concludes Concert Association Series

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

The Community Concert Association concluded its season in a particularly pleasing fashion with a recital by the Bary Ensemble on Saturday evening. The P.C.V.I. auditorium was filled, and the warm applause of the audience from the first numbers of the concert showed that this unusual combination of artists had made an immediate favourable impression. The program opened with a Suite by the seventeenth century English composer Henry Purcell, arranged for violin, violoncello and flute, accompanied by the pianoforte; the music suited the combination of instruments and the delicacy of the Ensemble perfectly, and established the mood of the evening at once.

Gertrude Bary, the leader of the Ensemble, played Beethoven's Sonata in E flat, Op. 27, No. 1, a work conceived as a fantasia and demanding rapid and dramatic alterations from a declamatory to a pastoral manner. It may have been that Madame Bary was nervous, or that she had been disturbed by something unconnected with the concert; in any case, she made a somewhat unfortunate beginning, but recovered herself in the course of a few bars, and played from that point until the end of the concert with a finish and artistry, and with a dominating will which clearly marked her as the mainstay and inspiration of the Ensemble. As an encore she played Chopin's C sharp Minor Etude with fire and understanding.

Lorna Wren played a scene from Gluck's "Orpheus" — the wandering in the Elysian Fields—and a Godard Valse which was designed to show off the resource and agility of the flute. It is safe to say that Miss Wren plays the flute as well as any woman now living, but she does not play it as well as the best male artists—as well as her master Georges Barrere, for instance—because wom-

Premium Ham!

If you are planning to serve ham this Easter, be sure it's Swift's Premium

Bacon and ham are still urgently needed overseas, but due to the splendid production efforts of our farmers, there is more available this season for home consumption.

Remember, too, Swift's Premium Ham needs no parboiling. It is at its most delicious baked in the oven 18 minutes per pound for a whole ham, 22 minutes for a half. Remove the rind after baking, score, stick with cloves and glaze. Brown in hot oven. See panel for hints on making the Easter decorations.

AN EASTER GARNISH FOR YOUR BAKED HAM

To make the intriguing white narcissus garnish in the picture, peel turnips and cut slices 2½ inches in diameter; divide each in 6 equal parts by making slits with knife leaving a centre the size of a dime. With scissors shape into ovals, the petals made by these slices. Now for the centres cut a round shape from a thick slice; hollow out and attach with toothpick leaving long end of pick on under side. Touch outer edge of centres with paprika. Fasten picks into 2-inch high clusters of spinach stems. Trim bottoms so clusters will stand up. Between clusters we suggest bundles of buttered carrots.

McLean Cheques Are Returned

WINDSOR, April 3—Cheques issued here by Harry F. McLean, construction man from Merrickville, still were bouncing over the week-end.

Latest word of the multi-millionaire's spectacular visit to Windsor, in so far as the cheques are concerned, came from a bank official who said Windsor people holding Mr. McLean's cheques would just have to wait and see if, in due course of time, the cheques are honored.

The cheques are being returned by the Bank of Toronto in each case "not arranged, refer to drawer."

It was estimated today that some 15 cheques representing a value of $30,000 have been returned from the Bank of Toronto marked in this fashion. It is believed McLean signed his name to cheques totalling another $10,000, and some of these have not yet been turned in for collection. No instance has been reported where the bank has honored any of the gift cheques.

Some financial circles here hold to the belief the Merrickville man will this week issue some statement having to do with what disposition he plans of the cheques bearing his signature.

The Russian Way

LONDON, April 3.—(CP Cable.)—The Observer said yesterday "it is very doubtful" if the demand for unconditional surrender represented the right approach to Germany. The Sunday newspapers in an editorial page article noted that while Russia endorsed the Allied unconditional surrender demand the Russians have qualified it by limiting its application to "Hitlerite Germany"—to the Nazis themselves.

WALKER'S SLOOPS BRING NAZIS BACK ALIVE—Nazi prisoners are shown leaving the British vessel that brought them to port recently. They were captured when a group of sloops commanded by Capt. F. J. Walker sank a total of six German submarines during a recent sweep of the atlantic. So busy was the flotilla kept, some of the craft had to borrow depth charges from a convoy they met during their wanderings.

WOMEN IMPRACTICAL IN LOVE
Nothing May Be So Easily Over-Done in Home Causing Husband to Become Fed Up

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a man of 26, married three years, have one child, and I am bored to death with marriage. My wife is a good wife according to her lights and I am not a philandering husband, or in love with anyone else, but I feel that I cannot stand her any longer because she simply surfeits me with affection and is so possessive that I do not feel that my soul is my own.

She tags me everywhere I go if she possibly can and even tries to drag me shopping with her. When we are at home together, in addition to being in the same room at the same time I must kiss her every fifteen minutes or her feelings are hurt. When we go out together, I must devote myself exclusively to her. If I ever forget and call her by her name instead of "honey" or "darling", she pouts.

This love-making is too much for a tired business man. My attempts to carry on have worn me to a frazzle. I have contracted matrimonial gout. What shall I do?

HENPECKED HUSBAND

Women Know Little About Practical Love Rations

ANSWER: Why don't you join the army? It seems to me that is the best way out for you, because your ever loving spouse can't follow you across the seas, and after such a steady and prolonged diet of kisses you will surely relish a few bullets.

It is a curious thing that although love is the chief business with women in life they seem to learn so little about it from a practical working standpoint. They rarely find out that men want their love potion rationed. They crave a little of it, but when a woman begins stuffing it down their throats morning, noon and night they get so fed up on it that they lose their taste for it completely.

Many a wife thinks that the way to keep her husband is to cut him off from all other interests and people. She has the insane idea that she must be all-in-all to him. She makes him give up his old friends, never step out without her, not even read the evening paper, but put in the whole time telling her how beautiful and wonderful she is, and how he adores her. And she doesn't realize that all this perpetual love-making bores him to death, and that when she insists on being petted he wishes he had the nerve to bite her instead of kiss her. There is nothing easier to overdo than loving.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the ex-wife of a doctor. He was a very good to me, but due to my insane jealousy of his women patients he divorced me two year ago. We have four lovely children and although I tell them that their father does not care for them and that they can get along without him, I feel that they need him. I love him very much, but I am of a very jealous nature.

Do you think there is any way that I could win him back and that we could be happy together?

HEARTBROKEN EX

Children Best Medium of Reconciliation

ANSWER: The only chance you would have of getting your husband to re-marry you would be through the children and you are weakening that by prejudicing them against him. When we hear of a couple being divorced and the mother being given the custody of the children, we seldom stop to think of what a heart wrench it is to the man who must give up the youngsters who are bone of his bone and flesh of his flesh and the very core of his heart.

You are making a big mistake when you let your jealousy, even of your own children, make you alienate them from their father. If he comes back to you, it will be their hands that will draw him once more into the matrimonial fold. It will be because he longs for them and wants to feel that he has some part in their lives and to help them become fine men and women.

If the children beg their father to come back to them, he may do it. But I do not believe that any man who has had to leave his wife because her groundless jealousy was ruining his career ever goes back to her of his own accord. He has drunk too deeply of the bitter cup.

DEAR MISS DIX: What can I do to rid myself of telephone and newspaper hounds? My neighbors are forever hanging on my telephone and, not satisfied with using it themselves, they give my number to all their friends who do not hesitate to call me either day or night to deliver messages or call their deadbeat friends in to have long conversations. And they borrow my newspaper before I have had time to read it myself. What can I do about it?

MRS. X. Y. Z.

ANSWER: Just have a pay instrument installed in place of the free one you have. That will stop 'em. And advise them to take the paper themselves.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

A few words to-day about the upper parts of the new spring suits and dresses. The skirts are nearly all plain and very narrow but the new look is all shown at the top. The dresses have a softness that do much for you and hold a wealth of interest above the waistline. Gently falling cap sleeves combined with low cut necklines, the middy top dress gives that long-waisted look that is so very becoming to the stout woman.

The polka dot dress is very smart. There is something so disarmingly clean and fresh looking about it. It's like the nice white paint of a picket fence etched against a dark hedgerow. It's also a very slenderizing frock vivacious yet dignified, and one that may be worn by women of all ages. Top this dress with a smart breton sailor hat and you have a spring costume that is hard to beat. The breton sailor is a great profile flatterer, whether worn on the level or at a jaunty angle in either dark shades or the high colors.

The young moderns are going in for the brighter shades, the Easter egg colors they are called. Slim light wools, fuss-up crepes, in sugar blue, yellow chick, candy pink, lime, lilac, aqua and many others. So many of these younger dresses are made in coat styles with the new low necks, either pointed or square, and the short sleeves. I saw a very smart black suit the other day. Of course the skirt was plain and narrow, the jacket short with fitted waistline and whimsical touches of checked gingham.

Something very striking is a black and white checked tweed skirts with grosgrain midriff, a black wool jersey top and a red leather belt. Dress hats for the present are small, worn either forward or on the back of the head. The small fedora-shape, worn well forward, made of rough straw of navy color, trimmed with a bright cerise satin bow. A bonnet shape, worn straight on the head, made of grey felt and trimmed in white pique, a light touch worn with a dark suit. A skull cap of white lace straw, worn back of the pompadour with a back drop of flowers to soften strictest feature. Many half hats made of flowers and a snood of coarse net worn over the hair at back are shown. Next week we will tell you more about that new spring outfit.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, April 4

Lunar and mutual aspects of interesting planets signify unusual impetus in all commercial, professional, legal and literary affairs, which may be speeded up to most progressive and productive accomplishments. This may be done with little assistance from elders, employers or others in high places. There may be lucrative travel or change, with much constructive work of definite value, especialy in the development of new propositions. On the personal side things may be lively, interesting and romantic.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find things moving along in happy, lively and progressive grooves during the year, with personal effort productive minus aid from those in influential posts, unless plans involve powerful corporations, legal, political or fraternal bodies. There may be subtle agreements or tacit understandings, possibly in promoting new projects or programs of consequence. Change and travel are shown, and th social or sentimental values are foreseen.

A child born on this day should have much versatility and many talents, practical as well as artistic and literary. It should have a pleasant career and life.

Bary Ensemble

en cannot develop the sort of breath control which a wind instrument demands as completely as a man can do. Her control of the difficult lower register of her instrument was complete, and her performance was thoroughly charming.

Virginia Peterson played two 'cello soloes, a Hungarian Rhapsody by Popper, and an Aria from Handel's "Xerxes," known everywhere as "Largo." She has a breadth and sweep of tone which fills a large hall without once becoming coarse, and a fine interpretative manner, romantic rather than classic in style. As an encore she played Saint-Saens' "The Swan" magnificently.

Mara Sebriansky played the first movement of Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole as her only violin solo. She has a formidable technique, and overcame the great difficulties of the work without visible effort. She has a warm and glowing tone, which is by no means common among violinists who attack complex and brilliant compositions; she has also a fine sense of intonation, which is even rarer. In a single number she showed herself to be an artist of great achievement and greater promise.

Lacking the flute the Ensemble played the first movement of Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor, with style and feeling. As concerted numbers, they played a Wagner Romanza and the Sailor's Dance from Gliere's "Red Poppy." At the close of the concert the Ensemble played an arrangement by Kriesler of the Londonderry Air, and the Valse des Fleurs from Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite." The applause at the close of the concert was wholehearted and prolonged, fully equalling that which followed Rose Bampton's recital earlier in the season.

The Concert Association may be proud of its work this year. Its choices have been both popular and artistically distinguished, and its audiences have shown the strongest approval of the artists who have appeared here. It will not be long before the Concert Association will have to limit its membership, if this high standard and increasing enthusiasm continues.

Japs' Prisoner At Tabernacle

Twenty days on a small raft at sea with eighteen other survivors of a U-boat attack in the South Atlantic was the fearsome ordeal which Mrs. Ethel G. Bell recalled in her address last night at Bethany Tabernacle.

Mrs. Bell had been engaged in missionary work in French West Africa, and because of Vichy control had to make a roundabout way with companions to the coast, reaching Dakar and sailing for New York in a small a[illegible] slow vessel. Two weeks at sea, the ship was torpedoed, and the Germans left the group of passengers and crew to their fate on a small raft.

The twenty days at sea was the thrilling feature of her African experience which Mrs. Bell told, beginning a special missions week. Speakers will be present to-night from Belgian Congo, Thailand and Netherlands East Indies. One of them was a prisoner of the Japanese for a year.

Colored slides will be shown, indicating conditions within these countries. Missionary interest will be given major place in the week's meetings, but the addresses will also provide helpful information about those countries at a time when people have become more concerned than ever about global details.

Lilac Branch Blooms At Queen Mary School

The Grade 4 classroom of Queen Mary School is filled with the fragrance of lilac these days. A blossome-laden branch of white lilac, about four feet in length, was cut and brought to the classroom about the middle of February, and placed in water. It began to bloom about two weeks ago. The students try this idea annually, and have been particularly successful this year.

Two cocoons, brought in the fall, yielded two beautiful moths, which were placed in the lilac branch until ready to fly. Colored pictures of birds which have returned to Canada, and the dates of their return, are now placed among the blossoms. Another project of this class was a willow branch. Placed in water, it developed roots, and was planted in a flower pot by the students, under the direction of their teacher. It is continuing to grow.

She Beat Him Up

NORTH BAY, April 3 (CP) —A rare conviction was one at the local police court last week, that of a North Bay woman on a charge of husband-beating. The 76-year-old husband appeared in court swathed in bandages, claiming his wife had used dishes against him on previous occasions and in the last instance had hit him on the head with a bucksaw.

C.C.F. Leader Opposes House Speed-up

TORONTO, April 3.—(CP).—The Ontario Legislature goes into its sixth week to-day in a home-stretch speed-up, but whether it can prorogue by Easter is unknown.

Premier Drew has directed that the House meet at 1 p.m. to-day, instead of the usual three o'clock, and there is the prospect of morning, afternoon and night sittings Tuesday and Wednesday.

However, some of the Legislature's most contentious legislation is still to be dealt with and the C.C.F. Opposition are opposed to "rushing" to a close.

"To try to prorogue in 33 days (by Thursday night) is absurd, absolutely absurd," said E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. leader.

It is the Government's hope to prorogue possibly Wednesday night or Thursay. However, a Government spokesman said the matter is entirely in the hands of members of the House. Length of debate will decide whether or not the Legislature must re-assemble after Easter recess.

The Government's labor bill, under which the new Dominion labor code will be applied to virtually all industry in Ontario, is in committee stage. Only three of its 15 sections have been approved.

Arthur Williams (CCF-Ontario) who came to Canada from the coal mines of Wales has been the opposition's chief critic on the bill. C.C.F. speakers have claimed the government should implement a separate provincial code to cover non-war industry without the "unsatisfactory" features they describe in the Dominion legislation.

A heated five-hour debate developed on second reading of the measure. In committee Premier Drew cut off discussion because of what he termed "repeated interruptions" by Mr. Williams who questioned the government regarding the provincial board to be set up.

The bill will probably be up again in committee today, with prospects of long discussion.

A number of other government measures have yet to be introduced and they may produce more snags. Among these is the government's bill to implement a 48-hour work week for Ontario industry and the legislature will have to thrash out how this will affect the province's war industry.

Private bills sponsored by opposition members also have helped to slow proceedings. Five were lost on voice votes in the House Friday but not until their sponsors and other opposition leaders had given lengthy arguments for their adoption. Others will remain on the order paper.

Charles Davidson

a personality that radiate abounding energy and confidence even when things did not go right. There were few among the large congregation that nearly filled to capacity St. John's United Church, who did not know of some kind act that would help to cherish his memory.

Perhaps the greatest tribute of all was the innumerable children who came in ones and twos, and in groups to look for the last time on the face of a man they had grown to love, as he lay surrounded by a mass of flowers. As Rev. G. N. Maxwell said in his funeral sermon, "He loved people and was happiest when surrounded by his family, friends and business associates, and by the people of God in God's house. Wherever he went he was greeted by childish voices and he longed to live that he might greater serve the coming generation."

The service closed as the full choir was joined by the congregation in singing "Abide With Me."

Following the service at the church the cortege went to Mount Pleasant Cemetery where the graveside ritual of the Masonic Order was observed by upwards of fifty members of the local lodge. W.M. Frank Heagle conducted the ritual with the assistance of R.W. Bro. F. C. Bonnycastle and Bro. Hilton Beatty. Members of the I.O.O.F. were the bearers of the many beautiful floral tributes that had come from all parts of the county.

The pall bearers, all members of the Masonic lodge, were Messrs. J. O. Benor, H. Beatty, Carol Johnston, J. M. Bygott, P. C. Denyes, E. A. Bell, H. N. Carr, M. Petherick. Flower bearers were Messrs. P. R. Sherwin, W. H. Brady, J. P. Archer, J. A. Irwin, Joseph Poulton, Sr., T. J. Craighead, Grant Anderson, F. W. Wood, James West, Frank McNaughton, W. O. Dorie, R. J. Jarvis, J. McMullen, J. F. McGregor, C. W. Palliser, F. Osborne, Earl Craighead, H. Petherick, A. E. Burgis, R. W. Locke, Ernest Haig, M. Tanner.

Among those from out-of-town who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Robert Boland, Mrs. William Coughlan, Mr. Wilbert Boland, Mr. Leonard Gilchrist, Mrs. R. D. Lockwood, all of Ottawa; Mrs. Alby Davidson, Mr. Archie Davidson, Manotick; Mr. Gilbert Davidson, Kemptville; W. A. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Gillespie, Mrs. Clara McNutt, Mrs. R. N. and seconded by Reeve Love, authorized the mayor to proclaim a public holiday when the date of the arrival of the Cobourg corette was known. Another resolution, by the same sponsors was passed, appointing John Callahan, K.C. to represent the town in the defence of the appeal brought by Fred Stockinger against the town of Cobourg.

The mayor commented that a Toronto man, who wanted to locate his home in Cobourg, had written for information and this was passed on to the local realtors.

A motion carried, moved by Councillor Reuben Jackson and seconded by Councillor Madame Delany, that the assessor and tax collector be present at the next meeting of council which will be on April 11, the day after Easter Monday.

The mayor referred to the recent meeting concerning post-war aviation out of which the suggestion had come, in view of the lack of interest shown by the poor attendance, that the councils of Port Hope and Cobourg hold a joint meeting to start the ball rolling. Council endorsed the suggestion. Councillor Judd Kennedy said that the matter needed careful study and cautious action as the whole nation-wide scheme might develop into one company controlling the whole set-up. The mayor replied that it would not be a company but a public utility. There was no reason to fear that the matter would be jumped into without proper study, the mayor declared.

Civil Engineer Dies At Cobourg

COBOURG, April 3—The death occured here Saturday of J. E. Skidmore, 77, civil and electrical enginees, who retired 10 years ago as manager of Cobourg Public Utilities. Funeral is being held this afternoon, with interment in Cobourg Union Cemetery.

Mr. Skidmore came to Cobourg in 1898 to be superintendent of Cobourg Utilities Company, a private concern, which operated the water and electric system. When the H.E.P.C. and later the town took over the utilities he remained as manager. He was a director on the original Cobourg Horse Show Board, and at the time of his death was secretary of Cobourg Red Cross, chairman of Union Cemetery Board and Cobourg liaison officer for prisoners of war. He is survived by a son, Paul of Philadelphia.

Pall bearers were A. R. Willmott, George Low, A. MacIntosh, Allan Nichol, J. D. Burnet and T. F. Hall, K.C.

1,010 Ration Books Given Out In 3 Hours

HAVELOCK, April 3—(ENS)—Distribution of Ration Book No. 4 go under way her on Wednesday afternoon, as a staff of 12 volunteer women manned the distribution centre in the Town Hall from 2 to 5 p.m.

A total of 1,010 books were given out in the three hours with a continuous flurry of activity. This was rather unexpected, due to the stormy weather and bad rural roads, but farmers took the opportunity of poor sap weather to come to town.

The distribution will continue all day Saturday, and thereafter, it will be necessary for latecomers to get their books through the Ration Board after April 17.

Neighbors Present Purse To Newlyweds

COTTESLOE, April 3—(ENS)—Cottesloe friends and Burns' Bridge neighbors gathered this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth, to honor Mr. and Mrs. David Forsyth (Gladys Fleming) who were recently married.

An evening of entertainment was followed by lunch, after which the bride and groom were given seats of honor and J. S. Kidd read an address, wherein they welcomed Mrs. Forsyth to the community. He praised her husband in all the activities pertaining to the good of friends and neighbors. Rae Armstrong and Thomas Webster presented them with a well-filled purse.

Choir Presentation

ROSENEATH, April 3 (ENS) — Fred Lewis, who has moved from this community to Port Hope, was presented with a Waterman pen and pencil set by the United Church choir. The presentation was made by Douglas Coyle on Sunday morning following church service. Mr. Coyle speaking briefly, conveyed the good wishes of the choir members. Mr. Lewis was a member of the tenor section and will be greatly missed.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BEFORE HE IS READY

IT IS AN old principle of successful competition, in war, boxing, wrestling, football, baseball and other activities, that striking before the other fellow is ready will sometimes enable you to accomplish things which could not be done later. It applies equally in bridge, especially to the effort at stealing a trick when your opponent has not yet been able to get his bearings. Frequently you can get away with something early in a hand which would be impossible later on.

Here was a case of the acumen shown by Charles H. Goren, of Philadelphia, the season's No. 1 player in national championship circles and author of the advanced book, "Better Bridge for Better Players." Besides exemplifying his conception that a finesse should be considered more an effort to gain a trick than a try at capturing a card, it shows the advisability of striking early in certain situations.

The diamond K lead to his A built up the J as a sure third-round trick, enabling him to count up two tricks in that suit, four in hearts, two in clubs and one in spades. But before he could score these there was great danger of a possible shift to spades if North had the K and if the declarer had to lose the lead twice through the club finesse not working.

That fear would have been justified, if the ordinary play were made, going to dummy with a heart and finessing the club. South would almost surely shift to spades then. But East found the right play to the second trick, a lead of the club 6. At that stage, South did not realize the necessity of an early spade shift. He played low, the J won, and now it was impossible for the defenders to beat the contract.

When West leads the heart K against South's 4-Spades, what is the one correct card for East to play on the trick? Why is it the only right one?

Wingate Was Mystery Man At Quebec Talks

By TRUDI McCULLOUGH

NEW YORK, April 3—(AP)—With the news that Maj.-Gen. Orde Charles Wingate has died in a plane crash in Burma, the story can be told that this "sword and Bible" general was the mysterious stranger of the Quebec Conference last August.

At the time, those who spied the beared officer were refused his name. They noticed he was not tall but his carriage and fervor suggested an Old Testament prophet. On his arm, as he walked the terrace of the Citadel, was a beautiful English girl, 15 years his junior. Her name was not to be mentioned either.

Censorship was imposed because Wingate was the embodiment of two of the conference's closest secrets: the plans for landing airborne troops behind Japanese lines in Burma, and for the formation and training of Merrill's marauders.

Fathomed Jungle Secrets

Now, with the accomplishment of his missions, the secrecy is lifted. The story, assembled from British sources in New York, is this:

One year before, Wingate had conducted a three-month harassment behind Japanese lines, designed to fathom the secrets of jungle warfare and prepare him for planning a campaign which would be the vanguard of a reconquest of Burma.

Last August an urgent summons to London reached him in New Delhi. He entrained still wearing his tropical bush shirt and famous East African sun helmet.

Whisked from the airport to dinner with the Prime Minister, Mr. Churchill told him: "We are having a conference at once. I would like you to come with me." Wingate agreed.

Churchill Arranges Reunion

The Prime Minister asked if he had yet seen his wife and was told she was en route to Scotland where he had expected to land.

"In that case," said Mr. Churchill, "I really can't ask you to come. We have to leave tomorrow. It would be cruel to take you away before seeing your wife."

He went on absorbing the knowledge Wingate had to impart. Then he paused abruptly, reached for the telephone.

Later that night the Scottish Express was stopped, young Mrs. Wingate taken off and hurried to a British port. The next day she and her husband were aboard ship with Mr. Churchill and the British delegation en route to Quebec.

Intrigues U.S. Generals

Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army chief of staff, and his staff viewed Wingate with interest. This "New Lawrence," a specialist in unorthodox tactics, a man given to eating raw onions on the march, captured their imaginations.

More pertinent, he captured their intellects. Here was a soldier to whom the jungle was no handicap but an asset.

After the Quebec conference, Wingate accompanied Marshall to Washington, where he was promised the air arm needed and was given a free choice of American equipment.

Troops Imitate Tarzan

Then Marshall authorized the sending of American troops under Brig.-Gen. Frank D. Merrill to train in jungle warfare under Wingate. These men—Merrill's Maurauders—worked out in Wingate's famous sand pit where he trained his "Chindits." Described in "Wingate's Raiders" by his biographer, Charles Rolo, the training is best explained by Wingate's creed, "We must imitate Tarzan."

On the night of March 5 gliders and transports flew into a moonlit valley adjacent to the vital railway, disgorged men, supplies, jeeps, mules, even small gas-propelled motor boats for river crossings. Within 24 hours an airstrip had been constructed, and in the succeeding hour an Allied plane landed on it every 47 seconds. A second body of men cut their way through the jungle, passing sometimes within a quarter of a mile of the Japanese to join the airborne troops.

When Wingate's plane crashed the railway had been cut, and his first aim, the cutting of the Jap supply line in Burma, planned long ago at Quebec, had been accomplished.

Hungarians Give Up

MADRID, April 3 — (AP) — Entire Hungarian army units, in some cases led by their officers, are abandoning long-prepared Carpathian mountain defences and surrendering to the adancing Russian army. Reports reaching here last night said. The surrenders may open wide breaches in the Carpathian defences to allow the Russians to pour across into Hungary proper, the report said. Clashes between Hungarian and German forces were said to be increasing.

Winchell Angry Seeks $250,000

NEW YORK, April 3 — (AP) — Walter Winchell, after a radio broadcast Sunday night, in which he replied to charges made against him by Representative Martin Dies, (Dem., Texas), announced he would file a libel suit for $250,000 to-day against Representative Clare Hoffman (Rep., Mich.).

"It's the first suit I've ever filed against any one," the columnist said.

He said the suit would be filed in Federal Court in Washington, D.C., and would be based on a letter from Hoffman to the editor of the Marcellus (Mich.) News.

Winchell quoted the letter as saying that Hoffman, through his pressure in the House of Representatives, had had Winchell "stripped of his navy uniform, stripped of his duties, and stripped of his pay."

He said the letter had been published "very recently, after Hoffman had demanded that the Secretary of the Navy give the House the facts on Winchell's navy status," and had received those facts.

Winchell is a lieutenant-commander in the naval reserve, on inactive duty.

Quarter Million Canucks Ready

LONDON, April 3 (CP)—Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, Commander of the 1st Canadian Army, said in an interview published in the Sunday Express: "Today there are more than a quarter million Canadians trained and ready here for the last battle."

The interview by Godfrey Winn, Express feature writer, with the Canadian invasion commander, was published under the heading, "A man who gets things done."

Replying to a question how troops untried in battle would stand up in the campaign ahead, Gen. Crerar said: "I do not see why troops going into battle for the first time should not acquit themselves just as well as veterans."

"I think as far as our own case is concerned, Canadians who landed in Sicily, and later stormed Ortona in Italy, proved the point," he added. "Mind you, I think it is important that as far as possible troops should be introduced into battle in such a way that they do not receive the full fury at once. But it is my opinion that if the average soldier, well trained but new to battle, passes successfully through the first action he will face the future with assurance. It is the first experience that means so much."

The interview disclosed that Gen. Crerar's son, Peter, is serving in Italy as a lieutenant.

Do You Suffer From Headaches?

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time.

A headache need not be an illness in itself, but it may be a warning symptom that there is intestinal sluggishness within.

To help overcome the cause of headache it is necessary to eliminate the waste matter from the system. Burdock Blood Bitters helps to remove the cause of headaches by regulating the digestive and biliary organs, neutralizing acidity, regulating the constipated bowels and toning up the sluggish liver, and when this has been accomplished the headaches should disappear.

Dub Coal Strike Sabotage On Eve Of Allied Invasion

By WILLIAM STEWART—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 4—(CP Cable).—Drastic reorganization of Britain's coal industry, with a miners' charter guaranteeing a minimum wage based on a 37½-hour week the year around, was proposed last night by the Conservative Reform Committee as a means of preventing strikes such as the current one which has cut deeply into war production.

Citing a better output of United States mines, this committee of 50 Conservative members of parliament also advised drastic and mandatory amalgamations to cut the present 1,000 mining undertakings eventually to between 40 and 60.

The committee said 600,000 American miners produced 500,000,000 tons of coal yearly, while Britain's 700,000 workers turn out only 200,000,000. It said amalgamations would permit improved mechanization of the industry, to which it attributed the higher American output.

Strike Week Old.

The current strike in South Yorkshire, now more than a week old, showed signs of spreading into virtually every other main field unless the War Cabinet can find a way to deal with minor detail wage disputes which are weakening the whole national wage scale agreement.

This dispute focused on the weekly two shillings (about 44 cents) charge for household coal, obtained free before a recent 17-shilling wage increase. However, J. A. Hall, president of the Yorkshire miners, said that issue affected only about two per cent of the underground workers and he called the strike "sabotage on the eve of the Allied invasion."

Hall saiad the miners were deliberately provoked by "Trotskyist elements" and newspaper noted that the government was investigating activities of an anti-war organization called the Militant Workers' Federation.

Less than 5,000 of 90,000 strikers returned to the pits to-day despite Union and Government appeals and the dwindling supply of coal forced a 25 per cent. curtailment in use of gas and 10 per cent in electric power at all factories in the country.

Durham county miners were considering a 21-day ultimatum to rec-

667 Japanese Ships Bagged Since Start

WASHINGTON, April 4 — (AP) — Destruction of 14 more Japanese vessels by American submarines was reported by the Navy today bringing to 667 the number of enemy craft sunk, probably sunk or damaged by undersea boats.

The ships included two medium tankers, 11 medium cargo vessels and one small cargo vessel.

They brought to 517 the number of Japanese craft of all types sent to the bottom by the far-ranging American submarines. In addition scores of Japanese ships, particularly in the cargo carrying classification, have been damaged or probably sunk. Two categories of damage have been omitted recently from submarine damage totals which now list only the number of ships definitely sunk.

Siege Tightens On Odessa; Close In On Lwow

LONDON, April 4 — (AP) — Russian Armies are pounding rapidly crumbling Axis defence lines on three widely sparated sectors of the eastern front, Moscow announced today, thrusting deep into Rumania to within artillery range of Iasi (Jassy), driving closer to the important Polish stronghold of Lwow and tightening their seige arc on the Black Sea port of Odessa.

At the same time the Soviet High Command announced that Marshal Zhukov's 1st Ukraine Army had killed or captured 208,260 Axis troops and was encircling the remnants of 15 divisions near the borders of German-occupied Czechoslovakia and Poland.

In a single 28-day period last month, a special announcement said, a total of 183,310 Germans were killed and 24,950 captured on a single front, boosting to 537,160 the number of German and satellite troops killed or captured in the great Red Army offensive which has all but cleared Russian soil of the invaders.

Far behind the advancing Red Army lines, Zhukov's forces were "hunting down" the remnants of 15 divisions in the deeply-forested Skala area, 20 miles north of the Middle Dniester River, Moscow said. These Axis troops, the Russians declared, originally formed part of 35 divisions and divisional groups decimated or routed between March 4 and March 31 as the Nazis fled across the lower Russian steppes before the victorious Soviet advance. Enormous stores of booty fell into Russian hands, and 2,187 tanks and big guns were destroyed or captured in that period, the announcement added.

In the centre of the 450-mile southern front Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 2nd army, attacking across the Rumanian plains from the Prut River boundary, cut the 50-mile stretch of railway linking Iasi and Dorohoi at the town of Dengeni, 25 miles southwest of Dorohoi, the Russian communique said. Other columns surged on to storm Kerpitsy, nine miles north of the important rail centre of Iasi, and opening a path to Galati and the Danube River delta, 120 miles to the south. Other forces were converging on Kishinev, capital of Bessarabia.

Plea To Rumanians

The Moscow radio meanwhile called on the Rumanian people to abandon the Germans and "capitulate at once."

Recorded by the London Daily Mail, the broadcast warned: "Unless you do so, the whole of your country will become a battlefield and your towns and villages a heap of ruins."

In the drive on Lwow in pre-war Poland, the Moscow bulletin said Zhukov's right wing captured more than 80 localities, including the district centres of Lopatin, 45 miles northeast of Lwow, Gorokhov, 58 miles northeast, and Desestechko, 54 miles northeast.

In the Odessa sector Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 3rd army announced capture of another 100 towns and hamlets in the drive on that Nazi-held base.

16 Billions Needed

WASHINGTON, April 4 — (AP).—The United States $16,000,000,000 Fifth War Loan will open June 12 with individual Americans assigned a $6,000,000,000 quota. The drive, largest yet undertaken by the treasury, will close July 8. The goal is $2,000,000,000 higher than that of the Fourth War Loan conducted in January.

3 Jap Warships Destroyed In Palau Raid

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(CP).—All Japanese ships caught at anchor at Palau, Woleai and Yap were sunk or damaged, by an American task force raiding those enemy Pacific bases, Navy Secretary Frank Knox reported to-day.

Knox at a press conference said there was no way to estimate the number of ships caught in the anchorages. In addition to those hit in the lagoons, he said one Japanese warship was sunk "near Palau and two near Woleai."

The secretary's mention of Woleai and Yap was the first disclosure that the powerful task force hitting in Japanese Caroline Island territory had struck those two points. Woleai has an unusually good anchorage. Yap, another Japanese base, has been used principally as a communications centre.

Knox said that first reports of the strike which began March 30 and continued through April 1 indicated that United States airplane losses were eight fighter planes, 11 bombers and eight torpedo bombers. There was no indication in original reports of any damage to the American warships.

Manilla Alarmed

The original reports from the Pacific fleet of the strike at Palau had told of Japanese ships fleeing to the westward, toward the Philippine Islands, after the American task force struck.

Knox said only meagre details had been received so far because of the necessity of maintaining radio silence until the task force has completed its mission. However, he ex-

British Hold Initiative At 2 Points

Chinese Advance Rapidly In Mogaung Valley

NEW DEHLI, April 4—(CP)—Allied headquarters announced today a lull in fighting on the Indian front south of Imphal and reported no fresh progress by Japanese columns which have been pressing on that communications centre from these directions.

In Central Burma, the announcement said, Allied forces, spearheaded by elements of the 22nd Chinese division, are advancing steadily southward in the Mogaung valley, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy.

Fighting in this area is growing in intensity, the communique reported and now extends from the Namsang Hka across the Mogaung valley road to the east.

"Indicative of the speed of the Chinese advance," the Allied war bulletin said, "is the fact that the enemy is abandoning his dead in pillboxes."

British forces were also taking the initiative on the Arakan front along the Bay of Bengal, and Allied air squadrons blasted numerous important Japanese targets in north, central and south Burma.

In the coastal area south of Maungdaw Allied patrols aided by artillery were active. British and West African troops operating in the Kaladan River valley north of Buthedaung, cleared Kaladan, Kyaukyi and two other villages of enemy forces after fierce hand-to-hand fighting in which the Japanese suffered heavily.

Yugoslavs Gain

LONDON, April 4 — (CP) — Yugoslav partisan troops have capturned a German strongpoint south of Ljubljana, 50 miles north of the Adriatic port of Fiume, and have routed two enemy columns in Montenegro and Slovenia, Marshal Tito (Josip Broz) announced last night.

London Is Ready For Fire Blitz

BY ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 4 — (CP) — There is little likelihood that the Luftwaffe's attempts to fire London, no matter the intensity will ever succeed.

Water and speed formed the principles on which London fought the Big Blitz proved that London Regional Fire Control plans to protect this nerve centre of approaching invasion approach perfection.

With other correspondents I visited subterranean control rooms—15 feet below the level of the Thames River—where enemy aircraft, fires, movement of fire-fighting units and available water supplies are reported, plotted and tabulated on huge charts and maps by men and women in uniform of the National Fire Service.

Twelve feet of solid concrete forms the control room ceiling—an almost inpregnable defence against a direct hit by a high explosive.

The large, air-washed headquarters have a secret approach through a series of winding tunnels, guarded by steel doors. The walls are covered with large-scale maps on which every blaze, and sometimes even a faulty blackout, is pin-pointed as reported by widely-scattered observation tower staffs and volunteer firewatchers.

Headquarters deploys its widely-scattered forces as fire reports come through a six-girl switchboard, while constantly changing charts show the disposition of every piece of the various forms of fire-fighting, rescue and resuscitation equipment.

In an adjoining room water intelligence officers check water stores and direct pumps to adequate supplies when mains are shattered through enemy action. Great maps pin-point the location of every hydrant, static tank and other source.

Bucharest in Heart of Balkans Gets Heavy Aerial Pounding

NAPLES, April 4—(AP)—U. S. heavy bombers raided Bucharest today, following up yesterday's smashing attack against Budapest. The heavy bombers struck at military targets in the Rumanian capital. They attacked "in considerable strength" under escort of fighter planes, an Allied headquarters announcement said. It was the first U. S. aerial bombardment of the Rumanian capital

Like Budapest, Bucharest has become important to the German defences of eastern Europe, and great quantities of war material have been pouring through both rail centres.

In disclosing the Bucharest attack, Allied Headquarters also announced that a thousand tons of bombs were used in Monday's Budapest assault on railroad yards, aircraft components factories and other military and industrial targets. Headquarters announced, too, that 115 enemy planes were destroyed in the attack Sunday against aircraft factories at Steyr, Austria. This was the greatest number of planes ever officially claimed for a single day's flying in the Mediterranean theatre.

Two Capitals Hit.

The bombings of the two Balkan capitals foreshadowed more difficult days for Hitler's satellites in that region. Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, already has been bombed several times, and Budapest now has been hit twice—once Monday by the 15th and again last night by Wellingtons and Liberators of the R.A.F., which attacked steel works, armament factories and railroad yards.

This widespread assault against Balkan capitals, undertaken in conjunction with the Britain-based attacks against German railroad communications, may have political repercussions in the harried Balkan chancelleries.

The Mafred-Weiss steel works and armament factory was the main target of the night attack and R.A.F. airmen said they left at least five fires burning and saw one large explosion.

60 Planes Resist.

An officer summed up the raids this way: "About the best way to locate a Balkan capital these days is to look for a column of smoke."

Between 50 and 60 enemy planes were met over Budapest in the day raid and the bomber gunners and fighter pilots shot down 24, first reports said.

Other heavy bombers roared over Yugoslavia for the second straight day yesterday, dumping bombs on freight yards at Brod, Knin and Drnis in a systematic campaign to cut off German supplies. Medium bombers and fighter bombers continued their attacks on targets in Italy.

(The German-controlled Hungarian radio said last night that all railway stations in Budapest have been closed and all highway traffic has been halted at the city's boundaries. The broadcast quoted an order issued by the Hungarian air raid precautions commissioner who said "only those who live permanently in the country districts, government officials and holders of special travel permits may leave the capital."

(Additional evidence of panic was a special meeting of the Hungarian cabinet which the German agency D.N.B. said in a broadcast gathered to consider the repercussions of the raid.)

Japanese Lose 4,316 Planes

WASHINGTON, April 4 — (CP) —Navy secretary Frank Knox reported today that American Navy and Marine aviators and anti-aircraft crews have shot out of the air 4,316 Japanese airplanes since the United States and Japan entered the war.

He emphasized at a press conference that the total does not include the many enemy planes destroyed on the ground or on carriers by American bomber and fighter planes, saying it is impossible to estimate the number.

He said the American total of planes shot down is 921, or a ratio of four Japanese ships destroyed in combat for every American plane shot down.

Budapest Is Key To Balkan Operations

Hungarians Fear Russian Reprisals Because Of Aid Given Nazis Against Czechs

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Less than a fortnight ago the United States secretary state, Cordell Hull, urged Hungary not to submit to the Nazi lash but to offer firm resistance to Hitler's invasion; yesterday she began to pay for her failure to take this good advice when a great force of American bombers attacked her capital city of Budapest.

That was the first raid by Allied planes from western Europe on this ancient Danubian port, but it's likely to be far from the last, as witness the further onslaught by R. A. F. bombers last night. Budapest is the key position for Hitler's Balkan operations.

Even before the war this city contained the majority of Hungary's industries, and the Nazi chief has moved many of his own factories there since the Allied Air fleets made things too hot in the Reich. Budapest also is the junction of all the railways in the country, and is one of the most important ports of the Danube which provides transportation from the Black Sea to Germany.

Actually Hungary was eager to quit the war more than a year ago. But she feared to try to get out by herself. She hoped for an Allied invasion of the Balkans to help her turn the trick. That is, she hoped British or American forces would invade—not the Russians, whom the Nazi stooges fear.

Hungary must be pretty jittery, what with the Hitlerites swaggering about her towns and Red forces almost at her borders. Her personal experience with communism wasn't a happy one. That was in 1919 when the notorious Bela Kun established a short-lived Soviet after a blood-bath.

Has Much Support

While Hungarians on the whole have no love for the Nazi, the fuehrer has important support. He fairly poured money into Hungary and when I was there just after the Munich conference of 1938 he already had 500,000 adherents. His early victories in the war swelled his following. These people are rapidly anti-communist.

Then Hungary has another reason to be uneasy. At the start of the war Hungary rushed in and grabbed a piece of her stricken little neighbor, Czechoslovakia. That was Slavic territory and so had racial affinity with Russia. Four months ago Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union signed a pact of mutual assistance, which can scarcely add to Hungary's ease of mind.

Possibly more to the point, Hungary flung 250,000 men against Stalingrad in the hour of that city's great agony. Maybe Moscow will overlook that, but Hungarian Nazis can't be expected to think it likely.

So on the whole Budapest has plenty of reason to hide her face as the Red legions thrust into the Balkan peninsula. Moscow's announcement that the Soviet Union has no territorial designs on Rumania (which also has been fighting Russia) is calculated to asure Hungary that the Axis satellites will be treated fairly. However, one suspects her sins are heavy on her conscience.

Finnish Peace Uncertain

Nothing Special Happens At Session

STOCKHOLM, April 4 — (CP) — A meeting of the Finnish parliament was scheduled today but decision on Finland's peace crisis appeared to have been postponed until after Easter. Pessimism is said to prevail in Helsinki on the country's chances of finding a way out of the war with Russia.

Clarification of the situation had been expected when parliament met last night but it was declared semi-officially that "nothing special" happened at the Session.

It was said in Finnish political quarters here that while there were reports of some modification in the Russian armistice terms, belief is now prevalent that the terms are as harsh as ever and even more precise.

A newspaper here, the Dagens Nyheter, reported it had learned that reparations asked by the Russians run into billions of Swedish kronas which would have to be paid by 1950.

Meanwhile, Social Democrats representing a progressive district met in Lahti and passed a strong resolution for peace but the text was suppressed by Finnish censorship.

Bevin Assails Coal Miners

Coal Strike Worse Than If Sheffield Bombed

LONDON, April 4 —(CP)—Labor Minister Ernest Bevin declared today that the pre-invasion strike of Yorkshire coal miners had created "a great crisis in the whole structure of industrial relations" and that drastic action must and would be taken at once to prevent a disruption of the war effort.

With more than 80,000 Yorkshire miners still idle despite urgent pleas of government and union leaders, Mr. Bevin told the civil engineer construction conciliation board that the situation is "worse than if Hilter had bombed Sheffield and cut our communications."

"I can stand with my hand on my heart," Mr. Bevin said, "and say the miners have achieved everything in the last four years that they have fought for since 1912. I think we are entitled, arising out of that, at least to have our lines of communications open and our soldiers supported.... We are not going to lose this war.... We are not going to have this country let down."

Hold 14 Atolls In Marshalls

PEARL HARBOR, T.H., April 4. —(AP). — Fourteen atolls in the Central Pacific Marshall Islands, almost the entire western half, were in American hands to-day.

Only Jaluit atoll remains in Japanese control in the western half of the group and that is surrounded Wotje Maloelap and Mili in the eastern string are the only other important atolls still held by the enemy.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the United States' Pacific fleet, announced yesterday that 10 more atolls had been cleared of Japanese with little or no resistance. These are Ujae, Lae, Lib, Namu, Ailinglapalap, Namorik, Ebon, Kili, Arno and Bikini.

American troops previously had taken Jwajalein, Eniwetok and Otho in the Ralik (Sunset) chain of atolls and Majuro in the Radak (Sunrise) chain.

American-held Majuro and Arno are adjacent atolls between the two chief bases remaining in Japanese hands, and Mili and Maloelap, both of which have airstrips.

Air Co-operation Good.

Invasion of the Marshalls, which cover hundreds of square miles in the Central Pacific, followed the bloody contest last November of the Gilbert Islands.

Meanwhile airmen operating from Southwest Pacific bases struck again at the Japanese base of Truk and other important targets on a 1,000-mile arc while American forces on Bougainville Island in the Solomons claimed a complete victory over a once-strong enemy garrison.

Some of the air strikes seemed part of the continuing pattern of hitting at bases of possible Japanese

Employers Forget About Stamping Books

Exchange of the expired insurance books for the year 1943-44 for the new 1944-45 books is coming along nicely, it was said today at the office of the Unemployment Commission, but quite a number of employers have sent in books which have not been stamped up to the end of the month of March.

This circumstance is making it necessary for such books to be returned to the respective employers to be filled out at least to March 31, W. H. L. Mellis, manager, said, because there is no place in the new books for putting any stamps back of April 1. "Therefore, we would like employers not to send in their old books unless they have been stamped up until the 31st of March," Mr. Mellis said.

Minister Interned By Japanese Recalls Thailand Occupation

When the Japs began rolling through Indo-China and Thailand in the general direction of Burma and the border of India, they substituted flanged wheels for their rubber tires and took to the railways in those jungle lands of few highways.

"I did not see that myself," said Rev. Asher Case, of Alliance, Ont., minister of the Christian and Missionary Alliance who with his wife spent six months in a concentration camp with considerate Thai soldiers as the inner guard and Japs on the outer fringe.

Mr. Case and Rev. Harry Post and Rev. W. C. Boyer are in Peterborough this week from remote countries at the other side of the world and their stories of life and Christian work among the Dyaks of Borneo, the Thais (pronounced 'ties') and the Bantu people of the French Congo will be related at Bethany Tabernacle each night this week.

If you are interested in phases of ethnology and geography, primitive peoples of the tropics, advances in education in these far off corners of the earth, and Christian progress in fulfillment of the missionary command, you may find much of interest in any of these addresses. The only restriction is that each of these missionaries has so much that he could tell and only an hour or so for his tale, that there is bound to be some disappointment in the sense that you are aware of many chapters having to be deleted from the recital.

Delay Project

Asher Case tells another story he heard during his later months when war and Japanese questing for a whole continent of space in the sun had surrounded the whites and gathered them into places of detention. A railway had been projected between Bangkok in Thailand and Phnompenh, the former capital of Cambodia, which in modern times had been a part of French Indo-China.

Rails were laid from each capital toward the dividing border, and finally as completion and the linking stage approached, the French decided not to cross the boundary. Presumably it was a protective and strategic gap, dictated by discretion in the thought of possibilities if war should occur.

Passengers who wished to transfer from one line to the other had to motor over the intervening stretch. Then Japan forced its attentions upon both countries, and, as the story goes, almost according to an exact schedule the intruders decided to close the gap by connecting the two ends that had so long been frowning at each other from either side of the boundary. And, by a strange coincidence, or it might have been a carefully timed schedule of preparations, that job of track-laying was completed a comparatively few days prior to December 7, 1941—and Pearl Harbor.

Infiltrate Gradually

One other story of the long and patient planning of the Japs for that day was quoted by Mr. Case. Their nationals had become numerous in the towns and cities. They were dentists and photographers, they were in business and engaged in all kinds of work; they became an integral part of those communities, and generally a prominent part.

"Then when war came these Japs blossomed out as soldiers, army officers and so on; transformed in almost a twinkling into reinforcements for the invading armies."

Mr. Case and his wife were at Korat, an important railway junction in eastern Thailand, when the Japs struck. In fact they had been warned by the American minister that war seemed imminent, and they started north in the hope of reaching Burma. However, they were taken by Thai soldiers, "and we were treated as humanely as possible."

Native Administration

The Japs assumed the role of supervision, leaving the actual administration of the camp to the native soldiers.

"They used to come in among us now and then, but on the whole the Japs left things to the Thais, as far as I could observe."

Mr. and Mrs. Case were repatriated to America on the first trip of the "Gripsholm."

Provoke Incidents

The world has almost forgotten the incidents of Japan's seizure of the island of Hainan and then its 'finding' of incidents which opened the way to easy penetration of Indo-China and old Siam. Trouble had been brewed along the border between those two countries. Thailand was demanding part of Cambodia which has been under its control for hundreds of years prior to 1907 when the French gained possession of it.

Luckily for Japan and its ambitions, Tokyo was invited to arbitrate and in January, 1941, "Vichy" France had to accept loss of about 25,000 square miles of territory, most of it a slice off Cambodia.

Eventually the Thais yielded to pressure of Japanese threats, with more or less aid from the Vichy French in Indo-China. The Japs thrust mechanized troops at the Thai border, and opposition quickly melted. Japs crossed the border, and by January, 1942, the Thais themselves were invading Burma with the Japs and plans went into effect at once for the working of the tin mines and the rubber plantations.

"Since I have come home," said Rev. Mr. Case, "word has come from others who have been following us, that the native church has been carrying on.

Noted For Rice

'Thailand was called by the natives "Muang Thai" "Kingdom of the Tree," and it was for that reason they discarded the modern name "Siam."

The country is famous for its rice and teakwood, tin and rubber.

"There was a grain and seed show here in Canada, I believe, and rice from Siam won the first prize," Mr. Case said. "The country is about half the area of Ontario, and has a population ten times larger than ours. People generally know that Bangkok has received the tributary name of "The Venice of the East," because of its many canals. It has been described as the city of green and gold, and is one of the main ports of call for cruises in the Orient."

Secretary. Some quarters said the Canadian-born publisher was slated to replace Eden, but this was generally held to be unlikely.

Other portfolios which, it is believed, may change hands include the Ministry of Fuel, where Maj. Gwilyn Lloyd George has been having strike troubles, and the Agriculture Ministry, where R. S. Hudson's price control policies have been under fire from the farmers.

Dual Role.

If Eden leaves the foreign office, his departure may be prompted by the consideration that the dual role he has been playing is too much for one man. This was accentuated by last week's parliamentary tempest over equal pay for men and women teachers.

Some Conservatives feel, however, that Eden is better fitted and more urgently needed as foreign secretary at this critical period and should give up the House leadership instead.

Difficulties are being raised in advance to any shift of Lord Cranborne to the foreign office—one being that Labor and other parties probably would object to having such an important ministry held by a man in the House of Lords.

Lord Cranborne always has been closely identified with Eden's foreign policy—which some sections of the press have sharply criticised as "no policy at all." This criticism is one of the factors that might bring the resignation of Eden, who long has been considered Prime Minister Churchill's likely successor.

Germans Using Fascists On Anzio Front

NAPLES, April 4 —(AP)—Italian Fascist troops have been sandwiched in with German forces ringing the Allied beachhead below Rome, it was announced today as comparative tranquillity continued all along the Italian front, with minor patrol clashes and artillery fire keeping the opposing armies alert.

It was not known how many Italian troops were being employed on the beachhead or whether the move means some German units have been withdrawn. In many cases the Italians were said to have been placed between German soldiers in the line rather than put in as units. Some Italian parachute troops were wearing German uniforms.

One Allied patrol filtered deep into enemy territory on the east flank, but was forced to withdraw when attacked about two miles west of Littoria. Some enemy planes raided the port area of the beachhead and two were shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

The Germans continued their extensive patrolling all along the front and in Cassino, now quiet for several days, there was some enemy movement in the area of the Des Roses Hotel, one of the German strongpoints.

The Germans hammered the town with mortars intermittently and threw some shells on the railway station, where Allied troops still were holding out.

(The Rome radio asserted last night that German troops had regained all of Cassino and its suburbs except the railroad station, which lies south of the town. "Other groups of houses outside the town also have been incorporated into the German line of defence," the broadcast said. There was no Allied confirmation.)

The Garigliano valley south of Cassino echoed with artillery fire from both sides.

Harold Morrow Missing Overseas

WO. 1 HAROLD MORROW

A trio of brothers serving overseas has been broken up, only temporarily, it is hoped, with the report that Warrant Officer 1 Harold Morrow, who has done a brisk business as a fighter pilot overseas in the past two years, is now missing.

After landing in England in May 1942, WO. Morrow spent some time there and then was transferred to the Middle East and Central Mediterranean for service. He was stationed in Libya and Tunisia and other points in North Africa, and since October had been active in the work of the City of Windsor Spitfire Squadron in the Central Mediterranean.

Formerly employed at the Walkwel Shoe Store, WO. Morrow enlisted in June 1941. He trained at St. Hubert, Victoriaville, and was presented with his wings at Moncton. The flier was educated here at Queen Alexandra School and the Collegiate.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Morrow, 745 Water street, Harold Morrow has two brothers overseas. Lieut. Grant Morrow is with the Army in England and FO. W Clifford Morrow is also stationed there.

Says the letter in part: "It was with deep regret that I learned of your retirement as Chief Officer of Police in Peterborough. I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the many kind deeds and legal advice rendered to me while a young man in Peterborough.

"Your record is one that every police officer on this continent should envy. Your contribution to society would be too much to dream of putting into a letter. Your actions reflect great credit upon the police force not only in Peterborough but in an international sense.

"The young people of your community as well as other citizens have lost a tried and true friend. I am sure, however, that you will continue to assist them, if the opportunity presents itself."

Northumberland: Warren Atkinson, Roseneath.

The four district agricultural representatives are also directors: L. H. Fair, Stirling; R. C. Banbury, Brighton; Ed. A. Summers, Bowmanville, and F. C. Paterson, Peterborough.

Thirty-three Yorkshire breeders were present from the counties of Hastings, Northumberland, Durham and Peterborough. It is hoped that Victoria farmers will join this new farm group.

Clubs Worth While.

W. S. McMullen, Toronto, of the Dominion livestock branch, told the farmers of the accomplishments by similar clubs in western Ontario, particularly the success of the oldest of them, the Waterloo club. He also discussed he advantages of advanced registry.

Of the hogs taken from the tests stations in Ontario two years ago 86.8 p.c. graded "A," an indication Mr. McMullen said, that the advanced registry hog is a pretty good pig." In 1943, also, 91 p.c. of the registered hogs in Canada were Yorkshires.

The new club is projected as an encouragement to breeders to produce the best hogs they can to supply the demand of commercial breeders. It was decided to hold a field day during the summer, to list pure bred hogs for sale, support a bacon show and probably assist auction sales.

Gordon Marshall of Canada Packers attended the meeting which won the compliment of Mr. McMullen for the display of interest as a promise of developing the swine industry on a better basis throughout this district.

MISS MARGARET LUXON

MILLBROOK, April 4 (ENS) — The death of Margaret Luxon, formerly of Millbrook, took place following an extended period of ill health, on Thursday, March 30, at the home of her sister, Mrs. George McCullough Newtonville, in her 47th year.

She was the younger daughter of Mrs. Thomas Luxon, and the late Mr. Luxon, and the family homestead was for many years in Millbrook, just north of Centre street, where Mr. Luxon was a market gardiner. Cheese, Produce and Livestock

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 4 — (AP) — Although wheat managed to hold steady, the general trend in the grain market today was lower.

The comparative steadiness of wheat was attributed to good demand in cash markets. Selling in the grain met resting order, and prices dropped below the previous close for only a short period. Trade reports emphasized that possibly 1,500,000 acres sown to winter wheat in Western Kansas would be abandoned.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ¼ higher. Oats were unchanged to ¼ lower, rye was down ¼-⅝ and barley was unchanged to ⅛ lower.

Riots Flaring In Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela, April 4 —(AP)—The newspaper Ultimas Noticias quoted radio Salvador today as saying a revolt against the government of President Maxmiliano Hernandez Martinez had broken out in the republic of El Salvador Sunday morning and that the rebels had occupied the government palace and a number of other buildings.

The broadcast said followers of Martinez were offering resistance from police headquarters, but there was no indication of the outcome.

Ultimas Noticias said the nature of the revolt was not clear, but that any movement against the established regime—which had been in office since 1931—could be considered contrary to the interests of the United Nations.

El Salvador declared war on Japan Dec. 8, 1941, and four days later declared she was at war with Germany.

Martinez, who assumed control of the government by a military coup in 1931, was re-elected for another six-year term by the constitutional assembly last Feb. 29.

Skin elasticity is the secret of a youthful complexion

Compare face with shoulder skin. You'll find shoulders look 5 or more years younger. That's because shoulder skin retains its elasticity—while facial skin pores are clogged with make-up, unable to breathe for hours at a time. And when pores can't breathe skin starts to age prematurely. But Palmolive can help retain youthful elasticity in your skin.

Look younger in 14 days! Each time you wash, (use a face cloth) massage warm, rich, vitalizing Palmolive lather thoroughly into your skin for one full minute. Now a quick rinse and pat dry. Palmolive's 60-second Beauty Massage has been scientifically tested by 2,501 women and 36 doctors. Their reports prove conclusively that . . . in just 14 days, it brings lovelier complexions.

SLEEP STEALING HEADACHES Relieved by HOT MUSTARD FOOT BATHS

MRS. E. LESSARD of Maymont, Sask., has been troubled for some time with severe pains across the forehead. The constant, sharp pains of these attacks make sleep impossible and bring on disagreeable nausea.

Quick Relief with Mustard

To overcome this condition, Mrs. Lessard says, "There is only one thing that has brought any comfort or caused the pain to subside. I prepare a very hot foot bath and put two tablespoonsful of mustard into it, having first mixed the mustard to a paste in cold water. This brings me immediate relief and relaxation."

"After this treatment," declares Mrs. Lessard, "sleep comes without any further effort, and I bless mustard for the relief it has brought me."

Many Ways to Use Mustard Remedy

You can use mustard in foot baths, complete baths, poultices or plasters to relieve pain of Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Arthritis, Neuritis, over-tired Muscles, etc.

The strongest proof of the value of mustard in treating so many common ailments is the fact that thousands of people like Mrs. Lessard depend on it year after year and recommend its use to friends and relatives. Always keep mustard handy in your house in case of emergency to relieve Chills or Colds, or when you feel depressed by Grippe or other Winter infections. A mustard poultice or plaster should not be left on more than twenty minutes. If symptoms are serious it is wise to call your doctor promptly.

Campbellford Council Is Annoyed At Criticism Of Public School

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4 (ENS) —A lot of unfair criticism had been levelled at the Public Schools here and something should be done about it was the opinion expressed by members of Town Council at their April meeting Monday night. The question was raised by Councillor Bill Brady who questioned the mayor as to the findings of the Board of Health which two weeks ago inspected the school at the request of the Board of Education.

Mayor Long explained that a report had been made to the Board of Education, and he felt it would be untimely to reveal its contents to the council before the Board had discussed it. He went on to criticize the publication of the letter signed "Campbellford Ratepayer" in the press and took issue with the Examiner for carrying it in its "Home Edition" which not only went into the homes of Peterborough but to other towns and the district surrounding Campbellford. He felt it was a purely local issue and should have been treated as such (forgetting that with the possible exception of the reference to the lack of fire-fighting equipment, Examiner readers had long ago been informed through its columns of conditions at the school, as they were discussed from time to time by members of the Board, and so contained in yearly reports made by the Public School Inspector who for more than five years had been urging improvements on the playgrounds and to the lighting.)

Councillor Brady held that council was being taken to task for the alleged conditions at the school, and as much criticism was being levelled at them, as at the Board of Education. He felt a joint meeting with the Board to air the entire problem should be held.

"From the point of view of the Board of Health, things (at the school) were not too bad," said the mayor. They had found the toilets clean, free from odours and plumbing all in good working condition. Thermometers in the various class rooms registered from 68 to 70 degrees; the floors were clean, there were no papers around. From the sanitary point the Board would recommend a wider spacing of coat hooks. The mayor admitted the air in the school was dry and that something should be done to increase the humidity. Water from a well is provided under pressure to a drinking fountain on each floor and the school had been entirely re-decorated in the past two or three years. In his opinion the complaints of conditions at the school were "not warranted."

"I think were paying too much attention to this letter", declared Reeve MacMillan, adding that no doubt there were some things that could be done.

"I believe the Board should be invited to meet the council", said Councillor Taylor.

'How did you find the fire fighting equipment?" asked the Reeve.

To this the mayor declared he would recommend a stand-pipe that should be run up from the basement, however, he understood from the Board of Education that such a plan was not practical, as the water in such a pipe would freeze when fires were allowed to go out during the winter week-ends. When asked why it was necessary to let the fires out it was explained the furnaces were of a type that had to be treated in this way. Each night they must be cleaned out and rekindled the following morning at an hour regulated by the outside temperature.

On motion of Brady and Fowlds the clerk was instructed to write the Board of Education stating that council would be glad to meet with them at their convenience to discuss the situation.

G. G. Stephens addressed council on behalf of the Seymour Agriculture Society requesting the annual grant to that Society and on motion $125.00 will be given to the Fair this year. A letter from the secretary of the Navy League was read requesting permission to hold a tag day on June 3 to be conducted by the I.O.D.E. Bemersyde Chapter, and this was granted.

Notice that the local tax rate would be reduced to 41 mills this year, was contained in a communication from the Department of Municipal Affairs, that verified the one mill subsidy for educational purposes. Since Finance Chairman Fowlds had indicated a month ago that the 1944 rate would be the same as last year—43 mills, ratepayers would now receive the benefit of a two mill subsidy to make the net rate 41 instead of 42 as it was a year ago.

Further to the proposal made a month ago to purchase the unused right-of-way owned by the C.N.R. and extending from east of Margaret Street to the Market Square, the clerk read a letter in which a price of $500.00 was set by the Railway for the land estimated at 1.6 acres. Not disposed to pay this figure members authorized the clerk to make a $25.00 bid for the property.

New Milk Bylaw

Suggested changes in the milk bylaw, which had been sent to Toronto for this purpose, were contained in a letter from the department. It was pointed out the main difficulty with the existing bylaw was that it had been passed before the Pasteurization Act. The matter was given to the Legal committee with instructions to bring in a draft of a new by-law at the next meeting. It was suggested that this should include reference to the proposal for report forms re the inspection of barns.

The auditor's report was read and apart from their findings that the town's finances were in good order, it contained several recommendations. Chief of these was that pre-payment discounts on taxes be abolished. It was pointed out that such discounts had cost the corporation $680.00 last year, and this was too much since it would more than pay the interest on any moneys borrowed by the town, and in addition, comparatively few people could take advantage of the discount. The debenture debt was $67,799.53 according to the report.

Councillor Donald, chairman of the road and bridge committee, brought in a motion to have the work of straightening the sanitary sewer on Rear street proceeded with as soon as weather conditions permitted. He estimated the work and material for the 158-foot stretch would cost about $450. Reeve MacMillan who opposed the move when it came before council a year ago, spoke once more against the motion. He claimed it would not solve the stoppage question and might only shift the trouble to the main sewer on Bridge street, where it would be even more costly to excavate in the future.

On being put to a vote the motion carried.

Collector J. C. Brimingham reported payments made to the treasurer's office during March included $225.44 on arrears of taxes; $501.89 in 1943 taxes and $856.823 in prepayment of 1944 taxes. He said the roll was now ready to be turned over and the mayor set April 20 as the date of a special meeting to accept it.

Regarding the replacement of the late Charles Davidson on the water and light commission Mayor Long declared council could make the appointment and have it ratified by by-law. An election would not be necessary he said and a motion was passed authorizing the solicitor to prepare the by-law in readiness for the special meeting.

Candle Lighting Service Is Held

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4 (ENS). —Special music by the choir and soloists marked an impressive candle lighting service which was witnessed by a large congregation at St. John's United Church on Sunday evening. Designed as a preliminary to the special services being held during Holy Week, eight young people took part in the candle lighting ceremony and each of these read the story of one of the events of the day's preceding the crucifixion. As each one robed in white completed his portion of the story he walked to the pulpit before which was a large cross and below it a lighted candle. From this each in turn lighted another one. Those who took part in this pageant were Helen Young, Alex. Johnson, Enid Malcolm, Jack Bleecker, Jessie Gratton, Jack Connor, Leila Mitchell, Jean Free.

An outstanding feature of the service was the appropriate music offered by the choir. The vocal numbers included the solos, "I Walked With Jesus," by Mrs. A. G. Watson; "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord," by Mrs. Arnold Bates; "What Will You Do With Jesus," by Mr. Harold Pierce; "Rejoice, the Lord Is King," by Mrs. Charles Howey. The male quartette comprising Messrs. H. M. Donald, H. Pierce, G. W. Lucy and H. Twigg, offered "Break Through the Bread of Life," while a mixed quartette including Mrs. H. O. Richardson, Miss N. Hoover, Dr. H. O. Richardson, and G. W. Lucy gave "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord."

Fewer Books Issued

COBOURG, April 4 — (ENS). — Total figures had not been compiled Monday in connection with the number of ration books issued in the district last week but as far as Cobourg is concerned, the total will be lower than at the last time of issue due to the fact that the tourist population swelled the figures last year. The ration books were handed out on Thursday, Friday and Saturday with the biggest rush being on the first day, with the result that the workers were not swamped on the closing day.

Capture 2 Nazis

IGNACE, Ont., April 4—(CP). — Ontario Provincial Police said today two German prisoners of war who escaped from a lumber camp at White Otter Lake, 25 miles south of Ignace, were recaptured here last night.

Constable E. W. Miller of Ignace said the men, Joseph Freidl, 27, and Willie Muller, 30, had walked out of the lumber camp when no person was watching them and were equipped with maps and compass.

Confiscate Maps

LONDON, April 4—(AP). — With the Nazi armies retreating everywhere in the east and the Russians thrusting into Rumania, German authorities have ordered all maps of the Russian front removed from public places in Germany and occupied countries, the Brazzaville radio said today. The German broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, said the Germans also had forbidden the printing of all maps of the eastern front.

Muddy Roads Keep Farmer's Guests Home

COBOURG, April 4 — (ENS). — Week-end rain spoiled the roads for farmers desiring to attend the entertainment presented for their benefit on Saturday night at the Opera House. It was sponsored by Cobourg Kiwanis Club and took the form of an address by Dr. J. B. Reynolds of Port Hope, former O.A.C. head, and in addition a group of entertainers from Toronto presented a program of song and dance. The chairman was Maurice Daignault. The guest speaker was introduced by W. H. McGuire, president of the Kiwanis Club. The club had planned on a full house but the rain made roads so difficult that farmers who were in town during the morning decided to head for home rather than take a chance on impassable roads.

Russia Looks Toward Asia

During the past month Russia has been looking more closely at her Asiatic frontier, and has taken steps which may be meant to show both China and Japan that she does not mean to play favourites there. Last week Russia renewed a fishing agreement with Japan for the use of Russia's northern waters, and also forced an agreement upon Japan whereby that country gives up her coal and oil concessions in the northern reaches of Sakhalin Island twenty-six years before the previous expiration date. It is possible to interpret these agreements as a slap in the face for Japan. At Chungking, however, it is thought that the arrangement was intended only to show that Russia meant to remain neutral in the Pacific war.

Within the last three days Russia also called attention to a border squabble with China in an unusually strongly-worded statement. The curious thing is that the squabble took place late last year, and that this is the first official Russian mention of it. The Russians claim that Chinese troops from Sinkiang violated the border of the Mongolian People's Republic, sending bombing planes over the border in pursuit of refugees from Sinkiang.

Sinkiang is nominally a part of China, but since 1934 it has been dominated by Russia. In that year the local governor called on the Russians to help him put down a Moslem rebellion; the Russians garrisoned his capital, set up a trade agency, built roads and irrigation systems, set up hospitals and schools, developed the oil resources of the country and trained an army and a police force. However, the Russians denied that they meant to set up a new Turkestan republic in Sinkiang. Last October they withdrew from that province, and it was reported that they had made a secret agreement with China concerning it. The recent trouble came about when the Chinese began a forcible movement of population from northern to southern Sinkiang; many people who did not want to leave their homes fled across the Mongolian border for protection; Russia charges that Chinese planes pursued them, bombing towns and villages and shooting at the populace. If this happens again, says Russia, China must expect Russia to give the Mongolian People's Republic every necessary aid and support.

What this may mean no one can say, but Russia does not issue these warnings for nothing. Russia has begun to turn her eyes eastward, and it may not be long before her policy in that quarter is revealed more clearly.

Talking At Concerts

Do Peterborough people talk more at concerts than other Canadians? We cannot answer this question, which was put to us by a Peterborough citizen who had suffered acutely at the Association Concert on Saturday night. He was very much perturbed over the matter; indeed, he spoke as though everyone at the concert had been talking. He was quite wrong in taking that attitude. Not more than ten per cent. of those who were at the concert were talking. As the P.C.V.I. auditorium holds about 850 people, that means that 85 people were talking during the concert. From our experience elsewhere, we should say that ten per cent. is the usual proportion of talkers in a Canadian concert audience.

The 85 talkers at the concert were well distributed, and they worked hard. Five of them sat in the row behind us, and certainly they did their utmost to ruin the concert. The aim of a good concert-talker is not, as some people believe, to drown the music, but merely to provide interference, like static on the radio. Sometimes the static is more interesting than the music. The five talkers nearest us—they were girls of high school age—discussed, among other things, infant baptism and the advantages of birth in hospitals as opposed to home delivery; one of them, apparently a student of the violin, volunteered the information that the pieces played by the violinist on the platform were much too hard for her, though her friends noisily assured her that she could probably play them if she practised hard. The other 80 talkers kept up a steady hum all through the hall, and one married couple, we are informed, were clearly audible through a radius of five rows.

We really do not know what can be done about concert-talkers. Music seems to brighten their faculties and oil the hinges of their jaws. They recall things at concerts which they simply cannot hold in for an instant; they must talk or die, and it never occurs to them that it might be for the general good if they were to choose the latter course. There is only one way to deal with them; they have to be shushed from the platform. They are impervious to shushing from the audience, but sometimes an irate artist has reduced them to silence. Toscanini glares; Bruno Walter frowns; Sir Henry Wood scowls and shakes his head; on one occasion Sir Thomas Beecham threw his baton at a particularly noisy talker. Obviously the only way to deal with our 85 talkers is to supply a courageous artist with a basketful of mature eggs.

A Program For Youth

In a speech which the Progressive Conservative Leader, Mr. John Bracken, made in Halifax last Friday, he set forth the duty of the state toward the youth of the country under ten headings, saying that it was the state's responsibility to see that its youth were:

1. Well born—meaning born healthy.
2. Maintained in health.
3. Developed in character.
4. Informed in the useful wisdom of the ages.
5. Trained in a useful calling.
6. Taught the dignity of labour.
7. Required to work as well as learn.
8. Shown the mental and spiritual necessity of accomplishment.
9. Given opportunity to earn a living.
10. Expected to carry their own weight in the community, and a little more if they can.

This program has an impressive sound; almost anyone would agree with it. But what does it really mean? We cannot discover that it means anything which is not being done as efficiently as possible at this moment. Our public health services are doing fine work in raising the general standard of health in this country; it is slow work but it is being done. Our educational systems do all they can to take care of points 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8. In wartime point 9 looks after itself and point 10 is a part of normal democratic life. Mr. Bracken has polished up a group of fine generalities and has put them forward as a program. We do not see that they make a program at all. If he had told us what he could do to augment what is being done at present along these lines, a program might have emerged.

It is popular nowadays to give the impression that the youth of Canada have had a raw deal. This is true to some degree, for the years of depression struck down many young men at the outset of their adult lives. But we do not think that they suffered more than the youth of Great Britain, or the U.S., or Australia, who found themselves in the same painful situation. During the depression years the party which recently conscripted Mr. Bracken as leader was in power, and it did what was possible under very difficult circumstances to ease a hard situation. It was a world situation, and it could only have been avoided by world action.

If Mr. Bracken wants to avoid a repetition of that situation he might be better advised to turn his attention to world politics and world movements. A youth program so general as to consist almost wholly of platitudes will do no good. Canada cannot preserve herself from world calamities by any other course than by an intense, intelligent participation in world politics.

It is easy to point out what ought to be done and where the duty of the state lies. It is infinitely harder to advance the common cause even in the smallest degree.

NOTE AND COMMENT

If this glut of quintuplets and quadruplets goes on much longer it will be an event when a woman has just one baby at a time.

There is one pleasant feature about this postponement of income tax payment—you won't miss your shirt so much in August.

A beauty columnist says that if girls continue to go without stockings in winter they will eventually develop a thick growth of fur on their legs. Well, if it has to be fur, we hope it will be mink.

That saying about March coming in like a lion and going out like a lamb originated, as so many of our weather-sayings did, in England, where it happens to be true. But here in Canada we have just proved that March may come in like a lion and go out like a lion which has had a bunch of crackers tied to its tail.

Fascism— Child Of Debt

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

(Reprinted from the Kingston Whig-Standard)

If Fascism were merely a system of dictatorship, brutality and war, North America would be in no danger of adopting it. Fascism, unfortunately, is something much more complicated and so little understood that it could penetrate this continent and other democratic areas before the people recognized it; could establish itself by subtle and devious stages not understood until too late. This, in brief, is the theme of a striking new book by John T. Flynn, "As We Go Marching."

Mr. Flynn, whose isolationist at the beginning of the war must be reckoned against his undoubted reputation as a leading American economic and financial writer, finds fascism, in its true essentials, to be a very old system, at least as old as Pericles in Greece and Augustus in Rome. In our modern world it began in Italy and this fact destroys the notion that it is a German growth out of northern European soil which was "outside the stream of Latin culture." Italy invented modern Fascism in the midst of this stream and invented it long ago.

FASCISM, says Mr. Flynn, grew out of a very simple device—deficit financing. During the latter half of the nineteenth century Italy seldom balanced its national budget. Again and again governments were elected to stop the nation's drift into debt and again and again they were compelled to increase the debt in order to maintain what appeared to be prosperity. They simply provided employment by more borrowing.

Mussolini brought this process to a climax by such spending and borrowing as Italy had never seen before. And so striking were the results of this program—in the form of vast public works and full employment—that conservative American businessmen, and even men like Mr. Churchill thought that Mussolini had saved his country and invented a new system of economics.

Fascism in Germany followed precisely the same pattern and created the same illusions. As Mr. Flynn proves by his figures of public finance, the Italian and German revolutions were created by the same fatal poison of increasing debt which had been imbibed by many ancient civilizations, always with disaster. When Italy and Germany entered the war both were on the verge of bankruptcy because they were nearing the point where they could borrow no more.

OUT of this situation emerged the more obvious aspects of Fascism which we mistake for the whole system. This progress was inevitable. For the modern dictators, like their ancient predecessors, found that the easiest way to create employment was to build big armies and gigantic armament industries. These were supported even by Italians and Germans who hated and feared war because their dissolution was economically unthinkable. No one could face the economic collapse which would occur if the armies—and the factories and the farms and mines dependent on them—disappeared.

However, since these things cost money in taxes and the taxpayers were groaning under their load, it was necessary always to persuade the taxpayers that the load must be borne. The need of armies must be constantly demonstrated. Hence it was always necessary to persuade the people that their country was in danger from outside enemies; and also to persuade them that, by using their armies, they could conquer other countries, enrich themselves and relieve their own intolerable situation at home. Out of these pressures, stage by stage, developed the militarism and then the military adventures of the dictatorships— Italy in Africa, Germany in Europe.

◆ ◆ ◆

WITH this historical background, Mr. Flynn devotes the rest of his book to considering whether the same process can occur in America. His answer is simple:

"Whether we shall adopt it (the Fascist system) or not is hardly any longer a quesiton. We have adopted it. The question is, can we get rid of it."

Mr. Flynn's reasons for believing that America is headed for Fascism are too numerous and complicated to be considered in this brief review and will be discussed in a subsequent article. But briefly, he begins his argument by returning to the United States election of 1932. In that year Mr. Roosevelt was a candidate for the presidency on the propositon that Mr. Hoover's reckless spending was going to ruin the nation and he said that "a government, like any family can for a year spend a little more than it earns, but you and I know that a continuation of that means the poor house." He begged the nation to "have the courage to stop borrowing and meet the continuing deficits, and said public works "do not relieve the distress" but are only "a stopgap."

The remainder of the Roosevelt's government's financial record is familiar. It began to borrow on a scale never imagined by Mr. Hoover; but, more than that, where it once regarded borrowing as a dangerous evil it evolved the "new" theory that borrowing and continual deficits were in themselves a positive economic good, that the nation could only prosper if its budget remained perpetually unbalanced and its debt constantly increasing. This theory has been clearly advanced by many of the President's economic advisers and by his own National Resources Planning Board.

HAVING embarked on debt accumulation which will reach about $250 billions by the end of 1945, the Roosevelt Government, says Mr. Flynn, had to undertake precisely the same economic controls already perfected by the dictatorships. Thus the federal authorities extended their control over every aspect of the nation's business before the war and completed the control during the war until the whole American system of divided powers, as between the nation and the states has broken down. The system of private initiative has been shot through with controls, monopolies, cartels and the whole economic structure of the nation rests on the unsound foundation of a government which, like those of Italy and Germany, cannot stop its downward descent into debt.

As Mr. Willk said in a recent speech, as Professor Harold G. Moulton, of the Brookings Institution, warns in his book "The New Philosophy of Public Debt," the primary decision of the United States is now plain. Before any other decision can be made, before any post-war program can be laid down, the nation must decide whether it is going to continue borrow and financing by deficits. Mr. Flynn holds that this is not merely an economic decision but the primary political decision of our times, for on it will depend whether the United States is to maintain democracy or slip by inevitable steps into a Fascist economic system.

Duffers In A Foreign Tongue

I LIKED the delusion that I spoke French well, a delusion common enough among those who had never heard me. Somehow I seemed likely to possess that accomplishment. I cannot charge myself with having ever claimed to possess it; but I am afraid that when any one said to me, "I suppose you speak French perfectly?" I allowed the tone of my denial to carry with it a hint of mock-modesty. "Oh no," I would say, "my French is wretched," rather as though I meant that a member of the French Academy would detect lapses from pure classicism in it; or "No, no, mine is French pour rire," to imply that I was practically bilingual....

Strange, how one will trifle with even the most imminent doom. On being presented to the Gaul, I always hastened to say that I spoke his or her language only "un tout petit peu"—knowing well that this poor spark of slang would kindle within the breast of M. Tel or the bosom of Mme. Chose hopes that must so quickly be quenched in the puddle of my incompetence. I offer no excuse for so foolish a proceeding. I do but say that it is charcateristic of all you who are duffers at speaking a foreign tongue. Great is the pride they all take in airing some little bit of idiom. I recall, among many other pathetic exemplifiers of the foible, an elderly and rather eminent Greek, who, when I was introduced to him, said "I am jolly glad to meet you, Sir!" and, having said that, had nothing whatever else to say, and was moreover unable to grasp the meaning of anything said by me, though I said the simplest things, and said them very slowly and clearly. It is to my credit that in speaking English to a foreigner I do always try to be helpful. I bear witness against Mme. Chose and M. Tel that for me they have never made a like effort in their French....To be shamed as a talker is bad enough; it is even worse to be shamed in the humble refuge of listener. To listen and from time to time murmur "C'est vrai" may seem safe enough; yet there is danger even here. I wish I could forget a certain luncheon in the course of which Mme. Chose (that brilliant woman) leaned suddenly across the table to me, and, with great animation, amidst a general hush, launched at me a particularly swift flight of winged words. With pensively narrowed eyes, I uttered my formula when she ceased. This formula she repeated, in a tone even more pensive than mine. "Mais je me le connais pas," she then loudly exclaimed, "Je ne connais pas meme le nom. Dites-moi de ce jeune homme." She had, as it presently turned out, been asking me which of the younger French novelists was most highly thought of by English critics; so that her surprise at never having heard of the gifted young Sevre was natural enough.—From "And Even Now," by Max Beerbohm.

To Be A Complete Gentleman—

If fortune had been unkind to me in respect to my times—except that for the intellectual epicure the 1890's were enjoyable—in respect to places fortune has been most friendly, setting me down not in any one centre, where things supposed to be important or exciting were happening, but in various quiet places from which cross-vistas opened into the world. Of these places the most familiar to me, after Avila, was the Harvard Yard. I lived there for eleven years, first as an undergraduate, later as an instructor and proctor. No place, no rooms, no mode of living could have been more suitable for a poor student and a free student, such as I was and as I wished to be. My first room, on the ground floor in the northeast corner of Hollis, was one of the cheapest to be had in Cambridge: the rent was forty-four dollars a year. I had put it first for that reason on my list of rooms, and I got my first choice....I soon found the Library the best place to work in. It was not crowded; a particular alcove where there were philosophical books at hand, and foreign periodicals, soon became my regular place for reading. I could take my own books and note-books there if necessary; but for the most part I browsed; and although my memory is not specific, and I hardly know what I read, except that I never missed La Revue des Deux Mondes, I don't think my time was wasted. A great deal stuck to me, without my knowing its source, and my mind became accustomed to large horizons and to cultivated judgments....

Doing my "chores" was something I rather liked, as I still brush and pack my own clothes for pleasure, and shave myself, and walk everywhere rather than drive, circumstances permitting....I have never had a man servant and later when I lived in hotels I seldom called on the servants for any personal service not in their common routine. This trait is a heritage from the humble condition of my father's family and my mother's reduced circumstances during my boyhood. I had not an aristocratic breeding; not only was I not served, but I was taught no aristocratic accomplishments, not even riding or driving or shooting or dancing. What is a gentleman? A gentleman is a man with a valet: originally he also had a sword, but in my time that was obsolete except for officers in full uniform; a bank account could takes its place. But having many servants, though it makes a man a master, does not make him a gentleman. He is not one because his wife may keep servant girls in the house; he is one only if he has a body servant of his own. This defines the Spanish gentleman as well as the English gentleman, yet differently. The relation in Spain is or was more confidential, more general, more moral: the man served his master in all his affairs. In England, 't is more a matter of laying out all his master's things. However, I confess that the mere fop is not a complete gentleman, however dependent he may be on his valet. To be a complete gentleman he should also have a horse, and should ride it gallantly. Don Quixote, too, had a horse, as well as a servant.—From "Persons and Places," by George Santayana.

The Cook

The one person in the world, it seems, who can't escape the relentless eye of Duty is the cook. All nature consipres against cooks. They are hopelessly pitted against ravenous, elementary forces as insistent as gravity, as perfidious as fortune, as unfeeling as destiny. From New Zealand come a dramatic instance. A small force was besieged by the Japanese. All the officers were wounded and the cook took command. He held the Japs off all night, killed a number, and did a good job all round. But when dawn came and the fighting ended, the cook began to look troubled. "What's the matter?" his buddy asked. "I've got to get out of here. I should be getting breakfast ready now." This is beautiful in its simplicity. From time immemorial The Cook has had to drop everything else and at the appointed time rush off to his pots and pans.—Providence Journal.

Fame

The test of greatness is the length of time a man is revered and remembered after he disappears from the headlines.—Calgary Albertan.

For Simpler Tax Form

The taxpayers could be divided into rough classifications according to income and dependents, and a key percentage could be assigned to each class, all the exceptions being ignored. The plan would be an approximation. It might let some taxpayers escape with a trifle less than they would pay under a more precise system and, possibly, some might have to pay a trifle more. But it would reduce the cost of collection, it would save the taxpayers infinite worry and the need of paying for expert assistance.

In any case, the attempt to achieve absolute precision is futile. After the best the complicated plan can do, there are still anomalies and injustices.—Vancouver Province.

The Dutch Prepare

The Netherlands Information Bureau states that the bookshops in Amsterdam have been stocked with German-language books by the Nazi. Yet these books gather dust on the shelves, while the people try to buy any English books that may be available. As an Amsterdam bookseller put it: "They can read and hear enough German but I believe they want to read English because they both speak and feel English."—Montreal Gazette.

A Bible Message

Praise the Lord with harp: sing unto him with psaltery and an instrument of ten string.... For the word of the Lord is right; and all his works are done in truth. He loveth righteousness and judgment: the earth is full of the goodness of the Lord....

Secretary of State William H. Seward, attending a Washington gathering, had commented freely upon various subjects. But when the discussion turned to troop movements that had recently occurred, he immediately became silent.

Several of the group voiced speculations and then one of the young women present turned to the statesman.

"Governor Seward," she beamed, "what do you think? Where are the troops going?"

The Secretary smiled.

"Madam," he replied, "if I did not know I would tell you."

Case For The Landlord

As the result of present conditions it has been necessary, they say, to adopt different measures affecting proprietors (of houses). Let us admit that, but does it change the deplorable situation which has been created for this class of citizen? For years—those of the depression—the proprietor who had houses rented had to be content with the pittance he received when anyone would give it to him. In any case, the "revenue" did not suffice to defray real estate taxes and the costs of maintenance. With the coming of war he had a chance to make up his losses a little, but the "ceiling" was placed on rents with the result that, taking everything into consideration, he received scarcely any more than in the days of unemployment. It must not be forgotten that taxes and costs of upkeep are today much higher than they were formerly. Worse than that—speaking generally — the proprietor has no longer the right to do what he wants to with his house. It will be said once again that the general interest must be considered before that of the individual, and that is true. But, also once again, that does not at all alter the brutal fact.—Montreal L'Information.

Toast

In Scandinavia, the drinking of toasts is a ritual often accompanied by speech-making. At the fiftieth wedding anniversary of the Norwegian dramatist Bjornson, the whole family were gathered around the table to hear what loving eloquence he would bestow on his wife. To everyone's consternation, the old rascal arose and declared that 50 years was quite long enough to live with anyone, and, although he had no complaints, he had decided to get a divorce and start life over again. Horrified, one of his sons took him aside and told him that he must not dream of such a thing. The old man readily conceded the point and trotted back to his seat. Meanwhile, Fru Bjornson, who was stone deaf, had sat nodding and smiling throughout.—Robert Hilyer, in Harper's.

British Tommy To Get Civilian Clothes

BY WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 4 — (CP) — The government put on what probably was the British soldier's first fashion parade to demonstrate its plan to send every service man back to civvy street looking like a million dollars.

The fashion show was held in the London Olympia. Representatives of the Supply Ministry, the Army Command and the House of Commons were there.

A group of the tommies, who will benefit by the plan when they are demobilized, were there too as mannequins.

The civilian togs with which they were fitted were definitely not utility. The question whether the clothes should be that of standard type had been [illegible]ed before and settled by an uproar.

Evelyn Walkenden from Doncaster who was among the members of parliament present described the show as the first evidence of "real post-war planning" the country had seen.

Complete Outfit

Every man in uniform—and the plan likely will be extended to service women—will get a hat, a suit, a shirt with two matching collars, a tie, two pairs of socks, a pair of shoes and a raincoat.

The clothes will be free and will be supplied to officers as well as other ranks. However, it won't be possible to get money instead.

The model shop in the Olympia operated along the lines of proposed outfitting depots which will be set up in the Army Commands to take care of distribution of the demobilization clothes.

The demobilized soldier will walk in, be measured by a competent tailor, then choose his clothes. He will have the choice of seven or eight suit styles in more than 100 patterns. There will be 100 shirt designs and 50 different kinds of neckties. Every outfitting depot will have 40 sizes in each suit and it's estimated 95 per cent of the servicemen will be able to get nearly-perfect fits.

Miss Scott, in addressing the girls, gave an outline of what is required for the Achievement Day to be held at Stirling in the near future, and also spoke to their leaders, Mesdames D. Sanderson, F. Pretty Princess Elizabeth Will Be 18 On April 21

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, April 4 — (CP) — On April 21 Princess Elizabeth will be 18.

The British press thank it's a big story. Since the New Year, in leading articles they've conjectured on what her new title, if any, will be. They've conjectured on whom she may marry and when the engagement will be announced.

The only way to find out these things is to walk up to the front door of Buckingham Palace and ask. It's almost as easy as that.

Sir Eric Mieville, who spent four years in Canada as secrteary to Viscount Willingdon, is the go-between for Royalty and the press. He's one of the easiest people in London to make an appointment with and one of the easiest to talk to.

He says there's no particular story about Princess Elizabeth reaching her 18th birthday — "no more than if you, or I, or anyone was 18."

"Really, she doesn't come of age at all legally until she's 21, like every one else," he added. "The only difference in her status will be that after April 21, if she were called upon to ascend the throne, she would do so as a Queen, without any necessity for a Regent. And if the King should go abroad for any reason, the Princess, after April 21, will be able to take her place as a member of the Council of State."

No Big Celebration.

There will be no large scale celebration.

"Maybe the Royal Family will have a small family party somewhere in the country," said Sir Eric. "Even if there wasn't a war, there would be no more celebration than perhaps a ball here in the palace." The big celebration will come when she's 21."

The King himself decided his Royal daughter will have no ponderous title on her fair head. In spite of the pleadings of Wales she will not become the Princess of Wales. Nor will the possibility of having an establishment of her own be considered at least till the war is over.

As for a fiancee, Sir Eric branded as "ridiculous rumors," any tales of a coming betrothal.

"I think some enterprising journalist went through the peerage and found there was one Duke and one son of a Duke eligible as a husband for the Princess," he said. "So he jumped at conclusions and put them down as such.

"The whole thing has made it very difficult for the Princess. She is as prone to embarrassment as any girl of her age. Of course she will marry someday we all hope. But we also hope nothing definite has been arranged as yet."

While Sir Eric talked, the Princess was having an introduction to the job Royalty does. She was off somewhere, making a public appearance with the King and Queen.

Someday she'll make a bigger trip, he went on, to Canada and all the other Dominion.

"At least we hope she will—but that can't be planned until the war is over," he added.

Princess Elizabeth is tall, nearly 5½ feet in her stockings, slim, but sturdily built like any English girl who puts a lot of time into swimming and riding.. Those who know her say her greatest charm, which fails to show in photographs, is her vivid glow of health.

Those who know the family say she is very like her mother in appearance but her consciousness of responsibility to duty has tinges of both Queen Mary and Queen Victoria.

Fireman Dies

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP) — Captain Mitchell, 69, of the Toronto Fire Department collapsed on the floor of the living room of a burning house today and died before medical aid could be summoned. Social Crediters To Choose National Chief

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP) — Social Crediters said Monday that while he lived Premier William Aberhart of Alberta was accepted throughout Canada as the leader of the movement, but now they must choose a national chief.

At the National Social Credit convention being held here April 4, 5, and 6, a political Social Credit Organization prepared to contest federal constituencies in the next election will be organized and a national leader appointed.

In Alberta, the mantle of leadership has fallen on Premier E. C. Manning, who served at Mr. Aberhart's right-hand man.

But Social Credit adherents said Mr. Manning has indicated he is not interested in national leadership. Although he, along with Alberta Cabinet ministers and Legislature members, will attend the Toronto convention he is not expected to be a candidate for the new office.

Candidates will receive their nominations at the convention.

Persons associated with the Social Credit movement said the following are possible candidates:—

Some Prospects

1. John H. Blackmore, member of parliament for Lethbridge, Alta., and leader of the New Democracy Group of 10 members in the Commons.
2. Rev. E. G. Hansell (ND—MacLeod), who is chairman of the committee in charge of organizing the convention.
3. Victor Quelch (ND—Acadia), a Social Credit money reform exponent, who has taken a leading part in House debates.

It was expected the main work of national organization will be left to the Federal New Democracy—Social Credit members.

The convention expected to be attended by about 150 persons from across Canada, will have three main purposes, organizers said.

They are:—

1. To draft a National Social Credit platform.
2. Elect a national political leader.
3. Establish "an efficient National Organization to the end that the people of Canada may have the opportunity of electing Social Credit candidates in all federal ridings where there is evident desire for democratic monetary reform."

We Can Do Better

In the past, wars have brought with them a high cost of living, ending with inflation.

This sapped the strength of nations and added poverty and injustice to the other tragedies of war.

Later it has led to falling prices and unemployment.

In this war, we Canadians are determined to head off this danger.

We have done much to avoid a repetition of the disastrous price rises of previous wars.

We have paid higher taxes. We have bought Victory Bonds. We have severely limited profits.

We have put a ceiling on prices. And to make it possible to hold the ceiling, wages and salaries have been controlled.

In one way or another most increased costs have been absorbed and very few passed on to the consumer.

Holding the ceiling has been a struggle. But the results have been worth while. From 1914 to 1919 prices rose 60%. From 1939 to 1944 the rise has been only 18%.

This effort of the Canadian people has been successful enough to be noted in other countries.

But we must continue to hold the line. We need not let history repeat itself. We can do better.

We can all help—

By cutting down unnecessary spending, and buying Victory Bonds instead.

By not hoarding or buying in black markets.

By not taking advantage of the war situation to press claims for higher prices, higher wages; higher rents or higher profits.

(This advertisement is one of a series being issued by the Government of Canada to emphasize the importance of preventing a further increase in the cost of living now and deflation later)

Bucky Walters Ready For Record Season

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, April 4 — (AP)— Bucky Walters, who helped pitch Cincinnati Reds to a National League pennant in 1939 and 1940, but cost them a possible chance for the 1943 flag through a bit of tom-foolery, is ready for a big 1944 season.

The ex-Phils third sacker turned twirler turned his ankle in spring traning a year ago. He wasn't right until midseason when he spurted to finish the season with 15 wins against 15 losses.

Bucky took his first turn on the mound for 15 minutes during batting practice yesterday. Manager Bill McKechnie said: "He's ready right now," after watching batters pop up, foul off or entirely miss Bucky's offerings. Said Bucky: "My arm feels great."

Meanwhile the Reds learned Joe Begg's, the club's good relief hurler, had received a commission in the United States Navy as a lieutenant and would enter the service formally April 13.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Holdout Vince DiMaggio reported at camp but declined to sign contract. Pitcher Bob Klinger said he would be inducted into navy Monday. Catcher Al Lopez, 38 on Aug. 20, notified club he had been reclassified 1-A.

St. Louis Cardinals—Big Mort Cooper hurled a 2-0 victory against Max Lanier in a seven-inning intra-camp struggle.

Washington Senators — Johnny Sullivan may be pushed up two notches to sixth place in batting order. Manager Ossie Bluege said Sullivan's RBI record of 54 runs for a .208 hitter was "amazing."

5-Pin League Holds Banquet

The Y.M.C.A. Senior Five Pin League wound up one of the most successful seasons in its record with an enjoyable banquet Monday night.

A feature was the presentation by President Gray Copping of prizes to Charles Orr of Canada Packers for high average, 212, to Howard Kirn of Quakers for high three with 885, and to Walter Edkins, of Peterborough Automotive for high single with 360.

Team prizes were won by Aberdeens first, Canada Packers second, Commercials third and Artists fourth. Seven teams were closely bunched.

Over 40 bowlers attended the banquet. Officers elected for next season were Gray Copping, president; Percy Johnston, secretary, and H. H. Graham, treasurer.

A Tough Test

WASHINGTON — (AP).— Anvil Aaron Perry, the sensational 18-year-old Washington boxing prospect with a lethal punch in either hand, takes the toughest test of his young career to-night in a bout with Sammy Angott, former National Boxing Association lightweight champion and a veteran ring campaigner. The boys will come out as welterweights. Angott, who lost to Zurita last month, claims he was weakened by reducing his poundage to the lightweight standard.

Bopped On Head

KITCHENER, April 4 (CP). —Fred Chapman's misfortunes Saturday didn't arise from April fool pranksters, but from an inanimate object—a street lamp-post. He crashed into the post when his car skidded and received an additional jolt a moment later when the lamp fell, striking him on the head. He suffered severe cuts.

Chaplin Case Goes To Jury

LOS ANGELES, April 4 — (AP) — The Charlie Chaplin Mann Act trial, a long series of legal battles and bitterly disrupted testimony, entered its final phases today with only the court's instructions remained to be read before the jury retires to deliberate on the film comedian-producer's innocence or guilt.

Judge J. F. T. O'Connor set aside the first hour of today's session for the reading of a 5,500-word list of instructions to the jury. The trial started 15 days ago.

Throughout yesterday Jerry Giesler, defence counsel, and Charles H. Carr, government prosecutor, rehashed the testimony and gave the jury their respective interpretations of it.

Giesler "spent his time trying Joan Berry," Carr shouted in his closing argument.

"There is no more evidence of Mann Act violation that there is of murder," Giesler had declared a little earlier.

Giesler asserted that Joan, by her own testimony, had indicated herself for "night time burglary, assault with a deadly weapon and possibly attempted kidnapping for which there are lots of poor devils serving time in San Quentin right now."

And Carr retorted that whatever mistakes the 24-year old Miss Berry may have made, Chaplin still is on trial for allegedly transporting her to New York and back for immoral purposes and that is the only issue with which the jury is concerned.

Rose Expert Speaks To Horticulture

New members of the Horticultural Society and others who are thinking of joining are promised a floral feature for Wednesday, April 12, in an address by A. J. Webster, Toronto, on the culture of roses. He is one of three judges chosen by the Ontario Rose Society in making their gold medal awards for outstanding roses grown in the trial gardens at Guelph.

Mr. Webster is the present editor of "The Realm of the Rose," appearing in Canadian Horticulture and Home Magazine. This meeting will be held in the offices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture at 164 Hunter Street.

Door prizes will be the new floribunda rose "Smiles." W. C. Wilks, secretary of the society, says the Webster address is seasonable "because April is the rose planting month, and Mr. Webster is well qualified to answer questions."

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Plenty of wrestling armor will roll into the Brock Street Arena tonight when Promoter Frank Tunney sends six of his tanks into the ring as battlers and a seventh, carrying as big guns as any of them into action as official referee. Probably the appearance of Ed Strangler Lewis as the third man inside the ropes for the feud between Ohio's pride Frank Sexton and the untamed son of Texas Krippler Karl Davis will be hailed as the feature of the night. For years Lewis was king of the wrestling world. He held the championship on five different occasions and either as a title-holder or as a contender was always a box office attraction of the first magnitude. He had that invaluable quality, color, and still has it. Furthermore he hasn't forgotten any of his wrestling lore and the march of time hasn't robbed him of much of his power either. He is still a formidable opponent on the mat and if Mister Davis thinks otherwise and starts fooling around with the big fellow we have an idea that when the Texan comes to he will be wondering how he managed to get tangled up with a truck. The Sexton-Davis brawl is likely to be a memorable argument. Davis in his last appearance here was tougher than ever but Sexton met him at his own game and there were plenty of fireworks. There should be more tonight, with Lewis in there bossing the job.

* * * * * *

As for the supporting bouts they are on a par with the main attraction. The Pueblo Greek Tom Zaharias who knows all the skulduggery his wrestling brothers made famous and has added a few stunts of his own is matched with Wilbur Tear Morgan in the semi-final and with the popular former marine hooking up with the garrulous Greek there should be plenty of action. No one ever knows what Zaharias will try to pull off but he generally has a novelty each time out. He will need one, too against Morgan, who has put on a lot of weight and is tossing it around in flying tackles that are likely to shake up the whole Zaharias connection if they land properly. Morgan knocked the clever Frank Judson right out of the picture by taking to the air last week and the fans will be pulling for him to land one of those devastating tackles in the Grecian pantry tonight. And back to receive the jeers of local fans comes Al Bunny Dunlop who hooks up with Jack Wentworth in the opener. The Toronto strongman has been wrestling down in St. Louis territory for the past month and will probably introduce a few new wrinkles in seeking the downfall of the speedy Wentworth.

* * * * * *

We Like Canadiens

The first game in the Stanley Cup finals will be staged tonight in Montreal with the second and third in Chicago and the teams then returning to the Canadian metropolis for the balance of the series. There is a lot of Chicago sentiment around. The clean-cut way in which the Black Hawks disposed of the Detroit Red Wings in the semi-final series has won plenty of support for the Chicago club. And yet this column feels inclined to string along with the Canadiens to win not only tonight's game but to take the final series. We are willing to admit that the Smith-Bentley-Mosienko line is better than any of the Canadien combinations and that Seibert is a more powerful and experienced rear-guard than anybody the Flying Frenchmen have behind the blue line. But that exhausts the Chicago advantages. Against them is the fact that the Canadiens are a better balanced club with plenty of speed and power no matter what lineup they have in action. And they have the edge in another respect that they have only been beaten once in 28 starts on their home ice this season and that all but two of the final battles are to be played in Montreal. Les Canadiens sont la—in our book.

* * * * * *

One thing is certain and that is that in spite of the fact that hockey as a whole this season has been below average there is plenty of interest in the final round. Tickets for the games in Montreal are simply not to be had. Jack Koffman of the Ottawa Citizen finds it necessary in view of the demand in Ottawa for paste-boards to insert the following in his sport column: "We hope Tommy Gorman gets a squint at this. He may decide to rush us a secretary or a handy-man, compliments of the Canadian Arena Company. Canadiens, daily adding pages to the record-books in their drive to pro hockey heights, have caught on even with fellows who tell you all winter they can take their hockey or leave it. Everyone wants to know when and where Canadiens play next, how many home games they will have in the Stanley Cup finals, and what is the best method of lining up a couple of ducats for the Montreal fixtures. Possibly we should have disposed of the matter last week, the minute the Habitants started to roll in the semi-finals. At any rate, better late than never. This observer has no inside track in the matter of the precious paste-boards. This goes for the boys willing to pay the full tariff as well as for those who habitually go on a hunt for Annie Oakleys at playoff time."

* * * * * *

Another Hockey Mystery

George Campbell of the Oshawa Times Gazette uncovers another hockey mystery in his reference in the following paragraph to McMurdy, formerly of St. Kitts who was wanted by the Montreal Royals for the eastern final junior series: "We know very little about Montreal Royals. Down thattaway they are touting their 1944 edition as one of the best junior teams they have ever had, but that may be so much ballyhoo, of course. Incidentally, Kazarian, the Galt defenseman, will be with the Royals when they play Oshawa but McMurdy, the St. Catharines' defense stalwart, will not be playing for Montreal Royals. The C.H.A. has ruled him ineligible. Why? Well, it seems that Boston Bruins wanted to use the St. Catharines' star but the Selective Service ruled that McMurdy was on essential war work in St. Kitts and couldn't be released. One week after St. Kitts were ousted, McMurdy was on the train to Montreal but apparently the N.H.L. men, or perhaps Art Ross of the Bruins, queried a pertinent "How come?" to the C.H.A. and now that "essential job" business has proven a boomerang. Down in Montreal, their hockey fans are still in such a dither over the tons of action they saw last Thursday night that it will take them at least a week to recover sufficiently to take interest in their Junior hockey team's bid for Dominion honors."

* * * * * *

If the four Navy players who couldn't make the trip to Toronto last night are better than the outfit Montreal Royals had out there the Oshawa Generals are doubtless glad the boys in blue found it impossible to attend. Even without the sailors the Montrealers gave the Ontario champs a real battle and while the Generals won by what looks on paper like the comfortable margin of 6 to 3 all reports agree that the game was much closer than that. The Royals were twice in the lead and near the end of the second period they were in front 2 to 1. Two quick Oshawa goals at that stage cost them their margin and in the final period the Generals widened their lead, mainly because they cashed in on their scoring chances while the Royals had little luck in front of the nets. On their scoring opportunities the Montrealers might quite easily have pulled the game out of the fire. Bennett in the nets was one of the outstanding Oshawa stars.

A row of prize rookies, all 4F's, can be planted in the outer defence in addition to such veterans as Bill Nicholson, the Bruins' right fielder who led the league with 128 runs batted in last year; Dom Dallesandro, another 4F, and 35-year-old Ival Goodman, who was picked up from the Cincinnati Reds last season Nicholson, as well as Lou Novikoff, the Mad Russian who got in only 78 games for the Cubs in 1943, are signed but have not yet reported to spring camp.

The rookie row includes:

1. Ed Suauer of Nashville, Southern Association's most valuable player, batting champion with .368 leader in runs scored, total bases, doubles and stolen bases, and recorder of 100 runs batted in.
2. Andy Pafko of Los Angeles, Pacific Coast League's most valuable player, batting champion with .356, RBI champion with 116, and leader in hits and total bases.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP). — Planners for post-war rehabilitation of athletes in the services might well take a leaf out of North Bay's book. Sportsmen in the Northern Ontario city have beaten the field and are putting a practical and sympathetic plan into operation now.

A Sportsmen's Patriotic Association has been formed with the purpose of honoring athletes invalided home from overseas. The men will be made life members of the branch or branches of sport they excelled in before injuries ended their playing days, and will be encouraged to maintain interest in athletics and help the youngsters develop. All sports are to be represented and every man given a chance to feel he is wanted.

The number will be small at first but by the time the war ends the association will have a smooth organization that will be able to do a lot of good.

Tourist specials:

Hal (Edmonton Bulletin) Dean thinks Gerry Couture and Lou Hauck of Regina should get honors of some kind among the hockey travelling fraternity. Hauck this season was with Moose Jaw Canucks in the Southern Saskatchewan junior loop, and with Regina Commandos Juniors. Couture played with Saskatoon Navy, University of Saskatchewan, and the Flin Flon Bombers.

The next thing needed in hockeydom is a Cook Tours Bureau.

Success story:

Maurice Smith, new sport editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, has come up the hard way. "Smitty," as he belines his column, started as paper carrier boy when 10 years old, and joined the sport staff in 1928. He succeeded Eddie Armstrong, former sport editor, who now is news editor of the paper.

Here and there:

The Ontario Amateur Softball Association since war started has helped raise about $100,000 for different charities and war funds, Secretary Frank Feaver says in his annual report. Besides that softballers have raised money to buy bats, balls and other equipment for the armed services and cigarettes for overseas. That's making sports play a double role in the morale campaign....Danny Holden of Vancouver had a trial at the Brooklyn Dodgers training school, and has a good chance of catching on with San Diego in the Pacific Coast League....Referee Jim Arnott, native of Medicine Hat, Alta., is a real philosopher. The former Winnipeg junior, New York Ranger, London, Windsor, and Vancouver pro player, thinks it's a great racket. Even if one team is mad at him, he says, the other usually thinks he's doing all right by them.

Oshawa Juniors Defeat Montreal Royals

TORONTO, April 4—(CP)—The high-powered Oshawa Generals today held a one-game lead in their best-of-five Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final with Montreal Royals, but they had to fight their way from behind to subdue the fast-skating, hard-checking Montreal team.

Jack Taggart and Dave Bauer—the latter a military replacement from Toronto St. Michael's College team which was eliminated by Generals in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A final—led Oshawa to a 6-3 triumph in the opening game of the series last night with two goal and one assist apiece.

The plucky Montreal club held the upper hand until late in the second period when its defensive system cracked before the clever pattern passing and individual hockey skill of the polished Generals.

Jean Paul Dennis put the Royals in front in the first period on an assist by Jerry Plamondon. Royals fought off all Oshawa efforts to tally until late in the period when Bill Ezinicki was dumped as he slipped in alone on Yves Nadon in the Montreal goal. The officials awarded a penalty shot which Ezinicki made good in effective fashion, taking Nadon out of position with a series of fakes and shifts before flicking the puck high into the net.

Bill Todd gave Royals the lead again in the second period and only brilliant play by Harvey Bennett in the Oshawa goal kept Montreal from rolling up a bigger score before Bauer tied is up on Taggart's assist late in the period. Bob Love put the Generals in front for keeps 43 seconds later in a play with Ezinicki.

Taggart tallied two goals in succession in the final period, one on Bauer's assist and the other on a brilliant solo dash. Baer got an unassisted counter before Yvan Hamel wound up the scoring when he batted in a goalmouth pass from Jostbelanger.

The game—played before a paid attendance of 5,113—was wide open most of the way with both goaltenders standing out.

Thirteen penalties were imposed, one of them a major to Ezinicki for a brawl with Todd in the closing stages of the game. There were two penalty shots, one being awarded to Jack Morrow of Montreal as well as the one to Ezinicki. But Morrow's went wide of the net.

Port Arthur Srs. Wallop Fast Lodestars

PORT ARTHUR, April 4 —(CP)— Coach Hugh O'Leary of Port Arthur Shipbuilders had faith in calisthenics and the belief paid dividends last night when his charges swarmed over New Westminster Lodestars for a 6-1 victory in the second game of the best-of-seven Western Canada senior hockey finals. The first was a 5-5 overtime tie.

The Thunder Bay champions, virtually without competition since winning the Lakehead League title Feb. 19, had worked extensively on starting and stopping exercises, in racing, and shooting.

Last night they peppered Goalkeeper Andy Young from all sides, outskated and out-checked the British Columbia champions, and let the big line of Norm Larson, Stan Robertson and Maikko Koivisto make the scoring points.

Goalkeeper Jim Hill, blocking close-in drives of Lodestars in early stages, lost a shutout when Defenceman Scoop Bentley's long shot glanced off a player into the net to tie the count 1-1 in the first period.

Koivisto put Shipbuilders ahead in the second session and got another goal in the last minute of play.

Ability of the Thunder Bay champions to capitalize on breaks was shown when Larson, formerly of Brooklyn Americans in the National League, opened scoring while Walt McIntyre of New Westminster served an interference penalty. He added another goal and two assists in the last period.

Robertson came up with two quick goals, both while McIntyre served another interference sentence in the last four minutes of play.

Tough Series Likely In N.H.L.

MONTREAL, April 4—(CP)—Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks, two teams with plenty of confidence but each with a healthy respect for the prowess of the other, meet tonight in the first game of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup finals, amid forecasts of a tough series ahead.

The forecasts came largely from those who saw the Hawks in action last week when they pushed the second-place Detroit Red Wings out of the playoffs.

The Hawks haven't beaten Canadiens this year, they've tied two and lost eight to the Canucks, but they've been comnig closer to a win each time the two clubs hooked up.

The teams move on to Chicago after tonight's contest, for games there Thursday and Sunday.

Paul Thompson isn't making any announcements about who he'll have out at the forum tonight, but it is likely that Bill Mosienko will be back in action on the powerful Chicago first line. Mush March and Art Wiebe are also probable starters, after missing some of the Detroit series through injuries.

Dick Irvin isn't giving out any advance information as to his lineup either, but it's likely he'll use three defencemen and three full forward lines to match the Hawks' speed. He used four defencemen and broke up one of his forward lines as Canadiens eliminated Toronto Maple Leafs, and a switch in strategy seems in order against the open-play of the Hawks.

Farm Settlement Scheme Must Get Backing Of Successful Farmers

Any farm settlement scheme in post-war aimed at putting men on farms will not meet with success unless it has the guiding influence of practical, successful farmers to act in an advisory capacity in each county, Sam Staples, well-known Cavan township farmer told members of the Peterborough Lions Club on Monday night, when he spoke as a member of the club on the subject of post-war rehabilitation.

Introduced by P. D. Scollard, Mr. Staples who is president of the Canadian Clydesdale Club and president of the Canadian Horse Breeder's Association pointed out that the Soldier Land Settlement Scheme which followed World War I was not a success, nor was the Immigration scheme carried out at the same time, as successful as it might have been.

"After the last war, young men discharged from the army were given land in the Kapuskasing area, where they had to face all the problems of the Canadian pioneers, and while it was an honest attempt to re-establish these men, the odds were against them and not many stayed in that section and made a success of it. A few of course did do well.

Why should soldiers be sent to such districts when there are hundreds of farms in Southern Ontario that are begging for buyers, and for the most part lying idle.

The men who supervised this Land Settlement scheme had expert knowledge of farming, but they lacked the practical experience that is so essential in any such undertaking. These counsellors were not aware of the dollars and cents problems that face the man starting on a farm, and while their efforts were sincere and commendable, they did not go far enough."

As an alternative arrangement should the scheme be followed again, Mr. Staples suggested that Dominion and Provincial representatives comprise the boards, and with them, let every County Council name a man, who is a modern, practical farmer, to work on salary on these boards in every county, who would act as advisor to these soldiers or immigrants seeking to make a go of farming in the various counties of Ontario.

Victims of Speculators

"Following the last war, these men were given the land and told they needed certain implements, stock, etc. Immediately they were the victims of speculators in farm machinery, cattle and other essentials. They bought things they did not need, and the livestock they obtained was far from being the best. Conditions vary in every county, and the problems differ, that is why each county council should select a man who is keenly aware of the obstacles common to his own district," Mr. Staples said.

"Men must be encouraged to put in crops that are suited to the soil and the district, mixed farming will not always be the answer, and this is something that even many of our present day farmers have failed to realize. If we have a colonization scheme, many of the newcomers can grow vegetables, or fruit, specialize in dairy cattle, poultry or a dozen other equally important farm crops.

The government may legislate all they want to, but they can't live with these men, they may pay all the bonuses and grant subsidies, but this won't help these men in their fight to change over from year's of fighting to a peaceful existence in a peaceful land. The contrast is very great, and everyone of us as Canadians and citizens have a job to do. We must help these boys, we must make them feel they are one of us, take them into the farm forums, into the churches, into our social groups, and our clubs, in short make them feel they have done something that has made Canada proud of them, and that we who stayed at home are ever willing and anxious to do what we can in the great job of post-war rehabilitation."

YOU'RE RIGHT! IT'S EASTER—A coming-out party for these little chicks heralds the arrival of Easter. It also brings a smile to the face of Nancy Dissinger.

New Department To Assist In Change-over

TORONTO, April 4—(CP).—In an effort to end its session this week the Ontario Legislature is holding night sittings today and tomorrow. The Legislature yesterday opened at 1 p.m., two hours before the regular time, and meets again at 1 p.m. today. Whether the House will actually be able to prorogue or will merely adjourn for Easter however is still uncertain.

Considerable progress was made with legislation yesterday but chief interest centred on the discussion over the Government's proposal to establish a department of planning and development. Premier Drew said the department will have housing and town planning on its agenda and one of its chief functions will be the conversion of wartime plants to peacetime production.

The Premier declared: "One of the definite things to be referred to this new department is the earliest possible examination of the possibility of converting war plants to civil production. That is one of the most urgent things at the moment. We want new ideas. In that respect the department will welcome suggestions from every and any member of the House."

Members applauded when Premier Drew added that if the new department reaches definite conclusions as to steps to be taken which need the consent of the Legislature he would call a special session to put those plans into effect.

To Spend $100,000.

The discussion arose on an item in the estimates of $100,000 to establish the new department. Premier Drew told questioners that the Minister of the new branch would not be named until after the Legislature rises this week, but the Minister would be appointed, along with members of the technical planning board to be set up under the department, shortly after the session ends.

C. H. Millard (CCF—York West) asked if the new department would take into consideration such potential developments as oil deposits which were known to exist in the James Bay and Hudson Bay areas. Premier Drew said the department would explore the possibility of every new development to bring into use any potentially useful source of supply.

Another questioner, J. J. Kehoe (CCF—Cochrane South) said he lived in a "company town" which was "well run," but persons not connected with the company in question found it hard to acquire property. He asked if the new department would consider such situations and Premier Drew replied it would examine such a situation on request.

Canada Lags

The leader of the C.C.F. opposition, E. B. Jolliffe, declared that Britain, the United States and New Zealand all had made much more progress in post-war planning than Canada had. He expressed the hope that members of the technical board would be men of wide knowledge and ability, for their task was an important one.

Mitchell Hepburn (Ind-L-Elgin) objected to the government's measure to amend the Milk Control Act, up for the second reading. The former Liberal premier declared the bill was an effort to extend to Ontario agriculture "the vicious check-off system under which John L. Lewis was able to build up his great slush funds in the United States."

This bill would permit milk producers' associations to deduct from payments to farmers a fee for being a member of the association. Mr. Hepburn declared the measure would make possible the imposition of "a levy of $125,000 a year on the farmers of Ontario for the benefit of a few individuals." The bill was held over pending a ruling from Speaker W. J. Stewart as to whether the measure should be a public or a private bill and whether it was within the power of the legislature to pass such an amendment.

The Legislature yesterday gave first reading to nine measures. One as the government's bill to establish a 48-hour work week with one week's holiday with pay in Ontario industry, excluding war industries which could be brought under its provisions by the Industry and Labor Board which is to administer the act.

Code of Ethics.

The new bills included a measure by F. W. Warren (C.C.F.-Hamilton Wenworth) to set up town planning and housing authorities in co-operation with the Department of Planning and Development.

A government measure to establish the Ontario Teachers' Federation would prescribe a code of ethics for Ontario teachers. This Federation would be charged with advancing the cause of education and raising the status of the teaching profession.

An amendment to the Statute Law Act provides for an Ontario Forest Resources Commission of five, under the Forestry Act. It will engage in research and investigation designed to conserve and develop Ontario's forests.

The Legislature gave third reading to a bill establishing county agricultural committees, and to amendments to the Public Health Act which gives municipalities the right to establish municipal health units.

Reported from committee was the Government's bill under which the Federal labor code will be applied to all industry in Ontario, and among measures given second reading were amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act bringing in a number of new occupations, and a measure to set up a Chiropodists' Board to regulate the practice of chiropody in Ontario.

LAND CAMPS

More than 200 agricultural camps are to be set up in Britain this summer for people willing to help farmers during their vacations.

Build Dam On River To Recover Boy's Body

BEAMSVILLE, Ont., April 4 (CP)—The body of Melvin Lymburner, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Lymburner, was recovered from the Chippawa River, near Warner, Saturday after Provincial Police, Lincoln County employees and farmers of the district had searched five days.

A construction company offered two bulldozers and these were put to use immediately and a dam constructed across the river. Three hours after completion of the dam, the body was found.

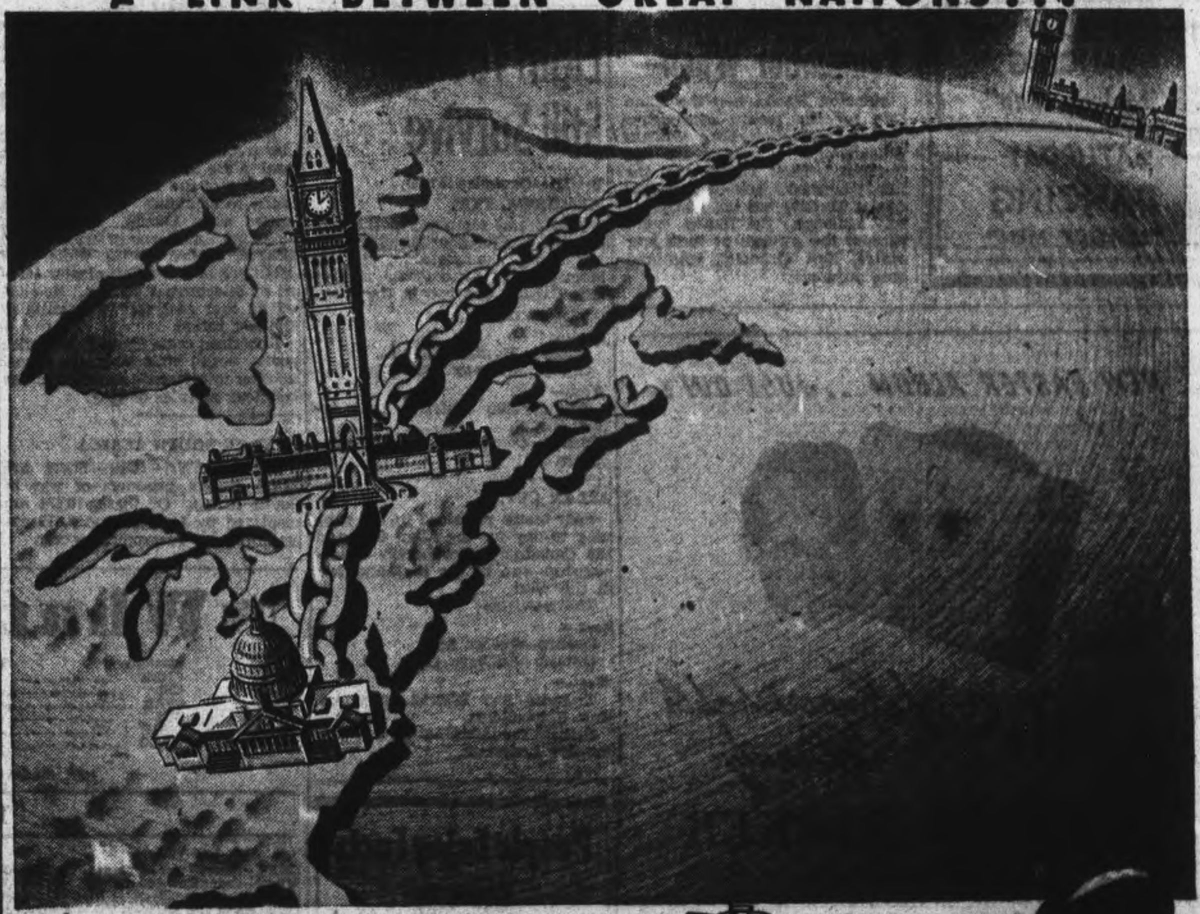
A LINK BETWEEN GREAT NATIONS...



EVERY single one of us wants a just and lasting peace.

But, one of the first essentials to a lasting peace is continued understanding and unity between the present great comrades-in-arms... Britain and the United States. Canada is the link between these two great nations... a member of the British Commonwealth and the long, inseparable friend of the U. S. A.

Yes, we, of Canada, know both these peoples... like them both so well that we are the link that joins... the bond of understanding. This is our natural birthright... let us serve it well.

In our hearts is the same concept of freedom!

It is only natural that Canadians, Americans and Englishmen share the same concept of freedom, for we also share one of the earliest defenders of the freedoms we are fighting for today. ◆ He was a Calvert, an enlightened English statesman and founder of colonies off Canada's shore and in Maryland. ◆ So, centuries ago, a Calvert forged a link which has strengthened throughout the years—joining together for the good of mankind the British Commonwealth of Nations and the United States of America. ◆ In statesmanship and wisdom, the Calvert family were far ahead of their age. ◆ In 1638 Calvert's son and successor, carrying on the democratic Calvert tradition, fined a man of his own faith five hundred lbs. of tobacco for "villifying and profaning another's religion." ◆ Thus a man's freedom to worship as he pleases was established in the New World by a Calvert.

OFFICE MOVED

The C.W.A.C. recruiting office, located during the past four months at 326½ George street, is being moved to the second floor of the Kresge Building. The space vacated is to be taken over by Jules Abraham and will be opened as a shoe store.

B'NAI BRITH

Peterborough B'nai Brith entertained three hundred airmen at the Initial Training School, Belleville, Saturday night, with a smart variety show by a cast of fifteen. The program was repeated Sunday night at the army training camp at Napanee. The Commanding Officer at Belleville thanked the artists for a delightful evening breaking the training routine.

AN OFFENSIVE "R"

That irritating mistake of inserting a third "r" in the word reforestration, a too frequently recurring orthographic solecism, should be corrected now that more attention is being given to the need of assisting nature to restore the woodlands of this country. The word is not "reforestration," and rather than thrust that offending third 'r' into the word, why not say simply "grow trees."

PAY A VISIT

Several dozen evening grosbeaks came down in the garden of Miss Ida Wesley at 539 George street Monday morning and for twenty minutes or so, perched on the boughs of a large catalpa tree, regaling themselves with a feast on last yar's pods. Still others of the olive-breasted species alighted on the climbers and fed from the rose hips. Apparently it was just a stop-over for lunch, for they were soon on their way again headed for their far northern home.

BLOOD DONORS

There were 73 persons making blood donations at the Clinic Monday morning, of whom 29 came from the C.G.E. and Genelco. Donors representing Canadian Sealrite, Nashua Paper, Quaker Oats, Westclox, Canada Packers, Raybestos and Dominion Woollens, were on hand as well as out-of-town donors from Campbellford, Hastings, Warsaw, Indian River, Keene and Birdsall. Three employees of the C.G.E., Donald Sly, L. Johnson and Edwin Dibbin, made their 8th donations Monday.

IT WORKS, TOO

Bill Mellis of Selective Service knows the answer to an old melodic question: "How are you going to get them back on the farm after they've seen Broadway?"

107 FIRE CALLS

A new monthly record in the number of fire alarms, 107 during March, was reported by Chief Gimblett. The previous peak was 104 in April 1941. Damage amounted to $3,900 of which $3,210 was on contents and $690 on buildings.

KITCHENER PROPOSAL

Loss of the service of seventy-five men who have been ordered back to the farm from a Kitchener packing plant prompted Mayor Meinzinger to suggest that their places should be filled by the release of low-category men from the armed forces. "They'll never be sent overseas, and their release would avoid a possible shortage of food and equipment."

ELECTED DIRECTORS

F. J. Morris, Dr. A. J. Madill and E. H. McKone of Peterborough were elected directors of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists Saturday. Tracy Lemay told the meeting southern Ontario would be a desert in one hundred years unless a reforestation system is immediately instituted.

INCREASE BIRTH RATE

Four ewes owned by Clarence Hancock of Smith township gave birth to a total of 13 lambs recently. They included three sets of triplets and one set of quadruplets. Two of the latter have died. The ewes were white, but two of the lambs were spotted, white and black, and one was black. Although the ewes had had triplets before this was the first time they had given birth to four.

POSTAL SERVICE

There will be no delivery by letter carrier or rural route courier on Good Friday, but the public lobby of the Post Office will be open from 6.30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and general delivery, registration, postage stamp, money order and savings bank wickets from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. The regular evening collection will be made from street letter boxes, special delivery services will be as usual and all mail posted at the main Post Office will be despatcher as usual.

Remove Building On Federal Lot

Removal of the building at 189-191 Charlotte Street occupied by Abraham Fine was authorized by the council last night, with approval of the Department of Public Works.

Mayor Hamilton informed the council that Mr. Fine was vacating this old store on the south side of Charlotte street, near the creek, and that the Department had agreed not to re-lease any of those stores on the property bought by the federal government for the site of a postal-customs building.

"I wrote the Department that we would remove this building if they were agreeable," Mayor Hamilton said.

A motion by Alderman Cotton and Dutton endorsed Mayor Hamilton's action, and it was understood that the work would be done by the Board of Works.

There was some suggestion that the clearance of that part of the government-owned land would provide an entrance or exit from the parking area, but the effect on Charlotte street traffic was mentioned, and Alderman Bradburn said "Let us have a look at it when the work is completed."

One Dollar A Year

A bylaw permiting Canadian Ventilating Shade Company to erect an overhead walk between two sections of the William Hamilton Company building on Reid street was passed. The walk extends over a narrow street leading westerly through the factory property. The term of this premission was left indefinitely at "the pleasure of the council" and the nominal charge of one dollar a year was fixed.

War—4 Years Ago

(By The Canadian Press)

APRIL 4, 1940—Brig.-Gen. Victor W. Odlum of Vancouver was appointed to command the 2nd Canadian Division. Prime Minister Chamberlain said he was "10 times as confident" of winning the war as he was when the conflict started.

200 Farm Workers Remain In Peterboro

About 200 agricultural workers, the majority of them employed in the allied food industries, remain at their temporary off-season jobs in Peterborough and the area of the local National Selective Service office as this week begins. Working on a day-to-day basis, they are filling out the time until the weather improves and allows of the resumption of farm operations.

Originally the schedule called for all farm workers to be back at their primary occupations by the first of April, but wet spells and a deficiency of sun that have left the land in a conditions so far unfit for cultivation, resulted in the abrogation of the March 31st deadline. Now, those who have kept at their industrial employment may continue to work at their present jobs, subject to a 48-hour notice which lies in the discretion of the Selective Service manager. Thus the seven-day notice of separation, is in this one instance done away with.

Of the total to whom permits were issued when the industrial undertaking began, 133 went back to the farms of their own accord before the end of March arrived. Quite the largest number of those who remain are working at the Quaker Oats and Canada Packers, while a good percentage are to be found at the other three plants that go to round out the group of five comprising the allied food industries—United Farms (the Co-Op), the Dewart Milling Co. and the De Laval.

SERVES IN CANADA—Ordinary Seaman Kenneth Blodgett, R.C.N.V.R., is still stationed in Canada. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Justice Blodgett, 380 London Street, and was a former employee of the De Laval. OS. Blodgett enlisted in June, 1942, and had been educated at St. Peter's School.

The Range Pals Make $53 For War Victims

Every human being loves friendship with kindred folk, and without it life for many would be a dreary thing indeed. The word "Pal" can have great depth of meaning, for comradeship in this sence has spurred many on to deeds of heroism in order to save others for whom they hold a high regards in this respect.

Centred around the Rifle Range on Route 7 Peterborough, a group of young people have for some time been associated with a club operating under the name of "The Range Pals", and being of a type who really wanted to do something constructive they have made this their opportunity to engage in various works, which of recent years has turned towards giving assistance in various ways to the war effort.

In this manner they have done a splendid work to help the people of Britain who have been stricken as the result of enemy air raids through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, and in so doing are fully earning the title of a Pal, which in effect they have really become to the many in that land who have thus benefitted from their labor of love to help others in distress.

They Raise Another $53.10

Following a number of very worth-while efforts which have given substantial assistance to the fund, this group now led by Miss Margaret Bell as president, and Miss Betty Sayer as secretary have just concluded another effort which has realized a further $53.10 as proceeds of a draw for a cut work table cloth and set of table napkins donated by Mrs. William Bell, and worked by the girls of the club.

For some time previous to this it had been on display in the city and the draw was made last Friday evening at their regular meeting held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sayer of Otonabee, by Miss Audrey Timlin, teacher of the Rifle Range School, who drew ticket No. 276 to give the prize to Miss Kay Armstrong of 283 Reid street. This makes the second time this year that this group has demonstrated their sympathy in a practical manner for those in distress.

Gift At Passover Season

History records the great deliverance of the Hebrew race from the Egyptian bondage, and such was the immensity of the circumstances particularly for them, that down through the long ages which have followed this tremendous event in their history, it has always been observed by them as a feast to recall the great works that Jehovah had done on their behalf.

Today as then, thousands of their race are in as bad or even a more hateful bondage, while others living in this part of the world enjoy a freedom that surely must evoke a feeling of thankfulness. Added to this should be the thought that thousands upon thousands of the flower of the manhood of many nations are offering life itself to free all peoples which includes those of their own race from this self same bondage.

This to some extent was made possible by the heroic stand made by the people of the British Isles, against a terrific onslaught from the air, so it would seem quite in keeping with the spirit of the feast of the Passover, that a personal gift should come from Mrs. B. Chesler at this time to give them a helping hand, which could also serve as an inspiration to others of the same race.

William E. Foley Resigns As Head Of Prices Board

William E. Foley, head of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Peterborough since its inauguration 25 months ago, has tendered his resignation to the board. Mr. Foley's district took in from Haliburton to Trenton, and in the organization period it fell upon him to put the administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Regulations in operation. His duties have been heavy and long hours have been spent in organizing and in looking after the responsibilities of the office.

Starting with himself the only member of the staff, Mr. Foley has seen the office grow until today there is a staff of 25 which includes the rationing section. Early in rationing Mr. Foley also had this responsibility, but of late this section has been under another office.

In accepting his resignation the board has expressed its regret at losing his services and congratulates him for the efficient and business-like administration of the office in this area.

WILLIAM E. FOLEY

No successor has as yet been appointed, but H. C. Lowery of Toronto, who has been acting during Mr. Foley's recent illness, will continue to carry on until a successor is named.

Garbage Collection For Suburban Area

Appreciation of the services of Archie Menzies as controller of police services of A.R.P. (Aid Raid Precautions) was expressed in the report of the finance committee of the council which was adopted last night with the acceptance of his resignation from that wartime emergency position.

A kindred clause in the fire and light committee report was: "We recommend that the Peterborough Auxiliary Fire Services be informed that the Council appreciates the services which this organization has given in the past and the time that they have given to training themselves to be of service, but that after due study it appears this organization's services will not be required under present conditions."

Suburban residents applying for collection of garbage are to be charged at the rate of two mills on an assessment to be made by City Assessor W. J. Henry, and that the minimum charge on any dwelling to be $6 a year. This recommendation of the property committee was adopted, and the insurance policy with Davis-Thompson Company was increased to $4,000, covering horses, harness, wagons and feed owned by the garbage collection department.

Hardwood Case Awaits Court Verdict

Judgment was reserved by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning in a charge against Hugh J. Davis of selling body hardwood in the city of Peterborough at a price higher than the ceiling price.

Davis was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., while W. F. Huycke, K.C., prosecuted.

Mrs. Percy Johnston, Lafayette avenue, the first witness said that she had had no business transaction with Davis.

"This is something of a surprise," said Mr. Huycke who then produced a bill which Mrs. Johnston said represented a charge for two cords of wood from Davis at $16 a cord.

Husband Made Arrangements

Mrs. Johnston explained to Mr. Carley that it was her husband who made the arrangements with Davis in regard to the wood.

Police Inspector J. F. Reid said that a search warrant had been issued and produced a ledger that he said had been brought in from Davis' office as a result of the warrant.

Ross Payne, investigator for the War Time Prices and Trade Board the next witness read an entry from the ledger which told of a charge for two cords of wood at $16 a cord recorded against the name of Mrs. Johnston.

The witness said that when he had called at the office of Davis in December and told the accused that there had been complaints about the prices he had charged for wood. Davis had explained that he had bought the wood from Clark Rollins at Rose Island for $10 a cord at the roadside.

"Did he tell you," said Mr. Carley, "that he sold the wood at Rose Island and the further cost was for hauling it into Peterborough?"

Payne said that was the case and that Davis had also told him that the bookkeeper had been instructed to keep the two transactions separate in his books and had done so for some time and then had changed the system.

Accept Offer

Davis testified that Mrs. Johnston's husband who was in the Air Force had told him that his wife was having difficulty in getting wood. Witness said that he told Johnston he could sell him body hardwood at $11 a cord at Rose Island and that Johnston could get some one to haul it to Peterborough. Witness had mentioned that he was in the cartage business himself and that he would haul the wood into the city for $5 a cord. The offer, he said, was accepted.

Davis said he was not sure whether Rose Island was in Peterborough county or in Hastings.

He told the court that he had had a contract to haul wood from Cavan to the city but that it had been impossible to move that wood for some time and in the meantime, mainly to keep his men employed he had bought the Rollins' wood.

Situation Pertinent

In his argument Mr. Carley submitted that the sale of the wood at Rose Island and hauling it to Peterborough were two separate transactions. Further he said that if Rose Island were in Hastings county, the order under which the charge had been laid did not cover that county.

Mr. Huycke argued that it was all one transaction and that Davis had simply sold two cords of wood at $16 a cord.

In reserving judgment Magistrate Langley said that it would make a considerable difference in the case if Rose Island were in Hastings county.

Employment First Worry In Peacetime

Problems of employment in a Canada returned to peacetime pursuits was designated the primary consideration of post-war reconstruction, outweighing in importance all other questions, by Dr. Robert C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University, in an address Monday night before the Peterborough Women's University Club.

Dr. Wallace, chairman of the Social Welfare Committee of Canada and a member of the Advisory Committee on Reconstruction, spoke of the various questions of economic policy confronting the Dominion as a whole in the years immediately following the war, and he made no effort to minimise the tremendous scope of the trouble to be solved if the country were to avoid a repitition of the disasters of the early thirties.

"Reconstruction," Dr. Wallace stated, "is a very difficult subject to discuss, because within it lie so many unknown factors. But there are some facts which we may look at clearly; and right away the question arises, What is really most serious? I do not hesitate to say it is employment, a critical and overwhelmingly difficult problem.

"When the war is over, there will be some 700,000 service men and women returning to Canada seeking jobs; and in addition, there will be probably 1,250,000 war workers whose work will have terminated and who will be seeking new employment. Beside the immense significance of these figures, social security would seem to be a much smaller issue."

Today it is already time to consider what may be done in advance, and the formulation of definite plans is urgently required if any success is to be attained. There was real need for public works; these needs should now be gathered together, plans laid, cost and man-hours estimated. A start has been made in this direction. When a phase of unemployment should appear on the horizon these works can be fed in to relieve the situation. It is not likely that the need should arise in the first year or two after the war because of the tremendous backlog of demand existing for civilian goods; but then again, nothing is certain and it might.

The speaker was particularly emphatic in regard to the nation's obligation to do something actively towards preserving its natural resources, and said that here might be sought a means of employing a force of many thousands of men for a five-year period following the conclusion of the war, and thereafter a still considerable number for an indefinite time.

"We are not maintaining the capital of our forests," Dr. Wallace said, "and we could do it. An example of excellent handling of this problem may be found in the conservation work of Sweden, where natural capital resources are kept unimpaired without any lessening of production. As it is, we are leaving a sad heritage to our descendants, and our neglect is spelling ruin to valuable territory. We must mend our ways and do so immediately."

Seasonal Jobs

The speaker laid stress on the matter of mobility of labor and considered an unusual measure of success had been achieved in this regard during the war through the agency of the employment offices, now stretched across the country and operating under one authority. Its maintenance in post-war years would be no less imperative, he added, "because in Canada there are so many occupations which are seasonal."

He reviewed the phase of re-training plans set up for the benefit of returned soldiers, and said this had been well looked after. No estimate could be given of the probable number of young men and women seeking advanced educational instruction in the universities, but it was altogether likely that the influx would mean an unexampled stretching of endeavor by faculties both winter and summer.

Problem of private industry, wherein originated as high as 90 per cent of the country's jobs, was also considered by Dr. Wallace, who felt that a initial necessity would be the lowering of the tax burden on corporations and the announcement of a reasonable tax program well in advance. Intensive research in finding better ways and new ways to make things was an all-important part in the effort to lower costs of products in order to compete in the export market.

One of the most serious problems, it was suggested by the speaker, concerned the fate of women after the war, due to the vast number who have gone directly into war work or into the services from school.

Reduced Butter Rations Soon Lions Are Told

Canadians are consuming 89 per cent of all dairy products produced in Canada, and in spite of rationing, consumption of these products reached an all-time high in 1943, J. E. Weir, manager of Silverwoods Dairy, told members of the Lions Club, Monday night in a talk on the Dairy Industry's part in post-war rehabilitation.

Mr. Weir forecast an increase in rationing of dairy products, particularly butter, and stated if Canada is to help feed the unfortunate victims of war-torn Europe, drastic changes must be made. He pointed out that the two means of increasing the amount available for export would be by improving herds to get maximum production, and by increasing the number of cows, and at the same time reducing home consumption.

Red Cross prisoner of war parcels require, butter, cheese and processed milk, and these growing demands must be met, he said.

He paid tribute to the 360,000 farmers of Canada who in spite of labor shortages transportation difficulties and many other obstacles have boosted production, and did a fine job at a time when Canada called for an all-out effort.

"The cow population of Europe has been cut in half at least by butchering and war losses, and it will be four years after the close of hostilities before an increase in the number of cattle can be brought about to aid production on the continent. The least we can do is provide these people with the minimum they require to sustain life, Mr. Weir suggested.

Jim Byrnes, teacher at May's School dealt with the part schools are playing in the post-war scheme and he stressed the point that straight-thinking is being encouraged and this will pay dividends as the students move into jobs, and take their place sin the new world.

Joseph Bolton, manager of McCarthy and Johnson's Fuel Company and Clifford Allen, electrical engineer from the C.G.E. were initiated into the club by Jack Armitage, and Rev. Cecil Moore. The draw gift donated by Hector Gray was won by Sim Gledhill.

Lawyer Takes Dig At Prices Board

War time price and Trade board regulations and other similar war-time legislation continue to be targets for the legal profession.

"You could put every official of the War Time Prices and Trade Board in the witness box," said T. J. Carley, K.C., during the hearing of a police court case this morning, "and you couldn't find one of them able to tell the details of the regulations under which they are prosecuting."

"There isn't a lawyer who knows much about them until he has had a chance to dig into the regulations and it is almost impossible to get hold of a copy."

Council Divides On Retirement To Former Chief

On a division of 6-4 the City Council last night passed a bylaw confirming the annual grant of $1,300 for six years to Samuel Newhall, recently retired Chief Constable, as recommended by the finance committee.

Voting for the bylaw were Aldermen Cotton, Mark, Sullivan, Glover, Dutton and Oven; and the nays were Aldermen Swanston, Sands, Curtis and Bradburn.

The bylaw was adopted without discussion, probably indicating that the last word had been said at the committee meeting when the same opponents objected to the proposal which had originated in the Police Commission with the support of Mayor Hamilton and Police Magistrate Gee.

Alderman Bradburn had explained in committee that by this absence with illness he was not bound by any promise by members to Mayor Hamilton when the prospect of the resignation of Chief Newhall was being anticipated. He said that he objected to the amount of the yearly allowance. The three other members said their attitude arose from the fact that the Police Commission's recommendation was not an unanimous expression, and that the chairman, Judge Smoke, had not supported it.

Smith Agreement

Another bylaw incorporated an agreement with suburban residents of Smith township for fire protection until the end of this year. They consent to a levy of 1.5 mills on an assessment of $125,000, amounting to $187, and also $50 for each time the city's fire department is called into that area of the township.

Alderman Bradburn enquired whether provision was made for simultaneous fires in the township and the city. City Solicitor Huycke replied that by the terms of the statute permitting the agreement there could be no liability on the city if circumstnaces prevented the fire department from responding to a township call.

The area includes the north side of Langton Road, west to Barnardo Avenue, to McClennan Avenue, up the Chemong Road to take in the homes of Thomas Hickson and Dr. Harold Worton, to Lee Street and the west communication road and so on to High Street beyond the northern boundary of the city.

Curfew May Ring

A resolution by Aldermen Sands and Sullivan requested the Police Commission to direct the 9 p.m. curfew law for children under sixteen.

Alderman Sands said the property committee had recently discussed the presence of young children on the streets at night, contrary to the Children's Protection Act. This regulation forbade children under sixteen to engaged in occupations and to be in public places and also in places of amusement unaccompanied by those beyond the curfew age.

The Examiner was informed that police have a convenient means of ascertaining the age of children on the streets at night by simply requiring them to produce their registration cards which are issued to young people of sixteen years and older.

Fire Arm Charges Upheld By Judge

Conviction of Percy Edwards and Ernest Lean both of Haultain on identical charges of having a fire arm in the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve was upheld by Judge Smoke in dismissing an appeal yesterday from Magistrate Gee's decision and fine of $50 each and $6.50 costs.

An appeal on behalf of Mr. Edwards was heard first with dismissal and costs of $30.

W. J. A. Fair, representing both appellants, asked that the appeal in the Lean case be withdrawn without costs. Crown Attorney McElderry agreed.

Vacation Period Planned By CGE

The Vacation Period for all employees of the Peterborough Works of the Canadian General Electric Company will be from noon Saturday July 29 to 7 a.m. Tuesday, August 8. It is planned to shut the works down for this period. In former years the vacation period was spread over three or four months and the plant would be operating with a skeleton staff slowing down production accordingly. Those in the plant eligible for two weeks vacation will be required to take the week prior or the week after the shutdown period.

Employees who are not eligible for vacation at the time of the shutdown period (that is, employees who have not been at the plant for 52 weeks, at that time) will be required to take the time off without pay allowances. However when such employees do become eligible under the 52 weeks plan prior to December 31, 1944 they will receive their vacation pay allowance for the time off during the shutdown period when they do become ligible.

SURVIVORS OF CRASH—Shown in the Arctic clothing in which they snowshoed from the scene of their disappearance to the airport at Goose Bay, Labrador, are five survivors of the crash of an R.C.A.F. Liberator. Flying Officer David Griffin, R.C.A.F. public relations officer, former Olympic athlete, and widely known newspaperman, lost his life in the crash landing. The crew were missing four days and had been given up for lost when word reached Goose Bay that they had been sighted by a trapper and spotted from the air by an American search plane. Their Liberator was forced down only 13 miles from Goose Bay, smothered in ice, with three motors dead and the fourth in flames. Left to Right, the crew are Warrant Officer A. C. Johns, Harrow, Ont., who was buried alive in snow and almost smothered before his comrades rescued him; Flying Officer J. D. L. Campbell, Cobourg and Trenton; Squadron Leader A. A. Irmie, D.F.C., of Toronto, former rugby star with Calgary Bronks and Balmy Beach; Flight Lieut. G. R. Harland, Treherne, Man., whose wife lives in Riverside, Ont., and Pilot Officer M. J. Gilmour, Gravenhurst. The Arctic temperature dropped to 55 below zero in their four days beside the aircraft, and never went higher than 35 below. (RCAF Photo)

Liberator Bomber Crashes In Labrador Wilderness

BY FLYING OFFICER W. A. SHIELDS, R. C. A. F.
Public Relations Officer.

AN R.C.A.F. STATION IN NEWFOUNDLAND—Five survivors of an ice-burdened Liberator bomber which crashed in the Labrador wilds with three engines dead and the fourth in flames, came back to their home station here recently after a week-long struggle with temperatures ranging low as 55 degrees below zero.

The sixth man aboard, Flying Officer David Griffin, R.C.A.F. public relations officer, died in the crash and was buried in a flag-draped casket at Goose Bay cemetery. With his comrades trudging behind on snowshoes, his body was taken to Goose Bay by dog teams of the U. S. Army Air Force, flown in to aid in the rescue and driven by veterans of Admiral Byrds expedition to the South Pole.

The survivors were:

Squadron Leader A. A. T. "Al" Imrie, D.F.C. veteran U-boat patrol pilot and former backfielder with Calgary Bronks, McMaster University, and Balmy Beach; (2001 Bloor St. West, Toronto.

Flight Lieutenant G. R. "Gar" Harland (formerly of Treherne, Man., and whose wife lies at 113 Villaire Ave., Riverside) navigator.

Flying Officer J.D.L. "Doug" Campbell (Cobourg resident, whose wife lives at 55 Marmora Road, Trenton) co-pilot.

Pilot Officer M. J. "Gil" Gilmour (Gravenhurst) wireless air gunner and.

W.O.1 A. C. "Johnny" Johns, (R.R. 1, Harrow), wireless air gunner.

Word they had been found reached Goose Bay four days after they failed to reach the Labrador airport after a flight from Iceland in the teeth of the most sudden and vicious storm to lash the Atlantic coast this winter. The report of their finding came from two sources almost simultaneously — one a Labrador trapper who had heard them chopping wood and trekked all day on snowshoes to deliver a letter from S/L Imrie; the second, a U.S. search aircraft which spotted their smoke signals and a huge "S.O.S." tramped out with home-made snowshoes on the surface of a nearby lake. Circling low, the pilot dropped them by parachute large supplies of "K-type" emergency rations, Arctic clothing, snowshoes, sleeping bags, and cigarettes. "Stuff showered down like manna from Heaven — and it was just as welcome," said Flying Officer Campbell.

The crew brought back a detailed record of their experiences in the treacherous icing conditions which had trapped them in its deadly grip over the Straits of Belle Isle and brought them down one hour and 40 minutes later in the trees near a lonely lake 13 miles from safety at Goose Bay, just six minutes flying time away. Even while the ice was choking off their carburetors and piling several inches deep on the underside of the wings and engine cowlings, the pilots kept exact tab on the aircraft's reaction which may cast considerable light on previous disappearances of other long-range aircraft. Imrie's log book and the accurate navigation records of F.L. Harland contain records of each development up to a minute of the crash. Other crews of missing Liberators may have noted similar happenings — but they didn't live to bring them back.

From their messmates of the famed "Dumbo" squadron of submarine hunters stationed here in Newfoundland, Imrie's crew received a warm welcome when they were flown back from Goose Bay. In the mess that night they were plied with questions.

They told how F/L Harland had charted a "spot-on" course for Goose Bay which found them, after the crash, within a quarter of mile of his estimated position at the time they were forced down.

Radio Useless

They told how iced aerials and snow static rendered their radio useless, how the pilots wrestled to keep the plunging, wallowing Liberator on course when both starboard motors went dead; how they had peered anxiously through the blizzard's white pall for high hills ahead when visibility went down to half-a-mile.

S/L Imrie was faced with the choice of landing on a lake or in the trees. Realizing the treacherous weakiness of the thin ice which tops the spring-fed waters of Labrador lakes, he decided to take his chances of setting down the 27 tons of flying metal in the trees.

F/O Campbell and S.-L. Imrie looked over two possible spots; warned all aboard to take up their crash positions, and S/L Imrie headed for the one with the sparsest growth of scrub spruce and balsam.

With a crash of splintering wood and rending metal, the giant aircraft struck. Because the two starboard motors were dead, the pilot came in with his right wing low. Striking a tree 18 inches in diameter, the Liberator swung completely around. The tail thudded against another large tree and broke off, hurling out Griffin a nd Johns.

Unbuckling their safety belts, Imrie and Campbell dived through the holes where their perspex side windows had been. Lunging through snow up to their armpits, they struggled to reach the fire extinguishers carried on the outside of the aircraft. It wasn't necessary, however. The snow had put out the engine flames and SL. Irmie had cut his switch just before landing. They helped to haul FL. Harland through a gash in the roof after he had taken off his ice-encrusted flying suit. They found PO. Gilmour trapped against his radio installation by the heavy top gun turret which had broken loose and struck him a heavy blow on the shoulder.

Of Griffin and Johns, there was no sign. Just as they started to attack the twisted turret with axes, they heard a faint tapping, as of wood against the metal fuselage.

Rescued Johns.

Outside, beside the broken tail, they found a pair of flying boots upside down in the snow, feebly pressing a balsam branch which, in turn, had rattled on the fuselage. They pulled at the boots, but nothing gave. Dropping to their knees, all three burrowed like gophers with their gloved hands to claw away the snow. They rescued "Johnny" Johns. "I couldn't have lasted another minute," said Johnny. Then they returned to free "Gil" from the fallen turret. Griffin, however, was beyond help.

They prepared to spend the night beside the plane. The temperature was falling to 41 below zero and Al. and Doug. each gave "Johnny" a flying glove to warm his frost-bitten hands. Johns had taken off his mitts to change over fuel when the crash came and was flung into the snow in his bare hands.

They spread a red-and-white parachute beside the wreck to attract search planes, then built a fire. Under an up-tilted wing they

Further Cut In Butter Likely

OTTAWA, April 4 — (CP). — In view of the existing butter supply situation, the Prices Board is considering "dropping" another butter coupon during April, it was learned today.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported that creamery butter stocks in nine of Canada's principal cities amounted to 5,036,659 pounds at April 1, a decrease of 6,354,090 pounds from stocks of 11,390,749 pounds March 1.

Late in February the Board effected a temporary eight-ounce reduction in Canada's butter ration arising from decreased winter butter production, equivalent to one week's allowance for each person.

The reduction was made by postponing the dates of two coupons which normally would become valid March 16 to March 23 and March 30, respectively.

It was provided that the butter coupons, good for eight ounces of butter each, would become valid at intervals of one rather than every two weeks, and it was understood that the board planned to return to the two-weeks basis after the end of April.

A Prices Board spokesman said that the "butterless" week had passed unnoticed and had aroused no protest. He said the situation was receiving "close study."

Similar steps were taken by the board early in 1943, when the ration of one-half pound per person per week was cut temporarily by one-third during February because of lower output.

900 Japs Killed In 7-Day Fight

NEW DELHI, April 4 — (CP).— Nine hundred Japanese have been killed in th week-long battle of Sangshak Plateau in the India-Burma border region during which British and Indian troops, though withdrawing on to Manipur Plain, managed to divert the main Japanese column aimed at Ukhrul, Indian Army observers said yesterday.

The plateau, 30 miles east of Imphal just inside the Indian border, was swept by gunfire throughout the week as the defenders fought off attack after attack, depending upon airborne munitions and food.

The Japanese attempted to box the Allied force with carefully laid fires in the dry jungle, covering the exits with machine-gun fire and forcing the men to dash through the flames.

Some were burned to death and others were machine-gunned.

Hardware Man Dies

TORONTO, April 4.—Associated for 70 years with the firm of Aikenhead Hardware Ltd., Thomas Edward Aikenhead, 84, president for many years, died yesterday at his home, 1 Brownside Drive. Although in ill health for some months, he had attended the company's annual meeting a few weeks ago.

Born in Toronto, Mr. Aikenhead at the age of 14 joined the business established by his father. He became president in 1904 and two years later the business was moved from Yonge and Adelaide to Temperance Street, the present location.

AN EARLY CUSTOM

The word turnpike originated from the early custom of blocking toll roads with pikes or poles — when the toll was paid, the pikes were turned aside.

Much Discourtesy Is Evident In Canada Rotarians Are Told

The Peterborough Rotary Club nominated a field of candidates for the directorate during the Rotary year beginning on July 1 at the regular meeting Monday when Rotarian E. L. Sackville's report of the nominating committee was adopted.

The candidates, from whose ranks five directors will be selected, are Gordon S. Matthews, Ken. Currie, J. Hubert Eastwood F. C. Paterson, Ron. J. McGrath, Wm. Hamilton, Chas. S. Cummer, Les. Airth, Harland Keefer, E. C. Braund and Ward Smith.

Guests of honor at Monday's luncheon were four of the senior members of the local Air Cadet squadron, sponsored by Rotary, who have enlisted for active service. Introduced by Rotarian Ward Smith, in command of the squadron, they were Flight Sergt. Murray Metcalfe, L.A.C. Allan Barrie and L.A.C. Hugh Brightman, who have joined the R.C.A.F., and Sergt. Weldon Fanning, who has enlisted with the R.C.N.V.R.

Rotarian Smith said that the boys were in the advanced class of the air squadron training and had received courses in airmanship, marksmanship, aircraft recognition, St. John ambulance work and other lines.

Rotarian Smith also announced that the Peterborough squadron would be the guests of Trenton R.C.A.F. at Trenton on Wednesday, April 12.

Discourtesy Evident

Guest speaker at Monday's luncheon was James G. Wharry of the Quaker Oats Company, who in a talk entitled "Learning to Say No in 30 Minutes" sounded a warning against the wave of discourtesy that he said he had noticed throughout Canada in a recent trip from coast to coast.

"You are a gathering of business men," he said. "I wonder if you know what your employees at the front counter are doing and what your men on the road are saying. It may make a tremendous difference in your business after the war."

Mr. Wharry gave some instances of discourtesy he had noticed during his trip across Canada. He told of one town where there were no silk stockings and things of that kind for civilian customers, and yet where the merchants kept such goods under the counters to sell at twice the normal price to service men who wanted them for gifts to send home. In one centre the discourtesy to customers was so great, even in hotels and restaurants, that a business firm that planned to hold a convention there had changed to another town.

Salesmen Abrupt

The salesmen on the road, finding themselves for the first time in years in a seller's market, were needlessly abrupt and curt in turning down their retail customers. His own firm, he said, had run into the same problem and had been spending months in trying to make sure that its representatives, even when they had to say "No" would say it politely and courteously.

"I am not saying that the conditions are as bad here as elsewhere," said the speaker, "but there is an element of it here. Check up on your front counter and find out what is going on there."

Town Planning

Speaking of Peterborough as a community, Mr. Wharry warned against being in too great a hurry to say "No." There was town planning, for example. Such a policy would cost money, but the end would justify the expense. The danger was that people would see only a rise in the tax rate and be too quick in voicing "No." That was also true of the hospital situation. There was a tendency to say that it couldn't be done. It was also the case with the new arena question and with other community matters, in all of which the speaker warned against too much speed in turning them down.

Mr. Wharry was introduced by Rotarian Gordon Monkman, and a vote of thanks was moved to the speaker by Rotarian Ross L. Dobbin. President George A. Gillespie was in the chair.

P-39 Fliers Try Skip Bombing

NAPLES, April 4 — (AP) — P-39 Airacobras, until now used for low-leved strafing and medium altitude bombing, have started skip-bombing.

Airacobras of the coastal airforce last week raced over an area near Cecina on the Italian west coast at tree-top level, bouncing bombs along the ground and into the side of a train and factory building.

Maj. Francis L. Grable, Montgomery City, Mo., the leader, said "I looked back over my shoulder after letting a bomb go and it was great to see that train buckle up. Pieces of car flew off in every direction."

Driver Killed

HAMILTON, April 4 — (CP). — Charles Ferguson of St. Catharines was killed and his wife, Ethel, seriously injured last night in a collision between two motor cars on the highway near Winona, 10 miles southeast of here. Ferguson and his wife were thrown from their car by the impact of another car which came from a sideroad.

CANADA MAKING SELF-PROPELLED A.A. Hitherto on the secret list, the Canadian mount, an improved version of the British self-propelled unit, carries the same efficient Bofors gun which has been manufactured in Canada since 1940. Capable of hurling two-pound shells to a height of 19,000 feet at 120 rounds a minute, the weapon is much more effective on its new self-propelled mounting. The mount is built by an automotive plant.

Three U.S. Officers In Court Martial

CINCINNATI, April 4—(AP)—A general court martial of three army air force officers charged with neglect of duty in the inspection of airplane engines which allegedly resulted in delivery of faulty engines, got under way today.

Accused are Lt.-Col. Frank C. Gruelich, who faces charges of violations of the 95th and 96th articles of war; Maj. William Bruckman and Maj. Walter A. Ryan, charged with violating the 96th article of war.

The 95th article of war deals with conduct unbecoming an officer and the 96th with neglect of duty.

The hearing is an outgrowth of investigations into inspection practices at the huge Wright Aeronautical Corp. plant in nearby Lockland.

Sea Attacks Against Japan May Come From Aleutians

By JACK BRAYLEY—Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, April 4—(CP).—Two admirals walked into a meeting of the Cabinet War Committee. One had a rolled map tucked under his arm. They were Vice-Admiral George C. Jones, hefty chief of the naval staff, and Rear-Admiral Victor Brodeur, chief of the Pacific command. What they discussed is a secret the silent service will not disclose.

But what was most sifnificant was the presence of Admiral Brodeur, who apparently made a special trip last week to the capital to participate in a War Committee meeting. A safe conclusion might be that Pacific problems were discussed and the map held the key to the part the Canadian Pacific coast ports will play when the war shifts to Japan.

Whether this role will be an important one with actual operational bases in places like Victoria, has never been officially indicated. There have been hints, however, of some preparations being launched for the Pacific campaign.

In the first place, Navy Minister Macdonald has assured the Commons Canada will be in the Pacific war with men and material to the finish.

Distance Great.

Official announcements occasionally have hinted of British establishments building on the coast with emphasis on repair facilities. Other announcements have told of the outfitting there of flat tops — two commanded and manned by Canadians.

Munitions Minister Howe, in a recent statement on the Government gasoline policy, said Pacific coast restrictions were based on the demand for bunker oil by Allied fleets in those waters.

However, a high-ranking Canadian officer, discussing Pacific possibilities recently, traced the distance between Vancouver and Japan and pointed out the comparative close proximity of United States bases in the Aleutians and Pearl Harbor. These bases are at least 2,000 miles closer to the objective—a distance that would eat into valuable bunker supplies.

"I think the active operational bases and even supply centres for the attack on Nippon from the west will be concentrated from those bases and Vancouver and our other Pacific ports will play a less active part of repair depots and possibly centres for certain Canadian supplies."

He said he thought that "anyhow" the main attack upon Japan would be launched from the already functioning MacArthur and Mount Batten commands in the southwest Pacific and India.

He voiced the opinion that when the war ended in Europe the great majority of United Nations' forces would be moved to some strategic Asiatic base from where land or coast-skirting amphibious operations could be started in conjunction with mass air raids.

However, he did think Vancouver might some day see the departure of reinforcement troops "and I feel pretty sure that it will be at that port that we welcome home our war heroes from their round-the-world campaign."

When would this home-coming be? he was asked.

Well—and he thought a long time—"I'm out on a limb anyhow. I'd say the summer of 1946."

Liberator Bomber

tramped out a sleeping place and laid a layer of balsam boughs, a half dozen spare suits of flying clothing, three layers of silk parachutes, and greatcoats. They covered Gilmour and Johns, the two casualties, and huddled about them. Afraid the flames might ignite the fuel tanks, still laden with 800 gallons of high-octane gasoline, they let the fire go out the first night. The temperature fell to 45 degrees and all were too cold and miserable to sleep.

They spent the next day improving their shelter by carpeting it with flight maps and small sheepskin rugs they were bringing as souvenirs from Iceland.

FO. Campbell chopped wood and salvaged necessities from the aircraft. From metal covers of life raft canisters they made cooking tins, to melt snow water and to heat food. From twisted metal bomb doors they made a base for the wood fire.

All took turns searching for the "Gibson Girl" portable radio, which would have enabled them to communicate with Goose Bay or send out a continuous "S.O.S." in Morse but it was never found, though they dug in the snow with wood and bits of metal. They rationed their meagre supplies sparingly, for three of the six emergency ration kits had been lost in the wreck. Each man allotted three-quarters of a tin of corned beef, this slender ration permitting a piece of meat about the size of a condensed beef cube for each of two meals.

Saturday night the mercury dropped to 55 below and only "Johnny" was able to sleep. Watch was kept all night to stoke up the fire and pull covers over anyone who might dose off with an arm or leg outside.

Sunday they tried to make snowshoes from the "catwalk" and cartridge belts but failed. "Johnny's" idea of making them, Indian-fashion, from evergreen boughs and parachute cord, was successful and plans were made to make snowshoes for all later.

They saw aircraft directly overhead Sunday, but it was so cold the Very pistol and marine signals failed to go off until the searchers had passed out of sight. A brisk wind whisked away smoke signals as soon as they topped the trees. Cold jammed their machine gun after two shots.

Found a Trapper

On Monday morning they were found by a trapper, Jim Goudie, who heard them when chopping while touring his traplines. Carrying a letter from Imrie setting forth their position and the state of the crew, he set out on snowshoes for Goose Bay. He arrived there about the same time that an American DC-3 sighted their smoke signals and immense "S.O.S." on the nearby lake.

Soon Group Captain Hanchet-Taylor and S/L Ross Robertson, medical officer, landed in a ski-equipped Norsemen with food, sleeping bags, and six thermos jugs of steaming coffee. The skis dug into the treacherous, soggy snow and the rescuers, too, were marooned. But all knew rescue was just a matter of time. A Piper Cub flown by Americans was mired a day later, though it eventually got off with Gilmour and Johnson.

Imrie, Campbell and Harland were all strong enough to make the journey to Goose Bay on foot and Friday morning the little party set off on snow with U.S. Air Force dog teams in charge of Capt. Ed. Goodale, of Ipswich, Mass., and Master Sgt. Dick Moulton, of Wonalancet, New Hampshire, both of whom had been with Admiral Byrd at the South Pole. Making camp in mid-afternoon, the party reached Goose Bay at noon Saturday.

Millbrook Girl Weds FO. R. R. Edmunds

MILLBROOK, April 4—(ENS)—The home of Mr. and Mrs. M. McDowell, Main street, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, when their third daughter, Marjorie E., became the bride of Flying Officer Robert Reginald Edmunds, R.C.A.F., elder son of Mrs. H. Ross Edmunds, and the late Mr. Edmunds, of Millbrook.

Given in mariage by her father, the bride wore a street length, two-piece dress of sky blush crepe, with halo of ostrich plumes and off-the-face veil in matching shade with the dress, and corsage of pink Johanna Hill roses with cascade of violets. The shoes worn were an exact match with the dress.

Miss Margaret McLeod of Toronto was bridesmaid, wearing a street-length, two-piece dress in sky blue crepe, with halo and veil similar to that worn by the bride, and shoes in matching tint. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Flying Officer John St. John of Mont Joli, Quebec, was groomsman, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Eric McKinstry of Peterborough, sister of the bride. The bridal party stood beneath an archway, with fluted streamers in pink and white, and centred with a cluster of silver wedding bells, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., pastor of St. Andrew's United Church, in the presence of over forty guests. During the signing of the register, Mrs. J. Campbell of Aylmer, the bride's aunt, sang "I Love You Truly."

For the reception which followed, the bride's mother wore a two-piece dress of black triple sheer crepe, with corsage of red roses, and Mrs. Edmunds, mother of the groom, wore figured silk jersey, with corsage of white roses. The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth, carried out the color scheme of pink and white, and was centred with the three-tiered wedding cake, flanked on either side with tall white tapers burning in silver holders. Mrs. Campbell poured tea, and serving the guests were Misses Audrey Campbell of London, cousin of the bride, Rosemary and Anne Stinson, Barbara Sisco of Peterborough, and Bernice Smith of Omemee.

Later, the bride and groom left for their honeymoon, going to Toronto by motor and continuing by train on a trip through the Laurentians. For travelling, Mrs. Edmunds wore a tailored suit in raspberry gabardine with white blouse, and powder blue top coat, navy hat and matching accessories. She wore also the groom's gift, a fur neckpiece in dark squirrel.

Upon their return Flying Officer R. R. Edmunds and his bride will be at the former's training centre in Quebec province.

Public Grasps Value Of Public Health

The growing awareness and appreciation of the public for the work of the Public Health Department was quoted by Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., as an indication that Public Health was becoming better known, and that its work was being recognized as vital.

Speaking on the subject of "Health," to a meeting of the Hospital Women's Auxiliary, held Monday afternoon in the Sunday School hall of the Murray Street Baptist church, Dr. Kelly explained the general outline of public health. He said that primarily, medicine could be divided into two classes: the treatment of disease, and the prevention of disease. It was with the latter subject he dealt, and he said that in post-war reconstruction, Public Health is expected to lead the way to a better and a fuller life.

Dr. Kelly then explained the three divisions of government, Dominion, Provincial and Municipal, and listed the services for which each was responsible. He also gave a detailed account of city health services, and explained the minimum staff required for a city health department, that is: a stenographer, a sanitary inspector, a public health nurse, and a medical officer of health. According to estimates, Dr. Kelly said, for a generalized service in an urban area, with the shortage of nurses so acute, there should be one public health nurse for every 5,000 population. However, in post-war years, it is likely to be reduced to one nurse for every 3,500 or perhaps 3,000 population.

"From 71 districts, and serving the units in them," the speaker went on, "will operate such services as chest x-ray clinics, mental health clinics. In order to assist the municipalities in setting up these units, there is provision made for grants-in-aid from the Province." This is outlined in a Bill being discussed at the present time.

Miss E. Young of Nicholls Hospital spoke briefly to the women about the scarcity of nursing help, and the difficulties the staff of the hospital encountered with increased work, and a decreased staff. She said that a drive for student nurses had been started at a tea held recently in the Y.W.C.A., and that provision for one nursing scholarship had already been made. She explained that a class of nursing would be begun on July 31, and another in September, and that it was hoped that a good response would be received.

Mr. J. Hornal also spoke of the existing difficulties, and of the need for hospital accommodation. He said that any proposition to relieve the situation would be examined carefully.

Mrs. W. Blackwell presided, and introduced Dr. Kelly and the other speakers. Reports given showed that 1,212 calls has been made since September by the sick and visiting committee. The sewing group is continuing to send two layettes every month to the hospital, and the Samaritan cupboard had given several articles to needy persons. A balance of $350.30 in the savings account, and of $235.00 in the membership fund was reported by the treasurer. The membership in the Auxiliary now stands at 2,448, with several more to be added, since Lakefield has not yet had its drive. One dishwasher has already been bought for the diet kitchen, and another will be purchased. The ladies voted to redecorate the nurses' dining room, and a sum of money was set aside for this purpose. An experiment in the decorating of rooms of the nurses' residence is also getting under way.

Gifts Received At St. George's

The observance of Palm Sunday at St. George's Anglican Church included a choral service, and communion, and the dedication service for several gifts for the church. A new white super-frontal was given by the Women's Auxiliary, while the Afternoon Guild gave a prayer book, and the Evening Guild, gave altar curtains.

Two altar vases, given by Mrs. John Huxley, were also dedicated. The first was in memory of her son, Harold, who was killed in the first World War, while the second was in memory of her husband, John Huxley, who died in December 1943. Rev. E. C. Moore thanked the groups for their gifts, and expressed his appreciation for their thoughtfulness.

The new choir stalls have not yet been dedicated, but will be read for use on Easter Sunday, when the boys' choir will make its first appearance.

Bride Takes Vows In House Wedding

WARKWORTH, April 4—(ENS)—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Plumton, Norham, was attractively decorated with rainbow colors recently for the wedding of their second daughter, Margaret, who was united in marriage to William Kenneth, older son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gummer, Norham. Rev. J. R. R. Cooper officiated.

The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreens, silver flowers, ferns, tulips and daffodils. Miss Helen Potter, cousin of the bride, played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white satin embroidered with chenille in lily of the valley design, fashioned on princess lines with a slight train, long fitted sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a halo of white orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Miss Orletta Gummer, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Her floor-length dress was of midnight blue sheer. She wore a matching hat and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. Miss Frances Simpson, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a yellow taffeta frock and carried a Colonial bouquet.

The best man was Mr. Ross Plumton, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Plumton, mother of the bride, received the guests wearing a two-piece dress of blue and black crepe. The tunic was embroidered with black braid. Her corsage was red roses. Mrs. Gummer, mother of the groom, assisted. She chose a printed two-piece dress of filipin tan and her corsage was red roses.

The bride's table was centred with the three-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. A. F. Boyce, Miss Helen Reddon of Orland and Miss Helen Potter served a buffet lunch.

Later the happy couple left for a motor trip. For travelling the bride wore a blue silk jersey dress and hat, brown coat and matching accessories.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Plumton will reside on the groom's farm, Norham.

Previous to her marriage the bride was presented with a coffee table and end table by the hospital staff and nurses, Belleville, and a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. A. F. Boyce, Warkworth.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

"Nutrition is a widely discussed subject, but it is only through constant reminders that it will become a second nature to us, rather than just a fad," said Miss R. Hendershot, speaking to the regular meeting of Central Home and School Association held Monday evening. Miss Hendershot, a member of the Ontario division of the Red Cross, is a lecturer on nutrition, and spoke on "Nutrition for Children."

The speaker demonstrated through pictures and charts that correct nutrition was not as complicated as generally thought, and that it could easily be incorporated in the ordinary home without extra work or extra expense. Allaying the worries of a great many, she said, "It isn't necessary to give up cakes and pies. They should, however, be used in moderation."

Speaking of adults, Miss Hendershot explained that it was just as necessary for adults to eat properly as growing children. "Lack of vitamins, especially B1, can cause many complications, and slow up the system so that it can't do its best in its daily duties." She outlined foods which should be included in the daily diet, to insure strong, sturdy bodies, and quick, alert minds. They are milk, vegetables, meat, desserts, citrus fruits, whole wheat bread, porridge, and butter." Everyone, for correct nutrition, should have a balanced serving of each one of these items each day," Miss Hendershot went on.

Miss Peggy Parnell sang two solos, and Mrs. D. Munro played two piano numbers. Mrs. L. Raper, president, was in charge of a short business meeting. The attendance banner was awarded to Miss E. Richardson's class, the third time in succession they have won this honor.

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

Outlining the advancements made in the field of radio from pioneer days to the present time, Karl Monk, spoke on "Radio" at the meeting of the King Edward Home and School Association, held Monday. In his talk, the speaker stressed the methods of receiving, gathering news and its presentation to the public.

The unveiling of the honor roll by Rev. F. W. Craik, was another highlight of the evening, and a large number of parents and friends were present. D. T. Crawford read all the names on the Roll, and Mr. Craik offered a prayer.

The program consisted of two piano solos by Miss Germaine Laderach; readings by Bob Hendry and Jack Smith; two sacred solos by Arthur H. Wells, accompanied by Mrs. George Wallace; and two solos by Bob Hendry, accompanied by Jack Smith.

Mrs. G. Harris, president, was in the chair. The attendance banner was won by R. Rutherford's class, and also the treat donated each month by the Association.

Mrs. R. J. Burnside read a portion from the Scriptures, and Mrs. L. Gibson moved the vote of thanks to the guests. Mrs. J. Murray and her committee served tea at the close of the meeting.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

The April meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was held on Monday evening in the kindergarten room with the president, Mrs. A. Nelson, in the chair. The meeting opened with a prayer for peace by Mrs. J. C. Curtis.

The school choir, which appeared at the recent Public School Musical Festival under the direction of Mrs. C. Pilon, delighted the audience with four numbers, "Jeannie," "In the Month of Maying," "For God and King and Right" and the Easter hymn, "Christ the Lord is Risen To-day."

Miss Isobel Connolley, kindergarten teacher, was the special speaker and took for her subject "Laying the Proper Religious Foundation."

Miss Connolley explained that there was three fields in laying the religious foundation in every child, the home, the school and the church, with the home playing the most important part. When urged to attend church and Sunday school if the parents do not, the whole inconsistency of the religious training becomes apparent to the child.

In teaching religion to a child Miss Connolley stressed that the teacher or parent should begin with the truth and stick to it to save the child any agony of doubt. Miss Connolley explained the methods of religious training that are used in the grades of the Public schools, and in closing said what a privilege it was to train a child in the way he should go, and if this is properly done, he will not depart from it.

Reports from the various conveners were heard, and a motion was carried that the association sponsor the school picnic again this year. Mrs. Nelson was appointed a delegate to the Ontario Educational Convention in Toronto next week, with the privilege of selecting a member to accompany her. The roll call for mothers resulted in the prizes going to Miss Connolley's room and Mrs. Pilon's room.

QUEEN MARY

The importance of recreation in the lives of children, and the responsibilities parents should recognize and accept in this regard was stressed by Max Singleton, boys' secretary of the Y.M.C.A., addressing the regular meeting of the Queen Mary Home and School Association, Monday evening. He dealt with the subject, "Parents' Responsibilities for Children's Leisure Time".

"Recreation, of course, is necessary," Mr. Singleton said, "since children do not know what their future interest will be, and a hobby, growing out of recreational preferences, may lead the way to a vocation. An intelligent control of play, however, is also necessary, and it is sometimes advisable to use discipline even in that matter."

He reminded parents that, although they should be interested in

TEAM-WORK NEED IN HOMES
Its Lack Responsible for Practically Every Boy and Girl Going Astray

The one place where team-work is more needed than anywhere else is in the home, yet nowhere else in the world is there so little cooperation as in the Family circle. The average home is not a democracy. It is an autocracy run by a ruthless tyrant who brooks no rival near the throne, and to this fact is due most of the domestic ills from which we suffer.

The two sources of our tears and heartbreaks are unhappy marriages and delinquent children, and it doesn't take any Sherlock Holmes to trace both of these griefs right back to the despot on the hearthstone who, oftener than not, is the wife and mother whose intentions are the best, but whose methods are those of Mr. Hitler.

There is no more sardonic joke than that which pictures marriage as a partnership. It rarely is. Almost always it is a one-man or one-woman show. Occasionally there is a husband who rules his household with a rod of iron, but, ninety-nine times out of a hundred, it is Mom who is she-who-must-be-obeyed, and the husband has no more authority in the house than the cat.

It is the wife who preempties the home and proceeds to monopolize it. Her family camp in the guest room. The husband's are lucky to be invited to an occasional dinner. Her friends are given a glad welcome. His are shouldered out. He eats the kind of food she likes and has no place in the house he supports that he can call his own.

Yet the most cherished grievance of women is that their husband takes no interest in their homes; that they consider them only places to eat and sleep and in which to change their clothes, and it never occurs to these wives that the reason their husbands don't take an interest in their homes is because they have not been permitted to have any part in their management, or to express in them any of their own personal tastes and desires.

Man Clings to Pleasant Home

In proof whereof you have only to observe that in those cases where the husband and wife do work together to build up a home; where they both take a hand in the gardening and cooking; where the wife takes an interest in the husband's collection, instead of throwing it into the garbage can with the other junk, there is no trouble about wandering spouses. For man is a domestic animal by nature. He marries for a home, and when he gets one in which he has a half interest he stays in it.

No one can doubt for an instant that it is the lack of team work between mothers and fathers that is responsible for practically every boy and girl who goes astray. For when God gave every child two parents He knew what He was doing, and that neither one of them could turn out a good job single-handed.

But when Mother spoils little Johnny and Father is harsh with him; when Mother cuddles Mary and pities her when Father tries to make her behave; when Mother slips Bobby money when Father attempts to teach him to live on his allowance; when Mother teaches the children that she is the only one who loves them and Father calls Mother a fool, they kill each other's influence over their children, and the children defy them and go their own foolish ways to destruction.

The motto of one of our States is: "United we stand. Divided we fall." That should be carved above the door of every home.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, April 5

An unpredictable day, largely because of the dominant factor of a sudden surprising and possibly devastating or disruptive precipitation of events. It may be necessary to dig deep into new ground or situations in order to side-step disagreeable experiences and to cleverly and sagaciously take advantage of fresh and desirable oportunities. In fact this spading up may be incident to the onrush of such new opening, and may cause estrangements or radical departure from the old order. Eventually all should be productive and progressive, with definite consolations, social, romantic or domestic. Keep balance and nervous composure, and happy denouements are in sight.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a sudden and unpredictable rush of affairs, promising and progressive if the poise, composure and emotional reactions are kept under control. If unusual or irregular opportunities arrive, with a call for about-face or regulation tenets and positions, in order to avert estrangements, unwelcome changes and devastating consequences, it would be well to hew to conventional lines and grasp awkward situations with ingenuity and skill. Thus begetting progress and personal felicity and satisfaction, even amidst strange environs. Shun nervous tensions.

A child born on this day while having certain exceptional opportunities in life, may be prone to irregular, unorthodox or novel expression of its talents. It may benefit from conventional supervision.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . . .

To-day we are going to have a little chat about cake troubles and how to overcome them. Heavy cakes are caused by too slow an oven or by the use of too much sugar or shortening. Coarse-grained cakes are the result of too many leavening ingredients, too slow oven, insufficinet creaming of shortening and sugar or insufficient beating of batter before addition of egg whites. When a cake falls it is occasioned by an insufficient quantity of flour or rising ingredients, by excess temperature, from removing it in the oven after the cake has risen and before the cell walls have become fixed or firm by the heat. When too much heat is used a cake presents an uneven surface, crusts over the top before the mixture has risen to its full height and bursts at its weakest place which is usually the top.

For a perfect cake, select only the choicest materials. Let the flour, the foundation of the cake, be the best adapted for cake making. Eggs should be strictly fresh that they may have strength to hold up. The sugar should be fine granules. Use butter, it gives the best flavor. Cakes made with water are of finer texture than those made with milk.

Sunshine Cake.

¾ cup egg whites, 1¼ cups of sugar, 5 tablespoons hot water, ½ cup egg yolks, 1 cup flour, ¾ teaspoon cream of tartar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon of almond extract.

Beat egg whites until they are stiff enough to hold a teaspoon erectly. Cook sugar and water together to 240 degrees F. and pour very slowly on the stiffly beaten egg whites, beating all the time. Let the mixture cool thoroughly, and then fold in the well-beaten yolks. Sift together the flour cream of tartar, salt and baking powder five times, add flavoring, and fold lightly into egg and sugar mixture. Half fill large tube pan, and bake from 45 minutes to 1 hour at a temperature of 300 degrees F. to 325 degrees F. This cake has excellent keeping qualities.

Cheese Cake.

4 cups crumbs, 3 tablespoons of sugar, ½ pint cream, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons butter, 4 eggs (yolks and whites beaten separately), 1 pound cream cheese, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Roll the crumbs very fine. Add butter and sugar which have been creamed together. Put mixture in the bottom of baking pan, and press down even all around. Beat egg yolks, add remaining ingredients. Beat egg whites stiff and add to mixture. Mix thoroughly. Pour into baking pan on top of the crumbs. Bake one hour in slow oven 325 degrees F.

Pineapple Icing (for any Cake).

2 cups sugar, 2-3 cup cream. Boil sugar and cream together for ten minutes. Remove from the fire and beat until smooth and thick. To one half of the icing add 2-3 cup grated pineapple and spread between cake layers. To the remainder of icing add enough pineapple juice to make it spread smoothly. Cover top of cake with this.

the youngsters' recreational pursuits, they should also realize that they have their own rights, and teach the first idea of democracy in the home. He recommended using some leniency to keep interests alive, however.

During the evening a piano solo was played by Douglas Dobson and two numbers were sung by Nancy Leith.

R. Scrutton, teacher of the boys' handicraft class spoke briefly about his work. He pointed out that the modern trend is to provide for individual differences and to help the exceptional child.

"There are special classes throughout the province for these exceptional children," he said and the class here in handicraft is for boys from 13 years of age on. Half of the time is given to academic work adjusted to the individual child and the other half is for handicraft". Mr. Scrutton said that the equipment at Queen Mary is as good as in other schools in the province, and the boys are happy in their environment.

A letter from O. M. Steer, principal was read thanking the members of the association on behalf of the staff and the children for the donation towards sports equipment. A letter from Miss Olive Parrington was also read, thanking the Association, on behalf of the teachers, for the new curtains put up in the teacher's room.

The president, Mrs. C. H. Crowe thanked those taking part in the program, also Mrs. Miles and her committee who had charge of refreshments.

The roll call was taken, and the banner for attendance in the junior grades went to the kindergarten. Miss V. Robinson's room and Miss M. Stenton's room since all three were represented by an equal number of parents. In the seven grades the banner was won for this month by O. M. Steer's room.

The president urged members to attend the annual meeting when reports of the Home and School convention in Toronto will be read. Motion pictures will also be shown.

Pilate's Dilemma Subject Of Address

On Sunday evening another large audience almost filled the Regent Theatre at the "after church" service conducted by the Peterborough Christian Business Men's Committee.

Bernard Aldridge of Toronto, after an absence of several weeks, returned to lead the singing, with Ashton Fife at the piano. Stan Hunt of Toronto sang three numbers.

The speaker, C. Ernest Tatham, who is well known in Peterborough, took as his text the words uttered by Pilate, "What shall I do with Jesus?" Pilate was in a dilemma. He was convinced that Jesus was a good man, and yet in order to pacify the Jewish mob he had to accede to their demand that he release unto them Barabbas, a notorious thief and murderer. It was then that in his difficulty he said, "What shall I do with Jesus?" Mr. Tatham explained. The crowd said crucify Him. Down through the centuries this question has been pressed home to the hearts of men and it has to be answered. Either they say crucify Him or they accept Him as saviour.

The speaker followed this question by two others, "What will you do without Jesus?" and "What will Jesus do with you?" He emphasized the need of each one present to decide to accept Jesus Christ as their answer to this great question.

Next Sunday the committee will have as their guest speaker James F. Spink, F.R.G.S., of Chicago, noted traveller and author, who will deliver the Gospel message. Special soloist will be Lennox Smith of St. Catharines.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK
—By J. R. Scott

With The Armed Forces

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

By JEAN STENTON

Mrs. W. G. Hake, 213½ Antrim street, has received a sample of a "flutterer" from her foster son, Pte. Wallace Smith, overseas. They are being dropped by the Germans in raids, with the purpose of upsetting the radar system. It is one of several which have been sent to Peterborough recently.

Pte. Smith enlisted with the Prince of Wales Rangers, but later transferred to the Princess Pats after going overseas last April. He is a stretcher bearer and has been in action in both Sicily and Italy. He mentions that there is plenty of mud and snow where he is stationed and enclosed a picture of a hotel where he was quartered in an Italian town.

Receive Parcel

Parcels are getting through from Italy now and Sgt. Major W. H. Borland D.M.C. and Mrs. Borland, 551 Water street, got one this past week from their son, Reginald Borland who has been overseas 3½ years. The package contained a garnet table cloth, a number of Italian coins and bills, also a medal commemorating the Allied Army's entry into Naples, October 1, 1943.

Nothing Exciting

"We spent a very quite week with nothing particularly exciting happening," one soldier writes a Peterborough friend. He then proceeds to say that within that time they were visited by General Montgomery, had a leave, and experienced a heavy bombardment, — all routine.

"Things are pretty much the same here as we are still waiting for the second front. General Montgomery looked us over last week and he seems a nice chap. He didn't make us stand at attention at all and gave us a friendly talk. We will be under him when the big doings start.

"I have just finished another leave at Leeds. We had a good time and certainly managed to keep awake. On the way up we had a wait in London and there was a swell air raid. Most of the people went into the underground, while it was on, but we stayed outside to watch.

"The new rocket gun certainly looks pretty when it is shot off. That night, it was away better than the 24th of May back home. Between the Jerry dropping bombs and all the guns shooting at them, it was a noisy night. I do feel sorry for the old people and kiddies because it does scare them so. The underground is full of people trying to sleep.

This soldier wrote that the fire bombs are particularly pretty to watch coming down, in spite of their horrible mission. They do a lot of damage, and he said that two hours after the all clear had gone, many places were still burning.

Best of Care

Nursing sisters serving in hospitals in Italy deserve a lot of credit for the job they are doing, writes Gnr. Dalton Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Nelson, 735 Water street. He has been hospitalized since he was injured at the front, December 18.

"The nursing sisters are swell to us. When they get any cigarettes from home they always give us a package apiece. They are wonderful girls and their job over here is no easy one. The Red Cross do a lot of good work for us too. They supply us with candy, cigarettes and writing paper. If you can't write yourself, the sisters will write for you."

"They also have a big library for us, and we have Bingo games every night. The Red Cross presents the prizes which consist of cigarettes, soap, matches, candy, handkerchiefs, tooth paste and other items. We have a lot of fun out of it."

In discussing his injury, Gnr. Nelson reports that he is still in the hospital. After two months he had the cast taken off, only to discover another had to be put on. Bones do not knit as fast in that climate. To make things more difficult, the doctors discovered an old break, which was hampering its recovery, so that was fixed up. He writes that he gets the best of care and that the men are not discharged from the hospitals until they are definitely O.K. again.

Although his Christmas parcels have not yet arrived he says that he received 300 cigarettes from the Victory Workers of Peterborough which had been sent in October, and covered a lot of ground before they finally arrived.

"There is a lad from Port Hope named Anderson, who is in the next bed to me. We have great talks about old times we had at the Orange Hall dances in Port Hope. He knows a lot of people I know because he used to work in the radium plant. His arm and wrist are smashed up with shrapnel, and there is a good chance he may be invalided home."

Legion Gifts

One of the things the men overseas are most grateful for are cigarettes sent from the Canadian Legion. Letters and cards from recipients contained the following names: Sgt. J. M. Neish; Sgt. V. M. Holmes; Sgt. R. E. Hendry; F O M. W. Pearce; Pte. C. R. Sproule; L Cpl. C. B. Burchell; LAC Ken Mason; Sgt. R. A. Feeley; Pte. Nelly Park, CWAC; L Cpl. W. Andrews; W. B. Clark; Sgmn F. E. Stewart; Gnr. G. W. Schweir; A. S. Yelland and L Cpl. Gordon Thompson.

Jerry O'Toole, dealt at greater length with the importance of the Legion gifts. He wrote that London has quite a bit to offer the men in uniform with its many service clubs and it means a lot to get a good snack for a reasonable price through the generosity of the Canadian clubs, including the Legion.

On the Italian Front.

The following items might be called "Flashes from Italy." They are a few items of interest gleaned from the soldiers' paper in Italy "The Maple Leaf."

Among six members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment who were buried in their slit trenches during a German bombardment, was Pte. G. G. Gray of Marmora. They were rescued by members of the unit who were in the nearby RAP. The men were advancing on the Adriatic front when they were ordered to halt and dig in. The six had been sleeping in their trenches, with gas capes over their faces, when they were buried. Although shaken up, they took shovels from their rescuers and dug themselves new trenches.

Poor Substitute.

The regular cook of the Seaforth Highlanders had to visit the dentist recently and a sergeant volunteered to take over his duties until he returned. The men appreciated the thought, but not the cooking, and the company stretcher-bearer was much in demand for pils after a spectacular lunch. The meal consisted of frittered bully beef, creamed cauliflower, tinned peaches and pears, bread and cheese, according to the story. One victim laid the blame on the fritters. Among those who sampled the sergeants cooking with effects verging from negligible to noticeable, included Pte. Lloyd Corbett of Port Hope.

Wins Military Cross.

Capt. W. E. L. Smith of Grafton, who was recently reported to have won an award in Italy, was one of a group of four chaplains to be given the Military Cross. He is the chaplain of an armored regiment, and when engineers were building crossing at Colle Danchise, a number were wounded. It was not part of his duty to go to them, but he did, under direct enemy fire and observation.

Practical Training.

It has been decided in Italy that action proves the best way to discover qualities of leadership, so N. C.O. Schools have been established, which operate in the battle zone. I was found that many soldiers showed no qualities of leadership in the parade ground, but did amazing things in battle.

Young, red-headed L.-Cpl. Alex. Devitt of Toronto, formerly of Bobcaygeon, said: "I never gave a command in my life before. The regiment says I've got to be a loe.-corporal, and take a section (six men), so I am here getting the stage fright taken out of me. I never had any intention of becoming an N.C.O.

"Others who took the course have been in the Army nearly four years. Cpl. Robert Wright, of Marmora, who was killed in action recently, had been trained there. He had joined the H. and P. E. Regiment in September, 1939, and stuck with it until the time of his death.

"A small group of six men operates independently, has been found to be the basis of the fighting unit in this war. The one and two hookers are the real leaders.

Likes the Navy.

Leading Coder Thomas Spencer, who is serving in the Navy, has seen considerable action since he enlisted in 1941, but his ship has never been torpedoed or sunk. About two years ago a corvette on which he was serving was rammed by a merchant ship, but no one was injured.

His family is Navy, since he has two brothers serving, too. Johnny Spencer is at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, and Joseph Spencer is stationed at Kingston. Before enlisting Leading Coder Spencer worked at the Westclock Company, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Spencer, 610 Armour Road. Of late he has been serving on a destroyer and action has been greatly reduced. From his experience he found that air attack has been harder to contend with than the submarine menace. As far as he is concerned meals on board ship are much better than those given ashore. He was home last week on compassionate leave to attend the funeral of his younger brother.

Provincial Secretary Praises Girl Guides

NORWOOD, April 4 (ENS)—Mrs. Wayne Connor of Kingston Provincial field-secretary of the Girl Guides inspected the local guides Friday afternoon at 4:15 in the Town Hall. There are 20 Guides under the local I.O.D.E. with Miss M. VanCamp as leader.

Mrs. E. P. Cuffe entertained several members of the I.O.D.E. Mrs. Connor, Miss VanCamp, the patrol leaders Bernice Scott, Dorothy Pakenham and Betty Wright and second patrol leaders Marion Wright, Marjorie Rusaw, and Mary Pearce at a meeting at her home on Friday evening. Mrs. Connor complimented the troop on the splendid appearance of their uniforms.

Typhoid Victims

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., April 4 — (CP).—Mrs. Fred Wust, Medicine Hat, about 36, died in hospital here on Saturday night, the second victim of the Southern Alberta typhoid epidemic in a week. Her daughter, five-year-old Myrne, is also a typhoid patient in hospital. Total number of victims in this district is 39, said Dr. J. S. McLeod, medical health officer. Authorities plan to have more than 2,000 school children immunized.

USE THE CORRECT ONE

GIVING AN encouraging card on your partner's lead should not be done haphazardly, with just any old card which is high enough to be read as probably better than your lowest. Sometimes one particular card would be correct and any other would be wrong. That is because you want to preserve a certain other card for play on the next trick of the suit. Sometimes you want the first card high enough to cause a second lead, but then wish to discourage a third lead with a somewhat higher card on the second trick.

West naturally led his heart K. East decided, after a quick looking over of the situation, that it would be a good idea for West to lead the A next. So he gave him the 8 on the first trick as an encouraging card. Obediently West followed with the A, and East was on a spot. He had now decided that he wanted a switch next to diamonds, so that a trick there, added to his trump A, would set the contract.

But what card would convey to West his hope for a switch? Certainly not the 7 or 3 coming after the 8. Either of these would complete a high-low and cause a third heart. His only other card was the Q, and play of that would make it appear he had only the Q-8 originally, with South holding the 10-7-4-3, and West would lead a third heart for an apparent over-ruff. East finally selected the 7 to the second trick. But that completed a high-low. West led a third heart, which was ruffed in dummy while South threw off his diamond 9. That made the contract safe, as thereafter South lost only one trick, to the trump A.

If West had looked ahead and put the heart 7 on the first trick, he could have used the 8 on the second. West then would have switched to a diamond and the contract would have faced certain defeat.

Serious Drought Hits England

LONDON, April 4 (CP) A drought which meteorologists say is Britain's worst in three decades has brought acute conditions to thousands of square miles of south, east and west England.

Water Boards have appealed to families to curtail bathing and Londoners have been warned their water supply may be rationed during the summer unless there is an abnormally heavy rainfall during the next two months. Dairy Boards said the present milk ration may have to be reduced.

In Hertfordshire a normally normally rich agricultural district, farmers are carting water from streams three to five miles away and war agricultural committees, overwhelmed with appeals for help, are rushing plans to aid.

Church congregations in all parts of the country prayed at Sunday services for hard rains soon.

Use Less Wool

NAPLES, April 4 — (AP) — The wool content in German uniforms issued on the Italian front has been reduced from 40 to 35 per cent., the Allied command announced today after examining clothing of recently captured Nazi soldiers. There has been a similar reduction in quality of other materials, the announcement said.

Triquet Given Great Reception

By GUY BEAUDRY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

CABANO, Que., April 4—(CP)—Maj. Paul Triquet, first French-Canadian to win the Victoria Cross in this war, arrived in his native village to-day, to receive a welcome from practically the entire population.

Shouts of "Hello Paul" and cheers resounded through the little station even before Major Triquet made an appearance on the rear platform of a local that brought him to this Temiscouata County town from Riviere Du Loup, 40 to the north-west.

The 2,600 residents of the town turned out in force to welcome their native son, and the man who led a company of 80 through five heroic days at Casa Berardi, Italy, could not hide his emotion as he walked up the station platform.

He snapped to attention a second later as the bugle band of the Cabano School played the "general salute" with the notes echoing repeatedly from surrounding hills.

Smartly lining the small square fronting the station Company A of Les Fusiliers Saint Laurent, a reserve Army unit trained by Major Triquet's father, Maj. F. Georges Triquet, presented arms as the V. C. winner left the platform

Before inspecting the guard of honor, Maj. Triquet received warm hand-clasps from Mayor Isidore Berube, town councillors, and other civic officials, and Rev. J. Philippe Cyr, parish priest of Cabano.

As Maj. Triquet walked slowly through the ranks of the guard he stopped suddenly with a smile and picked up the cap of a young soldier, which had fallen when he sloped arms. The soldier blushed, and the Major walked on, still grinning.

ALEUTIANS' VOLCANO ROARS AS PLANES FLY OVER — A U.S. naval air transport service pilot-photographic officer made this remarkable aerial view of Veniamanof volcano in the Aleutians. The volcano is one of the oldest known and is estimated to have reached a height of from 18,000 to 20,000 feet before its top was blown off. The crater now is 9,000 feet high, with a new crater building up inside the old one. Veniamanof's last major eruption caused the evacuation of the town of Perryville.

Dr. Vivian Outlines Program For Rehabilitating Blind

COBOURF, April 4 (ENS)—Only through the individual efforts of the various groups can the state program be successful declared the Hon Dr. R. P. Vivian, Minister of Health for Ontario, in addressing a meeting of committees of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind of Northumberland and Durham counties, on Saturday afternoon. Dr. Vivian addressed them on "Reconditioning of the Handicapped." A. R. Willmott of Cobourg was chairman.

Mayor Jack Burnet in welcoming Dr. Vivian, declared that it was the first official visit of the Minister of Health to Cobourg and that the town was indeed proud to be thus honored.

The mayor also paid tribute to Premier George Drew, citing a recent instance in which he had a letter from Mr. Drew in connection with a town matter. The mayor pointed out that it was a personal letter written in a matter-of-fact way, ungarnished with high-sounding phrases written by a secretary to somebody's secretary.

"I have had the occasion to receive two or three very courteous gestures from Mr. Drew and I would say to you, Dr. Vivian, that your leader is a gentleman as well as a leader," declared Mayor Burnet.

Can Learn Lesson

There is a great lesson to be learned from the way the blind conducted themselves, Dr. Vivian told his listeners. If those who have all their faculties could conduct their daily lives with the same fortitude as the blind, it would indeed be a credit to them. He paid tribute to Colonel Baker of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, as a man who had incorporated into his daily life, qualities which few with all their faculties were fortunate to possess.

"Your undertaking is to render assistance to those who have lost one of their most important faculties. I doubt if we, no matter what we do, can compensate them for what they have lost. People lose their sight in both military and civilian life. In particular the greatest loss is where a child is born without the use of sight and it has not the advantage of at least some portion of its life spent in the possession of all its faculties. One cause is that of social diseases, a terrible heritage for a child to receive when it is born," he stated.

School Work

He went on to describe the work that was planned in connection with health among school children. The blue print has been prepared and it is hoped to build from it an effective and broad program of child health so as to assure every child a sound start in its physical and mental life. Accidents are the cause of many of the cases of blindness from children up. In the case of children, matches and firecrackers and sticks are things which are more or less ignored as being dangerous until tragedy struck. In industry and commerce as well, there is a field of preventative effort which comes within the scope of the Institute for the Blind, Mr. Vivian said.

Start New Life

"Help them to get a new start in life. It is a consolation to those who have suddenly lost their sight, to know that near at hand is sympathy and help. It makes their lot less hard. I can think of no greater shock than one of suddenly becoming blind and of having to think in terms of pencils and the tin cup. May the packet of pencils and the tin cup be ever disassociated from our program. The rehabilitation of the blind should not be a case of handing out charity but of enabling the blind to earn their way and to feel that they again have an economic independence which is apart from the stigma of charity. Money alone is but a small part of your work. We must retain a voluntary effort in what you do. Mere spending of money is not sufficient as it must have the worthwhile value of voluntary effort regardless of what funds are available. The state effort is merely the accumulated group experience of the individual.

"In reclaiming those who have lost their sight, it is necessary to restore to them their independence and sense of economic balance in the provision of those facilities which will enable him to be reclaimed as an economic factor in the useful life of the community. A period of training will be necessary and industrial concerns should realize that they too, have a job to do. The loss of one faculty does not mean the loss of all, but, on the contrary, the loss of one may increase the value of those remaining. The problem of rehabilitation is a difficult one which rests upon the unhandicapped as a duty to perform and it is not just a war-time problem. For the returned man, the rehabilitation centre is not good enough when it gives him a period of hospitalization and then turns him loose. There is a gap not yet bridged between the end of his hospitalization and his economic re-establishment in life. The effort is not maintained where such a gap is allowed to exist and it is our duty to see that the effort is continual.

Need To Do More

"The problems of the future," he continued, "go far beyond the simple reclaiming of the individual. Give to the returned man and the re-allocated family your help and understanding and extend it to other types of casualties. Cooperate with other groups and expand that effort of understanding and sympathy. All departments of your provincial government are concerned with these problems and are ready and anxious to help in every way that lies in their power," he said in conclusion.

D. B. Lawley of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, Toronto, who is blind, described the senses as five gateways through which a man reaches forward into life. When one gateway, such as sight, failed, it became the work of the Institute to contact the person thus afflicted, and teach him how to make the other four senses work overtime and make up for the loss of the fifth. When that efect has been brought about, the blind walks with a greater incentive in life and he receives through his other four senses the ideas which hitherto had been received through the eye.

"We should therefore, all of us, sympathize with each other for our various handicaps when we realize that there has been but one Perfect Man, Jesus Christ, ever to walk on this earth," he declared.

Mr. Lawley paid tribute to Dr. Vivian's health program.

"My wife and I studied his Chatham speech—my wife from the point of view of a person who can see, and I as one who is blind, and we both realized that it was a real program," he said.

Jap Invaders Hold Road Near Imphal

American Troops Drive Deep Into Burma Jungle

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, April 5 (AP)—The Japanese invaders of India were reported reliably today to be holding a 15-mile stretch of the road midway between Imphal, on the Manipur Plain and Kohima, 60 miles north. There they must establish a pre-monsoon, weather-worthy line of communications within six weeks—or disastrously lose their first gamble for the Bengal-Assam railway, an Allied lifeline.

A Southeast Asia communique announced Japanese pressure has increased along the whole Assam front. It told of a successful rear guard action by British and Indian troops withdrawing from the south up the road from Tiddim toward the edge of the main defences of the Imphal Plain.

Some of these Allied troops have been depending on supplies and ammunition dropped from the air as they fight their way north through Japanese parties which have cut the road.

The communique said Japanese forces which had reached the Imphal-Kohima highway have not yet been dislodged.

On the Arakan front along the Bay of Bengal British troops advancing toward the Japanese-held port of Akyab occupied Alethangdaw, south of Maungdaw, the communique said.

A dispatch by William Boni, Associated Press correspondent with American and Chinese forces in the Mogaung valley of North Burma disclosed a deep penetration behind Japanese lines by American marauder troops. They recently struck at the Japanese at Inkanghtawng, only 16 miles airline north of Kamaing. Kamaing, in turn, is some 20 miles northwest of Mogaung, on the railroad from Mandalay to Myitkyina, main Japanese base in North Burma.

Bucharest Raid Destroys 49 Hun Planes

By LYNN HEINZERLING
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, April 5 —(AP)—Strong formations of United States heavy bombers, in their first attack on Bucharest yesterday, caused considerable damage to the railway yards through which German supplies roll to the Russian front and left one-third of the Rumanian capital covered with a heavy cloud of smoke, headquarters announced today.

First reports indicated the gunners in the heavy bombers shot down 46 planes in a battle lasting more than an hour and that the pilots of the escorting fighters accounted for three more. Twelve Allied planes were lost in yesterday's operations in this theatre which included raids against supply dumps, bridges, gun positions and bivouacs in the Italian battle area and sweeps against shipping off the Dalmatian coast.

The Berlin radio asserted 44 planes were downed by German and Rumanian fighters during the Bucharest attack.

Bucharest was the third Balkan capital to feel the sting of Allied bombs within a week, Budapest having been hit Monday and Monday night and Sofia earlier.

One cluster of bombs landed among freight cars drawn up at a siding and was believed to have destroyed 80 units of rolling stock. Three choke points in the yards were reported hit squarely and photo interpreters also claimed bomb bursts among adjacent industrial buildings and nearby military barracks. A roundhouse was said to have been partly destroyed and fires were left blazing in a block of warehouses 1,400 feet long.

The yards form a figure eight and one locomotive depot at the southern end received several hits. Five main buildings were reported in flames.

About 200 planes were reported encountered during the raid and one group put up desperate resistance, battling a bomber formation for one hour and 20 minutes. Anti-aircraft fire was described as moderate.

Strikes Grow In Britain And Ireland

Scotland Yard Raids Branch Offices

By E. D. BALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 5 (AP)—The total of strikers in the United Kingdom reached 100,000 today, with 30,000 men in Belfast idle in addition to 70,000 in Yorkshire coal mines.

In the Belfast district 20,000 were idle in shipyards, 7,000 in aircraft plants 2,000 in munitions works and several hundred on the docks.

Labor Minister Ernest Bevin met with the general council of the Trades Union Congress trying to halt the wildcat coal strikes.

The recent strike by Tyneside Shipyard has been largely broke, and by last night 60 per cent of some 20,000 workers who walked out had returned.

In Belfast, men at the big Harland and Wolff Shipyards began laying down their tools last night after the government rejected their ultimatum demanding release of five men sentenced to three months imprisonment on charges of striking illegally. The five, all shop stewards, participated in an aircraft plant strike in sympathy with a walkout by workers in other Belfast shipyards.

The coal strikes which began weeks ago in South Wales—where 70,000 miners were idle at one time—started over provisions of a government wage award. While South Wales fields are for the most part back in production now, some 70,000 Yorkshire miners are in the second week of a strike protesting deductions from their pay for coal used in their homes.

Scotland Yard detectives today raided the offices of the British section of the Fourth International in a move reported to be connected with the promise of drastic action againts strikes interfering with second front production.

The raid, made by members of the Yard's special branch on a meeting place of British Trotskyists followed Labor Minister Ernest Bevin's statement yesterday that the war would not be lost because of strikes by apprentices, miners or anyone else.

The raid was carried out while the Labor Minister was due to meet Trades Union council officials to discuss the spreading strikes in the mines, which have resulted in reduced gas and electricity supplies.

Crowds, gathered around the office on Harrow road in Paddington district, saw the officers drive away with a young woman. Other officers remained at the office to search the premises which contained files of "Socialist Appeal" the so-called organ of the Revolutionary Communist Party.

The Press had linked the Fourth International with inciting the apprentices' strike in the Clydeside and Tyneside and Huddersfield shipyards.

The action by Scotland Yard was taken as the first outward sign that the government may have to hit at subversive elements before getting to the root of the situation in the coalfields.

The first references to the possibility that subversive influences

A Messy Crash

BRANTFORD, April 5 — (CP).—A nightmarish accident took place here last week when a transport truck and an automobile piled up in a street. Most lurid effects were produced by the five-ton transport when its load of 3 1-2 tons of tomatoes, tea, coffee and empty bottles were scattered and splashed over a large sector of the block.

Says Antonescu Ready To Sue For Peace

NEW YORK, April 5 — (AP).—A Blue Network broadcast from London to-day quoted dispatches from Turkey as saying Premier Antonescu of Rumania will seek an armistice from London, Washington, and Moscow.

The network's correspondent, Thomas B. Grandin, said such a course had been urged upon the Premier by an emissary he sent to Cairo to negotiate with the United Nations.

"The time is near when the Germans no longer will be able to hold the Balkans," Grandin said. "Nothing would be less surprising than a complete collapse of Rumania."

Decries Bombing

The Associated Press had no confirmation of the report, which came less than 24 hours after U.S. bombers had smashed at targets in Bucharest and while Russian troops were advancing only 200 miles north-east of the Rumanian capital.

Earlier the Berlin radio said Antonescu had issued a proclamation deploring the U.S. attack and calling upon his people to stand firm.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, quoted Antonescu as saying:

"Instead of understanding and justice from those we have never attacked and to whom we have felt thanks for the past, they have vented on us the terrible revenge of air bombardment, taking innocent lives of women and children, making many families paupers and destroying the faith in their hearts."

Daylight Attacks Resumed After 3-Day Lull

LONDON, April 5, — (CP) — United States heavy bombers attacked military objectives in the Pas-de-Calais area of France today, Air Force headquarters announced.

As the bombers, flying with a strong escort of fighters, reopened the daylight aerial pounding of Europe from the west after a three-day lull, the Berlin radio claimed other bomber fleet were over central Germany in mid-afternoon.

Keeping up a running commentary on the progress of the bombers, the radio said the hostile planes were leaving Reich territory at 4 p.m.

Cologne Raided

The daylight operations followed heavy blows by U.S. and British Mediterranean-based Air Forces at Balkan capitals and night attack on Cologne and other objectives in the industrial Ruhr by R.A.F. Mosquitoes.

The Mosquitoes, some of which now carry 4,000-pound block-busters, all returned safely.

An air ministry communique said a Mosquito on offensive patrol over northern France yesterday shot down a single enemy plane.

Maintaining the renewed aerial offensive, strong forces of Allied daylight raiders were heard thundering out over England's southeast coast today.

Several continental radio stations went off the air suddenly during the morning, but at 11 a.m. (5 a.m. EDT) the Berlin radio said there were no Allied planes over Germany.

Last night's operation was the Mosquitoes' second time out in four nights this month.

The German-controlled Paris radio said bombs had fallen again last night on Switzerland, where the city of Schaffhausen was accidentally hit by U.S. bombers last Saturday. There was no immediate confirmation of this from Swiss sources.

Hedy Gets Hot

HOLLYWOOD, April 5 — (AP). — A press agent's dream came true yesterday: Hedy Lamarr caught fire in a movie love scene. Actor Paul Henreid was lighting her cigaret when her filmy veil ignited. Henreid extinguished the blaze, which damaged Hedy's veil and gown but not Hedy, before studio firemen arrived.

Fliers Ordered To Go After Nazi Airforce

BY ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 5 — (CP) — Temporarily, the Royal Air Force and the Royal Canadian Air Force have given up train busting. This was a phase of the aerial war in which the Canadians excelled but they are apparently just as hot at the present-day stuff which is aimed at thinning the ranks of the Luftwaffe.

An R.A.F. commentator, disclosing that train-busting is a thing of the past, said one of the reasons for this was the new policy of making the German Air Force the main target.

Another reason is that great attention is being paid by Allied medium and fighter-bomber to important "military targets" in the Pas de Calais area and, further, the enemy locomotive replacement and repair facilities have been speeded up which tends to lessen the advantage which would be gained by smashing up trains in northern France.

An additional factor is that Russia's sweeping offensive is shortening Germany's supply lines and to some extent freeing locomotives for other work.

Look For Trouble

"We are doing to the enemy what he tried to do to us last year when he sent over in daylight fast fighter bombers," said the commentator.

But there is a difference. To quote the commentator: "We are doing it 50 times better. The pilots themselves call it looking for trouble, which they frequently find."

An example of the skill of Canadian fliers at this sort of thing is the late March sortie 400 miles into northern France and Germany by two R.C.A.F. Mosquitoes which shot down three enemy planes over their bases and destroyed or damaged 17 others on the ground.

A new phase in the daylight sorties by Mosquitoes and Typhoons is the stepping-up of attacks on German training schools deep in occupied territory during which many training aircraft have been shot down or destroyed on the ground.

Trap 200,000 Axis Troops In Black Sea Corridor; Battles Rage In Tarnopol

Remnants Of 15 German Divisions Nearing Annihilation; New Blows Launched At Lwow City

By HENRY C. CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, April 5—(AP).—Russians battered their way through the Black Sea marshlands which lie before the suburbs of Odessa today, moved within 5 miles of the Polish frontier and steadily liquidated the Tarnopol garrison and the last survivors of 15 trapped divisions at Skala. The extreme right flank of Marshal Gregory Khukov's 1st Ukrainian Army pushed on beyond Gorokhov in the area between Lwow and Lutsk to the approaches of the Polish frontier.

(The Russians are far beyond the 1939 Polish frontier but Moscow recognizes the boundary she established with Germany after the last partition of Poland.)

Climax Near.

Pressing through the outer defences of Odessa, the Russians smashed one strongpoint after another. The battle for Odessa was swiftly approaching a climax and Gen. Rodion Malinovsky was reported gearing his troops for storming operations.

Press reports said the Germans at Skala, north of the Upper Dniester, had abandoned hope and were blindly carrying out Hitler's orders to fight to the last bullet. An Izvestia correspondent who flew low over the Skala "kettle" said the Nazi position looked like a gypsy camp. Soviet bombers, stormoviks, and artillery were wiping them out. One group of advancing Russians reported finding 2,000 trucks and 20 tanks burned out.

Russian troops cut the Germans last overland railway from Odessa to-day by capturing the junction of Razdelnaya, 40 miles north-west of the beleaguered Black Sea naval base.

Marshal Stalin announced the victory in a broadcast order of the day declaring Razdelnaya was "an important strong point in German defences on the approaches to Odessa." He said the coup cut "the main road of retreat to Rumania."

Some 200,000 German and Rumanian troops now are pinned against the Black Sea in the Odessa littoral. The only escape roue remaining open to the Germans is a small ferry line across from Odessa to Ovidiopol.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st Army already is in possession of most of Tarnopol, a Soviet communique announced, and a savage struggle was being waged to oust the fiercely resisting German garrison. More than 3,000 Nazis were killed and 300 captured during the past three days, the bulletin added, as they fought for every foot of ground. The 10-day battle for the city, a bastion guarding the approaches to Lwow, 70 miles further west, apparently was reaching its climax.

Other Red Army forces, driving on Kishinev, capital of Bessarabia, have captured 30 localities on a 50-mile front straddling both sides of the lower Dniester, the communique announced, and were within 32 miles of the city of Doibany. Osipovka, 35 miles north of Tiraspol, another important communications centre, also fell to the Russian advance.

While there were no reports of further progress by Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 2nd army in its drive inside Rumania toward Iasi, Zhukov's left wing, operating just north of Konev's front, slashed deeper into the Skala pocket west of Kamenets Podolsk. The Russians met spirited opposition from the trapped Germans, who launched desperate at-

Italian Troops With Allies Repulse Attack

NAPLES, April 5—(AP).—Italian troops on Mount Marrone, 15 miles northeast of Cassino, have repulsed a German counter-attack, inflicting casualties, it was announced today.

The Italians, fighting with the Allied 5th Army, were reported last week to have seized the mile-high peak as well as two others in the vicinity.

Elsewhere along the front there were heavy artillery duels and sharp patrol clashes at many points. Allied artillery caused casualties among the Germans and destroyed two ammunition dumps.

Considerable enemy movement was observed just northwest of Cassino, dispatches from the front said. In Cassino itself an enemy patrol was attacked with small arms fire and six of its members were killed.

Fifth Army patrols on the Garigliano front discovered new German machine-gun positions which were brought under fire by mortar batteries.

Allied artillery was active, meanwhile, on the Anzio beachhead front south of Rome, hitting and setting afire a German self-propelled gun just west of Cisterna, blasting an ammunition dump three miles northwest of the town, and inflicting casualties on smaller groups a mile to the southwest.

Bomber Pilot Dodges Death

LONDON, April 5—(CP)—It would have been an accident, but an American Negro pilot came within a hair of wiping out the entire high command of the R.A.F. some time ago in Italy.

It happened this way:

Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles Portal, Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, acting Air Chief Marshal Arthur Coningham and Air Vice Marshal Broadhurst, with their staffs, were standing at the end of a rough makeshift airstrip watching fighter-bombers of the 9th Negro Fighter-Bomber squadron take off loaded with two 500-pound bombs each.

Just as one plane lifted off the ground near the distinguished assembly the motor of the ship failed. It crashed 20 yards away and skidded into a ditch, scraping the bombs on the rough ground while privates and air marshals hugged the earth. Out stepped a frightened pilot who said: "If those things had gone off I would have gone to heaven with a lot of high-powered company."

Jap Air Power Wanes In Pacific

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, April 5.—(AP).—Destruction of powerful Japanese fighter and bomber forces built up over a period of months at Hollandia serves notice on the Japanese that their days in New Guinea are numbered.

The largest striking force of bombers ever thrown at a Japanese target in the Southwest Pacific was assembled April 3, and in one hour and 13 minutes they blanketed Hollandia's three airdromes with 400 tons of demolition and incendiary bombs.

In the largest of three strikes they wiped out the last of a fleet of 288 bombers and fighters the Japs had assembled for offensive blows against the Allies who are steadily pushing up from the southeast.

Hollandia cannot long stand such punishment and it appears to be headed the way of other important Japanese bases which collapsed before it.

Toronto Children Take No Chances

TORONTO, April 5 — (CP) — Toronto's children weren't taking any chances last night.

With enforcement of a 9 p.m. Curfew Law for children under 16 authorized by city council Monday night, police reported today that "absence of children on the streets was noticeable in all districts."

The added scores of protests have been received from parents who want to know if their children may go to Boy Scout and Girl Guide meetings which keep them out until after curfew.

"Where can we get our children back if they are arrested?" asked one worried parent.

Police said the law would be enforced "with common sense and good judgment."

Confidence In Future Well-founded

MONTREAL, April 5 — (CP). — Canadian confidence in the future, "even in an uncertain future," seems well-founded, Col. the Hon. J. J. Astor, president of the Empire Press Union and publisher of the London Times, said here today.

"Nature has endowed your country with enormous wealth," he said in an address before the Montreal Canadian Club. "With her remarkable industrial development, with her faith and courage for high accomplishment, I like to think of the greatness that lies before her....

"In the ranks of world powers with a prestige and authority far beyond the size of her population, she will make a mighty contribution to the building of a better world."

Col. Astor described conditions in Britain, with particular reference to the newspaper field. He said that the fall of France "with all it implied" led to complete and exemplary co-operation among newspapers in pooling of resources, newsprint and mutual assistance of every kind.

"We have become adaptable," he said. "Like you, I am sure, we have learned to get on with a third of our staff away. Unlike you, I notice, we have to compress news, debates, official statements, pictures, features, into a fifth or less of our normal space....

"We have come to refuse advertisements, as if it were a pleasure to do so. Only a trickle of them gets in. We have learned to keep our mouths shut—breaches of confidence have been most rare and trivial, yet at times there must have been many 'in the know.'

Czech Brigade Enters First

Plan Arranged When Russians Free Country

WASHINGTON, April 5 — (AP) — The Czechlovak government in London has agreed with Russia, Britain and the United States on a plan for administering its territory as soon as military operations permit.

The Czech Embassy was so advised today in a communication from London, which said a delegation of the government will go into Czechlovakian liberated areas the moment the Red Army command declares them behind-the-line.

The Red Army is practically at the Czech northeast border already, but first Allied troops to re-enter the country are to be an independent Czech brigade, the message said. Czech liaison officers also are to accompany Russian troops moving into their territory.

Negotiations with the three big powers on Czech plans for civil administration have been carried on through diplomatic channels, according to the dispatch, indicating that the matter did not pass through the European Advisorary Council in London.

Czech Ambassador Vladimir Hurban pointed out that President Edward Benes already has appealed to Czech Underground leaders to form small secret committees in every village and town to work with the returning government.

The plans for Czechslovakia do not provide for any form of Allied military government.

Invasion of India Has Political Flavor

Japs Hope To Foment Rebellion Against British Rule Across Whole Of India

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

When the Japanese invaded the Manipur Region of India from Burma recently this column said the operation didn't constitute a major threat to the Allies, but that it would be a mistake to treat it lightly.

There are three main theatres. One is the north. The second is about half way down the western side—where the Mikado's men have crossed into India. The third is along the coast.

Th quarrel in the upper theatres is mainly concerned with communications—China's lifeline.

The fighting in the extreme northern theatre revolves about the Allied effort to oust the enemy so the Ledo road can be extended to China. The main objective is the Japanese base of Mystkyina, head of the railway that runs south to Rangoon on the coast. The Allies have this base surrounded.

In the second theatre, where the Japanese have crossed into India, they are aiming at the railway, about 75 miles from the border, and have covered about half the distance through the jungles. If they should cut the line they would raise havoc with Allied communication to China, since land and air transport are co-ordinated.

The Japanese have another important objective in this drive. That's political. They claim the invasion is being made by the Indian Army of Freedom. They want to start a revolt in India against Britain.

In the southern theatre on the coast the Allies are conducting an offensive from India to capture the powerful base of Akyab. That must be in Allied hands before an amphibious invasion of Burma can be attempted.

Willkie Loses Ground Fast

Dewey Favored In Wisconsin Primary

MILWAUKEE, April 5 — (AP).—Supporters of Governor Thomas E. Dewey claimed a decisive boost for their "Draft Dewey" drive today as he built up a widening lead in returns of Wisconsin's Presidential primary—with Lt.-Cmdr. Harold E. Stassen, ormer Governor of Minnesota, Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur, Allied South-west Pacific Commander, and Wendell Willkie trailing.

"This indicates conclusively not only that Dewey will be drafted, but that he already has been drafted," said Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, leader of the delegate candidates who ran for Dewey despite his disavowal.

In New York, Governor Dewey withheld comment.

Indications with less than one-third of the total Wisconsin vote yet to be tabulated were that Dewey's triumph might be overwhelming.

Twenty-four delegates to the Republican National Convention were elected. Here's how the four Presidential prospects stood in the number of victorious or apparently-victorious delegate candidates in returns from 2,220 of the State's 3,076 precincts:

Dewey — 14, with 3 others possible.
Stassen—4.
MacArthur—3.
Willkie—None.

Incomplete but representative returns from each of the 10 Congressional districts showed all the Willkie men running far behind.

Chaplin Freed On Two Counts

By JAMES LINDSLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LOS ANGELES, April 5 (AP).— Film Comedian Charlie Chaplin relaxed to-day from a court ordeal which brought his acquittal on charges Mann Act violation, while red-haired Joan Berry, 24, his accuser, shrugged off the verdict with the comment:

"I hope he's happy. After all, I was just a witness. If the jury believed Mr. Chaplin, that is their business."

Scanning smiling pictures of Chaplin in newspaper extras, Miss Berry remarked, "He looks very happy, doesn't he?"

Chaplin's ourth wie, Oona O'Neill, exclaimed:

"I'm so glad I can hardly speak. I knew he was innocent."

The 18-year-old Oona is expecting a child.

Chaplin, who will be 55 in a week or so, was acquitted late yesterday by a Federal Court jury. The trial, in which the Government charged he transported Miss Berry, his former drama pupil, to New York and back for immoral purposes, began March 21.

The actor-producer kept a firm rein on his emotions during the trial, but came close to breaking at the conclusion. When it was announced that the jury was coming in with the verdict, he placed his head in his hands.

He didn't look up when the jury foreman, Roscoe Reeder, handed the verdict to Court Clerk Francis Cross.

Spectators Applaud.

"We find the defendant not guilty on count one," Cross read. Chaplin looked up and a wave of applause swept the crowded courtroom. Judge J. F. T. O'Connor

ALGIERS, April 5 — (AP). — Two French Communists, Fernand Grenier and Francoix Billoux, yesterday became members of the French Committee of National Liberation, ending more than six months' negotiations between Gen. Charles De Gaulle, head of the Committee, and the French Communist Party.

Grenier is a former leader in the French underground movement.

In a revision of the Committee, De Gaulle replaced War Commissioner Andre Letroquer with Andre Diethelm, formerly Production Commissioner. A Corsican senator, Paul Giacobbi, was appointed Production Commissioner. Letroquer was named Commissioner for Liberated Territories under the Committee's civil and military administration project for the invasion of France.

Grenier was named Commissioner for Air Forces and Billoux as Commissioner of State without portfolio.

Easter Brings $18 From Auburn School

Very soon now, school children will be tripping merrily home for some ten days holidays from their scholastic duties, and probably many a whoop of joy might be heard if one was in close proximity to the school when this recess begins.

Apart from the sterner fact that they are in the preparatory stage for the many responsibilities which they will have to face in the future, these are really the happiest days of their lives, and most people feel that this is their due, for the happiness that radiates from them has an invigorating way of spreading to the elder folk as well.

All pleasure is much sweeter when backed by a genuine feeling that it has been really earned and boys and girls associated together in a work to help other people who are in distressful circumstances, may really feel that they have done a worth-while task, from which they themselves have every cause to feel a satisfaction which should enhance their own pleasure to a marked degree, apart from the fact that in helping others, they learn much of value to themselves.

Auburn School Totals $141.88

All deeds of kindness and good for others naturally follow from someone taking a lead in the matter, and how well it succeeds is in a large measure determined by how active this leadership happens to be, in giving inspiration to those from whom the support must come to make it a success.

Auburn School No. 11 of Douro Township has figured quite prominently in the work being carried on by the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, for under the leadership of Miss Lena Dewart, this one school has now totaled the fine sum of $141.88 raised for the purpose of relieving the distress of those striken through air raids over Britain since the beginning of last year.

Of this, the sum of $82.87 was raised during 1943, and already this year they have been credited with four donations for a total of $59.01 when the gift of $18.00 listed in their name to-day is included. This latest contribution is the largest of any one amount raised so far this year.

This school has only thirty-eight pupils, so there has already come very close indeed to a per capita average of $4.00 per pupil for the fund, testifying to the wonderful support the parents have given to the teachers lead in the holding o social evenings, the latest of which took place last Friday March 31, and was responsible for this latest gift.

Another Personal Gift

Easter, symbol of new life following the greatest personal sacrifice for the redemption of mankind the world has ever known, sees another personal gift from one who wishes to be known as "A Friend" and it meant a sacrifice on the part of its donor, which will certainly help to bring new life to people who have been bombed out of their homes.

Two young boys, Neil Thompson and Donald Curry were associated together in rolling alleys and selling them to earn a dollar for the fund, their very act showing they are conscious of the need, which they set about doing something in a practical way to alleviate.

Final Broadcast Of VON Tonight

It is more than ten years since "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was acted in Peterborough, but there was a time —around the turn of the century— when it was a regular visitor to the old Grand Theatre. There were more thrills in the play than are to be found in most movies; there was the scene at the slave auction, Eliza crossing the ice pursued by bloodhounds, Marks the lawyer riding on a donkey, Uncle Tom flogged to death by Simon Legree and usually a final tableau of the meeting of Uncle Tom and Little Eva in heaven.

But the big thrill of the play for many people was the scene in which Little Eva died and was wafted away to heaven (hauled up on a wire); there were two schools of thought about Eva: there were those who thought that she was the most beautiful and perfect child of all time, and there were those who thought that she was an impossible little pest, setting a painfully high standard of goodness for ordinary sinful children. But whatever was thought about her, no one seemed to ask why she died; perhaps it was assumed that such a good child simply could not live.

As a matter of fact, Eva died of tuberculosis which was neglected until it was far advanced, and then poorly treated. At the time when "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was written tuberculosis was usually fatal. If Eva had been cared for according to modern ideas of child upbringing she would not have died, and she probably would not have been so excruciatingly good—she would have had too much vitality.

In the last of the series of broadcasts which the local branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses is sponsoring, Little Eva's Death Scene from "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be acted in a manner which, it is hoped, will recall the old Opera House days to many listeners. By implication a contrast is drawn between the sort of child care which allowed Eva to die, and modern child care, which does everything possible to keep our children alive and healthy and full of energy. No effort has been spared to make this final broadcast, "Kaleidoscope Number 4," the most entertaining of the series.

Those who will be heard this evening, at 8.45 over CHEX are Barbara Bothwell, Mary Hale, Alene Holt, Lucy Jane McClellan, Margaret White, John Bradshaw, Robertson Davies and R. L. Hale. Technical direction will be by Frank Schoales and the program will be produced by Brenda Davies from a script specially prepared by Samuel Marchbanks. This is the last of the Kaleidoscope series.

were at work against the war effort came during the strike at the Tyneside Shipyard Apprentices.

Today the Daily Telegraph reported the existence of two suspected organizations, the workers military movement and the revolutionary communist party, whose members are fanatical believers in Class War and Revolutionary Socialism.

Subversive Planning

The Workers Militant movement was connected in newspaper stories with the apprentices strike, the back of which has now been broken; and the second organization was said by the Telegraph to have the same objective — promotion of strikes and the overthrow of established machinery for dealing with industrial disputes.

Meanwhile Mr. Bevin, in a two-hour conference with the T.C.U. leaders, told how regulations governing "unofficial" strikes would have to be tightened.

The council passed a resolution deploring the strikes and supporting the Minister's statement on the importance of maintaining the existing system of negotiation and conciliation in all labor disputes.

The Minister declared yesterday that the entire structure of industrial relations was jeopardized by the Yorkshire miners, who have been on strike against the advice of their leaders.

The fact that they chose to strike on the heels of the serious strike in the Welsh coalfields, despite the existance of an elaborate arbitration machinery and the recent wage awards generally regarded as favorable, has been a puzzle to all the press.

City Council Rejects Park Suggestions

"We've got enough problems without taking on another," was the comment of Mayor Hamilton Monday night in a reference to a letter to the Examiner signed by A. F. Ross.

The letter suggested municipal support to the park idea for the northern section of the county which has been the subject of considerable controversy since Senator Duffus mentioned at a Kinsmen Club dinner the possibility of obtaining a national park.

Mayor Hamilton had read the Ross letter, and enquired of the council: "Do you want to go into that question?" And the answer, in unison, from some of the aldermen was "No."

An air of "expectancy and hopefulness" prevails over England at present, Col. Astor said.

11,000 Berliners Die In 2 Raids

STOCKHOLM, April 5 — (AP).— Eleven thousand Berliners were killed in the last two raids on the German capital, the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet reported today in a story attributed to a diplomatic source with a wide knowledge of Berlin damage.

The story said the Bayer medical concern on Kurfuerstendamm was destroyed by a blockbuster which killed 200.

(In the last big raid on Berlin, the night of March 24, the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. dropped 2,800 tons of bombs. On March 22, U.S. heavy bombers hit Berlin with 1,500 tons.)

The hardest hit industrial suburbs were listed as Dahlem, Zehlendorf, Grunewald and Halensee. The Siemenstadt area was declared completely in ruins.

Eastern and northern industrial sections appear less heavily hit, the story said.

The story reiterated previous unconfirmed reports that Joachim Ribbentrop's Foreign Ministry was moving to Vienna, where it was expected to take up quarters in the Imperial Hotel. Nazi party leaders were reported concentrating on Munich.

It was said anti-aircraft and other defences of Vienna are being increased.

Breeders Hold Annual Meeting

COBOURG, April 5 — (ENS) — Good attendance featured the annual meeting of the Northumberland Holstein breeders held at Warkworth at which R. M. Holtby, who for the past 20 years has directed and encouraged the breed in this area, was the main speaker. Mr. Holtby pointed out the value of having good cattle to sell and using good salesmanship. In commenting on the action of the association in appointing him fieldman emeritus, he said that he wanted it understood that he was now, after 75 years as a working man, able to be a gentleman and do as he pleased. He asked for the same co-operation for his successor, whom he expected would be George F. Drennan.

Agricultural Representative Ralph C. Banbury, stated that cattle and their products brought over half of the farm income of Northumberland County is widely known. He outlined that three calf clubs were planned with Wooler, Campbellford and Port Hope agricultural societies and five other clubs were being arranged for girls and boys.

The Holstein breed appears in an excellent condition, it was pointed out, with the breeders saying that they could sell twice as many cattle as they have available and that purchasers were expressing satisfaction with Northumberland breeding stock and coming back for more when available. The club, through its salesmen, sold nearly $26,000 worth of cattle, which is only a part of the breeding stock, in the year.

Curfew Law Bewilders Toronto People

TORONTO, April 5—Confusion was apparent in Toronto yesterday concerning enforcement of the Children's Protection Act as bewildered parents inquired the effect of City Council's action in requesting enforcement of the act.

Not only were parents perplexed by the clauses of the act but amusement place proprietors demanded an interpretation of the council's action.

The Children's Protection Act is a Provincial statute and not a city by-law. City Council has not passed anything new but merely requested enforcement of the Provincial statute which is applicable throughout Ontario.

Council's action of Monday was a request to the police department; to the officials of the Juvenile Court; the Toronto Children's Aid Society and the St. Vincent de Paul Children's Aid Society to enforce the provisions of the act.

Officials Not Consulted

Officials responsible for enforcement, however, point out they were not consulted in advance concerning City Council's intention and had not received a request to enforce the act.

Part of the motion carried by Council instructed City Clerk James W. Somers to communicate with enforcement officials and notify them of the Council's request that the act be enforced. Under normal circumstances, a letter from Mr. Somers should reach them shortly.

An official of the Civil Legal Department said yesterday the courts were the final interpreters of the act. In general, however, the provisions against children under 16 "loitering" in any public place or in any public amusement resort mean that the child must be "loitering" to infringe the law.

He pointed out that a youngster returning home from a Boy Scout meeting, for instance, would not be "loitering," and a Boy Scout meeting could not be considered a "public place."

Some Affairs Exempted.

Children under 16 could attend a school or church affair unaccompanied by an adult because affairs of this sort are not "public," the lawyer stated. A dance to which tickets are sold freely to the public would be the type of affair to which children could not go unless accompanied by a parent or guardian.

City Hall, Police Department and Boy Scout and Girl Guide headquarters were busy yesterday answering calls from parents who desired clarification of the act.

Bowling alley operators were particularly concerned regarding the act. Could they hire pin boys under 16?

The act bans a child under 16 from places of entertainment after 9 p.m., unless accompanied by his parent or guardian, "or any adult appointed by the parent or guardian to accompany such child."

Under the act, no girl under 16 or boy under 12 is permitted to engage in any street trade or occupation at any hour. No boy under 16 may engage in any street trade or occupation after 10 p.m. These clauses are in addition to the "loitering" after 9 p.m. provision.

For violations of the act, any policeman or officer of the children's aid societies may warn the child for the first offence and then take the child to his home or to a children's shelter for subsequent offences. For the first offence, the parent is fined $1. For the second offence the penalty is $2 and increases to $5 for each subsequent transgression.

Police of the seven municipalities bordering Toronto all said last night that they had had no orders to enforce the Children's Protection Act, although several thought it would be a "good thing" in their respective localities. Some of the police questioned were not aware that the edict was a Provincial law, and that it never has been repealed, although enforcement had lapsed.

Guiding Work Told To Club

CAMPBELLFORD, April 5 (ENS) —The important work the Girl Guide movement was doing among the adolescent girls and the need for financial support that would enable them to broaden their work was pointed to in an address given before Rotarians on Monday. The speaker was Mrs. Wayne Conner, Kingston, Provincial Secretary of the Canadian Girl Guides, who was here on an inspection of the local group under the leadership of Miss Grace Payne. Mrs. R. J. Bale introduced the speaker to the gathering.

Mrs. Conner pointed to the need for more adequate recreation facilities for what she termed were the neglected girls in the 7 to 14-year-age group. She recalled adults were sometimes selfish in making provision for their own recreation by building golf courses, tennis courts, hockey rinks and rugby stadiums but were prone to neglect the needs of children who merely gathered around "the outer fringe" of these activities. The speaker asked the gathering to look around the community and see what recreational facilities had been provided for this group.

"Those who have had a happy childhood want other children to share the same, and those who were unhappy do not want children of this generation to be neglected as they were."

Mrs. Conner traced the growth of the movement, which was an offshoot of the Boy Scouts founded by Baden Powell, and took their name "Guides" from a famous Indian Regiment. Since that time the movement had spread to all corners of the earth and now had a membership of approximately two million. Many girls are still unable to share the advantages and training provided by the Girl Guides, because, according to the speaker, there were not enough leaders available in the movement. Too often the mistake was made of waiting till girls were spiritually or morally sick before any effort was made to do anything for them.

"To compete in the world of today a girl must have years of training—yet too often we forget to adequately prepare her for the role she must inevitably play according to the laws of nature—the role of womanhood."

In Guiding the girl learns leadership, duty, service, the joys of comradeship, love of the outdoors, good fellowship.

A vote of thanks was moved to the speaker by Rotarian O. C. Watson and in commenting on her suggestion of what could be done locally to help the movement, Rev. G. N. Maxwell suggested one of their greatest needs was a place to meet. This again raised the question of building a recreational centre as had been discussed by the club a year ago.

At the opening of the meeting, President Stu Stuart called on members to honor the memory of the late Charles Davidson, a charter member of the club, by observing a minute's silence.

Euchre Raises $22

FRASERVILLE, April 5—(ENS).—A euchre and dance was held in the hall recently, with 10 tables of euchre being played. Receipts were $22.25. Prizes were won by Sherman Morrison and Lloyd Huggins, high score; Mrs. N. Willan and Mr. Martin Henry, consolation.

A Limit For Speeches

The Roberts-Grummett resolution, designed to restrict speeches in the Ontario Legislature to forty minutes for private members, has been withdrawn by its sponsors, the members approving. The right of the M.P.P. to waste time has been preserved inviolate.

It would be a good thing if our legislators could be given a few weeks of experience as radio broadcasters; it would teach them a great deal about the value of time. It is really astonishing how much a man can say in five minutes, or ten minutes, or fifteen minutes if he sets his mind to it. But he must decide what he wants to say, and then he must find the most effective way of saying it in the time at his disposal; but such grapplings with essentials appear to be uncongenial to the gentlemen at Queen's Park. They want plenty of time to expand, repeat, and wander in their speeches. When a resolution is introduced which would confine them to forty minutes they become indignant, and talk about 'gags' and 'freedom of speech'.

We do not think that they know how long forty minutes is. An act of Hamlet or King Lear can be played in forty minutes. All but a very few of the world's great symphonies can be played within forty minutes. Two of John Donne's sermons could be delivered in forty minutes. Mr. Churchill or Mr. Roosevelt can review several months of war in forty minutes. But a member of the Legislature feels himself cramped if he is allowed only forty minutes to express himself on a matter of provincial importance.

We have a great respect for the Legislature and its functions and we know that the private members are its backbone. But we think it would be a good thing if they would take off their magnifying spectacles when next they look in the mirror.

The Battle Of The Funnies

The Japanese, like most profoundly solemn people, are often very funny without meaning to be. Their latest comic extravagance is to organize a "Greater East Asia Comic Study Society" which is going to make intensive researches into the American funny papers in order to discover their great power over the public. When this has been done, a Tokio broadcast tells us, "a large drive to bring the enemy to their knees will commence".

How the drive will work we do not know. Perhaps the Japanese comic artists will drop specially prepared comic papers over the American lines, hoping to sap the morale of the U.S. Marines with subtle jokes. We should like that to happen; the greeting which American soldiers would give a Japanese comic paper would be something to remember. Nothing is so unroariously funny as the attempt of one nation to adopt and use the sense of humour of another nation.

The Germans have made this mistake in the past. Having decided that the sense of humour of the British soldier was one of his sources of strength, the German General Staff on one occasion tried to develop a similar sense of humour among their own troops. The results were uproarious for everybody but the Germans. We are certain the Japanese attempts to create pseudo-American comic strips will be equally ill-fated.

We should like to see a Japanese conception of Superman. We should like to see what a Japanese artist could do in reproducing the heroic inanities of Brick Bradford. Particularly we should like to see a Japanese treatment of Li'l Abner Yokum. It would be confoozin', we predict, and also amoozin'.

Archery In Ontario

It is interesting to learn that the Department of Game and Fisheries plans to set aside an area in the Province for the exclusive use of those who hunt with the bow and arrow.

One or two of our contemporaries have demurred over this matter; they seem to think that it is cruel to kill game with an arrow, but quite a different matter to kill with a gun. We doubt if they have ever seen an accomplished archer in action. A well-placed arrow can kill as cleanly as any gun, and an arrow which goes amiss does not maim or torture an animal worse than a badly placed shot. The power of an arrow shot from a six-foot bow is quite sufficient to stop a deer in flight. Indeed it will kill a man if he is so unlucky as to be in the way; we must not forget that our ancestors used the bow as their chief weapon of war, and did very good work with it, too; they used the bow for hunting and they developed a skill in its use comparable with that of the best hunters who use guns. The bow is not a toy, but a deadly and efficient weapon in skilled hands.

It is also a sportsmanlike weapon. Hunting with a bow is sport of a very high order. How the more orthodox hunter develops his skill we do not know, but we doubt if he spends the long hours shooting at a target that the archer does. Getting the feel of the bow, learning the characteristics of various arrows—these take time and give great pleasure to the sportsman. We shall be glad to see the archers get their own preserve, and we hope that some interesting stories will come from it.

The Neglect Of Children

An alarming number of cases have been reported in the press lately in which children have died of neglect, because their parents were either too ignorant, or too indolent, or too malignant to care for them properly. But distressing and angering as these cases are, they are neither so numerous nor so important as the cases which never get into the news, because the children involved do not die, but drag out a neglected and doomed existence in spite of the worst that parental neglect can do.

Speaking of one serious case in which children were killed by neglect, a magistrate said bluntly that animals cared for their young better than some humans. He is quite right. But animals are relatively simple creatures, and their behaviour is set in readily predictable patterns; their mental processes are not complex; a degenerate animal, or a notably stupid or foolish animal, is a rarity. Human beings, on the other hand, are infinitely complicated, and we know to our sorrow that the degenerate, the stupid and the foolish make up a very considerable proportion of the population. In the animal world stupid animals die of their own folly; in our human world we have decided, with perhaps doubtful wisdom, to save the stupid from their own stupidity at great cost of effort, money and spirit to their superiors.

Having taken on this task, we must concern ourselves principally with children, for there is always a chance that a child who has been rescued from a squalid or malign environment will grow up to be a reasonably decent citizen. That is why we support and encourage a Children's Aid Society. The child which is habitually neglected, but which is not killed with neglect, is going to be a heavy problem to the country in another twenty years. We must find him now and do all we can for him.

The Fallacy Of "Kindness"

There are still a number of people of pacific leanings and vaguely religious cast of mind who think that all that is wrong with the world could be settled by simple kindness between man and man. The complexities of civilized life are beyond their ken, and therefore they take the simple course of pretending that these complexities do not exist. These people, though essentially feeble, are often persuasive, and since the outbreak of war they have been heard from time to time, protesting against this, that and the other thing which the exigency of the fighting has forced upon us. They will be even more active in the immediate post-war days, and it is possible that they might recruit a fair body of opinion then.

Recently a group of this sort in England attracted the fire of one of the most brilliant of Protestant theologians, the Rev. Nathaniel Micklem, who is well known in Canada, for he spent some years in this country. This is what he said:

"It is no use our bleating that if only everybody would be nice and kind and Christian there would not be any war, and social and economic and international problems, and everything else, would be lovely. We have come to a turning-point in history where a world order has to be found and we can't find it just by feeling kind".

Dr. Micklem is not, of course, an enemy of kindness; he would not be a Christian clergyman if he were. But he points out with great force that kindness is not a substitute for thought, intelligence and a keen awareness of the evil which exists in the world and which must be overcome.

The world, according to Roger W. Babson, the New York statistician, is ruled by feelings and not by figures. Has it taken him a lifetime to find that out?

Spring Books Of Verse

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

THE death of Sir Charles Roberts closed an era in Canadian poetry, an era which, perhaps, his long life had drawn out beyond the term of its genuine inspiration and virility. Who leads Canada's poets now? There can be little dispute, surely; the leader is E. J. Pratt, a man very different in temperament, workmanship and outlook from Sir Charles. Roberts cared passionately about form in verse; he was not a pedant, of course, but he was often precious. Rhythms which were unperceived by others ears—some of them very well-trained ears, too—seemed to him to be of the highest importance; he was as much a connoisseur of sounds and nuances as Edith Sitwell; his knowledge was great, and his true concern for the art of poetry was great, but too often in his later years the emotional impulse of his verse, and the thought contained in it, was trivial compared with the skill of the workmanship.

◆ ◆ ◆

E. J. PRATT has the respect for form which one expects in a professor of letters, but he has also the scorn for rules which one expects in a poet. He does not appear to care greatly about rhythms, although he can summon up a great sweep and surge of verse when he wants to do so. It is hard to imagine that the late Sir Charles Roberts, while respecting his ability as a poet, regarded Pratt as anything but a hasty and shoddy workman. Roberts would have died at the stake rather than rhyme 'serve' with 'hors d'oeuvre', or 'la patrie' with 'melody', or 'lustily' with 'free', as Pratt so joyously does in "Der Fuehrer's Pot-Pourri." A man who hated "Cockney rhymes" would never be able to stomach these Newfoundland rhymes. But if anyone were to tax Professor Pratt with these matters to his face, he would undoubtedly laugh like a sailor, and the matter would immediately dwindle to its true stature.

THIS exordium, which seems to have got rather out of hand, was meant to lead up to the fact that E. J. Pratt's latest book, "Still Life And Other Poems" (Macmillan) has been in the bookshops for two or three months, and if you care about the development and continuance of Canadian poetry, you had better buy a copy of it. Pratt's gifts of humour and satire have been indicated, but never fully displayed, in his previous volumes. In this one the bitterness and the grisly jokes of war have produced fifteen poems, varying greatly in quality, but all interesting. The book is very good Pratt, and to those who know his work that recommendation will be sufficient.

WILSON MacDonald has brought out a book called "Greater Poems of the Bible" (Macmillan) about which it is difficult to say anything which will be helpful to the prospective reader. He has arranged many of the finest passages from the King James Version so that they look like poetry on the page, but are otherwise unaltered. He has also made metrical versions of other well-known passages of Scripture. Perhaps a footnote to his version of the first ten verses of the eleventh chapter of the book of Ecclesiasticus will give us a clue to Mr. MacDonald's intention: "Tradition, that foe of progress, has tethered us too long to many outmoded phrases of the authorized edition. To the intelligence of today, 'Kings have been commoners' is much more natural than, 'Many kings have set down upon the ground'." Hm! But who decides what is 'natural'? In certain sections of the U.S., for instance, the passage which MacDonald has altered would be most 'natural' in this form: "Many Presidents when they wuz young 'uns wuz rail-splitters" and in still other sections the 'natural' form would be: "Many presidents of great corporations were partakers of employee-benefit privilege." A poet may make these changes with discretion, but only a few readers of the Bible are poets. But in printing so many fine poems in a handsome and dignified form Mr. MacDonald has done a great service. This book would make a good Sunday School prize; it would be a revelation to any child who had seen scripture only in its customary forbidding form.

◆ ◆ ◆

SIR Patrick Dollan has made an excellent little collection of verses by Robert Burns which he calls "Songs of Liberty" (Macmillan). The appeal of Burns never fails, though it may be said that his discerning readers are few. There are thousands of people who never read Burns at all because they will not make the slight effort involved in understanding the idiom—sometimes deeply expressive and sometimes reminiscent of nursery-talk—in which he wrote; there are others to whom he is the only poet in the world, and although they know his works as the gondoliers of Venice were said to know the poems of Tasso their appreciation is necessarily limited. But those who read Burns as a poet among poets are rare, and only they can be said to know his full greatness. This small collection would make an admirable introduction to a great poet for anyone who has kept away from Burns because of what might be called "the language barrier." Doubtless at some time some earnest scholar has pointed out that it is not easy to appreciate Burns without a passable knowledge of Scottish folk-song; Scottish music, like Welsh and Irish music, has cadences and tricks which are the product of the old languages of those countries, and not to know the musical background of Burns is to miss half the pleasure of reading him.

Unconsidered Trifles

A colored soldier was busy around the wrong end of an army mule when it suddenly lashed out with both feet and sent him sailing. As he hit the ground, his comrades called the stretcher bearers, who put the unlucky fellow on a stretcher and started to carry him off.

The colored boy opened his eyes and gazed at the reeling sky overhead. Feeling around below the stretcher with his hands, he encountered nothing but empty space.

"Lawdy, Lawdy," he groaned. "I ain't hit de ground yet."

A Loss To Allied Arms

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

AT the Quebec Conference last August there appeared a mysterious bearded officer. Those who succeeded in learning his name were not permitted to disclose it. Censorship had been imposed because this officer had been brought half way around the world to give testimony from his experience as to how the disaster on the Burma front might be retrieved. He was certainly an expert witness. For three months he had been engaged on a campaign behind the Japanese lines, acting under orders from Field Marshal Wavell to "fathom the secrets of Japanese jungle warfare, and to plan a campaign which would be the vanguard of the reconquest of Burma."

He was Brigadier Orde Charles Wingate. In the Ethiopian campaign he led 3,000 Sudanese and Ethiopian warriors with such effect that they killed or captured 40,000 Italians. In his new venture he aimed to see what could be done in the jungle with a force of Britishers, "born and bred for the most part in the factories"; to see whether or not it would be possible for a field commander to direct and co-ordinate by radio the activities of small groups of his force scattered at considerable distances; to see if his raiders could be kept supplied from the air, thus making their lines of communications invulnerable; and, finally, to see what could be learned of Japanese methods by actual behind-the-scenes observation.

Leading his raiders from India he penetrated into the thickest jungle, keeping clear of the existing paths; and, making a great arc behind the enemy, he led his men back to British soil. The Japanese referred to the "reckless, foolish tactics" which had enabled him to harry their camps at all times and places, and which enabled him to cut their railway along the Irawaddy at seventy different points. On his return he said: "Everything we set out to do has been done."

Prime Minister Churchill, in his own plane, brought Wingate to the Quebec Conference. There he is reported to have convinced the British and American leaders to organize an air comando force in India. It was while directing the operations of this force that he lost his life. He was last seen as he took off in a heavy storm from an air-strip 150 miles behind the Japanese lines.

The death of Brigadier Wingate is undoubtedly one of the severe losses of the war. But his influence will survive him and will have its effect not only on the part of the battlefront at which his work was done and his life given. His exploits have drawn attention to the important fact that this war is not merely a struggle of armament against armament, but of courage against courage and of skill against skill. In terms of his own life he demonstrated the needs and the rewards of personal resourcefulness.

An Island Takes Shape

IT was far indeed from being my first book, for I am not a novelist alone. But I am well aware that my paymaster, the Great Public, regards what else I have written with indifference, if not aversion; if it call upon me at all, it calls on me in the familiar and indelible character; and when I am asked to talk of my first book, no question in the world but what is meant is my first novel....

There was a schoolboy...home from the holidays....He had no thought of literature; it was the art of Raphael that received his fleeting suffrages; and with the aid of pen and ink and a shilling box of water colours, he had soon turned one of the rooms into a picture gallery. My more immediate duty towards the gallery was to be showman; but I would sometimes unbend a little, join the artist (so to speak) at the easel, and pass the afternoon with him in a generous emulation, making coloured drawings. On one of these occasions, I made the map of an island; it was elaborately and (I thought) beautifully coloured; the shape of it took my fancy beyond expression; it contained harbours that pleased me like sonnets; and...I ticketed my performance "Treasure Island". I am told there are people who do not care for maps, and find it hard to believe. The names, the shapes of the woodlands, the courses of the roads and rivers, the pre-historic footsteps of man still distinctly traceable up hill and down dale, the mills and the ruins, the ponds and the ferries, perhaps the Standing Stone or the Druidic Circle on the heath; here is an inexhaustible fun of interest for any man with eyes to see or twopenceworth of imagination to understand with! No child but must remember laying his head in the grass, staring into the infinitesimal forest and seeing it grow populous with fairy armies. Somewhat in this way, as I paused upon my map of "Treasure Island", the future character of the book began to appear there visibly among imaginary woods; and their brown faces and bright weapons peeped out upon me from unexpected quarters, as they passed to and fro, fighting and hunting treasure, on these few square inches of a fat projection. The next thing I knew I had some papers before me and was writing out a list of chapters. How often have I done so, and the thing gone no further! But there seemed elements of success about this enterprise.—From "Essays in the Art of Writing", by Robert Louis Stevenson.

Sobering Facts About Drink

(THE PRINTED WORD)

IT often has seemed to us that the organised foes of drink would be promoting genuine temperance if they would form an alliance (call it unholy if they must) with the more farseeing of manufacturers and purveyors of alcoholic drinks. The objective should be the same—to devise a means of conducting the drink business whereby no person, male or female, could be encouraged, directly or indirectly, to drink to excess. Certainly the greatest menace to the beverage alcohol business is the drunkard. Certainly the drunkard and the badly conducted public drinking place should be the concern of every citizen who desires that the community improve. The bad reputation of the bar was a major factor in bringing about the old experiment. And yet it seems to some oldtimers that, 30 years ago, the younger set was more sober than the younger set of today.

In old Ontario, if women drank, they did so very privately. And somehow, in Quebec, intermingling of the sexes in public drinking places has seemed more decorous than in the Hepburn beer parlours.

It is sad—and not conducive to temperance—that an element of very worthy church people still have hopes of restoring prohibition. Presumably there always will be a percentage of the good people who would make us all equally good by parliamentary enactment. Mayhap they call it Christianity, although it might well be that the same zeal, by the same people, in teaching the commandments and the lesson of the Sermon on the Mount would gradually, and yet more quickly, lessen the greatest of all sins—the selfishness which causes others to suffer by one's own failings.

The problem of drink may never be solved. But it might be alleviated if the impractical approach were avoided. Mr. King has been guilty of the latest impractical approach, and for no good political reason. Although he seldom tours the country, the Prime Minister not often is deceived by the noise of the few into thinking it the real opinion of the many.

One cannot subscribe to the idea that beer safely can be consumed just before or during work. But aside from that, it is possible that consumption in moderation might help the war effort. Both Shakespeare and St. Paul, shrewd observers, noted need for a bit of cheer in the lives of men. At the moment one forgets whether the rationing of beer followed or preceded the rationing of tea and coffee. At any rate, there are millions of consumers of all three beverages who are good sons and daughters, husbands and wives, fathers and mothers, war-workers and non-war workers.

The Prime Minister, incidentally to his retreat from the beer situation, announced that there would be no change in the regulations as to spirits. He may yet change his mind there too, because, though he may not know, the problem is acute. Bootlegging may not be as bad as when hi-jacking and gangsterism were related professions. But the prices, according to all accounts, are higher than in the hey-day of Al Capone. It is known or believed that a certain amount of beverage alcohol is allowed to be manufactured, that the amount in rack-warehouses is large. Release of more of it might well be a lesser evil.

The fact that the consumption of both beer and spirits is greater than before does not mean that there would be greater evils—greater drinking—if one could still buy the stuff as readily as in 1938. On the contrary, experience and observation suggest that the evil would be less. For one thing, a great many young stenographers would not be renewing their permits.

A Bible Message

Then said the Lord unto me, Though Moses and Samuel stood before me, yet my mind could not be toward this people: cast them out of my sight, and let them go forth. And it shall come to pass, if they say unto thee, Whither shall we go forth? then thou shalt tell them, Thus saith the Lord; Such as are for death, to death; and such as are for the sword, to the sword; and such as are for the famine, to the famine; and such as are for the captivity, to the captivity.... Thou hast forsaken me, saith the Lord, thou art gone backward. (Jer. 15: 1, 2, 6.)

Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is. For he shall be as a tree planted by the waters, and that spreadeth out her roots by the river, and shall not see when heat cometh, but her leaf shall be green; and shall not be careful in the year of drought, neither shall cease from yielding fruit....

O Lord, the hope of Israel, all that forsake thee shall be ashamed, and they that depart from me shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken the Lord, the fountain of living waters.

Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise. (Jer. 17: 7, 8, 13, 14.)

Letter To The Editor

MR. KINGAN CENSURED AGAIN

Sir,—My attention has been called to letter published in the Examiner recently in which Charles Kingan states that the Peterborough Fish and Game Association is opposed to the proposed Provincial Park. I happen to be a member of this association, having recently rejoined it after several years, in the hope that some constructive action would be taken by this organization. I am unable to learn of any meeting, either executive or general, authorizing Mr. Kingan to speak for the association on this question, and I just wish to state that I entirely disagree with him in this matter.

I also understand that Mr. Kingan, without any authority from this organization, signed a petition against this park in an attempt to commit the association to his views. I disagree with him in this as well.

Big Bill Thompson

Big Bill Thompson of Chicago was one of those curious exhibitions of politics that occasionally enliven the American scene. Of course, certain practical interests in Chicago were willing to take Thompson as mayor to serve their own purposes. But his majorities were made up largely of those who took politics as a show and were delighted to follow a candidate who would provide excitement by chasing the British redcoats down the street and throwing rotten tomatoes in the general direction of Buckingham Palace.

In the days of Big Bill's glory William Allen White once used him to point a moral in a discussion of what Mr. White called "the moronic underworld"—that segment of the population that could read and write but never had learned to think; that lived on the level of its prejudices and voted its emotions. Usually, he wrote, the moronic underworld was divided politically, but occasionally a demagogue would unite it and it would boil up and elect a man like Thompson.—Kansas City Times.

Jas. T. Burrows Dies In England

Word has been received of the recent passing of James T. Burrows at the age of 77 in Southwick, Sussex, England. He was the father of Arthur B. Burrows, formerly Reeve of Lakefield and circulation manager of the Examiner and at present with the Employment and Selective Service Office. Mr. Burrows, who spent all his life in England, will be chiefly remembered as the originator of the white stick for the blind. He first thought of the idea in 1932, at which time he painted and presented a few to the inmates of the St. Dunstan's Home in Kemp Town, Brighton. A few weeks later Sir Ian Fraser called on Mr. Burrows, and as a result of this visit was able to present 200 of the sticks to blind delegates at a dinner held in Holborn Restaurant two months afterwards. Since that time the idea has spread all over the world.

After 40 years in the wholesale tobacco trade, the late Mr. Burrows retired in 1928. He leaves to mourn his loss his widow, six sons and two daughters. Two sons, in addition to Arthur Burrows, and a daughter, live in Canada; two sons and a daughter live in England and another son makes his home in Australia. Five of Mr. Burrows' sons served in the First Great War, and five grandchildren are serving in the present conflict.

Liver Hasje

In Denmark they ask for "HASJE". Here we ask for "liver pie". It's just delicious made this new way. Get a bottle of H.P. and try this wartime recipe.

Place 2 cups cut celery in well-greased casserole. Sprinkle pepper and 1 teaspoon of salt on 1½ pounds of unsliced liver and place on celery. Dot with small pieces of shortening. Add ¼ cup of water and cover. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Boil 8 small carrots and 8 onions in a small amount of salted water until tender. Drain and place in casserole around liver.

Save vegetable stock and thicken with 2 tablespoons of flour, mixed to a smooth paste in a little cold water. Then add 1 tablespoon of H. P. Sauce and pour over liver. Cook 15 minutes. Serve with crisp bacon.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Just thirty years ago this month Peterborough's sport-loving citizens were very much interested in the preparations that were being made for what was destined to be this city's last season in professional ball. Curley Blount, a fast-fielding centre gardener, with a habit of stealing home had been appointed manager of the 1914 Petes and at this stage was rounding up a club to carry this city's banner in the Canadian League which had expanded into a Class B organization and had taken in Erie, Pa. and a Toronto professional club. Peterborough had two years of pro baseball and enjoyed the experience and the fans were looking forward to the third campaign, with never a thought that before the end of the season a world war would intervene. The only trouble on the horizon was that some of the 1913 favorites had not come to terms, the holdouts including Outfielder Willie Swartz and Third baseman Joe Byrne. However Blount had rounded up a strong pitching staff with Bob Sterling, Ken Tracey, Knut Belting and Stan Cresswell carried over from the year before and a former big leaguer Louis Schettler added to the list and had secured a former Federal League backstop in Mully Miller. Plans had been completed for spring training at Youngstown, O., and everything was looking favorable for a big year. That summer came the war and Peterborough saw no more professional baseball. Now the amateur brand has also disappeared.

Outboard Marines carved one point off the substantial lead held by Westclox in the Ladies' City Five Pin League in the weekly games Monday night by making a clean sweep of their fixture with the Five V's while the Big Bens dropped one of three to the Commandos. As a result the Westclockers hold first place over the Marines by the margin of six points. Paced by G. Milliken who upset the pins to the tune of 689 the Outboard Marines piled up a total of 2909 and had little trouble in disposing of the Five V's. The Westclox team opened slowly in their battle with Commandos, registered only 854 in the first game and as a result they were nosed out by 11 points. They hit their stride with 1076 in the second game and 1101 in the third to grab two out of three and wind up with a total score of 3031, the highest of the week. Some nice individual scores were hung up but the only player in the loop to reach or pass the 700 mark was M. Sanderson with 710. Several girl trundlers managed to reach the 600 class however while high single honors went to I. Penrose with 307.

A Warning To Oshawa

A warning that Oshawa Generals may find themselves opposed next season by a junior club brought together as the result of careful planning is sounded by Billy Westwick in the Ottawa Journal. Here is how the Ottawa scribe sees the situation: "Regular reverses at the hands of carefully selected and extremely powerful O.H.A. teams have stirred some of those in charge of junior hockey here to plan new measures in this district with an eye to future Memorial Cup playoffs. There is a definite move under discussion here to concentrate more on the selection of stronger junior teams along the lines adopted in the O.H.A. where the competition has been entirely too tough for Ottawa standard-bearers to cope with. One of the suggestions under consideration here is to make a survey of prospective junior material within the next week or two. Such a survey wouldn't be confined to the Capital, but would embrace several valley points. Sponsors of this suggestion figure that by collecting the names of 50 or 60 players a group of four teams could be planned for next season. The idea is to operate a four-club junior league up until around Christmas and then make a selection of a district standard-bearer. The move is prompted by the failure of individual teams in this area to measure up with such packed clubs as Oshawa."

Trying to develop championship teams without the proper rink facilities is a tough job Rex McInnes of the Kitchener Record concludes. Here are his views; they should be interesting to local players and fans: "Post-mortem examination of the late Twin City hockey season proves that hockey players can be developed on outdoor rinks up to a certain stage and then the teams with modern arena facilities take over and win the championships. Three Kitchener teams reached the Ontario semi-finals only to be eliminated by clubs that had every advantage in practice and home-town crowds. The other Kitchener team, the bantams, moved into the finals and lost in a good series to St. Catharines, the city that has the best minor hockey setup in the province. One exception might be noted in the consensus and it can only be called a partial exception. Toronto Young Leafs, who knocked Kitchener midgets out of the running, didn't have a rink they could call their own on which to practice and at times had to travel to Markham for games. But they were able to play a couple of their rounds at Maple Leaf Gardens and had facilities to keep in practice continually. Owen Sound juveniles ousted Kitchener in the semi-final series and their smartly-patterned play was a result of daily drills in the Owen Sound arena, rated one of the finest in the province."

Canadiens Take First

Canadiens opened the final round for the Stanley Cup in convincing style last night when they defeated the Chicago Black Hawks 5 goals to 1 in a game at Montreal in which the Flying Frenchmen were always ahead and always looked the better team. Canadiens scored the only goal in the first period, outscored the Chicago club 2 to 1 in the second and added two more markers in the final session without a comeback from the Hawks who lacked sustained drive and bogged down badly before the finish. The veteran line of Murph Chamberlain, Phil Watson and Ray Getliffe supplied the chief punch for the winners, Getliffe fired two goals and his linemates got one each, but the whole team played winning hockey and wore the Hawks down until they looked a well-beaten team at the finish. Chicago will have the next couple of games at home and may grab off one of them to extend the series but after that the teams return to Montreal to complete the round and the Flying Frenchmen look to have a decided edge.

There will be more tennis balls available for devotees of the court game this season and there'll be just as many or more playing the game this summer, but there is no possibility of the senior or intermediate championship tournaments being resumed, says the Ottawa Journal. With manufacturers permitted to turn out 50 per cent more balls this year than last, tennis men here figure the Ottawa quota will exceed 500 dozens to relieve the shortage experienced last season. However, the absence of ranking players precludes any possibility of a resumption of senior championships. Another difficulty in the path of district tournaments is the inability of the association to secure courts. It would mean clubs sacrificing a great deal of space and playing time, and with greatly increased memberships noted in all quarters the clubs could hardly be expected to provide the necessary facilities. Championships will be confined to juniors again. However, the increase in balls for this season has come as pleasant news to tennis followers here. Some rare old "chestnuts" were being belted around last summer until late in the season, when the shortage wasn't quite as acute as it was earlier in the year.

Big Karl Davis Defeated By Frank Sexton In Brock Arena Bout

Frank Sexton gets the official credit for defeating big Karl Davis two falls to one in the main bout of the Tunney wrestling extravaganza at the Brock Street Arena Tuesday night, but a lot of the acclaim which greeted that feat should go to Ed Strangler Lewis, a former world champion, who refereed the engagement.

In fact, the disgruntled Davis says that the Strangler should get all the credit. "As a referee he's in the same class as Maxwell and Powers," the angry Texan declared after last night's bout.

The incident that aroused the Davis ire and gave the deciding fall to the Ohio grappler came after four minutes' battling in the third round. Davis had chased Sexton to the ropes, pinned him there, and was engaged in pounding him with right swings while he held him with the left when Referee Lewis ordered a break. He repeated the command two or three times, but the Texan held on.

Then the ex-champ went into action. Grabbing the ropes with his right hand, Lewis tugged so hard that the Texan let go of his hold on the top strand and fell over backwards with Sexton on top of him. His shoulders were flat on the mat and Lewis lost little time in counting him out.

The Krippler was a wild man after the decision. He threatened Lewis, offered to take on his army of hecklers in the crowd, and was still talking to himself when he finally disappeared in the direction of the dressing-room.

He Stole the Show.

Big Ed Lewis stole some of the show away from the battlers. The five-times world champion, weighing 275 pounds, used his famous head-lock a couple of times on Davis when the Texan refused to break. The Krippler didn't like it very much and seemed about to launch an attack upon Lewis, but finally thought better of it and backed away. The referee finished his job under difficulties. He was accidentally kicked in the abdomen by Frank Sexton late in the second round and was in distress for the rest of the engagement.

Like the other two clashes between the powerful and unruly Davis and the smooth-working Sexton the battle was full of action and fireworks. Davis was evidently out for a kill and he used his whole battery of rough tactics on the Columbus boy, but Sexton rode out the storm successfully and tossed out a lot of punishment himself. Davis opened by a few gouging attacks that were broken by Referee Lewis. Then he used the tape on the back of his hand to massage the face of his opponent and neither Sexton nor the crowd liked that kind if wrestling. Sexton battled back and twice started his celebrated giant swing, but Davis managed to save himself on both occasions by grabbing the ropes.

Finally after 14 minutes the Texan slowed up the speedy Ohio mat star with a series of elbow slams and then caught Sexton coming off the ropes and flattened him, dropping on he dazed Columbus delegate for the fall.

Giant Swing Wins.

Davis opened up the second round with a ferocious attack that threatened to give him the bout in two straight falls. However Sexton held on in spite of the pounding he took and at last he got a chance to jolt the Texan with a series of drop kicks and body slams. Then he picked him up by the legs and spun him around half a dozen times with his favorite giant swing. By the time Sexton decided to let opponent drop there was no kick left in the Krippler. He hit the mat with a full thud and the only thing quicker than the way Sexton pounced on the Texan was the count registered by Referee Lewis.

The third round lasted only four minutes when the Strangler's vigorous rope-pulling act resulted in the downfall of Davis and a victory for the power-house from Ohio.

Toar Morgan won the semi-final bout in eleven minutes from Johnny Gyrofsky, the Ottawa Polish wrestler who substituted for Tom Zaharias. The garrulous Greek was called to Buffalo yesterday through the sudden illness of his wife, and Gyrofsky jumped into the breach. Morgan carried too much power for him, but the two gave a fast and pleasing exhibition before the Marine finally settled the argument. The Ottawa boy is a fast-moving, clever performer. In fact, his speed nearly proved disastrous on one occasion when he launched a flying tackle, missed his target, and went sailing through the ropes.

Junior Teams Change Lineups

TORONTO, April 5—(CP).—Both Oshawa Generals and Montreal Royals plan line-up changes for the second game tonight of the best-of-five Eastern Canadian Memorial Cup final series.

Coach Charlie Conacher, whose Generals won the series opener on Monday night by a 6-3 score, plans to use Ted Lindsay in place of Johnny Chenier on the starting forward line, and may have Albert Shewchuk ready for defence duty in place of Bob Dawes. Lindsay is one of the St. Michael's College players Generals added to their roster for the eastern final.

While Coach Lorne White of Royals hasn't definitely settled how his line-up will be changed, it is known that he will have two reinforcements in the persons of Doug Harvey, defenceman, and Mike Demchuk, left winger, both of whom will see action tonight. Harvey and Demchuk played with the Royals all season and are making the trip here for the game on brief leaves from their Royal Canadian Navy duties.

"We're ready to be up and at 'em," said Conacher, discussing the game. "Our boys took a while to get going in the first game, probably because they'd just come through a soft series with Ottawa University. Royals didn't seem to be in the best of shape either. Tonight's game should be a real battle."

Canadiens Clip Hawks 5-1 In First Game

By HAROLD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, April 5 — (CP). — Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks moved on to Chicago today, to resume their Stanley Cup final series there Thursday night, with Canadiens one game up in the best-of-seven series.

The Canucks sent a sell-out crowd of more than 12,000 away happy last night, when they swept through to a 5-1 victory in the opener of the first final series between the two teams in 13 years. The next two games will be in Chicago, with the series to be concluded here.

It was the usually hot-headed Chamberlain-Watson-Getliffe line who emerged as the stars of last night's game. Displaying an amazing ability to keep out of the trouble that usually sent them on frequent trips to the penalty box, they back-checked like fiends all night, did much to slow up the Hawks with their heavy bumping, and bagged four of the five Canadien goals.

Smith Scores.

Most of the time, too, they were on against the starry Chicago line of Clint Smith, Bill Mosienko and Doug Bentley, and they stopped that line cold on all but one occasion. Smith bagged the only Hawk goal on a three-way play in the second period while Canadiens were a man short.

Canadiens were two up at the time, and they recovered the lone Chicago goal 47 seconds later, adding a couple more in the third for good measure as the Hawks weakened.

Getliffe got two of the goals, one on an unassisted effort near the end of the game, the other on a combination play with Heffernan and O'Connor. Watson set up the play for Chamberlain's counter with a perfect pass-out from behind the Chicago net, and started Canadiens off on the victory trail with an unassisted effort in the first period.

Toe Blake collected the other Canadien goal early in the second period on a typical play of Canadiens' first line, with Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard setting him up close in on Mike Karakas.

Army General Takes Over Health Program

OTTAWA, April 5—(CP).—Maj. Ian Eisenhardt of Vancouver, senior army sports officer, seconded to the health department to become national director of physical fitness, will take over his new post June 1, it was learned reliably today.

Maj. Eisenhardt has called a meeting of the National Advisory Council on Physical Fitness for Ottawa some time in May, when he hopes to hear a general exchange of ideas and see a start on formulation of a national health program.

So far all provinces except Ontario and Quebec have signified their intention of participating in the national program, which is to be conducted in co-operation with provincial health departments. The program envisions mass sports participation with the object of building up the nation's health standard.

Maj. Eisenhardt was in Kingston, Ont., last night to watch the army district boxing finals—the first part of the army's mass sports participation program.

This program was a sort of test case for the civilian program he intends to launch some time this summer.

More than 15,000 soldiers participated in the army boxing tournament, now reaching its final stages. On May 4, 14 western survivors will meet the 14 best easterners in the Dominion final here. Each team will be made up of seven open class fighters and seven novices.

Next year Maj. Eisenhardt expects 50,000 soldiers to take part in the boxing part of the sports program.

When the boxing finals are over the army masses will try their luck at cross-country running.

TORONTO, April 5 — (CP). — Champions never quit trying, but it looks as though the R.C.A.F. Patricia Bay Gremlins from Victoria need more than the old college try to take them to the Canadian senior men's basketball title again this year. Gremlins, last year's champions, rolled to the British Columbia title in easy fashion this year, but have run into the service ban on inter-sectional play that may wreck their chances.

Members of the team have been refused travel permits to journey East for the finals if they capture the Western title, but even that didn't discourage them. They have announced their intention of trying for furloughs and making the trip on their own time, which would be perfectly legitimate if the Air Force will grant them furloughs.

If their furloughs are due anyway there shouldn't be any objection to such a procedure, but if time off was given just to play basketball it would be defeating the whole idea of the sports ban. It's a safe guess, though, that if a point was stretched a mite there wouldn't be too many eyebrows lifted too high, if general public opinion about the whole matter is any guide.

Baby Smokies:

By downing Regina Commandos in what was virtually a double best-in-five series, the Trail Smoke Eaters Juniors look to be a worthy successor to their big brothers of 1938, the Trail Smoke Eaters Seniors who won the Allan Cup that year. The Senior Smokies brought British Columbia its second senior championship in history, and the baby version is aiming for the Coast's first win in Memorial Cup play.

They still have a long way to go, though, with Port Arthur and the Eastern champions still in the way. By the same token they have a tough job to equal the Senior Smokies' record of 51 straight victories set in Canada and Europe from December 7, 1938, to March 15, 1939.

Juveniles again:

Jack Christie, secretary of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, writes to explain the junior-juvenile setup which allows players to switch from one age class to the other and back again in the same season. His point, well taken it might be added, is that the ruling approved last fall prevents junior teams from raiding a minor team and wrecking its chances, as was the case previously when a juvenile moving upwards was automatically ineligible for the youngster series. Now a boy can play junior and juvenile throughout the year, and midget and bantam also if he is young enough. It's a good idea, but still confusing to the fans.

Rookie Pitcher Promises 15 Victories

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP). — "Put me down for 5 victories,' Charles (Red) Embree told all and sundry at Cleveland Indians spring training camp at Lafayette, Ind., yesterday.

That sounds like a rash statement from a rookie pitcher who didn't play in 1943. But Embree can make good his boast if he shows the form he did in pitching Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to an Eastern League pennant in 1941.

TORONTO, April 5.—(CP).—Fifty-six horses, including most of the outstanding Canadian-bred two-year olds of last year, have been nominated for the 85th running of the King's Plate May 27.

In releasing the list to-day Major Palmer Wright, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Jockey Club, said the entry is the largest on record and compares to 45 nominations last year.

Owners of former King's Plate winners, who were among the nominators, are: H. Giddings, C. Hemstead, C. George McCullagh, Col. R. S. McLaughlin, H. C. Hatch and J. E. F. Seagram.

The historic race—oldest continuously-run stake of North American thoroughbred racing — will be open this year to all three-year-olds foaled in Canada. From the time of the first running in 1860 the King's Plate had been restricted to horses foaled in Ontario.

Last January, the club announced a further incentive to horsemen by increasing the stake $2,000 to $10,000, making this year's purse worth approximately $13,000 to the winner of the one mile and one furlong route.

Hemstead Has 6.

On top of the $10,000 added by the club, the King annually gives 50 guineas to the winner.

Last year, Charlie Hemstead's Paolita, slick black filly won the plate, defeating the favorite—W. F. (Willie) Morissey's Arbor Vita — by 2½ lengths.

Hemstead, whose home is at Markham, Ont., leads the list of nominations for the 85th event with six. Col. McLaughlin, owner of the Parkwood stable, Oshawa, Ont., and James G. Fair of Cainsville, Ont. each have four.

Those with two or more nominations are: H. C. Hatch, Toronto, three, and the Whittier Park Stock Farm, Winnipeg; J. Diamond, Vancouver; Riverdale Stable, Toronto; C. G. McCullagh, Toronto; J. E. Frowde Seagram, Waterloo, Ont., and the Garden City Stable of Niagara Falls, Ont., with two each.

Lone Quebec entry is from the Lemoh Farm of Montreal.

Two women nominated horses also this year. They were: Mrs. John L. Brown of Toronto, with Raise, and Irene Webster of Maitland, Ont., with Bold Pat.

Among the horses nominated were the three that won "top" juvenile stakes in Ontario last season—Nimblefoot, winner of the Clarendon Plate; Gyperac, winner of the Coronation Stakes, and Heulwen, winner of Mrs. Orpen's cup and saucer. Huelwen and Cyperac, both from the Parkwood Stables, were the two top money-winners in Ontario last season, the former making $10,965 for its owner and the latter $6,800.

The Ontario Jockey Club shifted the King's Plate to the second Saturday of the seven-day spring meeting at Woodbine this year because of complaints that many three-year-olds were at a disadvantage in being forced to run a mile and a furlong the first day of the meet.

In its stead, a new race, the Plate Trial, will be run on opening day. A six-furlong event, it will be worth $2,500 added to the winner. The victor of the race is eligible for the King's Plate classic but will carry an additional five pounds.

The True Story

LONDON, April 5 — (AP) —Millions of newspapers and leaflets have been dropped from American planes to the people of occupied countries and Germany itself, causing Nazi leaders to fear that the people may learn the true status of the war, the Stars and Stripes said today. Millions more newspapers and leaflets are on their way via a specially trained force in bomber units, the United States Army newspaper added.

Buffalo Takes First Play-off

CLEVELAND, April 5—(AP)—Buffalo Bisons were one up on Cleveland Barons today in the four-of-seven playoff series for the American Hockey League title.

The Bison showed express-train speed in taking the opening game of the Calder Cup finals 4-2 before 9,572 fans here last night.

The scene shifts to Buffalo for the second game Thursday night. The third game will be here Saturday, and the fourth at Buffalo Sunday.

Both of Cleveland's tallies were clean shots by Les Cunningham. The first was a backhand drive and the second came on a speedy relay from Harry Foster and Norm Locking. Fred Thurier and Fred Hunt accounted for the first two Bison scores. But it was Max Bennett and Morey Rimstad who really broke the game for Buffalo with two quick goals in the third period, Bennett's unassisted.

Cleveland goes to Buffalo with a season record of five wins in six starts on Bison ice. Buffalo is defending champion, while Cleveland led the league percentages this year.

Red Skelton's hobby is bookbinding—and that's no publicity stunt. Jack Haley thought it was and for a joke sent Red a huge dictionary to be rebound. A couple of weeks later it came back in tooled Morocco binding . . . Gloria De Haven is one girl who is immune to the charms of Frank Sinatra. She was kissed 118 times in succession by him during the filming of a scene. Sinatra, being new to this acting business, just couldnot get it right . . . There are few women theatre owners in the Dominion. Among them is the First Lady of Grimsby, Ontario, Mrs. Bessie K. Moore, who has just been honored with the annual Good Citizenship Award by her fellow-citizens.

Mrs. Moore, a resident of Grimsby for 34 years, has managed Moore's theatre for 27 years. She was born Bessie Kinzie in Georgetown, Pennsylvania. In Cleveland she met and married a Canadian Great Lakes captain, A. W. Moore. In 1910 they came to Grimsby to open a movie house in connection with the amusement park that was being rebuilt. Mr. Moore died in 1917 and his wife took over the operation of the theatre, still finding time to raise her children and serve many other fine causes.

Mrs. Moore is today an institution in Grimsby, a lovely lady loved by all.

Hollywood and Canada have many actual and sentimental links. You'll realize that when you see the big little picture, "The Shining Future," a million dollar stunt with a $1,200,000,000 idea. Though made in connection with the Sixth Victory Loan, the film is devoted almost wholly to entertainment.

And look at this lineup of stars in a 20-minute show—Olive Blakeney, Jack Carson, Benny Goodman and his Orchestra, Bing Crosby, Herbert Marshall, Deanna Durbin, Cary Grant, Harry James, Jimmie Lydon, Irene Manning, Dennis Morgan, Harold (The Great Gildersleeve) Perry, Charles Ruggles and Frank Sinatra. Two of the stars, Jack Carson and Deanna Durbin, hail from Manitoba originally.

It's a picture the studios would like to own instead of the Canadian people—that is, they would like to own it under other circumstances.

The film was made at Warners studio. Jack Warner, checking the schedule one day, was startled to find so many stars on his lot. When he was reminded that they were there to make a Canadian film, he remarked: "I'd give a million-and-a-half to have them make a film for me—if I could get them!"

Incidentally, the Warner brothers were residents of London, Ontario, many years ago.

Television in color for theatres is ready in the labs and a fight is shaping up between radio and film people as to who shall control it. Movie men say that "television is nothing more than talking pictures and talking pictures are our business."

Hamilton Wants Houses In Nobel

HAMILTON, April 5 — (CP) — Board of Control today decided to discuss with J. M. Pigott, head of Wartime Housing Ltd. the possibility of having vacated wartime dwellings at Nobel, Ont., tranported here for servicemen's families under notice to vacate their present homes.

Mayor Samuel Lawrence agreed with controllers that the question of housing for families of men on active service was a Federal responsibility.

Expect Muskrat Run To Have Poor Results

BENSFORT, April 5 — (ENS).— Motor traffic is still continuing on Rice Lake, which is unusual for April. Teams are hauling wood from the islands to the mainland.

Trapping is at a standstill as the water is so low in the marshes. There are very poor prospects for a large muskrat run. In previous years the trapping season would be well on the way.

Ten Bills Pass 2nd Reading At Night Sitting

TORONTO, April 5 (CP)—In the hope of reaching prorogation tonight of the session which began Feb. 22—about six weeks ago—the Ontario Legislature convenes two hours before usual today, at one o'clock, with a heavy agenda of legislation and estimates to clear away.

Probably a night sitting will be held and there were reports at Queen's Park last evening that the House might also meet Thursday morning.

Ten bills were put through second reading at a session lasting until 11:45 p.m., along with some estimates. The bills included:—

1. A measure to establish a 48-hour work week and one week's annual holiday with pay in Ontario industry, with provision to exempt war industry, and certain seasonal occupations such as canning and lumbering.

2. A bill establishing an Ontario teachers federation to regulate that profession.

3. An amendment to the forestry act establishing an Ontario forest resources commission to plan provincial forestry development and conservation.

4. An amendment to the Milk Control Act, approved in principle only after two hours' debate on its constitutionality, following criticism by Mitchell Hepburn (Ind.-Lib.-Elgin).

Mr. Hepburn claimed the bill was ultra vires of the legislature because it delegated "taxing" powers to a private body in authorising the central milk producers' association to deduct a fee from milk farmers' returns for upkeep of the association.

A. H. Acres (PC-Carleton) supported his contention but other members who spoke on the measure—including C.C.F. Leader Jolliffe—expressed belief the bill was within the power of the House.

Attorney-General Blackwell cited the case of the Central British Columbia Marketing Board, the constitutionality of which had been upheld by the Privy Council. It was quite within the power of the Ontario Legislature, he said.

Mr. Hepburn said the British Columbia legislation was constitutional because the British Columbia Marketing Board was a government body. He added that if the Premier could show any relation between the section being deleted and the one being added to the Milk Control Act by the proposed amendment "I'll eat the Act." There was no relation whatever and what the amendment was trying to establish was "unprecedented." He would be glad to take a test case to court to prove the measure ultra vires.

Highways Minister Doucett, who sponsored the bill, said the amendment had been suggested by the Ontario Agriculture Advisory Board Similar power to levy was at present held by non-government bodies, such as the cheese producers.

Mr. Acres did not believe the Agriculture Advisory Board had the right to make such a re mmendation since it had not visited all parts of the province. It did not know how all the farmers felt. He urged the Government to withhold the measure and addressing Premier Drew, said it was "not one of your 22 points."

Rumanian Oil Fields Within Bomber Range

MOSCOW, April 5—(AP)—Rumanian oil fields lie less than an hour from Russian bombers and not many days from the Red Army.

There have been no reports of attacks on these fields since Marshal Konev drove across the Prut River, and there may be none. The Soviet command may reason that the Red Army can storm the areas.

One field lies just a few miles from the Russian columns advancing on Iasi (Jassy). The derricks rise just west of Iasi.

Konev's thrust in Bucovina brought his troops 50 miles from the northernmost Rumanian oil fields near Campulung.

The great fields of Ploesti likewise are within close range of bombers, the closest Russian being within about 165 airline miles of the city.

rapped for order.

"We find the defendant not guilty on count two," Cross read, and at this point Chaplin leaped to his feet and clasped the hand of his lawyer, Jerry Giesler.

The jury retired at 11:02 a.m P.D.T. and came in at 6:06 p.m.

Later Chaplin said:

"I believe in American justice. I've had a very fair trial."

U.S. Attorney Charles H. Carr, who prosecuted case, said he was eminently satisfied with the way the trial was handled.

Giesler declared the verdict was a "triumph of justice."

The other legal matters concerning Miss Berry still confront Chaplin. Next Tuesday he is scheduled to appear again in Federal Court, with six co-defendants, for a ruling on their demurrers to indictments charging conspiracy to deprive her o her civil rights. If the demurrers are denied they will plead to the charges and a trial date will be set.

Chaplin also faces Miss Berry's civil suit alleging he is the father of her six-months-old daughter Carol Ann.

March temperature ranged from 11 below zero on the fifth to 55 degrees above on the 25th, as recorded at the waterworks by James Harrison, chief operator and also weather man. The average mean temperature was 24.05 degrees, slightly higher than for March of last year. Rainfall was .875 inches, obviously indicating an unusually light precipitation for the first month of the Spring.

PENSIONS PROPOSAL

A Stratford resolution proposing extension of Old Age Pensions was received without approval by the finance committee of Peterborough council, and was dismissed without discussion at the council's session Monday night. Stratford recommends $80 a month for married couples and $45 for single persons reaching the age of 60 years instead of the present 70; and it would make pensions available to all persons irrespective of means.

TRAPLINE CLEANED.

Seventy muskrat traps belonging to Nelson Davis, 529 Elm Street, and scattered along the river for five miles from the city south have been stolen. Davis followed the same practice he had adopted last year of taking his holidays now so that he could engage in trapping. He had a big catch a year ago and was hoping for the same results now, but his trapline has been virtually cleaned up by the thief who removed the seventy traps, practically all Davis had. City and provincial police are investigating the case.

GET LICENCES NOW

Purchase of licences at once by all those who have radios in their homes or cars is urged by the Post Office, at whose main office and all five sub-stations the licences are now on sale. "It is well to have them now," it was said, "since the inspectors might turn up any time." Licences are being issued at the rate of about 300 a day, and a new feature is that all are date-stamped to indicate the time when purchased.

INVITATION FROM CBC

REPORTED MISSING

Ian Horton (Jackie), son of J. C. Horton, former manager of the London Life Insurance Company here, has been reported missing after active service. When his father came to Peterborough in 1939 from Calgary, the flier accepted a position with the Bank of Commerce in Lindsay. In 1941, Mr. Horton moved to Oshawa, and before his enlistment Ian Horton worked at the General Motors plant there. A brother, Phillip, is also in the forces. The father, now retired lives in Oshawa.

CAR LICENSES

Motorists are still free to drive around displaying only their 1943 licenses in the absence as yet of any official notification from the Department of Highways to the contrary. The original deadline, March 31, has passed by without any action being taken or any new limit set beyond which drivers must show their 1944 licence stickers. Quite a few regular motorists have still to apply for their 1944 registration, a tabulation at the Chamber of Commerce indicated Tuesday.

AS BUDDHIST PRIEST

The congregation at Bethany Tabernacle last night shared an unusual experience in the sight of Rev. Asher Case dressed in the robes of a Buddhist priest as he spoke of dominant religion of Thailand. Rev. W. C. Boyer showed fifty or more colored slides of the Belgian Congo in this week's nightly meetings featuring missionary subjects to which the public is invited. "We have been very greatly encouraged by the attendance this week," said Rev. Walter Crone today. "It has been much larger than last year."

War—4 Years Ago

(By The Canadian Press)

APRIL 5, 1940—British planes bombed German warships at their Wilhelmshaven base. British and French blockade chiefs mapped new measures to "choke" Germany. Argentina government decided to treat Graf Spee crew as prisoners instead of interned seamen following the escape of five.

Rangers' Fined For Absence On Drill Night

Fines of $5 and $1 costs in each of two charges against three members of the Prince of Wales Rangers, Reserve, of failing to attend drills of the unit were imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

Major V. M. Eastwood who prosecuted the cases withdrew two other similar charges against the three youths after they had promised to attend future parades of the Rangers.

The three who were fined were William Donald Dingman, 83 Benson street, Raymond Ross Kennedy, 207 Dublin street, and James Ernest Simmons, 60 Orpington road.

Dingman pleaded not guilty to a charge of failing to attend a parade on the night of March 21. He claimed that he was present at the armouries that night and was in the orderly room getting a new uniform but said that he was not on parade nor did he answer roll-call.

No Record

Regimental Sergt.-Major Harold Chate testified that Dingman was a member of the Rangers, that he had not seen the accused on parade that night and the official records showed him as absent.

Pointing out that it was the duty of the accused to answer roll-call in any case, Magistrate Langley, K.C., registered a conviction against Dingman and fined him $5 and $1 costs or five days in jail.

Dingman then pleaded guilty to a similar charge and the same penalty was imposed after which Major Eastwood withdrew the other charges on the promise of the accused that he would attend Ranger drills until such time as he joined the active service army.

Kennedy and Simmons both pleaded guilty to two charges and were fined $5 and $1 costs. Two other charges were withdrawn by the prosecution on a promise of future attendance. "Simmons said that his feet were bothering him and he did not think he could stand the drill. He will be paraded before the medical officer of the Rangers for examination.

James P. Chalmers, Douro street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of failing to attend a drill of the regiment. He told the court that he had returned his uniform to the company orderly room last May, and when he heard nothing more about it assumed that he had been struck off the strength of the unit.

R.S.M. Harold Chate testified that Chalmers was still a member of the Rangers and that the records showed him as absent on the night in question and Company Sergt. Major James Miller gave similar evidence.

The court adjourned for luncheon as Chalmers was about to take the witness box to give defence evidence.

Prince Of Wales Rangers Hold First Battalion Dinner Of Unit

The first battalion dinner of the Prince of Wales Rangers 2nd Reserve Battalion was held in the armouries on Tuesday night with an attendance of over 300. The entire gathering sat down together at tables beautifully arranged in the drill hall and following the dinner and brief toast list the various companies took charge of the program.

Lt.-Col. M. H. Park, officer commanding the unit, presided at the dinner and among the guests were Col. L. W. W. Slack, M.C., V.D., officer commanding 33rd Reserve Brigade Group from Kingston, Lt.-Col. Walter Bapty and Major James Turnbull from the C.A.(B)T.C. No. 32, Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart, Lt.-Col. Frank Bradburn, Lt.-Col. Harold Morrow and D. G. H. Melton. G. S. Matthews, R. L. Dobbin, W. C. Hughes and G. W. Craw, representing the Civilian Recruiting committee.

The toast to the unit was proposed by Mr. Melton, who congratulated the men on their loyalty to their regiment and their sacrifices which they were ready to make as civilians in order that they might be prepared if the occasion ever should arise to defend their loved ones and their homes. Mr. Melton said he believed that every physically fit man should become a member of a military unit and that every man who has a military deferment should regularly attend drill.

Col. Park replied to the toast to the unit and urged upon the men attendance at camp at Connaught Ranges this year. He congratulated the committee in charge of the dinner and also the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion for the fine meal served.

Captain G. Monkman proposed the toast to Military District No. 3 and this was replied to by Col. Slack, who expressed the regret of Brigadier Logie Armstrong, O.C. of the district on his not being able to attend and he congratulated the men on their showing at drill.

The band under the command of Captain W. H. Peryer led in the sing songs and during the intermission played several selections. Skits were put on by Headquarters Company, B Company and D Company while guitar and mouth organ numbers were provided by A Company. Perhaps the highlight of the program was the weight lifting exhibition by three members of C Company, Stanley McBride, Joe Maguire and Albert Blondin.

5-Year-Old Boy Struck By Car

Five-year-old Lorne Gibbs, 220½ Edinburgh street, was badly cut about the face and forehead Tuesday afternoon when he was struck and knocked down by an automobile near the corner of George and Edinburgh streets.

Mrs. Velma McWilliams, 17 Manning avenue, was driving her car north on George street and had just crossed the intersection of Edinburgh street when three children ran out from the west side of the street into the path of her machine. The driver managed to miss hitting two of the youngsters but the Gibbs boy was knocked to the pavement.

Gerald O'Donaghue who was driving south on George street and saw the accident picked up the injured boy and took him to the Clinic. Afterward the victim of the accident was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

A number of stitches was necessary to close the cuts on the boy's face.

Born in Colborne, he was active in the grocery business until his retirement a few months ago. For some years a member of the council and a school trustee, he served several terms as chairman. A member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church he also belonged to St. Andrew's Men's Club.

TO VISIT TRENTON

Entire complement of Peterborough's Air Cadet Squadron, upwards of 100 officers and boys, will journey to the Trenton Air Station next Wednesday to have a look at the operations of this large, permanent base. They will also have a chance to mingle with the flyers there in training, and eat a meal at the Station mess. The trip will be a day-long affair and the squadron's first visit to an R.C.A.F. centre of this size.

A Nervy Man

SOUTHEND, Eng., April 5 —(CP).—To combat a rumor that police wanted him for the murder of a factory worker, George Smith, a fireman, rode an old-fashioned, high-wheeled bicycle through the streets of this Thames estuary town with a sign on the handle bars, "Still at large."

Contract Awards Leak Out Aldermen Riled

Tenders for Board of Works supplies, accepted by the council Monday night, were: Cement, from Peterborough Lumber Company at $2.49 a barrel in car lots, f.o.b., Peterborough.

Road oil, from Imperial Oil Company, at 12.25 cents a gallon for one grade and 13 cents for another, in tank car lots.

Gasoline, from Shell Oil Company, 18½ cents a gallon for No. 1 grade and 16½ cents a gallon for No. 2.

British American Oil bids for oils and grease were also accepted.

News Spreads

Alderman Dutton said the committee's contract recommendations were "common knowledge" Monday morning, before they had been sanctioned by the council that night.

"I feel that it is an unfortunate thing to have happened," Alderman Dutton said. "The council should be the first to know, and if any confidence is being betrayed we ought to go back to the former practice and let contracts as before. Some one was told how the contracts were going to be awarded."

Alderman Swanston said he knew from one dealer "that he was not getting a contract."

Alderman Ovens reported that the lowest tender was accepted in each case.

No Slips There

City Engineer Parsons and City Clerk Outram both affirmed that there was no "leak" from their departments.

"What harm does it do any way after the committee has decided?" Alderman Swanston suggested.

"A gasoline man was in my office the day after the committee met," said Mr. Parsons. "He was asking about the letting of the contract. I told him he would know after the council had dealt with the committee's recommendations."

The practice to which Alderman Dutton referred was the opening and consideration of tenders by the Board of Works. That was the customary procedure, but because of the detail involved it was felt that time would be saved and attention concentrated by referring the tenders to a sub-committee for their recommendations.

R.C.A.F. CASUALTIES

Fled The Indies With Japs At Their Heels

"We passed through the Sundra Strait, between Java and Sumatra, only two hours before the Japs took control," said Rev. Harry Post, one of the three missionaries of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, at Bethany Tabernacle this week, recalling his escape from Borneo to Australia."

Rev. Mr. Post and his wife had been six years among the Dyaks in the interior of east Borneo.

"We came out to the coast of Borneo in January 1942. You remember that the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941. The Japs had become dominant in the air over the East Indies but the Dutch had a secret air field in that territory, and they took us out in an army plane. We spent the next anxious month on the island of Java, experienced the first air raids, and got out on the last boat from Soerabaja, the Dutch naval base on the island."

Inched Away

Rev. Mr. Post said that for the first two months of 1942 he and his wife and others of an increasing company of men and women, becoming refugees, were barely managing to keep a few jumps ahead of the enemy.

"That was in the latter part of February, and only four days before the battle of Java Sea. We had a Dutch naval escort for three or four days. Singapore had fallen to the Japs, and there seemed no safety anwhere in all the islands. After passing through the Sundra Strait, with only the scantest margin of time separating us from the enemy, we took a roundabout way of making for Australia, because the British Singapore had been caught up in the same brown net that was sweeping up all the islands of the Indies and their wealth and resources into coveting arms of Japan."

Dutch naval power was almost completley destroyed in the east in the battle of Sundra Strait, and the influence of the western world was everywhere being extinguished, Dutch, French, British, American.

Flying Crates

Those were the days when the preparedness of the west in the guarding of its possessions was reflected in the old crate planes which were being sent up against the newest Jap "Zeros," a brave but suicidal stand by young British fliers who probably took off without any hope, except the turn of fortune, of escaping the power and speed of the Jap planes.

The incredible was happening in Manila and Singapore, Rangoon, from upper Burma all the way down to New Guinea.

Manila fell on January 2 (1942); Singapore on February 15; Java was overrun in March, Burma in April and May, and Japs claim immense loot of petroleum, rubber, rice, sugar, copper, bauxite and various other natural products of the eastern tropics.

The Japs pushed on toward Australia sometime in May, and in that month their fleet encountered a strong naval force of United States and Australian battleships. And in the historic battle of Coral Sea, the Japs suffered their first major reverse in an engagement that marked the high tide of their southerly advance.

Gain Slowly

The Coral Sea and then in midsummer the fighting in the Solomons, the bombing of Tokyo and the other gains as the Allied powers struggled north over the route of their retreat and flight.

Rev. Mr. Post said he had been greatly impressed by the quality of Dutch administration in Borneo and India. "I feel sure the natives were loyal, and that there was very little fifth column work in the island possessions."

Christian and Missionary Alliance workers have been in Borneo since 1929, and when the Japs came there 12,000 converts in that area, among the Dyaks generally described as "the headhunters," and in one instance ballyhooed with Barnum exaggeration as "The Wild Man From Borneo." Mr. Post said that when the Dyak converts understood with increasing clearness the gospel of love they cast their head tokens and trophies into fires as a gesture of turning their back on their old heathen way of life—and death.

FLIES IN INDIA—Cpl. T. A. R. McKee (Andy) of the R.C.A.F. has been serving in Ceylon, India, for the past two years. He is the only son of Mrs. F. G. McKee of Hastings. He went overseas in 1941, and has seen service in Scotland, England, and Africa before being posted to Ceylon.

Police Warning Children Off City Streets

Police began Tuesday night warning children off the streets after 9 p.m., Chief Constable Thompson told the Examiner this morning.

Alderman Sands' motion Monday night requesting the Police Commission to have enforced the Children's Protection Act, an Ontario statute, was noticed by the Chief, who told the men on night duty to look for unaccompanied children, and advise them that they must not be on the streets without parent or guardian after nine o'clock.

"We are just beginning in a quiet way," Chief Thompson said, "and parents should realise that the responsibility rests with them. If they are convicted for this neglect of duty to their children they are liable to an initial fine of one dollar; on a second conviction $2, and $5 for any subsequent conviction."

The Chief and Inspector Reid referred to the old Act, which is also being invoked in Toronto, and pointed out that by its provisions no girl under 16 or boy under 12 may engage in any street trade or occupation at any time. No boy under 16 is permitted to engage in any street trade after 10 p.m.

Must Have Parents.

The general regulation of the Children's Protection Act sets out that no child under 16 shall loiter in any public place after 9 p.m., or be in any place of public resort or entertainment after that hour unless accompanied by a parent or guardian or other adult delegated by parent. Such children may be warned by a constable or probationary officer or officer of the Children's Aid Society. If the warning is not obeyed a child may be taken to the Children's Aid Society shelter."

Chief Thompson said that boys working in bowling alleys setting up pins had caused the police some worry. If the boys under sixteen went home when they were through alley work, police would not be concerned about them. Some nights they do not reach the street until after 11 p.m., and even up to 11.30; some of them go into a restaurant, and by the time they decide to go home, the hour is really late.

Discuss Definition.

The meaning of the word "loiter" has been discussed in Toronto since the "big city" council decided to ask for the enforcement of the same Act. It was said, for instance, that youngsters returning from a Boy Scout meeting would not be "loitering."

"We are going to be reasonable about this matter," said Chief Thompson. "We do not want to make a lot of trouble for parents, but we do want them to know that this law exists, and perhaps their cooperation is all that is needed."

Civilians Are Manning Rocket Gun Batteries

LONDON, April 5 — (CP) — The brief notice was pinned against the unsteady wall of a bomb-gutted house and said, "Civilians now have the chance to hit back at the enemy by manning secret A.A. devices. Enroll here."

That was in September, 1941, and with the men who answered that appeal the first home guard rocket gun batteries were formed in Liverpool, it now may be told.

More than 2,000 men, still smarting from the blitzing Merseyside had suffered only a few months before, volunteered. From them three rocket gun batteries were built up.

After weeks of vigorous training they fired their rocket guns for the first time on New Year's Day, 1942.

The first home guard-manned rocket gun posts in London were set up in the summer of 1942, while others similarly staffed were soon operating in all parts of Britain.

Rev. W. A. Filer President Of Ministerial

The regular meeting of Peterborough Ministerial Association was held in the Y.M.C.A. The following were present: Rev. Dr. E. W. Young, Major C. Wood, Rev. E. Whan, B. E. Dawson, W. A. Filer, J. F. Everson, E. W. Rowland, H. L. Roberts, J. H. Sutcliffe, F. W. Craik.

Rev. H. L. Roberts and Dr. E. W. Young reported progress made with reference to the work of the Daily Vacation Bible School and supervised recreation for children during vacation period. The members appreciated the reception given by the members of the city council to the committee representing the Association. The Ministerial Association has arranged for posters to be placed in prominent places indicating to the public the location of the Protestant churches in the city and also time of service for each denomination.

Rev. W. A. Filer was appointed to represent the Association on the executive of Peterborough Citizens' Rehabilitation Council and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe was appointed to the reception and welfare committee of the same council.

Rev. H. L. Roberts was appointed as representative to the local branch of the Health League of Canada.

The following officers were appointed for 1944-5: Honorary president, Rev. Dr. E. W. Young; president, Rev. W. A. Filer; vice-president, Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart; secretary, Rev. H. J. Mahoney; treasurer, Rev. E. W. Rowland.

Rev. W. A. Filer and Rev. Sutcliffe were requested to represent the Association at the sessions of the Bay of Quinte Conference to be held in Trinity United Church, June 6 to 9.

Mr. Filer presided for the remaining business. He expresed his appreciation in being elected president and suggested a text for the brethren to accept as a watchword: "Workers together with God."

Rev. E. W. Young gave a splendid address, his subject being: "The Life and Work of the Prophet of God."

Dr. Young began by asking the question, What is a prophet? Is he a foreteller of the future, a magician, a theologian, a philosopher? He answered these questions in the negative, and said that the prophet was a man who interpreted the will of God to his fellow men.

Dr. Young discussed the primitive methods that prevailed amongst the Semitic people, by which they sought to know the will of supernatural beings. These were: the sound of trees, the flight of birds, the passage of the clouds, the movement of the stars, the drawing of lots. These and other crude methods prevailed in the years 1250 to 400 B.C. There were also household gods and national gods, and the Hebrews often had recourse to these crude methods.

The speaker traced the advances that were made after the time of Samuel. Religion took on a social significance, there were groups of prophets. Patriotism formed a place in prophecy and saved religion from becoming marked and self centred. The emotional element was recognized. Saul became excited when he met the group of prophets, but the excitement did not make any change in his life.

The speaker asked the question: What makes a prophet? He must have a spiritual experience. Isaiah, Jeremiah, Amos and Hosea were cited as illustrations of this principle. These men knew God, and had obeyed his call. The prophet must have moral insight. They spoke intelligently of justice, truth and mercy. Some of their judgment on these eternal issues have never been surpassed. The prophet must have courage. He has always been persecuted, and he must be willing to bear it. He must be a lover of truth, and must be prepared to proclaim it as any cost. One of the best definitions of religion is given by Jeremiah. He said that it was a fire in his soul. There are very few real prophets in the Christian church. The demands are too great for the ordinary man, he cannot bear them. He sometimes attacks vested interests and they hit back.

The Christian church however needs the spirit of prophecy, it cannot get along without it. There are administrators, organizers and pastors in abundance, but the prophet is the greatest of them all.

Revs. J. H. Sutcliffe, E. W. Rowland, H. L. Roberts, J. F. Everson and A. W. Filer spoke, and thanked the speaker for his message.

Social Credit Said Panacea

TORONTO, April 5—(CP)—Rev. E. G. Hansell, New Democracy member of parliament for MacLeod, Alberta, said before the National Social Credit convention today that the world faces "the most gigantic hoax ever perpetrated on the human race" in the "Socialist" proposals to exchange individual freedom for Social Security.

"They make the promise that all will be well with us if we relinquish our freedom in favor of the super-planners for a super-social world state," Mr. Hansell said.

He spoke at the opening session of the convention which is expected to establish a National Social Credit political organization prepared to enter the next Federal election. A national leader also will be chosen at the three-day convention which is attended by about 150 delegates from across Canada.

Oppose Socialism

Hon. Lucien Maynard, Alberta Attorney-General, was elected convention chairman, and proceedings were conducted in both English and French with what convention officials called a "large" Quebec delegation present.

Mr. Hansell said Social Crediters did not favor the idea of a world socialist state, but rather a world of free men. The dangers to freedom represented by socialist proposals existed in Canada as elsewhere in the world.

Chairman of a committee formed last year to arrange the first National Credit Convention, which is expected to establish a National Social Credit political party, Mr. Hansell said he believed the movement was Canada's only hope and safety.

Speaking at the opening session of the convention, Mr. Hansell said tribute must be paid the late Premier William Aberhart of Alberta, "the founder of Social Credit movement in Canada."

"Mr. Aberhart was one of the great Canadians and had it not been for him we would have had no Social Credit movement of the porportions we have today," he continued.

The convention was to plan political action, adopt a platform and elect a National Leader.

In Two Camps

Mr. Hansell said such organization was needed because the world was gradually linging up into two great camps—one a world socialist state and the other the way of free men.

"The world socialist state, under the guise of a promised security, would wrest from man his individual freedom," he said.

"It would regiment man into a pattern, planned by the cunning of the world's biggest business. It would turn men into a common herd, the only purpose of which would be to serve the master state.

"On the other hand we have another way. It is the way of free men, a way which seeks to establish man in his own right, a way which grants to him his own individual liberty, and which gives him the security he has for centuries longed for. It is the way which gives him the opportunity to live out the fullest expression of his life to the end of his days."

Men were created to serve, not the state, but one another to the common good of all.

Mr. Hansell said it was asked whether Liberalism or Progressive Conservatism could serve the need of the hour.

"My answer is that both old-line parties are so tied to the traditions of the past that they are hopeless," he continued.

"There is not one scintilla of evidence in the present administration at Ottawa to show that they have any intention of changing the present economic arrangement to give Canadians the security capable of our heritage and at the same time retain for man his individual freedom.

"Instead of giving Canadians more freedom they inflict more control."

INSTITUTE NURSING COURSE FOR C.W.A.C. — The Canadian Women's Army Corps has expanded its activities again, this time in the field of nursing, with a course now being conducted at Chorley Park Military Hospital in Toronto. Twenty-five C.W.A.C.'s from across the Dominion are taking the first course which will fit them to assume the duties of nursing orderlies on the same standard as male Army nursing orderlies. It is planned to ultimately train 150 C.W.A.C.'s for this work. Two phases of the course are shown above. Top—Cpl. M. Corbett, C.W.A.C., of Montreal, gives a drink of water to a bed-patient under the watchful eye of Lieut. Nursing Sister Elinor Pettit of Hamilton, instructress in charge of the course. Lower — Lieut. Mrs. Robt. Jones W.I. President

HAVELOCK, April 5—(ENS)—Mrs. Robert Jones was re-elected President for the second term, at the Annual Meeting of the Women's Institute here on Monday.

Other officers appointed were—First Vice-President— Mrs. C. Taylor; Second Vice President, Mrs. A. McMullen; Secretary, Mrs. William Woodbeck; Treasurer, Mrs. C. Price; Pianist, Mrs. R. McCutcheon, assisted by Mrs. T. W. Quinn; Auditors, Mrs. G. Chiles and Mrs. S. J. W. Clark; Press Reporter, Mrs. Fred McKenzie; District Director, Mrs. H. Hoard; Directors, Mrs. G. W. Chiles, Mrs. H. Roche and Mrs. W. Johnston; Relief Committee, Mrs. A. McMullen and Miss E. Wright; Property, Mrs. H. Pollock; Sick Committee, Mrs. H. Hoard, Mrs. A. Andersen and Mrs. W. Johnston.

Following the election Mrs. Jones thanked the members for their splendid support and co-operation given her during the past year. In the communications, a letter was read, asking for enrolment of girls in a recruiting program for nurses, and a speaker from Nicholls Hospital in Peterbroough will be present at the May meeting. A letter of greetings from the District President, Mrs. E. Birdsall was read, outlining the District meeting and the Annual meeting to be held in May and June.

After a careful study of the Co-Operative Program, two choices were made — First—"Health Education including Accident Prevention and First Aid Emergencies in the home", and second choice was "Foods and Nutrition In Today's Food Problems."

The sick convener, Mrs. Hoard, reported that treats had been sent to Mrs. A. Anderson, Mrs. J. Kinnaird and Mrs. S. Southward and that each had recovered. The work of the Cemetery Committee started April 1 and will be continued. The President appointed a convener for each month throughout the coming year, to prepare their program, including motto, Roll Call, Speaker, and lunch convener, and have them ready by April 17, in order to have the program printed before May first.

The sum of $5 was voted to the cigarette Fund of the Eastern Star Patriotic Association and $5 to the Jam for Britain Fund.

Flames Destroy Hopes Of New House Owner

BANCROFT, April 5—(ENS)—Fire broke out in the home of Simon Bowers, who recently purchased a home and property on Dale street in Bancroft, about two o'clock Sunday afternoon. The chemical fire engine was on hand almost immediately but it was several minutes before the water line could be stretched from the pumps to the scene of the fire.

Although the two streams were played continually on the blaze the volunteer fighters were unable to save the home. Mr. and Mrs. Bowers and son Reginald, along with many helpers, managed to get most of the household goods from the home. Mr. Bowers was unable to lend much aid as he had received a broken foot some weeks ago while in the employ of the Standard Chemical plant at Harcourt.

Service Women Angry Over Clothes Ruling

LONDON, April 5.—(CP).—British service women, up in arms because recent legislation which provides demobilized men with smart civilian clothjing, ignores them, were told in the House of Commons that the omission was for their own good.

Sir James Grigg, Secretary for War, stated that women, most of whom will be glad to discard uniforms, would not be happy if their civilian clothing was of a standard style.

"It seems better that women be given coupons and a cash grant based on the retail price of a suitable outfit," he said. "It would be impossible to provide an appropriate range of women's clothing of sufficient variety to satisfy feminine tastes."

I.O.D.E. Planning Tea In Y.W.C.A.

Arrangements for the tea, being sponsored by the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., to be held April 15 in the Y.W.C.A., were completed at the regular meeting of the Chapter, held Tuesday evening. Mrs. C. Sullivan is convener. The members decided that the regent, Mrs. A. S. McRae, and one other member, to be decided later, would represent the Chapter at the Provincial Conference of I.O.D.E. Chapters, being held later in April in Hamilton.

It was announced that the Chapter would be responsible for the hostesses at the Uptown Recreation Centre each Thursday evening during April, and that members would also be hostesses for the servicemen's dance, being held at the Y.W.C.A. May 1. Miss Betty Lytle, Rubidge Street, was hostess for the meeting, and Mrs. A. S. McRae, the regent, presided.

Personals and Social

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hawkins, 61 Orpington Road, Crawford's Grove. His bride is the former Audrey Hawten, daughter of Mrs. Hawten and the late Mr. Hawten of Northam, Norfolk, England. Knox Auxiliary Shares Proceeds

Knox Auxiliary's share of the proceeds from the recent Presbyterial, amounting to $13.35, was distributed at their Easter Thankoffering meeting, held at the home of Mrs. H. Williamson, 210 Reid street. It was decided to send $10 to the Victor Home in Toronto, and to give the remaining $3.35 to the McKenzie Mission Band of Knox church.

"Christ Gives Power Through Worship," the next chapter in the study book, "For All of Life," was introduced by Mrs. D. Gourlay. Mrs. H. Clegg, Mrs. R. Goodfellow, Mrs. E. Mesley read accounts by travellers recently returned from India, China and Africa, and reported on religious customs, ceremonials, and methods of worship they had found. They showed how native customs and ceremonies influence the form of Christian worship in each country. Those taking part also answered questions asked by members.

It was announced that the joint Women's Missionary Society and Helen Roger Auxiliary meeting would be held April 13, at 2.45 p.m. in the church. Mrs. T. Smith reported on the articles needed for the bale for Oxford House, and reminded the members that any other articles should be brought in at the May meeting.

Mrs. Ernest Mesley presided, and conducted a short opening worship period. She also read a few excerpts from "They Found Christ There." Mrs. D. Gourlay conducted the worship service, and Scripture reading were given by Mrs. I. McRae and Miss Inez Barrer. The offering was dedicated by the Christian Stewardship secretary, Mrs. I. Oesch, and Mrs. H. Williamson led in prayer.

Mrs. Ross Williamson sang an Easter solo, accompanied by Miss Elsie Chambers. Mrs. D. Gourlay closed the meeting with the benediction.

Speaker Brings Easter Message

"I hope that this Easter message will be of help to you in your homes, in the church, and in the city of Peterborough," said Mrs. P. Lindores, concluding her address to the Easter meeting of the Women's Association of George Street United Church. Mrs. Lindores, wife of Major P. Lindores of the Salvation Army, told a story of love and sorrow, asking the group to keep their faith high, and to take renewed strength at Easter, remembering its significance.

Mrs. Mendell Braund, guest soloist, also of the Salvation Army, sang "It Was For Me," and "This Pain He Bore For Me," accompanied by Mrs. C. Renaud.

Mrs. W. G. McLaren, who presided, gave a vivid description of an Easter sunrise service on Beacon Hill, Victoria, B.C., and also read a poem. The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. H. G. McKinness' group. Miss Lottie Allen read the scripture, and Mrs. Neil McDonald offered a prayer.

The corresponding secretary read several letters of thanks, including one from Mrs. C. W. McGee. Letters of thanks from soldiers who had received parcels or letters were also read. Mrs. W. K. McGee and Miss L. Morrow moved votes of thanks to the guest speaker and soloist.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE: During Lent I usually discover a new dish or so because I search through cook books at the library so hard to find things to relieve the monotony of our meals. This year I found potato dumplings and thought they deserve some credit in your column; I forgot to add my budget is very strict—that may be why our selection of food is so limited. Needless to say these are economical.

Potato Dumplings

(Contributed by Mrs. Warry)

Eight medium sized potatoes, 2 eggs slightly beaten, few grains nutmeg, 1 tablespoon salt, flour, shredded onions. Boil the potatoes in their jackets. Chill thoroughly. Peel and grate on medium sized shredder or grater. Add the beaten eggs, seasonings, with just enough flour to hold the potatoes together—about 1 cup. Form into balls, drop into boiling salted water and simmer for 20 minutes, covered. Skim out, and serve with shredded onions which have been lightly browned but cooked enough to be transparent in a little butter or chicken fat or cooking oil. This is good served with Welsh rarebit and spinach.—N. Warry.

These vegetable dishes that show us how to economize, and yet make meals ever so attractive, are at a premium and any readers who know more recipes of this type would be doing us a favor to send them in.

Home and School

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

An outline of various food groups, and the necessary nutritional elements which they supply, was given Tuesday evening by Miss R. Hendershot, guest speaker at the regular meeting of King George Home and School. A member of the Provincial Red Cross, she is a lecturer on nutrition.

Mrs. R. C. Searles, accompanied by Miss Elsie Chambers, sang "Homing," and "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked.' A piano trio, Misses Marie Derry, Marilyn Pomeroy, and Willa Wright, played two selections. Mr. F. E. Kerr gave a brief review of current events of the past month.

Mrs. W. Beggs read the account of the regular meeting of the Local Council of Women, submitted by Mrs. B. F. McNeely. It was announced that the rummage sale, sponsored by the association, would be held May 6 and Miss M. Squire's class was awarded the attendance book. Mrs. A. G. Stock was in the chair for the short business meeting.

After a vote of thanks to the guest speaker and artists, moved by Mrs. G. Hildenbrand, refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Scriver and her committee.

DOROTHY DIX

RAKES, WEAK WOMEN UNTRUE
Others Had Extra Marital Affairs Before Having Fling While Soldiers Away

DEAR MISS DIX—My son is in the army overseas. He is desperately in love with his wife, but in his absence she is running around with other men, both soldiers and civilians, from whom she accepts presents and money. She has told me that she is going to separate from my son as he did not come up to her expectations. What should I do about the matter? I don't want to cause trouble between my son and his wife, yet I feel that he should know of her conduct.

WORRIED MOTHER.

Women Want Their Fling

ANSWER—This problem of the philandering wife is one that is brought to my attention every day, for it seems that there are many women who are taking advantage of their husbands' absence to have a fling. Some of these women are rakes by nature and doubtless always had their extra marital affairs.

But many others of them are not deliberately immoral. They are just poor, weak, pleasure-loving women who have not the strength to resist temptation, and when the chance came to have some fun, to have men make love to them and give them presents, they shut their eyes to the consequences and started down the primrose path.

Of course, the natural response of a man's family and friends is to tell him of his wife's conduct. It burns them up to see her double-crossing him, befooling him, making him the subject of pity for those who love him and a jest for the ribald-minded, and they feel that they should warn him of how he is being mistreated.

But inasmuch as he is helpless to correct the situation, why add to his miseries by telling him that which is bitterer than death to him? Why not let him live as long as he can in his faith in his wife? Surely a man who is enduring all the hardships of war and who is facing death and danger needs to have nothing else added to his troubles.

And perhaps some bullet will make it so that he will go to the end, happy in his trust in the wife he loves and never knowing that she has betrayed him.

DEAR MISS DIX—What chance for happiness do you think a soldier 21 years old would have if he married a woman of 27 who has been divorced and has two children, 11 and 12 years old?

J. H. T.

Too Long a Chance for Youth 21

ANSWER—I would say that it would be about as long a shot at happiness as he could take, and that unless some miracle has worked in his behalf that he would be Number Two in the list of his wife's ex-husbands.

To begin with, the lady is too old for you, not so much in calendar age as in experience. At 21 a boy is still a boy with his tastes and ideas in a flux, changing every day. But at 27 a woman is a woman whose character is formed, who knows the world, and if she has been married and divorced and has two children she is not in his age class. She is practically as old as his mother. You would have little in common with her and before you knew it you would be pining for a young wife instead of an old one.

You say nothing of your finances, but unless you have plenty of money you would do a foolish thing to take on a ready-made family of adolescent children. They are a costly luxury, what with schooling and clothes and having their adenoids out and their teeth straightened and such. You are too young to marry, anyway. So put off your wedding until you are ready for it and until you find a bride of your own age.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a war bride of nine months and my husband is now serving in England. My husband was always popular with the girls and I was always jealous and figured that the only way to let him know how I felt was to go out with different fellows myself, which caused us plenty of arguments and quarrels.

Now my problem is this: He doesn't trust me and he feels that I am cheating on him while he is gone. How can I make him understand that he means the whole world to me and that I wouldn't dare risk our marriage by playing about with other boys?

ANSWER — You can't wonder that your husband is suspicious of you when he remembers how lightly you seemed to take your marriage vows when he was around to pay you all the attention and give you all the loving that a wife could want.

You will have to build up his faith in your loyalty and convince him that he is the only one for you. As matters stand, I advise you to watch your step. Flirtatious wives always lose out in the end.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

This is going to be a little talk on the 1944 get-together of separate skirts and tops. There was a time, not long ago either, when to really look smart you had to be all-of-a-piece, both in fabric and color, but not now. The divide and conquer fashion sprouted several seasons back. Came to blossom a couple of springs ago with the immaculate, elaborate, sheer white shirt waist and separate skirt, over which it would have been almost sacrilege to have worn a jacket. Last year was based on a skirt, not just any skirt, but one so super that, when teamed with a dark jersey blouse, it becomes a street costume. This spring this same stand-in for a suit trend has also gone another step farther.

This two-part look, the put-together look, the polygamous skirt with half a dozen tops, is a more serious fashion now because it is being done, by some of America's leading designers. There are scores of versions, but the underlying principle is the same, a simple slender, well made skirt topped with a waistcoat, a jumper, a tunic or a beautiful blouse. The results can be supremely elegant and casual with the charming "I just thought I'd try this way" quality. Its American forebear may have been the easy-going, happy-go-lucky sweater and skirt, college fashion now grown-up, and sophisticated. Whatever its origin it is peculiarly right dressing in the worst possible taste.

The difference in this and last spring's put-together look is chiefly that the emphasis has moved up. This spring's versions could not exist if skirts were not so extremely slim and straight. On its rod-like skirt depends the success of the long, close, hip-covering belted tunic. Some are shown this spring in classic navy-blue jersey with a grey skirt, a navy-blue jumper with a navy skirt, and two contrasting scarfs, knotted at the nape of the neck and looped through the belt. Wear the grey skirt with a grey-and-forsythia windowpane checked silk jumper, grey gloves, beret and belt with a yellow bag. There are numbers of prepared put-together look costumes, the tucked in waistcoat and skirt, the wrap-around checked tweed skirt and black jersey, a candy pink velvet corduroy skirt with pink and white dotted crepe waist, a beige wool skirt with bottle green waistcoat, a yellow wool skirt with a black and yellow striped jumper blouse. With a purple skirt wear a pink blouse and a green sleeveless knitted pullover. The foregoing will give you an idea of how many colors that are being shown together for the spring.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, April 6.

ALTHOUGH, according to astral testimonies, there are prospects of obstacles, delays, disappointments and dogged impediments affecting all personal as well as business relations, yet there is also sign that the mentality, vision, energy and spirit of initiative are keyed up to high tempo which may vanquish all frustrating circumstances. Aggressive attack of all congestive or thwarting situations, with determination, skill and the "will to win" should attain enduring and sound returns. But guard possessions and health, also sustain amicable relations in domestic, social or love contacts.

Those whose birthday it is are admonished to summon all their exceptional forces and faculties to meet possible reversals, delays, disappointments or other forms of defeat or frustration, seeming to threaten the acceptance of opportunities for progress and security. The mind and energies may be keyed to cleverness and initiative, which should be directed against the opposing forces strenuously and practically, but cheerfuly and with good grace.

*A child born on this day should have excellent abilities, stimulated faculties and forces, which should aggressively vanquish tenacious obstacles in life.

Victory Workers Make 10 Quilts

Four quilts made and six quilted, during the month, was the report of the quilt convener of the Victory Workers, at the regular business meeting of the group, held Tuesday afternoon. Two of the completed quilts were donated to the Red Shield, and another to the Red Cross. Another encouraging report was received from the treasurer of $60 in the bank.

The members voted funds for the purchase of four chairs for the use of patients in hospital at the Training Centre. The increase in members of the group also necessitated more chairs in the workroom, and two were donated by Mrs. M. Metheral and Mrs. A. Beatty. Mrs. F. Fowler presided. A social quarter hour followed the adjourning of the meeting.

For Women Only!

In the past—many women have chosen their Easter outfit and all their accessories before shopping for shoes. This habit wasn't so bad in normal times—but now when the number, shades and types of shoe leathers has been so limited, may we suggest that you avoid disappointment by choosing your suit or dress first then your shoes and build your accessories around available shoes.

We make this suggestion to you, only because it has been our experience with women, already this season, who come to us for shoes, and have been dissappointed, after having chosen their complete Easter Outfit.

Our stock is more complete than most shoe stores for styles, sizes and lasts in the various price ranges— —but due to wartime retrictions there is not the choice which Neill's are noted for in normal times.

Shop early in the week—during the mornings if possible—thus you will help us give maximum service with our limited staff of expert shoe fitters.

NOTE—Store hours for this week—9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.—Open all day Wednesday.—Closed all day Good Friday.—Saturday as usual —9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

License Receipts Bring Clerk $750

Licence receipts collected during March by City Clerk Outram totalled $750.35, including 21 marriage licenses for $105 and billiard table permits for $435.

There were 120 violators of parking regulations at one dollar each.

Three of the 114 births were babies of unmarried mothers.

Police court fines and tax roll work was reviewed by Mr. Outram in his statement to the council this week as follows:

"The total fines and fees collected in Police Court in March amounted to $404.75, of which the city received $195.15, the Provincial Treasurer $110.10, Justice of the Peace $30, and the Minister of Finance $45. There were 69 cases dealt with, convictions being registered in 51 cases, nine being withdrawn and nine dismissed. There were 26 cases heard under the Liquor Control Act, 25 under the Militia Act, and eleven under Wartime Prices and Trade Board orders.

"The 1944 tax rolls have been in the course of preparation in the clerk's office during March and, despite the fact that because of the additional one mill subsidy granted by the Provincial Government announced March 16 which made it necessary to alter the work which had been done previous to the announcement of this additional subsidy, I am pleased to report that the rolls all will be completed next week. This is a most creditable performance on a big job.

"For the past several weeks the clerk's office has been preparing the detailed machinery necessary for the issuing of the No. 4 ration books. There were more than 37,000 ration books issued during the last week in March, industrial staffs and the Women's Voluntary Services cooperating fully to assure the success of this work."

No Ice In Hawks' Arena After Sunday Night

MONTREAL, April 5—(CP).—The National Hockey League made it official today that the fourth and any subsequent game necessary in the Stanley Cup final series will be played back in Montreal.

Montreal Canadiens won the opening game of the best of seven series here last night. Second and third games are slated for the home of Chicago Black Hawks Thursday and Sunday, after which no ice will be available in Chicago.

Fourth game of the series will be played here Thursday, April 13. Remaining games if necessary will be played April 15, 18 and 20.

Soldiers Have Trouble Getting Permits

TORONTO, April 5.—(CP). —An official of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario said yesterday the Board has drawn to the attention of senior army officers at Ottawa the fact that some Canadian army personnel returning from overseas are not in possession of the particular identification cards required for purchasing liquor permits "and the matter now is under negotiation."

He was commenting on a Kingston report which said the identification card required has been issued only to personnel who have enlisted in the army since the fall of 1942 and some men who are coming back find they are unable to obtain liquor permits for beer and wine ration books without a delay of about two weeks needed to get the card.

The official said the cards—which bear photographs and fingerprints of the holder—were settled on as a means of identification for purchases of liquor permits at a prearranged conference in Ottawa last November between Board officials and senior officers of the three services. He explained this was done to avoid double purchases of permits by individuals which might have been possible if more than one means of identification had been accepted.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

The mighty New York Yankees are in perhaps the worst shape of their historic career in the American Baseball League. Only six of the 16 players who beat the Cardinals in the last world series are still with the club—and maybe there'll only be five of the veterans by to-night.

The six are George Stirnweiss, infielder; Bud Metheny, outfielder; Nick Etten, first baseman; Tuck Stainback, another outfielder, Pitcher Hank Borowy, and Johnny Linden, outfielder-pitcher. The latter is scheduled for his draft physical at Camden, N.J., to-day.

Bob Montgomery, the New York and Pennsylvania lightweight boxing champ, has been classified 1-A by his Selective Service Board at Philadelphia and is awaiting a call for his physical examination. Montgomery is married, with a three-year-old son.

Aaron Perry, 18 year old lightweight from Washington, has been hailed as a future fistic great. He has a deadly right hand and a stinging left. But he fought Sammy Angott, the former N.B.A. lightweight champ, at Washington last night and Angott got the decision after outmanoeuvring and outsmarting Perry throughout.

President Jack Latter of the Quebec Aces who to-night open the Eastern Canada senior hockey final at Quebec, last night denied rumors that his team would drop from the series. Latter said there is complete harmony between the players and between the players and the management.

Big Karl Davis

However, he came back and made it interesting until Morgan got his opportunity to cut loose with a series of body slams that brought the fast bout to a close. The third slam did the trick and Morgan dived on the prostrate Pole for the kill.

Dunlop Is Back.

Bunny Dunlop, back after a few weeks' tour of the St. Louis territory, met Jack Wentworth in the opener, and the two battled 30 lively minutes to a draw. Honors were about even. Morgan, who got a reverse English ovation from the crowd, tried all his favorite back-alley stuff on the speedy Wentworth and the latter took quite a ride at times, but he weathered worst Dunlop could hand out and came back with some of the same brand himself. On one occasion he bowled Dunlop over and finally out of the ring with a barrage of flying tackles and the crowd ate that up. In fact, he had Dunlop outside of the ropes on several occasions and had the Toronto strong man in a bad way when the timer's bell ended the argument. It was a good bout.

Bert Maxwell refereed the first two contests, with Strangler Lewis taking over in the main bout. The timing and master of ceremonies stuff were both handled by Fred Scates.

Take Jr. 'B' Title

TORONTO, April 5—(CP).—Toronto De La Salle Oaklands last night won the Ontario Junior "B" hockey championship by defeating Barrie Colts 5-3 in the final game of a best-of-three series. Each previously won a game, Barrie taking the first 5-4 and Toronto the second 7-3. The victory was De La Salle's first O.H.A. provincial title since 1918, when, by coincidence, the team the 1918 De La Salle representatives defeated for the title was Barrie.

Trail Captures 1st Junior Tilt

WINNIPEG, April 5 — (CP) — Driving power and determination of Trial Smoke Eaters puts them a game up in the western Canada Junior hockey best-of-five finals against Port Arthur Flyers.

Smokies, who appear to do their best when handicapped, came from behind a two-goal deficit last night to deadlock the first game 2-2 with less than two minutes of regulation time remaining, and went on to win 4-2 in overtime.

Eddie Miller, a former Winnipeg boy, and Jake McLeod slammed the disc into the Flyers net from goalmouth scrambles for victory in the first six minutes of overtime.

Winger Roy Kelly got the two earlier Trail counters after defenceman Calum and Jack Marshall had pushed Flyers ahead in the first three minutes of play.

Smokies, heading for the first Western Junior Crown for British Columbia, were disorganized and slow in the first 10 minutes. Then the defence tightened and Flyers generally were forced to shoot from well out with goalkeeper Bev Bentley turning in a smart performance in the final minutes.

Coach Gerry Thompson said the victory came despite his players suffering colds they picked up since their prairie jaunt. "The boys were not skating with any speed. We can do better than that."

Sports Spice

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, April 5—(AP)—Writing as a small-town fan as well as a sports editor, Jimmie Murphy of the Canton, Ill., Daily Ledger offers the opinion that "small town fans are the forgotten men of the sports world despite the fact that they support sports events in the larger cities by attending whenever possible"... So far as baseball is concerned, Jimmie blames the farm system for this situation and adds that, if farms were eliminated, it would mean the return of minor league baseball to many small cities which dropped out because the local owners couldn't compete with major-owned clubs.

Quote, Unquote

"The Illinois-Misouri League disbanded years ago along with other minor circuits, once-prosperous organizations which provided entertainment for fans in the 'hick' towns represented. Those leagues were financed by local businessmen. Then came the farm system and goodbye baseball to most smaller cities. It is true that in most of these cities baseball did not pay its own way and that financing teams was a tough proposition. But the businessmen usually donated to and helped secure the money necessary to move a franchise, and in most cases it was only a year or two until the fans demanded the return of a league team."

Hollywood Film To Aid VI Loan

TORONTO, April 5 — (CP) — A 20-minute Hollywood film, "The Shining Future," has been contributed to the Sixth Victory Loan and will start showing in Canada about April 12. The film, an imaginative glimpse into the life of the average Canadian in 1960, is contributed by the Canadian Motion Picture War Services Committee.

J. J. Fitzgibbons, chairman of the committee, announced that the cast of the two-reel film includes: Jack Carson, Benny Goodman and his orchestra, Bing Crosby, Deanna Durbin Cary Grant, Harry James, Irene Manning Herbert Marshall, Dennis Morgan, Charles Ruggles and Frank Sinatra.

Ortiz Wins

LOS ANGELES— (AP)— Manuel Ortiz went back to hauling vegetables today, but still with him was the world's bantamweight boxing crown he has defended against 10 challengers in a year and a half. The Imperial Valley farmer from El Centro, Calif., won a unanimous decision over Tony Olivera, of Oakland, in a 15-round title bout last night.

Oritz weighed 117, Olivera 117½.

UNDER-RUFFING RARE

A REAL rarity of a play, seldom used except by very fine players and even on only the most unusual occasions by them, is the intentional under-ruff. It consists of putting onto a trick, which already contains a high trump, a lower trump instead of discarding a card of some other suit. The purpose is, usually, to change the position of the lead at some later stage of the play, and it requires keen foresight to look ahead and see how that would work.

Here was another case of Blackwood slam conventioneers getting into a grand slam because they had all aces and kings, but losing because they could not take the lower tricks. Several pairs in the duplicate got that high and were set a trick. At all of the grand slam tables the play went about the same for eight tricks—the diamond Q to the K, the spade A revealing the bad news, the heart A, club 2 bringing the J, A and the 10 from West to indicate his 9, the heart 4 ruffed by the spade 4, the diamond A, diamond 8 ruffed by the spade 5, and the heart K for discard of the club 8.

Then at most tables the ninth trick was the heart J, covered by the Q and ruffed by the spade K, East discarding his club 4. The club 7, Q and K made the tenth and the eleventh was the club 8 and 9, which East, with nothing but three trumps, had to ruff. This left him only the spade J and 9, from which he had to lead into the combination tenace of the 10-7 in dummy and the Q-6 in the closed hand, so that the declarer got the last two tricks and was down one.

One East found the way to beat it another trick. When the heart J on the ninth trick was ruffed by the spade K, he put on his spade 8, leaving himself two clubs and two trumps. Then on the club tenth trick won by the A, he played his Q, and had left the 4. Consequently South had to lose a club trick to West's 9 and also a trump to East's J. He could do nothing about it after East put his spade 8 under the K on the ninth trick.

Soldiers Have Trouble Getting Permits

TORONTO, April 5.—(CP). —An official of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario said yesterday the Board has drawn to the attention of senior army officers at Ottawa the fact that some Canadian army personnel returning from overseas are not in possession of the particular identification cards required for purchasing liquor permits "and the matter now is under negotiation."

He was commenting on a Kingston report which said the identification card required has been issued only to personnel who have enlisted in the army since the fall of 1942 and some men who are coming back find they are unable to obtain liquor permits for beer and wine ration books without a delay of about two weeks needed to get the card.

The official said the cards—which bear photographs and fingerprints of the holder—were settled on as a means of identification for purchases of liquor permits at a prearranged conference in Ottawa last November between Board officials and senior officers of the three services. He explained this was done to avoid double purchases of permits by individuals which might have been possible if more than one means of identification had been accepted.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

The mighty New York Yankees are in perhaps the worst shape of their historic career in the American Baseball League. Only six of the 16 players who beat the Cardinals in the last world series are still with the club—and maybe there'll only be five of the veterans by to-night.

The six are George Stirnweiss, infielder; Bud Metheny, outfielder; Nick Etten, first baseman; Tuck Stainback, another outfielder, Pitcher Hank Borowy, and Johnny Linden, outfielder-pitcher. The latter is scheduled for his draft physical at Camden, N.J., to-day.

Bob Montgomery, the New York and Pennsylvania lightweight boxing champ, has been classified 1-A by his Selective Service Board at Philadelphia and is awaiting a call for his physical examination. Montgomery is married, with a three-year-old son.

Aaron Perry, 18 year old lightweight from Washington, has been hailed as a future fistic great. He has a deadly right hand and a stinging left. But he fought Sammy Angott, the former N.B.A. lightweight champ, at Washington last night and Angott got the decision after outmanoeuvring and outsmarting Perry throughout.

President Jack Latter of the Quebec Aces who to-night open the Eastern Canada senior hockey final at Quebec, last night denied rumors that his team would drop from the series. Latter said there is complete harmony between the players and between the players and the management.

However, he came back and made it interesting until Morgan got his opportunity to cut loose with a series of body slams that brought the fast bout to a close. The third slam did the trick and Morgan dived on the prostrate Pole for the kill.

Dunlop Is Back.

Bunny Dunlop, back after a few weeks' tour of the St. Louis territory, met Jack Wentworth in the opener, and the two battled 30 lively minutes to a draw. Honors were about even. Morgan, who got a reverse English ovation from the crowd, tried all his favorite back-alley stuff on the speedy Wentworth and the latter took quite a ride at times, but he weathered worst Dunlop could hand out and came back with some of the same brand himself. On one occasion he bowled Dunlop over and finally out of the ring with a barrage of flying tackles and the crowd ate that up. In fact, he had Dunlop outside of the ropes on several occasions and had the Toronto strong man in a bad way when the timer's bell ended the argument. It was a good bout.

Bert Maxwell refereed the first two contests, with Strangler Lewis taking over in the main bout. The timing and master of ceremonies stuff were both handled by Fred Scates.

Take Jr. 'B' Title

TORONTO, April 5—(CP).—Toronto De La Salle Oaklands last night won the Ontario Junior "B" hockey championship by defeating Barrie Colts 5-3 in the final game of a best-of-three series. Each previously won a game, Barrie taking the first 5-4 and Toronto the second 7-3. The victory was De La Salle's first O.H.A. provincial title since 1918, when, by coincidence, the team the 1918 De La Salle representatives defeated for the title was Barrie.

Trail Captures 1st Junior Tilt

WINNIPEG, April 5 — (CP) — Driving power and determination of Trial Smoke Eaters puts them a game up in the western Canada Junior hockey best-of-five finals against Port Arthur Flyers.

Smokies, who appear to do their best when handicapped, came from behind a two-goal deficit last night to deadlock the first game 2-2 with less than two minutes of regulation time remaining, and went on to win 4-2 in overtime.

Eddie Miller, a former Winnipeg boy, and Jake McLeod slammed the disc into the Flyers net from goal-mouth scrambles for victory in the first six minutes of overtime.

Winger Roy Kelly got the two earlier Trail counters after defenceman Calum and Jack Marshall had pushed Flyers ahead in the first three minutes of play.

Smokies, heading for the first Western Junior Crown for British Columbia, were disorganized and slow in the first 10 minutes. Then the defence tightened and Flyers generally were forced to shoot from well out with goalkeeper Bev Bentley turning in a smart performance in the final minutes.

Coach Gerry Thompson said the victory came despite his players suffering colds they picked up since their prairie jaunt. "The boys were not skating with any speed. We can do better than that."

Sports Spice

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, April 5—(AP)—Writing as a small-town fan as well as a sports editor, Jimmie Murphy of the Canton, Ill., Daily Ledger offers the opinion that "small town fans are the forgotten men of the sports world despite the fact that they support sports events in the larger cities by attending whenever possible"... So far as baseball is concerned, Jimmie blames the farm system for this situation and adds that, if farms were eliminated, it would mean the return of minor league baseball to many small cities which dropped out because the local owners couldn't compete with major-owned clubs.

Quote, Unquote

"The Illinois-Misouri League disbanded years ago along with other minor circuits, once-prosperous organizations which provided entertainment for fans in the 'hick' towns represented. Those leagues were financed by local businessmen. Then came the farm system and goodbye baseball to most smaller cities. It is true that in most of these cities baseball did not pay its own way and that financing teams was a tough proposition. But the businessmen usually donated to and helped secure the money necessary to move a franchise, and in most cases it was only a year or two until the fans demanded the return of a league team."

Hollywood Film To Aid VI Loan

TORONTO, April 5 — (CP) — A 20-minute Hollywood film, "The Shining Future," has been contributed to the Sixth Victory Loan and will start showing in Canada about April 12. The film, an imaginative glimpse into the life of the average Canadian in 1960, is contributed by the Canadian Motion Picture War Services Committee.

J. J. Fitzgibbons, chairman of the committee, announced that the cast of the two-reel film includes: Jack Carson, Benny Goodman and his orchestra, Bing Crosby, Deanna Durbin Cary Grant, Harry James, Irene Manning Herbert Marshall, Dennis Morgan, Charles Ruggles and Frank Sinatra.

Ortiz Wins

LOS ANGELES— (AP)— Manuel Ortiz went back to hauling vegetables today, but still with him was the world's bantamweight boxing crown he has defended against 10 challengers in a year and a half. The Imperial Valley farmer from El Centro, Calif., won a unanimous decision over Tony Olivera, of Oakland, in a 15-round title bout last night.

Orits weighed 117, Olivera 117½.

Maxwell Hamilton Returns To City Member Of Pioneer Family

Maxwell Hamilton, a member of one of Peterborough's oldest and best known families, has just recently been visiting his home city as a guest at the Empress Hotel. The story goes back for more than a century. He is the son of the Hon. Robert Hamilton, who was a son of Major Robert Hamilton of a Scottish Highland regiment. Robert Hamilton was born in Antrim, Ireland, in 1824, and came to Peterborough with his father and family in 1833. He was educated at home and at Peterborough schools and in 1844 entered the service of the Hudson Bay Company. After many years' service in many spheres of action he was appointed to high office in the company and was a member of the North-West Council, giving him the title of Honorable. In 1876 he retired and resigned his position on the Council. He then bought Auburn, the present Hamilton home and died in 1895 and is buried in Little Lake Cemetery. He was married to Annie Seaborne, daughter of Richard S. Miles, chief factor of the Hudson Bay Company.

Maxwell Hamilton, brother of the late Miles Hamilton of Auburn and uncle of Major A. M. (Archie) Hamilton of the S. D. and G. Highlanders, was born on October 7, 1865, in the Arctic Circle where his father was serving. Educated in Peterborough he spent his younger days here and then followed his father's example and entered the service of the Hudson Bay Company. After a long period of service filled with adventure and excitement he left the company's service and became the Canadian representative of an English bank, which had large real estate interests in the Maritime Provinces.

He has now retired from active service and is going to live in retirement probably in Lakefield.

Still tall and upright he has a serious physical disability which causes him to walk slowly and with difficulty, with the aid of a stick. However, his mind and his memory are still clear and he has a large stock of reminiscent memories of his experiences in the Arctic Circle and elsewhere.

His disability prevents him from getting around to see places and faces familiar to him here, but he is very interested in the man and markets of Peterborough. In conversation with him, among other things he asked us what had happened to the Turnbull and Cressman stores and noted with interest that the present Canadian Departmental Store building covered, in part the old-time show yard for monuments and tombstones at the south-west corner of Charlotte and George Sreets. He was much interested in the fact that the present Examiner office was now on the site of the old Munro House, well known as a farmers' meeting-place in the old days. He made inquiries as to R. M. Glover, R. R. Hall, and J. D. Craig, and also as to Walter Stocker and J. H. Burnham.

One of Peterborough's best cricketers in the big days of the game here he inquired after many old players, including Sam Ray and W. Stratton, and talked of his personal experiences in the game here and elsewhere. He also has had military experiences, acting as Adjutant of the 247th Battalion organized here in 1916 under the command of Col. C. H. Ackerman.

Canada Makes Apple Syrup

OTTAWA, April 5—(CP)—Canada has been manufacturing apple syrup on a commercial basis for the past two years and it is being used in the baking industry and as a glycerine substitute in the tobacco industry, a Federal Agricultural Department spokesman said today.

He was commenting on a news dispatch from Cleveland, O., which said that a new, sweet apple syrup, an amber liquid that is 65 per cent. sugar, was announced today before the American Chemical Society.

The Canadian syrup was used in the tobacco industry as a glycerine substitute when glycerine became short in supply because of war needs. The syrup helped retain moisture in tobacco. It was also used in the baking industry where it was found that bread and cakes made with the syrup retained their freshness longer.

The spokesman said the syrup was only one of the by-products which prevented wastage of Canadian apples.

Crowded Ploesti Rail Yards Wrapped In Flames After American Day Swoop

Air Marshal Slessor Says Oil Fields Will Be Knocked Out To Cripple Hitler's War Machine

By EDWARD KENNEDY—Associated Press Correspondent

NAPLES, April 6—(AP).—American heavy bombers and their fighter escorts shot down more than 40 enemy planes during yesterday's big raid on Ploesti, Rumania, Germany's main source of oil, Allied Headquarters announced today. The main targets on this raid were rail yards choked with tank cars. Bombs were showered over tracks, rolling stock and adjacent buildings, causing many fires and explosions, an announcement said. Adjacent oil refineries also were hit.

Smaller formations of heavy bombers attacked railways at Nis and Leskovoac in Yugoslavia as the Allies pursued a relentless campaign against German communications in the Balkans in co-ordination with the Russian land advance.

While the heavy bombers were thus occupied on distant targets, mediums and fighter-bombers continued their intensive campaign against German communications in Italy. It was announced that all rail lines from Northern Italy to the front area again have been cut and that the Germans have been unable to move through trains since March 28.

Vital To Germans.

Air Marshal Sir John C. Slessor, deputy commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean Allied air forces, discussing the importance of the air campaign in the Balkans, said the Ploesti oil fields were vital to the Germans "on anything like a long term basis."

"The Germans could not possibly carry on without them," he said.

It was estimated the oil field installations were 40 per cent destroyed in last summer's big raid on them by U.S. Liberators from the Middle East, but the Germans are said to have repaired most of that damage.

These fields, Air Marshal Slessor said, are one of the most important Balkan targets and if they can be knocked out and be kept knocked out the effect on the outcome of the war may be great, for they are Germany's big source of natural petroleum.

The freight yards at Bucharest, attacked Tuesday, offered "the best bomber target in the world," Sir John added, since they, too, were choked with tank cars carrying oil from Ploesti to the Danube for transfer to river barges.

In addition, he said, all the recent Balkan raids, including those against Sofia and Budapest, were seriously disrupting German communications leading to the western front.

Air Marshal Slessor announced that the total number of enemy planes shot down in Sunday's big raid on Steyr, Austria, now has been found to total 157—by far the biggest bag ever scored by planes from the Mediterranean theatre in a single raid.

Hon. Solon Law Leader Of Social Credit

TORONTO, April 6—(CP).—Hon. Solon Low, Provincial Treasurer of Alberta, today was elected national leader of the Social Credit Association of Canada at the organization's national convention here.

Mr. Low's election came by acclamation when the only other candidate—Major A. H. Jukes of Saanichton, B.C.—announced to the convention that he was withdrawing his nomination.

The election came on the third day of the three-day Social Credit Association of Canada convention which yesterday voted to establish a Dominion-wide political party to be called the National Social Credit Association.

A native of Cardston, Alta., Mr. Low was born January 8, 1900, and was educated there and at Calgary Normal School, the University of Alberta and the University of Southern California.

A school principal, he entered politics in 1935 when he was elected to the Alberta Legislature in Warner riding and he entered the Cabinet of the late William Aberhart as Provincial Treasurer in 1937.

A Latter Day Saint in religion, Mr. Low's home address now is Stirling.

Indian Troops Escape Trap

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—The BBC said today that troops of the 17th Indian Division had fought their way through the Japanese and reached Imphal after 21 days of action in which 1,800 enemy casualties were inflicted.

The report, recorded by CBS and NBC, said part of the action was along 10 miles of the Imphal-Tiddim highway. Two weeks ago, the Japanese asserted they had cut the division to pieces. Actually, the BBC said, the division reached Imphal with a loss of less than a tenth of its transport.

The division was said to have great confidence after battering down the Japanese who tried to stop them.

"The 17th began its fighting withdrawal March 3 when it was ordered to fall back to a specified milestone on the Tiddim-Imphal road," the British radio said. "At that time it had a frontage of 80 miles and at least 80 miles of communications to protect, besides all its troops and at least 2,000 vehicles and 4,000 animals. But it kept fighting and marching and the troops are feeling stronger in Imphal today because of reinforcements."

Set Invasion Date But Few Know It

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, April 6 (AP)—"D" day has been set.

The Allied Western Invasion timetable has been worked out to the minutest detail.

Only a few high-ranking officers know the date, however, and only a few will know it beforehand.

But topflight commanders in talks with their officers and men are being amazingly frank in some respects—even to the extent of telling the troops the job cut out for them

Deep Sea Fisherman Fights 19 Sea Lions Defending 500-Pound Catch Of Salmon

ASTORIA, Ore., April 6 (AP)—A veteran deep sea fisherman docked here yesterday exhausted from a battle to defend his 500-pound salmon catch against 19 sea lions.

Henry Jorgensen said his troller was anchored 10 miles off Long Beach, Wash., when he was awakened by what seemed the first pitching of a storm.

He found two sea lions flapping at him from the gunwales. He knocked them off, then went back to bed.

The vessel began rolling again. Jorgensen said 17 more sea lions were fighting to climb to the salmon on the deck.

For an hour and 15 minutes, Jorgensen said, he kept them at bay with a pike pole and was about to yield when a final thrust dislodged a 12-footer that had actually boarded the troller.

The battered sea lion swam off. The other 16 followed.

Post-War Spending Splurge To Bring Prosperity Wave

TORONTO, April 6—(CP).—The combined population of 46,000 in Kitchener and Waterloo, Ont., plans to spend $16,500,000 "in the two years following the defeat of Germany and Japan" on housing, durable goods, education and travel—an average expenditure per family of $1,328—Secretary D. L. Morrell of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce said today.

Mr. Morrell made public part of the findings of a joint C.C.C.-Board of Trade survey carried out in the adjoining Ontario cities as a community post-war planning project, and a model for possible similar studies elsewhere in Canada.

Information on more than 2,000 questionnaires still is being tabulated and analyzed, but today's report said residents in Kitchener and Waterloo:

1. Will spend more than $9,000,000 to purchase houses, and down payments will amount to about $2,250,000;

2. Will spend about $1,500,000 on house repairs, renovations and installations;

3. Are expected to order 2,020 gas or electric stoves ranging in price from $100 to $200;

4. Plan to buy 3,030 refrigerators averaging $200 each;

5. Expect to purchase 2,050 washing machines costing between $80 and $150;

Cars in Demand

6. Plan to buy about 1,000 sewing machines and 1,900 radios, with more than half the radios in the "more-expensive" class costing about $160 each.

7. The "large majority" will want good second-hand cars, with a potential demand for 2,500 vehicles in the first two postwar years, pending availability of post-war models. Eighty per cent will want to pay an average of $500 while 20 percent will want cars costing $1,200 up.

Answering the hypothetical question "is this survey representative of the Dominion?" Mr. Morrell's statement said:

"Canada is a great yet sparsely populated country, and these are

Invasion Coast Battered Hard Toulouse Raided

LONDON, April 6 (AP)—United States heavy bombers today bombed the "invasion coast" of France, striking the Pas-de-Calais area for the second consecutive day under an escort of fighters.

American air headquarters said no aircraft were lost on the operation, which encountered only meagre flak and no aerial opposition. A few hours earlier R.A.F. heavy bombers, flying for the first time in a week, returned from blasting German aircraft repair plants at Toulouse, France, less than 50 miles from Spain.

"The targets were clearly seen in the moonlight and first reports indicate that the bombing was effective," the announcement said.

The raid represented a round-trip flight of at least 1,000 miles, but despite the length of the journey all but one of the big bombers returned, the air ministry said. Mines also were laid in enemy waters during the night.

The assault capped a day in which United States forces sent fighters against the Berlin and Munich areas and heavy bombers to Rumania's Ploesti oil field region in a two-way strike from bases in Britain and the Mediterranean.

The Berlin and Munich sweeps were carried out by long-range P-51 Mustangs. They have gone deep into Germany on many occasions as bomber escorts, but never before on their own. The Mustangs shot up German air fields. The communique said several dozen Nazi planes were destroyed on the ground. Five others were shot down.

Chinese Gain In Drive Across Burma

Strong Japanese Forces Exert Pressure

NEW DELHI, April 6 — (CP). — Japanese forces are continuing to exert pressure all along the Assam front north of Imphal, but Allied troops have inflicted casualties on the enemy in ambushes laid along roads north and south of that Indian base, Allied Headquarters announced today.

In Northern Burma, meanwhile, the announcement said, Chinese forces are driving the enemy steadily southward in the Upper Mogaung Valley and are advancing on the village of Wakawng.

The bulletin also disclosed that 24 Japanese planes had been destroyed in an air commando attack against the Aungban airfield in Central Burma today.

Fighter pilots who returned to inspect the airdrome on the following day reported it appeared to be almost entirely destroyed by fire as a result of the six-minute raid, which was accomplished without loss.

With their line running six miles across the floor of the Mogaung valley, the Chinese took two tiny settlements, Mihloigar Tawng and Maranga Tawng, pin points 1½ miles east of the valley road, crossed a river southeast of Laban and eliminated a Japanese strong point at the confluence of two rivers about 40 miles north of Mogaung on the Myitkyina railway.

To the east Burmese troops advancing on Myitkyina along the Sumprabum road reached the Tiang River. (This apparently is about 45 miles north of the Japanese railhead base of Myitkyina.)

Says McLean Faced Kidnap Threat

WINDSOR, April 6 —(CP)—E. C. Awrey, crown attorney, said today that Windsor police were in possession of definite information that an attempt might be made to kidnap Harry McLean, wealthy Merrickville, Ont., construction man during his visit to Windsor last week.

Commenting on criticism expressed at a city council meeting of the police department for assigning men to guard McLean, Awrey said: "I was consulted before policemen were assigned to guard Mr. McLean. I approved of their action...."

He added that police knew of the presence in the hotel (Prince Edward) in which McLean stayed whom they felt were there for the purpose of kidnapping him.

"If this were a case in court I'd feel free to talk and give out all the details," said the crown attorney. "Since, however, the serious thing we feared did not take place, I can't say too much without pointing fingers at people who have not been charged."

It was during his visit here last Wednesday that McLean scattered $5,000 in bills and silver from his hotel window.

Fuel Minister Cracks Down In Coal Strikes

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 6 (AP) — Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George told the House of Commons today in an emphatically-worded statement that "strike action in time of war cannot be justified" and simultaneous government moves indicated Britain was fashioning "a big stick" to end widespread stoppages in the mining and shipbuilding industries.

Maj. Lloyd George declared that the coal crisis is the worst since 1926 and declared the "government cannot stand aside and allow collective bargaining or the machinery of conciliation and arbitration in this vital industry to be weakened or destroyed."

He did not disclose by what means this was to be prevented, but Labor Minister Bevin has been authorized by the Cabinet to deal with outlaw strike inciters under the Wartime Defence of the Realm Act and the Government announced it was considering what special powers were necessary to stamp out outlaw walkouts.

A Great Loss

The Fuel Minister announced that 60 per cent of the Yorkshire pits now were operating, but said the strike already has cost 1,000,000 tons of coal, has resulted in heavy inroads into dwindling reserves, and has stopped coal export to neutral countries.

"It has been possible to keep nearly all gas works in operation," he said, "but the position of many now is precarious."

He declared the bulk of the strikers were "completely out of hand and refused to accept the advice of their leaders."

The total of the striking Yorkshire miners has dropped from 90,000 at the start of the week to 60,000 and a non-related strike of 20,000 Clydeside and Tyneside shipbuilding apprentices apparently has collapsed, but the general labor crisis appeared yet to be broken.

Dockworkers Out

In Belfast 30,000 shipyard, aircraft and engineering workers remained idle. About 15,000 to 20,000 shipyard workers turned up this morning but after last-minute talks went home. Several hundred dockers resumed work.

Bevin is armed with authority to round up strike inciters under the same regulations that apply to any subversive action against the government and the nation's war effort.

The London Daily Mail, meanwhile, declared that the war cabinet had drafted for promulgation next week an urgent order specifying that incitement of labor unrest is a criminal offence and had given the fuel ministry authority to take any other action necessary to end strikes involving more than 100,000 workers.

Speedy Tanks And Cavalry Driving On Black Sea 9 Miles From Heart Of City

Furious Battle Inside Tarnopol Reaches New Intensity As 3-Day Blizzard Peters Out

By EDDY GILMORE—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, April 6—(AP).—Russian troops pushed into the outlying suburbs of Odessa today and the roar of battle echoed throughout the city. Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's cavalry and light tanks drove on the great Black Sea port from three directions, front line dispatches said, advancing from positions which last night were only nine miles from the heart of the metropolis.

The right flank of Malinovsky's 3rd Ukrainian Army pushed through the quagmires west of the city heading for the Odessa-Ovidopol spur railway—the last remaining escape route to Rumania for the defenders of Odessa, the dispatches added.

Even if the trapped Germans and Rumanians succeed in reaching Ovidopol, they must still make the hazardous trip by ferry to Akkerman and thence by a single-track railway to Rumania.

Malinovsky's cavalry and tanks had cut off the main escape route to Rumania by capturing Razdelnaya, 38 miles northwest of Odessa, and then pressing southwestward to take Strassburg, which commands a side road from Odessa to Taraspol on the Lower Dniester River.

If previous German practice has been followed, the commanders of the Axis forces in the Odessa area probably have already deserted their men and equipment, and have been taken out by ship and plane.

Four Armies Converge

Four Red Army pushes are being aimed at the heart of Odessa, but the units closest to the city appear to be advancing down the banks of Lake Kuialnitski from the captured rail station of Kubanka, 14 miles away.

A Red Star dispatch said recent heavy rains have complicated ground conditions but that Malinovsky's calvary and light tanks are solving that problem. It reported that "big forces" of Germans are tied up in the direction of Odessa and that "violent fighting" is raging on the approaches to the city.

Northwest of Odessa, where the Russians have encircled German and Rumanian groups in the Skala area and in the city of Tripol, the merciless battle for their extermination has reached new fury with the end of the blizzard which has been sweeping southern Russia for three days and nights.

A dispatch from Maj. Mikhailov to Red Star said the Germans lost 1,000 dead and 20 tanks in their first big attempt to break out of the Skala trap to the west and north yesterday, and a second effort cost them even more dead.

Moscow again failed to mention the progress of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 2nd Ukranian Army, last reported within eight miles of Iasi, across the Prut River in Rumania.

To the northwest, meanwhile, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st Ukrainian army battled a reinforced German garrison in the streets of Tarnopol for the fourth straight day. The city was encircled 12 days ago and on Monday Soviet assault troops stormed through its inner defences to gain possession of the greater part of the town.

The Russian communique said other units of Zhukov's army were systematically wiping out the Skala pocket 55 miles southeast of Tarnopol in the Kaments Podolski area, where the remnants of 15 German divisions were reported trapped.

In a drive on Kishinev, capital of Bessarabia, northwest of Tiraspol, the Russians said they captured Tutslenny, 24 miles to the north, and 30 other towns, after repulsing a series of fierce German counter-attacks.

Willkie Quits In Race For Presidency

BY JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 6 — (CP) — A presidential nomination without strings floated enticingly close before Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York today as Wendell L. Wilkie quit the Republican race after losing a long-shot gamble for Wisconsin delegates.

Dewey, who reached for the prize at the 1940 Republican convention only to find Wilkie had grabbed it stood far out as the leading possibility for the nomination in the wake of Willkie's dramatic bow out of the contest.

Willkie failed to win a delegate in Wisconsin, were 15 Dewey representatives were elected despite the New York governor's previous plea for them to withdraw. The 1940 nominee threw in the sponge with the announcement that it was obvious he could not be nominated after his decisive setback in Wisconsin.

At Albany Dewey said nothing about his future plans—a silence some of his backers said he might maintain up to the time of the June nominating convention.

Baltimore's Republican Mayor, Theodore R. McKeldin, declared Dewey "is a 100-per cent candidate" after conferring with him in New York. Dewey was "very pleased," McKendin said, with assurances he had Maryland's support for the nomination.

Intimates of the Governor said he had made up his mind that if he is to be the standard bearer, he does not want to owe his elec-

Grecian King Tackles Problem

LONDON, April 6 —(AP)—King George of Greece is preparing to leave for Cairo to take a direct hand in the crisis in his government in Cairo resulting from the resignation of Premier Emmanuel Tsouderos, it was learned today.

(A Cairo dispatch said all Greek ministers resigned yesterday on the issue of unity with guerrilla leaders in the homeland and then decided to continue in office provisionally.)

An announcement from the government's information office said the King had accepted Tsouderos' resignation and had named former Navy Minister Sophocles Venizelos to succeed him.

There was no comment on a Cairo dispatch that Venizelos, however, had found the King's offer unsatisfactory and would not attempt to form a new government.

Tories Groom Eden to Lead Government

Belief Exists That 46 Year Old Diplomat Will Succeed Premier Churchill

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

If Anthony Eden resigns the British foreign secretaryship to devote his whole time to government leadership in the House of Commons, as is reported to be scheduled, it will put squarely to the test his qualifications as possible successor to the great Winston Churchill as Prime Minister.

That will be the significance of the move if it eventuates. Many British prophets feel that Mr. Churchill's historic task of leading Britain through the valley of "blood, toil, tears and sweat," from defeat to glorious victory, is drawing to a close. He and the chiefs of the Conservative party are said to feel that the comparatively youthful Eden—he is 46—is the man to shoulder the burden, and they're going to put him through the mill to find out.

One important sidelight is that if and when Eden takes the helm it will at long last bring the so-called "young Conservatives" into power after many decades of battling with their elders for a place in the sun. Mr. Churchill belongs to the old guard. So did a long string of predecessors.

Maybe it's wrong to call that a sidelight. Britain, like the rest of the world, is on the verge of great changes, and coupled with those will be the post-war problems of reconstruction. It certainly is a period when political adaptibility and correct perspective will be at a premium.

So far as foreign affairs are concerned, there's no reason to anticipate any material change. The Foreign Secretary doesn't lay down Britain's foreign policy in any event. He may propose some of it, but the Cabinet has the last word.

Eden of course already is Government leader in Commons, but his Foreign Office duties require most of his time. Regular leadership in Commons would put him on a hot spot, where he would either make or break himself in short order. It's one of the toughest assignments in British politics. It calls not only for the inspiring qualities necessary for leadership, but for supreme tact.

102 Army Nurses Killed

Women Face Harsh Trials Admirably

BY MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 6 — (CP) — In the steps of Florence Nightingale, British women in white are following their men ointo battle and are serving and dying wherever British soldiers are risking their own lives.

Dame Katharine Jones, matron-in-chief of Queen Alexandra's Imperial Military Nursing Service, announced in London that 102 British Army Nursing Sisters have been killed under fire; 42 are missing in Malaya; 14 are prisoners at Hong Kong.

"Wherever the army goes we go, in peace or war," she said.

Nursing Sisters, she stated, are with the Allied forces on the Anzio beachhead. When the hospital ship St. David was sunk off Anzio and several nurses lost their lives, others distinguished themselves for their coolness and bravery in caring for their patients aboard the sinking ship.

Nurses on the beachhead, serving in casualty clearing stations, live in tents dug close to the lines. They wear battle dress and face the same dangers and harsh living conditions as do the soldiers.

"They are standing it well," said their chief.

There are British nurses in Madagascar, Seychelles, Mauritius, India, Ceylon, Egypt, Irak, Persia, East and West Africa.

Aussies Hit 53 Targets

Fliers Celebrate 2 Years Of Bombing

BY ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 6 — (CP) — Australians, like Canadians, are scattered through the fighting air formations of the Royal Air Force. Some of them, like Canadians, Some of them, like Canadians' came to Britain and joined Australian formations and others became part of mixed crews.

Recently a group of Australian airmen celebrated at an East Anglian canteen two years of air warfare over Europe on a front 12,000 miles from their homes. They were personnel of Australia's Senior Bombing Squadron which delivered its first attack on Germany in mid-March, 1942. The target was Emden.

Since then the Squadron, now graduated from Wellingtons to Lancasters, has dropped 3,600 tons of bombs on 53 enemy targets in nearly 300 attacks.

The Australian Squadrons have helped bomb Berlin 24 times since their first visit to the Reich capital in January, 1943. In all they have bombed 70 other enemy targets 300 times, dropped 17,000 tons.

Men such as Group Capt Hughie Edwards have brought lustre to the name of Australian flying men. He won Australia's first V.C. for his part in the daring daylight attack on Bremen in July, 1941, and also holds the D.S.O. and D.F.C.

Legislature Passes 87 New Bills

Liberals Support Premier Drew On Most Issues

TORONTO, April 6 — (CP) — Lieut.-Gov. Albert Matthews prorogued the first session of the 21st Ontario Legislature early today after waiting for almost five hours while the House cleaned its legislative slate in a hectic flurry of early morning debate.

The legislature went through two divisions on government legislation. With the new C.C.F. opposition of 34 firing continual questions, it inched its way through estimates item by item in a final sitting that lasted for almost 15 hours.

Finally at 3:10 a.m. his honor entered the chamber escorted by Progressive Conservative Premier Drew and the session was prorogued 15 minutes later. Royal assent was given to 87 bills, one of which was a government measure setting up a new department of planning and development to guide the province's post-war plans. A minister has yet to be named to head the department.

The session which began Feb. 22 was the first since Premier Drew's government of 38 was elected last August and the first for E. B. Jolliffe's C.C.F. opposition of 34. The 15 Liberals in the House voted mostly with the government during the eight divisions of the session with two Labor Progressives and Mitchell Hepburn (Ind.-Lib.-Elgin) dividing their support. A total of 28 bills were pushed through third reading during the day and night sitting — the largest single day's total for some years. Included was a government measure setting up a 48-hour work week with one week's vacation with pay in Ontario. War industries may be excluded from the provision.

Estimates totalling $66,506,026 for the Department of Education, Health, Lands and Forests, Public Welfare, Provincial Secretary and Prime Minister were pushed through in the closing hours of the session.

C.C.F. members asked numerous questions, and Premier Drew re-

Injures Hand Sawing Wood

BANCROFT, April 6 — (ENS). — Donald Vardy, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Vardy of Dungannon township, injured his hand Wednesday while operating a buzz-saw cutting wood for a neighbor, J. L. Churcher. He was rushed to Bancroft Hospital by his father, where he was treated by Dr. O. W. Anderson.

It is believed the mitt the boy was wearing at the time of the accident caught on a knotty chunk of wood, drawing this hand into the saw. Bones on the back of his hand were cut, and the cords and nerves were injured. It is not thought, however, that he will lose his hand, but the nervous system may be affected.

Poor Bombing Kills Allied Soldiers

NAPLES, April 6 (AP)—Lt.-Gen. Ira C. Eaker disclosed today a number of Allied soldiers had been killed by bombs which accidentally fell far from the target during the great Allied air assault on Cassino, March 15.

This disclosure by the commander of Allied Mediterranean air forces came during a press conference in which he discussed many aspects of the bombing and declared that while the operation had failed to break German resistance it had "accomplished all that was expected of it by the Air Force commanders..."

Eaker indicated his belief the outcome should not be construed as reflecting on the potentialities of aerial bombardment, declaring frankly air power has its recognized limitations and it was not to be expected such an attack could wipe out all resistance.

Some of the bombs which missed the target at Cassino fell wide of their mark because of a "mechanical failure," he said, investigation showing "the bombs had become dislodged from their racks and when the bomb doors were opened they became free."

Others which dropped at Venafro, far behind the front, killing a number of Allied troops, were the result of a mistake in target identification, Eaker added.

Emphasizing that his remarks should not be considered as a criticism of the ground forces or their commanders, he said "the Cassino operation was laid on by the air forces at the request of the Army in an effort to destroy the roadblock and strongpoint which prevented the ground forces from getting through this terrain feature."

He added that the accuracy of the bombing at Cassino was about the same as against German industrial targets.

Eaker said the air forces, like other arms of the service, faced weather handicaps, and pointed out there are some types of operations for which they are not designed and to which they could not be adapted. He declared, however, that he did not favor the air forces clinging to the ground when here was a case of emergency.

Crewless Plane Flies 150 Miles

A U.S. Air Base in England, April 5 (AP)—Hit by flak and abandoned by its crew, a Liberator flew 150 miles in formation back toward its home base after a recent raid on Germany.

The story was told by Lieut. Albert I. Bell, of Ogden, Utah, pilot of another Liberator, "Boys-Howdy."

Bell and his mates saw eight men parachute from the big bomber after it was hit. Apparently the other two members of the crew were killed, because "when we circled her, there was no one at the controls and all the guns were abandoned," Bell said.

"We followed that plane 150 miles and she flew a straight and level course to England. She flew in perfect formation with us. When we were near England we asked for instructions, and were ordered to shoot her down.

"Just as we were coming in to kill the ghost ship she turned on us as if to bid us farewell, then her gasoline apparently exhausted, banked off to the right and fell into the Channel just offshore."

Doctor Believes

Dr. Beruti, head of the Obstetrical Department of the University of Buenos Aires School of Medicine is first recognized medical authority to report on the case.

The skepticism which greeted first newspaper announcement of the births arose when no trace of quintuplets could be found in official birth records. The parents explained that they had tried to keep the event secret because of the fear of publicity.

D. Beruti declared that examination showed all the Diligenti children now were in perfect health although, he said, the last to be born, a girl, had required artificial respiration, warm baths, and stimulants.

The doctor said that according to his inquiry Senora Diligenti was attended only by a midwife in whose home the births occurred. He said the first child was born at 9 a.m., the second 10 minutes later, the third 15 minutes after the second, the fourth at 10:05 and the last at 11 a.m.

The total weight at birth, Dr. Beruti said, was approximately 14 pounds while at eight months the total had increased to nearly 90 pounds. The doctor expressed the belief the infants were born prematurely.

Peterboro Boy Completes 28 Night Trips

P.O. GRANT WILLIS

His first tour of operations completed, PO. Grant E. Willis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Willis, 305 Reid street, arrived home in Peterborough Wednesday night. Veteran of 28 night operational flights over most of the continental targets prominent in the news these days, PO. Willis is on a month's leave, after which he may again be posted overseas or perhaps assigned to instructional duties here in Canada.

He has flown as a rear gunner in Halifaxes and Lancasters of the Canadian Bomber Group since his arrival overseas in August, 1942, and has to his credit one confirmed Nazi fighter shot down. There was no doubt of the fate of that particular ship, as PO. Willis, a sergeant at the time of the incident in May of last year, poured 1,000 rounds of ammunition into the attacking plane and saw it crash in flames.

"Flying is lots of fun," said the young airman, who is only 21. "Operations is the only life in the Air Force. You get up in the morning when you please, maybe as late as noon, you are exempted from parades and drills, you can even get by without shaving for a week."

He received his commission on August 23 last year. After graduating from the Peterborough Collegiate he worked for several months at the Oshawa plant of General Motors before joining the R.C.A.F. in July, 1941. As between the Halifax and the Lancaster, there is little to choose, in PO. Willis' opinion. "They are both pretty good ships," he said.

Once 11 enemy planes attacked his bomber all at the same time, but he and his mates succeeded in fighting them off without serious injury to themselves. He reported that one time they had come back to base riddled by no less than 75 bullet holes. At least three times his ship had winged home flying on only three engines, but this, the flyer explained, is not an uncommon occurrence and is taken in their stride by any experienced airmen. "When it happens to a Halifax, she begins to lose height gradually, but a Lancaster is able to maintain its altitude," he said.

PO. Willis thought it was a bit early yet to give much thought to the questions of life and work after the war, and said he did not know whether the experience he has gained in military flying operations would pave the way for his continuing in aviation after it's over.

He found the people in England, where he has been all the time save for brief holiday excursions in Scotland, a lot different from those at home. Nevertheless, it was not hard to get along with the folks in the northern counties, though he confessed those in the south were rather difficult to strike up an acquaintance with.

The fortunes of war and the fate of many young airmen who almost nightly now are bombing Germany and her satellite nations was inadvertently underlined by PO. Willis when he referred to a clipping his father had saved telling about his exploit in bagging the Messerschmitt 110 nightfighter. The airman had not seen the excerpt before, which mentioned the names of a number of other Canadians who made up the crew of his plane. He read it and said: "All of those boys are missing now."

A brother of PO. Willis, Charles Willis, 23, is also with the R.C.A.F. and stationed now at Toronto. Prior to that he had spent 13 months in Labrador.

necessarily wide differences in standards and ways of living. In many regions, however, there are concentrations of people with a similar outlook and environment to Kitchener and Waterloo.

"Nevertheless, Kitchener-Waterloo is no wholly representative and a number of surveys of a similar nature will have to be conducted before a balanced view of the post-war scene can be obtained."

The C. C. C. statement said the survey revealed 59 per cent of the Kitchener - Waterloo population owned their homes and 36 per cent proposed to buy or build. The houses would not be large or expensive and many would be financed under National Housing Schemes.

Need 2,000 Houses

It said 1,800 houses are required at a unit cost less than $5,000; 250 from $5,500 to $12,000; and perhaps 10 more expensive units.

During the war property owners had been saving on maintenance and upkeep. There was an accumulated backlog of painting, shingling and other repairs. Many persons planned home extensions and improvements when labor and materials be came available. Heating installations would be modernized, new bathrooms and kitchens added, and garages and sunporches built.

"To a very large extent these expenditures will come out of savings," said Mr. Morrell.

Some $436,500 would be spent by 580 parents on educating their children, the Kitchener-Waterloo survey indicated, and just more than $316,000 would be used by 106 citizens for special travel. Some persons "lamented" lack of materials and other government restrictions had prevented them setting up business and were accumulating funds now for that purpose.

People Save Now.

"That the public has been and is making provision for this post-war spending is brought out by the fact that, excluding housing, 76 per cent of the total money will be ready and available, 20 per cent will be financed on short-term credit and not more than four per cent will be borrowed on other terms," said Mr. Morrell's statement.

"Excluding the purchase of houses, the survey indicates an average family expenditure of $590 over a period of two years. This cannot be considered excessively optimistic even though incomes are expected to be fairly well maintained.

"In fact, 32 per cent. of those earning less than $1,500 per annum in the year 1939 expect to be earning more in post-war."

The survey in Kitchener-Waterloo was made on the basis of a "sample" obtained by covering every ninth household in each block and in each polling district.

Findings of the survey will be described in issues of Canadian Business, the official C.C.C. magazine.

In addition to his portfolio as Provincial Treasure, Mr. Low also is Minister of Education.

Rev. E. G. Hansell, New Democracy member of the House of Commons for MacLead, Alta., who was prominently mentioned as a candidate for the leadership, said this morning he had asked that his nomination be withheld.

Three Alberta New Democracy members of parliament who had been mentoned as possible National Leaders were not nominated. It was understood they made clear their present duties in the Commons required all their time. They were John H. Blackmore, member for Lethbridge; Rev. E. G. Hansell, MacLeod and Victor Quelch, Acadia, all of whom have taken a prominent part in convention and general as Social Crediters.

Later today, the convention will choose a vice-president of the National Organization and other officers to work with Mr. Low.

With decision on a purely Social Credit organization, delegates said it was probable the 10 members of parliament would drop the party name of New Democracy they assumed in 1940 and hold their seats as Social Creditors.

Louis Even of Montreal said some heedings on reports of the convention yesterday were "incorrect" in that way indicated the Quebec delegation had threatened to walk out.

"They said a Quebec bloc was against political action and had threatened to walkout," he continued.

"We never threatened to walk out. We have never stood against political action and we are anxious to run candidates in every constituency where it is deemed wise to make the attempt."

"Back Hurt—Arms Ached" Felt Tired Out; Run Down

Condition Followed Years of Troubles With Stomach and Constipation; Gets Wonderful Relief Taking Syntona.

MR. THOMAS GAWN

"I am sure feeling a lot different from what I was a few weeks ago, and it's all due to taking a few bottleh of Syntona," says Mr. Thomas Gawn, well known resident of Wilton Grove, Ont.

"I had a sharp pain in my back that certainly did hurt me and, too, my arms were full of aches and pains. This trouble followed a long time of suffering with bad digestion. There seemed no end to the troubles I had with gas, bloated feeling, and belching up of hot, sour liquids. Constipation was a daily worry to me. Whenever I moved quickly I got dizzy feelings with little black spots coming before my eyes. I had been this way for so long that I was badly rundown, felt tired all the time and just seemed to have no energy.

"But what a wonderful difference a few weeks of Syntona have made. For the first time in years I am rid of gassy stomach, sour acid, risings and all that misery after meals. My bowels are regular every day. The dizziness has cleared up and best of all those back pains and aches in my arms do not trouble me now. I sleep the whole night through and instead of being tired, nervous and fatigued, I get up in the morning feeling fully rested. It is great to feel so good again, and I cannot recommend Syntona too highly for helping me so much."

If you, who read this, suffer as Mr. Gawn did, come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and get yourself a treatment of this pure Herbal Medicine. Find out how Syntona will help you, too.—(Advt.)

Ploesti Raided 12 Bombers Lost

NAPLES, April 6—(AP).—Allied Headquarters announced today that 12 heavy bombers failed to return from all Mediterranean theatre air operations yesterday, including an attack on the Rumanian oil centre of Ploesti.

A communique said railyards and an oil refinery were blasted in the American air lunge against Ploesti, a blow that was in direct support of the advancing Soviet armies.

Simultaneously, other heavy bombers hit railway targets at Nis and Leskovac in eastern Yugoslavia.

During the day and preceding night more than 40 enemy aircraft were destroyed, the communique said. It did not give a breakdown of those shot down by the heavy bombers and their escorting fighters on the Ploesti run. Allied aircraft flew 1,000 sorties.

On the ground artillery duels raged in the Cassino area and near the west coast end of the main battle line, the bulletin said, adding that patrols inflicted casualties on the enemy.

He and his brother James joined the R.C.A.F. on December 2, 1942, at No. 1 Training Commmand, Toronto, hoping to take the air crew course. Color blindness prevented James from reaching the goal. However, he is with the C.N.M. crew in the R.C.A.F. in Western Canada.

The Robins family have served their country one hundred per cent. W. J. Robins served for three years in the navy during the last war, and has served three years as service police in the R.C.A.F. Just recently he received an honorable discharge. During eighteen months of this time Mrs. Robins served also, assisting in the kitchen and dining room. Mr. Robin's father, W. T. Motion By Mitchell Hepburn Gets Axe In Legislature

TORONTO, April 6.—The C.C.F. Opposition lined up with the Drew Government last night to defeat an amendment sponsored by Mitchell F. Hepburn which would have had the effect of giving a six-month hoist to the Optometry Act amendment. This amendment, bitterly opposed by Mr. Hepburn the previous day enlarges the Board of Optometry from three to five members, gives the board power to regulate advertising of spectacles and eyeglasses and extends the disciplinary powers of the organization.

Two Progressive Conservative members, Dr. Hobbs Taylor (Huron) and T. A. Murphy (Toronto-Beaches), voted with the Liberal group, as did the two Labor-Progressives, A. A. MacLeod (Toronto-Belwoods, and J. B. Salsberg (Toronto-St. Andrew).

The Hepburn amendment was defeated by a vote of 64 to 19, and the main motion to give third reading to the bill was carried by 65 to 19, the extra vote coming from Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell, who was absent when the first vote was taken.

Introduced by Porter

The Optomery Act amendment was not a Government-sponsored measure. It was introduced by a Government member, Dana H. Porter (P.C., Toronto-St. George). Mr. Hepburn made no move to oppose the bill during committee stage consideration, but when Speaker Stewart put the motion for third reading he rose and presented his motion "that the bill be not now read a third time, but be read a third time this day six months hence."

"This is an amendment to the motion?" asked the Speaker.

"No, it is not," replied Mr. Hepburn. "It is a motion. After 18 years Parliamentary experience, I think I know when a motion is in order."

Overruled.

The Speaker said there could not be two motions before the House and ruled that it be accepted as an amendment.

The Optometry Act amendment came before the Legal Bills Committee yesterday morning and was reported after one amendment was made. The amendment clarified the section dealing with regulating the advertising of spectacles and eyeglasses, the advertising of prices and the advertising of the terms upon which spectacles and eye-glasses may be purchased.

It was Mr. Hepburn's contention at second reading on Tuesday that the bill restored a racket in the field of sale of spectacles.

Belgian Congo Shows Rapid Development

Twenty-five years in the Belgian Congo have left with Rev. W. C. Boyer of the Christian and Missionary Alliance a deep affection and hope for the Bantu people.

"We have more than 700 native workers, pastors, teachers and catechists, and more than 16,000 members of the church of the Christian and Missionary Alliance. Twenty are ordained pastors," said Rev. Mr. Boyer, one of the three missionaries at Bethany Tabernacle this week.

"Our workers and members are scattered throughout a large field from Lake Tanganyika to the Atlantic Coast. People from the smaller villages which perhaps have only catechists meet once every quarter in larger central places, in many of which we have brick churches, and discuss the work of the church and the progress of the Christian religion. These people were formerly heathen, but they have made most encouraging progress in education and civilization and also gospel knowledge and living."

Mr. Boyer said the Bantus were engaged in many useful occupations.

Modern Employment

"Some of them are engineers and firemen on trains; others are captains and crew workers on river boats. It is not unusual to see a Bantu captain take a river vessel, down the Congo to its mouth. Many of them work as clerks in stores and in other positions of business; some are chauffeurs; large numbers of them work in the gold industry, much of which is the washing of earth in the rivers from which valuable deposits of gold are obtained.

There is a union hostel in Leopoldville, the capital of the Belgian Congo. It is a joint service of different denominations. The man in charge of that hostel is a Bantu who speaks English and French as well as his own language. He takes care of all the buying, cooking and serving of meals, and generally is doing a good job of management.

1,000 Boats in Congo

Some of the young men operate deisel engines, and you find others in the telephone and telegraph work. "In 1885 there were only six boats on the Congo; today there are more than 1,000, an indication of material progress which may be regarded as substantial promise of future development."

Rev. Mr. Boyer said he succeeded in building a maternity hospital in the Mayumbe section, according treatment and care of women who need help, and with a dispensary, treating approximately 4,000 patients a year. Sleeping sickness, for a long time an epidemic malady in that area of Central Africa, has been reduced in some of the sections to only one per cent of mortality.

The Belgian Congo is rich in copper, with valuable tin, radium and gold deposits. Rubber is another natural resource that has expanded rapidly since the war broke out. "Trees only four and five years old are being tapped, and many thousands of acres are being planted."

A New Capital

"When I first went to the Congo I was stationed at Boma, the old capital 75 miles up the river from its mouth. But, the centre of government was transferred to Leopoldville 425 miles up the Congo from the Atlantic, and that place has become the centre of our mission work."

Rev. M. Boyer left the Congo last November with a feeling of satisfaction, he said, that a great deal had been accomplished by missionaries, and also with the knowledge that much remains to be done.

Alnwick Red Cross Makes $24 At Party

ROSENEATH, April 6—(ENS)—The Alnwick Red Cross Branch held a meeting in the Orange Hall this week. Progressive euchre and old time dancing were enjoyed and proceeds were $24.55.

Prizes at euchre were won by Mrs. G. L. Tucker with a score of 103 points and Bruce Timlin with a score of 104 points. Lunch was served at midnight and a short business session held. James S. Brown reported $489.16 collected during the recent drive for funds. This amount is just $10.84 short of the objective.

Mrs. Frank Brown, quilt convener announced 50 hospital quilts made during the past three months. The secretary, Mrs. G. L. Tucker, read letters of thanks from Ednel Blodgett, Joe Kelly, Bill Stanworth, Tony Hearns and Milford Macklin for parcels received from the Branch.

It was decided to continue the meetings during the summer and C. Thackeray, R. B. Nichol and Rae Brown were named a committee for the May meeting. The committee in charge of the entertainment was comprised of Reeve Harold Davidson, James Webb and C. W. Varcoe.

Welsh Council Looks Far Ahead

LONDON, April 6—(CP). — The Welsh Reconstruction Advisory Council has issued a report suggesting negotiation of post-war international coal agreements to give greater stability to the coal export trade, re-organization of Britain's tinplate industry and municipal airdromes in Wales and also at least one trans-Atlantic aerial terminus.

The four potential post-war danger spots in Wales and Monmouthshire, it is stated, are technological unemployment in tinplate, closure and exhaustion of coal pits, derelect areas and unemployability due to age and poor physique.

The report draws attention to chronic depression which Wales had to face between two wars, during which about 430,000 persons migrated. "There is a fear that such conditions will inevitably return unless there is adequate preparation to counter them."

Criticism And Campbellford

Mayor Long of Campbellford appears to be deeply disturbed because the Examiner recently printed a letter signed "Campbellford Ratepayer" which contained some firm criticism of the public school in that town. The issue, in His Worship's opinion, was purely a local one and the Examiner was not justified in giving publicity to it in its Home Edition, which is widely circulated in his county. The position seems to be, in fact, that Campbellford does not like criticism, even from one of its own ratepayers.

The Examiner feels itself fully justified in giving publicity to a matter which has caused a good deal of discussion and dissatisfaction. Mayor Long can hardly hope that the public is ignorant of the fact that the public school in Campbellford has been a subject of discussion for almost five years, and that frequent references to it have appeared in this paper; the letter which we published contained nothing which had not been said many times before, with the exception of the reference to the fire-fighting equipment in the school, which the writer of the letter considered insufficient. Presumably the writer of the letter felt that the attention of the public should be directed once again to an old grievance, and wrote to this paper as a means of gaining his end.

Writing to a newspaper is a well-established way of prodding complacent officials. Even the best of local governments have a tendency to overlook matters which need attention, and a letter to the press from a ratepayer sometimes stings them into action. Of course, such criticism is always resented, but sometimes it does the trick. This paper has always published plenty of news about Campbellford, and will continue to do so; our readers are interested in Campbellford and they like to know whether the town has a wide-awake and progressive local government, or one which slides along from year to year with the minimum of effort.

Meanwhile we hope that there will not be a fire at Campbellford School. We should not like to have to report the ineffective attempts of the town council to put it out with a borrowed garden hose.

"Stalinist" Economic Laws

It has been said that Russia moves farther and farther to the Right, as the western democracies move farther and farther to the Left. Certainly it is true that in Russia today economic measures are sanctioned by the state which appear to be directly contradictory to the teachings of Marx or of Lenin. Of course in Russia the writings of Marx have the status of a Bible, and it is not possible to contradict them officially. But much of what Marx said was so muddy and confused that it can be interpreted to mean a variety of things, and at present it is apparently being interpreted in support of economic measures which are best described as "Stalinist".

• • •

Under these revised economic opinions, for instance, capitalism is declared to be a "progressive", and not a "backward" system, and it is flatly stated that workers in a capitalist economy are not "exploited". This is not a complete volte-face, of course; Russia makes her customary distinction between state capitalism and private capitalism. But it is a very marked change of front, all the same and it probably makes Marx roll over in his grave, although the high priests of Marxism assure us that the old gentleman still rests with a benignant smile on his face.

• • •

The new economic opinion in Russia also says that economic laws operate under socialism, which was formerly denied. To quote from an article in Science and Society, a Marxist quarterly: "In the teaching of economics, in the curricula and textbooks, the superficial and erroneous idea was often expressed that there is no place under socialism for the action of economic laws"; the article attacks this view as "un-Marxist" and "unscientific". Which being interpreted, means that somebody has changed his mind. Guess who?

• • •

The article also speaks scornfully of "the historical limitations of primitive communism" which, it is implied, must not be allowed to fetter modern communism. It points out that such things as commodity production; exchange and money were in common use long before the rise of capitalism in its modern form, and that there is no reason for a good communist to scorn them. The rejection of the law of value by earlier communists is also rejected as "unsound", and this rather remarkable statement follows: "It would be naive and pedantic to think that Marx and Engels could foresee and prescribe the concrete practical way of administering the law of value in the interests of socialism".

• • •

And having revived the law of value, what does this Stalinist economy use it for? To justify piece-work which socialists used to condemn so violently; to justify differences in wages, because "the labour of a citizen of a socialist society is not qualitatively uniform"; to justify differences in incomes between workers and peasants; to justify capital accumulation, profitable operation, market prices and taxes. Truly, "there is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so", and Russia has been doing some extremely revolutionary thinking.

• • •

And why? Russia explains; it is to sweep away the ideological obstacles to collaboration between Russia and Britain and the U.S. This new Russian line will undoubtedly knock the props out from under some of our home-grown communists; it is not guaranteed to make all union leaders happy; it will not rejoice the hearts of capitalists who regard capitalism merely as a form of legal banditry. But it will certainly be good news to hundreds of thousands of people who see capitalism in its best form as a workable and satisfactory system of world and domestic trade. Russia has obviously been doing some very shrewd thinking; perhaps we had better hurry to catch up with her.

What About Mr. Punch?

The Toronto morning paper takes grave exception to the suggestion made in the Legislature by Mr. C. A. Strange (C.C.F., Brantford) that the Ontario Censorship Board should employ the services of a child psychologist; the Globe and Mail insists that it is a vigorous champion of fairy tales, and resents Mr. Strange's suggestion that Snow White And The Seven Dwarfs was a film which might excite and disturb the mind of a child.

We are in agreement with the Toronto paper. Mr. Strange said that Snow White was banned in England because it was thought too frightening for children to see. Perhaps that is so, but we must remind Mr. Strange that there are foolish and needlessly interfering people in England just as there are everywhere else. For generations the British young have thrived on the street-show of Punch and Judy, in which a hideous dwarf beats his wife, throws his baby out of the window, is pursued by a ghost, and is finally hanged in plain sight of the enraptured audience. English children go every Christmas to pantomimes which are full of giants, monsters and horrors compared with which the Witch in Snow White is an old darling. Perhaps some meddlesome censor prevented them from seeing the Witch, but that does not mean that he was justified in doing so.

In any case, as we have said before in these columns, it would be stupid and unjust to regulate the film fare of this Province to suit the needs of children, or what busybodies, censors, reformers and other professional worriers believe are their needs. The movies are the only sort of drama that we have. If the movies are to be turned into mere moral pap for the young we shall have no drama whatever.

And that is an exceedingly serious consideration. No country or people has ever amounted to anything in this world which has not had a vigorous—and usually a bloody and horror-laden—drama. Let no reformer snatch from Canada the pitiful crumb which she now possesses on the pretext of safeguarding children.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Lieutenant-General H. D. G. Crerar has called our Canadian soldiers the best in the world. Very nice, but that sort of thing comes more gracefully from non-Canadians.

The U.S. Bureau of Standards estimates that the world weighs 6,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons, and if you want to know what all the noughts stand for we believe the measure is called a septillion. But we imagine that if the earth were weighed in the balance it would still be found wanting.

Canadian Scene

By DUAHCIM

(The eighth in a series of letters from a father to a son in the armed services)

Cedar Hill, March -th, 1944.

MY Dear John: Our old friend and neighbour, the dour Scot Jamie MacTavish, is not as frequent a visitor to our Cedar Hill as is his charming daughter Jean. But he is, nevertheless, a welcome guest indeed.

He came unannounced this afternoon, as is his custom and stayed to dinner. We spent the evening together, Jamie and I, before the fire in my study and we talked of many things. A little while ago, as the clock's striking aroused us to a realization of the hour, we concluded our discussion.

YES, we talked of many things, Jamie and I, as we sat before the fire, and all these things concerned you, and the hundred thousand yous, who have left this Cedar Hill, and the many other Cedar Hills of Canada, and who will return some day, though in diminished numbers, to whatever changes have been made since, through the sea-mist off an eastern port, they with a queer, unexplainable constriction made mute farewell to all that in their lives had gone before, and then with the eagerness of youth turned to examination of the new and unexplored. And we two old soldiers of that other war travelled again in fancy by your side as you trained for the hard life of warring men. We slogged beside you in the mud, and were again adrip with rain. We slept and ate and lived with you, and in the hills of Italy we fought beside you and cursed as strongly as the best of you the fate that caused us to be there at all.

We listened, Jamie and I, to your repetition of the puzzlement which was ours in that other war, that you should be in such condition. That man, the higher animal—indeed if we are to believe the teaching, the Temple of the Immortal Spirit of the Christian God, is doing justice to the finest intellect possible to bestow, when he permits himself the insane destruction of so beautiful a thing as life. We wondered with you, again as we did many years ago in similar circumstance, why the learned men of all the nations of the earth cannot find another way to solve the problems of mankind.

MY beloved son, cease your wondering. Man has not found, nor will he find until the millennium, any other way but bloody war. It is fated that man is born upon this earth to struggle and survive as best he can. Down from the ages comes the thought that to the victor belongs the spoils. And aggressive and ambitious man, with this forever in the forefront of his scheming mind, hurls constant challenge to his fellowman. We must accept, my son, the ignoble fact that war is of the nature of war, and that he is far, far removed from the Utopian dream of peace, perfect peace. Until the dawning of the day, so far distant in the future that it is impossible in practicality to envision it, when man's combative nature will have become subservient to his reasoning mind, we shall have war.

And having accepted war as but a normal phase of our existence, it is our duty to whatever land gives us a sense of belonging to it, to fight its battles as bravely as we can in whatever sphere is chosen for us. To do less is traitorous to the cause for which the soldier fights and is a courting of the disaster of defeat.

WHAT is the cause for which the soldier fights? To what end the victory? To what purpose has he trained his mind and body to suffer all the hardships of the soldier's trade? What price the maiming of his wonderful, sensitive, shrinking, beautiful and responsive body? Why the tortured visitation of a violent death? Jamie and I, in that other war had not but the faintest idea beyond the simple fact that as soldiers it was our duty to carry out the orders of the day as they concerned us. And as disciplined men we found the will within us to conquer the natural shrinking of reluctant flesh. We found, to our surprise, that in battle all or none are heroes. There is no greater leveller than the proximity of imminent violent death or terrible maiming; all men are nearly equal in the crisis. And we found the enemy no whit different in his attitude. The whys and wherefores of the powers that ruled were of another world in which we found small interest. Sufficient that we do the job as we had been taught and sufficient unto the day that found us still with the breath of life within us.

It is with sadness that we, Jamie and I, live with you, and Canadian sons who fight the battles of the present, and find you as empty of ideals as we were. The Russian, and the German, and the Japanese, are all more fortunate. They have been given a something, however false, to fight for which transcends a natural patriotism; which makes a soldier's martyrdom a bearable thing; gives to his acquired discipline of mind and body a reason for the implied necessity that he fight and die. What greater advantage can an oponent have than the thought that he is right, and that in the defence of what he is convinced is right it is good to suffer and, if need be, die?

IN this one thing—this most important thing—the powers that he have failed us. They have not told us with sufficient emphasis that in the Democracy that is the breath of our national existence there are ideals which rises transcendent before the unmoral code of Fascism, the poverty of the Russian idea, the cruel Shintoism of Japan. Our home, our Cedar Hill, the ideal within a larger ideal, is a living, growing example of the idealism of our Democracy. The laws and ideals of the Fascists, the Communists, the Shintoists, do not provide or allow the creation by its subjects of Cedar Hills. Their lesser ideals do not allow the individual freedom and enterprise necessary to create the family empire of a home within the national empire. These foreign powers are afraid of freedom for the individual. Their ideal is power invested in a few instead of, as we have and treasure it, the government of the people, for the people, by the people. The ideal of religious freedom is not of these nations, the ideal of equality of race and colour is foreign to their policies. And yet they are able to imbue their soldiery with an enthusiastic lust for all that is base in the creeds they preach and with this enthusiasm strengthen their arms against us.

My son, since there must be war, have a thought beyond the stress of battle for the high ideals of Democracy as represented in the country of your birth. Strengthen your purpose and your will to conquer and survive with your belief in our Canadian design for living. How much easier it is for you to believe that your Democracy is valuable and worth fighting for, when it is compared with the very evident falsity of that of the enemies you defeat as convincingly as did your fathers.

And in this adieu I join with Jamie: "'Frae me the best o' luck."

YOUR FATHER.

The Dimensions of Man

(BY THE BISHOP OF SOUTHWELL)

AN American author has lately told the story of the two inscriptions over the gate of Harvard—that pioneer of liberal education in the land of promises on a new continent. When the first College buildings were ready, the governing body met to choose a text which should be inscribed above the portal, striking the keynote of the whole enterprise. They picked on the words, Man is the measure of all things — the very apotheosis of "pure reason." When they came back after the vacation they found that the President had changed his mind and another inscription stood across the gateway: The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.

Here is a parable of our social architecture. Which inscription do we mean to write over the gate of post-war reconstruction? The two stand for the two streams of tradition which have mingled in Christian culture at its best—the legacy of Greece on the one hand, on the other that of the Hebraic Bible. If they flow separate there is disaster. One of the greatest needs of the new order is the marriage of the scientific temper with the spirit of Biblical religion.

The West has tried, in the last two hundred years or so, to assume that Man is the measure of all things—that the world is "Man's show" and that he can run it. That seemed so inspiring at the time and it has to its credit genuine achievements, but we can see now whither it has been leading us. We have tried to emancipate ourselves from the natural order, as though we were independent of it and could exploit it for our own desires. We have tried to emancipate ourselves from the moral order, as though we were not its subjects but could impose our wills upon it. The consequences the world knows today. If there is really nothing beyond Man, then there is not court of moral appeal for him; men become pawns of exploitation and cannon-fodder of the will to power. There is no guarantee of human dignity except in a transcendent moral standard which Man did not make and Man cannot alter—that fear of the Lord which is the beginning of wisdom.

The "modern" experiment seems to end in failure. "Pure reason" seems to have ended in irrationalism. Then has the whole modern development been a vast, calamitous mistake? Millions of men and women have come to realize that we must start again, farther back. But many, in the inevitable reaction, have come near to despair of human nature. Hitler has known how to "cash in" on that. When men begin to lose faith in Man, gangsters and racketeers will always take charge.

Christiantiy comes to meet that predicament. It believes in Man because it believes in God. What Christianity offers is a Gospel, not a critique nor a denunciation. "Blessed be God"—so its phrases run—"who has begotten us unto a living hope." He gave them the right to become sons of God"—men, such as men are, limited and sinful.

We need not repudiate the Hellenic legacy nor forswear the achievements of Western humanism. Hope comes when Man is set in his true context, rooted in the organic life of nature, called and empowered to be a child of God. For Biblical religion, Man is a creature: but the Power that rules the world is committed to him. It is written that God created man and blessed him. He is not the lord of the universe nor yet an experiment doomed to end in failure. He starts on his career with the divine blessing, God leads him forth upon the road, helps him and restores him when he fails, suffers with him and conquers in the fight and "after that receives him with glory." The heart of the Gospel, after all, is not Man's inability to save himself—that we know too well already—but the will and power of God to save him.

Worldliness

(BY MONSIGNOR R. A. KNOX)

YEARLY on Septuagesima Sunday, with a familiarity that has blunted the edge of astonishment, the Churchgoer is warned by the epistle against the danger of relapsing into idolatry. True, other and more real dangers seem to be indicated—murmuring, for example, against which few of us are proof. But anyone who takes the care to follow up the context will see that idolatry is the real subject. The Corinthians have asked how far it is safe to go in conforming, externally, to the social customs of their heathen neighbours, when these have theological implications. St. Paul replied that we must be on our guard, we are all weaker than we know. He himself subdues his bodily appetites for fear that he, an apostle, should be disqualified in the race for salvation. The Israelites in the wilderness, though "baptised" in the Red Sea and houselled (as it were) from the manna and the Rock, fell back into idolatry nevertheless; and why not the Corinthians?

The modern Churchgoer does not add so readily, "And why not me?" His temptation, he feels, is not towards polytheism. For him, meat offered to idols would have no special lure.... Exactly, nor had meat offered to idols any lure, as such, for the Corinthians. No reason to think it was particularly appetising. They wanted to be allowed to eat the sacrificial food, so as not to look any different from their neighbours; so as not to win the reputation of killjoys, wet blankets at the feast; so as not to appear censorious. Are the withers of the modern Churchgoer still unwrung? If so, he has a very well- or a very ill-ordered conscience. What St. Paul is really frightened of, in the attitude of his converts, is an aproach to worldliness.

Worldliness? It has a Victorian ring about it; but only because we are fact-shy nowadays; the thing goes on as merrily as ever. Worldliness is not, in the last analysis, love of possessions, or the habit of courting great personages. It is simply the weakness of fibre which makes us take our standards from the society round us. If we do not want to eat meat sacrificed to idols that is because, in England at any rate, it is not done. If it were the thing, we should want to do it. And everybody, however high or low in the temporal or in the spiritual scale, has a "world"; has a set of acquaintances who are capital fellows and all that, but—for him to fall in with their habits, out of human respect, is to fall. We all know it; but few of us will deny that we need, sometimes, to be reminded of it.

Enemy of Humbug

Dickens was an extraordinarily artless writer; he let his genius run where and when it would; the perfect master of happy extravagance; a natural stylish of extraordinary force, he was a born teller of a tale, with amazing knowledge of human nature and human types; a great imaginative creation, with the zest of a schoolboy at a Christmas feast.

He was an enemy of "humbug", fiercely resentful of cruelty, intolerance, and solemn stupidity, and his writing life was a long attack on the social evils he came across. He lashed officialism, hypocrisy, and the abuse of power. But in spite of this disposition towards satire, he makes us think always first of the story and the character. All his spontaneous, crude, richly creative work is coloured with an eager, broad humanity. "All kind things", he once said, "must be done on their own account, and for their own sake, and without the least reference to him, moreover, no paganism, no influence by Greek or Latin culture; no trace of any foreign influence; he was English of the English, and from no other writings can England be so well comprehended even now. If some of his characters were little more than names attached to extravagant attitudes of conduct, they show his genius the more in that we accept them as men and women. He had the persuasiveness of great vitality; he wrote with a fine "gusto".... No one would dream of going to Dickens to learn consciously the art of novel-writing; yet all can draw from him subconsciously the foundation of phrase, for he was a born writer, and the foundation of philosophy, though he was no philosopher.

Beyond dispute, he is, to me, the greatest English novelist, and the greatest example in the annals of all novel-writing of the triumph of sheer exuberant genius.—From "Six Novelists in Profile," in "Candelabra," by John Galsworthy.

A Bible Message

And Elijah the Tishbite, who was of the inhabitants of Gilead, said unto Ahab, As the Lord God of Israel liveth, before whom I stand, there shall not be dew nor rain these years, but according to my word....And the word of the Lord came unto him, saying, Arise, get thee to Zarephath, which belongeth to Zidon, and dwell there: behold, I have commanded a widow woman there to sustain thee....

And it came to pass after these things, that the son of the woman, the mistress of the house, fell sick; and his sickness was so sore, that there was no breath left in him. And she said unto Elijah, What have I to do with thee, O thou man of God? art thou come unto me to call my sin to remembrance, and to slay my son?

And he said unto her, Give me thy son. And he took him out of her bosom, and carried him up into a loft, where he abode, and laid him upon his own bed.... And the Lord heard the voice of Elijah: and the soul of the child came into him again, and he revived.

And Elijah took the child, and brought him down out of the chamber into the house, and delivered him unto his mother: and Elijah said, See, thy son liveth. And the woman said to Elijah, Now by this I know that thou art a man of God, and that the word of the Lord in thy mouth is truth. (I Kings 17: 1, 8, 9, 17-19, 22-24.)

Is any sick among you? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord: and the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up. (James 5: 14, 15.)

Letter To The Editor

SOME PLAIN QUESTIONS

Sir,—I am more than a little confused by all these arguments about the Hospital, Utilities, and City Trust, and like many other taxpayers would like some light upon these matters. Would it be possible for some one in authority in the city to answer, over their own signature, the following questions:

(1) Is it true that the city taxpayer helps to pay any loss which the hospital may make on patients from outside the city?

(2) If he does help to pay this loss, why should he?

(3) Is it true that the City Trust has a surplus in addition to all legal reserves of several hundreds of thousands of dollars, and is this surplus being added to from year to year?

(4) If this is true, why is it done?

(5) Is it true that the surplus and reserves of the Peterborough Utilities Commission is the highest in history, and is being increased each year?

(6) If it is true, and the Utilities is the property of the citizens of Peterborough, why should not the people share in this surplus, either by reducing light bills, or by giving them free light for some months as other cities have done?

If there is no public reply to these vital questions, then I, along with many others, must form our own conclusions about these matters, and our conclusions may be wrong, in the absence of any official information. Thank you.—Yours truly,

MAURICE E. KETCHESON.

U.S. 240 Howitzer Beats All For Accuracy

BY EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

AT THE 5TH ARMY FRONT, ITALY, April 6 — (AP) — The 240-millimetre Howitzer, biggest American field gun used in this war, has proved its worth on the Italian front after 50 days of shooting at bridges, guns and other targets far behind the German lines, artillery officers say.

This is the only front on which this weapon has been in combat as yet. It fires a high explosive shell which measures about 10 inches in diameter and three feet in length and weighs about 360 pounds. There are other guns—both Allied and German—on this front which outrange the 240-MM., but they do not have its accuracy, artillerymen say.

One of the biggest achievements of the 240 so far was the destruction of a narrow but vital bridge at Ponte Corvo which Allied bombers had tried for weeks to demolish.

The 240's went to work on the bridge from a distance of 10 miles and succeeded where the planes had failed, though they had a target only 40 feet square at which to shoot.

The 240's also have been used for short-range work. In one phase of the battle of Cassino they laid shells 200 yards ahead of Allied troops.

The big guns also joined in the shelling of German forces around the Monte Cassino Montastery and in Cassino itself.

The Howitzers are brought to their positions in parts and mounted by a crane in pits walled with 11,000 sandbags.

Pupils Raise $16

NORWOOD, April 6 — (ENS) — Miss Iris Darling and pupils of the Ninth Line Brick School sponsored a successful evening of dancing and games in the school recently, raising $16 for the Red Cross. The music was supplied by Mr. and Mrs. D. Nixon, Mrs. W. Chamberlain, Thomas Chappele and Arthur Hannon. Those from Peterborough were Goldene Dafoe, Arnold and Gordon Ferguson and Bert Shanks, the latter also contributed some vocal solos during the supper hour. War Savings Stamps to the value of $9 were sold.

FOR ROOSEVELT—Sidney Hillman, leader of the American Labor Party Left Wing and chairman of the C.I.O. political action committee, who believes President Roosevelt should be drafted if necessary for a fourth term.

Drunk Driver Jailed; Walks To Work

URBANA, Ill., April 6 — (AP) — For the next 90 days Salesman Edwin Legue will walk or take a bus when he calls on his customers. And if they want to see him after business hours they will have to see him in jail.

Legue's new manner of transacting business was prescribed yesterday by County Judge C. M. Webber after he had sentenced him to 90 days in jail on a charge of drunken driving.

Judge Webber, asserting that he was not going to be responsible for making the manpower shortage more acute, ordered that Legue be released from jail at 6.45 a.m. five days a week—but he must check in at the jail at 6.30 p.m.—and be confined on Saturdays and Sundays.

BETHANY, April 6 (ENS)—Harry Fallis of Wilson Street met with a painful accident recently and is suffering from facial burns. He was using a small gasoline stove inside a large drain tile to assist in drying a cement block.

AYLMER, Que., April 6 — (CP) — Dr. G. S. H. Barton, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, said last night in a Service (Rotary) Club address that Canada has increased her agricultural output by 50 per cent. in the last four years despite a reduction of 23 per cent. in manpower.

Worker Insurance May Cover Lumbermen

OTTAWA, April 6—(CP)—Extension of unemployment insurance to workers engaged in lumbering has been recommended by the Unemployment Insurance Commission and is under consideration by the advisory committee, it was learned today.

No decision has yet been reached on the commission's proposal. Largest group not covered by the unemployment insurance plan is agricultural workers, but because of difficulties in collection payments no consideration is at present being given to bringing this group in.

France Likely Want Canada's Exports After War

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 6 — (CP) — In post-war rehabilitation, France will likely again become a good customer of Canada in the European market.

The Fighting French authorities here are now studying the economic problem of post-war requirements to put the nation back on its feet but it is a slow task when surveys have to be carried out, as they are, by the underground movement in France.

So far they have not been able to estimate definitely what their needs may be because if war returns to French soil any present calculations would be completely upset by the havoc wrought in those battles. The French here realize that too the Germans may carry out a scorched-earth policy in withdrawal.

Before the war, France imported considerable quantities of Canadian products, both industrial and agricultural.

In 1938 total imports from Canada were valued at more than $18,000,000 with wheat making up about $8,000,000 of this figure.

Raw furs, hide and skins were next at about $4,000,000, copper third with a value of nearly $2,000,000. Lumber, asbestos, bleached wood pulp for the great French rayon factories, cheese and apples were other Canadian products which sold in France.

As French industry becomes reorganized to peacetime many of these marketing outlets probably will be open again to Canadian firms.

But the field seems wider than that. The whole economy of France will require aid from other countries to be revived. Machinery will be needed for heavy industries. The coal industry will need equipment replacements and so will the electrical plants and huge automobile factories. The textile industry, one of the most important in France, will be run down and the transportation system of railways and canals will take years to get back to its former state of efficiency.

Need Farm Implements.

The vast agricultural areas of France will be begging for farm machinery with which to till the soil and reap the crops.

Many Canadian industries may be in a position to turn out these products the French will need.

Fighting French officials believe that the first effort will be made to re-establish the railways and get the mines going. What they fear is the Germans removing vital machinery to Germany as they withdraw into their own country. This happened in the last war and it delays reconstruction tremendously.

The money-coining tourist trade of peacetime is the last thing the French are thinking about. They say dolefully, "Who will want to drive around to see the wrecked churches and our ruined treasures. No. We worry about machinery and rolling stock."

In the field of agricultural exports, France probably will be a lucrative Canadian market and Canadian wheat should stand an excellent chance if shipping space is available.

As the ration books were also issued at Centreville, Cavan, Bethany and other surrounding points, this fact, apparently accounts for the lesser number given out at Millbrook.

Special features of the morning service at St. Andrew's church on Sunday included the confirmation in church membership of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ingham and son, George, formerly of Peterborough, who were received by letter; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hawken, Mrs. Marshal Fallis, and in the 'teen age group, 6 boys and five girls. The ordination of Wilfrid Elson into the eldership of the church also preceeded the sermon and Easter communion. The male quartette, G. Might, M. McDowell, H. Oullette and W. H. Air Force Losses Highest In Canada

LONDON, April 6 — (CP) — The Apparent disproportion between the figure of 9,209 killed in the war and 3,383 wounded. reported by Prime Minister Churchill in the House of Commons today, was explained by the particular circumstances which governed Canada's participation in the fighting.

Until last year Canada's greatest contribution to the fighting was in the air whereas that of Britain and other Dominions was more equally distributed, at least among air and land forces.

The number of killed among Canadian airmen is believed by some observers to be four-fifths of the total for all the services. On the other hand airmen wounded were small in proportion to all the services while those shot down are added to the prisoner total.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TOROLNTO, April 6 — (CP).— The United States Army basketball team in Edmonton has had a most serious charge levelled against it, the players have been accused of amateurism. That is something they will have a hard time living down, methinks.

Ches McCance of Winnipeg, who played with the R.C.A.F. in Edmonton, told Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning that the Yanks are snappy basketball players, "but they're not inclined to take the game very seriously, they play it chiefly for fun." Ches adds that it is a very commendable attitude indeed.

The American quintette is rated as one of the hottest teams in Alberta right now, if it wasn't for that one smear on their escutcheon.

Ill wind, etc.:

Steve O'Leary, Associated Press Boston sports writer, opines that Mike Karakas probably is very happy Boston Bruins didn't feel he was worth the stiff purchase price Providence Reds asked for him last fall. Instead of ending up beneath the ice with Bruins, Karakas was sold to Chicago Black Hawks, and now look where he is.

Midgets Mix It:

The wee ones are taking the floor in Toronto this week-end when the province's surviving midget hockey teams tangle for the Ontario championship. Copper Cliff and Gananoque entries battled their way through provincial opposition to win the trip. Copper Cliff meets Toronto Young Leafs first and the winner takes on Gananoque Saturday in the final. The under-16 teams have drawn a lot of attention this season.

Horse Cents:

Every horse that digs its shoes into a Canadian race track is worth about $2,000 to the Federal and Provincial Governments in taxes of one sort or another, Wallace (Vancouver News - Herald) Kelk computes. That looks like quite a stiff tariff, considering the calibre of some of the gees-gees, while a disgruntled punter might well wonder if the Government shouldn't just take the horses and be done with it all.

Incidentally:

The Altomah senior girls' basketball team in Winnipeg is bringing Vancouver Hedlunds to the 'Peg for another try at dethroning them as Canadian champions. Hedlunds downed the Winnipeggers the past two years. Among curling rarities was John Jackson's Winnipeg Thistle rink's defeat of one skipped by his brother, Jim. John scored an eight-ender on the final end to win. Airmen at the R.C.A.F. Moncton (N.B.) station are starting indoor baseball practice sessions in the drill hall three days weekly.

Tailless Dog Captures Coursing Cup

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 6 —(CP)— Two millionaire rivals for the coveted Waterloo Cup stood watching in a stubble field at Lydiate, Lancashire, as a bobtailed greyhound confounded the coursing experts. Then Flour Magnate James Rank congratulated Whisky Magnate John Dewar.

It was not by design that Waterloo winner Dutton Swordfish coursed the live hares with four inches missing from his tail. It was a pre-race accident and all the yelping didn't come from Swordfish when it happened because a greyhound's long tail is its rudder.

Swordfish, running with the tail in sticking plaster throughout the competition, won the final comfortably from Rank's Jazz Record. Both dogs were 100-1 shot after the cup draw.

To "Lucky" Dewar, as he was called in the 1930's when he inherited the Derby winner Cameronian and the bulk of Lord Dewar's millions, it didn't matter that Swordfish was entered in his wife's name. They run their kennel as a joint concern.

"We are carrying on with our racehorses and dogs because racing and coursing are the kind of things our fighting men want to come home to," Dewar said after the final. "What a miserable country this is going to be if all the 'stop this, stop that' people have their way."

Taxi Accident

Swordfish's feat was unique in the century-old history of the cup. Until three weeks before the competition he was ill with gastric influenza. He was able to have only one trial after a hare. Then, three days before the start the three-year-old's tail was trapped and broken in a taxi seat that tipped up. On a veterinarian's operating table four inches were amputated.

Swordfish raced through six courses during the three-day meet and in the semi-final beat Lord Lieutenant, "the biggest certainty for years" which finished his first two trials in the fast time of 9½ seconds each.

"It is almost unbelievable," said Dewar after Swordfish put on the winning point in a short course final. "I got a bigger thrill than when my horse Cameronian won the Derby in '31. People told me I had no chance with a greyhound without a proper rudder."

There wasn't a large crowd at the two-dog final but there was at least one American soldier who thought the whole thing "screwy" as he watched the dogs chase the bunnies and gaped at the judge galloping by on a white horse.

An elderly gentleman with grey sidewhiskers and polished leggings took the American sergeant (he was from Missouri) aside and answered "tradition" to questions such as "Why is that guy on a white horse?" and "Why does the guy who lets the dogs go wear a red coat?"

"Say, ain't you English the guys for tradition," was the American comeback.

Nels Stewart finished his first year's campaign in the National Hockey League 18 years ago tonight with a brilliant two-goal performance at Montreal that gave Maroons their first Stanley Cup triumph. Maroons defeated the Victoria Cougars, defending champions, 2-0 to win the final of the East-West series. Stewart was named the league's greatest rookie that season.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7

SPORTS-Day by Day

Peterborough will be represented at the annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association at Guelph tomorrow by a delegation consisting of Second Vice-president Dave Leether, Harold Dormer and Bob Batley. The gathering is expected to be one of the most successful in the history of the association with the annual reports showing keen competition in all the divisions last season and the various branches making a good showing in the raising of funds for war charities. In this connection the local City League will be in a position to report that thanks to the generosity of Peterborough fans substantial sums were raised for a number of worthy causes. Tomorrow's meeting is important too for the fact that a large number of amendments to the constitution and the playing rules have been proposed and will have to be considered. It is to be hoped that the military replacement rule will be clarified so that there will be no misunderstanding as to its meaning. It was never intended surely that a player who failed to take part in a single game for his club could be replaced by a star from another club in order to take part in playoffs.

* * * * * *

While definite arrangements have not been completed Promoter Frank Tunney hopes to bring back to Peterborough for next week's main bout a mat star who has always been popular here in the person of Earl Moose McCready the big Canadian grappler who has fought the best men in the world all over the globe and has always been tough opposition. McCready is a great favorite here and fans would be tickled to see him in action again. He is returning this week from a long tour across the border and Tunney is endeavoring to match him with that swaggering and hard-hitting hombre from Portland, Oregon, Strangler Bob Wagner. If he is successful in his match-making the clash should be about as entertaining as any matfare provided here this season. Wagner, one of the outstanding villains of the campaign, a rough-and-ready performer whose unorthodox methods have kept him in constant hot water should make an ideal adversary for the big Canadian whose knowledge of wrestling science is about as great as any performer in the game today and has shown in the past that he knows how to cool off those back-alley battlers. That rocking-chair cradle hold of McCready's has spelled curtains for a lot of well-known stars and so has his flying scissors and other grips so that Wagner will have his work cut out for him if he hopes to beat the Moose by sheer hard-hitting and power. Definite announcement as to the bout will be made Saturday.

A Picked Collection

According to George Campbell, Oshawa sport scribe, the Montreal Royals junior team is a mixture of players from a lot of clubs. Here is the dope as written by the Generals' publicity man: 'Lorne White's Montreal Royals constitute quite a collection of Junior puck material too. Our "Generals" don't look the same as when they opened the season either, for that matter, but then all that ground has been covered. Royals have four players waiting at home to get into the series in the 3rd game. They are Doug Harvey, Ronnie Rowe, Mike Demohuck, and Doug "Stonewall" Jackson. Jackson is well-remembered by Oshawa hockey fans, with chagrin. He's the laddie-buck who booted 'em out for Winnipeg Rangers in the Memorial Cup finals last spring. Ronnie Rowe will be remembered as a former star of the Toronto Marlboros. These four boys are unable to leave the Province of Quebec, due to being in the armed forces and they should make a big difference when the series moves to Montreal. Lorne White has met Oshawa Generals several times before, it will be recalled. Yves Nadon, their other goalie, is rated as the best goalie in the Montreal league (if he's better than Jackson, he's terrific) and he was with Sylvio Mantha's Concordias. Yvan Hamel and Jack Morrow, defenseman and forward respectively, were with Canadiens Juniors during the regular season. Harry Kazarian, defenseman, performed in our own O.H.A. loop with Galt Kists. Jerry Plamondon is rated as one of the best wingers in the league. He also played with Canadiens while Jimmy O'Connor, the leading scorer this season in the Montreal loop, is a bona-fide member of the Royals. Jean Paul Denis, at centre, was a former member of Concordias this season. On the face of it, it looks very much as if the Royals 'regulars, the boys who won their championship for them, are Cutts, Planche, Todd and Donnelly, plus the four stars who have been left in Montreal and will not appear in the first two games."

Ken Colling hints that there is a movement on foot to sign up all the girl softball stars in that city for one club which sounds about as effective a way as any to injure the cause of softball. Here is the Colling story: "Although there have been no direct efforts put forth to reorganize men's and ladies' softball for 1944 in Belleville, there seems to be some interest being taken in at least the lassies' game. For the past three years girls' softball has flourished strong in Belleville, especially last year when upwards to $500.00 was raised for war charities, directly and indirectly through the operation of the Belleville Ladies' Softball League. For a small organization this is a worthwhile sum and no doubt another season might see that figure increased to a noticeable degree. However, the latest rumors frequenting the main thoroughfares of the city has a service club toying with the idea of corralling the best players in the city to subsequently organize what could be termed an all-star team. Of course the Belleville Ladies' Softball League started from scratch over three years ago when girls' softball had to begin all over again and this procedure can be successfully carried out again, no matter how many all-star teams function."

Ball Star Missing

"That missing report on Tommy Wilkinson is really bringing the war closer to Falls' baseball followers who will recall the jovial second sacker of those good Bright teams of not so long ago," says Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Review. "The Toronto boy was among the most popular athletes ever to come to Niagara Falls and no import ever gave the area better service. His second base play, opportune hitting and smart base-running were strong points of the fine machines that Phil Bova piloted to the O.B.A. title in successive years. He was a team player and possessed real spirit and he teamed with Steve Woynski to give the squad one of the finest keystone duos in the history of amateur ball. His excellent playing gained Thomas a soft spot in the heart of every follower and his enlistment took quite a landmark from Oakes Stadium attractions. Off the diamond, Wilky was a regular fellow and he endeared himself to many who did not follow the game. We had great admiration for Tommy's baseball ability and general character, and the overseas notice was very unwelcome news."

Oshawa Generals need only one game to win the Eastern Canada junior honors as a result of their 3 to 2 win over Montreal Royals last night but the Motor City athletes are likely to have quite a battle on their hands to grab off that win. The scene now shifts to Montreal where the Royals will have the services of four Navy stars who were unable to make the trip to Toronto. Even without the sailors and playing away from home the Montrealers threw a decided scare into the Oshawa camp and the general opinion about last night's game is that the Royals outplayed the winners and would have reversed the decision were it not for the stonewall goal-keeping of Bennett in the Oshawa nets. Any weakness there and the series might be tied today instead of showing a two-game lead for the Generals. The third game in the series will be played in Montreal Saturday night and if a fourth is necessary is will also be staged in the Quebec metropolis.

Snow Spoils Ball Games At Six Points

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, April 6—(AP)— Harry Gumbert, towering hurler for St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League, is getting set to win his 100th major loop game.

The tall guy from Texas is the first of the big league pitchers to go the nine-inning route, and he did it impressively yesterday in holding the second team to six hits and a single ninth-inning run.

Gumbert has won 98 games, and hopes to get over the century hump early in the season. Only seven pitchers now in the big leagues have broken the 100 mark.

Six of yesterday's nine exhibitions were snowed under.

The lowdown on the high spots:

American League:

St. Louis: General Manager Bill Dewitt said all the Browns now in training have signed contracts, and Manager Luke Sewell grinned broadly over the 10-2 victory over Toledo.

Philadelphia: Second Sacker Irving Hall, who hit two doubles and a single in smothering the Yanks, hopes the batting flurry means he'll hoist his 1943 batting average of .256.

Detroit: Paul Trout, who won 20 and lost 12 last year, finally has been nicked for a run, Rochester getting it yesterday. But it was the first marker yielded by Trout in 11 exhibition innings.

National League:

Pittsburgh: Holdout Vince Di Maggio still on fence as President Benswanger makes no move after confab on wage demands.

Chicago: Infielder Don Johnson out of week-end games with leg injury.

New York: Steve Filipowicz, former Fordham grid ace, signed contract with the Giants, and Ernie Lombardi, catcher, arrived from coast.

Juvenile Final

TORONTO—(CP).— The Ontario Minor Hockey Association yesterday announced that its juvenile final will be played this week-end in Timmins. Competing teams are Timmins Holman Pluggers, 1943 champions and St. Catharines Lions Lions won the Southern Ontario championship and Pluggers the Northern Ontario championship. The best-of-three series opens Saturday with the other games Monday and Tuesday.

LA MOTTA WINS IN RING—Jake La Motta, 162-pound fighter from New York, pummels Sgt. Lou Woods of Camp Grant, Ill., down to the canvas for a knockdown in the ninth round of their scheduled 10-round middleweight bout at the Chicago Stadium. The New Yorker earned a 10-round decision over the fighting soldier who weighed 155½ pounds at ringtime.

A GAS STICKER CAN LEAD TO BATTERY TROUBLE

WITH rationed driving, your battery is not kept charged by the generator. This results in starting failures. A battery permitted to stand idle in a discharged condition may be ruined.

Wartime Canada depends upon automobiles for vital transportation. There are literally thousands of starting failures daily, representing a serious bottle-neck to our war effort. Many of these failures could be prevented if car owners realized just how hard rationed driving is on a battery.

Do your part to help keep Canada rolling. Have an Exide dealer check your battery every two weeks. In this way you can help prevent a starting failure. "Periodic recharges" are essential under rationed driving.

Generals Win 2nd Straight Over Montreal

TORONTO, April 6. — (CP). — Oshawa Generals today stand on the threshold of their sixth Eastern Canada junior hockey title in seven years, thanks to a superb passing attack seldom brought to such perfection by an age-limit team.

The passing attack paid off last night with the winning goal as the Generals scored a 3-2 win over Montreal Royals to make it two straight in their best of five series third game of which will be played in Montreal Saturday night.

Albert Shewchuk from Fort William, Ont., fired the winning goal on a play started by Centre Bob Love midway through the third period and continued by Bill Ezinicki.

But it took all the hockey skill at the command of the polished Generals to overcome the Montreal club which fought doggedly back into the running twice to tie the score in a typically exciting junior play-off game which kept the crowd of 7,288 fans on edge from start to finish.

Generals, who took a 6-3 verdict in the series opener Monday night, came out of the first period last night with a one-goal lead on a goal by speedy Bill Barker, assisted by Dave Bauer and Ken Smith.

The Montreal team was at its best in the second period. Mike Demchuk, member of the Royal Canadian Navy, who played with Royals all season and took advantage of a navy furlough to get here for the game, scored an unassisted goal 23 seconds after the period opened, baffling the Oshawa defence with a bit of clevtr stickhandling and then beating Harvey Bennett handily.

Floyd Curry put the Generals back into the lead again on a play with Bauer and Smith before the Montreal offensive produced another goal which was scored by Ross Planche, assisted by Demchuk and Harry Kazarian who played hockey this season with the Galt team in the Ontario Hockey Association junior "A" series and went to Montreal after his O.H.A. club was eliminated.

Individual star of the Oshawa team was the tall goaltender, Harvey Bennett, who showed coolness and skill all the way.

Lodestars Beat Port Arthur 2-1 In Second Game

PORT ARTHUR, April 6—(CP).—Staging a convincing comeback after suffering a 6-1 defeat here on Monday night, New Westminster Lodestars nosed out Port Arthur Shipbuilders 2-1 last night to even the best-of-seven western Canada Senior hockey finals with a game each. The first encounter ended in a 5-5 overtime tie.

Lodestars, excelling both in backchecking and forechecking, were a polished team as they broke up repeated Shipbuilder attacks.

The first period was gruelling but remained scoreless. Pete Leswick blasted home a shot midway through the second period to put Lodestars a goal up. Norm Wright lost no time in knotting the score, when four minutes later, he slapped the disc past Lodestar goalkeeper Andy Young.

Bus Brayshaw, in a smart play with Frank Dotten, Lodestar's playing coach, and Leswick, shot in the winner at 2.04 in the third period. Young, guarding the New Westminster nets, forestalled all Shipbuilder attempts to even the count during the last session, whenever the Thunder Bay champions managed to get in the clear.

Fourth game will be played here Saturday night.

17,000 Fans Ready For NHL Game

CHICAGO, April 6 (AP)—Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens tonight resume play in the Stanley Cup Hockey finals, with a sell-out crowd of more than 17,000 to sit in on the proceedings at the Stadium.

The Hawks, defeated 5-1 by Montreal in the Canadian city Tuesday night, will be playing their first Stanley Cup finals hockey contest here since 1938 and were hoping to even the series with a victory.

The third game in the series is scheduled at the Stadium Sunday night and then the teams will move on to Montreal where the remainder of the matches will be played, the first club winning four games to gain possession of the old trophy, emblematic of hockey supremacy.

Veteran Mush March, who was unable to play in the opening tussle because of a knee injury, will be available for duty tonight, said Hawk Manager Paul Thompson. Another Chicago veteran, Johnny Gottselig, also will return to active status for tonight's engagement. March and Gottselig are the only members of the Chicago squad who played on the Chicago team which won the cup in the 1931 finals.

In a ceremony preceding the championship game, Centre Clint Smith of Chicago will be presented the Lady Byng trophy, awarded for a combination of sportsmanship and playing excellence.

Lizzies Win

MONTREAL— (CP). — Toronto Lizzies outplayed Montreal Y.M.H.A. for a 32-22 victory last night in the first game of a two-game Inter-Provincial juvenile basketball series. Second game of the total-point series will be played here tonight.

WONDER COLT?—Is Pericles a wonder colt? The high-priced two-year-old, purchased for the amazing cash outlay of $66,000 by William Helis, the millionaire oilman, is being readied for the racing season at New York.

Quebec Aces Drub Frood In Senior Game

QUEBEC, April 6 (CP) — Quebec Aces were one up today in their best of five Eastern Canada Senior Hockey final with Sudbury Frood Miners after a convincing 5-1 win in the series' opener here last night.

A record crowd of 6,518 jammed into the Arena to see a game that was dominated almost throughout by the Aces, who had too much speed and were too accurate on their fast-passing attacks for the miners. The Frood defence and Goalie Maurice Gerth combined to keep the score down as Aces swarmed around the Miners' nets.

Next two games are in Toronto, however, and it may be a different story there. The second game is scheduled for Saturday night at the Maple Leaf Gardens, with the third there Monday night, unless Aces can take the series in three straight, the teams will be back here for the fourth contest, and a fifth if necessary, next week.

Lude Check paced the Quebec attack with two goals last night, while Rosie Rozzini, Butch Stahan and Germain Bergeron bagged the others. The lone Sudbury tally came from the stick of Herb Vaillancourt with less than two minutes to go.

Were Man Short.

Rossini collected the first Quebec goal at the 13 minute mark of the first period, when he and Bergeron caught the Miners on a breakaway from a power-play while Aces were a man short. Lude Check lifted them into a 2-0 lead three minutes later when he took a neat pass from Eddie Bruneteau at the Sudbury blue line and raced in to beat Gerth cleanly.

Check's second goal of the night was the only counter of the middle period and it came on a solo effort in the last half-minute of the period. The miners were a man short at the time, with Rollie McLenahan serving one of three minors he drew during the evening. Butch Stahan also drew three penalties for Aces, and these six were the only ones of the game.

The third period was eight minutes old when Stahan ran the count to 4-0, sliding the rubber under Gerth in a power play with Coach Billy Reay and Rollie Rossignol.

Lionel Bouvrette appeared to be heading for a shut-out until late in the period when Vallancourt beat him on a shot that didn't leave the ice. Aces got that one back 14 seconds later on a play with Reay

One of the team's three remaining regulars of last season, Oscar (Lefty) Judd left his Ingersoll, Ont., home yesterday to rejoin the Boston Red Sox at New York city for another year on the pitching mound. Judd, who won 11 games and lost six in 1943, had received his labor exit permit earlier in the day. The other two twirling leftovers of the team that finished seventh last fall are Yank Terry, who accounted for seven victories, and Mike Ryba.

H. G. Berscht of Hamilton and W. G. Ward of Niagara Falls have been nominated for the presidency of the Ontario Baseball Association whose annual meeting will be held in Toronto April 15, it was announced yesterday at Hamilton by Secretary W. J. Snyder.

Leo Durocher, 38, tempestuous manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, announced at the club's training camp at Bear Mountain, N.Y., yesterday he planned to start the season at second base and would play the sack in the remaining exhibition games.

Outfielder Bill Nicholson, who led the National League in runs-batted-in last year with 128, reported at the Chicago Cubs' camp, French Lick, Ind., yesterday but said he would probably return to his Chestertown, Md., farm for the duration. He said he would be reclassified 1-A by the draft board if he returned to the diamond.

NEW YORK, April 6—(AP)—Spring training note: weather conditions are excellent for the development of the players' snow shovelling muscles . . . since Jan. 1, in New York alone, 29 boxers have been discharged from the armed forces, mostly for trick knees and ear troubles . . . Sammy Baugh, who has been devoting his spare time to putting the Rotan, Tex., high school football team through Spring practice, claims he has been getting a kick from the experience. And no doubt some of the kids have been getting a kick, too, and probably a pass . . . Baseball's "little Red Book" will be green this season — just like the players.

Cattle Prices Up 15-25 On Light Run

TORONTO, April 6—(CP)—Cattle pricesopened 15 to 25 cents cwt. higher on a light run on the livestock market here this week but closed easier with some of the earlier gains lost. Veal calves were down 50 cents and hogs, lambs and sheep steady.

The opening cattle trade was active and higher but direct receipts at plants were heavy both from Ontario and Western Canada. Trade was dull on Wednesday on a light supply without about 150 head unsold at the close of that day's trade. Weighty steers opened the week at $12.75 for tops and closed at $12.50. Butcher steers closed $10.25 to $10.90, heifers $10.25 to $11.60, butcher cows $7.50 to $9, canners downward to $5, bulls $7 to $8.50 with a few early tops at $9, fed yearlings closed $11.75 to $13.25, stockers sold slowly $8 to $10.50 and milkers and springers traded weak at around $130 for tops.

The veal calf market closed at $15 to $16 for tops with a liberal run. Common to medium calves sold at $9 to $14.

Hogs were $17.15 cwt. dressed for the basic grade on the yards. Directs sold at $17.05 to $17.15 off-truck. Sows sold at $13.25 dressed.

Western lambs and a few good locals sold at $14.25 cwt. with common to medium locals $8 to $14. Local sheep were $2 to $6 and good light westerns $6.75.

Weekly summary of receipts:

tion to any individual or single element in the party, or to have any other strings attached.

With a minimum of 132 convention delegates pledged or claimed for him, compared with 26 pledged to Lt.-Cmdr. Harold E. Stassen and three to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Dewey seemed well started toward such a goal. His other major opponent, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, has yet to show publicly in any of the 276 convention delegate selections made.

While Dewey was top man in the party as of today, the question of what Willkie might do held the intense interest of Republican politicians, who speculated on these possible developments:

1. Willkie might plump for a Republican with liberal international views such as Stassen, thus giving that candidate's chances a boost.

2. He might return to the Democratic party, which he quit before 1940—might even support a fourth term for President Roosevelt in preference to aiding a Republican who did not see eye to eye with him on foreign affairs. (There was some conjecture that Willkie might be invited to share the ticket with the President.)

3. He might head a new "Bull Moose" liberal movement away from the old line Republican party.

4. Or, he might go along with the G.O.P. nominee, whoever that may be, continuing his appeals for a "one world" program to preserve future peace, a peace he thus could hope to have some hand in formulating.

A Different Plan

LONDON, April 6—(CP)—Opposition to the government's plan for sex education in schools was expressed yesterday by the Roman Catholic Church in Britain which proposed instead the education of parents so they could privately inform their children.

Legislature

minded the House that the Lieutenant-Governor was waiting, that he would not be available to prorogue Thursday. If the House did not prorogue that night it would not be able to wind up until after Easter.

Argue at 2 A.M.

Mr. Jolliffe replied he appreciated the Premier's remarks but his group did not intend and never would to "become a rubber stamp."

"There are questions we want to ask," he said.

The exchange precipitated a near-major debate around 2 a.m. with the Lieutenant-Governor still waiting outside the Chamber. Provincial Treasurer Frost said Mr. Jolliffe must have known the Lieutenant-Governor could not be available Thursday. The Opposition leader replied he had not been informed.

At one point Premier Drew called to Mr. Jolliffe to "stop reading a lecture" and the C.C.F. leader replied "we have heard plenty of lectures to-night"—apparently a reference to the urgings of Government members for speedier progress of business.

The business was finally cleaned up. The lieutenant-governor entered the chamber and, seated in the speaker's chair, gave royal assent to the bills passed. He made a 15-minute address reviewing the legislation enacted by the House.

He said the function of the new department of planning and development would be one of collaboration with other bodies engaged in post-war planning "with a view to formulating plans to create, assist, develop and maintain productive employment and to develop the human and material resources of the province."

Soldiers Protected

Protection from financial embarrasment for members of the armed forces even to the point of provincial payment of outstanding insurance premiums on policies up to $10,000 had been provided for.

Other government legislation provides for the setting up of county agricultural committees, providing farmers an opportunity to organize their production and marketing; increasing the provincial sugar-beet subsidy from 55 cents to $1.55 a ton and for the extension of the present hog and cheese subsidies.

Among Labor legislation endorsed by the House was a government measure under which the Dominion War Industry Labor Code will be applied to all industry in Ontario. It proved one of the most contentious bills of the session, with opposition members claiming that a separate provincial code should have been set up for non-war workers in the province.

Agreement with the Dominion providing increased allowances for Old Age and Blind Pensioners was given legislative confirmation and another measure sets up the Ontario Forest Resources Commission. During passage of the Bill, Premier Drew said the Commission would eventually take over the administration of forests from the Department of Lands and Forests.

Another measure regarded as most important was one enabling the municipalities to set up municipal health plans. Limited Provincial aid is provided for municipalities which cannot find the financial backing through taxation, either by a personal or a land tax, to set up such health plans. Broad changes were also made in the Public Health Service Act.

Attorney-General Blackwell sponsored legislation outlawing slot machines in Ontario and transferring licensing authority for on-the-premises consumption of alcoholic beverages from the Ontario Liquor Control Board to a separate board which will have sole jurisdiction in this field.

Labor Minister Daley put through a measure widening the scope of the Workmen's Compensation Act to include a number of new industries and wide amendments to to existing legislation for greater safety and health of factory and office building workers.

An Ontario Stockyards Board was set up in other legislation. It will administer the Union Stockyards and may take over any other Stockyards in Ontario that it deems advisable.

Among earlier legislation endorsed by the session was a measure restoring to Olivia Dionne the sole physical guardianship of the Dionne Qintuplets, which had been vested in a guardianship board since shortly after the birth of the famous girls at Callander, Ont. Ontario's courts will continue to administer the financial affairs of the five sisters who brought fame to Canada.

School Teams Break Four Swim Records

In a most successful meet in which four records were broken, Central School swim team dominated the annual interscholastic swimming competition in the Y.M.C.A. pool Wednesday night to win the school championship and the Examiner trophy.

Led by Don Campbell, Jack and Bill Dormer and Jack Forbes, the Central swimmers won seven events, including both relay contests, in rolling up the huge total of 46 points. In addition the new champs' relay squad set a new mark in the medley relay race and Campbell also established a fresh record in the 40 yard back stroke event for boys 14 years and over.

King George School finished second with 20 points and the standing of the other five teams was King Edward 16 points, Queen Mary 14, Queen Alexandra 10, Queen Elizabeth-May's 2, and Prince of Wales 0.

A big gallery of pupils, parents and teachers watched the competition and the cheering squads had a noisy night.

New Records Set

The four new records set up were the 11 years and under 40 yards free style event in which Keith Reid of Queen Mary swam the first heat in 27 4-5 seconds to register a new mark, the 11 and under, 20 yards back stroke in which Bill Davis, King George set a new record of 17 seconds in the first heat, the 14 years and over, 40-yard back stroke won by Don Campbell of Central in the record time of 29 2-5 seconds and the interschool medley relay in which Central established a new mark of 1.32 for the 120 yard.

Stan McBride entertained the crowd with a clever exhibition of diving as an added attraction. At the end of the program F. D. Craig, sports editor of The Examiner, presented the Examiner trophy to George Ball of the Central School teaching staff and also presented crests to the individual prize-winners.

Following are the results:

Shooting Case Is Remanded A Week

Charles Ward, 39, who is charged with shooting a shotgun at W. J. Bolton, his next-door neighbor, with intent to murder him was again remanded without plea when he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., explained that a postponement was agreeable to both sides and Capt. Ralph Standish of the firm of Carley and Standish, defending Ward concurred.

Ward was accordingly remanded without bail until next Thursday. He has been in custody since the night of the alleged shooting.

ISTANBUL, April 6—(CP-Reuters) — Violent earthquake shocks were felt throughout Istanbul early today. The observatory here said the epicentre was about 100 miles away in the Balikisri area of Anatolia. Damage is presumed to be considerable.

MOBILE 240 M.M. HOWITZER ROARS—This 240 m.m. howitzer of the U.S. army is shown speaking its piece somewhere in Italy. Hence its value is doubled.

Wife Desertion Case Enlarged

Frederick Henry, of Lakefield, was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning with failing to provide for his wife and three young children.

"As often happens, the wife in this case now wants the charge withdrawn," explained Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., "but I am not inclined to consent. This seems to be a particularly flagrant case. This man deserted his wife and family for some time and the village of Lakefield had to take care of them."

At the suggestion of the Crown Attorney and with the consent of the accused, the case was adjourned for two weeks to see how Henry gets along in the meantime.

Car Is Ditched Driver Fined

Losing control of his automobile while lighting his cigarette was the cause of an accident on Highway 28 recently that resulted in a traffic charge against Earl White, of Bethany, Inspector James F. Reid told the court this morning when a charge of careless driving against White was called

The accused had entered a written plea of guilty to the charge. Inspector Reid said that White's car had plunged off the highway and received some damage, but no one was hurt and no other vehicle was involved in the accident.

White was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Ivan Sutton, Hunter street, pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to bring his car to a full stop at the corner of Reid and McDonnel streets and was fined $4 and $2.50 costs.

"I might as well plead guilty," said Sutton. "Three or four people say that I didn't stop. It was snowing heavily at time."

"That was all the more reason why you should have stopped," said Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

Inspector Reid stated that there had been an accident and the other car involved had been damaged to the extent of $50.

Thomas J. Carey was fined $2 and $1 costs on a written plea of guilty to a charge of operating an automobile at night without adequate lights.

Blind Organist Tells Own Story

An interesting article, "The Autobiography of a Blind Organist," by Herbert C. Treneer, appears in the recent issue of the National News for the Blind. For blind pople especially who have chosen music as a career, the personal story of one man who fought his way unaided to the secure place he now occupies in his profession, should be interesting. Mr. Treneer wrote the account of his experience at the request of the editor of the National News for the Blind, not because he regards his career as particularly outstanding, but because he felt that his success in overcoming the handicap which blindness imposed on him, might be of value to younger men and women who have chosen music as their profession.

He was born at Kingston, April 13, 1890, and at the age of six attended the Ontario School for the Blind from whence he graduated in June, 1908, and during the same year secured musical credentials of an associate of the Toronto College of Music in piano and pipe organ by passing the required examination with first class honors.

In September, 1908, in collaboration with two other graduates of the O.S.B., Mr. Treneer participated in a number of concerts previously arranged through their joint efforts, but as financial results were not what had been expected, he managed to get the appointment of organist and choir master of Brock Street Methodist Church of Kingston, at $5 a week. He then secured pupils at 50 cents a lesson, earning a weekly wage of $12. He then purchased a new piano and rebuilt typewriter. Later he became organist of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough. Mr. Treneer has also been organist of both Knox and St. Andrew's Colleges. While at Knox College, he secured the position of organist and choirmaster of King Street Methodist Church, Oshawa, which he resigned in 1931 to become travelling field secretary for the C.N.I.B for six years. He came organist and choirmaster of First United Church in Timmins in 1938, where he still is and where he has served on the executive of the Porcupine Music Teachers' Association, of which he was the first president. He is now acting in the capacity of chairman of the music advisory committee to the C.N.I.B. Mr. Treneer attributes his success to systematic and sustained effort.

A story of wit, humour and good entertainment. The cast includes a number of members of former years such as Richard Clayton, Audrey Garside, Iris Whalon, Ruth Holmes and Don Holmes. The new additions to the cast are namely: Bertha Boyd, Isobel Taylor, Dorothy Leeson, Melville Elliot, Don Sly, Edna Elliott and Elva Elliott. Iowa Favors F.D.R.

WASHINGTON, April 6—(AP)—Senator Guy Gillette (Dem., Iowa) predicted today Iowa's 20 delegates to the Democratic national convention would be pledged to support a fourth term nomination for President Roosevelt and added "I expect to be one of them."

He also forecast that Iowa's delegates would be instructed to renominate Vice President Henry A. Wallace, a fellow Iowan.

Personal Gift Made To Fund For 38th Time

Many people place the highest value on the thing that costs them most, and in a similar manner those who are willing to sacrifice the most for some good purpose other than self, display an interest that could certainly be termed as being very deep seated.

As in all other things, kindness of heart and sympathy for others in distress may be of a temporary character, or may be a quality so inherent that it will by its deeds show forth how deep that feeling is, by a continuous work or sacrifice to give a helping hand as long as the need exists.

When the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund first commenced operations, a lady who at that time choose to be known under the name of "in as much" became deeply interested in the work the fund was trying to do, she was among the first to give encouragement that spoke of a kindness of heart which has ever since been demonstrated in a continuous practical manner, displaying a sincerity of purpose which is truly genuine.

In this manner this one donor has given no less than thirty-eight different occasions the nice sum of $10, another of such being listed today, to make a total of personal giving that has been one of the outstanding features in the fund's history, and a beacon light to guide others by inspiration sacrifice in extending a helping hand to others in distress.

Draw On Tie Nets $4.05

Some members of the morning Coffee Club are always cooking up something that might be of a helping nature in the war effort, from which the fund has benefitted on quite a number of occasion. The latest of these is brought to light with a donation of $4.05 listed today as a result of a draw held for a tie donated by Ed Riley. It is interesting to note that having also chipped in with the purchase of some tickets on the draw, he happened to be the lucky winner, and immediately turned the prize back for another ticket to be drawn, which resulted in a gentleman of portly demeanor securing the prize.

This marks the fourth day in succession that one or more persons have been credited with personal gifts for the fund, a further one acknowledged as "A.W." receipt No. 3560 also being included in the list for today.

Previously acknowledged	$75,240.01
In As Much (38th donation)	10.00
Proceeds of draw on tie donated by Ed Riley, per the Coffee Club	4.05

Point Finger At Oil Firms

Three oil companies were mentioned not adversely with some implication of censure at the meeting of the council this week.

City Clerk Outram was instructed to write British American Oil Company "requesting a reply to the council's recent resolution, and asking for information as to the contemplated action of the company in respect to the petition that its tanks be removed from their present site."

That enquiry is a sequel to other conversations which Mayor Hamilton and several other members of the council have had with the British American representatives about the "gas tanks" in Ashburnham. The company is being urged to find a new location, and withdraw from the centre of the community across the river, but no definite assurance has yet been received that the hazard of fire will be removed.

Raise Payment

Council adopted the Board of Works' resolution to increase from $5 to $50 Shell Oil's payment for entrance to their tanks at the C.P.R. through the Board of Works' yard.

The opinion of the council was expressed in effect as follows: "It isn't so much the $50 we want as to impress on the Shell and Cities Service and their employees that if they are not going to keep our yard gates closed (on Townsend street) we don't want anything to do with them at all. If they think the incinerator yard is just a place for junk, they'd better think again," and so on.

Following that remonstrance to the Shell people, Alderman Dutton reported that the Shell manager had been talking to him, and had pointed out that Shell employees are through work at 5 p.m. and Cities Service at 6 o'clock; that when trucks come from Toronto they may go through the yard up to 10 p.m. "But, he gave me his assurance that Shell men would keep the gates closed."

Farmers Report Fall Wheat Looks Promising

Farmers in the Niagara district are reporting that the first indications from the fall wheat fields point to a healthy condition and apparently safe emergence from winter. Spring is still marking time in central and eastern Ontario but around Hamilton and St. Catharines winter has gathered up its skirts and gone.

Lincoln reports the wheat fields as variable in appearance. "Dairy cattle and especially pure bred calves are hard to procure at any price. Demand for baby chicks is heavy. Spraying operations are under way on the fruit farms. "It will be only a short time before cultivation can start on the lighter types of soil. Already thousands of cabbage and early head lettuce are ready for transplanting as soon as the weather warms up. Carloads of seed grains have arrived in the county in recent days, including a car of No. 2 Ajax seed oats."

The present dull market for finished cattle is causing concern among the beef cattle men in Oxford where demand for seed grain is strong, especially alfalfa and grasses for permanent pasture, and where the hay mows are emptying fast.

On Hand Soon

Lambton says "fall wheat that had any fair resemblance of a top last fall looks quite promising. "There has been no heaving of the wheat to date. With two or three good days of sunshine, farmers will be on the land."

In the local district these night frosts have been causing some rural worry, but thawing in the day time has been slow and only on the surface.

Maple syrup operations are generally curtailed across the province and production on the abbreviated scale is said to be light.

Peterborough reports an active demand for grass and clover seeds, and in Victoria farmers are selling some of their fat cattle.

Registered seed oats and barley sold at $1.40 to $1.75 a bushel at the Ottawa Valley Seed Fair. No. 1 seed sold at 25 to 30 cents less a bushel.

Choir Will Present Little Snow White

"Little Snow White" is the title of the musical play to be presented by the Junior Choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on April 13 and 14 under the direction of Martin Chenhall, A.R.C.O. The concert will be presented in the auditorium of the Sunday School, and the choir has been at work for several months now on its production.

Buses Dubious Of Classic Hill Support

Management's doubt of continued support of a bus service to the Wolseley street section of the north end of the city was mentioned as passing comment when the council this week approved the Board of Works' proposal that Alderman Dutton and City Engineer Parsons interview L. A. Mitchell of the Bus Lines regarding a recent petition from six hundred residents of that northern fringe.

Alderman Dutton immediately called on Mr. Mitchell, as directed by the council, but nothing definite is yet proposed.

The first request originated from the Smith township residents beyond Wolseley street, and it was understood that Reeve McIlmoyle and members of the Board of Works were agreeable to co-operation in repairing several hundred feet of the street along Wolseley and down Barnardo avenue.

The petition from that area suggested a service up Benson avenue and along Wolseley and Barnardo. One of the members of the council said he was informed that the bus company not only feared the present traffic prospects but also the future when there would be a more general use of the automobiles in the Classic Hill district. It was felt that present business would be satisfactory, but when the wartime emergency lifted the proposed bus accommodation would encounter heavy competition from privately owned cars, and that probably would not warrant continuance of the service.

Mr. Mitchell told the Examiner to-day that the project is receiving consideration, and no decision has been arrived at.

However, it also must be pointed out that the Classic Hill area gave the bus by-law on January 1 one of the largest majorities at any poll in the city.

Easter Breakfast Regarded As Special Meal Of Year

BY MARY MOORE

Any Sunday morning is extra special in the matter of breakfast, but Easter Sunday and Good Friday breakfasts are second and third in importance in the year,—Christmas coming first of course.

Personally I'm agitating to have a sunrise service of our own and after it an unlimited number of white eggs boiled in the shell over a camp fire; split Hot Cross Buns toasted on long forks; coffee unstinted; oranges and apples for the people that insist on being healthy. Those who don't mind lugging the trappins can have smoked back bacon or fried ham.

But for the folksy people who are having Easter guests or their own boys and girls home on leave here comes a breakfast to be remembered for life.

EASTER OR GOOD FRIDAY BREAKFAST TO BE REMEMBERED.

Chilled Grapefruit and Orange Sections (without membrane) in stemmed glasses
Boiled or Fried Ham
French Toast and Maple Syrup (see note)
Sliced or Quartered Tomatoes
Toasted Hot Cross Buns and Marmalade OR
Marmalade Toast (see below)
Milk — Coffee

French Toast

The French toast I'm thinking about is not any ordinary product—in fact it is very special and you will have to order a special half-pint of cream for it alone.

Four eggs, ¼ pint 18% cream, ½ pint whole milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, slices of not-too-fresh bread cut 1 inch thick and remove crusts. Soak in egg mixture about 2 minutes—until they are moistened through but not soft. Fry in deep hot fat until golden,—sprinkle with confectioners' sugar and pass maple syrup. (This recipe comes from the female chef in a Men's Club in New York and is one of the specialities of the house.)

Marmalade Toast

Remove the crusts from thin slices of white bread, and spread with orange marmalade and butter which have been mixed together. Put two slices together. Toast slowly on both sides. Cut into each two-slice sandwich into 3 triangles before serving.

Hot Cross Buns

This is a recipe that is designed to start novices in yeast mixtures on the road to making bread. It is quite easy to do.

One cup scalded milk, 1 yeast cake, 6½ tablespoons sugar, 3½ cups flour, 2 well-beaten eggs, ¼ cup shortening, ½ cup raisins, 1 teaspoon salt, (¼ cup confectioner's icing for outlining "crosses"). Cool milk to lukewarm. Add yeast and 1½ tablespoons sugar. Dissolve. Add 1½ cups flour. Beat thoroughly. Cover and set aside in a warm place to rise until light. Cream shortening and balance of sugar. Add 1 egg and raisins. Add to first mixture. Add remaining flour, sifted with salt. Kneed until dough is satiny. Cover and set in warm place to rise again until double in bulk. Mould into round buns about 2 or 2½ inches in diameter. Put on greased baking sheet. Cover and set in warm place to rise until very light to touch. Brush tops with remaining egg. Form a design of a cross on tops with back of knife. Bake at 350 degrees Fahr. for 15 to 20 minutes. Put icing on crease where cross is.

If desired 1 teaspoon cinnamon may be added to flour to make the buns spicy.

IF YOUR CHILD IS THIN and NERVOUS

Try New, Improved Ovaltine

Children who are thin, nervous, and under par, science has discovered, are often found to be eating foods which do not give them enough of the essential food elements everyone needs for health.

As a "protecting" food-drink, New, Improved Ovaltine adds to a child's meals the essential food elements most likely to be deficient in the diet.

Three servings of New, Improved Ovaltine furnish a child with a significant portion of his daily requirement of Vitamins A, B_1, and D, and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron—also quick food-energy elements and high quality proteins—all for building sturdy bodies.

So—if your child is thin, nervous, under par, or eats poorly, why not start giving New, Improved Ovaltine regularly? Get Ovaltine at your drug or food store.

SUNDAY

Veal Roulade (or Mock Squab)
(this is a dish for epicures—see below)
Flaky Boiled Rice
Coleslaw Supreme
Lemon Pudding — Coffee

Note: Some of you will recall my recipe for Veal Milan—veal pounded paper thin, dipped in egg and crumb and fried fast in liberal amount of butter. This dish I am giving you today is another veal dish, but so good it can't be considered an everyday affair—reserve it for company even though it is not expensive. Order thin slices veal from the leg. Remove skin and bones and pound until it is not more than ¼-inch thick. Cut into pieces 4 inches square. Beat the yolks of 2 eggs and to them add three slices bacon which have been fried and chopped, ¼ cup grated cheese, ¼ cup cracker crumbs and the white of 1 egg. Moisten with about 2 to 3 tablespoons milk, and season with salt, pepper, a shake of cayenne, a little ginger, lemon juice and onion and chopped parsley—all these latter seasonings must be added sparingly but their diversity gives an elusive flavor that is the charm of this dish. Spread each slice prepared veal with about 1 tablespoon of this mixture and roll up and fasten with a toothpick. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika, dredge with flour and brown in hot butter or cooking oil. Remove to stew pan and add either 3 sliced tomatoes or 1⅓ cups canned tomato, 1 bay leaf, 1 clove, ½ onion and ¼ cup butter or oil veal was browned in. Cook slowly for 30 minutes, then add ½ cup cream and cover and continue cooking about ½ hour longer but very slowly or cream will evaporate and burn. Serve on thin slices toast, straining pan gravy over. To make coleslaw supreme add green pepper, pasley and radishes to shredded cabbage.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: The following is a cake recipe which I used when a girl long ago in North Dakota. I just don't seem to be able to make a success of it now. The fault being that it doesn't hold its form when baked but falls apart and must be spooned. In those days we used bread flour and weren't awfly careful to use sifted measure, I recall.

I've tried using more pastry flour and even used all purpose flour. I wonder if an egg would do the trick. The recipe is in the original note book so I'm not missing anything. It was one used by a H. S. Domestic Science cooking class. It is an unusual cake. Much superior to applesauce cake. The coarsely chopped apples do not lose their identity. I baked this in square 9 ins. by 9 ins. (about) pan or doubled it for a layer cake. Can you suggest proper alterations?

Present recipe for Green Apple Cake which does not hold its shape; 1 cup white sugar and ½ cup butter creamed together, ½ cup coffee, 1½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1½ cups coarsely chopped raw apple, ¾ cup raisins, ½ cup nuts, spices to taste I tried ½ teaspoon each nutmeg and allspice, ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves, and I added ½ teaspoon salt. Bake in moderate oven about ¾ hour. Mrs. F. Dewar.

ANSWER: I made up the cake two ways—I used bread flour in one mix in the other I used all-purpose flour with one egg. Both were good and could be cut just as ordinary cake is cut, but I believe the cake with the egg had a nicer texture. It is a good cake.

If such things a humidity entered into the picture in your district you may have to use both bread and flour and an egg.

◇ ◇ ◇

QUESTION: I would like your method of making clam chowder. We have been able to buy some minced clams in tins and I would use them quite often if I knew how—we even buy canned clam chowder but I know it can be made a lot nicer than the tinned stuff for I have tasted it in New England. I think your column is a godsend—the best part is that you remember that most of us are watching the pennies all the time. Thanks for your help. Mina Carter.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: my own method for clam chowder comes from a New England housewife and is the traditional soup.

EMEM'S CLAM CHODER

Cut into ¼-inch pieces 4 to 5 slices side back bacon and fry it gently with 1 medium sized onion until both are cooked through, then add 4 medium sized potatoes cut into ½-inch dice, 1 16-oz. can minced clams and juice, 2 cups boiling water and 2 cups milk, and cover and simmer gently for 15 minutes Add 1½ to 2 teaspoons salt and some white pepper to taste. Serve in large bowls with toasted rye bread, celery and a steamed pudding dessert like carrot pudding, or steamed raspberry pudding.

MOTHER'S DESIRE FRUSTRATED

Must Get Point of View of Teen-Age Daughter Who Cannot Accept Old Ideas in New Land

There is something terribly pathetic in the desire of mothers to pal up with their teen-age daughters because their efforts so often end in frustration. When Susie was a little girl in the pinafore and pigtail stage, she told Mother everything and Mother was as familiar with the contents of her heart and mind as she was with the things in her bureau drawers.

When Susie is grown and married, she and Mother will again be intimate friends who talk over everything together and share their most secret thoughts. But in between comes that awful, anxious, heartbreaking period for Mother in which Susie erects a barrier between them and hides behind it, and when Mother no more knows what she is thinking and doing and planning and hoping and fearing than if she were the veriest stranger.

Girl Frightened in New Land

Often Susie, on her side of the wall, is just as anxious to be on confidential terms with Mother as Mother is with her. For all the bluff she puts up, she is frightened in this new strange land in which she finds herself and in which she does not know her way about. She would like to talk things over with Mother if she could, but she is tongue-tied when she tries to ask Mother any of the questions that are so vital to her.

There are many reasons for this. One is that mothers and teenage daughters seldom speak the same language. Mother speaks by the book. Susie talks and thinks in jive lingo. So they don't understand each other and can't get close together. Susie thinks all of Mothers ideas are prehistoric, and Mother wonders how she ever could have borne a child with so little sense. And there they both are.

Neither one is to blame for this state of affairs, but if Mother wants to establish an entente cordiale between them she has to come out of the state of shock in which most mothers of teen-age girls exist. Naturally Susie isn't going to tell Mother anything if Mother is going to be so horrified that she will tattle-tale to Papa, and they will cut off her allowance or keep her from going to the movies for a week to punish her. For Susie hasn't really done anything wrong. She has done something that Mother didn't do when she was her age. But she has learned her lesson. It is to keep her mouth shut. And Mother has missed her bus. Never again will she have Susie or a gossipy fellow traveler.

Mother Must Get Daughter's Viewpoint

Then the mother who desires to be chummy with her hobbledehoy daughter, who is neither woman nor child, must get her point of view on things and adapt herself to them. She can't get Susie to accept her ideas any more than she can squeeze her into the 18-inch corset she used to wear. The code of conduct for the modern girl is roomier and sloppier, like her clothes, than it was in Mother's day.

Then Mother must handle her half-grown daughter with as much diplomacy as she would in negotiating a world peace. She must never laugh at her, because youth has no sense of humor. She must cut DON'T out of her vocabulary, and make suggestions instead of giving orders, and she must affect to believe that Susie is as sophisticated as she thinks she is.

Above all, she must respect Susie's individuality and her right to a lot of liberty and privacy. The mother who listens in on her teen-age girl's telephone conversations and opens her letters not only shuts herself out of Susie's confidence, but out of her heart. For when Susie confides in Mother, it is as friend to friend, never to a cross examiner.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing bingo, with prizes going to Mrs. W. N. Thompson, Mrs. P. Dyer, Mrs. Cyril Davis and Miss Margaret Smart. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge. Mrs. George Martin moved the vote of thanks to the hostess and the committee.

Nine bundles of magazines and books were sorted and packed, and sent to boys in Italy. The committee also looked after sorting and rearranging the books at the Uptown Recreation Centre.

Miss Fowler said that the suggestion had been made that a musicale be arranged for Sunday afternoons at the Training Centre. Miss Fowler and Miss Isabell Weddell arranged the first, which was presented April 2. Another is being planned, and will be given on Easter Sunday.

Five new members were welcomed. It was decided to close the office during Easter week, and to re-open no April 17.

Men Overseas Sent 10,000 Cigarettes

Ten thousand cigarettes sent to men on active service overseas during the month, was reported at the regular meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., held Wednesday evening. Other reports given showed that all committees were making excellent progress.

Miss Doris Burgess, Welfare convener, said that milk was still being supplied to children. Reporting for the war convener, Mrs. I. H. Keefer said that there was an urgent appeal for knitted goods, especially long-sleeved, turtle-necked sweaters for the Navy. Shirts, seamen's mitts of Grenfell cloth, and crocheted quards, have been completed this year by the women of the sewing group, who meet each Wednesday afternoon at the home of the war convener, Mrs. H. Upper, was appointed to the Reception and Welfare committee of the Peterborough Citizens' Rehabilitation Council, and she and Mrs. K. G. Currie and Mrs. L. Ingram were named as delegates to the Provincial convention of the I.O.D.E.

The Chapter expressed its appreciation for a donation of knitted baby garments from a group of girls, consisting of Misses Jean Hamley, Mary Currie, Helen Parkinson, Marjorie Benson, Joy Walker, Iris Fitzgerald, Maralin Munro, Grace Lundy Helen Mathias, Elaine Cook and Doris Hutchinson.

Two new members, Mrs. D. V. Ketcheson and Mrs. N. Gell, were welcomed.

Almost one hundred friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bullock, who have moved to Omemee, gathered at their home in Otonabee recently for a farewell party and presentation. Mr. Fergus Clancy read the address, and Roy Webster and Howard Howson presented the couple with a chenille bedspread and an end table.

The evening was spent in dancing and playing cards, and refreshments were served.

Salem Sunday School also made a presentation to the Bullock family. Mr. and Mrs. Bullock received a copy of Moffat's translation of the Bible; Muriel, a hymnary with music; and Ronald and Keith, New Testaments.

Senator Fallis Addresses W.A.

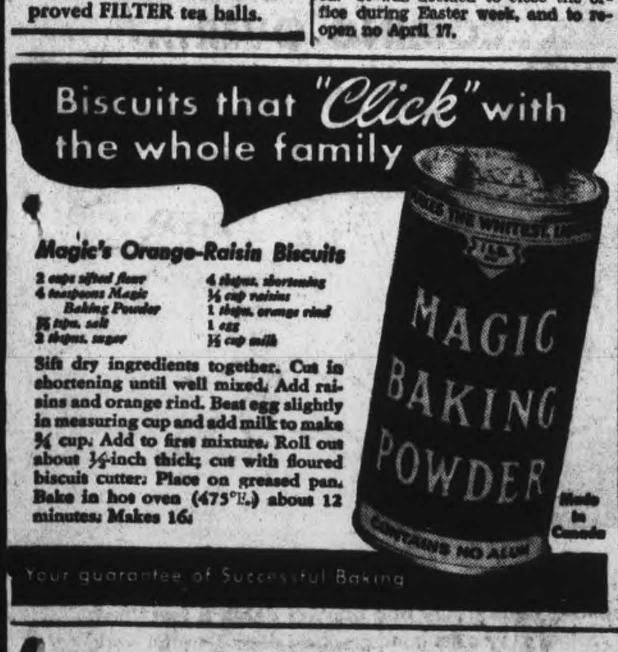
National co-operation to remedy existing conditions, as the main prerequisite to a better world, was stressed by Senator Iva C. Fallis, addressing the Women's Association of St. Andrew's United Church. Speaking on "A Better Canada for Tomorrow," Senator Fallis outlined the services which she believed Canadians should have.

Some of the most important were employment for all; equal opportunity for sexes; health insurance; elimination of slums; and prevention of disease. She said that government aid should be received for housing plans, and medical and educational facilities. Pensions, she explained, would follow the improvements in social conditions.

The meeting, held in the newly-decorated ladies' parlors, was well attended. Mrs. I. T. Lillico presided, and Mrs. James Wharry introduced the speaker. Mrs. H. Keefer was in charge of the social part of the meeting.

Guest soloist was Mrs. H. A. Mitchell, who sang two solos, accompanied by Mrs. L. M. Brooks. Mrs. C. W. Laing moved the vote of thanks to the speaker and soloist, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Keefer and her committee.

Peterborough delegates to the Provincial C.C.F. convention, being held in Toronto, include Dr. Lorna Cotton, Mrs. W. J. Bull, Percy Edwards, J. H. Miles, Gordon Powell, W. C. Grant, W. S. Johnson, William Wiggins, Max Hayman, R. D. Starr, John Hand, and Edward Morgan.



SOPHISTICATE COTTON—The fabric is red, white and blue gingham; the buttons bejeweled; the lace edging at collar and cuffs red and navy; the belt red. One of our biggest department stores has seized on this cotton frock as a harbinger of next Summer because of its high style resort success during the closing season. It is made of cotton kitchen gingham of excellent quality in red, white and blue small checks, and designed with all the smooth effect of a silk crepe utility dress for the city dweller's dogdays. A minimum of underwear is necessary beneath as it's fairly opaque; it is cut loosely enough not to cling to heat driven body, and it is a soap and water customer.

Otonabee I.O.D.E. Plans Bridge

The Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E., will sponsor a bridge, to be held April 26 in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A., with Mrs. D. W. Clarke and Mrs. J. H. Jamison as co-conveners. This was announced at the regular meeting of the Chapter, held Wednesday afternoon in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. B. Jackson presided, in the absence of the regent, Mrs. A. Leach.

The Chapter formally adopted the Tucker school, and Mrs. F. D. Kerr told of an interview with the teacher and her expressions of appreciation for the work the Chapter was doing. She said that the children themselves were greatly interested in the source of the generous gifts.

Mrs. Jackson thanked Mrs. G. A. Borland, on behalf of the other members of the Chapter, for opening her home for two evenings of bridge, from which $22.50 was realized.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Black for that spring suit with whimsical touches of checked gingham. The broad shoulders and the vanishing waistline. Wear with this a curving wing-hat in black milan straw with a smart touch of the gingham with which the suit is trimmed.

Another smart suit worn is an early violet wool tweed. Under the jacket is worn a checked waistcoat (sleeveless) and under the waistline a lighter shade of violet silk blouse.

Urbane coats of satin and faille. Shining city coats go out at high noon and on into dark like an afterglow in night-time fabrics and anytime lines. High gloss for short evening dresses, spring prints. One is cut like an officer's coat, one like a tunic, one like a peplum suit. All are topped by forward-tilted hats no bigger than petit fours. The peplum coat, made of black celanese rayon faille carries that dressmaker suit look and is buttoned with rhinestone buttons. The tunic coat made of sleek black rayon satin has a fine flare for the narrow limned skirt.

Start the season with a dark wool coat-dress narrow as the slant of April rain. Carry this out in navy blue wool with a shallow bib and hip bow of finest white linen. A white straw cloche worn well on the side of the head and carry an enormous bag.

Another smart dress is the double-brested, coin-buttoned dress of navy blue wool. This dress has a peplum on it which can be worn either on the outside of the skirt or underneath. Wear with this a white pique pill-box hat, trimmed with perky navy ribbon bows.

Sleeves are doing the dissappearing act. If you have round pretty arms show them at tea cocktails, dinner in May and all the live-long day in summer. Wear a no sleeve blue jumper with a narrow black skirt. No sleeves on a black rayon shantung overblouse, narrow skirt, high neck and rhinestone studded belt.

A word about accessories. A pretty accessory, rightly placed, works like praise. Try black and white check cotton gloves stitched in red with your black costumes. Wind a red white and green silk shantung scarf above a green or grey shantung dress. Pin a gold heart, diamond and ruby sprinkled, on the sleeve of a dark suit. Belt a flannel suit with red goatskin, wear a bright colored flower on the shoulder of your suit or dress and a bright flower in your hair. A dashing duo, the chignon-brim bonnet and drawstring bag, both made of taffeta. The hat with a curve of stitched brim has airy, open-mesh crown and is slotted at the nape of the neck, a wonderful style for you who wear your hair snipped up in a snood; carry with this the swishy little stringpulling bag. Spring parade braid for that smart Easter suit, made of imported wool in cardigan style, the front of the coat braided.

St. James' Class Helps Mortgage

Mrs. A. Bryan, Landsdowne street was hostess to the King's Own Bible Class of St. James United Sunday School for their regular meeting.

Mrs. Moore was in charge of the devotional service. A reading "The Lord Has a Job For Me" by Ronnie Bryan was enjoyed, after which Easter readings were also given by Mesdames Sloane, Moore and E. Johnston. The business led by the President, Mrs. E. Kitney, included the unanimous decision to vote $50 to the St. James mortgage fund.

With Mrs. Butcher leading the musical program, a trio sung "Softly Now the Light of Day." They included Mrs. Doig, Mrs. Butcher and Mrs. Goldie.

During the serving, a contest provided a happy social time for all. Mrs. Burnside and Mrs. Geo. Rowe voiced the thanks of the class to their hostess and to all assisting in the evening's enjoyment.

For Friday, April 7

THE COMBINED mutual and lunar aspects of the major planets being under highly significant configurations there is every promise of surprisingly progressive and productive opportunities for reaching advanced goals of accomplishment, with fulfilled ambitions and the realization of all manner of personal gratifications, hopes and desires. Such culmination should be worked for with all the ingenuity, exceptional skill and daring force that might mark unique heights of success or adventure. Financial, professional and personal prestige and enhancement may be assured by discreet and sagacious grasp of opportunities. Shun intrigues and emotional entanglements.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of probably spectacular achievement, with ambitions and aspirations of exceptional merit or surprising ingenuity or invention, with bold adventure or daring initiative, wrested from peculiar or undercover sinister workings, by sudden strokes of action or strange intuitive leads. Vigilance against treacheries, subtleties and intrigues may secure sensational turns in the direction of good fortune, popularity and joyous personal satisfactions. Bold strokes, discreetly aimed, assure high goals.

A child born on this day may be blessed with unique talents, originality and ingenuity, assuring the gracious fulfilment of its ambitions, despite subtlety and intrigue. It may attain conspicuous position and honors.

Sound and enduring returns may be expected to top all worthy and intelligent endeavors.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be gratified by the generous and gratifying recognition and rewards for sound, meritorious and intelligent use of openings and propositions gained in the face of antagonism or frustrations coming from influential sources. Good work, application, patience and practical tactics well thought out, are sure of enduring and far reaching returns. Refrain from any erratic or emotional behaviorism.

A child born on this day may possess much sound ability, diligence and stability of character, to win a secure position and fortune against withheld assistance.

Home and School Association News

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

The duty of parents, to mould and guide their children's characters so that they will grow up into Christian men and women, was stressed by Major R. M. Bamsey, addressing the regular meeting of Confederation Home and School Association. Major Bamsey explained that adults should set an example for the younger generations, and use patience and understanding in dealing with their problems.

"We have the most precious material in the world to work with," he continued. "We should listen to their little problems, and not evade them, so that as a child grows up he will confide in us." He explained that truthfulness in the parent was also a prerequisite to better understanding and confidence.

Mrs. T. J. Jackson, principal of the school, introduced Major Bamsey, and Mrs W. White, president, moved the vote of thanks.

Miss D. Day, a teacher of the school, spoke briefly on changed methods of study, and told of the difference between the old and new courses. Mrs. E. Hunter read a paper, "Facts on Canadas War Effort," showing how much Canada has accomplished during the war years. Miss C. Hanbidge gave an amusing reading, "The White Sox Ball Game." Mrs. N. Moffat was at the piano for the community singing. Refreshments were served at the close.

English Demand Pension Boost $6.60 Each Week For All At 60

BY DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 6 — (CP) — It took eight weeks to burden the petition with more than 4,000,000 signatures ..nd a fleet of taxis to carry them down Whitehall to parliament.

Then the Independent Labor Party's John McGovern went before the House of Commons to ask that representative of the National Federation of Old Age Pensioners Associations be permitted to speak from the bar of the House on behalf of the petition for an old age pension of $6.60 a week for all at 60.

(Pensionable ages now: Women, 60, with qualifications; men 65; men and women who are not contributors, 70. A general level of 60 would raise the present 3,500,000 pensioners to 5,500,000. Also sought is $13.50 for married couples. The present maximum is $8.14, plus a rent adjustment and allowance for special necessity.)

From Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee he drew the reply that the "practice of instituting debates on the presentation of petitions has fallen into desuetude and the Prime Minister does not consider that it should be revived. The petition has been presented and will be considered."

Restore Privileges

McGovern's effort came along about the same time more than 30 M.P.'s of all parties made a move to seek restoration of some of the privileges back benchers dropped for the war. In peacetime they could introduce bills devised by themselves and motion for debate on subjects in which they were interested. Both have been in abeyance to allow concentration on the bigger issues.

The request now is for an extra day a week to allow private members to raise matters on motions for adjournment or that they should be guaranteed at least half an hour's debate at each sitting.

What they are saying:

Communist M. P. William Gallacher: "Some R.A.F. men recently complained they were getting old films. Next week they got 'Ben Hur'." It was produced in 1926.

I. L. O. 's James Maxton to Conservative Beverley Baxter after Baxter voted against the government: "This will cost you that title you had picked for yourself." Baxter: "What title was that?" Maxton: "Lord Munich of the Burma Road."

Next To Prime Minister Churchill Monolulu Draws Largest Crowd

BY DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 6 — (CP) — Not counting Winston Churchill, there isn't an orator in London town today who is the beat in repute and in recognition of the gaunt and grandiloquent Prince Monolulu.

The Prime Minister is a man given to phrases which can sound like history thundering by. The Prince is a man given to phrases which make history as incidental, an ingredient among ingredients.

The Prince is the soul of extravagance, in dress, in word, and in gesture. No other orator among Hyde Park's many ascends a sopbox or stepladder with the massive dignity of this negroid character the park has come to accept as an Ethopian of some type of royal blood and has come to be known as her No. 1 attraction, a master of the mob, a peer in profanity, the father of eccentricity.

The Prince is in no doubt as to his position in Hyde Park life. As he told the judge on his most recent appearance in court:

Clipped $10.22

"I get the biggest audience in the park. I close the Salvation Army when I go there. I close everybody. I get Commanding Generals around me. Why shouldn't I tell the girls to say 'sugar daddy' to the Americans and Canadians. Why shouldn't I talk basic English. Isn't it winning the war?"

The judge clipped the prince £2 5s (about $10.22) that time for obscene language and Monolulu wheeled out of court after teething a smile that went with a grateful "God bless you, my Lord."

The Prince speaks with high accuracy when he assesses his drawing powers.

When he comes shuffling through the park, brilliant feathers in his hair, eight or nine flags over his shoulder, a robe of crimson and silver about his spare frame, the people gather in scores.

That which he speaks is a mixture of exaggeration, imagination, profanity and reality which gushes forth for hours in a flow that is never sluggish and never dull. One minute the Prince has the Russian flag aloft and it guiding the Red Armies over the snows—the next he is giving some one a hot tip on a horse race.

The Prince signals the end of a phase in the rhetoric with the words "Time Marches On" while the crowd joins in. Nothing makes much sense when the Prince is around but everybody has fun.

King Victor Ready To Retire

By RICHARD J. MASSOCK

NAPLES, April 6 (AP) — Crown Prince Humbert said last night he is prepared to act as deputy for his father, Victor Emmanuel, as King, thereby clearing the way for a coalition war Government of all the major political parties.

In a 30-minute audience Humbert, Prince of Piedmont, confirmed reports of the King's proposal a fortnight ago to hand over his powers to his son as his lieutenant.

"The King is old and ready to retire," the Prince said. "He has had a full life."

His father had intended to retire when the Allied armies reached Rome and appoint him as his lieutenant to exercise the prerogatives of the Crown, Humbert said. Whether the King might act sooner he was unable to say.

The King's pledge to withdraw from public life however, was of the highest importance, since the leaders of the six opposition parties have indicated that it would remove a major obstacle to their collaboration with the Government of Premier Badoglio.

The six parties meet Thursday to decide whether they shall join in a Communist proposal to form "a new Government" of all the anti-Fascist elements.

The tall heir to the Italian throne looked youthful and handsome, although his hair is thinning, when he received me with gracious informality in the drawing room of his seaside villa.

Hydro Tenants Are Paying No Fees

CAMPBELLFORD, April 6 (ENS) —Tenants in Hydro owned homes will continue to get the educational costs of their children paid for at no cost to the commission according to a ruling given to members of Seymour township council at their April meeting, held Monday.

Members of council had long felt there should be some way of circumventing the provincial ruling that left Hydro property free of taxation and took the matter up with their solicitor, J. F. R. Douglas who reported on the question. Feeling it was unfair that residents of these houses in the township should get their educational costs free members had asked that the question be studied but learned their rights to assess went only as far as the land leaving all buildings and structures such as poles, towers, etc., constructed above the ground outside of their realm.

Reeve William Rowe presided for the meeting and other business of the day included questions arising from the correspondence among which was a letter from National Selective Service regarding the employment of farmers; from the Department of Municipal Affairs announcing the additional one mill subsidy for educational purposes; from the Department of Highways regarding 1944 appropriations and requirements regarding the Highway Improvement Act.

The following accounts were passed: Bell Telephone, $2.75; Dominion Stationers, supplies, $2.40; James Waters, assessor and postage, $207.05; W. Stephens, salary, postage, and supplies, $142.62; K. Have a Drink

KITCHENER, April 6 (AP). —Two local men were delighted when invited out to drink with friends last Saturday night. Asked to bring along ginger ale as mixer, they readily complied. Their host poured clear amber liquid from a whisky bottle, blended with the ale, and passed around the cups. The guests gulped once, spluttered, and realized the date—April 1. The "whisky" was cold tea.

FLOWER PRICES TOO HIGH

LONDON — (CP) — "Owing to the prices asked in Covent Garden (wholesale centre) for flowers, which we consider disgusting, we shall be closed until such time as they suit the public," reads a notice in a London's florist's shop. As an example of retail prices, 12 tulips cost $7 and daffodils anywhere from 25 to 50 cents each.

play with Port Arthur as an injury replacement.....Backor was with Montreal Royals after St. Kitts were knocked out and probably will wind up with Lodestars if they should happen to win out....Another queer happening in a season that has been full of them....The annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association will be held a week from Saturday. At one time that announcement would have been of great interest locally....Now alas it doesn't concern this city at all....Joe Stewart played for H.M.C.S. York cage squad the other night when the Navy was defeated by Malton R.C.A.F. in a final service league game....The Peterborough sniper was credited with only one basket so he couldn't have been in there long.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

AUSSIES FIRST FLIERS ON MOMOTE—These Australian pilots were the first to land their planes on the rebuilt Momote airstrip on Los Negros Island, South Pacific, after it was wrested from the Japs. All Japs have been cleaned up on Los Negros now and also on the neighboring island of Manus.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Scout Craft Ahead

Reports from those with whom we have been in contact show that the Cubs and Scouts are working together to get the craft end of the scout craft show to be a success. If every cub and scout enters just one article each, we will have over four hundred articles for a display. No reports have been received as to the activities of the evenings but it is felt that every officer will do his or her best to bring their part of the program out on top.

All Saints'

With the Pack: Owing to the spring festival held at the Collegiate this week the attendance of the pack went into reverse. Bryon Young led the opening and closing grand howl, and the program of the evening comprised two games and some stories told by Akela.

The Troop: Here again the festival made its showing felt on the attendance. A game of signalling and another "boat race" was played. At the camp fire, a sing-song was held. Art Miller, Donald Smith and Norman Johns received their 2nd class badges. Art Miller and Bobby LeBar passed savings toward their 1st class badge and the bulldog patrol took off the pennant for the evening. There will be an investiture ceremony held next week.

St. James' Troop

It seems that Gordon Scriver is having some tough luck with his appendix and has been ordered to bed once again to get ready for an operation. This makes the third time.

At the last meeting two new names were added to the world-wide roll of the Brotherhood of Scouting when Bob Lockie and Donald Williams were invested as full fledged Sea Scouts in the troop. Gerald Bradley and Donald Floyd were presented with their second class badges, Gerald also gaining the basket workers badge. Donald Floyd, after working as second for some time, has been promoted to the rank of patrol leader.

St. Luke's

Ken Pammett led the opening grand howl with the inspection carried out immediately after. The game of penny balancing caused some fun. Signalling and other test work was carried out, also some of the boys passed tests: Lynn Thain, National Anthem; Jack Bertrand, compass; Doug Britnell, compass; Jack King, compass and National Anthem; Billy Evans, somersault; the story of Mowgli was read at the red flower and Skipper G. Groombridge visited the pack. This being Holy Week there was no regular meeting but the cubs attended a meeting at Akela's home at 7 p.m. on Tuesday.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

ELIMINATE THE GUESS

USING a low card on your partner's lead to discourage the suit's continuation is sound enough bridge at times. It ordinarily will cause him to shift to another suit. But suppose it is important that he shift to a certain particular suit and not to a certain other one? In that case, you may know which shift is desirable, but he may not. Consequently, if you overtake his led card and then make the shift yourself, you eliminate the danger that he may guess wrong on the next lead.

Anybody who can add five cards in his own hand to an almost certain four in his partner's because of the bidding, to three in the dummy, and then can subtract that result of 12 from 13, can tell that the declarer has no more than a singleton in spades. That is just what East did on this deal, after West led the spade K, so he put on the 2 to signal for a shift.

West shifted all right, but to the wrong suit, hearts, leading his 2. South won this, drove out East's diamond A, won the returned club with the A, dropped the last trump and then used the thirteenth heart to discard his remaining club, making his contract.

How easy it would have been for East to beat the contract. He should have overtaken the spade K with his A and returned his club K. That would have set up a club trick for him immediately, and nothing could have been done by South to prevent its being cashed as soon as the diamond A won a trick.

Soldier Finds Peterborough Tops In Kindness

What the hospitality of Peterborough has meant to many servicemen, strangers to the city who have been stationed at the local training centre, was expressed with heartfelt warmth and enthusiasm by one of them to the Examiner on Wednesday. He is Cpl. W. M. Turner, R.C.A.M.C., whose home is at 993 Bronson avenue, Ottawa, and who during the past five months has been here helping to organize the centre's dance band.

Deeply impressed with the treatment he himself had received from the people of Peterborough and hearing from all sides sentiments that corresponded with his own, Cpl. Turner felt some words of thanks were owing for the unfailing kindness and consideration shown him and his buddies. He praised the uptown recreation centre, speaking warmly of the enjoyment it had provided many soldiers through amusements and opportunities for outside contacts; and paid tribute to the generosity of families in opening their houses to servicemen for Sunday dinners.

"In fact," said Cpl. Turner, who leaves Peterborough this week to return to headquarters at Ottawa, said: "I liked it so much that I sent for my wife and baby to join me here for a time. When the war is over, I might even consider locating here and making Peterborough my home."

"I would like to thank the many people who have made my stay so pleasant," he added. "The folks of Peterborough have set a fine example to the people of larger towns and cities across Canada and in their treatment of servicemen they rank second to none. All of us will carry away fond memories of our stay here."

Mr. and Mrs. William Church entertained the euchre players at their home on Saturday evening when seven tables were in progress. Need Have No Fear

FORT WILLIAM, April 6—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe told executives of the Fort William Liberal Association yesterday that Canada need have no fear of unemployment for years after the war. He said there would be five years of civilian shortages to be made up, many houses to build, endless demands curbed by war to be met, and Europe to repair and rehabilitate. All would create an enormous demand for labor.

The Young People's Society met Sunday evening with Miss Mary Miller presiding. The program was in charge of Christian citizenship committee with Tom Weir giving the topic "Citizenship in the Light of the Ten Commandments." Arrangements were made for attendance at the Y.P.U. convention to be held in Peterborough on April 15 and 16.

Good Friday service will be held at Keene United Church April 7 at 8 p.m. and Easter service on the following Sunday when the choir will provide special music. The topic of the sermon will be "A Triumphant Christianity Centred in the Resurrection."

Last Sunday the sermon was based on the words of Pilate, "Behold Your King," and the false words of the chief priest, "We have no king but Caesar." Christ was on trial but judgment was hurled against those religious zealots for their false accusations.

Rev. G. Murray said "Christ is before the world and many see in Him the Saviour of men and King of kings, other say: 'they have no king but Caesar.' The Cross of Christ still stands unchanged, its Divine and Kingly power stands above the wrecks of time." The choir sang an anthem, "The Palms," with Delbert Coward taking the solo part.

Last Of A Zero

Advanced Solomon Island Base, April 6 (AP)

A JAPANESE Zero pilot who dropped an aerial phosphorous bomb at a bomber formation near Truk overran the bomb and was blown to bits when it exploded.

Lt.-Col. Joseph C. Reddock, Laverne, Okla., who led American bombers Sunday to strike Dublon Island in the third Truk bombing in five days from Solomons bases, told the story of the miscalculating Japanese flier.

"This Zero," Reddock said, "was in a vertical dive at us when he dropped his bomb. You know Zeros dive faster than bombs fall. He ran into his own bomb about 100 yards above us. Pieces of his wreckage fell through our formation."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

GIVE ONE TO SAVE TWO

MOST so-called "safety plays" should more properly be called "sacrifice plays," for they involve the giving up of a trick in order to prevent the loss of two, or else give up two to prevent the loss of three. Some of them work differently, however. They do not involve the deliberate loss of any trick, but merely increase to some extent your chance for avoiding the loss of too many tricks:

North: ♠ A J 10 5 ♥ 7 4 ♦ A 7 5 ♣ K 9 7 2

West: ♠ 9 6 4 2 ♥ K ♦ K Q J 9 6 ♣ Q J 3

East: ♠ 8 7 3 ♥ J 10 5 ♦ 8 4 3 2 ♣ 10 8 5

South: ♠ K Q ♥ A Q 9 8 6 3 2 ♦ 10 ♣ A 6 4

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 NT	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
6 ♥

It is true that, when you hold nine trumps, including the A-Q, the best chance to take all the tricks in the suit is to finesse the Q on the first round. But, if you can afford to lose one trick and not two, your better play is the A on the first round, then a lead toward the Q, intending to come up with it unless the K is played. That principle was the only point involved in the play of this hand.

West led the diamond K to the A. Since South saw he could put a losing club on a spade, his sole problem was avoidance of two trump losers. He tried the heart Q finesse on the second trick, losing to the K. When it developed later that East had the J and 10, South was beaten. Use of the A on the first round would have dropped the K, so only one trick would have been lost then to the J-10.

If you will write down all 16 ways that the missing trumps can be located, you will find that, aiming at all the tricks, the Q finesse is the best play whenever a singly guarded K is in the hand that plays first. But, if you can afford one, not two losers, you will find that the plays are of equal merit except when the last hand to play has a singleton K. So, to that slight extent, the A play on the first round is superior when you can lose one trick and don't want to lose two. Therefore, in match point duplicate generally finesse the Q first, but in rubbers or total point duplicate play the A first usually.

Bombs Demolish Pacific Base

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, April 6—(AP)—One terrific scoop of 400 tons of bombs has pushed Hollandia's three airfields into the cauldron of burned-out Japanese air bases which Allied planes kept stirring for 1,000 miles around the Bismarck Sea.

In 1½ hours Sunday, more than 300 planes set a record for concentrated devastation in the Southwest Pacific by wiping out the last of a fleet of 288 enemy aircraft observed at that North Guinea staging point, Allied Headquarters announced today.

South of Hollandia, more than 3,000 tons of bombs in a series of recent raids have laid waste to four airfields around Wewak. Further southeast, fields at Bogia, Alexishafen and Madang have suffered a similar fate.

And Rabaul's five airfields are among those which Vice Admiral Aubrey W. Fitch just has announced as completely knocked out on New Britain. New Ireland and Bougainville by his busy Solomons air arm.

Allied Headquarters also reported another punch by planes from the Solomons at Truk in the Carolines. At a cost of five bombers, warehouse and wharf fires were started Sunday at Dublon in Truk atoll, and from seven to nine of 60 Japanese interceptor planes were downed.

In the Admiralty islands, after destroyers had wiped out opposition, American units occupied Rambuyto, southeast of Manus, Monday.

The Hollandia assault was one of co-ordinated destruction. Heavy bombers went over high. Out went the ground defences. Mediums went in low. Fighters pitched into 30 interceptors and got 24. A bomber got two more. The cost of this sledgehammer blow was one Allied fighter plane.

Palau Raid Sinks 28 Ships Wrecks 214 Planes Huge U.S. Fleet Undamaged

Navy Officials Jubilant Over Victory As Units Return From Raid Which Dominated Area For Three Days

By REMBERT JAMES—Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, T.H., April 8—(AP).—Navy officials were jubilant today over official reports that American warships dominated waters 600 miles from the Philippines for three days while hundreds of planes based on aircraft carriers sowed destruction in the Carolines more than 1,000 miles west of Truk.

Not one warship was damaged and only 25 planes were lost as the price for sinking 28 enemy ships, damaging 18, including a battleship, definitely destroying 160 Japanese planes, probably wrecking 54 more, and strewing ruin at Palau, Yap, Ulithi and Woleai. American personnel losses totalled 18 airmen.

The feat of not losing a warship matched the task force performance Feb. 16-17 at Truk where 23 enemy ships were sunk, six probably sunk and 201 planes destroyed, and Feb. 22 in the Marianas where two enemy ships were sunk, nine damaged and 135 planes wiped out.

Sub Sneaks In.

Palau, fortified Japanese naval base 530 miles east of the Philippines was overwhelmed and powerfully blasted for two days. Large warships deserted the stronghold, forewarned by search planes, before the American armada could attack positions March 29 but on the night of March 28 a fleeing Japanese battleship was torpedoed and severely damaged by a submarine which slipped past screening destroyers.

Then throughout March 29 and 30 Palau was pounded by hundreds of carrier planes.

At least 93 and probably 122 Nipponese interceptors went down in flames trying to stem these attacks. From 39 to 59 more were wrecked aground or in the water.

A communique from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the United States Pacific Fleet, announcing the results said 26 enemy ships were sunk at Palau, including two destroyers, an unidentified combat ship, 16 cargo vessels, five oilers and a patrol vessel. The 18 damaged vessels, in addition to the battleship which got away, included a destroyer, a large repair ship, three oilers and 12 cargo vessels.

In the Palau Islands, 60 buildings, including 20 warehouses, were demolished.

Japanese planes vainly attacked the task forces as they arrived and as they departed. Carrier craft shot down 17 of these and ships' anti-aircraft winged four more.

But the American warships, although moving more than 2,000 miles away from the Kwajalein Lagoon base in the Western Marshalls, were not challenged by the Japanese Navy.

C.C.F. Re-elects E. B. Jolliffe At Convention

TORONTO, April 8—(CP). — The C.C.F.'s Ontario section today concludes a three-day annual convention after re-electing E. B. Jolliffe of Toronto as political leader yesterday and passing resolutions dealing with agriculture, soldiers' re-establishment, education and social security.

At sessions this afternoon members of the provincial council will be elected and reports of the youth committee heard. The convention will end with an evening banquet.

Lively discussion developed yesterday on a resolution covering re-establishment of service men and women, which was approved.

The resolution said service men and women awaiting civilian employment should continue to receive their normal service pay and allowances but without being required to remain on active service or being under military discipline.

Pensions paid in cases of total disability should be in excess of the subsistence level, and those paid for partial disability should be assessed in relation to the amount of income the pensioner could be expected to earn, the resolution said.

A resolution dealing with education "deplored" the Premier Drew had added the portfolio of education to his other duties and said this portfolio required a full-time minister.

Another resolution said the Province should assume at least 50 per cent of the cost of education and ensure free medical and dental

Partisan Units Worry Germans

LONDON, April 8.—(AP). — A broadcast communique from the headquarters of Marshal Tito (Josip Broz) said today that the Germans were rushing troops from all parts of Serbia in an attempt to stem Partisan advances in the region of Ivanjica and the Ibar River valley, southeast of Sarajevo.

The bulletin said the Partisans were waging incessant battles against the enemy in that area.

Three days of heavy fighting carried his forces into the village of Petke, 10 miles south of Mrkonjicgrad, in Western Bosnia, Tito said, and in a co-ordinated movement other units blocked the main German column from reaching Mrkonjicgrad.

The communique said that at least four German troop and supply trains had been derailed or blown up in various parts of Yugoslavia.

Australia To Cut Army By 90,000

CANBERRA, Australia, April 8—(CP)—Francis E. Forde, Army Minister, announced today the Australian Army would be reduced by 90,000 men within the next 12 months.

The releases, he said in a statement, will include 20,000 men for industry. He indicated this reduction rate would be continued.

"In considering the manpower problem," the Minister said, "the government decided there was no alternative but to reduce the establishment of the military forces by restricting considerably the monthly intake and to provide for accelerated discharges from the army in addition to regular discharges because of unfitness and other causes."

Lonndon Fears Dewey's Rise

Laud Willkie As An Internationalist

LONDON, April 8.—(CP).— The London News-Chronicle said in an editorial to-day that if Governor Thomas Dewey of New York became the Republican Presidential nominee, "the world may be kept completely in the dark about America's foreign policy until after the election, and this unhappy state of things will only be avoided if Mr. Hull (United States' Secretary of State) succeeds in getting the Republicans to take foreign affairs out of politics."

The paper said Wendell L. Willkie's retirement as a candidate for the Republican nomination meant that "from one point of view the political outlook in the United States becomes more obscure than ever. So far as American policy affects the rest of the world, the issue which dominates all others is internationalism versus isolationism. If America elects a President and Congress of isolationist sympathizers, the bottom will drop out of the Allies' post-war plans.

"Mr. Willkie is an internationalist. Had the fight been between him and Roosevelt, there would have been little to choose between them from the standpoint of world policy. But Governor Dewey has not yet declared himself on this issue."

Play Catch With Grenades To Finish Jap Pillboxes

AN ADVANCED PACIFIC BASE—(Delayed).—A few weeks ago he was just a truck driver—a fellow not too well known—in a tank unit. Now they all know him as "Joe the Raider."

Overnight he became something of a hero.

Out on Roi Island, Kwajalain Atoll, the former Philadelphian maintained a "luxurious" foxhole, and kept it well stocked with Japanese beer, canned pineapple, canned tangerines, and other edibles and drinkables.

The tankmen, kept busy wiping out Japs during that period, found the fruit and beer a most welcome addition to their rations.

Fruit, beer and small Jap souvenis weren't the only results of "Raider Joe's" three expeditions from the airport island to causeway-connected Namur, however.

He notched off 20 Japs on the stock of his rifle, hurled four grenades which "busted right in the middle of a bunch," and claims he and an unidentified 'frontline buddy' played an exciting game of three-cornered catch with live grenades—from the "buddy" to "Raider Joe" into a Jap pillbox.

I expected — judging from the stories I had heard—to see a husky giant.

Refugees Hurry From Budapest

By JOE MORTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

BARI, Italy, Aril 8. — (AP). — Highways leading from Budapest were reported crowded to-day with persons fleeing the Hungarian capital in a sorrowful pre-Easter 'parade" initiated by the Allied bombing of the strategic rail hub in support of the Red army's advance.

Axis-controlled railo stations heard at this Italian listening post asserted the evacuation, begun on Friday, was proceeding in orderly fashion. Neutral sources indicated the people were using every possible type of conveyance in their rush to leave the city.

Indicating a probable transfer of the Hungarian government to another site, the Budapest radio said persons employed in municipal and civil jobs were getting the highest priorities to aid their movement.

The BBC, in an attempt to capitalize on confusion in Hungary, beamed a broadcast to state police asking it to assist persons attempting to cross the borders and join the Russians or the Yugoslav Partians of Marshal Tito.

"If necessary, use your weapons," the broadcast said.

Noting the Berlin radio's assertion that Bulgarian pilots helped defend Bucharest when the Allies bombed the Rumanian capital April 4, the BBC also reminded Bulgaria it had not broken relations with Russia.

Radio Ankara from neutral Turkey declared that the Bulgarian

Japs Claiming Capture Of Kokima

Railway Junction Vital For Allied Supplies

NEW DELHI, April 8 — (CP) — Steady Japanese pressure in the Kohima area of India was reported today by Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's communique but the bulletin said no important engagement had yet taken place.

(A Japanese communique reported by Reuters News Agency in London claimed that Japanese troops had captured Kohima, 60 miles north of Imphal. There was no Allied confirmation, but the fall of Kohima, 40 miles inside India, would mean complete severance of the Manipur Road linking Imphal with the railhead to the north.

Allied headquarters said that Allied troops operating in the hills overlooking Imphal plain to the north of the big British base had driven the enemy from "new important feature" and had improved their position in that area.

There was a slackening of action on the Tiddim-Imphal road to the south where the 17th Indian Division finally fought its way clear of the last Japanese road obstruction to join the unified defence of the plain.

Japanese activity in the Kohima area was described here as of a "prowling" nature.

The communique announced a notable success on the Arakan front where a British battalion captured an important village position southwest of Buthedaung in the offensive against Akyab on the Bay of Bengal shore.

In northern Burma Chinese troops were continuing their attack on Wakawng in the drive down the Mogaung valley some 40 miles north of the Mandalay-Myitkyina railway.

To the east in a parallel drive down the Fort Hertz valley from Sumprabum Burmese troops inflicted 50 casualties upon the Japanese near the Tiang River crossing, about 45 miles north of Myitkyina.

American heavy bombers, in the blasting of locomotives, rolling stock, bridges and many miles of track along the Burma-Thailand Railway between Thanbyuzayat and Bangkok three days ago flew a round-trip of 2,000 miles, it was disclosed.

The big bombers used a special bomb designed for use against railway tracks.

The communique said medium bombers, dive-bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters yesterday and the day before were out in strength bombing and strafing over the northern Burma, Arakan, Kaladan, Chin Hills and Chindwin Valley areas.

Ground Fighting Sporadic On Anzio Front

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

NAPLES, April 8—(AP).—An American combat patrol, after a sharp clash with the Germans, has established a new strongpoint northwest of Padiglione, slightly improving the Allied line on the central sector of the beachhead south of Rome, headquarters announced today.

One the east flank of the beachhead, Allied artillery, mortars and tanks remained active and enemy buildings were gradually crumbling from repeated bombardment. Allied guns also knocked out a German tank three miles northeast of Carroceto, 21 miles south of Rome.

The Nazis continued to pour a harassing fire over the beachhead, but generally they remained on the defensive. Attempted enemy infiltrations at some points were repulsed.

On the main 5th Army front there were the usual patrol encounters and artillery duels, with considerable shelling by both sides along the Garigliano River. Two patrol clashes occurred Thursday night 1½ miles northwest of Cassino. An Allied patrol also engaged an enemy labor party near Terelle, inflicting casualties.

The 7th Air Force Battalion, composed of military offenders given an opportunity to redeem themselves as ground soldiers, has reappeared in the German line at the beachhead. The outfit had an original strength of 328 and received 80 replacements, but has been reduced to 200 by casualties.

It was announced Allied anti-aircraft guns have destroyed 157 planes since the first landings.

The bulletin said a British destroyer shelled German positions ringing the beachhead on April 4, that British and American coastal craft sank an E-boat and damaged a flak ship between Leghorn and Elba on the following night and that other British craft had captured a schooner laden with foodstuffs among the Dalmatian Islands. The capture of two other schooners was announced yesterday.

An American combat patrol established a "strongpoint" on the Anzio beachhead south of Rome after a clash with the Germans, said the communique.

Allied planes flew about 1,700 sorties, smashing at the Germans over a wide area in Italy and destroying 31 enemy planes.

The communique said three Allied heavy bombers and seven other planes were missing.

United States heavy bombers left railroad yards at Mestre, four miles west of Venice, burning and tangled and also scored many hits on the tracks and main chokepoint of the Bologna yards.

270 War Refugees Canada-bound

PHILADELPHIA, April 8 — (CP) — Some 270 refugees, about 70 per cent of them Jewish, left here last night in special cars attached to regular trains bound for Montreal and Toronto, after arriving here on the Portugese Relief steamship Serpa Pinto, following a three week voyage from Lisbon.

Only one showed evidence of the hardships most of them endured in their years of wandering from Germany and German-occupied countries into Spain. She was Annette Fleishman from Poland, who had both feet frozen in her walk through the Pyrenees into Spain and had to have them amputated.

The party is finding asylum in Canada through the efforts of the Canadian National Committee on refugees, with Senator Cairine Wilson as chairman, the United Jewish Refugees and War Relief Agencies and the American Joint Distribution Committee, with the co-operation of the Dominion government.

Siege Arc Slowly Tightens Around Doomed City; Tarnopol Garrison Hangs On

Panic Sweeps Through Outskirt Villages As Stampeding Russians Smash One Defence Line After Another

By HENRY CASSIDY—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, April 8—(Ap).—Germans and Rumanians were reported in flight from Odessa today as the Russian army drew tight a siege arc which pressed as close at 9.6 miles to the northeast of the big Black Sea port, scene of long-drawn Soviet resistance to the Nazi invasion in 1941. A dispatch by Capt. Konstantin Tokarev to Red Star said one group of Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 3rd Ukrainian Army caught an enemy column hurrying from the city along a narrow muddy road northwest of the port and achieved so great a surprise that the enemy was unable to put up resistance.

The road was severed, he said, and hundreds of the invaders were thrown back into the icy Dniester swamps.

Tokarev gave these exact distances of the Soviet iron ring about Odessa:

To the northeast, 9.6 miles;
The northwest, 16.8 miles.

Use Reinforcements.

Panic swept through little outskirts villages between Lakes Kuialnitzky and Khadzhibay as Russian cavalry and tanks followed by infantry broke down one defence line after another in the five-mile wide land corridor approaching Odessa from the northeast, the correspondent reported. The roar of battle sounded in Odessa's streets.

Heavy battles were in full swing southwest of Tarnopol at the northwestern end of the southern offensive with the Germans throwing large numbers of tanks into an incessant effort to relieve their surrounded garrison in that city.

Transport planes were still trying to rescue the Tarnopol commanders, but the Russians were bagging numbers of the transports. Reports here said none of the attacking Hitlerites had broken through to their surrounded comrades.

Forty-five miles northwest of the Black Sea Metropolis the right flank of Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 3rd Ukrainian Army tightened a cordon around the remnants of five or six shattered German divisions (perhaps 25,000 to 50,000 men) trapped north of the rail junction of Razdelnaya when that strategic strongpoint was captured Wednesday.

5,000 Killed.

In a two-day battle which followed the Russian communique said, 5,000 Germans weer killed and more than 1,000 captured, as the encircled foe tried to break out. Great stores of war, booty, including 64 guns and 24 tanks, fell into Soviet hands.

The resistance of other large German forces surrounded near Skala and in Tarnopol to the northwest was gradually weakening as the pressure of the Red Army forces was stepped up, dispatches said.

Repeated Nazi attempts to relieve the Tarnopol garrison were repulsed with heavy losses, according to the communique, while all efforts to cut through the Skala pocket proved unsuccessful, 4,000 Germans

Taken Prisoner

LONDON, April 8 — (CP) — A Reuters News Agency Dispatch from Baghdad yesterday said that former Premier Rashid Ali Al Gailani of Irag, who led a brief fight against British forces in the spring of 1941, and later fled to Germany, had been brought back a prisoner to Baghdad with 19 of his colleagues.

Giraud Refuses To Step Down After Argument

ALGIERS, April 8 — (AP) — Gen. Henri Giraud refused to step down as Commander in Chief of fighting French Armed Forces today and challenged Gen. Charles de Gaulle to oust him during a "disagreeable" 30- minute conference.

A French National Committee who described the meeting in De Gaulle's headquarters at noon said it was "not so well."

De Gaullist circles said, however, that negotiations between the two French leaders were continuing with the likelihood of a definite decision tonight, and it was reported that an exchange of letters containing the final decision would be released tonight.

Giraud retired to his headquarters to deliberate further on the situation following the meeting.

The showdown between the two arose from De Gaulle's efforts to relegate Giraud to the unimportant post of "Inspector General of the Armies" and take over the command of French land, sea and air forces himself.

Sources close to Giraud said the 65-year-old Commander would rather quit than be shelved and humiliated.

De Gaulle also was reported to be encountering trouble in getting the National Committee's approval to oust Giraud, a move interpreted by Americans and Britons here as another manoeuvre against President Roosevelt's reported decision to entrust Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower with authority to negotiate with groups inside France. De Gaulle has sought recognition of himself and his national committee as the provisional government of liberated areas.

Invented Kewpie Dies At Age 71

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 8 — (CP)—Back in the Ozark Hills friends gathered yesterday to pay last tribute to Rose O'Neill, a white haired woman who had proved herself as a writer and painter.

But it was by only these friends of another day that Rose O'Neill was remembered for her serious work. The rest of the world knew of her—if they knew of her at all—as the creator of Kewpie, a fascinating little character with plump curves, great, friendly eyes and shy smile which became all but ubiquitous.

First appearing as a tailpiece to Miss O'Neill's magazine articles, Kewpie reached her peak of popularity in the 20's, seeming to come into the possession of every woman and child in one form or another. Her exaggerated eyes, wisp of hair

Hitler Must Hold Rumanian Oil Fields

Russian Thrust Aimed At Great Oil Reservoirs In Galicia And At Ploesti

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Many things are contributing to Hitler's certain defeat, but the scarcity of petroleum—lifeblood of war—ranks high among the causes of a downfall which may be more terrible than that experienced by any other bloody-minded conqueror in history.

I have suggested this fatal weakness in the Nazi gangster's defence was likely to show up strikingly in the forthcoming invasion of western Europe. That final great clash will strain the resources of both sides to the limit, and it will find the Fuehrer sadly lacking in the wherewithal to stand off disaster. As Lt.-Gen. Omar Bradley, commander of American ground forces in Britain, remarked yesterday: "We have the best equipment and more of it than the Germans ever dreamed of."

In Bad Fix

That's the position now, and it's becoming increasingly difficult for the Nazis daily, especially in the matter of that all-important petroleum. Not only are Allied bombers raking Hitler's oil sources but if you will look at your maps you will see that the paramount sectors on the southern Russian front are in oil regions. They are Ploesti in Rumania and Galicia in southeastern Poland.

Both those zones are strategic gateways into enemy-held territory, quite apart from their oil-producing value. Moreover, Galicia's production of petroleum is small compared with Rumania's output. Still, so great is Hitler's need of oil that both these fields are priceless to him. Veritas, British official war commentator, pins the thing down like this:

"The German war machine cannot do without Rumania and Galician oil."

Thus Hitler has a double reason for defending both these theatres—for their military value and for their oil. You can gauge the extent of his anxiety by the fierceness of his resistance in the Tarnopol sector of Poland where one of the bloodiest combats of the war is being waged. Also, unless signs fail, we are on the verge of another titanic struggle along the Iasi (Jassy) front which shields the Ploesti oil field from the Red forces thrusting down from the north.

WOLBACH, Neb., April 8—(AP). — The identification bracelet which Bette Lou Noonan lost last Christmas came back in the mail today, in a letter from John F. "We hope the wearer wasn't included in the cow's diet."

Neutrals Ring Germany

Sweden Would Help If Finns Quit War

WASHINGTON, April 8 —(AP)— New Allied moves to surround Nazi Germany with a tgiht ring of non-co-operating neutrals are expected in the immediate future. They are necessary to prepare the way for the day of invasion now approaching.

Fresh efforts may be expected, if in fact they have not already been undertaken, to have Turkey and Spain shut off shipments of essential metals and clamp down on espionage, and to get Turkey into the war before it is too late.

Britain's ban on communications with Eire, where Axis diplmats still hold forth, may be reinforced by a further American appeal to the Irish Government to break with the enemy. Many experts here would not be surprised at efforts to persuade hard-pressed Sweden to break her remaining commercial ties with Germany.

Sweden's resistance to German pressure would be much stronger if Finland were out of the war, and hope persists here that a Russo-Finnish peace will yet be agreed upon in time to shock German morale and to provide a shot in the arm for the dominated peoples now restlessly awaiting the day of attack in the west.

Racial Trouble Looming Across The States

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 8—(CP).—A serious racial controversy in the United States, with Negroes pitted against those influential whites who would deny them social and democratic rights, may grow out of current events affecting the two groups.

These events may be summarized as follows:

1. Recent resistance in southern states to the fair employment practices regulations assuring Negroes an equal opportunity for work on railroads.

2. A public declaration by Senator Theodore G. (The Man) Bilbo (Dem., Miss.) that American Negroes should be expelled to some state prepared for them in Africa or a similarly suitable place.

3. Refusal of the political authorities in some southern states to permit Negroes to vote in primary elections choosing delegates to the national party conventions to nominate presidential candidates.

4. This week's 8-to-1 decision of the United States Supreme Court, affirming the constitutional right of a Negro to vote in primary elections.

5. The immediate outcry against the highest court from southern senators and others highly placed protesting this decision and declaring that means would be found to maintain the "supremacy" of the white man.

6. An appeal from negro leaders to Attorney General Francis Biddle for "vigorous" prosecution of any person refusing a negro the right to vote merely because he is a negro.

There are about 12 million negroes in the United States, most of them thickly concentrated in the southern states, and most of them poor.

Traditionally they have not taken much part in politics, particularly in those southern states where payment of the poll tax is an essential qualification for a voter.

The war has brought a new importance and dignity to negroes. Thousands of them are fighting and dying side by side with their white comrades. An increasing number are achieving high place in public and professional life.

And all fit negroes are in great demand as workers in industry and households, at high rates of pay. A fairly good negro maid can get $5 and more a day in Washington.

But they are still looked down upon and kept under restrictions in the southern states, and a great flood of resentment may be reaching the boiling point.

Council Changes Voting Hours

MILLBROOK, April 8 (ENS) — Millbrook Municipal Council met this week, with Reeve H. D. Bigelow in the chair, and all members present.

Communications included a receipt from the Sick Children's Hospital for grant sent them of $10. from the Counties' Engineer re order for snow fencing; from the Brunner-Mond re supply of calcium chloride for the streets; and from the Department of Health re drain for Larmer's Dairy. On motion of Councillors Harrington and Olan, Mr. Larmer was given permission to drain the property, King street, into the main drain according to advice given by the Provincial Minister of Health.

It was moved by Ball-Olan that the Municipality purchase 200 feet of snow fence including steel posts, and that an order be placed for 3½ tons of calcium chloride.

A By-Law authorizing the sale of north part of Lot 1, east side of Union street, to Mrs. Maud Armstrong, was passed and numbered 712. Councillor M. W. Ball, relief dispensed in month of March, 1944, amounting to $19.70, and on motion of Harrington-Ball, these accounts were ordered paid.

The Firemen made report of equipment being in good order, and on motion of Harrington-Olan it was decided to purchase one pair handcuffs. Judge Upholds Labor Court

TORONTO, April 8 — (CP) — Mr. Justice J. K. Mackay in a judgement handed down at Osgoode Hall this week upheld the validity of the Ontario Labor Court.

"Legislation of the character found in the Collective Bargaining Act falls within the exclusive authority of the Province to enact in relation to property and civil rights in the Province," said the judgment which dealt with an attack on the Act's validity by G. R. Munnoch, Counsel for the Steel Co. of Canada at Hamilton.

The validity of the Act was attacked after Mr. Justice Mackay had granted certification to the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.) as Bargaining Agent for Steelco employees.

"The terms of the act show that the purpose of the Act was to give legal protection to what have commonly been acknowledged to be the rights of Labor, namely the right to organize freely and the right to bargain collectively," the judgment said.

Mr. Justice Mackay further held that the Collective Bargaining Act did not conflict with the Industrial Disputes Act as extended by several orders-in-council. "The two statutes are separate and distinct and can consistently operate side by side."

Aerial Attacks Not Extensive

LONDON, April 8 — (CP) — R. A. F. bombers laid mines in enemy waters last night, the Air Ministry announced today. This was the only reported aerial activity during the night.

Shortly after 1:30 p.m., German long wave stations interrupted their broadcasts to warn that "strong bomber formations reported approaching Germany are continuing on their way into central Germany," adding that "other enemy bomber formations are approaching southwest Germany."

Programs were broken again at 2 p.m. for the announcement that strong formations were still over central Germany and heading eastward while those which penetrated southwestern areas were on their way out.

Air Commandos Take Heavy Toll

CHINDITS HEADQUARTERS INSIDE BURMA, April 8—(AP)—Flying columns of Chindits, the air commandos organized by the late Brig.-Gen. Orde Charles Wingate, are inflicting casualties at the ratio of four to one in their short, sharp clashes in the jungles behind Japanese lines.

Details of their operations are scant because the Chindits are constantly on the move, using radio communications only for emergency reasons.

But carrying on the precepts laid down by their teacher, who was killed March 24, the Chindits are waging effective guerilla warfare in the rear of the 18th Japanese division, being attacked from the front by the American-Chinese forces of Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell.

They have inflicted more than 1,000 casualties on the Japanese in the last month and now are engaged in daily skirmishes at scores of isolated places.

Some of the minor skirmishes result in bayonet and and hand-to-hand fighting as savage as any known in this theatre.

400 Reporters To Cover Allied Invasion

BY ROSS MUNRO

LONDON, April 8 — (CP) — Between 350 and 400 Allied war correspondents will have a part in covering the invasion of Western Europe.

This is the approximate total of war reporters accredited to supreme headquarters of the Allied expeitionary force to write of army, navy and air force activities. A comparatively small number of writers will go with the assault forces in the initial phase but others will follow up later with formations which push through the bridgeheads.

A fairly large number of correspondents will remain in Britain for some time covering various headquarters, hospital and naval bases here and also handling the flood of copy from the front which will pour through London.

All correspondents accredited to British, United States and Canadian forces here were reaccredited to "S.H.A.E.F." and this higher accreditation will enable them to cover any of the three armies they wish once facilities are available.

Take Their Choice

Thus Canadian writers will be eligible to cover American or British forces once they are accredited to S.H.A.E.F., even if not formally accredited to those other forces.

Press and radio coverage is being worked out this way on a basis of British, American and Canadian co-operation, all going through supreme headquarters.

About 20 Canadians have been reaccredited to it, supreme headquarters said, but all will be assigned to the Canadian forces.

There will be around 150 British reporters and between 200 and 230 American writers and a handful of Australians, Indians and Fighting French covering the invasion.

Wireless facilities are being planned to transmit the stories to London from the continent and field censors will go forward with the front-line reporters.

Pigeons in Scheme.

All couriers, boats and even pigeons also will be used to bring copy back to Britain to the regular London cableheads.

The Canadian Public Relations organization is making detailed plans to handles their correspondents and wireless facilities are being prepared. The transport allotment will be one jeep and trailer—which is an innovation, to help carry kit—for every two correspondents, accompanied by a conducting officer and an army driver. Canadian Public Relations had more time to prepare this operation than any previous one.

He went back for the second but halfway back he slipped and the two landed in the murky water.

Germans Flood Flanders Area

LONDON, April 8—(CP)—A small section of Flanders has been flooded by the Germans destroying canal banks, Inbel, Belgium News Agency, reported today, adding that major river and sea dikes have not yet been breached to inundate great stretches of land although preparations have been made for such action at the moment of Allied landings.

While there have been some quite extensive preliminary flooding of parts of the low countries, both Belgian and Netherlands authorities emphasize that some "inside Europe" reports as to the extent of these defensive steps by the Nazis have been exaggerated.

There is no question however, it was said, that the Germans are fully prepared to blow up the dikes when it becomes necessary to wreck the complicated pumping machinery and to add to the water hazards through the use of mines and underwater ditches and traps.

No New Clothes In Britain's Easter Parade

LONDON, April 8—(CP).—Civilians in Britain will observe their fifth wartime Easter tomorrow wearing rejuvenated clothing, instead of new costumes—because the ration allowance provides no leeway for new spring trimmings.

Sartorially the only preparation most Britons made for Easter was to send their one-time Sunday best clothes to the cleaners.

Londoners this week started such a run on cleaners that many shops closed their doors at midweek with signs such as "No more work accepted until after April 12."

Easter sunrise services will be held in many places. Probably the largest will be in Hyde Park, at 7.30 a.m., where the Bishop of London will deliver the sermon.

Special services have been arranged for most of the soldiers—British, Canadian, American and of various other nationalities — stationed in Britain.

Obeying official stay-at-home requests, most civilians abandoned plans for Easter week-end holidays. For the first time in the memory of railways official stations were free of the customary holiday crowds. Resort towns like Blackpool and Torquay were practically deserted. So was Brighton on the south coast, in the area from which visitors have been barred as a pre-invasion security measure.

Fine Of $500 Is Cobourg Levy

COBOURG, April 8 — Found guilty on a charge of breach of the Trade School regulations, J. H. Marsh of Montreal and Toronto was fined $500 and costs by Magistrate R. B. Baxter on Thursday afternoon. The case was heard three weeks ago and adjournment was made until Thursday after the magistrate reserved his decision. The accused was also committed for trial last month on false pretenses charges in connection with the sale of engineering courses, and is out on bail.

The course was that of stationary engineering, a course which was covered by the Trade School regulations, the magistrate said in giving judgment, as the manner in which the course was carried on brought it under the regulations. One of the complainants had said that he hadn't understood some of the lessons and Marsh had called on him and explained that the lessons were only tests and that the course would arrive later on. The degree of supervision thus shown, said the magistrate, established the status of the course under the Trade School Act. The accused, who is related to the Deputy Minister of Labour was asked to discuss the course with the Department of Education and refrained from doing so, commented Magistrate Baxter. Men who took such a course, paying for it out of their earnings, and studying in their spare time, would be discouraged when they found that they had been spending time and money on something that was not worth it.

Sympathy Of Christ Is Shown While On The Cross

REV. E. R. JAMES

Mary stood at the Sepulchre weeping. Jesus saith unto Her: Mary.—St. John 20: 11-16.

This familiar story will be read by every family man and woman with deeper interest at this terrible time. On that first Easter morn a woman stood at the sepulchre weeping. On our own Easter Day multitudes will be full of anxiety for their loved ones.

What has the Church for such an hour? This simple, homely story is full of comfort. On Our Lord's Ressurection Day, He does not appear first to His Mother, or Apostles, but to a simple every day woman. He Himself says: "I know my sheep and I call my sheep by Name and they hear My voice and they follow Me."

"Mary stood at the sepulchre weeping." Wailing is the truer translation; the loud outporing of an oriental woman's grief. She is the woman out of whom the Lord had cast seven devils. He had broken the power of her evil habits. He had done more. He had received her into the fellowship of those holy women, "who ministered unto Him to their substance." Being truly holy women they welcomed her and gave her sympathy without patronage.

Her Master is now dead. She feels her loneliness. In her loneliness would her horrors return? Now you can understand her wailing.

The sun has just risen. A shadow falls and through tear dimmed eyes she sees a man in working dress. Of course it is the gardener. He will know where they have laid Him. Her mind is full of her loss. Then falls upon her ears the word: "Mary." She recognizes the intonation. At once she cries: "Rabboni" My Master. She falls at His feet to embrace them. It is the Lord full of compassion. "He is the same yesterday, today and for ever." Death cannot take from His heart the love and compassion He has for His people; especially His little sheep, the humble, everyday people.

How naturally she accepts the fact of His resurrection. His standing there does not surprise her. Her woman's intuition told her that it must be so. Her Lord had broken her bonds of evil habits. Surely He could break the bonds of death. "It was not possible for Him to be holden of death." "I lay down My life of Myself. I have power to lay it dow nand I have power to take it again." "He trusted in God." With His dying breath He commended His Spirit in the Hands of His Father. "Father into Thy Hands I commend My Spirit." The Father did not forsake Him. On the third day the Spirit of the Father entered into that dead, cold Body and filled it with divine life and energy. "I am He that liveth and was dead, and behold, I am alive for evermore."

It comforts you and me to know that the Lord deals with the individual. "Mary." Later in the day with Simon Peter. Personal contact with the individual is the foundation truth of the Good News. God values the human liberty and personality. He knows your name.

It is equally important to remember the other half of the truth. The same Lord revealed Himself to the ten Apostles that night in the Upper Room. The individual is important. But the Family of God is equally important. The individual cannot live of himself alone. He needs the famfly love and fellowship and the family neds him. He has a contribution to make to the family and the family to him. If he stays out of the family circle both are losers. "No man liveth unto himself."

How important is the practical value of this story. You know your weak plank; that habit that so easily besets you. The risen Christ reveals Himself to you personally to offer you His Life and power. "My grace is sufficient for thee"; He whispers. As you use that grace you will discover the new life flowing into you and with all saints you will testify: "I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." Thus you will discover in your personal experience the truth of the resurrection of the Lord Christ.

CHRIST IS RISEN INDEED.

Christ's Victory Over Death Has Made Life Worth While

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 9, is Mark 16:1-8; I Corinthians 15, the Golden Text being 1 Cor. 15:57, "Thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.")

THE FIRST part of our lesson took place on Sunday morning, April 9, A.D. 30. Three women, Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James, and Salome, went early to the tomb of their Lord carrying sweet spices to embalm the body.

As they walked along they wondered who would roll the heavy stone away from the entrance so that they could enter. It was too large for them to move.

When they arrived at the tomb, however, they saw, to their great amazement, that the stone was not at the entrance of the tomb, and when they looked within they saw no Jesus, but a young man —presumably an angel — sitting where Jesus' body had lain. He was dressed in a long white garment, and "they were affrighted."

As they went into the tomb the angel said to them: "Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: He is risen; He is not here: behold the place where they laid Him.

"But go your way, tell His disciples and Peter, that He goeth before you into Galilee: there shall you see Him, as He said unto you."

The three women went out quickly, and fled from the spot, they trembled and were amazed, and they said not a word to anyone of what they had seen and heard for they were frightened.

The latter half of our lesson is concerned with Paul's beautiful, reassuring letter to the Corinthians concerning this same ressurrection of Christ. He speaks of "Cephas," meaning Simon Peter, who had seen Jesus after He had risen; of many others who had also had the privilege.

Some, evidently, disputed the resurrection, and to them Paul says, "If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith also is vain."

"But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

On this faith that Jesus Christ died for our sins and rose from the dead, Paul bases his feeling that life is worth while for all believers.

"If after the manner of men, I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me? if the dead rise not? let us eat and drink; for tomorrow we die."

How will the dead rise up? Listen to Paul's explanation:

"But some men will say, How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come?

"Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die:

"And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or of some other grain:

"But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased Him, and to every seed his own body."

Isn't that absolutely true? A man plants a seed, but what comes up from the seed is as unlike it as possible. The seed disappears and is broken up, and out of it come the green stalks and flowers or heads of grain. So it is with the body of man which is laid in the ground. "It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption: It is sown in dishonor; it is raised in glory; it is sown in weakness; it is raised in power.

"As we have born the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly," Paul asserts. "This corruption must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.

"So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory.

"O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?

"But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

YMCA Leader At St. James'

Guest speaker at St. James church. J. C. Oliver, Y. M. C. A. world service secretary, who returned from Shanghai on the "Gripsholm" in December, has more to relate than the story of internment. Having escaped internment until five months before he and his wife were repatriated he not only can report his personal experiences as a partially "free" American in a Japanese occupied city. He also has an engrossing story to tell of the courage, resourcefulness and record of service that account for the remarkable vitality of the Y.M.C.A. in occupied China to-day. In 1917 Mr. Oliver went to China to become associate general secretary of the Hangchow Y.M.C.A. He shared in the erection of a modern concrete building, enrolling more than 3,000 members; and the association's influence was extended into homes, factories and playgrounds of this strong Buddist centre. Previous to the present war, Mr. Oliver served through two severe famines and one revolution. Mr. Oliver will be the special speaker at St. James United church next Sunday, April 9th, at 7 p.m.

Rev. H. Fagan Back In City

For the next three weeks, Rev. Harry Fagan and wife will be back for the fourth time at the Nazarene Gospel Service, 213 Charlotte Street. They have made many friends through their singing and music. Rev. Fagan is blind and knows over 1,200 songs by memory. He has written many songs and choruses, and makes it a feature at every service to write a new one. Since being here last summer they have been out in the west, and down south. They will conduct children's services next week from Tuesday over Friday at 4 p.m. Rev. F. M. Dafoe of East Detroit has a wide reputation as a Bible student and preacher. He has just completed building a new church that is a modern miracle. His early home was around Port Perry, and is related to the late Dr. Dafoe.

Christ's Victory Over Death

Scripture—Mark 16:1-8; I Corinthians 15.

By Alfred J. Buescher

Very early on Easter morning, Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James, and Salome went to Jesus' tomb, and as they walked along they wondered who would roll the stone away.

When they arrived at the tomb, they found the stone was rolled away, looking in they saw a young man clothed in a long white robe sitting there, and they were frightened.

But the young man said, "Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: He is risen, he is not here; behold the place where they laid Him. Go your way and tell the disciples."

And the three women went out quickly, and fled from the sepulchre; for they trembled and were amazed, and told no one, for they were afraid.

SATURDAY, APRIL 8, 1944

Thirty Years Ago

Recently we were looking through the Examiner files for 1914, and we were struck with the variety of entertainment which the city afforded thirty years ago; in quantity, if not in quality, it was better off then than it is now.

In April, 1914, Peterborough had quite a flourishing theatrical life. The great attraction at the Grand was Zephra, a musical comedy which arrived in town with "a full carload of beautiful and spectacular scenery" which was described as "the class of scenery and effects that Maud Adams used in Peter Pan"; what Zephra was about was not revealed, but it was Oriental in character, and it carried a lot of girls with it and required the services of the full Conservatory of Music orchestra, so it must have been quite a show. It was followed by A Girl Of The Underworld, in four acts, advertised as A Play of New York Life—With Nothing To Offend. This in turn was followed by The Red Widow—Sparkling Satire, Scenically Superb, the work of Channing Pollock. And the month ended with Mutt and Jeff in Panama. The big Easter attraction was Douglas Stansbury, "Canada's Greatest Boy Singer"; a picture of this now-forgotten entertainer, in Eton collar and snowy surplice, accompanied the announcement.

The movies flourished in those days, but in a modest way. The Red Mill advertised Cynthy, which 'featured' a lady called Mrs. Wadley, described as The Great Peterborough Favourite. A film called Lady Babbie, 'in 3,000 feet' was announced; possibly it was an early movie version of J. M. Barrie's Little Minister; on the same program was a comedy which starred John Bunny; how many people are there in Peterborough today who remember John Bunny, the first of the film comedians? A rival movie house offered The Thumb Print, the Most Thrilling Detective Drama in the World; to see this phenomenon the charge was five cents at matinees and ten cents at night.

In 1914, of course, provincial Canada was still strongly under the influence of 'the theayter', and the number of touring theatrical companies which passed through a town like Peterborough in the course of a winter was surprising. They brought with them an excitement and a glamour—in the true sense of that overused word—which has gone for the time being, and which will not return until Canada is able to support a theatre once again. And who can say how long that will be?

The Starling War

Over in western Ontario they are saying very mean things about the starling. This bird, it appears, likes the fruit-growing country and thoroughly enjoys a beakful of green fruit. It does thousands of dollars worth of damage every year. Consequently the press in that part of the country is urging everyone, including city-dwellers, to take up arms against the starling and wipe him out. "It is war to the death against the starling", one of our contemporaries cried, melodramatically.

The starling is a pretty bird, and its Latin name is sturnus vulgaris, if you care to know. The Encyclopaedia Britannica, which sometimes becomes quite enthusiastic about birds, says that its disposition is "bustling and lively" and that it has a cheerful and varied song; it is also an infernal nuisance, like some of our other feathered friends notably the pigeon and the sparrow.

Now the really interesting thing about the starling is that it is not indigenous to this continent. Its home is in northern Europe and in Asia. But in 1890 some uncontrolled enthusiast imported the starling into New York City, and now it has spread very widely all over North America, and has become sufficiently numerous to be a menace to fruit-growing in western Ontario. The man who brought the starling to this continent deserves to be remembered with the man who introduced the English rabbit into Australia.

We cannot do much in the starling war. We are not near enough to the field of action. But we can recommend that anyone who is moved to introduce some beautiful denizen of another continent to this one—the Bengal tiger, for instance—should think twice about it.

A Defence Of Corsets

The rubber shortage has become so acute, we observe, that no more of it may be spared for the manufacture of corsets, or girdles as they are usually called nowadays. There has been some ribald comment on this announcement; the dependence of great numbers of women on girdles in order to present a pleasing figure seems to be considered a first-class joke in some circles. And then there are others—health-enthusiasts, some of them—who think that if women went without corsets they would be forced to develop a better carriage and firmer muscles than they have at present.

Frankly, we are on the side of corsets. Like high heels on shoes, they are unnatural but very pleasing. Not one woman in five thousand has a figure which cannot be improved by judicious restraint at this point and that. Calisthenics may make corsets unnecessary, but there is something unpleasing about a woman who is encased in a straight-jacket of her own muscle; she lacks femininity.

The rubber shortage need not banish the corset, however. Long before rubber was used in their manufacture, excellent corsets were made of canvas, whalebone and steel, and they can be made again. They may not be as smart as the rubber articles but they are better than nothing.

Corsets, in some form or other, have been worn for at least a thousand years. Until quite recently they were often worn by men, and there are still those who wear braces and supports which might honestly be described as corsets. Will anyone deny that many a male figure would be improved by deft moulding, particularly around the waist? No, corsets are a part of our civilization, and we do not think that a trifle like a rubber shortage will sweep them away in a month or two.

A New Vacation Plan

By this time everyone knows that the local works of General Electric and Genelco will shut down for a week this summer, during which all employees will have a vacation. The time chosen is from noon on Saturday, July 29, until Tuesday, August 8; this particular week adds the August Civic Holiday to the usual seven days, stretching the period of time off appreciably.

There is a good deal to be said in favour of this plan. It does away with the nuisance which plagues every plant in summertime, when there is never a full staff at work for months on end. Vacations extending over a period of three or four months bring about an appreciable drop in production, and at this period of the war we must do everything to keep production as high as possible.

The plan is not a new one. At least one large manufacturing plant in Peterborough has given a general vacation in this way for several years. In Britain the scheme is very common, particularly in the large mills of Lancashire, where the vacation week is often called a Wake, and is an occasion of great rejoicing. A completely dead plant for a week is probably a much better thing than a plant which is under full strength for three or four months.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Farmers raised too much spinach last year" says an agricultural magazine. Any spinach is too much spinach.

One of the Admiralty Islands is called Sopa Sopa. American troops are seeking the bubble, reputation, there.

Instead of the expected two hundred millions, Sir Harry Oakes left only a beggarly thirteen millions. If some of the people who could never say a good word for him had known of his comparative poverty, they might have been more charitable.

A report says that Nazis are in such headlong flight from the Red Army that they even cling to the tails of their horses. "And that", says the ribald Windsor Star, "is a heck of a place if they want to forget the Fuehrer".

"Whatever became of Hitler's astrologers and his intuition?" asks the Kitchener Record. They are probably in excellent condition. Conquerors rise and fall, but the dominion of superstition of every sort is constant.

We observe with glee that the "official flower" of the city of Brantford is the daffodil, because it is thought in some circles to resemble an old-fashioned desk telephone. Has Peterborough an official flower? If not we nominate the Maidenhair, as being the nearest thing to a Lift Lock.

Diary Of An Optimist

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: An incurable optimist, I rushed the season by sitting out on my verandah this afternoon for an hour and a half; it was wonderfully sunny and pleasant, and I cared nothing for the rude and often derisive stares of the passers-by. At four o'clock I went indoors to hear Mr. Churchill on the radio; I like the way he drops his H's and his G's—a real breath of Victorian England. I wonder if he wears a nightcap? I would bet any money that his butler warms his copy of the Times before the fire before he gives it to the P.M. in the morning. The English, not the Romans or the Americans, are the most luxurious of all races, and the warmed newspaper is their ultimate Sardanapalian indulgence. And very nice, too....At intervals all day long I re-read and corrected the typescript of a longish piece I had written. Is there anything so boring and depressing as reading what one has written oneself? One reads and reads, and finally thinks, 'If I knew anyone else who wrote like that Oh, how I would hate him!'

◆ ◆ ◆

MONDAY: Yesterday I sat on my verandah; today it snows remorselessly. And to think that only last night the CBC presented a special program of Spring Music! This is clear evidence that relations are strained between the CBC and the Meteorological Bureau, and that another scandal is blowing up at Ottawa which will probably unseat the government....Speaking of Ottawa, I had a chat today with E. S. Clarry, the Alberta Trade Commissioner at the capital, and a keen spare-time historian. He tells me that the Archives at Ottawa are wonderfully efficient and helpful, splendidly indexed and more widespread in scope than most of us know. Apparently we have two archivists continually at work in London, and had two in Paris before the Germans went there, engaged in hunting up information relevant to the history of this country.

◆ ◆ ◆

TUESDAY: Today a man came into my office suddenly to ask me if Lord Beaverbrook were a Jew. I assured him that his Lordship was that even more Hebraic character, a Continuing Presbyterian; in orthodoxy and austerity can the sons of Eli compare with the children of Knox? It is an indirect compliment to the Jews that anyone who gets in on the world is suspected of being of their number....Twice today people called me on the phone to ask me questions, and would not give their names. This is a sort of rudeness which I detest. The Irish made a great fuss when Mrs. Bernard Shaw left them a fortune to improve their manners, but they should think themselves lucky. There are many nations which need such a fund, and lack it; Canada has its full share of people who are discourteous not because they mean it, but because they know no better....The shops now are full of Easter cards, divided into two classes, the Religious and the Bunny. The egg, as a symbol of fertility and resurrection, is elusive this year, because of the shortage of chocolate.

◆ ◆ ◆

WEDNESDAY: Another heavy snowstorm today; Nature is a heavy-handed old joker.... Stephen Leacock is dead. Four years ago McGill retired him, and he seemed to take it as a sign that his life was over; certainly he referred to his coming death many times during the past four years. It is stupid to retire men at 70 in that arbitrary way; some men are senile at thirty and others are good to the very end. Michael Angelo painted in his best manner until he died at 89, and Titian was magnificent, painting naked women with youthful zest until he died at 99. This period is devoted to dowdy middle age; the young are discounted because they are considered immature, and the old are shoved out of their jobs untimely because they are thought to be stupider at 70 than at 69. It is all a part of the modern worship of intellectual cowardice and stagnation, which its devotees call Moderation. Pah!

◆ ◆ ◆

THURSDAY: Naughty children keep breaking down my back fence. I mentioned this today to a Literal Minded Acquaintance. "I wish I could catch them," I said; "I would throw them into thornbushes and trample their bodies; I would draw their spinal cords out through their skulls with red-hot pincers." "Oh now, you better go easy," said my L.M.I., alarmed, "you better just phone up their parents." "Parents!" I shrieked, "these children have no parents. They have pointed ears, and long wet snouts, and they leave cloven tracks in the snow. They were not born, but crept from some corruption lying at the foot of a gallows." "Yeah well you better go easy, anyway," said my L.M.I.; "you better watch out for them, and yell at them good when they come next time," and with this advice he hurried away. I think the poor fellow misunderstood my hyperbole.

◆ ◆ ◆

FRIDAY: News comes that some friends of mine have a new baby, which they are going to name Susan Deborah, which is very pretty. The trend now seems to be toward staid and sober names of this sort, and it is a good one. We are well out of that period of emotional extravagance in which children were labelled Pauline, Lily, Pearl, Edna, Beryl and so forth. And does anyone nowadays ever call a boy Garnet? Even Elmer, and the poetical trio Homer, Horace and Virgil seem to be out of favour.... Once I knew an electrician whose name, like mine, was Samuel. He had a dry humour. Often, when he was high on a ladder, his boss would shout to him "Sam, Sam!", and Sam, looking aloft would reply, "Speak Lord, thy servant heareth." Like many agnostics, he had a rich and varied knowledge of Holy Writ, gained during an orthdodox youth.

◆ ◆ ◆

SATURDAY: Heard a splendid broadcast of "The Magic Flute" this afternoon, in English, which helped greatly to explain the involved plot....This evening to a concert, resulting in rather a glut of the tone-art....Hector Charlesworth writes today that the people of Orillia never forgave Stephen Leacock for making mild fun of them in "Sunshine Sketches of A Little Town." Ah, but wait a few years until Leacock's fame has spread and tourists begin to crowd Orillia. Then we shall see Ye Old Leacock Bunne and Cake Shoppe, Ye Leacock Inne, and Bus Tours of Lovely Leacockland suddenly spring up where indifference and resentment reigned before. A favourite maxim of commercial life is: Never let personal feelings interfere with the exploitation of the Great Dead.

PEAK DISCOVERED

An American pilot flying in China believes that he has discovered a mountain higher than Mount Everest. Since he came upon his discovery while flying off course, his chief concern was not measuring the altitude of the mountains, but getting back home.—New York Sun.

EASTER BONNET —By Goldberg

Two Statesmen Meet Some Birds

WHEN in the spring of 1910, Theodore Roosevelt was on his way to England from his African explorations, he wrote a strange letter to the British Foreign Office in London. I call it a strange letter, because it is the kind of epistle one would not expect to be sent by an ex-executive of one country to the Foreign Office of another. He wrote that during his stay in England he would like to make an excursion into the woods, hear the English songbirds and learn their names; in order that he might do this satisfactorily and intelligently, would the Foreign Office please select some naturalist who knew the note of every bird in England and request him to accompany Mr. Roosevelt on this expedition?

Well, the head of the British Foreign Office was Sir Edward Grey and he himself knew the note of every singing bird in England—a remarkable accomplishment for one of the busiest statesmen in the world. He therefore appointed himself as bird-guide for the ex-President of the United States.

The two distinguished men stood on a railway platform one day in May and were surrounded by reporters, who supposed that a new world-problem of the first magnitude was on the carpet. But the two men told the reporters that they were going away into the country for two days, did not wish to be disturbed, and asked the journalists to leave them alone. Accordingly, it was generally believed that Roosevelt and Grey were absorbed in the discussion of international affairs, and as the great war broke out a few years later, some went so far as to believe then that it had its origin in this sinister interview.

Now, as a matter of fact, the two men did not mention either war or politics, they went a-walking in the New Forest and every time they heard the voice of a bird, Grey told Roosevelt the singer's name. They both agreed (and so do I) that the English blackbird is the best soloist in Great Britain.

It is a curious fact that the four most famous birds in English literature are none of them native in America. The Big Four are the Nightingale, the Skylark, the Blackbird, and the Cuckoo. From Chaucer to Kipling the British poets have chanted the praise of the Nightingale ...We never had nightingales in the United States until Edward W. Bok imported them into his Bird Paradise in Florida....

The English skylark leaves the grass and soars aloft, singing his heart out, so that after he has disappeared in the sky, we hear his voice coming down out of the blue, like a revelation. One of the poets calls it a "sightless song".

Shakespeare sends the skylark to the gate of heaven.

And Shelley's poem on the skylark expresses the ethereal nature of the soaring voice of this bird:

> Higher still and higher
> From the earth thou springest,
> Like a cloud of fire;
> The blue deep thou wingest,
> And singing still dost soar, and
> Soaring ever singest...

American blackbirds do not sing well....Our red-wing blackbird, with his scarlet epaulets, has a good-natured and perky wheeze, which can hardly be called singing. But the English and Continental blackbird pours out of his throat the most heavenly melody. One winter day in Munich, in the midst of a snowstorm, I saw a blackbird perched on a tree directly in front of the University building. He was "hove to," that is, he had his beak turned directly into the wind, and as the snowflakes beat against his little face, he sent straight into the gale the loveliest music....

The nearest we Americans can get to the English cuckoo is the abominable cuckoo clock. The voice of the English cuckoo sounds exactly like the clock, only of course you can't train him to strike right. In addition to his regular accomplishment, he is a ventriloquist and can throw his voice a tremendous distance. One day, crossing a field in Sussex, I heard the loud double note of the cuckoo, apparently directly behind me. He was in reality a furlong away.—From "Essays on Things", by William Lyon Phelps. (New York: Macmillan.)

Brains Embargo

One of the difficulties about the establishment of Socialism in a single nation in a world of capitalist nations is well-known to consist in the fluidity of capital and its tendency to move away from areas in which it seems unlikely to be permitted a reasonable return. This is one of the chief reasons for the totalitarian inclinations of modern Socialist, for they realize that the Socialist state will have to use its power to prevent the withdrawal of fluid capital from the country, at least in larger amounts than the economy can stand. Mr. Coldwell, it will be remembered, is quite prepared to use the existing exchange control system to prevent the owners of foreign capital now in Canada from withdrawing any of it while he is introducing his Socialistic measures.

But another fluid item which seems to have been largely forgotten is that of executive, managerial, and technical brains. In countries so closely related and so similar as the United States and Canada, the introduction of Socialism in one of the two would almost certainly lead to an extensive migration of these brains to the other country if there were any prospect of its remaining under the capitalist system. The putting of an embargo on the export of brains is surely something about which even Mr. Coldwell would hesitate. It is one thing for Russia to seal up her boundaries against both exit and entrance; it would be a very different thing for Canada with her intimate relations with both the United States and Great Britain.

We continue to feel very strongly that the time for Canada to consider the establishment of a Socialist regime is when the United States has decided that the age of American individualism has come to an end and that a series of Washington departments can do much better everything that has been done in the past by American business enterprise. Canada would then probably have to go Socialist, in order to protect our own skilled experts from the competition of the flood of American managers and technicians who would swarm into this country to afford some scope for their skill and enterprise.—Toronto Saturday Night.

What A People!

On the eve of the greatest invasion to be launched from their shores the British people still contrive to enjoy themselves. Last week-end more than fifty soccer games were played in England and Scotland, and an extraordinary number of spectators were drawn to them. In Newcastle and Aldershot 40,000 packed the stands; 41,000 took Saturday afternoon off in Liverpool, and in Manchester 36,000 were counted.

We have heard much in recent years of the evils of spectator sports, at which thousands thrill vicariously to the efforts of twenty-two men. Let the masses get out into the country and themselves take part in sports, they were told. Today the picture is changed.

It is impossible in the tight-packed British Isles for throngs of war workers to flock to the country, even if they had the time. Where would they go? Golf courses and tennis courts have disappeared, bathing beaches are barbed-wire entanglements, and the countryside is already jammed to overflowing by the invasion troops.

In these circumstances the wisdom of the government in not seeking to eliminate the humble football game is now apparent. Of a Saturday afternoon hundreds of thousands throughout the country can relax at little cost to themselves and no strain on the burdened railway system. The recuperative effects of a few hours of sport on the minds and bodies of war workers closely tied to their exacting tasks must be considerable.

Those of us here who tend to criticize the continuance of organized sports in the national emergency might do well to remember that their value has been recognized in Britain, that for so long has lain under the bombs and guns of the enemy.—Montreal Gazette.

A Bible Message

And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people. And his fame went throughout all Syria: and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatick, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them. Letter To The Editor

A GOLDEN PARAGRAPH

Toronto, Ont., April 5th, 1944.

Sir,—It is a long time since I've seen the plight of the soldier settler more accurately described, as in the report of a farm speaker—Sam Staples before the Peterborough Lions' Club—as reported in yesterday's Examiner. Despite the fact that there were some painful memories for this reader, in the speaker's reference to the last war's veteran settlers being "the victims of speculators in farm machinery, cattle and other essentials," I am satisfied that it is desirable to resurrect these facts now—if we are to do a better job now than in 1918.

In view of the fact that some 450,000 farm-trained young Canadians left the ranks of agriculture since September, 1939—either for the armed forces or the war factories—I would like to add a couple of suggestions on this vital Canadian problem: (a) The capital involved in the soldier settlement plans should be free of interest for the first three difficult years, and not more than 3 per cent. thereafter; (b) The welfare of our returning warriors—or those other "soldiers of the soil" now on their father's land—should have precedence over the settlement of new Canadians desiring to come to Canada from many countries, after the war.

Be that as it may, certainly the following sentiments expressed by Mr. Staples deserve the spotlight of your editorial page, and the attention of all Canadians here on the home front: "The government may legislate all they want to, but they can't live with these men. They may pay all the bonuses and grant subsidies, but this won't help these men in their fight to change over from years of fighting to a peaceful existence in a peaceful land. The contrast is very great, and everyone of us as Canadians and citizens have a job to do. We must help these boys; we must make them feel that they are one of us, take them into the farm forums, into the churches, into our social groups and our clubs; in short, make them feel that they have done something that has made Canada proud of them, and that we who stayed at home are ever willing and anxious to do what we can in the great job of post-war rehabilitation".

A golden paragraph, Mr. Editor. That is the true note: "Welcome Home—Canada is proud of you!"

BOURLON WOOD (1918).

Hitler Shot—On Screen

There have been plenty of cases in which someone attending a theatre has been so wrought up about villainy depicted on the stage that he threatened the actor. Hitler was brought into it and a miner, losing control of himself, pulled his gun and fired three shots at the Fuehrer.—Edmonton Journal.

Italy Will Need Tremendous Aid After War

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 8 (CP)—If Canadian industry and business is interested after the war in seeking markets in Italy, the Balkans and central Europe the Dominion should stand as good a chance as most overseas countries in gaining a foothold during the reconstruction period.

But Italy and these other countries were poor customers of Canada before the war and it seems more likely that Canadian products would find easier and better markets in post-war France and Britain.

However, the whole subject of post-war economics and marketing possibilities is extremely nebulous at this time and the situation will depend entirely on the final course of the war and the amount of devastation which will be wrought before the conflict is over in these countries.

Russia, too, is going to be a very important influence in eastern Europe and her trade interests could spread through that part of the continent probably more easily than those of overseas producer nations.

A Canadian with the troops in Italy, though, can see as the advance is made through the war-wrecked land, where Canadian products would find an avid market when there are no customs barriers or tariffs to block them as they did before the war.

War in southern and central Italy has left the country with practically nothing. Motor plants, automobile factories, flour mills, meat plants have been damaged so badly by bombs and shells it will take years to make them all function again.

It will probably take all the assistance every United Nation can provide to bring Italy back to anything like normal and in this process Canadian manufacturing and agricultural products will probably find their way to Italy and also to the Balkans and central Europe.

But in the long run the markets are not likely to be very extensive.

Ceiling Placed On Used Trucks

OTTAWA, April 6.—(CP).—Sales of used trucks, trailers and buses by individuals who are not in the automotive sales business have been placed under a price ceiling. J. H. The regulations became effective April 3.

Percentages are fixed to allow for depreciation according to the age of the model, and provision is made for handling charges, optional equipment and transportation costs.

Other appointments to county courts announced were: Harold E. Fuller, K.C. of Sarnia, Ont., to the Welland County Court; E. A. Shaunessy, Petrolia, Ont., to the Essex County Court; James E. McGeer, Vancouver, to the Cariboo County Court.

Mr. Fuller, who is a member of the legal firm of Pardee, Gurd, Fuller and Taylor, will, it is understood, succeed Judge L. B. C. Livingston at Welland, and Mr. Shaunessy will become junior judge at Windsor in succession to the late Judge C. F. Mahon. Mr. Cross will take over the duties of Judge F. E. Perrin of Woodstock, who is being superannuated.

Lindsay Nurse Held For Trial

LINDSAY, April 8—(ENS)—Miss Ethel Rogers, nurse in the Ross Memorial hospital here, was committed for trial before judge and jury following preliminary hearing in police court here in a charge of stealing a dress from the local C.D.S. store valued at $25.

C. G. Frost, counsel for the accused asked Magistrate E. A. Gee to make the case indictable although the amount of the goods the accused was charged with stealing was less than the amount usually involved for trial by higher court. Despite objection by Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson, the Magistrate decided to grant preliminary hearing stating that the case was of such importance to the general public as to warrant trial before a higher court.

In giving evidence for the crown, Miss Alwyn Martin of the ladies' wear department of the C.D.S. stated that the accused had taken two dresses to the fitting room and that a mauve dress fitted but the buyer said she would look around the other stores before purchasing. After the customer had left Miss Martin said she returned to the fitting room and although a beige dress was on the hanger, the mauve one was missing. Miss Martin said that the garment had not been purchased and no payment made on the same.

A week later Miss Martin said that the young woman again appeared in the department and was recognized by her as well as by Mrs. Martindale the other attendant in the department. The store manager was informed and later the young woman was apprehended by the authorities.

Mrs. Martindale, assistant in the department who gave evidence after which Magistrate Gee stated that sufficient evidence had been taken to warrant commitment for trial.

Willkie's Move Worries British

LONDON, April 8 (AP)—Wendell Willkie's withdrawal from the Republican presidential contest left many in Britain both concerned and confused this week.

The tight ban against "interference" in American politics kept those in public life officially silent but in private discussions the subject vied with reports on Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's expected resignation.

The concern did not centre on the Wisconsin victory for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, about whose international views little is known here, so much as on the possibility the vote was aimed at Willkie's international policies rather than the man himself.

There was a general tendency to hope the outcome would draw from Dewey a detailed outline of where he stands on questions of foreign policy.

IF each one of us on the home front faces facts realistically — if we unite more forcibly than ever in a grim determination to back up our fighting men — if we in Canada prove ourselves worthy of the sacrifices of our overseas boys

IF we work with all the power that is in us — as if Victory depended on our individual effort. For if one of us fails, then the war might be lengthened — and every extra minute of fighting might cost precious lives . . .

IF each one of us fights a personal battle against luxury-spending — if we buy only what we really need — if we save our quarters and our dollars as our contribution to Victory

IF we invest our savings — and an increasing proportion of our wages — in Canada's own war chest so that the defenders of our country may never lack for the tools of Victory—

The war in Europe MAY be won this year!

Racing Fans Get New Service

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP) — The New York racing season opens Saturday at Jamaica, and with it a new information service for the fans. The idea is to furnish a more direct contact between the racing public and the track management, who now are connected only by money passing through the mutuel windows.

Need Corps of Solomons

The patrons will be free to ask any questions on matters which puzzle them, and if they ask what they really want to know we are afraid the track would have to have a corps of Solomons behind the desk, as the fans might start in by asking why they don't get a cut in the breakage, and go on from there.

Breakage is the odd pennies swept up from the floor after the days play. It belongs to the patrons, of course, but if the payoff on a horse figures at $3.59, say, it would be foolish to go to all the trouble of paying the nine cents on every winning ticket, so the payoff is figured at $3.50 and the track and State just pocket the rest.

Or some fan might come up and ask why a horse which had finished a dismal last in his last five starts suddenly develops wings and wins by 10 lengths at a nice, juicy price. Or he might want to know why the jockey on the horse on which he had his two bucks took the nag far outside on the turn for home when he could have come through on the rail and won under wraps.

We have an idea there will be a lot of such unanswerable questions fired at the oracles, with some of the female bettors wanting to know why a jockey has such an atrocious color scheme in his monkey suit and why that beautiful horse with a name the same as Aunt Josie's first husband couldn't win, as Aunt Josie's first husband was a stepper.

Already Has Service.

They already have an information service pertaining to the mutuel division, but that was a logical innovation as it would be a sorry state of affairs if a customer was allowed to leave the track with a couple of bucks left in his jeans just because there was nobody there to tell him how to get rid of it.

If the new information service wants to be of real value it should be able to answer such simple questions as which horse will win the eighth race. That's someting the fans really want to know, rather than why a horse was scratched, even if, as one lady said, she saw the horse just before the race and there wasn't a scratch on him.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Earl McCready-Strangler Bob Wagner match is definitely on as the main feature of next Tuesday night's Frank Tunney wrestling card at the Brock Street Arena. Promoter Tunney telephoned Friday night to say that he had booked the two big fellows for next week's Peterborough show. "They both seem to be keen about it," said the Toronto impressario "and they both are claiming a win." That is not surprising for McCready has never been known to be coy about meeting the toughest kind of opposition. He has a world of quiet confidence in himself and while he would rather battle with an opponent who knows the science of the mat game he has repeatedly shown that he is quite capable of handling the tough birds, too, Wagner definitely comes in the latter category. He doesn't worry about scientific wrestling. His theory is keep punching and sooner or later the clever grapplers will soften up. He has been right on a lot of occasions, too, but we have a hunch that if he hopes to knock off McCready by back-alley fighting he is doing a lot of reckless guessing. The Moose doesn't scare easy or soften easy either and he has his own methods of dealing with the bad men of the mat. That rocking-chair cradle killer-diller favored by McCready has wrecked the hopes of a lot of tough hombres. Supporting McCready and Wagner will be two other stellar bouts and the card should be decidedly entertaining.

Oshawa Generals meet the Montreal Royals in the third game of the Eastern junior finals at Montreal tonight and the general feeling around town is that the Montrealers will prolong the series by taking tonight's battle and forcing a fourth game in Montreal Monday night. The second game of the series in Toronto the other night was one of the fastest of the season and George Campbell, the Oshawa sports scribe used most of his column the next day to rave about the speed of the action. Here is a bit of the Campbell comment: "Well? We stated the next game would be close and as a matter of fact not a few of the local "experts" pooh-poohed the theory, in fact even hinted that we were being guilty of ballyhooing a game for those who would benefit.....heaven forbid! As a matter of fact they didn't have 8,000 at the game last night and they've put 15,000 into Maple Leaf Gardens before today, not once but several times to watch an N.H.L. game that wouldn't produce as much action in three periods as the Junior kids displayed last night in the middle half of the second period. It was a sizzler from start to finish, actually, other than the second period which was truly of the history-making variety, the game was more close and consequently exciting than it was "good." Some of the hockey displayed in spots was wretched but then that's because both teams were trying to and succeeding in playing the game at a faster pace than they could actually travel and still manipulate with skill and finesse. Players on both teams were crashing into the boards in their desperate all-out attempt to get up just one more ounce of speed and power."

It's In The Bag

In the opinion of most experts the Montreal Canadiens about cinched the Stanley Cup when they outscored the Black Hawks 3 to 1 in Chicago Thursday night and took the lead in the final round two games to nil. True the Flying Frenchmen have to win two more games before the historic mug is captured but they are in the driver's seat because all but one of the remaining games will have to be played on Montreal ice where Dick Irvin's men have been practicaly unbeatable all season. To capture the cup the Black Hawks would not only have to come home in front in tomorrow night's game in Chicago but would have to follow up that success by winning three games in the Montreal Forum and that looks like an almost impossible program. Bill Durnan deserves a big share of the credit for Thursday's win. The big goalie saved his team time after time and it was tough that he should have been robbed of a shutout by a goal from a scramble in the last second of play. The other Montreal hero of course was the astounding Maurice Richard who scored all three Canadien goals and for the second time in the playoffs was responsible for all his team's markers. It was a brilliant follow-up to his record-breaking feat of firing five counters against the Toronto Leafs

* * * * * *

The Canadian Press all-star N.H.L. team, released today, is surprising chiefly for the reason that only one member of the Montreal Canadiens who have ridden rough-shod over all opposition in the league race and are doing the same thing in the playoffs has been considered worthy by the sports writers to be included in the first team, although Dick Irvin of the Canadiens has been picked as No. 1 coach. The only Canadien to make the first team is Goalie Bill Durnan. As a matter of fact only three more Canadiens, defence player Bouchard, centre Elmer Lach and right wing Maurice Richard have been given a place on the second team. That is rather a strange development that out of a total of twelve players selected for the first and alternate N.H.L. all-star teams the champions-by-a-mile Canadiens have been able to win but four places. And the Detroit Red Wings who were good enough to land second place in the regular standing didn't place a single representative in either of the two stellar lineups. After all the all-star rating is just as much a matter of geography and sentiment as it is of playing ability. It would be easy to pick a team out of the left-overs that would give either of the two lineups a terrific battle for a win.

Hockey Did All Right

Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star, taking comfort out of the patronage given hockey this winter predicts a good season for baseball in spite of the loss of so many stars from the big show. Says the Windsor scribe: "Last fall there were certain National Hockey League moguls who expressed the same doubts for hockey as these baseball men are today. But look what happened! The Chicago Black Hawks drew in excess of 350,000 customers for 25 home games to establish a new N.H.L. attendance record. Even the New York Rangers, with a team that wouldn't have been able to hold its end up in select amateur circles before the war, averaged better than 11,000 for games at Madison Square Gardens. The answer to hockey's success was that your average person today is hungry for entertainment and since he has the money to satisfy his desire, he'll patronize almost anything. Certainly it can't be said that the N.H.L. this past winter had much to recommend it either in the calibre of talent on display or keenness of competition. Hockey has had an unbelievably good year from the standpoint of attendance and so, as far as we can see, there is no reason for predicting that baseball—bad as it may be—won't do just as well."

Judging from what Bill Walshe, Kingston sports writer has to say about the army boxing card there the other night the prediction of Major Ian Eisenhardt, supervisor of army sports that 50,000 Canadian soldiers will engage in the boxing program next year is hard to understand. Says Bre'er Walshe: "The first event leading to a Canadian Army championship, under the new system of soldier sports, could not be considered a roaring success in the M.D. 3 boxing tournament completed last night at Vimy Barracks. Of the many thousands stationed in the area only 33 took part in the two-day ring meet and seven of the 14 champions were decided without a final contest. Louis Felsien, the only entry in the two heavyweight divisions, won his class without putting on a glove while Wally Hicks took the middle title by boxing an exhibition. Other classes also went uncontested. Major Ian Eisenhardt, supervisor of army sports, stated last night that there was great interest in the army boxing eliminations in Western Canada camps and that he was disappointed at the showing in the Kingston area. He explained that interest was aroused in Western Canada in the novice class where soldiers had never competed in the ring before while in the Kingston area, where the sport is partly organized on a permanent basis, only those who make a specialty of boxing and a few novices took part. Jay's Capture City Title For Seventh Time

Jay's Cigar Store bowling team clinched a seventh consecutive City League bowling championship with a hard-fought 2 to 1 victory over Chief Gimblett's team at Duffus' Alleys Thursday night. They topped the team scoring again with a 3484 total count and reeled off a 1293 game to tie the Chief's outfit for the evening's high team single.

In a bowling session which was dotted heavily with mediocre individual scoring the trundlers rounded all but the last lap of their long winter's sport. The wind-up of the thirty weeks schedule for the sixteen teams which competed will be staged next Thursday with a double header to take in games billed for April 13 and 20. First game to start at 7 o'clock sharp.

Tom Curvin was one exception to the low scoring rule. The veteran sharpshooter was in rare form, picking off everything in sight for an 829 count and was the whole show in the Old Timer's two-point win from Big Five. Gene Reynolds, Chief Gimblet's find of the year, refusing to crack from his amazing hitting streak, even under Jay's pressure, nailed a 346 game for the night's high single. Other good games included Holly Mowry 337, Tom Curvin 326, Ray Clifford 320, Toots Collins 319, Tommy Miller 318 and Bud Weese 302.

The Cleanrites obtained a one-point advantage over K. of C. in their race for second place with a sweep of points from Ramblers while the K. of C.'s best was only two from Fractional Motors. The Outlaws rolled 3420 pins to chalk up another grand slam, defeating Canada Packers three straight, and are now solid favorites to finish in fourth position.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Leader in the National League last season with 29 homers and 128 runs batted in, Bill Nicholson appeared content last night to toss back a $16,500 offer from Vice-President James Gallagher of Chicago Cubs, to resume operation of his 1,000-acre farm at Chestertown, Md. Nicholson is with the Cubs in their spring training at French Lick, Ind., but signified his willingness to discard the honor of being the team's highest-paid player for his agricultural activities.

One reason is he is subject to draft in category 1-A if he returns to baseball and might be in uniform by June, which would give him only six weeks of play.

Bobby Permane, apprentice jockey from New Jersey, ran his total of winners for 1944 to 45 yesterday when he rode five successive winning mounts at Tropical Park, after scoring five victories the previous day and three on Wednesday. Despite his showing Permane is destined to remain an apprentice until Aug. 31, one year after his first win.

Rookie Hurler Likes 13; Beats Montreal

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, April 8 (AP) —Most baseball players shy away from wearing No. 13. To the few who don't add the name of rookie pitcher Tom Warren, of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Warren, a 23-year-old Tulsa war veteran of Casablanca, demonstrated yesterday the supposed hoodoo number holds no terror for him.

Pitching five innings of shutout ball against the Montreal Royals at Bear Mountain, N.Y., Warren yielded only three hits and won the game with a mighty two-run triple in the second inning.

Other Major League news:

New York Yankees—Outfielder Johnny Lindell was accepted for service in the Navy, it was learned after the world champions had abruptly ended the six-game winning streak of the Philadelphia Athletics, 13-5, as Ed. Levy got five hits in five at bat. Lindell will remain with the team until called up.

Detroit Tigers—Team opens five-game series with Pittsburgh today. Frank Overmire and Hal Newhouser are listed to pitch today with Rufus Gentry and Dizzy Trout tomorrow.

Chicago Cubs—John Niklos and Bill Fleming came down with colds while Dale Alderson was given permission to leave camp because of sickness in family.

Chicago White Sox—Ed. Lopat, rookie pitcher, drew praise after twirling hitless three innings against Cubs.

Philadelphia Phillies—Outfielder Coaker Triplett, last remaining club holdout, signed his contract. Jimmy Wasdell homered with the bases full as Phils beat Baltimore, 10-8.

Solve Problem

VANCOUVER —(CP)— Patricia Bay R.C.A.F. Gremlins, defending senior Canadian basketball champions, solved the ban on travel for Air Force teams in their Western Canadian finals with U.S. Engineers, Edmonton, by having the latter come to the coast instead for the best-of-three series. If Gremlins win, however, Edmonton will play Vancouver Combines for the right to meet Hayes Steel of Merritton at St. Catharines for the all-Canadian title.

Teepees Take Title

OWEN SOUND—(CP)—St. Catharines Teepees won the Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate championship here last night when they defeated Owen Sound Orphans 8-6 in the deciding game of a best-of-three series. Teepees won the first game on home ice, 7-4, last Tuesday and dropped a 6-1 verdict here Thursday night.

Missile Barrage Angers N.H.L. President

CHICAGO, April 8.—(AP).—Chicago Black Hawks fans had better hold their fire tomorrow night lest Montreal Canadiens take the third game of the Stanley Cup finals by forfeit.

That was the gist of a blunt warning issued yesterday by Mervyn (Red) Dutton, president of the National Hockey League, as an aftermath to a missile-throwing episode Thursday which caused a 20-minute delay in the second game of the championship series.

Montreal won, 3-1, with Maurice Richard scoring all three, to take a lead of two games to none in the best-of-seven series for possession of the cup, emblematic of hockey supremacy.

Referring to the barrage of newspapers, confetti, programs, coins and other articles—including a pearl handled jackknife and a woman's compact—Dutton said he had been empowered by the league Board of Governors "to forfeit any future game to the visiting club if a repetition of this kind occurs in any of the forthcoming games."

He added: "I definitely intend to exercise my authority."

The display of spectator resentment came when the Hawks protested the third goal scored by Richard, Montreal right wing, late in the final period. The Hawks argued that Clint Smith, Hawk centre, was held on the play by Elmer Lach, Montreal centre, and therefore the score should not count.

Referee Bill Chadwick didn't see it that way, the goal was allowed and the Canadiens were in front, 3-0.

Five Canadiens Win Place With All-Stars

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 8 (CP) — The runaway race staged by Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League this season had its sequel today in the selection of five members of the N.H.L. champions for the 14th annual Canadian Press All-Star teams.

The 28 hockey writers in the six N.H.L. cities who participated in the annual selection looked on rookie goaltender Bill Durnan and Coach Dick Irvin as the two most potent factors in Canadiens' successful season by placing them on the first team. Defenceman Emile Bouchard, Centre Elmer Lach and Right Wing Maurice Richard were placed on the Alternate team.

Durnan, first rookie ever to be named to the All-Star team, was the unanimous choice of the writers, receiving 756 points of a possible 756 under the system of "weighting" the vote which gives equal voting power to each N.H.L. city.

However, Toronto Maple Leafs, who finished third in the league standings, and were eliminated by Canadiens in the Stanley Cup semi-final playoffs, almost matched Canadiens, with four players getting All-Star berths.

Chicago Gets 2

Chicago Black Hawks—currently matched with Canadiens in the Stanley Cup play-offs—took two first team positions, big Earl Seibert being the choice for right defence and starry Doug Bentley as left wing. It is the 10th time that Seibert, 33-year-old native of Kitchener, Ont., has been named to either the first or second teams in his 13 seasons in the N.H.L.

Clapper Named

The Boston Bruins, who finished fifth in the league race and failed to make a Stanley Cup play-off position, have three players on the all-stars. Heading the three is playmaking Bill Cowley who is first team centre. Aubrey (Dit) Clapper—who combines coaching with active playing—is left defence on the alternate team and Herb Cain, the league's leading scorer, is alternate left wing.

Clapper, who has spent 17 seasons with the Bruins and at 37 now is reported to be considering retiring, placed on the alternate team in 1931, first year of The Canadian Press selections. He was named right wing that season.

The two all-star teams combine defensive strength with great offensive power. Durnan, 29-year-old native of Toronto, won the Vezina trophy this season with his record of 109 goals against him in 50 games —an average of 2.18 a game.

Five of the six forwards ranked among the top seven league scorers this season. Cain won the scoring title with 36 goals and 46 assists for 82 points, Bentley had 38 goals—most scored by any player—and 39 assists for 77 points, Carr had 36 goals and 38 assists for 74 points, Lach had 24 goals and 48 assists—a new league record—for 72 points and Cowley had 30 goals and 41 assists for 71 points despite his absence from play for almost six weeks due to an injury.

The all-star teams:

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, April 8—(CP)—Much mild criticism has been levelled at the Canadian Army for its adherence to British Army boxing rules. Everything is very formal, with the referee ensconced outside the ring and cheering or razzberrying forbidden except between rounds. It's all supposed to make it easier for the novice, who might be unnerved by sideline barracking.

That might hold good in some cases, but it's hard to picture some of those tough babies who have been trained to a fine edge as Commandos or paratroops getting the wind up over a barrage of Bronx cheers!

Pin Talk:

Montreal bowlers have organized a duck pin-levelling tournament that is said to be the first ever held in Canada. Patterned after the American Bowling Congress, the tourney will have nearly 800 entries from Montreal and other Quebec centres, the trundling will last two weeks.

Incidentally:

Bows are being strung in Temiskaming, Quebec, and the town archery club is readying for another season. The club has decided to affiliate with the Canadian Archery Association and possibility of competitions with other clubs is being investigated . . . Moncton harness horse race fans are bucked up over reported plans for construction of a new oval on the old airport site. Work may start as soon as the frost is out of the ground. . . . Albert Shewchuk, Fort William hockeyist who landed with Oshawa Generals juniors this winter, has been given a "trade-learning" job that will keep him in the Motor City permanently . . . War to the teeth against Starlings has been declared by Ontario agriculturists, and a government drive has been launched against the birds. Seems to recall a poem in the school books about a battle against the birds . . . Speaking of birds, bet badminton players would like to see more of them . . . Report says that many of the Ontario senior basketball champion titlists, Merritton Hayes Steel, are Americans from Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Senior Series Starts

WINNIPEG—(CP)—The Canadian Women's Senior Basketball championship series opens here tonight with Vancouver Hedlunds, defending team, meeting Winnipeg Altomahs in the first of a best-of-five series.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

The Canadan Amateur Hockey Association, meeting at Toronto 11 years ago to-day, adopted two professional playing rules—forward passing in three zones, instead of two, and kicking the puck in the third zone.

Give Team Support

QUEBEC —(CP)— Enthusiastic supporters of Quebec Aces, Quebec Senior League champions and contenders for Allan Cup honors, have subscribed $1,080 to meet the team's expenses, it was announced last night. Aces are playing Sudbury in Toronto tonight in the Eastern finals.

Baseball Starts

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— The 1944 Pacific Coast League Baseball season opens today with all eight clubs swinging into action for a 164-game season. Night baseball will return after two seasons of dimouts, due to wartime conditions.

Heads O.A.S.A.

GUELPH—(CP)—George Spooner of Galt Friday was elected president of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association for his second term at the 22nd annual meeting here. Delegates from affiliated associations in all sections of the province attended the convention, first held here in 17 years.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 8—(AP)—Bill Brandt is planning to pick an all-college baseball team from this year's National League rookie crop.

Names Make News

A kid who made all state teams in both football and basketball from Utah's Davis High School is aptly named Jimmy Cleverly . . . and Tee Branca, Salt Lake golf pro, was christened "Tei" but changes his first name for professional purposes . . . Back in 1915-16, Cal Pieh pitched three shutouts for the Yankees . . . Easy as Pieh, eh?

Shorts and Shells

Manager Tommy Farmer reports he will take Bantamweight Champion Manuel Ortiz to Boston in June for an outdoor bout against Willie Pep, who seems to have outgrown his feather title claims . . . Farmer and Eddie Mack, the Boston matchmaker, grew up together . . . Dennis Shea, National Football treasurer, once played stock with Donald Meek of the movies and did publicity for George M. Cohan and Caruso . . . The Massachusetts Tech crew probably has the tallest stroke in captivity, six-foot, seven-inch Chick Street . . . Larry Cowell, recently crowned National A.A.U. 145-pound wrestling champion, took 15 years to reach the peak. He never was a standout grappler at Penn State, but continued to try after his graduation in 1930.

Controls Eased Releasing Many Metals

By JACK WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, April 8—(CP)—Retail store shelves are likely to start filling up again as the result of a steady easing of war-time controls in recent weeks; but officials to-day cautioned that war production still holds top priority.

"The opening of a second front and new war requirements may bring new shortages," one source warned.

Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, summed up the policy of his Board in a recent letter to a meeting of retail merchants in Quebec.

"Wartime controls cannot be suddenly abandoned, but the process should be steadily in the direction of lifting them at the first opportunity," he said.

Metal products hold top place in the list of articles in which controls have recently been slackened. Munition Minitser Howe said recently the demand now exceeds the supply in only two or three metals, chief of which is tin.

As a result of this improved position some supplies of aluminum, copper, lead, chrome and zinc have been released for civilian purposes. Use which may be made of these supplies is regulated by the Prices Board.

The effect is reflected in a wide variety of orders ranging from the removal of restrictions on the use of corset steel to granting of permission for the construction of metal wheelbarrows. Restrictions have been eased on several types of electrical equipment, some hardware and a number of copper and brass plumbing fixtures.

In limiting quantities such things as domestic stokers, Venetian blinds and stranded steel clothesline are likely to start re-appearing, and production of far machinery will be increased this year. Controls have been taken off the manufacture of semi-porcelain and stoneware for restaurants.

It does not follow you will be able to walk into a store and buy these articles without any difficulty, officials say. In many cases the supply is limited and spread across the country it will be rather thin.

Officials are reticent about discussing prospects, but Mr. Howe has made it clear there will be "considerable easing" of lumber restrictions this year. Combined with increased steel and hardware this is likely to lead to a marked improvement in building supplies.

CALLED WITCH—One look at pretty, 18-year-old Kae Carole, seen above with "Tommy," and you would hardly refer to her as a witch; and yet that is exactly what she was called by the Arabs. Black-haired Kae, with her "partner Tommy" has just returned from a 50,000-mile camp tour that took them to Brazil, North and Central Africa, Asia, the Persian Gulf, Egypt and Miami, where they entertained service men. Miss Carole, whose home is in Newpaltz, N.Y., is probably the youngest ventriloquist in the entertainment field.

Details of the rate were not completed, and it is expected the council will meet again this week.

Nobody Kicked About Finns In Washington

By C. B. BLACKBURN
C.P. Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(CP).—Inconsistency: Nobody said anything about it openly but there was a lot of talk in Washington diplomatic circles when the United States demanded ejection of Axis diplomats from Eire, about the continued presence of Finnish diplomats in the American capital. The Finns, at war with Russia and Britain but not with the United States, are in a better position to send information to the Axis than the Axis agents in Dublin. But nobody would suggest the Finns would lend themselves to such violation of diplomatic immunity.

Post War Job.

Whatever decisions are finally arrived at among the major Allied powers for the re-arrangement of European boundaries, diplomats in Washington do not look for any settlement that will leave minority problems.

It is generally accepted that Russia will be the deciding factor in reaching border decisions in Northern Europe but they are expected to be realistic and fair.

But it is understood here there is general agreement about the question of populations in those areas which might find themselves, at the end of the war, under another flag.

In that eventuality, the populations concerned will be given the opportunity of moving into the area remaining of their original country—or remaining as subjects of the authority taking possession.

Once the decision is made by the populations concerned they will have no basis for later claims that they are a minority population.

This and other associated problems of the re-alignment of European boundaries are something new for the United States to be bothered about but even isolationists are demanding that this country, which is doing so much to end Axis aggression, must throw its weight in the final decisions which may prevent a fresh world war breaking out a generation hence.

No kibitzers: Anybody wanting to go to the Republican and Democratic conventions in Chicago this summer just for the fun of it had better start walking. The Office of Defence Transportation has just issued a ruling that convention train reservations will be made only for accredited delegates, their alternatives and news personnel.

This is one in a series of messages explaining problems of electric supply to farm and hamlet consumers served direct by The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

Uniform Rural Meter Rate Anywhere in Ontario

Our last advertisement illustrated the reductions which will apply to farm and hamlet services in most areas in the Province. Herein we give some of the reasons for and benefits of the new Uniform Meter Rate.

The cost of rural electric service is made up of two main parts:
(1) The cost of providing electricity in bulk at convenient central points (substations);
(2) The cost of distributing this electricity from these substations to the user.

Since electricity cannot be stored, it is necessary to provide lines made up of poles, conductor, transformers, etc., to carry the electricity from the substation to the consumer so that each user will have service available at the flip of a switch. To the cost of building these lines must be added the cost of maintaining and operating them.

Electric service rates originally included a Service Charge to cover the cost of distribution, plus a meter rate to cover the cost of the bulk electricity at the substation. The Province was divided into a number of rural power districts created around available substations without particular regard to township or county boundaries. Each of these districts had its own meter rate, varying from a high of 6c, 2c and 3/4c to a low of 2½c, 1½c and 3/4c.

During the past twenty years many complications and inequalities have arisen in trying to maintain the identity of these districts. Therefore in order to provide suitable service to all at the lowest and fairest cost, the 120 Rural Power Districts have been combined into one Provincial Rural Power System with a Uniform Meter Rate of 4c, 1-6/10c and 3/4c. Now, all Rural Power Consumers anywhere in the Province pay the same meter rate. This Uniform Rate represents a reduction in most of the old districts and an increase in only a few districts formerly having a very low rate.

These explanations are given to help you understand the new rate. In our next message, we shall discuss, for your benefit, the MINIMUM BILL. In the meantime, if you need further information, please ask your Rural District Superintendent.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

In order to have a complete understanding of the new rural rates, we suggest you clip and keep these explanations.

A MIDNIGHT SERENADE

Joseph A. Brown In 87th Year

LINDSAY, April 8—(ENS)—Joseph A. Brown, well-known Lindsay business man, who attributed his good health to hard work, plenty of sleep and fresh air, celebrated his 86th birthday here this week.

Mr. Brown was born in Dummer township, east of Peterborough, and had a life-long career in various phases of agricultural pursuits, including farming, butter and cheese making at Guelph in 1890 and worked at one of the first butter factories situated at Wellman's Corners, receiving for wages only his board and main necessities. Later he attended Kingston Dairy School following which he was employed as purchaser of cheese and dairy products by Cook Brothers at Belleville and J. A. McLean and Company of Toronto. He also operated a cheese factory at Reaboro.

For several years after coming to Lindsay, Mr. Brown was employed with the Flavelle Company buying grain and later as a cheese inspector. He was associated with the Lindsay Central Exhibition and took great pride in exhibiting carriage horses for which he probably won more awards than any other man in the district.

This citizen took an active interest in the affairs of the town and served on the Town council. He was a member of several organizations including the Lindsay Curling Club.

Passion Chorale Sung For Knox Service

An impressive service attended by a large congregation was held on Good Friday at Knox United church. Rev. H. J. Mahoney was in charge of the service. The choir sang Bach's "Passion Chorale." In the absence of Rev. E. J. Whan, because of illness, Rev. E. W. Rowland preached the sermon, taking as his text Matthew 27:36.

"Many a brave young man fighting our battles overseas is watching his loved ones here in Canada, wondering whether they are maintaining the home front and tending the altar fires of devotion. The question in their minds is not whether God is on our side but are we on God's side?"

The minister challenged the congregation to remain true to the ideals of the Master and not to break faith with the boys on the firing line who are sacrificing their lives that the world may have peace.

Labor Problems On The Farm Given Priority

Farm labor and ability is going to be more tightly "frozen" to the land this year than ever before, and priority in assistance will be given as much as possible to the farm that has the most promise of heavier production.

Those were two of the topics discussed at a farm labor and selective service conference all Thursday in the office of F. C. Paterson, representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Among those present were R. S. Duncan, Toronto, assistant Deputy Minister of Agriculture; George V. Haythorne, Ottawa, assistant director of National Selective Service; Alex McLaren, director of Ontario Farm Service work; Clifford Graham, Toronto, director of Agricultural Representatives, and A. H. Martin of Toronto, assistant to Mr. Graham.

Agricultural representatives from many of the counties of Central Ontario and Selective Service officials discussed in a broadly ranging survey of conditions, through this part of the province, the channels of approach to most practical help to agriculture.

Of Prime Importance

The fundamental propulsion behind the new and joint efforts to promote farm production was said to be the sharper realization throughout the world that in this fifth year of the war the production of food has become of such paramount important that special efforts must be made to provide more farm labor In that respect, farm labor is being frozen on the land, it was stated, competent farm help is being sent back to the land in accordance with the arrangement by which such help was permitted to go into factory work for the winter.

Selective Service regulations are being more stringently enforced than ever as a means of securing farm help. Exchange of labor by the east and west will be extended from Saskatchewan of last year to include the two other prairie province, Manitoba and Alberta.

Bring Men From West

The movement will be from the west to the east at the beginning of the season, and eastern farm help will be provided for the west later in the season when the pressure of farm work becomes heaviest beyond the Great Lakes.

Employment of High School students will be confined to farming. The only exception is for help in co-operative cheese factories and that is corporate part of agriculture.

Military camp officers will be asked to lend their help as much as possible, but it was stated that this prospect of working leave will be subject to such exceptions as approaching departure for overseas, progress in military training, and so on. Military camps are not going to be thrust into a secondary place in war preparations, especially in this year of looming major operations, but the authorities are being asked to assist farmer as much as is practicable and possible.

The helpful attitude of the Ontario Department of Education is shown in an announcement that a board of trustees may close any secondary school or grade under its control for a period "not exceeding four weeks after the statutory date of re-opening, September 5, 1944, to permit the pupils of such school or grade to help in harvesting, processing, preserving and canning food."

The circular notice to Boards observes: "As the nation's food supply is a matter of the utmost importance to ourselves and our allies, the Minister of Education asks each Board to consider how it may best co-operate with food producing agencies, and urges it to take advantage of the authority herein granted to it, if it discovers that its pupils are needed to help in increasing our food supply.

These are only a few of the topics considered at the Thursday conference, the overtone of which was a desire to provide more competent help for farmers this year.

Incidentally it was suggested that the farm that has been kept in good condition and is in capable hands should be given labor priority over others.

FloribundaRoses New Specimen

W. C. Wilks, secretary of the Horticultural Society, in his announcement of the talk on roses by A. J. Webster, Toronto, Wednesday, April 12, in the office of F. C. Paterson, Hunter Street, mentioned the new floribunda roses which are offered as door prize.

This variety is the result of the crossing of polyanthas and hybrid teas. They possess the hardiness of the polyantha and certain floral features of the hybrid tea, and most of these new roses bear clusters of double or nearly double blossoms of hybrid tea size.

Some of the varieties of floribuna are: "Smiles", a pink, with blooms three inches in diameter; "Joyous" a deep rose; "Donald Prior" a semi-double scarlet; "Else Poulsen" a semi-double rose-pink, which is well recommended, blooming from June to late autumn; Poulsen's pink and Poulsen's yellow; and "Snowbank" with buds of buff orange and blossoms of pure white.

Winners of the Horticultural Society's door prizes will receive one of the newest of hardy roses with strong growing and bush qualities and free blooming. They may not appeal to the persons who have an attachment for the hybrid teas, but there is usually a place in every garden for some of the perpetuals and polyanthas, and now the floribunda.

Membership in the Horticultural Society, Mr. Wilks says, affords desirable premiums, flower and vegetable seeds at 20 per cent. discount, participation in competitions and a helpful part in beautification of the city.

One CGE Group Totals $550 For War Victims

To keep anything that is of a useful nature in a proper working order is an important function of any concern; no matter whether it concerns affairs of business, or anything that may be of a nature that is for the public good.

The boys att the Maintenance department of the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. presided over by H. H. May as foreman would know all about that in their daily work, and it would seem that this has also been their axiom in working to extend help to the sufferers from air raids over Britain, for they have a splendid record of achievement in this regard that is really outstanding, in the help they have given for this object through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

Commencing on January 15, 1941 with a contribution of $12.06 this group of about fifty people, have by very steady work at regular periods over the time that has since intervened, made eleven contributions to the fund, the greatest of which amounted to $105.06 on August 12 of last year, to be followed by three different gifts at the Christmas season, which combined with the nice contribution of $58.21 appearing in their name to-day, gives them a splendid total of $550.49 to-date, a per capita average that ranks very high in the records of the fund. In respect to the work the fund is trying to carry on, this can really be termed maintenance that is of high order for which they deserve every credit, and as in all voluntary movements of this kind, naturally infers that a splendid leadership has also received a good measure of support. To Lewis Simpson and Mabel Dulmage goes much credit in this respect, both having played quite a prominent part in leading the way towards one of the outstanding continuous efforts of its kind from this big industrial plant.

C. G. E. Now Totals $6,864

This latest gift makes a total of $6,864.97 that has come from the industrial plants presided over by Ian F. McRae as works manager, and is slightly over two-thirds mark towards a suggestive objective of $10,000. that might eventually be raised by the employees in this city and district effort to help the people of Britain.

The Fund now has the sum of $541.00 on hand in the bank towards the next donation of £500, which when completed will mark the third of a like amount to be raised this year.

Previously acknowledged	$75,255.06

Services Held On Good Friday

Good Friday services in Peterborough were attended by hundreds with the story of the Crucifixion being told in sermon, scripture reading, meditation and music.

The three hour devotions from 12 o'clock hoon until 3.00 oclock were held in the four Anglican churches with the Stations of the Cross being made in the three Roman Catholic churches.

The congregations of the other churches held united services with those in the section of the city below Charlotte meeting in Knox United church where the Rev. E. W. Rowland was the preacher and the Rev. H. J. Mahoney was in charge of the service. The choir of Knox led in the music.

Congregations north of Charlotte street met in Murray Street Baptist church. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe conducted the service, Dr. E. W. Young offered prayer. The choir sang the anthem, "There is a Green Hill." Mr. Sutcliffe sang the solo "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."

The speaker was Major John Wood of the Salvation Army Temple. Each year at this time, he said, he had read the pen pictures of the Gospels relating to the sufferings and death of Jesus. The cross has become a world symbol of the means of our salvation. Bunyan directs us not so much to the cross, as to the man on the cross. There have been other martyrs in history, but Jesus stands alone. He had come from the Father, and went to the Father. When men nailed Him to the cross they tortured God, and caused Him cruel agony.

"The cross is an eternal feature of our civilization. We cannot throw stones at the Jews for rejecting Christ, many of us are rejecting Him. We speak badly of Pilate, but we have many cowards in Canada who are afraid to stand up for what is right. We blame Judas because he was a traitor and there are men today selling their country for money. We disparage Peter for his denial of Christ, but which of us has not denied Him? We accuse the disciples for running away, but we have often evaded the hard problems of life, and run for shelter from the impending storm of abuse and calumny that came to the true disciple that stays close to his Lord. Jesus said that His disciples would be hated by men even as He was hated. Many of us take a pride in our popularity and favor with men. How many even in our churches are helping Jesus to bear the cross. We are adepts in passing difficult tasks to other people. Good Friday leads up to Easter Sunday, the cross precedes are resurrection, we cannot have the glory unless we are willing to bear the shame."

FO. Wayne Shea Missing; Believed Dead

Flying Officer Wayne Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Shea, 189 Romaine street, was officially reported last Wednesday missing and believed killed "as a result of air operations overseas".

The information from R.C.A.F. headquarters added the note that the date of this operation was not immediately known, but that enquiry was being made and a letter would follow.

Flying Officer Shea was one of three brothers in the R. C. A. F. He was born at Dunsford in Victoria County, but had grown up in Saskatchewan until the family came to Peterborough seven years ago. He was employed for a time in the office of the R.C.A.F. at Trenton and went overseas in January last year.

"Wayne was in Africa a good deal of his time," his father informed the Examiner this morning. "He had taken special training in navigational work and naval reconnaisance, and after a period in England he was transferred to Africa and the Mediterranean. He may have been back there again recently, but I am not sure of that."

The brothers in the Air Force are Warrant Officer Wilson Shea on the west coast, and Leon Shea who is an armourer with the R.C.A.F. in Saskatchewan.

E. W. Shea, father of the three boys is engaged in the grocery business at Park and Albert streets one of the Alparka business men. The store has been closed for several days following the receipt of the deeply wounding news, and the whole neighborhood felt sympathy for the bereaved family.

Christianity Yet Waits To Be Tried

At a meeting held Friday by the local branch of the British-Israel Federation, the speaker E. Vincent of Toronto gave the address under the title "Peace When?" Opening his remarks by drawing attention to the fact that Good Friday marks the day of the death of the Prince of Peace in a world where death had become commonplace. The speaker said that this was due largely to the fact that people had almost lost sight of the Prince of Peace and all that He taught.

He claimed people often cried that Christianity has failed, but asserted that Christianity had not been tried. Mr. Vincent said that there would be no peace until all got back to the true teachings of Christ, and this not only in the spiritual and moral world but in the economic also.

He compared some of the incidents of Holy Week to similar incidents of our war experience, such as Gethsemene and Munich. Our Lord in the one asked "Let this cup pass from me." Britain at Munich working and praying that the cup of war be removed.

The betrayal and desertion of our Lord had its counterpart in Britain's betrayal and desertion by Allies. The trial had its counterpart in Dunkirk. The parallel sadi the speaker would carry on right to the end even to national crucifixion, death and resurrection, for the nation, as the British Commonwealth and the U.S.A. had to die in order that they should be reborn as Israel.

Good Friday Service At St. George's Church

Good Friday services at St. George's Anglican Church were "The Three Hour" Lenten meditations conducted by the rector, Rev. E. C. Moore. They were held from twelve o'clock noon until three o'clock. In the evening the choir under the direction of Jack Branson, choirmaster, and Norman Hurrle, organist, sang "Olivet to Cavalry" a sacred cantata suitably prepared for Good Friday and Holy Week.

This rendition depicts in full the "Crucifixion of Christ" and "The March to Calvary." It is a beautiful climax to the Lenten season. The full choir took the chorus numbers and the solo parts were taken by Mrs. E. W. Cooper (soprano), Mrs. A. Watkins (contralto), E. Humpage (tenor), G. East and W. Farr (bass).

The rector in a few words thanked Mr. Branson, Mr. Hurrle, the soloists and the full choir for their splendid work. The choir entertained their guests to a social hour, refreshments being served under the convenership of Mrs. C. Cole and her assistants.

Citizens Forget Ashes, Blame Collector

Here's the kind of monkey wrench in the city's municipal collection of garbage that is mighty close to sabotage.

A Douglas avenue man put out his ashes for collection the other day; that is he got them out to the curb line all right, but he was about four hours late.

This citizen thought it was good enough to wander out with the can of ashes around the noon hour. Then some one in the house complained during the afternoon and Garfield Torrance, superintendent of the garbage collection service, investigated, and went right to the source, took the wagon man down there.

Mistaken Idea

The upshot of it all was that the person calling presumably did not know that the fault lay right on the door step, and obviously the collector could not pick up ashes that were not there.

Mr. Torrance told the Examiner today that the first week of the city's operation of the service had gone satisfactorily. "We can eliminate a lot of friction and delay if the people will co-operate fully day by day, put garbage out early, and then there is no doubt about our responsibility. And if a complaint has to be made, please don't leave it until the end of the day. Telephone by 2.30, and we will be able to attend to it before the day is over."

Monday's astrological forecast, although promising that things may be expected to move at high tempo, and under excitedly accelerated pressure, it is probable that this condition may be due to wrestling with many kinds of adverse and tricky events or circumstances. All manner of extravagances, with energies, funds and spoken or written words should be averted rigidly.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a strenuous and aggressive year, in order to protect their interests, funds and well-being personal and business, from snares, maleficent entanglements, treachery and fraud. All forms of prodigality, carelessness and extravagance should be vigorously subdued. In crisis it might be well to confer with elders or superiors.

A child born on this day should possess much initiative, energy and constructive ability, which it will need to sidestep many phases of treachery, betrayal and sorrow, both in business and private associations.

Three Choirs Present Easter Cantatas

Two separate groups presented J. A. Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary", Good Friday evening, as a special Easter program. Park Street Baptist Church and St. James' United Church choirs joined, to present the sacred cantata, in St. James' church, under the joint direction of Maurice Dunkley and Cecil Lapp. Special soloists were Mrs. H. F. Doig, Mrs. C. Searles, Mrs. C. Corbett, Mrs. G. Batley, and, aspecial guest, George Coleman Jr. Cecil Searles, violinist, played several selections.

The cantata itself was preceded by a short recital by Mark Street choir. Soloists were Mrs. S. Mitchell, Adam Hawley, and Wallace Wright. Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Harry Northrop sang duets, and Stanley Northrop played the violin.

The whole choir took part in the "Olivet to Calvary", with soloists Mrs. S. Mitchell, Adam Hawley, and Wallace Wright. Stanley Northrop was at the piano, and Harry Northrop directed, and was at the organ.

The cantata tells the story of the last few days of Christ's life on earth from Palm Sunday to the long walk to Calvary. Since it is a story in song, it affords great opportunities for expression, and is filled with moving passages.

WA Plans Dinner For 200 of IOOF

MILLBROOK, April 8—(ENS)—The Easter meeting of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's church was held this week at the home of Mrs. Edmund Ball, with the president, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, in the chair.

"The Victory of Love" was the devotional theme, Mrs. J. McKnight reading the resurrection story from Mark 12, the hostess giving the talk, and Mrs. L. Wilson offering the prayer.

They will be responsible for securing their own helpers, and looking after any extra dishes for their tables, such as pickle dishes, and creams and sugars. Canvassers and other workers were appointed, and several details in connection with the menu were arranged for. The president invited the W.A. to hold its May meeting at her home. A social hour was enjoyed at the close.

HALF A HAT—A half hat that is flatteringly pretty is the delight of the moment. Here is a Croydon hat, that, while it was designed primarily for the centre-part, flat coiffure, could easily managed a pompadour. It is fashioned of picopel, a Swiss braid that resembles Milan, and the color is chartreuse. It has navy fringed streamers in back and a navy veil.—By Alice Alden.

Whatever is Ailing You? You're Not Yourself at All

It is almost uncanny how quickly a wife can detect any thing wrong with her husband's health. And how worried she is until he does something about it.

When it is a question of trouble with the nerves she can usually give him sound advice for most women know about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food from personal experience.

Few ailments, if any, get a man down so badly as disorders of the nerves because mind as well as body is usually affected. Worry and sleeplessness waste the nerve force in the body. Digestion is usually upset, bodily organs slow up for lack of motive power and he feels gloomy, discouraged and despondent. Life is robbed of its pleasures, efficiency is lowered and a nervous collapse is threatened.

But long before such a condition is reached the wife detects trouble and if she is persistent in recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food can usually halt the disorder, for this treatment greatly helps to restore the nervous system.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies in condensed and easily assimilated form the ingredients from which nature creates new, rich blood and nerve force. In this way it instils new pep and energy into the nervous system and the body generally. Every organ, every part of the body must naturally be benefited by the flow of new, rich blood through the arteries and a full supply of new nerve force through the spinal column, the nerve centres and the myriad of nerve fibres which go to the uttermost parts of the body.

When you decide to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food do not go at it in a half-hearted manner. You should buy at least half a dozen boxes to begin with and then take the medicine regularly and persistently until health and vigor and the joy of living are fully restored.

EASTER PARADE

Easter Sunday will bring another preview of styles for spring and early summer wear, and a look at the fashion parade will provide an idea of likely styles. The skirt and bolero styles are topping the fashion ladder in a great many cities, since they combine the utility of a two-piece suit, and, when dressed up with a frothy white blouse, have a feminine and dainty appearance.

White gloves are definitely the style at present, and large bags are a "must" if the lady wants to be smart. Hats are small and fussy. Several are being shown in starched, open lace, in various colors. Several of these styles look equally smart with unswept or long bobs, so that milady is safe in buying her hat, even if she suddenly decides to change the style of her hair-do.

Although fashion jewelry has toned down a bit, it is still popular. The latest wrinkle along that line is a bracelet made of old coins, which tinkles delightfully with each little motion of the hand. Numismatists beware, because the fashion-wise lady is looking for coins, to join the jewelry parade.

KITCHEN TIPS

When using a glass funnel, wrap a few thin strips of adhesive tape around the place where the funnel touches the neck of the bottle. It will not only protect the funnel from possible breakage, but will create more space for air to escape, and thus hasten the pouring process.

When cooking dumplings over a fricassee or other dish, cover the kettle with a glass pie plate. It is then easy to see the dumplings as they cook, and there is no danger of taking the cover off before they have risen sufficiently.

To remove the odor of fish from tea towels and dishcloths, boil them for five minutes in one quart of water, to which one tablespoon of baking soda has been added. Rinse in warm, and then in cold, water. Soda water is also a good way to remove fish odor from the hands.

QUEEN COTTON

Queen Cotton is again tops for summer clothes, judging by the previews of styles shown in New York recently. The clothes seem made to give the maximum of style and sunlight, with a minimum of fabric, and they are tailored to the last minute. Legs, backs, and midriffs are bare for beach wear, with smart jackets. Skirts and short coats are for resort and street wear.

Mexican print fabrics will be very popular, with their bright exciting designs and color combinations. Also Mexican, and new, is the two-piece play dress-bra and skirt—in contrasting designs, and the bare-backed dress with matching scarf, which can be used as a bandana.

An easy way to brighten up last year's clothes, and make them up-to-the-minute, is to embroider gay designs and cute patterns on them. Since Mexican styles are leading the market, the solid-color blouses and shorts of last year will take on new charm and life, and be right in the running again, if they feature gay Mexican figures or patterns.

COSMETIC CAPERS

The coming of spring, heralding warmer and brighter days, also brings the question of changing from winter to summer cosmetic shades. The clever little lady, however, who always kept two shades of powder and lipstick, will not have any difficulty. Two shades are always wise, since a bright skin with dark clothes is always more striking, and similarly, a less bright complexion doesn't vie with bright colors.

Summer complexions are always more natural and glowing, because sunlight shows up makeup. Pancake makeups are popular for summer wear, since they impart a healthy, tanned, look, and help to cover up tiny blemishes. Dark powder that is, darker than the usual shade worn, gives much the same effect, and it is always wise to choose it when in doubt as to shades.

Soothing complexion cream should always be kept on hand during the summer months. Warm, dry air often tends to give the skin a leathery look, but a rich cream will quickly restore the natural glow. Sunburn doesn't enhance the complexion either, and the wise lady massages a little lotion on her face before starting out for a canoe trip on a bright day, or before stretching out for a tan.

KITCHEN CONSERVATION

When only a little lemon or orange juice is needed for a recipe, make a hole in the end of the fruit with a skewer, and press out the required amount. When a recipe calls for rinds as well as juice, it is always wise to grate the rind before squeezing the juice, since it is a great deal harder to do it afterward.

Build him up and don't worry about vitamins and minerals.

Authorities say the difference between husky children and those who are poor eaters, underweight, and nervous is often simply a matter of proper nourishment, especially an adequate supply of vitamins and minerals.

But don't worry about vitamins and minerals! Children who eat 3 average-good meals including fruit juice, and drink 2 glasses of Ovaltine each day, are getting all the extra vitamins and minerals they need. In addition to its well-balanced food values, Ovaltine adds significant amounts of Vitamins A, B_1 and D and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron. So, if your child is not developing normally, remember this rule:

3 good meals plus 2 glasses of Ovaltine every day.

JEWEL-BRIGHT BANDEAU—Osato's bandeau is of pervenche blue satin, and it fits snugly over and under the chignon. Multi-colored fake jewels of good size decorate it in three chunky medallions. You can bind your tresses with a ribbon and hope it won't slip. Better in effect and performance, however, is the styled and properly cut bandeau, which may be geared for tennis or for waltzing in the evening. Sono Osato, premiere danseuse of "One Touch of Venus," here shows us her bejeweled bandeau, head flattering, hair protective, a highlight for sober costumes, a matching dash for the most glamorous gown permissible in these wartimes.—By Prunella Wood.

St. Andrew's WMS Has Easter Service

WESTWOOD, April 8.—(ENS).—An Easter program featured the April meeting of St. Andrew's United Women's Missionary Society, which was held this week at the home of Mrs. E. W. Sargent. Mrs. W. Morris, vice-president, had charge of the opening service and the business period.

The financial report for the first quarter of the year, was given by the treasurer. Plans were discussed regarding the annual bale which is to be ready for May 26. Donations may be left at the home of Mrs. R. J. Douglas.

Easter hymns and Bible readings were used during the Easter program, with the convener, Mrs. R. Douglas, as leader. "Te Deum Laudamus" from the hymnary was read responsively.

Mrs. Douglas was assisted by Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Humphries and Mrs. Neilson in presenting the chapter "All of Life for Christ." Prayers for special objects were offered by Mrs. Neilson, Mrs. Dowsett and Mrs. Morris.

Red Cross Agrees To Entertainment

HAVELOCK, April 8—(ENS)—A request to cater to an evening's entertainment, was agreed to by the Havelock-Belmont Red Cross Society at their meeting on Tuesday.

A donation of $5 was acknowledged from the Women's Institute and is to be forwarded to the Jam for Britain Fund. The work-room convener, Mrs. Cecil Anderson, gave a splendid report of the part of the Red Cross convention in Toronto that she attended, which included a trip to the Bloor street workrooms and to the Richmond street warehouses. She was able to secure many helpful suggestions, and in some cases, simplified methods of handling large cutting quotas. Every branch is asked to make paratrooper or aviator belts, which must be fashioned from woollen materials. Great stress was placed on the scarcity of wool, quilt material and batts, which are more or less rationed.

Mrs. Fred Bennett gave detailed report of the business meeting in connection with the convention. She related that last years' voluntary contributions and annual campaign amounted to $5,592,104, with an extra $200,000 raised by special fund-raising events. Workers are constantly reminded that they are entering the gates of another year, and we should strive to double their efforts, rather than slacken.

One of the biggest tasks confronting Canadian people today is the caring for returned men, who come home both mentally and physically wounded. She told her listeners that the greatest expansion of any single project in the Division is the Blood Donor Service, which has increased from 4,800 a week at the beginning of 1943 to 12,000 weekly at the present time. The Nutrition committee reported that over 107 tons of jam had been shipped overseas by the Women's Institutes across Canada.

Twenty-six ladies attended this meeting and work was continued on the sewing and knitting quotas, and one large quilt was completed.

Trinity Y.P.U. Holds Service

OMEMEE, April 8 — (ENS) — Miss Marion Fisher, fellowship convener, presented an inspiring Easter service for the Young People's Union of Trinity United Church this week.

With Miss Dora Bulbeck at the piano, the service opened with the music of "The Old Rugged Cross," played softly. The first verse of "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone" was read by the convener as a call to worship. St. Matthew's account of the crucifixion was read by Miss Ruby Cornell, and Miss Fisher read an article on "The Burden of the Cross," pointing out how nece[illegible]ry it is for people to bear their [illegible]dens faithfully, because if they [illegible]ail God has no other plan. Miss Marion Rea then dramatized "The Eve of Betrayal," depicting Judas Iscariot in the garden of Gethsemane. A duet, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," was sung by Doris and William Weir. As an offertory Miss Bulbeck played "I Gave My Life For Thee." William Weir then led in a sing-song of favorite Negro spirituals.

Church Honors McEchnie Family

HASTINGS, April 8 — (ENS) — Rev. John Davey, D.D., of Toronto, who has accepted the charge of Hastings, Haveock and Norwood Presbyterian churches, preached his first message on Sunday morning in Hastings to a large congregation.

At the close of the service, Mr. and Mrs. W. McEchnie and son William were asked to come to the front of the church, while James Humphries, chairman of the Board, read an address, expressing how they would be missed in the church work. As elder, Mr. McEchnie was ever ready to do his share in the past 16 years they had been there. Howard Fife made the presentation of a purse of money and Mrs. W. McMillan presented Mrs. McEchnie with a bouquet of snapdragon. Mr. and Mrs. McEchnie are leaving this week for Pickering.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Moore and Billie were week-end guests with Mr. and Mrs. Insley, Toronto.

Mrs. W. Montgomery is spending a week with her daughter, Mrs. J. Bees, Toronto.

MISERY IN HASTY MARRIAGES

Youths Have Small Chance of Success When Long Acquaintances Reveal Quirks

Marriage is, at best, a risky business. For, no matter how long and well a man and woman have known each other, they find when they come to live together that they are united to perfect strangers who have quirks in their characters and curious habits that they never even suspicioned that they possessed.

What chance, then, of success have these short order marriages in which boys and girls marry at sight almost, without having any previous acquaintance with each other, or the slightest tip as to what they are taking on as a life companion? Practically none. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred these hasty and reckless marriages end in misery for both parties who are taking a blind leap into the holy estate. For neither God nor Lady Luck bothers to save fools from their folly.

Boy Meets Girl, Marry

Yet we see these marriages taking place all about us in these war times. Boy meets girl at the canteen, or across the bar at a tavern and they have a few drinks and dances together, and because they have the same tastes in martinis, or know the same jitterbug steps they decide they were made for each other and off they go to the nearest marrying parson or the Justice of the Peace and seal their fate as casually as if they were buying a package of cigarettes.

Many a father and mother are awakened in the middle of the night by their teen-age daughter appearing at their bedside with a strange sailor or soldier in tow, and saying: "Mama, Papa, this is Joe. We've just been married." And probably there are few parents with young sons in the service who do not open their boys' letters with trembling hands, fearing that Tom or Bill will announce that he has married some girl he has met at a canteen or that Tom or Bill will be asking how can he get a divorce from the girl he married at the last camp, as he has found a new one whom he likes better.

This column, being a clearing house for the troubles of the lovelorn, is weighted down with the woes of those who marry in haste and are repenting in leisure, for the girls fare even worse than the boys. And some of the letters I get from them would be incredible, except that there is no romantic idiocy that a teen-ager isn't capable of committing.

Girl Forget Husband's Name

One girl wrote that she was on a terrible hot spot because she had forgotten the name of the man she had married, so she didn't know what her own name was now. Another wanted to know if I thought it would be alright for her to marry a man whose name and postoffice address she didn't know. And there are hundreds and hundreds of pathetic letters from girls who have married men and had babies and who find that their husbands had other wives and children. And so many, many of the new husbands, who have tired of marriage before the ink is dry on their wedding certificates, make going overseas synonymous with A.W.O.L. from matrimony, and their wives never hear from them again.

These youngsters justify their marrying strangers, of whose characters and backgrounds they know nothing, by saying they fell in love at first sight, but love at first sight vanishes as quickly as it came. The love that lasts is built on the congeniality and suitability that has been tested and proved strong enough to hold.

WELL PLACED HATS—Lilly Dache is one milliner who believes that hats should stay firmly on the head and not be perilously balanced atop the coiffure. It is made of soft Batavia cloth in pale pink and black, and has a flatteringly moulded brim.—By Alice Alden.

Within our hearts he liveth still.
—Ever remembered by his mother, Florence Rea.

REA—In loving memory of my dear brother, Ivan, who died in England April 8, 1943.
He little thought when leaving home,
He would no more return;
That he in death so soon would sleep
And leave us here to mourn.
We do not know what pain he bore,
We did not see him die;
We only know he passed away,
And never said good-bye.
We have only your memory, dear brother,
To remember our whole lives through,
But the sweetness will linger forever
As we treasure the image of you.
—Always remembered by his sister, Beryle.

PANTER—In memory of my dear little grandson, Gerald Panter, who was drowned eight years ago today.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow;
For memory keeps him ever near us
Though he died eight years ago.
—Ever remembered by Gramma and Grampa Panter and Muriel.

IN MEMORIAM

REA — In loving memory of my dear brother, Ivan, who was killed overseas, April 8, 1943.
He has solved it, life's wonderful problem,
The deepest, the strangest, the last,
And into the school of the angels
With the answer forever has passed.
How strange he should sleep so profoundly,
So young, so unworn by the strife
While beside him brimful of hope's nectar
Untouched stood the Goblet of life.
God knew all about it, how noble,
How gentle he was and how brave,
How bright his possible future,
Yet put him to sleep in his grave.
God knew all about those who love Him,
How bitter the trial must be,
And right through it all God is loving,
And knows so much better than we.
—Ever remembered by Ed. and Margaret Boyler.

WATKINS—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Joe Watkins, who passed away April 8, 1935.
Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered,
Sweet, happy memories cling 'round your name
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection,
Always will love you in death the same.
—Always remembered by wife and family.

CPL. RICHARD VAUGHAN

HOWARD VAUGHAN

BROTHERS IN FORCES

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Vaughan, Omemee, are serving their country. Howard Vaughan has been with the R.C.A.F. at Aylmer Flying School instructing in meteorology since January 1942. He entered the R.C.A.F. Meteorological Bureau in September 1941. Cpl. Richard Vaughan, R.C.A.P.C. is now stationed at Fort Frontenac, Kingston. Before his enlistment he was employed by the Bank of Toronto, Creighton Mine Branch. His brother, Howard, was teaching mathematics and physics at Windsor Collegiate, having graduated from McMaster University, Hamilton, in 1938, and College of Education, Toronto, in 1939.

Brother Badly Wounded Overseas Girl Too Young For Blood Donor

War's loom weaving a global fabric of death, destruction and terror has added a second touch of heart-break to a 17-year-old Peterborough girl, whose ambition to serve as a blood donor has been thwarted by her tender years.

She is Maybell Young, Apsley, whose brother lies wounded in an English military hospital after being severely hurt fighting in the Mediterranean theatre. To hear of his misfortune was a sad blow to this patriotic young woman, but when the Blood Donor Clinic had to refuse her blood donation because of her age, she was visibly distressed.

"You see," she said, "I feel so sorry for him. He was wounded in the Mediterranean fighting, and his arm, leg and head were badly hit. My brother has been hospitalized for a long time and we don't know when he'll be back with us."

Accompanying Miss Young, was her mother, Mrs. Lena Young, who is a regular attendant at the Clinic. There are 14 in the family and several come to give blood regularly.

"You know we almost said yes," Mrs. C. Ray said, "when we saw how much it meant to her. But we simply must obey the regulations. You can't say no to one and give preference to another. The youngest we can take them is 18 years. However, we've told her to wait a few more months and we'll be delighted to sign her on."

Blood donations can't harm anyone in the opinion of Fred Wickett, Lakefield, who make his 69th donation recently. It was only his fifth at this clinic, but over a period of years he has been a regular donor.

McLaughlin Gives Queen's $300,000

KINGSTON, April 8—R. S. McLaughlin of Oshawa has made a $300,000 contribution to Queen's University for a mechanical engineering building to be erected after the war, Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal, announced today. He said the gift will enable Queen's to establish a building which will be adequate to look after the needs of mechanical engineering for many years to come.

"During the war," said Dr. Wallace, "courses in mechanical engineering have been largely attended by students because of the place mechanical engineers occupy in war industries and the services. There seems little doubt that the demand for mechanical engineers following the war in the reorientation of industry will be great."

Dr. Wallace said the building will be equipepd to serve these needs in a particularly generous way and to enhance the already high reputation of Queen's in the whole field of applied science. The new building will be called McLaughlin Hall.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

KEEP OUT OF DANGER

PLAY OF many No Trump contracts depends for its success or failure upon the declarer's ability to see what is the greatest danger threatening him, and then protecting himself against it. The hold-up play is of great importance for that purpose, as almost every fair player knows. Many of them, however, who use it with fine discretion when it involves postponing use of an ace, lack the same appreciation of the play if it concerns a king in one hand opposite a queen in the other.

On the lead of the club 6, South played the dummy's Q, since by doing this he might get two club tricks, that one plus another with the K if later West led the suit to him again. Seeing that he needed some diamond tricks to make his game, he promptly tried the finesse of the J on the second trick, and East won with the K. The club 10 was returned, South playing low. West overtook with the J, dropped the K with the A and ran the rest of the suit, setting the contract two tricks.

If South had studied just a moment, he would have seen that diamonds had to be finessed toward East. Losing that finesse would surely bring back a club through the K, and enable West to run the suit if the Q was gone from dummy. Playing low from the dummy on the first trick, however, would make the contract airtight, if West had a six-card suit. East could have been allowed to hold the trick with his 10. Return of a club then would have enabled South to make 4-No Trumps if West took the trick, and 5-No Trumps if West ducked it.

Your Week-End Question

What should a declarer always do, if possible, before trying a finesse which can be taken in either direction?

APPROACH CARPATHIAN PASSES—Newest chapters in the spectacular story of the Red drive into the Balkans dramatize many Carpathian Mountain passes, shown on the map, which the Russian armies are fast approaching. Highlighted, following the collapse of Cernauti, is the historic Tatar Pass leading into old Czechoslovakia and the plains of Hungary. A Berlin broadcast said that Soviet spearheads had already broken through the Tatar Pass. Other "gates" and passes, many of which may soon figure in news developments, cut through the mountains down to the famous "Iron Gate" at the south turn of the Danube. Highlighted, too, are the rich Ploesti oil fields, loss of which has caused the desperate Nazis, according to latest reports, to destroy them and rush away as much oil as possible before the Russians arrive.

Petty Bills

In his report on the year's activities, Mr. Jolliffe said the Drew government had brought in "petty" bills during the last session but had proscrastinated over more important legislation.

Probably the most important government measure was a bill to authorize the creation of a new department of planning and development, he added, but the bill did not say how far it would go in the work which had to be done although C.C.F. members had set forth the urgency of more action.

Prof. George Grube of Toronto was elected president of the Provincial Council, succeeding Mayor Sam Lawrence of Hamilton.

Other resolutions approved included:

1. Approval of social ownership, either public of cooperative, of packing plants, refrigeration plants, milling, canning and other processing industries.

2. The setting up of a provincial system under which the farmers' need of intermediate loans would be met. The farmers needed assistance in taking care of seasonal financing needs, securing goods and services when they were required most urgently and to consolidate "small and nagging debts."

3. Support of floor prices for Agriculture prices based on the cost of production including wages for the farmer and members of his family.

Lindsay Couple Observe 56th Anniversary

LINDSAY, April 8 —(ENS)— Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Graham, 10 Durham street, Lindsay, received congratulations on the celebration of their 56th wedding anniversary. One of the most highly prized messages of felicitations was the one received from Capt. A. J. Goldring, on active service, former pastor of St. Paul's Anglican Church.

Mr. Graham was born in the County of Cavan, Ireland, and Mrs. Graham was born in England. When a young man Mr. Graham came to Canada, direct to Lindsay, and for some time lived with and worked for his uncle, the late Senator Dobson, who conducted a grocery and liquor store at the corner of Kent and William Streets, where the Dominion Bank is now located. Later Mr. Graham labored with the old Grand Trunk Railway as a section man, after which he was employed for 15 years with the late J. D. Flavelle at the Flavelle grist mill, the old stone mill on Kent Street east. The following 15 years he was employed with Flavelle's Limited and the Lindsay Creamery. Following this faithful service of 30 years, Mr. Graham retired.

When married 56 years ago, by the late Rev. Canon C. G. Marsha, Mr. and Mrs. Graham had the honer of being the second couple united in matrimony by Mr. Marsh. Through the years Mrs. Graham, who was formerly Miss Annie Tucker, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tucker, was a member of St. Paul's church choir and Mr. and Mrs. Graham have been active and faithful members of the above church ever since.

In politics Mr. Graham has been a life long Conservative, a great friend of the late Sir Sam Hughes and other stalwart leaders of the party. He can recall, many interesting incidents in connection with the growth and development of the town of Lindsay.

Malinovsky's Stalingrad veterans, many of whom had defended Odessa in the two months' German siege in 1941, swept down on the city yesterday in a 25-mile advance to capture more than 60 towns and villages, the War Bulletin said, including Novayadafinovka, less than 10 miles northeast of the great port.

Mayaki, taken by a Russion column driving down the east bank of the Dniester River from Baden, is at the head of the Dniester Estuary, 13 miles north of Ovidiopol ferry terminus where the last escape route from Odessa crosses the eight-mile wide mouth of the Estuary to Akkerman in lower Bessarabia. Ovidiopol is 18 miles west of Odessa.

In a drive on Kishinev, capital of Bessarabia, troops of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 2nd Ukrainian Army captured the district centre of Orhei, 20 miles to the north, in a two-day battle, the Russian war bulletin said and then forced the Reut River and captured a bridgehead on its southern bank. German forces in this sector were "retreating in panic," the bulletin added.

For the fifth straight day, the Soviet High Command failed to mention the 70-mile long Russian front inside Rumania, where Konev's forces last were reported a few miles north of the rail centre of Iasi, 10 miles inside the border.

Change System Of Paying Hog Premiums

OTTAWA, April 8 — (CP) — The Agriculture Department announced tonight that beginning April 10 the Dominion Government hog premiums of $3 on each grade "A" carcass and $2 on each "B1" grade carcass will be paid by Government warrant attached to the grading certificate.

Since Jan. 24 last, when these premiums were inaugurated to encourage the channelling of good bacon hogs through inspected abattoirs so they would be available for export to Britain, the premiums have been paid by the packers along with the regular settlement for the hogs. The departmental announcement said this arrangement was temporary pending the working out of a plan where by the premiums could be paid direct to producers.

The Agriculture Department also announced a modification of the schedule of official grades for hogs carcasses to reduce the number of classes in the C, D and E qualities The announcement said these changes, effective April 10, result from a "considerable demand by producers and their representatives that the number of grades be reduced.

The new schedule groups under C quality, in a weight range of 120 to 185 pounds, those carcasses at present graded as D1, D2 and D3, with a weight range of 120 to 185 pounds.

The weight range for "heavies" will be 186 to 195 pounds under the new schedule. The present range for "heavies" is 186 to 205 pounds. The "extra heavy" category will include hogs weighing 196 pounds and more, and will replace the present category of 206 pounds and more for "extra heavies."

Further adjustments in the former "E" grade will eliminate two classes, 'thin" and "rejected and condemned." The department said all requirements of the hog carcass grade regulations, affecting shippers, purchasers and graders remain unchanged.

New Security Measures Put Into Force

LONDON, April 8—(CP)—New restrictions designed to prevent security leaks will be placed on coastal areas in England, Wales, East Scotland and part of Clyde on April 8.

One set of regulations applies to the following areas: In England and Wales: First, to the coastal strip extending from Hornsea to Yorkshire to Land's End, including the Isle-of-Wight. To the coastal strip along the whole of the south of Wales and around the Bristol Channel as far as Portshead.

In Scotland, to the coastal strip from Caithness to East Lothian.

In areas which are known as regulated areas all persons over 16 years of age must carry their identity cards and produce them on demand.

In areas between the Wash and Land's End and in protected areas on the Firth of Forth they must also produce their identity cards when registering at a hotel or lodging house.

Another security measure, announced yesterday by the Postmaster-General, was the closing of public telephone service between Great Britain and all parts of Ireland immediately in a drastic new move to prevent leakage of military information on the coming invasion of Europe.

The order follows the recent ban on travel between the same countries on the ground neutral Eire might be used by the enemy to maintain contacts for information.

Public telegraph service will be maintained, but subject to strict censorship.

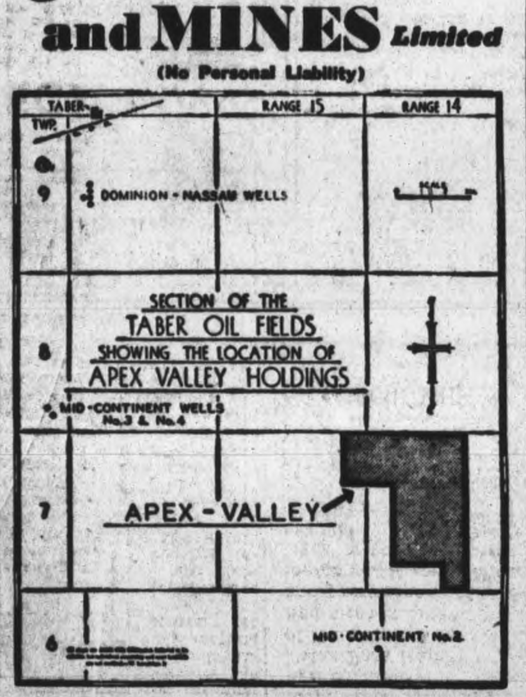
(No Personal Liability)



FIVE WELL LOCATED PROPERTIES FUSED INTO ONE DIVERSIFIED OFFERING

(1) APEX has just completed negotiations to jointly develop substantial acreage in the rapidly expanding TABER FIELD, Alberta. The first well to be spudded on, or before, April 9th, 1944.

(2) APEX controls approximately 3,000 acres in the VERMILION area where, in the drilling of its first well there was encountered the richest oil sand yet found in this sector. It is in the Vermilion field that CANBAR OILS—wholly-owned subsidiary of Canadian National Railways—has embarked on a 30-well program, of which 20 wells have already been drilled.

(3) APEX owns approximately 960 acres in the KIRKLAND LAKE area in close proximity to the BELCHER GROUP, and the BOCAMSA GROUP in which a large Mining Company is interested. The Apex claims lie about 5½ miles west of UPPER CANADA and QUEENSTON MINES. An active development and drilling campaign is planned for this property in the immediate future.

(4) APEX owns two groups of claims situated about 1½ miles North of NORANDA, one of which adjoins the DONALDA holdings. An extensive development campaign is scheduled for this group in the near future.

(5) APEX owns seven patented claims, approximately 280 acres, in the GOUDREAU area, Sault Ste. Marie Mining Division, which merit extensive development and a carefully planned diamond drilling program.

ADDRESSES ON THE MOVE...

IN SPITE OF ALL WAR HAZARDS

31,500,000 LETTERS

REACHED YOUR MEN OVERSEAS LAST YEAR

Do you remember the "Change of Address" form which you filled out when you moved your civilian home? After that was filed at your local Post Office, every letter sent to your old address had to be redirected to the new one, and that went on until your correspondents were familiar with your new location.

Probably you didn't move very often, but each time you did, the Post Office gave redirectory service. And, if you will think about that for a moment, you will begin to see what a stupendous task confronts the Canadian Postal Corps in handling the military mails, when thousands of men are being moved almost daily!

Yet, in spite of the need of tracing men from reinforcement units to their locations on fighting fronts . . . in spite of the need of tracing them through hospitalization . . . or while on leave . . . when their unit is moved . . . in spite of delays in air mail service caused by adverse flying conditions . . . of delays in surface transportation caused by enemy action . . . in spite of every war hazard you can think of . . . your Post Office and the Canadian Postal Corps delivered 31,500,000 letters to men overseas in 1943!

It is inevitable that, in tracing men who have been moved, or wounded, some delays occur. It is inevitable that enemy action holds up delivery in some cases. But everything that human ingenuity and effort can do to give you a service that means speedier delivery of the letters your men are waiting for, is being well and thoroughly done, and will be done. New methods of speeding mail deliveries are being put into effect, new possibilities are being studied. Think of your own friends who have been posted to new locations overseas, and realize the task of tracing them when their mail arrives at their former address!

You can help your Post Office and the Canadian Postal Corps to give even better service if you will take a moment to make sure that your mail is correctly prepared. Do these simple things . . .

1. Always be sure each letter or parcel (properly packed) is fully and correctly addressed.
2. Use light-weight paper for regular Air Mail, or use the Armed Forces Air Letter Forms. Airgraph letters take a little longer because they must be processed in Canada and overseas.
3. To men in hospital, mark your letter "In Hospital", if you are advised to this effect.
4. Never put into parcels perishable food, or any substance that can be damaged by extremes of temperature.
